30:15 The leech has two daughters A leech sucks blood and never stops, and its daughters cry, "Give, give." The pattern of three and then four says, here are several, and one more to finish the list. The grave, a woman longing for a child (Gen 30:1), dry ground and fire never say enough (v. 16). They picture the greedy heart, which only God can satisfy (Ps 107:9). Barrenness is named as a picture of deep longing, with no blame implied.
30:17 the ravens of the wadi will pluck it out A harsh picture. The worst end was to lie unburied with birds eating the body. The child who scorns his parents is headed for a shameful end. It is a word picture of judgment, not a command for anyone to carry out (Exod 20:12).
30:19 the way of a man with a young woman An eagle in the sky, a snake on a rock and a ship at sea leave no track. How do they find their way? The greatest wonder is how a man and a young woman are drawn together in love. God made it, and it is a marvel (Gen 2:23-24; Song 8:6-7).
30:20 she eats and wipes her mouth and says, "I have not done evil." The dark side of that wonder. She sins as casually as eating a meal, leaves no visible track and feels no guilt. Sin can make a conscience numb (1 Tim 4:2; Eph 4:19). What God made beautiful, sin twists.
30:22 under a slave when he becomes king Four things upset the order of life: a servant suddenly in power with no wisdom, a fool well fed and fuller of himself, an unloved woman who marries and takes revenge for the years of rejection, and a servant girl who takes her mistress's place, as Hagar despised Sarah (Gen 16:4). Power, plenty or position without character makes life hard for everyone around.
30:24 they are wise, made wise Four small creatures teach big lessons.
30:25 the ants are a people not strong Tiny and weak, but they plan ahead (6:6-8). Wisdom prepares.
30:26 rock badgers are a people not mighty, and they make their home in the rock The rock badger, or hyrax, is small and shy. It cannot fight, so it lives among rocks where enemies cannot reach. Wisdom knows where to hide. Our Rock is the LORD (Ps 18:2).
30:27 the locust has no king Yet locusts move together in ranks like an army (Joel 2:7-8). Wisdom works together.
30:28 it is in the palaces of a king A lizard is easy to catch, yet it gets into a king's palace. Small and weak is not the same as foolish. God uses the weak things of the world (1 Cor 1:27).
30:31 a rooster of loins, or a male goat, and a king, a band of soldiers with him Pictures of stately confidence and order: the lion, the strutting rooster, the goat leading the flock, the king marching with his army. The Hebrew for "a rooster of loins" is uncertain, and some read greyhound or war horse.
30:32 hand to mouth If you have puffed yourself up or plotted evil, put your hand over your mouth and stop talking, as Job did before God (Job 40:4).
30:33 the pressing of anger brings forth strife The same Hebrew word, "pressing," comes three times. Churn milk and you get curds. Squeeze a nose and you get blood. Keep pushing and provoking and you get a fight. Agur ends with a call to humility and peace.
31:1 The words of Lemuel the king, an oracle which his mother taught him We know nothing of King Lemuel outside this chapter. His name means belonging to God. Some Jewish teachers thought he was Solomon, which would make his mother Bathsheba, but the text does not say so. This king's wisdom came from his mother, and he was not ashamed to say so (2 Tim 1:5). Mothers, your teaching matters more than you know.
31:2 And what, son of my vows We hear a mother's love and worry. "Son of my vows" may mean she prayed and made vows to God for him, as Hannah did for Samuel (1 Sam 1:11).
31:3 Do not give your strength to women A king could have a large harem, and many kings were ruined by their lusts. Solomon's wives turned his heart from the LORD (1 Kgs 11:1-4), and the Law warned the king not to multiply wives (Deut 17:17).
31:4 It is not for kings, Lemuel, not for kings to drink wine A ruler needs a clear head. A drunk ruler forgets the law and twists justice for the poor (v. 5; Eccl 10:17).

The Wife of Strength

10 A wife of strength, who will find? And her price is far beyond jewels. 11 The heart of her husband trusts in her, and he will not lack spoil. 12 She repays him good and not evil all the days of her life. 13 She seeks wool and flax, and she works in the delight of her hands. 14 She is like the ships of a merchant; from afar she brings her food. 15 And she rises while it is still night, and gives food to her household, and an allotted portion to her maidens. 16 She considers a field and buys it; from the fruit of her hands she plants a vineyard. 17 She girds her loins with strength, and makes her arms strong. 18 She tastes that her profit is good; her lamp does not go out in the night. 19 She stretches out her hands to the distaff, and her palms grasp the spindle. 20 She spreads out her palm to the afflicted, and stretches out her hands to the needy. 21 She is not afraid for her household from snow, for all her household is clothed in scarlet. 22 She makes coverings for herself; her clothing is fine linen and purple. 23 Her husband is known in the gates, when he sits with the elders of the land. 24 She makes linen garments and sells them, and she supplies belts to the merchant. 25 Strength and majesty are her clothing, and she laughs at the day to come. 26 She opens her mouth with wisdom, and the instruction of steadfast love is on her tongue. 27 She watches over the ways of her household, and she does not eat the bread of sluggishness. 28 Her sons rise up and call her blessed; her husband, and he praises her: 29 "Many daughters have done deeds of strength, and you have gone up above all of them." 30 Charm is falsehood, and beauty is vanity; a woman who fears the 31:6 Give strong drink to him who is perishing, and wine to those bitter of soul Hard to read. It seems to say strong drink belongs to the dying and those in deep pain, as comfort or medicine, not to kings who need clear minds. Wine was one of the few pain relievers then. Jesus was offered wine mixed with myrrh on the cross and refused it (Mark 15:23). Some read the verses as a sharp contrast, others as compassion for the suffering. They do not prescribe drowning sorrow in drink (20:1; 23:29-35). The real cure for a bitter soul is the Lord who heals the brokenhearted (Ps 147:3).

31:8 Open your mouth for the mute Her most important word. "The sons of passing away" are the perishing, with no one to stand up for them. The king must speak for those who cannot speak for themselves.
31:9 plead the cause of the afflicted and needy This is the heart of godly leadership and a calling for every believer (Isa 1:17; James 1:27; Luke 4:18). Whose voice is not being heard where you live? Can you open your mouth for them?
31:10 A wife of strength, who will find? And her price is far beyond jewels The poem that closes the book is an acrostic: each verse begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet, from the first letter to the last. The phrase is 'eshet hayil. Hayil means strength, ability, wealth, even a soldier's valor. She is a woman of strong character and real ability, the phrase Boaz used of Ruth (Ruth 3:11). Like wisdom, she is rare and precious (3:15; 8:11).
31:11 The heart of her husband trusts in her, and he will not lack spoil He has complete confidence in her. "Spoil" is the goods won after a battle. Her work brings in real gain.
31:12 all the days of her life She is faithful all the way through, not just at the start of the marriage.
31:13 She seeks wool and flax Wool for warm clothing, flax for linen. She enjoys her work and does not work grudgingly.
31:14 She is like the ships of a merchant She shops wisely and goes the distance for good things, like a trading ship bringing goods from far away.
31:15 she rises while it is still night Up before dawn to feed everyone, including the servant girls, she plans the day's work and gives each her share.
31:16 She considers a field and buys it She thinks before she buys, then invests what she has earned and plants a vineyard. This woman does business, and Proverbs praises her for it.
31:17 She girds her loins with strength To gird the loins was to tuck a long robe into the belt so you could work or run. She gets ready for hard work.
31:18 her lamp does not go out in the night She may work late when needed, or her household is never in want. A lamp going out pictured disaster (13:9). Her house has light.
31:19 She stretches out her hands to the distaff The distaff and spindle were tools for spinning thread, the ordinary work of the home.
31:20 stretches out her hands to the needy The same hands that hold the spindle reach out to the poor. Her success does not make her selfish. Dorcas was this kind of woman (Acts 9:36).
31:21 all her household is clothed in scarlet Winter does not worry her. She has prepared warm, quality wool, likely dyed red.
31:22 her clothing is fine linen and purple The clothes of the well-to-do. She cares for herself too, but her real beauty is not in her clothes.
31:23 Her husband is known in the gates The town's leaders met at the gate. Part of his good name is her doing (12:4).
31:24 She makes linen garments and sells them She runs a business, as did Lydia, the seller of purple (Acts 16:14).
31:25 she laughs at the day to come Her real clothing is strength and dignity. She is not anxious about tomorrow, because she has prepared and, more than that, she trusts the LORD (27:1; Matt 6:34).
31:26 the instruction of steadfast love is on her tongue Teaching given with hesed, loyal and gracious love. Here she sounds just like Lady Wisdom in chapters 1-9.
31:27 she does not eat the bread of sluggishness She is the opposite of the sluggard we met so often in this book.
31:28 Her sons rise up and call her blessed Her family sees her worth and says so. Husbands, do you praise your wife out loud? Children, do you thank your mother?
31:29 you have gone up above all of them There are many good women, he says, but you are the best of them all.
31:30 Charm is falsehood, and beauty is vanity; a woman who fears the LORD, she will be praised The key to the poem. Charm can deceive and beauty fades. Her strength, work, generosity and wisdom all grow from the fear of the LORD (1 Pet 3:3-4). The book that began with the fear of the LORD (1:7) ends with a woman who fears the LORD. She is a real ideal that honors women's work, wisdom and ability, and she is wisdom with hands and feet, a call to every reader. Some also see a picture of the church, Christ's bride, but that is not the plain meaning.

LORD, she will be praised. 31 Give to her from the fruit of her hands, and let her works praise her in the gates.

31:31 Mark 14:9; Prov 31:16; Prov 11:30

31:31 let her works praise her in the gates This poem is not a checklist to shame women. It sums up a whole life over many years. Single or married, with children or without, at home or outside it, every woman can find here what the fear of the LORD looks like, and that is open to all. Nor is it a standard for husbands to hold over wives. It shows them what to praise (vv. 28-29).

ECCLESIASTES

Introduction

Title

The Hebrew title is Qoheleth, the name the writer gives himself in the first verse. The SLB translates it "Preacher." The word comes from a Hebrew root that means to gather or assemble, so Qoheleth is one who gathers people together and speaks to them. The old Greek translation of the Old Testament turned that into Ekklesiastes, from the Greek word for an assembly, and that is where our English name comes from. In our English Bibles the book stands with Job, Psalms, Proverbs and Song of Songs among the books of wisdom and poetry. In the Hebrew Bible it belongs to the Writings.

Author and Date

The writer calls himself "the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem" (1:1). He says he was king over Israel in Jerusalem (1:12), that he had more wisdom, wealth, servants and pleasures than all who were before him (1:16; 2:7-9), and that he "set in order many proverbs" (12:9). Only one son of David was king over all Israel in Jerusalem and fits that picture: Solomon. Jewish and Christian tradition have held that he wrote the book, most likely late in his life.

Many modern scholars, and some conservative scholars too, believe a later writer wrote it after the exile, in the 400s to 200s B.C., speaking in Solomon's voice as a way of teaching. They point to some late Hebrew words, a few words borrowed from Persian, and the way 1:12 says the Preacher "was king," as though looking back. Those who hold to Solomon answer that wisdom writing is hard to date, that "was king" can simply mean he had been king for some time, and that the book's own claims point plainly to Solomon. I take the book at its word and believe Solomon is the Preacher. The closing verses (12:9-14) speak of the Preacher in the third person. Solomon may have written them about himself, as wise teachers sometimes did, or a later editor guided by the Holy Spirit may have added them.

Solomon ruled about 970 to 930 B.C., so the book was most likely written about 935 B.C. In his old age his many wives turned his heart toward other gods (1 Kgs 11:4). Many Bible teachers believe Ecclesiastes is the fruit of an old king looking back on those wasted years and coming home to the fear of God. Scripture does not say that directly, but it fits the book well.

Background and Setting

The setting is Jerusalem in the golden age of Israel's kingdom. Solomon had peace on every side, built the temple and his own palace, and received gold from all over the world (1 Kgs 10). No one was better placed to test whether this world can satisfy. The book reads like an older man teaching younger people what he learned the hard way, so they will not waste their lives chasing the wind. Twice he speaks to "my son" (12:12) or "young man" (11:9).

The key word is hebel. It means a breath or a vapor, the little puff of steam you see on a cold morning, there for a moment and then gone. Many older Bibles translate it "vanity." The SLB translates it "futility." It is the same word as the name of Abel, whose short life passed like a breath (Gen 4:8). The point is not that life is worthless. The point is that nothing in this world lasts or satisfies by itself. The other key phrase is "under the sun," which the Preacher uses twenty-nine times. It describes life as it looks from ground level, with our eyes only on this world. "A chasing of wind" (1:14) pictures work that gets you nowhere. "Portion" (2:10) is the share in life God hands to each person to enjoy.

The Preacher does not give neat answers on every page. He thinks out loud. Sometimes he reports what life looks like under the sun, and sometimes he tells us what he knows is true about God. When he says man has no advantage over the animals (3:19) or that "the dead do not know anything" (9:5), he is describing death as it looks from under the sun. When he says God will bring every deed into judgment (12:14), he is telling us what is true beyond the sun. The Preacher's words are recorded truly, but each statement has to be read in light of the whole book and the whole Bible.

Themes

The search for meaning. The Preacher tried learning, laughter, wine, building projects, gardens, servants, money, music and women. He threw himself into work. Every time he came back with the same answer: "Futility of futilities! Everything is futility" (1:2). Nothing under the sun can fill the heart.

The gifts of God. Again and again he lifts his eyes above the sun. Food, drink, work and joy are gifts from God's hand (2:24-25; 3:13; 5:19). The one who grabs at them as a goal loses them. The one who receives them from God enjoys them with thanks.

Time, eternity and the ways of God. There is a time for everything (3:1-8). God "has made everything beautiful in its time," and He "has put eternity in their heart" (3:11), yet we cannot see the whole of His work. We are made for more than this world, and so this world never satisfies.

Death and judgment. The wise and the fool both die, the righteous often suffer and the wicked often prosper, and what we work for is left to someone else. But God will judge every deed (3:17; 11:9; 12:14). Everything counts.

The fear of God. The book does not end in despair. It ends with the whole duty of man: "fear God and keep His commandments, for this is all of man" (12:13). To fear God is to hold Him in such awe and trust that we obey Him above everything else, and the Preacher wants us to begin while we are young (12:1).

Christ in Ecclesiastes

Ecclesiastes is not a book of prophecy, but it leaves an ache that only Christ fills. Paul writes that the creation was subjected to futility because of sin, and that it waits in hope to be set free (Rom 8:20-21). The word Paul uses there is the same word the old Greek translation used for the Preacher's hebel. The Preacher saw the futility clearly. He could not see its end. Jesus Christ came and abolished death and brought life and incorruptibility to light through the gospel (2 Tim 1:10).

The Preacher asked again and again what advantage there is in all our toil. Paul answers for everyone who belongs to Christ: our toil is not empty in the Lord (1 Cor 15:58). Solomon was the wisest king of Israel, but Jesus said that something greater than Solomon is here (Matt 12:42). The wisdom the Preacher searched for is found in Him. The words of the wise are "given from one shepherd" (12:11), and it is hard to read that without thinking of the Good Shepherd (John 10:11). And the God who will bring every deed into judgment (12:14) has given that judgment to the risen Jesus, who died for our sins (Acts 17:31). A man who has learned that everything under the sun is a breath is ready to hear about the One who came down from above the sun to give life that does not pass away.

Hard Passages

Man and animals (3:19-21). The Preacher says man has no advantage over the animals and asks who knows whether man's spirit goes upward. He is describing death as it looks from under the sun. Later he gives the answer: "the spirit returns to God who gave it" (12:7). Only man was made in God's image (Gen 1:27), and a believer who dies goes to be with Christ (2 Cor 5:8).

The dead know nothing (9:5-6, 10). Some use these verses to teach soul sleep or that nothing comes after death. But verse 6 explains that the dead have no portion in all that is done under the sun. They do not know what happens on earth and can no longer work here. Scripture shows the dead are aware (Luke 16:25), and to depart is to be with Christ (Phil 1:23). The chance to serve and make things right ends at the grave, so do it now.

Eat, drink and enjoy (2:24; 3:12-13; 5:18; 8:15; 9:7). These are not calls to live for pleasure. They are the opposite of the godless motto, eat and drink for tomorrow we die (1 Cor 15:32). The Preacher has just shown that pleasure as a goal is empty. The difference is receiving daily gifts from God's hand with thanks.

Do not be greatly righteous (7:16-17). This is not a warning against holiness. Most teachers read it as a warning against self-righteousness, a show of goodness and wisdom that is really pride, and against thinking our goodness forces God to give us a long life.

A woman among all these (7:26-28). Solomon speaks of his own search in his own circle, and he had a thousand wives and concubines (1 Kgs 11:3). Upright men were just as rare, one in a thousand. This is not God's verdict on women. Scripture praises the wife of strength (Prov 31:10), and in Christ men and women are co-heirs of grace (1 Pet 3:7).

The miscarriage (6:3-5). A man with every blessing whose heart is never content is worse off than a child who never saw the sun. The Preacher is not saying such a child does not matter. God forms every child in the womb (Ps 139:13-16). I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).

Everything Is Futility

1 The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 2 "Futility of futilities," said the Preacher, "futility of futilities! Everything is futility." 3 What advantage is there for man in all his toil that he toils under the sun? 4 A generation goes, and a generation comes, and the earth stands forever. 5 And the sun rises, and the sun sets, and to its place it pants, rising there. 6 Going to the south and circling to the north, circling, circling goes the wind, and on its circuits the wind returns. 7 All the rivers go to the sea, and the sea is not full; to the place where the rivers go, there they return to go. 8 All the things are wearisome; a man is not able to speak them; an eye is not satisfied with seeing, and an ear is not filled from hearing. 9 Whatever has been, it is what will be, and whatever has been done, it is what will be done; and there is not any new thing under the sun. 10 Is there a thing of which one will say, "See this, it is new"? Already it has been in the ages which were before us. 11 There is no remembrance of the former ones; and also of the latter ones who will be, there will be no remembrance of them with those who will be at the last.

The Preacher's Search for Wisdom

12 I, the Preacher, was king over Israel (Yisra'el) in Jerusalem. 13 And I gave my heart to seek and to explore by wisdom concerning all that has been done under the heavens. It is an evil task that God has given to the sons of man to be occupied with it. 14 I have seen all the works that have been done under the sun, and look, everything is futility and a chasing of wind. 15 What is made crooked cannot become straight, and what is lacking cannot be counted. 16 I myself spoke with my heart, saying, "I, look, I have made great and increased wisdom above everyone who was before me over Jerusalem, and my heart has seen much wisdom and knowledge." 17 And I gave my heart to know wisdom and to know madness and folly; I knew that this also is a striving of wind. 18 For in abundance of wisdom is abundance of vexation, and whoever increases knowledge increases pain.

1:18 Eccl 12:12,13; 1 Cor 3:18-20; Eccl 2:15

1:1 The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem A son of David, king in Jerusalem: that is Solomon. "Preacher" translates Qoheleth, one who gathers an assembly and speaks to it, as Solomon once gathered Israel to dedicate the temple (1 Kgs 8:1-2). Scripture does not say why he does not give his name. The wisest and richest king in Israel's history is about to tell us that wisdom and riches cannot satisfy, and that carries extra weight coming from him.
1:2 Futility of futilities In Hebrew, saying a word this way makes it as strong as it can be, as holy of holies means the most holy place (Exod 26:33). The word is hebel, a breath or vapor, often translated "vanity." Like your breath on a cold morning, everything under the sun is real but does not last, and it cannot fill a heart (James 4:14). This does not mean nothing matters. The Preacher believes God, His commandments and His judgment matter. The world cut off from God cannot give us what we are looking for.
1:3 What advantage is there for man in all his toil that he toils under the sun The question of the whole book. "Advantage" means profit, something left over when the books are added up. "Under the sun" is the key phrase: life on earth seen from ground level, with our eyes on this world alone. A man works all his life, dies and leaves it all behind (Matt 16:26).
1:4 A generation goes, and a generation comes, and the earth stands forever People come and go like waves, but the ground we walk on was here before us and will be here after us.
1:5 to its place it pants The sun is pictured as a runner panting back around to rise again. The wind circles and the rivers run to a sea that is never full (vv. 6-7). In their place these things are beautiful (3:11), but from under the sun everything moves and nothing finishes. If nature is on a treadmill, what hope does a man have of making a lasting mark?
1:8 an eye is not satisfied with seeing, and an ear is not filled from hearing One of the truest lines in the book. We want the next picture, the next song, the next headline. We scroll and watch and are never full. The heart was made for more than this world can give. Only God can fill it.
1:9 there is not any new thing under the sun Not that no one invents anything, but that the basic patterns of life never change. The tools change, but the human heart does not. Pride, greed, fear and longing look the same in every age.
1:11 There is no remembrance of the former ones How many of your great-great-grandparents can you name? Under the sun we are forgotten within a few generations. If our hope rests on being remembered by people, it rests on a breath. But God knows His sheep by name (John 10:3), and His people's names are written in heaven (Luke 10:20).
1:13 It is an evil task that God has given to the sons of man To give your heart to something is to throw your whole self into it, and Solomon studied everything (1 Kgs 4:33). "Evil" here means hard or painful, not wicked. God made us to search for meaning, but under the curse since the fall (Gen 3:17-19), the search wears us out. The struggle is meant to drive us back to God.
1:14 everything is futility and a chasing of wind Try to catch the wind in your hand and close your fist. What do you have? Nothing.
1:15 What is made crooked cannot become straight Wisdom can see what is wrong with the world but cannot fix it. Later the Preacher says God made some things crooked (7:13). Only God can make them straight, and one day He will (Isa 40:3-4; Luke 3:4-6).
1:16 I have made great and increased wisdom above everyone who was before me Not bragging. It was true. God had given him a wise and discerning heart (1 Kgs 3:12).
1:18 whoever increases knowledge increases pain The more you know, the more you see what is broken. A doctor who knows more about disease sees more danger. This does not mean we should stop learning, and the Preacher praises wisdom often (2:13; 7:12; 9:16-18). Knowledge by itself cannot heal the heart. In Christ all the treasures of wisdom are hidden (Col 2:3).

Testing Pleasure and Great Works

1 I myself said in my heart, "Come now, let me test you with joy, and see good." And look, this also was futility. 2 Of laughter I said, "It is mad," and of joy, "What does this do?" 3 I searched in my heart to draw my flesh with wine, and my heart was guiding with wisdom, and to take hold of folly, until I might see where this is, the good for the sons of man which they should do under the heavens for the number of the days of their life. 4 I made my works great: I built for myself houses; I planted for myself vineyards. 5 I made for myself gardens and parks, and I planted in them trees of every kind of fruit. 6 I made for myself pools of water to water from them a forest sprouting trees. 7 I acquired male slaves and female slaves, and sons of the house were mine; also livestock, herds and flocks, much was mine, more than all who were before me in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 8 I gathered for myself also silver and gold and the treasure of kings and the provinces; I acquired for myself male singers and female singers, and the delights of the sons of man, a concubine and concubines. 9 And I became great and increased more than all who were before me in Jerusalem; also my wisdom stood by me. 10 And all that my eyes asked I did not withhold from them; I did not restrain my heart from any joy, for my heart was joyful from all my toil, and this was my portion from all my toil. 11 And I myself turned to all my works that my hands had done and to the toil that I had toiled to do, and look, everything was futility and a chasing of wind, and there was no advantage under the sun.

Wisdom, Folly and Toil Left Behind

12 And I myself turned to see wisdom and madness and folly; for what is the man who will come after the king? It is that which they have already done. 13 And I myself saw that there is an advantage to wisdom over folly, like the advantage of the light over the darkness. 14 The wise man, his eyes are in his head, and the fool walks in the darkness; and I myself also knew that one fate happens to all of them. 15 And I myself said in my heart, "Like the fate of the fool, it will happen to me, even me; and why then have I been excessively wise?" And I said in my heart that this also is futility. 16 For there is no remembrance of the wise man with the fool forever, seeing that already in the coming days everything is forgotten. And how the wise man dies with the fool! 17 And I hated life, for the work that was done under the sun was evil to me, for everything is futility and a chasing of wind. 18 And I myself hated all my toil at which I toil under the sun, that I will leave it to the man who will be after me. 19 And who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool? And he will have power over all my toil at which I have toiled and at which I have been wise under the sun. This also is futility. 20 And I myself turned to make my heart despair over all the toil at which I had toiled under the sun. 21 For there is a man whose toil is with wisdom and with knowledge and with skill, and to a man who has not toiled in it he will give it as his portion. This also is futility and a great evil. 22 For what comes to the man in all his toil and in the striv-

2:1 let me test you with joy, and see good The Preacher speaks to his own heart as if it were another person. If wisdom cannot satisfy, maybe pleasure can. He gives the answer before the details: "this also was futility."
2:2 Of laughter I said, "It is mad," Laughter is not wrong. There is "a time to laugh" (3:4). But laughter as a way of life, a constant search for the next good time, covers the emptiness for a moment and then leaves it bigger.
2:3 my heart was guiding with wisdom He was not a drunk who lost control. He was a careful scientist, trying wine and folly to see whether they held the good men look for. Many run the same test today. Solomon ran it with more money than anyone, and he tells us how it came out.
2:4 I built for myself houses Solomon spent thirteen years building his own palace (1 Kgs 7:1). Notice how often he says "for myself." Building a house or a garden is not wrong. God put Adam in a garden. But a life built only for myself ends up empty, because the self is too small a thing to live for.
2:5 gardens and parks The word for parks gives us our word paradise: a walled garden full of trees.
2:7 more than all who were before me in Jerusalem One day's food for his household is listed in 1 Kings 4:22-23, and it is staggering.
2:8 a concubine and concubines Silver was as common as stones in Jerusalem (1 Kgs 10:27). The Hebrew words at the end are rare, but most take them to mean many women. Solomon had seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines (1 Kgs 11:3). A concubine was a secondary wife with fewer rights. He broke God's law for kings against multiplying wives and gold (Deut 17:17), and his wives turned his heart away from God.
2:10 all that my eyes asked I did not withhold from them Have you thought that more money, freedom and fun would make you happy? Solomon had all three without limit. The pleasure was real, even in the work itself. It just did not last.
2:11 there was no advantage under the sun When the party was over, he found nothing left in his hands. The pleasures of this world are like cotton candy: sweet, then gone, and you are still hungry.
2:13 like the advantage of the light over the darkness Wisdom has a real advantage. The wise man sees where he is going and avoids much pain (v. 14).
2:14 one fate happens to all of them The problem: both the wise man and the fool die. Under the sun, death erases the difference between them.
2:16 how the wise man dies with the fool In a few generations both are forgotten. You can hear his anger in these words.
2:17 And I hated life One of the darkest lines in the Bible, recorded truly. Many have felt this way, and God is not shocked by it. The Preacher shows us life without the hope of God so that we will look higher. If you are in that dark place now, talk with someone you trust today, a pastor, friend or counselor, and tell God about it. He hears.
2:19 who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool This came true. Solomon's son Rehoboam refused wise counsel, and ten of the twelve tribes broke away (1 Kgs 12:1-20). Much of what Solomon built was divided within days of his son taking the throne.
2:21 to a man who has not toiled in it he will give it as his portion Anyone who has built a business, a ministry or a home and watched someone else waste it knows this pain.

ing of his heart at which he toils under the sun? 23 For all his days are pains, and his task is vexation; even in the night his heart does not rest. This also is futility. 24 There is nothing good for man except that he should eat and drink and make his soul see good in his toil. This also I myself have seen, that it is from the hand of God. 25 For who will eat, and who will enjoy, apart from me? 26 For to a man who is good before Him He gives wisdom and knowledge and joy; and to the sinner He gives a task, to gather and to collect, to give to one who is good before God. This also is futility and a chasing of wind.

A Time for Everything

1 For everything there is an appointed time, and a time for every matter under the heavens: 2 a time to give birth and a time to die; a time to plant and a time to uproot what is planted; 3 a time to kill and a time to heal; a time to break down and a time to build; 4 a time to weep and a time to laugh; a time to mourn and a time to dance; 5 a time to throw away stones and a time to gather stones; a time to embrace and a time to be far from embracing; 6 a time to seek and a time to lose; a time to keep and a time to throw away; 7 a time to tear and a time to sew; a time to be silent and a time to speak; 8 a time to love and a time to hate; a time of war and a time of peace. 9 What advantage has the worker in that at which he toils? 10 I have seen the task which God has given to the sons of man to be occupied with it. 11 He has made everything beautiful in its time; also He has put eternity in their heart, yet so that man will not find out the work which God has done from beginning to end. 12 I know that there is nothing good for them except to rejoice and to do good in his life. 13 And also every man who eats and drinks and sees good in all his toil, it is a gift of God. 14 I know that all that God does, it will be forever; to it there is nothing to add, and from it there is nothing to take away; and God has done it so that they will fear before Him. 15 Whatever is, already it has been, and what is to be has already been; and

3:14 Rom 11:36; John 19:10; Acts 2:23
3:15 Eccl 1:9,10

2:23 even in the night his heart does not rest Under the sun work follows us home, and we lie awake planning and fretting. The rest we cannot find by working harder is a gift God gives to His beloved (Ps 127:2).
2:24 it is from the hand of God After all his searching, the Preacher comes back to simple things: a meal, a drink, a day's work. He has just shown that pleasure as a goal is empty. The difference is where we see it coming from. The one who grabs at pleasure loses it. The one who receives daily bread from God's hand enjoys it with thanks (1 Tim 6:17). This is the opposite of the godless motto, eat and drink for tomorrow we die (1 Cor 15:32), and of the rich fool who left God out (Luke 12:19-20).
2:25 who will eat, and who will enjoy, apart from me The Hebrew can be read two ways. Some old copies and translations read apart from Him: no one truly enjoys anything apart from God. The SLB reads "apart from me": no one had more to enjoy than Solomon.
2:26 to a man who is good before Him He gives wisdom and knowledge and joy God gives the ability to enjoy life to those who please Him. The sinner gathers, and what he gathered goes to someone else (Prov 13:22). This is the first clear signpost of the book: joy is real, and it comes from God.
3:1 For everything there is an appointed time, and a time for every matter under the heavens Two Hebrew words for time: a set appointment and a season or occasion. Chapters 1-2 showed life spinning in circles. Now we learn the circles move on God's schedule. "My times are in Your hand" (Ps 31:15). The same God appointed the fullness of the time when He sent His Son (Gal 4:4).
3:2 a time to give birth and a time to die The poem is Hebrew parallelism: pairs of opposites meant to cover everything in between, as head to toe means the whole body. It starts where life starts and ends. We did not choose the day we were born and will not choose the day we die.
3:3 a time to kill and a time to heal Not permission to murder, which God forbids (Exod 20:13). Scripture recognizes times when life is lawfully taken: government bearing the sword against evil (Rom 13:4), a just war, animals for food. And there is a time to bind up and restore.
3:4 a time to weep and a time to laugh Life has funerals and weddings (Rom 12:15). A wise person knows which time it is. Have you seen someone tell jokes at a funeral or lecture people at a wedding? They did not know the time.
3:5 a time to throw away stones and a time to gather stones Scripture does not say exactly what this means. Perhaps a farmer clearing his field and then gathering stones for a wall, or an army ruining an enemy's field with stones (2 Kgs 3:19, 25). The time to refrain from embracing may include husband and wife setting aside a short time for prayer by agreement (1 Cor 7:5).
3:6 a time to keep and a time to throw away Sometimes we search for what we lost. Sometimes we have to let go.
3:7 a time to tear and a time to sew; a time to be silent and a time to speak People tore their clothes in grief (Gen 37:34) and sewed them when the grief was past. Job's friends did well when they sat with him in silence for seven days (Job 2:13). They did worse when they started talking.
3:8 a time to love and a time to hate We are to hate evil because we love what God loves (Ps 97:10; Rom 12:9). The poem ends with peace, and so does God's story, when the Prince of Peace reigns (Isa 9:6-7). We do not control the seasons. We learn to recognize them and live faithfully in each.
3:10 I have seen the task which God has given to the sons of man In 1:13 he called it an evil task. Here he simply names it. God has given us work to do and a world to puzzle over.
3:11 He has made everything beautiful in its time A high point of the book. A season that feels painful may later be seen as part of something beautiful. Joseph learned that God meant his suffering for good (Gen 50:20).
3:11 also He has put eternity in their heart One of the deepest statements in Scripture about being human. Animals do not lie awake wondering what it all means. We long for things to last and feel that death is wrong, because God made us for eternity. That is why nothing under the sun satisfies. Yet we cannot see the whole plan, only a few frames of the film. God sees the end from the beginning (Isa 46:10). The longing is answered in Jesus, who gives eternal life to all who believe (John 3:16; 1 Cor 13:12).
3:12 to rejoice and to do good in his life Since we cannot see the whole plan, enjoy the life God gives and use it to bless others.
3:13 it is a gift of God The second time he says it (2:24). Even the ability to enjoy simple joys is a gift.
3:14 God has done it so that they will fear before Him Our work passes like a breath. God's does not, and no one can improve on it or undo it. Seeing how small we are and how great He is, the right response is to fear Him, to trust and obey.
3:15 God seeks what is pursued A hard phrase. Many take it to mean that God calls the past to account: nothing slips out of His reach, and no deed is lost. Others read it as God seeking out the persecuted. It leads into the next verses on judgment.

God seeks what is pursued.

Injustice and the Judgment of God

16 And still I have seen under the sun: the place of justice, there is wickedness, and the place of righteousness, there is wickedness. 17 I myself said in my heart, "God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for there is a time for every matter and for every deed there." 18 I myself said in my heart concerning the matter of the sons of man, "It is for God to test them, and to see that they themselves are animals." 19 For the fate of the sons of man and the fate of the animal, even one fate is theirs: as the death of this, so is the death of that, and one spirit is for all; and the advantage of man over the animal is nothing, for everything is futility. 20 Everything goes to one place; everything was from the dust, and everything returns to the dust. 21 Who knows the spirit of the sons of man, the one that goes upward, and the spirit of the animal, the one that goes down below to the earth? 22 And I saw that there is nothing better than that man should rejoice in his works, for that is his portion; for who will bring him to see what will be after him?

ECCLESIASTES 4

Oppression and Lonely Toil

1 And I myself returned and saw all the oppressions which are done under the sun, and look, the tears of the oppressed, and they have no comforter; and from the hand of their oppressors there is power, and they have no comforter.
2 And I myself praised the dead who have already died more than the living who are still alive. 3 And better than both of them is the one who has not yet been, who has not seen the evil work which is done under the sun. 4 And I myself saw all the toil and all the skill of the work, that it is the envy of a man toward his neighbor. This also is futility and a chasing of wind. 5 The fool folds his hands and eats his own flesh.
6 Better is a palmful of quietness than two fistfuls of toil and a chasing of wind. 7 And I myself returned and saw futility under the sun: 8 There is one, and there is no second; also he has no son or brother, and there is no end to all his toil; also his eye is not satisfied with wealth. "And for whom am I toiling and depriving my soul of good?" This also is futility, and it is an evil task.

Two Are Better Than One

9 The two are better than the one, in that they have a good reward for their toil. 10 For if they fall, the one will raise up his companion; and woe to him, the one who falls and there is no second to raise him up. 11 Also if two lie down, then it will be warm for them; and for one, how will it be warm?
12 And though someone may overpower the one, the two will stand against him; and the threefold cord will not quickly be

3:16 the place of justice, there is wickedness The courts that should do justice are corrupt. That is still true in many places.

3:17 God will judge the righteous and the wicked The season poem has a last appointment no one can skip. "It is appointed to men to die once, and after this judgment" (Heb 9:27). Injustice under the sun is not the last word.

3:18 to see that they themselves are animals These verses are often pulled out to teach that people are only animals or that there is no life after death. The Preacher is saying that in body and in death, seen from under the sun, you cannot tell the difference.

3:20 everything was from the dust, and everything returns to the dust Exactly what God told Adam (Gen 3:19; Ps 49:12). The word for "spirit" in verse 19 also means breath. Both breathe and both die.

3:21 Who knows the spirit of the sons of man, the one that goes upward No one can answer this by looking at a grave. The Preacher later says the spirit returns to God (12:7). Only man was made in God's image and given the breath of life by God Himself (Gen 1:27; 2:7). The Old Testament gave glimpses (Ps 49:15; Dan 12:2), and Christ brought life and incorruptibility to light (2 Tim 1:10). A believer's spirit does not die or sleep with the body. It goes to be with Christ (Luke 23:43; 2 Cor 5:8), and one day the body will be raised.

3:22 for who will bring him to see what will be after him No one under the sun can show us the future. Enjoy today's work as your portion and leave tomorrow with God, who is already there (Matt 6:34).

4:1 the tears of the oppressed, and they have no comforter The Preacher was a king, but he did not close his eyes to the weak. Twice he says it: no comforter. The poor are still cheated, workers unpaid, children hurt. But God sees (Exod 3:7), and Jesus promised another Helper, the Holy Spirit (John 14:16). God's people are also called to comfort the suffering and speak up for them (Prov 31:8-9).

4:2 I myself praised the dead who have already died more than the living Job and Jeremiah felt the same in their pain (Job 3:11-13; Jer 20:14-18). These words are a cry of grief recorded truly, not a teaching that life is worthless. The same book says a living dog is better than a dead lion (9:4) and that the light is sweet (11:7). If you have felt the dead were better off, tell God, and tell someone who can help.

4:4 it is the envy of a man toward his neighbor Why do people work so hard? Often to keep up with the neighbor or get ahead of him. Envy is never satisfied, because someone always has more (Exod 20:17).

4:5 The fool folds his hands and eats his own flesh The opposite error. The lazy man consumes himself by doing nothing (Prov 6:10-11).

4:6 Better is a palmful of quietness than two fistfuls of toil One open hand holding a little with peace, or two clenched fists full of work and worry. Do not be lazy, and do not be a workaholic. Work enough and be content (1 Tim 6:6).

4:8 And for whom am I toiling and depriving my soul of good A man with no family keeps toiling, never enjoys any of it and never asks this question. A man can build a fortune and lose his family, friends and health on the way (Luke 12:20).

4:9 The two are better than the one The chapter turns from loneliness to friendship. Two get more done and share the reward.

4:10 the one will raise up his companion Picture two travelers on a rocky road. One falls into a ditch, and the other pulls him out. God never meant us to walk alone (Gen 2:18), in marriage, in friendship or in the church (Gal 6:2). Who lifts you up? Whom are you lifting?

4:11 if two lie down, then it will be warm for them Travelers slept close together on cold desert nights. Friends bring warmth to each other in hard times.

4:12 the threefold cord will not quickly be torn apart A robber may attack one traveler but not two, and a rope of three cords is very hard to break. The Preacher may simply be adding one more friend to make the point. Many Christians also use the verse as a picture of a marriage bound together with God. It does not say that directly, but it is a fitting use.

torn apart. 13 Better is a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to be warned. 14 For from the house of the prisoners he came out to reign, for even in his kingdom he was born poor. 15 I saw all the living who walk about under the sun with the youth, the second, who will stand in his place. 16 There is no end to all the people, to all before whom he was; also the latter ones will not rejoice in him. For this also is futility and a striving of wind.

Guard Your Steps Before God

1 Guard your foot when you go to the house of God, and drawing near to listen is better than the fools' giving of a sacrifice, for they do not know that they are doing evil. 2 Do not be hasty with your mouth, and let not your heart hasten to bring forth a word before God; for God is in the heavens and you are on the earth; therefore let your words be few. 3 For the dream comes with abundance of business, and the voice of a fool with abundance of words. 4 When you vow a vow to God, do not delay to pay it, for there is no pleasure in fools. What you vow, pay. 5 Better is it that you do not vow than that you vow and do not pay. 6 Do not let your mouth cause your flesh to sin, and do not say before the messenger that it was an error. Why should God be angry at your voice and destroy the work of your hands? 7 For in abundance of dreams are both futilities and many words; but fear God. 8 If you see oppression of a poor man and robbery of justice and righteousness in the province, do not be astonished at the matter; for a high one watches above a high one, and high ones are over them. 9 And the advantage of a land in everything is this: a king for a cultivated field.

Riches That Do Not Satisfy

10 He who loves silver will not be satisfied with silver, and whoever loves abundance will not be satisfied with income. This also is futility. 11 When the good increases, those who consume it increase; and what benefit is there for its owners except the sight of his eyes? 12 Sweet is the sleep of the laborer, whether he eats little or much; and the plenty of the rich man does not let him sleep. 13 There is a sickening evil that I have seen under the sun: wealth kept by its owner to his harm. 14 And that wealth perished in an evil business, and he fathered a son, and there is nothing in his hand. 15 As he came out from the womb of his mother, naked he will return, to go as he came; and he will carry away nothing from his toil that he may take in his hand. 16 And this also is a sickening evil: exactly as he came, so he will go; and what

4:13 Better is a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king Age and position do not guarantee wisdom. An old king who will not listen to advice is worse off than a poor youth who is wise.
4:14 from the house of the prisoners he came out to reign Some think of Joseph, who went from prison to rule in Egypt (Gen 41:14, 41), others of David. The Preacher may be describing a pattern: the humble are raised and the proud and foolish fall.
4:16 also the latter ones will not rejoice in him The crowds flock to the new young king, but the next generation forgets him. The same crowds that welcomed Jesus into Jerusalem soon cried for His death. If you live for people's approval, you build on wind. Live for God's approval, which does not change.
5:1 Guard your foot when you go to the house of God Watch your step, the Preacher says. Do not walk into God's presence as carelessly as into a market. The fool brings his offering and thinks he has done his duty, but God wants a heart that listens and obeys (1 Sam 15:22). It is possible to go to church every week, give and sing, and still not listen to God at all. We come prepared, confessing sin and ready to hear and obey (Heb 12:28-29).
5:2 God is in the heavens and you are on the earth; therefore let your words be few The heart of the passage. This does not mean God is far away or does not care. It means we come with humility and awe. Jesus warned against babbling in prayer and taught us to begin with God's holiness (Matt 6:7-9). Prayer is not about the number of our words but the honesty of our hearts.
5:3 the voice of a fool with abundance of words Too much business brings restless dreams, and too much talk brings foolishness (Prov 10:19).
5:4 What you vow, pay A vow was a solemn promise to God, often an offering or service if He answered a prayer. Hannah kept her vow (1 Sam 1:11, 27-28), and the Law required it (Deut 23:21).
5:5 Better is it that you do not vow than that you vow and do not pay Vows were voluntary, but once made they were binding. We still make promises to God in songs, prayers, weddings and baptisms. Do we keep them? Let your yes be yes (Matt 5:37).
5:6 do not say before the messenger that it was an error The messenger is most likely the priest, called the LORD's messenger in Malachi 2:7. Some take it as an angel, and the Greek translation reads "before God." Do not make excuses to get out of a vow.
5:7 but fear God Empty dreams, words and promises are futility. The answer is simple. The fear of God is the awe of a child who knows his Father is great and holy and would never want to dishonor Him. The book comes back to it at the end (12:13).
5:8 do not be astonished at the matter; for a high one watches above a high one Do not be shocked by injustice in fallen governments. The line can be read of layers of officials each squeezing those below, so corruption runs all the way up, or as a reminder that over every official is a higher one, and over all is God. Both are true.
5:9 a king for a cultivated field Hard Hebrew. Many take it to mean that even with its faults, a land is better off with a king who cares for its fields. Even imperfect order is better than chaos.
5:10 He who loves silver will not be satisfied with silver A law of the human heart. Money promises satisfaction and never delivers. Money is not evil. Loving it is (1 Tim 6:10).
5:11 those who consume it increase More wealth brings more servants, advisers, tax collectors and relatives to share it. The rich man can look at it, but he can only eat so much.
5:12 Sweet is the sleep of the laborer The working man sleeps well. The rich man lies awake worrying about his investments. Which would you rather have?
5:13 wealth kept by its owner to his harm He hoards it, loses it in one bad deal, and has nothing to leave his son (v. 14).
5:15 naked he will return, to go as he came Job said nearly the same (Job 1:21), and so did Paul (1 Tim 6:7). You never see a moving truck behind a hearse.

advantage is there to him that he toils for the wind? 17 Also all his days he eats in darkness, and he is greatly vexed, and has his sickness and wrath. 18 Look, what I myself have seen to be good, which is beautiful: to eat and to drink and to see good in all his toil at which he toils under the sun for the number of the days of his life which God has given him, for that is his portion. 19 Also every man to whom God has given wealth and riches, and has given him power to eat from it and to receive his portion and to rejoice in his toil, this is a gift of God. 20 For he will not much remember the days of his life, because God keeps him occupied with the joy of his heart.

Riches Without Rest

1 There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is great upon man: 2 a man to whom God gives wealth and riches and honor, and he is not lacking for his soul anything of all that he desires; and God does not give him power to eat from it, for a foreign man eats it. This is futility, and it is an evil sickness. 3 If a man fathers a hundred children and lives many years, and many are the days of his years, and his soul is not satisfied with the good, and also he has no burial, I say, "Better than he is the miscarriage." 4 For in futility it came, and in darkness it goes, and in darkness its name is covered. 5 Also it has not seen the sun and has not known it; rest belongs to this one more than to that one. 6 And even if he lived a thousand years twice, and did not see good, does not everything go to one place? 7 All the toil of man is for his mouth, and yet the soul is not filled. 8 For what more is there for the wise man than for the fool? What is there for the poor man who knows how to walk before the living? 9 Better is the sight of the eyes than the going of the soul. This also is futility and a chasing of wind. 10 Whatever has been, already its name has been called, and it is known that he is man; and he is not able to contend with one who is mightier than he. 11 For there are many words that increase futility; what more is there for man? 12 For who knows what is good for man in life, for the number of the days of the life of his futility, and he makes them like the shadow? For who will tell man what will be after him under the sun?

5:17 all his days he eats in darkness The man who piles up money works for the wind (v. 16) and ends anxious, angry and miserable. Treasure in God's kingdom cannot be lost in a bad deal (Matt 6:33).
5:18 for that is his portion The light in the darkness again (2:24; 3:13). Instead of hoarding, enjoy what God gives for the days He gives.
5:19 this is a gift of God Wealth is one gift, and the power to enjoy it is a second. When God gives both, it is grace. Chapter 6 shows the man who has the first without the second.
5:20 God keeps him occupied with the joy of his heart The one who receives life as God's gift is not always brooding over how short and hard it is. God fills his days with gladness instead of dread. That is the difference God makes, even under the sun.
6:2 God does not give him power to eat from it, for a foreign man eats it He has wealth, riches and honor, and something stops him from enjoying them: illness, war, early death or a restless heart. A stranger enjoys what he worked for. Having things and enjoying things are two different gifts (5:19), and the second cannot be bought. Many wealthy people are miserable. Life does not consist in possessions (Luke 12:15).
6:3 Better than he is the miscarriage Many children and long life were seen as the greatest blessings, and an unburied body as a great disgrace (Jer 22:18-19). A man with all that whose heart is never content is worse off than a child who never saw the sun, for that child at least has rest (v. 5). These words may touch a deep wound for any who have lost a child before birth. The Preacher is not saying such a child does not matter. God forms every child in the womb (Ps 139:13-16). I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
6:6 even if he lived a thousand years twice, and did not see good More than twice Methuselah's age, and still the grave. Length of life is not fullness of life. A short life with God is richer than a long life without Him.
6:7 All the toil of man is for his mouth, and yet the soul is not filled We work to eat and eat to work. The soul's hunger is never filled by food. Only Jesus gives water after which we never thirst (John 4:13-14).
6:9 Better is the sight of the eyes than the going of the soul Better to enjoy what is in front of you than to let your desires wander after what you do not have (Phil 4:11). Yet even contentment, if it is only about this world, cannot answer the deepest question.
6:10 it is known that he is man To name something, in Hebrew thinking, was to define it, and God has named everything. The word for man, adam, sounds like the word for ground. Man is dust, not God, and cannot contend with Him and win (Isa 45:9; Rom 9:20). We may bring our questions to God, as the Preacher does, but we cannot put Him on trial.
6:12 For who knows what is good for man in life Our days pass like a shadow. Under the sun no one can say what is truly good or what comes after. These questions are answered only from above the sun. God has told us what is good (Mic 6:8) and what comes after: judgment (12:14), and for those who trust Him, eternal life through His Son.
7:1 A name is better than good oil Fine perfumed oil was costly and treasured. In Hebrew, name (shem) and oil (shemen) make a play on words (Prov 22:1). Perfume fades by evening. A good name lasts.
7:1 the day of death than the day of his being born At birth no one knows what kind of life a person will live. At death the story is finished and the name made. For the believer, to die is gain (Phil 1:21). The Preacher did not see all that, but he saw that the end tells the truth about a life.
7:2 It is better to go to a house of mourning than to go to a house of feasting A funeral teaches more than a party. At a funeral we remember that life is short and ask how we are living.
7:3 by sadness of face a heart becomes good Sorrow slows us down, humbles us and makes our hearts tender. Many believers grew closer to God in grief than in ease.
7:4 The heart of wise men is in a house of mourning The wise are not gloomy people who hate fun. They do not run from the hard truths of life (Ps 90:12).

mourning, and the heart of fools is in a house of joy. 5 It is better to hear the rebuke of a wise man than for a man to hear the song of fools. 6 For like the sound of the thorns under the pot, so is the laughter of the fool; and this also is futility. 7 For oppression makes a wise man mad, and a bribe destroys the heart. 8 The end of a matter is better than its beginning; the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit. 9 Do not be hasty in your spirit to be vexed, for vexation rests in the bosom of fools. 10 Do not say, "Why was it that the former days were better than these?" For not from wisdom have you asked about this. 11 Wisdom is good with an inheritance, and a profit to those who see the sun. 12 For in a shadow is wisdom, in a shadow is silver; and the advantage of knowledge is that wisdom keeps its owners alive. 13 Consider the work of God, for who is able to make straight what He has made crooked? 14 In a day of good, be in good, and in a day of evil, consider: God has made also this one alongside that one, to the end that man will not find out anything after him.

The Limits of Wisdom

15 Everything I have seen in the days of my futility: there is a righteous man perishing in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man prolonging his days in his evil. 16 Do not be greatly righteous, and do not make yourself excessively wise; why should you destroy yourself? 17 Do not be greatly wicked, and do not be a fool; why should you die when it is not your time? 18 It is good that you take hold of this, and also from that do not let your hand rest; for he who fears God will go out with all of them. 19 Wisdom gives strength to the wise man more than ten rulers who are in the city. 20 For there is not a righteous man on the earth who does good and does not sin. 21 Also to all the words which they speak do not give your heart, so that you will not hear your servant cursing you. 22 For also many times your heart knows that you also have cursed others. 23 All this I tested by wisdom; I said, "Let me be wise," and it was far from me. 24 What has been is far off, and deep, deep; who will find it out? 25 I myself turned, and my heart, to know and to explore and to seek wisdom and an explanation, and to know wickedness as stupidity, and folly as madness. 26 And I myself find more bitter than death the woman who is snares, and nets are her heart, fetters are her hands. He who is good before God will escape from her, and a sinner will be captured by her. 27 See, this I have found, said the Preacher, adding one to one to find an explanation, 28 which my soul has still sought, and I have not found: one man among a thousand I have found, and a

7:5 to hear the rebuke of a wise man A wise friend who tells the truth does more good than a crowd of flatterers (Prov 27:6).
7:6 like the sound of the thorns under the pot Dry thorns crackle loudly, burn out fast and give little heat. Another wordplay: thorns (sirim) under the pot (sir).
7:7 a bribe destroys the heart Even a wise man can be corrupted by oppression or a bribe. Wisdom must be guarded.
7:8 The end of a matter is better than its beginning It is easy to start and harder to finish well. Patience waits to see how things end. Pride assumes it already knows.
7:9 vexation rests in the bosom of fools The fool carries his anger around like a pet he holds close (James 1:19).
7:10 Why was it that the former days were better than these Every generation says the good old days were better. The past had its own sins and troubles. Looking back with longing keeps us from living faithfully now.
7:12 wisdom keeps its owners alive Wisdom and money both give shade, like a tree in a hot land. Money protects from some troubles. Wisdom protects from many more, including the foolish choices that destroy a life.
7:13 who is able to make straight what He has made crooked As in 1:15. God is sovereign over the hard things too.
7:14 In a day of good, be in good, and in a day of evil, consider Enjoy good times with thanks. In hard times, stop and think. Both come from His hand (Job 2:10). "Evil" means trouble, not sin. God mixes the days so we cannot control the future and stay dependent on Him.
7:15 there is a righteous man perishing in his righteousness Good people die young, and the wicked live long. The Bible does not hide it (Ps 73:17). God's justice is real, but not always done quickly in this life.
7:16 Do not be greatly righteous Not a warning against holiness. We are to be holy as God is holy (1 Pet 1:16). Most teachers read it as a warning against self-righteousness, a show of goodness and wisdom that is really pride, like the Pharisees (Matt 23:28). Do not think your righteousness guarantees a long life or forces God to bless you (7:15).
7:17 Do not be greatly wicked, and do not be a fool The other ditch is just as deadly. If righteousness does not always pay, some decide to sin freely. Sin brings death sooner.
7:18 he who fears God will go out with all of them The way through is the fear of God. The one who fears God neither trusts in his own goodness nor throws goodness away. He trusts God.
7:20 there is not a righteous man on the earth who does good and does not sin This is why no one should be proud of his righteousness (1 Kgs 8:46; Rom 3:10, 23). No one can be saved by his own goodness. We need a righteousness from outside ourselves, the righteousness from God through faith in Christ (Phil 3:9).
7:22 your heart knows that you also have cursed others If you listen at every door, you will hear something bad about yourself. Be honest: you have said unkind things too. That should make us slow to take offense.
7:24 deep, deep; who will find it out Even the wisest man admits true wisdom was beyond him (Rom 11:33).
7:25 to know wickedness as stupidity, and folly as madness Wickedness is not clever. It is stupid.
7:26 the woman who is snares, and nets are her heart Some have used these verses to look down on women. The Preacher does not say all women are like this. He describes the seductive, immoral woman Proverbs warns about (Prov 5:3-4). Solomon knew this danger from his own life (1 Kgs 11:4). The way to escape is to walk with God.
7:28 one man among a thousand I have found, and a woman among all these I have not found Upright men were just as rare: one in a thousand, a sad report on the whole race. Solomon speaks of his own search in his own circle, and he had a thousand wives and concubines (1 Kgs 11:3). Many teachers believe that is what lies behind his words. This is not God's verdict on women. Scripture praises the wife of strength (Prov 31:10), Ruth (Ruth 3:11) and many others, and in Christ men and women are co-heirs of grace (1 Pet 3:7).

woman among all these I have not found. 29 Only see this, I have found: that God made man upright, and they have sought many schemes.

The King and the Word of Authority

1 Who is like the wise man? And who knows the interpretation of a matter? The wisdom of a man makes his face shine, and the strength of his face is changed. 2 I say, keep the command of a king, and that on account of the oath of God. 3 Do not be hasty to go from his presence; do not stand in an evil matter, for all that he desires he will do. 4 Because the word of a king is power, who then will say to him, "What are you doing?" 5 He who keeps a commandment will know no evil thing, and a wise heart will know time and judgment. 6 For to every matter there is a time and judgment, for the evil of man is great upon him. 7 For he does not know what will be; for as it will be, who will tell him? 8 There is no man who has power over the spirit to restrain the spirit, and there is no power over the day of death, and there is no discharge in the war, and wickedness will not deliver its owners. 9 All this I have seen, and I gave my heart to every work which is done under the sun, a time when man has power over man for evil to him.

When Judgment Is Delayed

10 And so I have seen the wicked buried, and they came in, and from a holy place they would go, and they were forgotten in the city where they had done so. This also is futility. 11 Because the sentence against the evil deed is not done quickly, therefore the heart of the sons of man is full in them to do evil. 12 Though a sinner does evil a hundred times and prolongs his days for himself, yet I myself also know that it will be good for those who fear God, who fear before Him. 13 And it will not be good for the wicked, and he will not prolong days like the shadow, because he does not fear before God. 14 There is a futility which is done on the earth: that there are righteous men to whom it happens according to the deed of the wicked, and there are wicked men to whom it happens according to the deed of the righteous. I said that this also is futility. 15 And I myself praised joy, because there is nothing good for man under the sun except to eat and to drink and to rejoice; and this will accompany him in his toil through the days of his life which God has given him under the sun. 16 When I gave my heart to know wisdom and to see the task which is done on the earth, for even by day and by night he does not see sleep in his eyes, 17 then I saw all the work of God, that man is not able to find out the work which is done under the sun; because though man toils to seek, and he will not find it; and even if the wise man says he will know, he will not be able to find it out.

8:17 Mark 4:27; Eccl 3:11; Ps 73:16

7:29 God made man upright, and they have sought many schemes The key to the passage. "Man" is adam, mankind, male and female (Gen 1:27; 5:2). God made people good, and all of us have gone after our own schemes, as in Genesis 3. That points to the only One truly upright, Jesus, who knew no sin and was made sin for us (2 Cor 5:21).
8:1 The wisdom of a man makes his face shine Wisdom shows on a face. The hard, stubborn look softens. Moses' face shone after he had been with God (Exod 34:29). True wisdom changes us from the inside out.
8:2 keep the command of a king, and that on account of the oath of God The oath may be the loyalty sworn before God when a king was crowned (2 Sam 5:3; 2 Kgs 11:17), or it may mean God Himself placed kings in authority. Either way, obeying rulers is tied to our duty to God (Rom 13:1).
8:4 who then will say to him, "What are you doing?" A king's word was law. Must we then obey rulers in everything? No. When a ruler commands what God forbids, we must obey God (Acts 5:29; Dan 3:18). In ordinary matters God's people are good citizens who pray for those in authority (1 Tim 2:2).
8:5 a wise heart will know time and judgment The wise know the right time and way to act, when to speak to the king and when to wait.
8:7 For he does not know what will be Even the wise must act without knowing how things will turn out. Say, "If the Lord wills" (James 4:13-15).
8:8 there is no power over the day of death, and there is no discharge in the war "Spirit" can also mean wind or breath. No one can hold back the wind or keep his breath when it is time to die. Some men could be released from military service (Deut 20:5-8), but from the war with death there is no release, and no scheme can buy a way out (Ps 49:7). Only One has power over death. Jesus holds "the keys of Hades and of Death" (Rev 1:18).
8:10 they were forgotten in the city where they had done so The Hebrew is hard. It seems to describe wicked men who went in and out of the holy place looking religious, were buried with honor, and were then forgotten. Some old copies read "praised" instead of "forgotten." Either way, the wicked are honored, and that is futility.
8:11 Because the sentence against the evil deed is not done quickly One of the most practical verses in the book. When justice is slow, people grow bold. A child never corrected keeps misbehaving. God's judgment often seems slow too, but His delay is mercy, giving time to repent (2 Pet 3:9). Those who mistake His patience for weakness store up wrath (Rom 2:4-5).
8:12 it will be good for those who fear God The Preacher speaks from faith. He has seen the wicked live long, but he knows that in the end it will be well for those who fear God. Twice in two verses he names the fear of God as the dividing line. Under the sun it may not look like it matters. Above the sun it is everything.
8:13 he will not prolong days like the shadow The wicked man's life, however long, is a shadow, and it will end.
8:14 there are righteous men to whom it happens according to the deed of the wicked Good people suffer what the wicked deserve, and the wicked enjoy what the righteous deserve. The Preacher holds both truths at once. That is honest faith. We need not pretend life is fair to trust that God will set it right.
8:15 And I myself praised joy The fourth time he says this (2:24; 3:12-13; 5:18). Not a call to live for pleasure. Life is not fair, justice is slow and the future hidden, so do not wear yourself out trying to figure it all out. Receive God's daily gifts and enjoy them. Notice again who gives the days: God. This is not the godless motto of 1 Corinthians 15:32. It is like Nehemiah's feast day, when the joy of the LORD was their strength (Neh 8:10). When we cannot understand His ways, we can still thank Him for today's bread.
8:17 man is not able to find out the work which is done under the sun After working day and night, his conclusion is humble. No one can figure out all God's work (Isa 55:8). God did not explain His reasons to Job (Job 38:4). This is not the failure of wisdom but its beginning. The wise do not need to know everything, because they know the One who does.

One Fate for All

1 For all this I laid to my heart, even to make clear all this: that the righteous and the wise and their works are in the hand of God; whether love or hatred, man does not know; everything is before them. 2 Everything is as it is for everyone: one fate is for the righteous and for the wicked, for the good and for the clean and for the unclean, and for the one who sacrifices and for the one who does not sacrifice; as the good, so the sinner; the one who swears, as the one who fears an oath. 3 This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that one fate is for everyone; and also the heart of the sons of man is full of evil, and madness is in their heart in their lives, and after it they go to the dead. 4 For whoever is joined to all the living, there is hope; for a living dog, it is better than the dead lion. 5 For the living know that they will die, and the dead do not know anything, and they no longer have a reward, for their memory is forgotten. 6 Also their love, also their hatred, also their envy has already perished, and they no longer have a portion forever in all that is done under the sun.

Enjoy Life Today

7 Go, eat your bread with joy, and drink your wine with a good heart, for God has already accepted your works. 8 At every time let your clothes be white, and let not oil be lacking on your head. 9 See life with a wife whom you love all the days of the life of your futility which He has given you under the sun, all the days of your futility; for that is your portion in life and in your toil at which you toil under the sun. 10 All that your hand finds to do, do with your strength, for there is no work or explanation or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol, where you are going. 11 I returned and saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, and the war not to the mighty, and also not bread to the wise, and also not wealth to the understanding, and also not favor to the knowledgeable; for time and chance happen to all of them. 12 For also man does not know his time: like the fish that are caught in an evil net, and like the birds that are caught in the snare, like them the sons of man are snared at an evil time, when it falls upon them suddenly.

Wisdom Better Than Strength

13 Also this I have seen as wisdom under the sun, and it was great to me: 14 There was a small city and few men in it, and a great king came against it and surrounded it and built great siege works against it. 15 And one found in it a poor wise man, and he delivered the city by his wisdom; and no man remembered that poor man. 16 And I myself said, "Wisdom is better than might, and the wisdom of the poor

9:16 Eccl 7:19; Prov 21:22; Prov 24:5

9:1 the righteous and the wise and their works are in the hand of God A comfort before the hard truths. The righteous are not adrift (John 10:28).
9:1 whether love or hatred, man does not know Good times are not proof of God's favor, and hard times are not proof of His anger. We cannot judge God's love by our circumstances. We judge it by His Word, above all by the cross (Rom 5:8).
9:2 one fate is for the righteous and for the wicked Death does not check our record before it comes. The godly and the godless are buried in the same ground.
9:3 madness is in their heart in their lives, and after it they go to the dead Because death comes to all, many decide nothing matters, fill their short lives with folly, and then it is over.
9:4 a living dog, it is better than the dead lion Dogs were scavengers, the lowest of animals, and the lion was king of beasts. As long as you are alive there is hope. You can still change, repent and turn to God. Once you are dead the chance is gone.
9:5 the dead do not know anything Used by some to teach soul sleep or nothing after death. The key is verse 6: they have no portion "in all that is done under the sun." The dead do not know what happens on earth, earn no more wages here, and are forgotten. The Preacher describes death as it looks from the earth. Scripture shows the dead are aware (Luke 16:25; Rev 6:9-10), and to depart is to be with Christ (Phil 1:23). The dead are cut off from this world. Those who die in Christ are with Him.
9:7 Go, eat your bread with joy, and drink your wine with a good heart Life is short, so enjoy what God gives and do not waste it on worry. Bread and wine were Israel's ordinary food and drink (Ps 104:15). This is not a license to party. Scripture warns plainly against drunkenness (Prov 20:1; Eph 5:18).
9:7 for God has already accepted your works Spoken to one who fears God. He can eat with a free conscience. In Christ we are accepted by grace, not by works (Eph 1:6). A believer does not have to earn God's favor before he can enjoy a meal.
9:8 let your clothes be white, and let not oil be lacking on your head White clothes were cooler and worn on festive days, and oil on the head was a sign of gladness (Ps 23:5). Live with a festive spirit. Let your life show that you know God's goodness.
9:9 See life with a wife whom you love To see is to experience and enjoy. One wife: Solomon, with his thousand women, knew the emptiness of the other way, and he points back to God's plan (Gen 2:24). This leads straight into the Song of Songs. Husbands and wives, treat each other as God's gift. For the single, widowed or those in a hard marriage, God gives other gifts too, and He Himself is the greatest portion (Ps 73:26).
9:10 All that your hand finds to do, do with your strength Give your best to the work God puts in front of you (Col 3:23).
9:10 there is no work or explanation or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol Sheol is the place of the dead, the grave. Your chance to work in this world ends at death (John 9:4). Like 9:5, this does not teach soul sleep. Believers who die are at home with the Lord (2 Cor 5:8) and will be raised (1 Thess 4:14-16). But the chance to serve, love, share the gospel and make things right ends at the grave. So do it now.
9:11 time and chance happen to all of them The fastest runner does not always win. Smart people go hungry. From under the sun life looks like chance. Above the sun, God rules every detail (Prov 16:33; 21:31).
9:12 like the fish that are caught in an evil net Disaster and death often come without warning. That is why we must be ready.
9:15 he delivered the city by his wisdom; and no man remembered that poor man One poor man saved a whole city, as a wise woman saved hers from Joab (2 Sam 20:16-22), and then everyone forgot him. Many Christians see a picture of Jesus, who became poor for us (2 Cor 8:9), delivered us from a far greater enemy and is still despised by most of the world. The Preacher was not writing prophecy, but the picture fits.
9:16 the wisdom of the poor man is despised People still listen to the rich and important and ignore the poor and wise.

man is despised, and his words are not heard." 17 The words of wise men in quietness are heard more than the cry of a ruler among fools. 18 Wisdom is better than weapons of battle, and one sinner destroys much good.

A Little Folly

1 Dead flies make the oil of a perfumer stink and ferment; weightier than wisdom, than honor, is a little folly. 2 The heart of a wise man is to his right, and the heart of a fool to his left. 3 And also on the way, when the fool walks, his heart is lacking, and he says to everyone that he is a fool. 4 If the spirit of the ruler rises against you, do not leave your place, for calmness lays great sins to rest. 5 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, like an error that goes out from before the ruler: 6 folly is set in many high places, and rich men sit in the low place. 7 I have seen slaves on horses, and princes walking like slaves on the ground. 8 He who digs a pit will fall into it, and he who breaks through a wall, a snake will bite him. 9 He who quarries stones will be hurt by them; he who splits wood will be endangered by it. 10 If the iron is blunt, and he has not sharpened its face, then he must increase strength; and wisdom has the advantage of giving success. 11 If the snake bites without charming, then there is no advantage for the master of the tongue. 12 The words of a wise man's mouth are favor, and the lips of a fool swallow him. 13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is folly, and the end of his mouth is evil madness. 14 And the fool multiplies words; man does not know what will be, and what will be after him, who will tell him? 15 The toil of fools wearies him, who does not know how to go to a city. 16 Woe to you, O land, whose king is a youth, and whose princes eat in the morning. 17 How blessed are you, O land, whose king is a son of nobles, and whose princes eat at the proper time, for strength and not for drunkenness. 18 Through laziness the rafter sinks, and through lowering of hands the house leaks. 19 For laughter they make bread, and wine makes life glad, and the silver answers everything. 20 Even in your thought do not curse a king, and in the chambers of your bed do not curse a rich man; for a bird of the heavens will carry the sound, and a master of wings will tell the matter.

9:17 The words of wise men in quietness are heard more than the cry of a ruler among fools You do not have to be loud to be right.
9:18 one sinner destroys much good It takes years to build something good and one bad choice to tear it down. Achan's one sin brought defeat on all Israel (Josh 7). Our sin is never only our own.
10:1 Dead flies make the oil of a perfumer stink and ferment A few flies die in a jar of costly perfume, and the whole jar stinks. One foolish act can undo years of wisdom and a good name. A pastor faithful for thirty years can lose it in one moral failure (Gal 5:9). Small sins are never as small as they look.
10:2 The heart of a wise man is to his right, and the heart of a fool to his left The right hand is the side of strength, skill and favor. This has nothing to do with being left-handed or with politics. It is about the direction of the heart.
10:3 he says to everyone that he is a fool He does not have to announce it. His folly is on display every time he steps out the door.
10:4 for calmness lays great sins to rest If a ruler or boss is angry with you, do not storm off. Stay at your post. A calm answer can settle much trouble (Prov 15:1).
10:6 folly is set in many high places, and rich men sit in the low place "Rich men" likely means those of noble character and ability. Fools are put in charge and capable people pushed aside.
10:7 I have seen slaves on horses, and princes walking like slaves on the ground Riding a horse was a mark of honor. The world is upside down when people are promoted for flattery or connections. The Preacher offers no fix. Under the sun, things are not always as they should be.
10:8 He who digs a pit will fall into it Evil schemes come back on those who plan them (Prov 26:27; Esth 7:10). Snakes often hid in the cracks of old stone walls.
10:9 he who splits wood will be endangered by it Every kind of work has risks (Deut 19:5). Life is full of dangers we cannot fully control, so we need wisdom and care.
10:10 If the iron is blunt, and he has not sharpened its face, then he must increase strength A dull axe takes more effort. Wisdom is a sharp axe. Sometimes the answer is not to work harder but to stop, pray and plan. Time spent sharpening is not wasted.
10:11 If the snake bites without charming A snake charmer who is too slow is no use. Good advice given too late helps no one.
10:12 the lips of a fool swallow him The wise man's gracious words win favor. The fool talks himself into trouble, and the longer he talks the worse it gets (v. 13).
10:14 the fool multiplies words He talks on about the future as if he knew it, and only shows his ignorance (James 3:5).
10:15 who does not know how to go to a city The fool wears himself out because he does not even know the way to town.
10:16 Woe to you, O land, whose king is a youth, and whose princes eat in the morning A nation is in trouble when its king is childish and its leaders feast first thing in the morning instead of working (Isa 5:11). Rehoboam listened to the young men and the kingdom split (1 Kgs 12:8-16).
10:17 for strength and not for drunkenness Blessed is the land whose leaders are mature and self-controlled. The same is true of homes, churches and businesses.
10:18 Through laziness the rafter sinks Neglect the roof and the rafters sag and rain comes in. True of a nation, a marriage and a soul. Fix the little leak before the ceiling caves in.
10:19 the silver answers everything This may describe the careless princes of verse 16, who think money solves every problem, or simply observe that money pays for the feast. Money may answer every bill, but not every question (5:10).
10:20 for a bird of the heavens will carry the sound We still say a little bird told me. Words get out (Luke 12:3). If our thoughts are right, our words will be too. Even when no person hears, God does.

Send Your Bread on the Waters

1 Send your bread on the face of the waters, for in the abundance of the days you will find it. 2 Give a portion to seven, and also to eight, for you do not know what evil will be on the earth. 3 If the clouds are filled with rain, they pour it out on the earth; and if a tree falls in the south or in the north, the place where the tree falls, there it will be. 4 He who watches the wind will not sow, and he who looks at the clouds will not reap. 5 As you do not know what is the way of the wind, as the bones in the womb of the pregnant woman, so you do not know the work of God who makes everything. 6 In the morning sow your seed, and toward evening do not let your hand rest; for you do not know which will succeed, this or that, or whether both of them alike will be good.

Rejoice in Your Youth

7 And the light is sweet, and it is good for the eyes to see the sun. 8 For if a man lives many years, let him rejoice in all of them, and let him remember the days of the darkness, for they will be many. All that comes is futility. 9 Rejoice, O young man, in your youth, and let your heart do you good in the days of your young manhood, and walk in the ways of your heart and in the sight of your eyes; and know that for all these God will bring you into judgment. 10 And remove vexation from your heart, and put away evil from your flesh, for youth and the black hair are futility.

11:1 Send your bread on the face of the waters Some think of merchants sending grain across the sea, not knowing when profit would return. Others see generous giving, casting bread out freely where you may never see it again. Either way, be bold and generous with what God has given and trust Him for the return (Luke 6:38; 2 Cor 9:6).
11:2 Give a portion to seven, and also to eight Seven is fullness, and eight means even more. Some read this as spreading resources so one disaster does not wipe you out. Others read it as generosity to many while you can, before hard times come. Both are wise.
11:3 the place where the tree falls, there it will be When clouds are full it rains, and a fallen tree lies where it fell. We cannot control the weather or the events of life.
11:4 He who watches the wind will not sow The farmer who waits for the perfect day never plants. We wait for the perfect time to share our faith, serve, give, make things right or start reading the Bible. It never comes. Wisdom acts in faith and leaves the results with God.
11:5 as the bones in the womb of the pregnant woman The word for wind is also the word for spirit. We cannot see where the wind goes or how a baby's bones are formed. God does that work in secret (Ps 139:13). Jesus used the wind as a picture of the new birth (John 3:8). We do not understand all God is doing, but He is at work.
11:6 In the morning sow your seed, and toward evening do not let your hand rest You teach a class, share the gospel with a neighbor, pray for a wayward child, and see no results. Keep sowing. You do not know which seed will grow (Gal 6:9).
11:7 the light is sweet, and it is good for the eyes to see the sun After so many hard words, a simple joy. Waking to a sunrise is a gift.
11:8 let him remember the days of the darkness, for they will be many Rejoice in every year God gives. The days of darkness may be old age or the long darkness of death. Remembering them does not ruin our joy. It makes us treasure the light while we have it.
11:9 Rejoice, O young man, in your youth Youth is a gift. Enjoy it, follow the good desires God gave you, chase your dreams. Not a license to do whatever you want, for the verse goes on, "know that for all these God will bring you into judgment." Each of us will give an account to God (Rom 14:12). This does not dampen joy. It guards it. The joy that lasts need not be ashamed before God (2 Tim 2:22; 1 Tim 4:12).
11:10 for youth and the black hair are futility Put away worry and sin, which waste and ruin youth. Dark hair turns gray soon enough. Some translate the word as the dawn of life. Youth is here in the morning and gone by noon, so use it well: remember your Creator (12:1).
12:1 And remember your Creator in the days of your young manhood The most important thing of all. To remember in the Bible is to keep someone in mind and act on it, as when God remembered Noah and saved him (Gen 8:1). Live every day knowing God made you, owns you and will call you to account. The One who made you knows what you were made for (3:11). Youth is the best time to begin, while the heart is soft and a life lies ahead. Later is not promised.
12:1 before the days of evil come Days of trouble, not of sin: the hardships of old age when strength fails and pleasures fade. Old age has its blessings (Prov 16:31), but it is far better to come to God with a lifetime ahead than with a few weak years left.
12:2 and the clouds return after the rain The poem on old age begins. In youth storms come and go and the sun returns. In old age one trouble follows another and the lights of life grow dim, whether the eyes, the mind or a winter that never turns to spring.
12:3 the keepers of the house tremble A great house falling into decay, each part a picture of the aging body. We hold the details with an open hand, but the main picture is plain. The keepers are likely the shaking hands and arms, the men of strength the bending legs and back, the grinding women the few teeth left, and those looking through the windows the dimming eyes.
12:4 one rises at the sound of the bird The doors may be the ears closing to the street or lips closed over a toothless mouth. The old sleep lightly and wake at the first bird. The voice can no longer sing, or the ears no longer enjoy music.
12:5 the almond tree blossoms, and the grasshopper drags itself along, and the caper-berry fails Heights and the street become frightening. The almond's white blossoms in late winter picture white hair. A grasshopper should leap, but this one drags, like the stiff, slow steps of age. The caper-berry was used to stir up appetite and desire, and now desire fades.
12:5 for man goes to the house of his eternity The picture becomes plain: the grave, and mourners in the street. "House of his eternity" reminds us death is not only an end but a passage to a place that lasts. For the believer, Jesus has gone to prepare a place (John 14:2).

they are afraid of a high place, and terrors are in the way; and the almond tree blossoms, and the grasshopper drags itself along, and the caper-berry fails; for man goes to the house of his eternity, and the mourners go about in the street; 6 before the silver cord is snapped, and the golden bowl is crushed, and the jar is broken at the spring, and the wheel is crushed into the well; 7 and the dust returns to the earth as it was, and the spirit returns to God who gave it. 8 "Futility of futilities," said the Preacher, "everything is futility."

The Whole Duty of Man

9 And further, because the Preacher was wise, he still taught the people knowledge; and he weighed and searched out; he set in order many proverbs. 10 The Preacher sought to find words of delight, and what was written in uprightness, words of truth. 11 The words of wise men are like goads, and like nails firmly fixed are the masters of collections; they are given from one shepherd. 12 And beyond these, my son, be warned: of making many books there is no end, and much study is a weariness of the flesh. 13 The end of the matter, everything has been heard: fear God and keep His commandments, for this is all of man. 14 For God will bring every deed into judgment, with every hidden thing, whether good or evil.

12:13 Deut 10:12; Eccl 5:7; Deut 6:2
12:14 2 Cor 5:10; Rom 2:16; 1 Cor 4:5

12:6 before the silver cord is snapped, and the golden bowl is crushed Picture a golden lamp on a silver chain. The chain snaps, the lamp breaks and the light goes out. Then a well: the jar shatters and the wheel falls in. No more water can be drawn. Life is precious and fragile.

12:7 the spirit returns to God who gave it The answer to 3:21. The body returns to dust (Gen 3:19), but man's spirit does not fade away. It goes back to God who gave it (Gen 2:7), and every person will stand before Him. For the believer this is not fearful (Acts 7:59; Luke 23:46), and the body will be raised in glory (1 Cor 15:52; Phil 3:21). If you are young, remember your Creator now. If older, it is not too late (Luke 23:43). If you care for an aging parent, see their losses with tenderness (Isa 46:4).

12:8 Futility of futilities The book ends where it began (1:2). The verdict on life under the sun has not changed. But now we hear it after learning that life is God's gift, that God will judge and that the spirit returns to Him. Futility is real, but it is not the whole story.

12:9 he set in order many proverbs The book now speaks of the Preacher in the third person, like a closing note on his work. He weighed his words and taught what he learned (1 Kgs 4:32).

12:10 words of delight, and what was written in uprightness, words of truth Pleasing words, but never at the cost of truth. Good teaching is not harsh for the sake of it, nor sweet at the cost of honesty.

12:11 The words of wise men are like goads A goad was a pointed stick that kept oxen moving the right way. Wise words poke and push us where we need to go. Like nails firmly fixed, gathered sayings give us something solid to hang our lives on.

12:11 they are given from one shepherd In the Old Testament God is the Shepherd of His people (Ps 23:1). These words did not come from human cleverness alone. This is a plain claim of inspiration. It is hard to read "one shepherd" without thinking of Jesus, the Good Shepherd (John 10:11; 1 Pet 5:4).

12:12 of making many books there is no end People can read all their lives and never find the answer. Study is good, but it wears us out if it does not lead to God. The answer comes in a few simple words.

12:13 fear God and keep His commandments, for this is all of man The conclusion of the book. To fear God is to hold Him in awe, trust Him and honor Him as God. To keep His commandments is to live that fear out (3:14; 5:7; 8:12-13). This is the whole of man, what we were made for. Pleasure, wealth, wisdom, work and fame are a breath. A life of reverent obedience is a full life (John 14:15).

12:14 For God will bring every deed into judgment, with every hidden thing Under the sun nothing seemed to make a lasting difference. Above the sun every deed counts. Who can stand? No one on his own (7:20; Rom 2:16). The Judge is the risen Jesus (Acts 17:31), and He is the One who died for our sins, so there is no condemnation for those in Him (Rom 8:1). Believers still stand before the judgment seat of Christ, not to decide salvation but for rewards (2 Cor 5:10). The book that began "everything is futility" ends with this: everything counts.

SONG OF SONGS

Introduction

Title

The Hebrew title is the book's first line: "The song of the songs, which is of Solomon" (1:1). Saying "the song of the songs" is a Hebrew way of saying the greatest song, the best of all songs. Solomon wrote a thousand and five songs (1 Kgs 4:32), and this one was counted his finest. Some Bibles call it the Song of Solomon, and older writers sometimes called it Canticles, from the Latin word for songs. In our English Bibles it comes right after Ecclesiastes and right before Isaiah, the last of the books of wisdom and poetry.

The first verse says the song is "of Solomon" (1:1). The Hebrew can mean written by Solomon, written for him or about him, but Jewish and Christian tradition have long held that Solomon wrote it. Solomon is named seven times in the book (1:1, 5; 3:7, 9, 11; 8:11, 12). The Song is full of things a king in his day would know: plants and animals from all over the land, spices and perfumes, horses from Egypt, and places from Lebanon to Engedi. Solomon spoke of trees, animals and birds (1 Kgs 4:33), and the Song is full of them. Many modern scholars believe the book was written or collected much later, and some see it as a set of separate love songs gathered together. I take the first verse at its word and hold that Solomon wrote it.

It was most likely written early in Solomon's reign, about 965 B.C. Solomon ruled about 970 to 930 B.C. The book shows the kingdom whole and at peace, and it names both Jerusalem and Tirzah (6:4), a northern city that later became a capital of the northern kingdom after the kingdom divided (1 Kgs 15:33).

Song of Songs is a love poem, the song of a man and a woman who love each other, long for each other, marry and delight in each other. There is no other book like it in the Bible. It does not tell a story in order like a history book or teach in plain sentences like a letter. It sings. The woman is called "the Shulammite" (6:13), a young woman from the country, darkened by the sun from working in her brothers' vineyards (1:6). Her name may mean a woman from Shunem, or it may be a feminine form of Solomon's own name. The man is the king, Solomon (1:4; 3:11), who also speaks of himself as a shepherd in the language of love (1:7; 2:16). He calls her "my darling" and "bride," and she calls him "my beloved." The daughters of Jerusalem, the women of the city, answer at times like a chorus. Her brothers appear at the start and at the end (1:6; 8:8-9). The SLB does not add headings to show who is speaking, but the Hebrew shows whether the speaker is a man or a woman, and the notes point it out.

For most of history, both Jews and Christians read the Song mainly as an allegory, a story in which every detail stands for something spiritual: God and Israel, or Christ and the church. That reading sometimes went too far, turning every line into a hidden code the text does not support. Today most Bible teachers read it first as what it plainly is, a real love song about a husband and wife, and then see in it a picture of God's love for His people, as the rest of Scripture does with marriage. That is how these notes read it. Some teachers hold the shepherd view, with three main characters: the young woman, a shepherd she loves back home, and King Solomon, who tries to win her for his palace. These notes read the Song with two main characters, because the text calls the bridegroom the king and Solomon (1:4; 3:11) and does not clearly mark a second man, but the shepherd view is held by serious teachers.

The man who wrote this song of one love later gathered seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines, and his wives turned aside his heart (1 Kgs 11:3). Scripture does not explain how. Most likely Solomon wrote the Song early, about one wife he truly loved, before his heart turned. The Song shows God's ideal of one faithful love, even though its writer later failed to live it. Knowing what is right and writing beautifully about it is not the same as living it.

The Song speaks openly about love and desire, but always in pictures: gardens, fountains, fruit, wine, spices, gazelles and doves. It is never crude. The notes explain those pictures in plain and modest words, fit for a church group, without going into more detail than the poem itself does. "Sister" (4:9) was a common word of love and closeness, not a family relation, and "bride" is used for her only in chapters 4 and 5, around the wedding.

Themes

Married love is God's good gift. From the first pages of Scripture, God made man and woman for each other and joined them as one flesh (Gen 2:24). The Song celebrates that gift with joy, the physical side included. The marriage bed is honorable and undefiled (Heb 13:4).

Love has its time. Three times the bride warns her friends not to awaken love "until it pleases" (2:7; 3:5; 8:4). The Song shows the right order: longing, waiting, the public covenant of marriage, and then the full joy of union. The locked garden (4:12) pictures purity kept for marriage, and the bride who was "a wall" (8:10) found peace.

Love belongs and is exclusive. "My beloved is mine, and I am his" (2:16). Against all others, "One is she, my dove, my perfect one" (6:9). This is God's design: one man and one woman, each the only one for the other.

Love is tested and restored. The hard night of chapter 5, when she delays to open the door, shows how small excuses become distance. Chapter 6 shows love that forgives without scolding and speaks the words of the wedding day again.

Love is strong. The key verses are 8:6-7: love is "strong like death," its flashes are "a flame of the LORD," and "Many waters are not able to quench the love." It cannot be bought. It must be given freely.

Christ in Song of Songs

The Song is first of all about a real husband and wife, and these notes read it that way. But the whole Bible uses marriage as a picture of God's love for His people. God told Israel that her Maker is her Husband (Isa 54:5), and promised to betroth her to Himself forever (Hos 2:19). Paul quotes God's first words about marriage, that the two will become one flesh, and then says he speaks of Christ and the church (Eph 5:31-32). Jesus called Himself the Bridegroom (Mark 2:19-20), and the Bible ends with the marriage of the Lamb (Rev 19:7).

So when we see a love that seeks, delights, forgives and will not let go, a love "strong like death" that many waters cannot quench (8:6-7), we are right to think of the greater love of Christ, who loved the church and gave Himself up for her (Eph 5:25). His love is stronger than death, and nothing can separate us from it (Rom 8:38-39). It cannot be bought, but is given by grace (Eph 2:8). The Song ends with the bride calling her beloved to come quickly (8:14), and the Bible ends with the Spirit and the bride saying, Come (Rev 22:17, 20). The New Testament does not quote Song of Songs, so I hold this as a picture, not as the main meaning of each verse, and the notes mention it where it fits without forcing it into every line.

Hard Passages

The locked garden and the wedding night (4:12-5:1). The locked garden and sealed fountain picture the bride's purity, kept for her husband. When she calls it "his garden" (4:16) and he answers, "I have come to my garden" (5:1), the poem speaks of their wedding night, but only in its own gentle pictures, and the notes say no more than that. For any who have not kept themselves pure, Christ forgives and makes a new beginning (1 Cor 6:11).

The watchmen (5:7). Those who should have protected her beat her and took her shawl. Scripture does not hide that kind of hurt, and God is near the broken of heart (Ps 34:18). Anyone being harmed should tell someone they trust and get help.

The husband's praise (4:1-7; 7:1-9). These verses praise the bride's beauty with pictures of fawns, palms, wheat and wine. They are tender, not crude, and the notes handle them in general terms of beauty, plenty and delight. God approves of a husband's delight in his own wife (Prov 5:18-19).

Solomon's many wives (6:8; 1 Kgs 11:3). The Song lifts up one faithful love though its writer later failed to live it. Most likely he wrote it early, before his heart turned.

Obscure verses (6:12; 8:6). The Hebrew of 6:12 is famously unclear, and we should not build anything on it. In 8:6 the word for flame ends with Yah, the short form of God's name. Some take it as a mighty flame, but the SLB follows "a flame of the LORD."

SONG OF SONGS

SONG OF SONGS 1

The Bride and Her King

1 The song of the songs, which is of Solomon (Shelomo). 2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth, for your love is better than wine. 3 For fragrance your oils are good; your name is oil poured out; therefore young women love you. 4 Draw me after you; let us run. The king has brought me into his chambers. Let us rejoice and let us be glad in you; let us make mention of your love more than wine. In uprightness they love you. 5 I am black, and lovely, daughters of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), like the tents of Kedar (Qedar), like the curtains of Solomon. 6 Do not look at me because I am swarthy, because the sun has gazed on me. The sons of my mother were angry with me; they made me a keeper of the vineyards; my vineyard, which is mine, I have not kept. 7 Tell me, you whom my soul loves, where do you pasture your flock? Where do you make it lie down at noon? For why should I be like one who is veiled beside the flocks of your companions? 8 If you do not know for yourself, beautiful one among the women, go out for yourself in the footprints of the flock, and pasture your young goats beside the dwellings of the shepherds.

Delight in Each Other

9 To my mare among the chariots of Pharaoh I have likened you, my darling. 10 Your cheeks are lovely with ornaments, your neck with strings of beads. 11 Ornaments of gold we will make for you, with beads of the silver. 12 While the king was at his table, my nard gave forth its fragrance. 13 A bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me; between my breasts it lodges. 14 A cluster of henna is my beloved to me, in the vineyards of Engedi. 15 Look, you are beautiful, my darling; look, you are beautiful; your eyes are doves. 16 Look, you are beautiful, my beloved, also pleasant; also our couch is lush. 17 The beams of our houses are cedars; our rafters are cypresses.

1:1 The song of the songs, which is of Solomon The title of the book. "The song of the songs" means the greatest of songs, the way King of kings means the greatest King. Solomon wrote over a thousand songs (1 Kgs 4:32), and this one was counted the best. God put a love song in the Bible because He made love. He brought man and woman together and called it "very good" (Gen 1:31).
1:2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth The woman speaks first, and she is open about her longing to be close to the man she loves. Notice the shift from "him" to "your." She speaks about him and then to him, as if he has suddenly come near. That is how a person in love talks.
1:2 your love is better than wine Wine was the drink of joy and celebration. His love gives her more joy than any feast.
1:3 your name is oil poured out A man of rank smelled of costly perfumed oils. But his name, his character and who he is, is like perfume poured out, filling the room. Others can see he is a man of good name.
1:4 The king has brought me into his chambers He has welcomed her into his private rooms, the inner part of the palace, a picture of being brought close, received and loved. The voices that join in are likely the young women of Jerusalem sharing her joy. Christians have long thought here of the believer's desire for Christ, but first see what the poem plainly says: a young woman loves a good man and is not ashamed of it.
1:5 I am black, and lovely A woman of the palace had fair skin from staying indoors. A country girl who worked the fields was tanned. The tents of Kedar were woven from black goat hair, and the curtains of Solomon were rich and fine. She is dark like those tents and beautiful like those curtains. She does not hide or apologize for who she is.
1:6 The sons of my mother were angry with me Her brothers, likely in charge of the family since her father is never mentioned, put her to work in the vineyards. "My vineyard" is herself: she was so busy with theirs that she had no time to care for her own life. The king loved her for who she was, not her looks or rank (1 Sam 16:7).
1:7 Tell me, you whom my soul loves, where do you pasture your flock She uses the language of shepherds, who rested their flocks in the shade at noon. She does not want to wander among other shepherds looking for him, like a veiled woman who might be mistaken for one of loose character. She wants to go straight to him, with honor.
1:8 beautiful one among the women The answer may come from him or from the women. Whatever she thinks of herself, others see her beauty. Kings were often called shepherds of their people, and in love poetry the king can play the part of a shepherd. Jesus, our King, calls Himself the good shepherd who knows His own (John 10:14).
1:9 To my mare among the chariots of Pharaoh I have likened you, my darling Now the man speaks. This was high praise. Solomon brought horses from Egypt (1 Kgs 10:28), and a beautiful mare in ornaments drew every eye. You stand out from everyone else. "My darling" is his favorite name for her, a dear companion. He loves her as a wife and treasures her as a friend.
1:12 my nard gave forth its fragrance Nard was a costly perfume from far away. Mary of Bethany poured pure nard on Jesus' feet (John 12:3). While the king is near, her perfume fills the air, and her love reaches out to him like that fragrance.
1:13 A bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me Women sometimes wore a little pouch of myrrh on a cord around the neck, so the fragrance stayed with them day and night. Her beloved is always near her heart.
1:14 in the vineyards of Engedi Engedi was an oasis by the Dead Sea, with springs and vineyards in the middle of the desert (1 Sam 24:1). Henna has fragrant clusters of small white flowers. He is to her like fresh blossoms in a dry land.
1:15 Look, you are beautiful, my darling; look, you are beautiful; your eyes are doves He says it twice because he means it. Doves are gentle and pure, and her eyes tell of a gentle heart. Most of us say I love you less often than we should.
1:17 The beams of our houses are cedars Some see an outdoor scene under tall trees, others the cedar-paneled rooms of the palace. Either way she dreams of a shared life, a place that is theirs. Love looks forward to a home.

SONG OF SONGS 2

1 I am the crocus of the Sharon, the lily of the valleys. 2 Like a lily among the thorns, so is my darling among the daughters. 3 Like an apple tree among the trees of the forest, so is my beloved among the sons. In his shade I delighted and sat down, and his fruit was sweet to my palate. 4 He has brought me into the house of the wine, and his banner over me is love. 5 Sustain me with the raisin cakes; refresh me with the apples, for I am sick with love. 6 His left hand is under my head, and his right hand embraces me. 7 I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), by gazelles or by the does of the field, that you not rouse and that you not arouse the love until it pleases.

The Call of Spring

8 The sound of my beloved! Look, this one is coming, leaping over the mountains, bounding over the hills. 9 My beloved is like a gazelle or a fawn of the stags. Look, this one is standing behind our wall, gazing from the windows, peering from the lattices. 10 My beloved answered and said to me, "Arise for yourself, my darling, my beautiful one, and come for yourself. 11 For look, the winter has passed; the rain has passed away; it has gone for itself. 12 The blossoms have appeared in the land; the time of the pruning has arrived, and the sound of the turtledove has been heard in our land. 13 The fig tree has ripened its early figs, and the vines in blossom have given forth fragrance. Arise for yourself, my darling, my beautiful one, and come for yourself. 14 My dove, in the clefts of the rock, in the hiding place of the steep way, show me your form; make me hear your voice, for your voice is sweet, and your form is lovely." 15 Seize for us foxes, little foxes ruining vineyards, and our vineyards are in blossom. 16 My beloved is mine, and I am his, who pastures among the lilies. 17 Until the day breathes and the shadows flee, turn; be for yourself, my beloved, like a gazelle or a fawn of the stags on the mountains of Bether (Bater).

2:1 I am the crocus of the Sharon, the lily of the valleys The Sharon was the coastal plain, covered with wildflowers in spring. She is not boasting. She calls herself one common flower among many. Hymns call Jesus the Rose of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley, but here the bride speaks of herself. Using the words of Him is a devotional use, and we should know the difference.
2:2 Like a lily among the thorns, so is my darling among the daughters He answers her humble words. You may call yourself an ordinary flower, but next to you the others seem like thorns. A good husband sees his wife this way.
2:3 Like an apple tree among the trees of the forest An apple tree stands out in a forest because it gives fruit and shade. In a hot land shade means rest and protection. A wife should find rest, safety and joy in her husband's love. It also pictures the rest Jesus offers (Matt 11:28).
2:4 his banner over me is love The house of wine is the banqueting hall. A banner was raised over an army or a camp to show who it belonged to. Everyone can see that she belongs to him and that he loves her (Exod 17:15). When a man's love is displayed openly over his wife, she is secure.
2:6 His left hand is under my head, and his right hand embraces me A picture of tender closeness and safety, repeated in 8:3. The poem describes no more than this, and neither will we.
2:7 that you not rouse and that you not arouse the love until it pleases The first of three times she says this (3:5; 8:4), and one of the most important verses in the book. To adjure is to put under a solemn oath. Right after speaking of her desire, she gives a warning. Desire is God's good gift, but it can be awakened too soon, and once stirred it is hard to put back to sleep. "Until it pleases" means the right time, and in the Song that is marriage (4:16-5:1).
2:7 I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem A word every young person needs. The world says follow your feelings. God says desire has its place: guard your heart and "make no provision for the flesh" (Rom 13:14; 1 Thess 4:3). Married people should guard against desire for anyone but their spouse. Waiting is not wasted. And anyone who awakened love too soon can find forgiveness in Christ (Ps 51:10).
2:9 standing behind our wall, gazing from the windows He has come to her family's house and looks through the lattice, the wooden screen over the window. He is close but respectful. He waits outside and calls to her.
2:11 the winter has passed; the rain has passed away In Israel winter is the cold, gray rainy season. In spring the land bursts to life. Flowers are out, vines are pruned and the turtledoves are back. The Hebrew word for pruning can also mean singing, so some read it as the time of singing.
2:13 Arise for yourself, my darling, my beautiful one, and come for yourself He repeats his invitation: come, enjoy this season with me. Married couples should not lose love's springtime. Make time to walk together and delight in each other, even after many years. Many Christians hear the call of Christ here, a sweet picture that fits the Bible's teaching, but the plain meaning is a young man calling his love into the spring.
2:14 My dove, in the clefts of the rock Doves nest in cracks of high cliffs, hard to reach. She is shy or still out of sight. He wants to see her face and hear her voice, not just admire her from a distance. Husbands, do you ask your wife what she thinks and feels, and listen?
2:15 Seize for us foxes, little foxes ruining vineyards Foxes dug around vines and ate tender shoots, and a vineyard in blossom was easily damaged. The vineyard often pictures love or the bride (1:6; 8:12). The little foxes are small things that damage a growing love: careless words, selfishness, neglect, jealousy, unresolved anger. Big problems often start as little foxes no one caught.
2:16 My beloved is mine, and I am his The heart of the Song: a statement of belonging, mutual and exclusive. Paul teaches the same about marriage (1 Cor 7:4). It also echoes God's covenant, "you, you will be My people" (Lev 26:12). Believers can say of Christ, He is mine and I am His (John 15:9).
2:17 Until the day breathes and the shadows flee Likely the cool breeze of evening or the dawn when shadows disappear. She asks him to come back swiftly. Bether is not known on any map. The name may mean mountains of separation, or cleft mountains, the mountains that keep them apart.
3:1 On my bed in the nights I sought him whom my soul loves Four times in these verses she calls him "him whom my soul loves." Her love comes from the depth of who she is. Many Bible teachers believe this is a dream or the anxious longing that comes at night, since a young woman of that day would not normally wander the city alone after dark (5:2). Either way, the fear of losing him is real.

sought him, and I did not find him. 2 Let me arise now and go around in the city, in the streets and in the open squares; let me seek him whom my soul loves. I sought him, and I did not find him. 3 The watchmen who go around in the city found me. "Have you seen him whom my soul loves?" 4 Scarcely had I passed from them when I found him whom my soul loves. I grasped him, and I would not let him go until I had brought him into the house of my mother, and into the chamber of her who conceived me. 5 I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), by gazelles or by the does of the field, that you not rouse and that you not arouse the love until it pleases.

The Wedding Procession

6 Who is this coming up from the wilderness like columns of smoke, perfumed with myrrh and frankincense, from every scented powder of a merchant? 7 Look, his bed, which belongs to Solomon (Shelomo)! Sixty mighty men are around it, from the mighty men of Israel (Yisra'el). 8 All of them gripping a sword, trained in war, each man has his sword on his thigh because of dread in the nights. 9 A litter King Solomon made for himself from the wood of Lebanon (Levanon). 10 Its posts he made of silver, its back of gold, its seat of purple; its interior was inlaid with love from the daughters of Jerusalem. 11 Go out and look, daughters of Zion (Tsiyon), on King Solomon, on the crown with which his mother crowned him on the day of his wedding, and on the day of the gladness of his heart.

You Are Beautiful, My Bride

1 Look, you are beautiful, my darling; look, you are beautiful; your eyes are doves behind your veil. Your hair is like the flock of the goats that have streamed down from the mountain of Gilead (Gilad). 2 Your teeth are like the flock of the shorn ewes that have come up from the washing, all of which bear twins, and there is no bereaved one among them. 3 Your lips are like a thread of scarlet, and your mouth is lovely. Your temple is like a slice of pomegranate behind your veil. 4 Your neck is like the tower of David, built in courses; the thousand shields are hung on it, all the small shields of the mighty men. 5 Your two breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle, which pasture among the lilies. 6 Until the day breathes and the shadows flee, I will go for myself to the mountain of the myrrh and to the hill of the frankincense. 7 All of you is beautiful, my darling, and there is no blemish in you.

4:7 Song 4:1; Song 5:16; Num 24:5

3:2 I sought him, and I did not find him She gets up and looks everywhere, and twice she says she did not find him. Real love feels the absence of the one it loves. The bride's longing pictures how a believer can long for God (Ps 63:1).
3:4 I would not let him go until I had brought him into the house of my mother Bringing him to her mother's house was a way of bringing him into her family, showing them the man she would marry. It looks ahead to the wedding that follows. The poem does not say anything improper happened. She simply wants him where her family is, and not to lose him again.
3:5 that you not rouse and that you not arouse the love until it pleases The second charge, word for word as in 2:7. Just when her longing is strongest she says again: wait. It falls right before the wedding procession, and the timing is the lesson. The Song shows the right order: longing, waiting, the public covenant of marriage, then the full joy of union. Intimacy outside marriage tries to take the gift without the covenant, and it always leaves wounds (Mark 10:9).
3:6 Who is this coming up from the wilderness like columns of smoke A crowd sees a procession coming from the wilderness, with dust or burning incense rising like columns of smoke and the air full of costly perfumes. Some think "Who is this?" means the bride brought from her country home, others the king's litter. Most likely the whole royal wedding procession is meant.
3:8 because of dread in the nights The "bed" of verse 7 is a litter, a covered seat carried on poles, guarded by sixty of Israel's mighty men (2 Sam 23:8-39). Travel through the wilderness could be dangerous at night. The king protects his bride and the wedding party. A husband who loves his wife will guard her body, her heart and her honor.
3:10 its interior was inlaid with love from the daughters of Jerusalem Cedar of Lebanon was the finest wood (1 Kgs 5:6), and silver, gold and costly purple were signs of royalty. The women of the city had lovingly decorated the inside. Marriage is a covenant before God and a joy for the whole community, and it is right to make the wedding beautiful.
3:11 on the crown with which his mother crowned him on the day of his wedding Not his royal crown but a wedding crown, placed on his head by his mother Bathsheba as a family blessing. His wedding day was "the day of the gladness of his heart," and a man's gladness in marrying the woman he loves should be seen.
3:11 Go out and look, daughters of Zion, on King Solomon This scene points beyond itself to the day when Christ the King receives His bride, for "the marriage of the Lamb has come" (Rev 19:7; 2 Cor 11:2). For believers that is not a story about someone else. It is our future.
4:1 your eyes are doves behind your veil He begins as in 1:15, saying it twice. Brides wore a veil at their wedding (Gen 24:65). The goats of Israel were mostly black, and a herd flowing down the hills of Gilead in the evening light is a picture of her long, dark hair. These word pictures are not a portrait to draw detail by detail. They are meant to be felt: you are lovely, and you move me.
4:3 Your temple is like a slice of pomegranate behind your veil The word may mean her cheek or temple. A cut pomegranate is rosy red, perhaps the blush of a bride. Her lips are red and her words lovely.
4:4 Your neck is like the tower of David Her neck is tall and graceful, hung with necklaces like a tower hung with shields for display (Ezek 27:11). She carries herself with dignity and honor.
4:5 Your two breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle He praises her womanly beauty with a gentle and tender picture. It is not crude. It is the language of a husband delighting in his wife, the rejoicing Proverbs commands in "the wife of your youth" (Prov 5:18).
4:6 I will go for myself to the mountain of the myrrh and to the hill of the frankincense He echoes her words in 2:17. These fragrant hills picture the bride herself. Now that they are married, the waiting of 2:7 and 3:5 is over.
4:7 All of you is beautiful, my darling, and there is no blemish in you Not that she had no flaws, but that his love sees her as wholly beautiful. It pictures Christ's love for His church, whom He will present to Himself "not having spot or wrinkle" (Eph 5:27). We are full of flaws, but Christ has washed us.

A Garden Locked

8 With me from Lebanon (Levanon), bride, with me from Lebanon you will come. You will descend from the top of Amana, from the top of Senir and Mount Hermon (Chermon), from the dens of lions, from the mountains of leopards. 9 You have stolen my heart, my sister, bride; you have stolen my heart with one of your eyes, with one chain of your necklaces. 10 How beautiful is your love, my sister, bride! How much better is your love than wine, and the fragrance of your oils than all spices! 11 Your lips drip flowing honey, bride; honey and milk are under your tongue, and the fragrance of your garments is like the fragrance of Lebanon. 12 A garden locked is my sister, bride, a spring locked, a fountain sealed. 13 Your shoots are an orchard of pomegranates with fruit of choice things, henna plants with nard plants, 14 nard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon, with all trees of frankincense, myrrh and aloes, with all the finest spices. 15 A fountain of gardens, a well of living water, and streams from Lebanon. 16 Awake, north wind, and come, south wind! Make my garden breathe; let its spices flow. Let my beloved come to his garden and eat the fruit of its choice things.

SONG OF SONGS 5

1 I have come to my garden, my sister, bride; I have gathered my myrrh with my spice; I have eaten my honeycomb with my honey; I have drunk my wine with my milk. Eat, friends; drink and become drunk, beloved ones!

The Door Opened Too Late

2 I was sleeping, and my heart was awake. The sound of my beloved knocking! "Open to me, my sister, my darling, my dove, my perfect one, for my head is filled with dew, my locks with the drops of night." 3 I have taken off my tunic; how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet; how shall I soil them? 4 My beloved stretched out his hand from the hole, and my inner parts were in turmoil over him. 5 I myself arose to open to my beloved, and my hands dripped myrrh, and my fingers dripped flowing myrrh on the handles of the bolt. 6 I myself opened to my beloved, and my beloved had turned away; he had passed on. My soul went out when he spoke. I sought him, and I did not find him; I called him, and he did not answer me. 7 The watchmen who go around in the city found me; they struck me; they bruised me; the watchmen of the walls lifted my shawl from on me. 8 I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim): if you find my beloved, what will you tell him? That I am sick with love.

4:8 With me from Lebanon, bride For the first time he calls her "bride," six times through 5:1. The wedding has come. Amana, Senir and Hermon are high, wild mountains in the far north (Deut 3:9), home to lions and leopards. He calls her down from the high, dangerous places, perhaps from her old life or her fears, to be close to him in safety (Gen 2:24).

4:9 You have stolen my heart, my sister, bride One look from her and he is undone. "My sister" was a common word of love in that day for someone very close and dear. It does not mean they were related.

4:11 honey and milk are under your tongue Her kisses and her words are sweet. Milk and honey recall the Promised Land (Exod 3:8). She is to him a land of plenty and delight.

4:12 A garden locked is my sister, bride, a spring locked, a fountain sealed One of the most important pictures in the Song. A locked garden was walled and shut to outsiders, and a sealed spring was covered so no one else could drink. She has kept herself pure for him. Purity before marriage is a gift a bride and groom give each other (Prov 5:15-17). If you have not kept yourself pure, do not despair: "you were washed" (1 Cor 6:11).

4:16 Let my beloved come to his garden and eat the fruit of its choice things The bride answers. In verse 12 it was a garden locked. Now she calls it "my garden" and then "his garden." On their wedding night, in the covenant of marriage, she gives herself to him freely and with joy. The poem says it with gentle pictures, and that is all we need to say. The marriage bed is "undefiled" (Heb 13:4), and as in Eden there is no shame in it (Gen 2:25).

5:1 I have come to my garden, my sister, bride The groom answers her invitation of 4:16. He uses the pictures of chapter 4 to say their marriage is now complete, and he receives her love as his own treasure. Notice how often he says "my."

5:1 Eat, friends; drink and become drunk, beloved ones Most likely the wedding guests or friends, rejoicing with the couple and blessing their love. Some Bible teachers believe it is God Himself, who made marriage, blessing the union. The Hebrew does not tell us. "Become drunk" is poetry for drinking deeply of love (Prov 5:19). It is not permission for drunkenness, which Scripture forbids (Eph 5:18).

5:2 I was sleeping, and my heart was awake Time has passed, and the bride is now a wife. She is half awake, perhaps dreaming, as in 3:1-4. Her husband comes to the door late at night, wet with the dew, and calls her by four tender names.

5:3 I have taken off my tunic; how shall I put it on She has gone to bed and washed her dusty feet, and getting up would be a bother. These are small excuses. She is not angry, just comfortable. Many marriages suffer not from great betrayals but from moments like this: too tired, too busy or too comfortable to respond to a spouse's love. Not now, said often enough, becomes distance.

5:4 My beloved stretched out his hand from the hole Doors often had a hole near the latch so a person could reach in and open it. Seeing his hand, her heart is stirred and her love rushes back.

5:6 my beloved had turned away; he had passed on She was too late, and her delay cost her his presence. Many Christians have heard here a picture of the Lord knocking at the door of our hearts (Rev 3:20). The Song is first about a husband and wife, but the lesson fits our walk with God too. When He calls, answer quickly.

5:7 they struck me; they bruised me In 3:3 the watchmen only found her. Now they beat her and take her shawl, perhaps mistaking her for a woman of bad character. Those who should have protected her harmed her. Scripture does not hide such things, and God sees them (Ps 34:18). If you are being harmed, please tell someone you trust and get help.

5:8 That I am sick with love It begins like the refrain of 2:7, but instead of a warning it is a plea. She does not blame him or say he should not have left. She says, tell him I love him. That is the beginning of healing in any marriage.

5:9 What is your beloved more than a beloved What makes him so special? Their question gives her the chance to say what she loves about him. When love has cooled for a moment, it helps to remember and say out loud what you love about the other.

beloved, that thus you have adjured us? 10 My beloved is dazzling and ruddy, conspicuous above ten thousand. 11 His head is gold of pure gold; his locks are curls, black like the raven. 12 His eyes are like doves beside channels of water, washing in the milk, sitting on fullness. 13 His cheeks are like a bed of the spice, towers of aromatic herbs; his lips are lilies dripping flowing myrrh. 14 His hands are rods of gold filled with the chrysolite; his abdomen is a plate of ivory covered with sapphires. 15 His legs are pillars of marble founded on bases of pure gold; his appearance is like Lebanon (Levanon), choice like the cedars. 16 His mouth is sweetness, and all of him is desirable. This is my beloved, and this is my friend, daughters of Jerusalem.

SONG OF SONGS 6

1 Where has your beloved gone, beautiful one among the women? Where has your beloved turned, that we may seek him with you? 2 My beloved has gone down to his garden, to the beds of the spice, to pasture in the gardens and to gather lilies. 3 I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine, who pastures among the lilies.

Love Restored

4 You are beautiful, my darling, like Tirzah (Tirtsa), lovely like Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), fearsome like the troops with banners. 5 Turn your eyes away from before me, for they have overwhelmed me. Daughters saw her, and they called her blessed; queens and concubines, and they praised her.
10 Who is this who looks down like the dawn, beautiful like the full moon, pure like the sun, fearsome like the troops with banners? 11 To a garden of nuts I went down, to look at the green shoots of the valley, to see whether the vine had budded, whether the pomegranates had bloomed. 12 I did not know; my soul set me on the chariots of my noble people. 13 Return, return, Shulammite; return, return, that we may look on you. What will you look at in the Shulammite, as at the dance of the two camps?

6:13 Gen 32:2; Song 2:14; Jer 3:12-14,22

5:10 My beloved is dazzling and ruddy, conspicuous above ten thousand He is radiant and healthy, ruddy like David (1 Sam 16:12). In a crowd she would pick him out at once. He praised her from head to toe in chapter 4, and now she praises him. Love in the Song is never one-sided.
5:12 His eyes are like doves beside channels of water He praised her eyes as doves (1:15; 4:1), and now she says the same of his: clear, bright and gentle, like white doves by a stream. "Sitting on fullness" may mean well set, like jewels in a ring.
5:14 His hands are rods of gold filled with the chrysolite She describes a man in his strength in the modest language of art, like a statue of the finest materials, gold, ivory and precious stones.
5:16 This is my beloved, and this is my friend Perhaps the most beautiful line in the chapter. He is the man she desires and also her friend. Romance without friendship burns out, and friendship without romance grows cold. Christians have often read this and thought of Jesus (Ps 45:2). Could you tell someone what you love about Him?
6:1 Where has your beloved gone, beautiful one among the women Her praise moved the daughters of Jerusalem, and now they want to help her look for him. When believers speak with love and joy about Jesus, others want to know where to find Him.
6:2 My beloved has gone down to his garden His garden is the bride herself (4:12-16; 5:1). Some think of a real garden, but many take it as a poetic way of saying he has come back to her. He has not gone far. His heart is still with her.
6:3 I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine The words of 2:16 in a new order. Early love often thinks first of what it has. Mature love thinks first of whom it belongs to. After the hard night of chapter 5 she has learned to give herself first. We too belong to Christ first, for we were bought with a price (1 Cor 6:19-20).
6:4 You are beautiful, my darling, like Tirzah, lovely like Jerusalem Tirzah was a lovely northern city whose name means pleasant. "Fearsome like the troops with banners" means her beauty is overwhelming. Notice what he does not say. He does not scold her or bring up the night at the door. That is forgiveness, for love "does not count the evil" (1 Cor 13:5; Eph 4:32).
6:5 Turn your eyes away from before me, for they have overwhelmed me He is lovestruck. The praise that follows is almost the same as on their wedding day (4:1-3). Nothing has changed. Their distance did not lessen his love. Couples married many years should still be able to say what they said on their wedding day, and mean it.
6:8 Sixty queens are they, and eighty concubines Kings had many wives. This may describe Solomon's court at the time, or simply mean however many others there are, it makes no difference. Solomon later took far more, and they turned his heart from God (1 Kgs 11:3-4).
6:9 One is she, my dove, my perfect one Against all the others, there is only one for him. This is the heart of God's design for marriage: one man and one woman, each the only one for the other. Even the other women praise her, like the worthy wife whose husband "praises her" (Prov 31:28).
6:10 Who is this who looks down like the dawn, beautiful like the full moon, pure like the sun Perhaps the queens praising her, or her husband. The poetic words for moon and sun mean the white one and the hot one. The light grows: dawn, then moon, then sun. That is how love sees the one it loves, and how God sees His people (Prov 4:18).
6:11 To a garden of nuts I went down Most likely the bride goes down to a walnut orchard to see whether spring has come. In the Song spring is the season of love (2:11-13). She is checking whether their love has blossomed again.
6:12 I did not know; my soul set me on the chariots of my noble people One of the hardest verses in the Bible to translate, and translators render it many ways. One common reading is that before she knew it, her heart carried her away with joy, as if in a royal chariot. We should be humble here and not build anything on it.
6:13 Return, return, Shulammite The only place her title appears. The crowd calls her back so they can look at her. The dance of the two camps may be a well-known dance, perhaps tied to Mahanaim, which means two camps (Gen 32:2). By the end of this chapter the distance is gone. Love that is tested and forgiven can come back stronger than before.

The Delight of Married Love

1 How beautiful are your feet in the sandals, daughter of a noble! The curves of your thighs are like jewels, the work of the hands of a craftsman. 2 Your navel is a rounded bowl; let it not lack the mixed wine. Your belly is a heap of wheat fenced around with lilies. 3 Your two breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle. 4 Your neck is like the tower of ivory; your eyes are pools in Heshbon (Cheshbon) by the gate of Bath-rabbim (Bat-Rabim); your nose is like the tower of Lebanon (Levanon), which watches the face of Damascus (Dameseq). 5 Your head on you is like Carmel (Karmel), and the hair of your head is like the purple; a king is bound by the tresses. 6 How beautiful you are, and how pleasant you are, love, in delights! 7 This stature of yours is like a palm tree, and your breasts are like clusters. 8 I said, "I will go up on the palm tree; let me take hold of its fruit stalks. And let your breasts be, please, like the clusters of the vine, and the fragrance of your nose like the apples, 9 and your mouth like the good wine, going to my beloved smoothly, gliding over the lips of sleepers." 10 I am my beloved's, and his desire is toward me. 11 Come, my beloved, let us go out to the field; let us lodge in the villages. 12 Let us rise early to the vineyards; let us see whether the vine has budded, whether the blossom has opened, whether the pomegranates have bloomed. There I will give my love to you. 13 The mandrakes have given forth fragrance, and over our doorways are all choice things, new and also old, my beloved, which I have stored up for you.

Love Is Strong Like Death

1 Who will make you like a brother to me, nursing at the breasts of my mother? I would find you outside; I would kiss you; also they would not despise me. 2 I would lead you; I would bring you into the house of my mother; she would teach me; I would give you to drink from the spiced wine, from the juice of my pomegranate. 3 His left hand is under my head, and his right hand embraces me. 4 I adjure you, daughters of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim): why would you rouse, and why would you arouse the love until it pleases? 5 Who is this coming up from the wilderness, leaning on her beloved? Under the apple tree I aroused you; there your mother was in labor with you; there she was in labor and

8:5 John 1:48; Song 3:6; Song 2:3

7:1 How beautiful are your feet in the sandals, daughter of a noble In chapter 4 he praised her from the head down. Now he begins with her feet and moves upward, perhaps as she dances (6:13). The country girl of the vineyards (1:6) is a princess in his eyes. Love lifts the one it loves. Her graceful form is like the work of a master artist, and he is praising God's handiwork in her (Ps 139:14).
7:2 Your belly is a heap of wheat fenced around with lilies Pictures of plenty and celebration. Mixed wine was served at feasts, and a heap of wheat after harvest meant food for the year. She is to him a feast, a harvest, a full blessing. A healthy, full form was a picture of life and fruitfulness.
7:4 your eyes are pools in Heshbon Heshbon, east of the Jordan, was known for its reservoirs. Her eyes are deep, clear and still. A tower stood for strength and dignity, so he praises the noble shape of her face and her bearing.
7:5 a king is bound by the tresses Mount Carmel rises above the sea, crowned with green forest. Her hair is so dark it shines with a purple sheen, the color of royalty. The most powerful man in the land is held captive by his wife's beauty.
7:8 I will go up on the palm tree The date palm is tall and graceful with its fruit in clusters. Using that picture he says he desires her and wants to be close to her. These are a husband's words to his wife, kept in picture language. The Bible is not shy about saying a husband's desire for his wife is good and right.
7:9 and your mouth like the good wine, going to my beloved smoothly Grapes, apples and wine picture sweetness and refreshment. Then she seems to finish his sentence. Take three things from these verses: God approves of married love and does not want couples ashamed of it; it is spoken of with honor and tenderness, never crude; and it belongs inside marriage (Heb 13:4). The Song lifts it back to where God placed it.
7:10 I am my beloved's, and his desire is toward me The third time she says she belongs to him (2:16; 6:3), but now she does not add that he is hers. She is secure enough not to claim him. The word "desire" is used elsewhere of Eve after the fall (Gen 3:16), when sin brought struggle into marriage. Many Bible teachers see here a glimpse of marriage restored, as Christ restores what sin broke. Husbands, does your wife feel secure in your love?
7:12 There I will give my love to you It is spring again (2:11-13; 6:11). In chapter 5 she hesitated to open the door. Now she is the one inviting him, freely and with joy.
7:13 The mandrakes have given forth fragrance Mandrakes had a strong, pleasant smell and were believed to help love and the bearing of children (Gen 30:14-16). Here they say it is the season for love.
7:13 new and also old, my beloved, which I have stored up for you Married love should have both: the old delights of memories and years together, and new ones too. A couple married forty years can still surprise each other. After courtship, wedding, testing and forgiveness, love is fresh, secure and full of joy. It reminds us of Christ's love, new every morning (Lam 3:22-23).
8:1 Who will make you like a brother to me In that culture a husband and wife did not show affection in public, but a sister could kiss her brother in the street and no one would think anything of it. She wishes she could show her love for her husband freely anywhere.
8:3 His left hand is under my head, and his right hand embraces me The same words as 2:6. Then she longed for this embrace before the wedding. Now she is a wife and rests in it. What she waited for, she now enjoys.
8:4 why would you rouse, and why would you arouse the love until it pleases The third and last charge (2:7; 3:5), shorter, and now a question. She has lived the whole story: longing, waiting, wedding, joy, the hard night and the restoring. From the far side of marriage she tells the young women it was worth the wait. God's timing for love is not a cage. It is a protection.
8:5 Who is this coming up from the wilderness, leaning on her beloved An echo of 3:6. Then it was a grand royal parade. Now it is simply a husband and wife walking together, and she leans on him. That is a mature marriage: two people who have walked through hard places and lean on each other. It also pictures the believer leaning on Christ through the wilderness of this life.
8:5 Under the apple tree I aroused you In 2:3 she compared him to an apple tree. Now she remembers a place, perhaps where his mother bore him or where she first stirred his love. Love remembers where it began.

bore you. 6 Set me like the seal on your heart, like the seal on your arm, for love is strong like death, jealousy is hard like Sheol; its flashes are flashes of fire, a flame of the LORD. 7 Many waters are not able to quench the love, and rivers will not overflow it. If a man would give all the wealth of his house for the love, they would utterly despise him.

The Little Sister and the Vineyard

8 We have a little sister, and she has no breasts. What shall we do for our sister on the day when she is spoken for? 9 If she is a wall, we will build on her a battlement of silver; and if she is a door, we will enclose her with a board of cedar. 10 I am a wall, and my breasts are like the towers; then I was in his eyes like one who finds peace. 11 A vineyard belonged to Solomon (Shelomo) at Baal-hamon; he gave the vineyard to the keepers; each man would bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver. 12 My vineyard, which is mine, is before me. The thousand is for you, Solomon, and two hundred for those who keep its fruit. 13 You who dwell in the gardens, companions are listening for your voice; make me hear it. 14 Flee, my beloved, and be for yourself like a gazelle or a fawn of the stags on the mountains of spices.

8:7 Rom 8:36; Rom 8:39; Rom 12:20
8:8 Ps 2:8; 1 Pet 2:12; Ezek 16:46,55,56,61
8:9 Song 2:9; Rev 21:12-19; Isa 58:12
8:10 Ezek 16:7; Song 4:5; Song 7:3,4,7,8
8:11 Matt 21:42; Matt 21:43; Eccl 2:4
8:12 Song 1:6; Prov 4:23; Acts 20:28
8:13 Song 1:7; Song 2:13; Song 4:16
8:14 Song 2:17; Rev 22:17,20; Luke 19:12

8:6 Set me like the seal on your heart, like the seal on your arm The high point of the Song. A seal was a stone or ring carved with a person's mark, worn over the heart or on the hand (Gen 38:18). It was precious, personal and never given away. On his heart she is always in his love, and on his arm always in his strength. It pictures the lifelong, exclusive covenant of marriage. God says, "I have engraved you on My palms" (Isa 49:16), and believers are sealed with the Holy Spirit (Eph 1:13).
8:6 for love is strong like death, jealousy is hard like Sheol Death is the one power no one can resist, and Sheol never gives back what it takes. True love takes hold and will not let go. Jealousy here is not sinful envy but a burning zeal to guard what is rightly yours. God Himself is "a jealous God" (Exod 34:14), and Paul was jealous for the church with the jealousy of God (2 Cor 11:2). True love is fierce in its faithfulness.
8:6 a flame of the LORD The only time the LORD's name appears in the Song. The Hebrew word for flame ends with Yah, the short form of God's name. Some take it as a mighty flame, the greatest of flames, but the SLB follows "a flame of the LORD." Either way, true love is a fire God Himself kindled. When we honor it, we honor Him. When we cheapen it, we despise His gift.
8:7 Many waters are not able to quench the love Floods of trouble, hardship, sickness, distance and pain cannot drown real love (Ps 69:1). That is why couples promise to love in sickness and in health until death parts them. Christ's love is stronger than death. The floods of judgment rolled over Him at the cross and His love did not go out, and nothing can separate us from it (Rom 8:38-39).
8:7 If a man would give all the wealth of his house for the love, they would utterly despise him Love cannot be bought. Solomon, the richest of men, knew his gold could not buy what the bride gave him freely. God's love in Christ cannot be bought either. It is a gift we receive by grace through faith (Eph 2:8).
8:8 We have a little sister, and she has no breasts These seem to be her brothers (1:6), remembering when she was a little girl. They had a duty to protect her until the day she was promised in marriage.
8:9 If she is a wall, we will build on her a battlement of silver If she proved firm and pure, like a wall, they would honor her with silver. If she was like a door open to anyone, they would board her up with cedar. Either way they would guard her purity. Parents, brothers, grandparents and churches all have a part in helping young people grow up pure.
8:10 I am a wall She kept herself pure and came to her husband with nothing to hide. The Hebrew for peace is shalom, which sounds like Solomon and Shulammite. She found shalom with Solomon. Purity before marriage led to peace in marriage. Those who failed can still find peace, for Christ forgives, but the choice to wait is never wasted.
8:12 My vineyard, which is mine, is before me In 1:6 she had not kept her own vineyard. Now she has. Her vineyard is herself. She is not one of Solomon's possessions rented out for profit. You may have your thousand pieces of silver, she says, but my vineyard I give you myself, freely, out of love, and that is worth more than silver (8:7).
8:14 Flee, my beloved, and be for yourself like a gazelle The last words of the Song. She calls him to come quickly. The mountains of separation (2:17) are now mountains of spices. The book ends with love still alive and eager. The Bible ends the same way, with the bride saying, "Come," and the church answering, "Yes, come, Lord Jesus!" (Rev 22:17, 20). Until He comes for us, we wait, watch and love Him.

ISAIAH

Introduction

Title

The book is named for its writer, Isaiah. His name means the LORD is salvation, and that one phrase sums up the whole book. Isaiah is the first of the Major Prophets, called major because of their length, not because they matter more than the others. It has 66 chapters and 1,292 verses, and the New Testament quotes Isaiah more than any other prophet.

The book names its writer: Isaiah the son of Amoz (1:1). He was a prophet in Jerusalem, married to a woman he calls the prophetess (8:3), and the father of at least two sons whose names were messages from God, Shear-jashub, a remnant will return (7:3), and Maher-shalal-hash-baz (8:1-3). Some scholars teach that chapters 40-66, or parts of them, were written by later, unnamed writers during or after the exile. I take the book's own claim at face value, and the New Testament does too. John quotes 53:1 and 6:10 side by side and says, "Isaiah said these things when he saw His glory" (John 12:41). Jesus read from the second half at Nazareth from the scroll of Isaiah (Luke 4:16-21).

Isaiah received his visions in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah (1:1). His call came in the year King Uzziah died (6:1), about 739 B.C. He lived through the fall of the northern kingdom in 722 B.C. and Sennacherib's invasion in 701 B.C., and he records Sennacherib's death (37:38), which took place about 681 B.C. So his ministry ran from about 739 to 681 B.C., roughly sixty years, and the book was written in Jerusalem during those years.

Assyria was the superpower of Isaiah's day, and its armies were feared for their cruelty. Judah was a small kingdom caught between Assyria to the north and Egypt to the south, and its kings kept trying to save themselves by deals with one side or the other. Ahaz turned to Assyria when Israel and Aram attacked him (2 Kgs 16:5-9). Assyria took Damascus about 732 B.C. and Samaria in 722 B.C. In 701 B.C. Sennacherib took Judah's fortified cities and surrounded Jerusalem, and the angel of the LORD struck down his army in one night (37:36). Isaiah's message never changed: trust the LORD, not horses, chariots or treaties (31:1).

Isaiah also looked far ahead. He warned that Babylon, then a minor rebel, would carry away the king's treasures and sons (39:6-7), which happened when Jerusalem fell in 586 B.C. He named Cyrus, the Persian king who would let the Jews go home, about 150 years before he did it (44:28-45:1). Cyrus took Babylon in 539 B.C., and the first exiles returned in 538 B.C. Beyond that, Isaiah saw the Messiah's first coming, His suffering in our place, and His return to reign.

The book has two great parts. Chapters 1-39 are heavy with sin and judgment. Chapters 40-66 open with "Comfort, comfort My people" (40:1) and close with the new heavens and new earth (65:17; 66:22). In 1947 a complete scroll of Isaiah was found among the Dead Sea Scrolls near Qumran. It was copied more than a hundred years before Jesus was born, and apart from small spelling differences it reads remarkably close to the Hebrew text our Bibles were translated from. God has kept His Word.

Themes

The holiness of God. Isaiah saw the Lord high and lifted up and heard the seraphim cry, "Holy, holy, holy" (6:3). His favorite title for God is the Holy One of Israel, used about twenty-five times.

Sin and judgment. God put His people on trial (1:2-31). Empty religion, pride, injustice and idols bring judgment, first through Assyria and Babylon, and finally in the Day of the LORD, when God steps into history to judge the world.

Trust in the LORD alone. Again and again Judah leaned on Egypt or Assyria. Isaiah called them to wait for the LORD, who gives power to the faint (40:29-31) and keeps in peace the one who trusts Him (26:3).

The remnant. God always keeps a faithful few. Isaiah's son was named for it (7:3; 10:20-22).

God alone knows the future. Idols cannot tell what is coming. The LORD is "declaring the end from the beginning" (46:10), and He proved it by naming Cyrus and Babylon ahead of time.

The coming King and the Servant. A Child is born who is Mighty God (9:6), a Branch from Jesse rules in righteousness (11:1-5), and the Servant of the LORD suffers for the sins of His people and is exalted (52:13-53:12).

Salvation for Israel and the nations. God has not cast off Israel. A Redeemer will come to Zion (59:20), and Israel will be restored in the kingdom. The Servant is also a light to the nations (49:6), and the call goes out, "Turn to Me and be saved, all the ends of the earth" (45:22).

The kingdom and the new creation. Isaiah describes a time when Christ reigns from Jerusalem, nations stop making war, and the animal world is at peace (2:2-4; 11:6-9; 65:18-25), and beyond it the new heavens and new earth (65:17; 66:22).

Christ in Isaiah

Isaiah shows us Jesus more fully than any other Old Testament prophet. He is the virgin's son called Immanuel, God with us (7:14; Matt 1:22-23). He is the great light in Galilee (9:1-2; Matt 4:12-16) and the Child born and Son given who is "Mighty God" and reigns on David's throne forever (9:6-7; Luke 1:31-33). He is the shoot from the stump of Jesse with the Spirit resting on Him (11:1-2, 10; Rom 15:12), the One whose way the voice in the wilderness prepared (40:3; Matt 3:1-3), and the gentle Servant who won't break a crushed reed (42:1-4; Matt 12:15-21).

The fourth Servant Song (52:13-53:12) reads as if it were written at the foot of the cross, though it was written about seven hundred years earlier. "He was pierced for our transgressions" (53:5). He was silent like a lamb before its shearers, buried with a rich man, numbered with the transgressors, and then He sees offspring and prolongs His days, the resurrection foretold (53:7-12; Acts 8:32-35; Luke 22:37).

At Nazareth Jesus read 61:1-2 and said, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled" (Luke 4:21). He stopped in the middle of a sentence, before the day of vengeance. Some of Isaiah's prophecies were fulfilled at His first coming, and some wait for His second, when He returns as the warrior from Edom (63:1-6), the Redeemer comes to Zion (59:20; Rom 11:26), and He reigns as King.

One book or several writers (chapters 40-66). The notes take the book's own claim and the New Testament's witness that Isaiah wrote it all (John 12:38-41), and they mention the other view.

The virgin (7:14). The Hebrew almah is a young woman of marriageable age, never clearly used of a married woman, and the Greek translators before Jesus chose the word for virgin. The sign was given to the house of David and fulfilled in Jesus (Matt 1:22-23). Teachers disagree whether there was also a child in Ahaz's day.

The fallen star (14:12-15). The first meaning is the king of Babylon. Behind him, as with the king of Tyre (Ezek 28), many see Satan, whose pride the king copied.

Children in judgment (13:16). The verse describes the horror of war without approving it. I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).

Calamity from God (45:7). The word means disaster, not moral evil. God rules over hard days as well as good, but He is never the author of sin (Jas 1:13).

The LORD pleased to crush Him (53:10). God did not delight in His Son's pain. He delighted in the plan that would save sinners (Acts 2:23).

Sacrifices in the kingdom (56:7; 60:7). Christ's one sacrifice took away sin for good (Heb 10:12-14). Teachers differ on offerings in the Millennium, and the notes hold the memorial view loosely.

Death in the new creation (65:17-25). Verse 17 points to the eternal new heavens and new earth, but verse 20 still has death, so the notes read 65:18-25 as the Millennium, its first stage.

The undying worm (66:24). Jesus used these words for hell (Mark 9:48). Isaiah offers mercy chapter after chapter and does not pretend there is no cost to refusing it.

The Great Case Against Judah

1 The vision of Isaiah (Yeshayahu) the son of Amoz (Amots), which he saw concerning Judah (Yehuda) and Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) in the days of Uzziah (Uziyahu), Jotham (Yotam), Ahaz (Achaz), and Hezekiah (Chizqiyahu), the kings of Judah. 2 Hear, heavens, and give ear, earth, for the LORD has spoken: "Sons I have reared and brought up, and they have transgressed against Me. 3 An ox knows its owner, and a donkey the feeding trough of its master; Israel (Yisra'el) does not know; My people does not understand." 4 Woe, sinning nation, a people heavy with iniquity, a seed of evildoers, sons who act corruptly! They have forsaken the LORD; they have spurned the Holy One of Israel; they have become estranged backward. 5 Why will you be struck again? You will add revolt. The whole head is sick, and the whole heart is faint. 6 From the sole of the foot and to the head there is no soundness in it: bruise and welt and fresh wound; they have not been pressed out, and they have not been bound up, and it has not been softened with the oil. 7 Your land is a desolation; your cities are burned with fire; your ground, in front of you strangers are devouring it, and it is a desolation like the overthrow of strangers. 8 And the daughter of Zion (Tsiyon) has been left like a shelter in a vineyard, like a lodging hut in a cucumber field, like a besieged city. 9 Unless the LORD of armies had left us a survivor, a few, we would have been like Sodom (Sedom); we would have resembled Gomorrah (Amora). 10 Hear the word of the LORD, rulers of Sodom; give ear to the law of our God, people of Gomorrah. 11 "Why is the multitude of your sacrifices to Me?" says the LORD. "I am sated with burnt offerings of rams and the fat of fatlings, and in the blood of bulls and lambs and male goats I do not delight. 12 When you come to appear before My face, who has required this from your hand, to trample My courts? 13 Do not continue to bring a grain offering of worthlessness; incense, it is an abomination to Me. New moon and Sabbath, the calling of a convocation: I am not able to endure wickedness and solemn assembly. 14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts My soul hates; they have become a burden on Me; I am weary of bearing them. 15 And when you spread out your hands, I will hide My eyes from you; also when you multiply prayer, I will not be hearing; your hands are full of blood. 16 Wash; make yourselves clean; remove the evil of your deeds from before My eyes; cease to do evil; 17 learn to do good; seek justice; set right the oppressor; vindicate the fatherless; plead for the widow."

1:17 Acts 3:19; James 1:27; Jer 22:3,15,16

1:1 The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz The title for the whole book. Isaiah's name means the LORD is salvation, the heart of all he wrote. He served under four kings of Judah, from about 740 B.C. into the early 600s B.C. Some scholars split the book among two or three later writers. The New Testament credits both halves to Isaiah (John 12:38-41), and I believe one prophet wrote all sixty-six chapters.
1:2 Hear, heavens, and give ear, earth God calls creation as witnesses, as Moses did (Deut 32:1). The picture is a courtroom, and God brings a lawsuit against His people. His complaint is personal. They are "sons" He raised, and they turned their backs on their Father. Sin is first of all a broken relationship.
1:3 An ox knows its owner Even dull farm animals know who feeds them. God's people have forgotten who gave them everything. It is easy to enjoy God's blessings every day and never stop to think where they came from.
1:4 they have spurned the Holy One of Israel One of Isaiah's favorite titles, used about twenty-five times and rare elsewhere. It comes from what he saw in chapter 6. God is holy, set apart from all sin, and yet He has bound Himself to Israel.
1:5 Why will you be struck again Judah has been disciplined again and again, and still they rebel. Discipline is meant to turn us back to God. When it only makes us harder, the problem is in the heart.
1:6 they have not been pressed out, and they have not been bound up No healthy spot is left, and no one has cleaned or bandaged the wounds. Only God can heal wounds like these, and He is the One they have walked away from.
1:7 your cities are burned with fire Real invasions, the worst in 701 B.C., when the Assyrian king Sennacherib seized the fortified cities of Judah (2 Kgs 18:13). Assyria, based in what is now northern Iraq, was the great empire of that day.
1:8 the daughter of Zion has been left like a shelter in a vineyard A tender name for Jerusalem. Zion was the hill of the city and temple. Jerusalem stands alone like a flimsy watchman's hut after harvest, as it did in 701 B.C., surrounded while the rest of Judah lay in ruins.
1:9 Unless the LORD of armies had left us a survivor, a few The first mention of the remnant, a small group God keeps for Himself when judgment falls on the rest. Without it Judah would have been wiped out like Sodom (Gen 19). Paul quotes this verse to show God has always kept a faithful remnant in Israel (Rom 9:29).
1:10 rulers of Sodom That must have shocked his listeners. In their behavior God's people looked like the most wicked cities in their history.
1:11 Why is the multitude of your sacrifices to Me God commanded these sacrifices, but they had become a show. The people went through the motions while living as they pleased. God never wanted animal blood by itself. He wanted their hearts (1 Sam 15:22).
1:13 I am not able to endure wickedness and solemn assembly God cannot stand iniquity and worship side by side. When we come to church on Sunday and live in open sin the rest of the week, we do what Judah did. Notice that He calls them "your" feasts (v. 14), not His. They had made His gifts their own religious routine.
1:15 your hands are full of blood People prayed with hands spread toward heaven. God closes His eyes to hands stained with violence and injustice. He does not refuse a repentant sinner, but He will not be bribed by long prayers while we hold on to sin (Ps 66:18).
1:17 learn to do good; seek justice Good here is not more sacrifices but justice for the weak. Orphans and widows had no one to stand up for them and were easy to cheat. God expects His people to defend them (Jas 1:27).

Come Now, and Let Us Argue

18 "Come now, and let us argue the case together," says the LORD. "Though your sins are like scarlet, they will become white like snow; though they are red like crimson, they will be like wool. 19 If you are willing and you obey, you will eat the good of the land. 20 And if you refuse and you rebel, you will be eaten by the sword." For the mouth of the LORD has spoken. 21 How the faithful town has become a prostitute! She was full of justice; righteousness would lodge in her, and now murderers. 22 Your silver has become dross; your drink is diluted with the water. 23 Your princes are rebellious and companions of thieves; every one of them loves a bribe and pursues rewards. They do not vindicate the fatherless, and the case of the widow does not come to them. 24 Therefore declares the Lord, the LORD of armies, the Mighty One of Israel: "Woe! I will get relief from My adversaries, and I will avenge Myself on My enemies. 25 And I will turn My hand against you, and I will refine your dross as with lye, and I will remove all your tin. 26 And I will restore your judges as at the first, and your counselors as at the beginning. After this you will be called the city of righteousness, a faithful town." 27 Zion will be ransomed with justice, and her returning ones with righteousness. 28 And the crushing of transgressors and sinners will be together, and those who forsake the LORD will come to an end. 29 For they will be ashamed of the terebinths which you desired, and you will be abashed because of the gardens which you have chosen. 30 For you will be like an oak whose leaf is withering, and like a garden which has no water. 31 And the strong one will become tinder, and his work a spark, and both of them will burn together, and there is none who quenches.

The Mountain of the LORD

1 The word which Isaiah (Yeshayahu) the son of Amoz (Amots) saw concerning Judah (Yehuda) and Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 2 And it will be at the end of the days that the mountain of the house of the LORD will be established at the top of the mountains, and it will be lifted up above the hills, and all the nations will stream to it. 3 And many peoples will come and say, "Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob (Ya'aqov), that He may teach us from His ways, and that we may walk in His paths." For from Zion (Tsiyon) the law will go forth, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem. 4 And He will judge between the nations and will decide for many peoples, and they will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears

2:3 Luke 24:47; Acts 13:46; Matt 8:11
2:4 Hos 2:18; Joel 3:10; Zech 9:10

1:18 Come now, and let us argue the case together One of the most beautiful invitations in the Bible. After all the charges God opens the door. Scarlet and crimson were dyes that could not be washed out, a picture of sin we cannot scrub out ourselves. God can make it white because Jesus would pay for it with His blood (Rev 7:14; Ps 51:7). I believe this is still God's offer to every person (1 John 1:7).
1:19 If you are willing and you obey, you will eat the good of the land The invitation comes with a choice, an echo of the blessings and curses of Deuteronomy 28. "The mouth of the LORD has spoken" (v. 20) seals it. His word will stand either way.
1:21 How the faithful town has become a prostitute A funeral song over Jerusalem. God's covenant, His binding commitment to His people, was like a marriage, so unfaithfulness is pictured as adultery. The city known for justice in David's day now holds murderers.
1:22 Your silver has become dross Dross is the worthless scum left when metal is melted. Things look the same outside, but the value is gone, as with a people who keep the form of religion and lose its heart.
1:23 every one of them loves a bribe The rulers who should protect the people are friends of thieves. The orphan and widow cannot even get a hearing. When leaders sell justice, the weakest pay the price.
1:24 I will avenge Myself on My enemies "LORD of armies" means the commander of heaven's armies. Shockingly, God calls His own people His adversaries. Their sin has put them on the wrong side of Him.
1:25 I will refine your dross as with lye God is a refiner. Heat brings the dross to the top so it can be removed, leaving pure silver (Mal 3:2-3). His judgment is meant to purify Jerusalem, not destroy her.
1:26 you will be called the city of righteousness, a faithful town I believe this will be kept for Jerusalem just as it reads. It was partly seen after the exile, but its full fulfillment comes when Jesus returns and reigns from Jerusalem in the Millennium, His thousand-year reign on earth (Zech 8:3).
1:27 Zion will be ransomed with justice, and her returning ones with righteousness Not everyone in Jerusalem will be saved, but those who turn back to God will be. I believe this looks ahead to the day when all Israel will be saved (Rom 11:26).
1:28 those who forsake the LORD will come to an end The same fire that purifies the repentant destroys the rebel. We choose our side by how we respond to Him.
1:29 they will be ashamed of the terebinths which you desired Pagan worship was often held under sacred trees and in groves. Idols promise life and end in shame. They loved the oaks and gardens, so they will become like a dying oak and a garden without water (v. 30). We become like what we worship.
1:31 the strong one will become tinder, and his work a spark The man who thinks he does not need God becomes the tinder, and his own works light the fire. Sin destroys the one who commits it. But God's offer in verse 18 means the fire does not have to be our story.
2:1 The word which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw A new section that runs through chapter 4. Isaiah "saw" the word. God's message came to him as a vision, not his own idea (2 Pet 1:21).
2:2 at the end of the days The end of history, when God finishes His plan. The last days began with Jesus' first coming (Heb 1:2), but this looks to their final stage, after He returns. The temple mountain stands above every other religion and power, and may be raised physically (Zech 14:10). Water flows down a mountain, but the nations "stream" up to it, drawn and not forced. This has never happened yet. I believe it describes the Millennium, Christ's thousand-year reign on earth (Rev 20:4-6; Zech 14:16).
2:3 For from Zion the law will go forth Today the nations ignore God's word. In the kingdom they will seek it out. "Law" means instruction, God's teaching for how to live, and Jerusalem will be the world's capital. Micah, Isaiah's fellow prophet, gives almost the same words (Mic 4:1-3).
2:4 they will beat their swords into plowshares I believe "He" is Jesus Christ reigning as King. Nations go to war because no one is strong and fair enough to settle their disputes, and He will be that Judge (Rev 19:15). Tools of death become tools for growing food. Before the final battle the world arms itself one last time (Joel 3:10). Treaties and world governments will never bring lasting peace. That comes only when the Prince of Peace reigns (9:6-7).

into pruning knives; nation will not lift up sword against nation, and they will not learn war again. 5 House of Jacob, come, and let us walk in the light of the LORD.

The Day of the LORD Against Pride

6 For You have abandoned Your people, the house of Jacob, for they are full from the east, and they are soothsayers like the Philistines, and with the children of foreigners they clap hands. 7 And its land has been filled with silver and gold, and there is no end to its treasures; and its land has been filled with horses, and there is no end to its chariots. 8 And its land has been filled with idols; to the work of its hands they bow down, to what its fingers have made. 9 And mankind has been humbled, and man has been brought low; and do not forgive them. 10 Go into the rock, and hide yourself in the dust from before the dread of the LORD and from the splendor of His majesty. 11 The haughty eyes of mankind will be brought low, and the pride of men will be humbled, and the LORD alone will be exalted in that day. 12 For the LORD of armies has a day against everything proud and lofty, and against everything lifted up, and it will be brought low, 13 and against all the cedars of Lebanon (Levanon), the lofty and the lifted up, and against all the oaks of Bashan, 14 and against all the lofty mountains, and against all the hills that are lifted up, 15 and against every high tower, and against every fortified wall, 16 and against all the ships of Tarshish, and against all the vessels of delight. 17 And the haughtiness of mankind will be humbled, and the pride of men will be brought low, and the LORD alone will be exalted in that day. 18 And the idols will completely pass away. 19 And they will go into the caves of the rocks and into the holes of the dust from before the dread of the LORD and from the splendor of His majesty, when He arises to terrify the earth. 20 In that day mankind will throw away his idols of silver and his idols of gold, which they made for him to bow down to, to the moles and to the bats, 21 to go into the crevices of the rocks and into the clefts of the cliffs from before the dread of the LORD and from the splendor of His majesty, when He arises to terrify the earth. 22 Cease for yourselves from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for at what is he to be accounted?

A Nation Without Leaders

1 For look, the Lord, the LORD of armies, is about to remove from Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and from Judah (Yehuda) support and prop, every support of food and every support of water; 2 warrior and man of war, judge and prophet, and diviner and elder; 3 commander of fifty and one lifted up of face, and counselor and skilled one of magic arts, and discerning one of charm. 4 And I will make youths their leaders,

3:3 Exod 18:21; Deut 1:15; 1 Sam 8:12
3:4 Eccl 10:16; 1 Kgs 3:7-9; 2 Chr 33:1

2:5 House of Jacob, come, and let us walk in the light of the LORD If the nations will one day walk in God's light, how much more should Israel now? The future hope is meant to change how we live today (1 John 3:3).
2:6 they are soothsayers like the Philistines "Full from the east" probably means fortune-telling and magic from Aram and Mesopotamia. Soothsayers claimed to tell the future. The Law strictly forbids all of this (Deut 18:10-12).
2:7 its land has been filled with silver and gold Judah grew rich and strong under Uzziah (2 Chr 26:8-15), but the kings were warned not to multiply horses or gold (Deut 17:16-17). Prosperity is not wrong, but it can quietly take God's place in our hearts.
2:8 to the work of its hands they bow down The third "filled": money, then military power, then idols. The three go together. Every idol in every age is something we made and then started to serve.
2:9 and do not forgive them Isaiah agrees with God's judgment on those who refuse to repent. Forgiveness is always open to those who turn back (1:18), but those who hold on to their idols will face what they have chosen.
2:10 Go into the rock, and hide yourself in the dust Not from an enemy army but from the terror of the LORD. When God shows His majesty, sinful people cannot stand before Him. The line returns in verses 19 and 21.
2:11 the LORD alone will be exalted in that day "In that day" usually points to the Day of the LORD, when God steps into history to judge sin and set things right. In Isaiah it can mean a near judgment, like the Assyrian invasion, and also the final judgment of this age. I believe both are in view here, reaching full meaning at Christ's return.
2:12 the LORD of armies has a day against everything proud and lofty The Day of the LORD is aimed above all at pride, the first sin and the root of every other (Jas 4:6).
2:16 against all the ships of Tarshish Cedars of Lebanon, oaks of Bashan, mountains, towers, walls and the great trading ships of distant Tarshish: nature's grandeur, military defense and commercial wealth. Nothing man builds or admires can stand when God arises.
2:18 And the idols will completely pass away A verse of only a few words. The idols are not defeated in battle. They are simply gone, because they were never anything to begin with.
2:19 when He arises to terrify the earth I believe Revelation 6:15-17 describes the fulfillment, when at the sixth seal the great men hide in caves from the wrath of the Lamb. Isaiah saw the scene some eight hundred years before John did.
2:20 to the moles and to the bats Animals of dark holes and ruins. The idols people spent fortunes on are tossed aside like trash, extra weight as they run for the caves. When God arises, there is nowhere to hide except in Him.
2:22 Cease for yourselves from man, whose breath is in his nostrils Stop trusting in people. Man's life is only a breath and can be gone in a moment (Ps 146:3-4). We are tempted to hope in leaders, experts or ourselves. Put your hope in the LORD, who alone will be exalted.
3:1 every support of food and every support of water God will remove everything Judah leaned on, beginning with bread and water, the first things to run out in a siege. It happened when Babylon surrounded Jerusalem more than a century later (2 Kgs 25:3).
3:2 judge and prophet, and diviner and elder Judah trusted fortune-tellers alongside true leaders. God will sweep away the good and the false together.
3:3 commander of fifty and one lifted up of face Every kind of person a healthy nation needs will be gone, as when Babylon carried off Jerusalem's leaders and craftsmen (2 Kgs 24:14).
3:4 caprices will rule over them Rulers who act on whim, without wisdom or self-control. When God gives a people foolish leaders, it is often because they rejected wisdom first.

and caprices will rule over them. 5 And the people will be oppressed, man by man and man by his neighbor; they will act insolently, the youth against the elder, and the lightly esteemed against the honored. 6 For a man will seize his brother in the house of his father: "You have a cloak; you shall be a ruler for us, and this heap of ruins shall be under your hand." 7 He will lift up his voice in that day, saying, "I will not be one who binds wounds, and in my house there is no food and no cloak; you shall not make me a ruler of the people." 8 For Jerusalem has stumbled and Judah has fallen, for their tongue and their deeds are against the LORD, to rebel against the eyes of His glory. 9 The expression of their faces has testified against them, and they have declared their sin like Sodom (Sedom); they have not hidden it. Woe to their soul! For they have dealt evil to themselves. 10 Say of the righteous that it is good, for they will eat the fruit of their deeds. 11 Woe to the wicked! It is evil, for the recompense of his hands will be done to him. 12 My people, its oppressors are acting like children, and women have ruled over it. My people, those who guide you are leading you astray, and they have swallowed up the way of your paths. 13 The LORD is taking His stand to contend, and is standing to judge peoples. 14 The LORD will come in judgment with the elders of His people and its leaders: "And you, you have consumed the vineyard; the plunder of the afflicted is in your houses. 15 What is it to you that you crush My people and grind the faces of the afflicted?" declares the Lord GOD of armies.

The Daughters of Zion

16 And the LORD said: Because the daughters of Zion (Tsiyon) are haughty, and they walk with neck stretched out and ogling with eyes, walking and mincing they go, and with their feet they tinkle their anklets, 17 the Lord will make scabby the scalp of the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will lay bare their forehead. 18 In that day the Lord will remove the splendor of the anklets and the headbands and the crescent ornaments, 19 the pendants and the bracelets and the veils, 20 the headdresses and the ankle chains and the sashes and the perfume boxes and the charms, 21 the signet rings and the rings of the nose, 22 the festal robes and the overtunics and the cloaks and the purses, 23 and the mirrors and the linen garments and the turbans and the shawls. 24 And it will be that instead of perfume there will be rottenness, and instead of a belt, a rope, and instead of a work of well-set hair, baldness, and instead of a robe, a girding of sackcloth; branding instead of beauty. 25 Your men will fall by the sword, and your might in the battle. 26 And her gates will lament and mourn, and she will be emptied; she will sit on the ground.

3:5 the youth against the elder Without real authority people turn on each other, and everyone does what is right in his own eyes (Judg 21:25).
3:6 You have a cloak; you shall be a ruler for us Owning a cloak is enough to make a man a leader, and still he refuses (v. 7). No one can bind up a nation that rejects God.
3:8 to rebel against the eyes of His glory God's glory lived in the temple in their own city, and they sinned against Him anyway, in word and deed.
3:9 they have declared their sin like Sodom; they have not hidden it Worse than sinning in secret is sinning openly without shame. They do not know how to blush (Jer 6:15). When a culture is proud of its sin, judgment is near.
3:12 those who guide you are leading you astray "My people!" You can hear God's sorrow. Childish oppressors and women ruling pictured weak and unfit leadership in that culture. Some think the king's mother and wives held real power, as in some reigns. When leaders confuse the paths, those who follow get lost too.
3:13 The LORD is taking His stand to contend A courtroom again. The judge stood to give his verdict. God is not a distant observer of injustice. He rises to deal with it.
3:14 you have consumed the vineyard The vineyard is Israel (5:1-7). The leaders were to tend it and ate it up instead. The proof is in their houses, full of what they took from the poor.
3:15 grind the faces of the afflicted Like grain between millstones. God calls the poor "My people." Whoever harms the weak deals with God Himself (Prov 14:31).
3:16 Because the daughters of Zion are haughty Noses in the air, flirting eyes, dainty steps to jingle their anklets. Everything says, look at me. Beauty and jewelry are not sinful in themselves. The problem was the heart, and luxury gained while the poor were crushed (3:14-15).
3:17 the Lord will make scabby the scalp of the daughters of Zion Judgment strikes the very thing they were proud of. God often humbles us at the exact point of our pride.
3:18 the crescent ornaments The long list in verses 18-23 makes its own point: so many things it takes a paragraph to name them. Crescent ornaments were moon symbols, and charms were worn for luck or protection. Outward beauty can be carried off by an enemy. The hidden beauty of the heart cannot (1 Pet 3:3-4).
3:24 branding instead of beauty A great reversal. Perfume becomes rot, a fine belt becomes a captive's rope, styled hair a shaved head, fine robes sackcloth, and beauty the brand burned onto slaves.
3:25 Your men will fall by the sword Husbands, sons and brothers will die. It is judgment on pride, but also a deep tragedy, and God takes no pleasure in it (Ezek 33:11).
3:26 her gates will lament and mourn The city is pictured as a widow sitting in the dust, as Lamentations pictures Jerusalem after Babylon destroyed it (Lam 1:1).
4:1 seven women will take hold of one man in that day This belongs with the end of chapter 3. So many men have fallen (3:25) that seven women beg for one man's name, so they will not be shamed as unmarried and childless. The pride of the daughters of Zion has come to this.

reproach." 2 In that day the branch of the LORD will be for beauty and for glory, and the fruit of the land for majesty and for splendor for the escaped remnant of Israel (Yisra'el). 3 And it will be that the one who remains in Zion (Tsiyon) and the one who is left in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) will be called holy, everyone who is written for life in Jerusalem, 4 when the Lord has washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion, and cleanses the bloodshed of Jerusalem from its midst by a spirit of judgment and by a spirit of burning. 5 And the LORD will create over every site of Mount Zion and over her assemblies a cloud by day, and smoke and the brightness of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory there will be a canopy. 6 And a booth will be for a shade by day from the heat, and for a refuge and for a shelter from the storm and from the rain.

The Song of the Vineyard

1 Let me sing, please, for my well-beloved a song of my beloved concerning His vineyard: My well-beloved had a vineyard on a very fertile hill. 2 And He dug it and cleared it of stones, and planted it with a choice vine, and built a tower in its midst, and also hewed out a wine vat in it; and He waited for it to produce grapes, and it produced wild grapes. 3 And now, inhabitant of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and man of Judah (Yehuda), judge, please, between Me and My vineyard. 4 What is there to do still for My vineyard that I have not done in it? Why, when I waited for it to produce grapes, did it produce wild grapes? 5 And now, please, let Me make known to you what I am about to do to My vineyard: I will remove its hedge, and it will be for consuming; I will break down its wall, and it will be for trampling. 6 And I will make it a waste; it will not be pruned and it will not be hoed, and thorn and thornbush will come up; and I will command the clouds not to send rain on it. 7 For the vineyard of the LORD of armies is the house of Israel (Yisra'el), and the man of Judah is the plant of His delight; and He waited for justice, and look, bloodshed; for righteousness, and look, an outcry.

Six Woes

8 Woe to those who make house touch house; field to field they bring near, until there is no room, and you are made to dwell by yourselves in the midst of the land! 9 In my ears the LORD of armies said, "Surely many houses will become a desolation, great and fine, without inhabitant. 10 For ten acres of vineyard will produce approximately 6 gallons (one bath), and approximately 6 bushels (a homer) of seed will produce approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah)." 11 Woe to those who rise early in the morning; strong drink they pursue; who stay

5:11 Eph 5:18; Isa 5:22; Prov 23:29,30

4:2 In that day the branch of the LORD will be for beauty and for glory Some read this as crops growing again. I believe it means more. Later prophets use "the Branch" for the Messiah, the anointed King from David's line (Jer 23:5; Zech 3:8; 6:12; Isa 11:1). "Branch of the LORD" points to His divine origin, "fruit of the land" to His human birth. He is fully God and fully man. The remnant who look on the One they pierced (Zech 12:10) will see Him as their glory.
4:3 everyone who is written for life in Jerusalem Being written for life goes back to God's book (Exod 32:32-33), the book of life (Rev 20:15). God knows by name everyone who belongs to Him. These survivors are holy not because they were tougher or luckier, but because God set them apart and cleansed them.
4:4 by a spirit of judgment and by a spirit of burning The refining fire of 1:25. I believe this looks ahead to the Tribulation, the coming seven years of trouble at the end of this age, the time of distress for Jacob (Jer 30:7). God will bring a remnant of Israel through the fire and refine them like silver (Zech 13:9).
4:5 a cloud by day, and smoke and the brightness of a flaming fire by night The same cloud and fire that led Israel out of Egypt (Exod 13:21-22), the visible sign of God with them. The word for canopy is used for a wedding canopy, God's glory spread over His people. I believe this describes Jerusalem in the Millennium, when Christ reigns there.
4:6 for a refuge and for a shelter from the storm People who trusted in walls and horses will find their safety in God. This is a future promise, but it tells us who God is today (Ps 91:1). Whatever storm you are in, He is still a refuge.
5:1 My well-beloved had a vineyard on a very fertile hill Isaiah starts like a singer at a harvest festival, and listeners would expect a happy love song. The beloved is God, though Isaiah does not say so yet. He lets the story draw them in first.
5:2 and it produced wild grapes The owner did everything a good farmer could: dug, cleared stones, planted the best vines, built a watchtower and cut a wine vat, expecting a harvest. The Hebrew describes small, sour, rotten fruit.
5:3 judge, please, between Me and My vineyard Like Nathan's story to David (2 Sam 12:1-7), the listeners are asked to pass judgment before they realize they are on trial.
5:4 What is there to do still for My vineyard that I have not done in it The question at the center of the song. God chose Israel, brought them out of Egypt, gave His law and planted them in a good land. The failure was not on His side. We cannot blame God for a lack of fruit either (2 Pet 1:3).
5:5 I will remove its hedge Without its hedge and wall the vineyard is eaten and trampled. God would remove His protection and let Assyria and later Babylon overrun the land.
5:6 I will command the clouds not to send rain on it No ordinary farmer could say this. Only God controls the rain. With this line Isaiah lets his listeners know who the owner really is.
5:7 He waited for justice, and look, bloodshed Now it is plain: God is the owner and Israel the vineyard. The Hebrew plays on words. He looked for mishpat (justice) and found mispach (bloodshed), for tsedaqah (righteousness) and heard tseaqah (a cry). The words sound alike but mean the opposite. Jesus took up this song in His parable of the vineyard, where the tenants kill the owner's son (Matt 21:33-41). He is that Son.
5:8 Woe to those who make house touch house The first of six woes, a cry of grief and a warning of judgment together. The land was to stay with each family (Lev 25:23), but the rich pushed the poor off theirs, like Ahab with Naboth (1 Kgs 21).
5:10 ten acres of vineyard will produce approximately 6 gallons Ten acres yield one bath of wine, and a homer of seed yields an ephah, a tenth of what was planted (Ezek 45:11). The great houses will stand empty (v. 9), and the land they stole will not even feed them. Greed always wants more and ends with nothing.
5:11 Woe to those who rise early in the morning; strong drink they pursue The second woe, against people whose lives revolve around drinking from morning to night. What fills us controls us (Eph 5:18).

late in the twilight; wine inflames them! 12 And lyre and harp, tambourine and flute, and wine are their feast; and the deed of the LORD they do not regard, and the work of His hands they have not seen. 13 Therefore My people have gone into exile for lack of knowledge; and its glory is men of hunger, and its multitude is parched with thirst.
14 Therefore Sheol has enlarged her appetite and opened her mouth without limit; and her splendor and her multitude and her uproar and the one exulting in her will go down. 15 And mankind has been humbled, and man has been brought low, and the eyes of the haughty will be brought low. 16 And the LORD of armies has been exalted in justice, and the holy God shows Himself holy in righteousness. 17 And lambs will graze as in their pasture, and sojourners will eat the ruins of the fat ones. 18 Woe to those who draw iniquity with cords of emptiness, and sin as with the rope of the cart; 19 who say, "Let Him hurry, let Him hasten His work, so that we may see; and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near and come, so that we may know!" 20 Woe to those who say of evil "good," and of good "evil"; who put darkness for light and light for darkness; who put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter! 21 Woe to the wise in their eyes, and discerning before their faces! 22 Woe to mighty ones at drinking wine, and men of strength at mixing strong drink; 23 who justify the wicked for a bribe, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him! 24 Therefore, as a tongue of fire eats stubble, and dry grass sinks down in the flame, their root will be like rottenness, and their blossom will go up like dust; for they have rejected the law of the LORD of armies, and have spurned the word of the Holy One of Israel. 25 Therefore the anger of the LORD has burned against His people, and He has stretched out His hand against it and struck it, and the mountains have quaked, and their corpses became like offal in the midst of the streets. For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out. 26 And He will lift up a banner for the nations from afar, and whistle for it from the end of the earth; and look, quickly, swiftly it will come. 27 There is none weary and none stumbling among it; none will slumber and none will sleep; and the waistband of its loins has not been opened, and the thong of its sandals has not been torn apart; 28 whose arrows are sharpened, and all its bows bent; the hooves of its horses are regarded as flint, and its wheels as the whirlwind. 29 Its roaring is like the lion; it roars like the young lions; and it growls and seizes prey and carries it off, and there is no deliverer. 30 And it will growl over it in that day like the growling of the sea; and one will look to the land, and look, darkness, distress; and the light has become dark in its clouds.

5:30 Luke 21:25; Isa 8:22; Jer 4:23-28

5:12 the deed of the LORD they do not regard Music and a good meal are not wrong. The problem is they never think about what the LORD is doing, so busy entertaining themselves that they miss the judgment coming toward them.
5:13 My people have gone into exile for lack of knowledge Because they would not pay attention to God, they will be carried away (Hos 4:6). Those who feasted without God will end up starving.
5:14 Sheol has enlarged her appetite Sheol is the place of the dead, the grave, pictured as a monster opening its mouth to swallow Jerusalem's partygoers. Those who partied as if there were no tomorrow will find death is real.
5:16 the holy God shows Himself holy in righteousness God's holiness is His purity, and it is also seen in what He does. When He judges sin, the world sees that He is holy and right.
5:18 Woe to those who draw iniquity with cords of emptiness The third woe. They drag their sin like an ox pulling a cart. Sin starts as something we pull on lightly, but before long it is pulling us (Prov 5:22).
5:19 Let Him hurry, let Him hasten His work They mock God's warnings and dare Him to prove it. Mockers still ask where the promise of His coming is (2 Pet 3:3-4). God's patience is not weakness. He is giving time to repent (2 Pet 3:9).
5:20 Woe to those who say of evil "good," and of good "evil" The fourth woe. More than doing wrong, it is changing the definition of wrong so you can feel good about it. When a culture praises what God calls sin and mocks what God calls good, it stands under this woe.
5:21 Woe to the wise in their eyes The fifth woe. They think they know better than God's word (Prov 3:7). True wisdom always starts with humility before God.
5:22 Woe to mighty ones at drinking wine The sixth woe. These leaders and judges should have been strong for the people, but they were strong only at the wine table.
5:23 who justify the wicked for a bribe Justice is for sale, and the righteous have nowhere to turn. God commanded judges never to take a bribe (Exod 23:8).
5:25 For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out Some see a past earthquake here, perhaps the great one in Uzziah's day (Amos 1:1). This refrain returns four more times (9:12, 17, 21; 10:4). The judgments so far have not turned the people back, so more is coming.
5:26 He will lift up a banner for the nations from afar A banner on a pole gathered troops. God only whistles, and a faraway nation comes: in Isaiah's day Assyria, later Babylon (Deut 28:49).
5:28 the hooves of its horses are regarded as flint Assyria's army was the most feared of its time, tireless and ready (v. 27), known for chariots and archers. Judah trusted its own horses and chariots (2:7), and God sends a better army against them.
5:29 Its roaring is like the lion A lion does not negotiate with its prey, and Judah will be the prey. Only God can deliver from a lion like this, and later in the book He does (37:36).
5:30 the light has become dark in its clouds A grim ending. But the next chapter opens with Isaiah seeing the LORD on His throne. Even when the land is dark, God still reigns.

ISAIAH 6

Holy, Holy, Holy

1 In the year of the death of King Uzziah (Uziyahu), and I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lifted up, and His skirts were filling the temple. 2 Seraphim were standing above Him; six wings, six wings belonged to each one: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew. 3 And this one called to this one and said, "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of armies; the fullness of all the earth is His glory." 4 And the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of the one who called, and the house was filled with smoke. 5 And I said, "Woe to me! For I am destroyed, for I am a man of unclean lips, and in the midst of a people of unclean lips I dwell; for my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of armies." 6 And one of the seraphim flew to me, and in his hand was a live coal; with tongs he had taken it from on the altar. 7 And he made it touch my mouth and said,
"Look, this has touched your lips, and your iniquity is removed, and your sin is atoned for." 8 And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom will I send, and who will go for Us?" And I said, "Here I am; send me." 9 And He said, "Go, and say to this people, 'Hear indeed, and do not understand; and see indeed, and do not know.' 10 Make the heart of this people fat, and make its ears heavy, and smear over its eyes, lest it see with its eyes, and hear with its ears, and its heart understand, and it return, and one heal it." 11 And I said, "Until when, O Lord?" And He said, "Until cities lie desolate without inhabitant, and houses without man, and the ground is devastated, a desolation, 12 and the LORD sends mankind far away, and the forsaken places become many in the midst of the land. 13 And still a tenth will be in it, and it will return and be for burning, like the terebinth and like the oak, in which, in the felling, a stump remains; the seed of holiness is its stump."

7:1 Matt 1:9; 2 Kgs 15:37; 2 Kgs 16:1

6:1 In the year of the death of King Uzziah Uzziah reigned about fifty years and died about 740 B.C. His pride drove him to burn incense in the temple, a work only for priests, and he died a leper (2 Chr 26:16-21). The earthly throne was empty and Assyria was rising. At that moment Isaiah saw the true King. When the leaders we trust fail or pass away, look up. Our King is still on His throne.

6:1 I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lifted up John says Isaiah "saw His glory" (John 12:41) and spoke of Jesus. I believe Isaiah saw the glory of the Son of God before He came as a man. A long robe was a sign of royalty, and the hem alone fills the temple. How great must He be?

6:2 Seraphim were standing above Him The only place they are named. The word means burning ones. Even these sinless beings cover their faces before His glory, cover their feet in humility, and fly ready to serve. I believe they are the same kind of beings John saw around the throne (Rev 4:8). If they come with reverence, how much more should we?

6:3 Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of armies In Hebrew, repeating a word strengthens it, and three times is the highest degree. Holiness is the only attribute of God raised to the third degree. To be holy is to be set apart, completely separate from all sin and far above all He made. Many see in the threefold "holy" a hint of the Trinity (v. 8), but the main point is His absolute holiness. His glory fills the earth even when people refuse to see it (Hab 2:14).

6:4 the house was filled with smoke Smoke and cloud often surround God's presence (Exod 19:18; 1 Kgs 8:10-11; Rev 15:8). The smoke both reveals Him and hides His full glory, for no sinner could survive seeing it all.

6:5 Woe to me! For I am destroyed, for I am a man of unclean lips Isaiah gave six woes in chapter 5. Now he gives one to himself. When he saw God as He is, he saw himself as he was. His lips, the tool of a prophet, were unclean, and he did not set himself above his people. Seeing God's holiness shows us our sin (Luke 5:8). If we never feel our sin, we may never have really looked at God.

6:6 in his hand was a live coal; with tongs he had taken it from on the altar The coal was so holy the seraph would not hold it in his hand. The altar is the place of sacrifice, where atonement was made. Atonement means covering sin and making peace between God and man. Isaiah's cleansing came from where a sacrifice had already been offered, a picture of the cross.

6:7 your iniquity is removed, and your sin is atoned for God met him at the very point of his need, his lips. Isaiah confessed first, and then God cleansed him (1 John 1:9). He did nothing to earn it. The cleansing was painful but complete.

6:8 Whom will I send, and who will go for Us I believe "Us" points to the Trinity, as in Genesis 1:26. "Here I am; send me." Isaiah did not ask where or what it would cost. He had seen the King and been forgiven. This is the order for every believer: see God, see our sin, receive His cleansing, then serve. God still asks the question (Rom 10:14-15).

6:9 Hear indeed, and do not understand Not that God wants them lost. He tells Isaiah ahead of time what will happen. They had already hardened their hearts, and clearer truth would make their refusal plainer and harder. Jesus quoted this to explain His parables (Matt 13:13-15), and Paul at the end of Acts (Acts 28:25-27).

6:10 Make the heart of this people fat Make it dull so nothing gets through. The same sun that melts wax hardens clay. There can come a point when God gives people over to what they keep choosing (Rom 1:24). John quotes this to explain Israel's unbelief and credits it to Isaiah (John 12:39-41). Yet Israel's hardening is not final. It lasts until the fullness of the Gentiles has come in, and then all Israel will be saved (Rom 11:25-26).

6:11 Until when, O Lord Until judgment runs its course. Isaiah saw Assyria destroy the north in 722 B.C. and waste Judah in 701 B.C., and Babylon destroyed Jerusalem in 586 B.C. Like Isaiah, we may preach to people who do not seem to listen. God calls us to be faithful, not successful.

6:12 the LORD sends mankind far away Exile, first under Assyria and later Babylon. Disobedience led them away from the place God had planted them.

6:13 the seed of holiness is its stump Even a tenth will be burned again, and the nation is like a felled tree. But a stump still has life in its roots. God will keep a holy remnant (Rom 11:5), and from that stump "a shoot" will come, the Messiah Himself (11:1). Judgment is never God's last word for Israel.

7:1 Rezin king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem The book shifts to history. Rezin of Aram (Syria), capital Damascus, and Pekah of the northern kingdom wanted Judah to join them against Assyria. When Ahaz refused, they marched on Jerusalem about 734 B.C. (2 Kgs 16:5; 2 Chr 28). Isaiah tells the end first: they could not take it.

and he was not able to fight against it. 2 And it was told to the house of David, saying, "Syria has settled on Ephraim (Efrayim)." And his heart and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake before a wind. 3 And the LORD said to Isaiah (Yeshayahu), "Go out, please, to meet Ahaz, you and Shear-jashub (She'ar-Yashuv) your son, at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, at the highway of the launderer's field, 4 and say to him, 'Be careful and be quiet; do not be afraid, and do not let your heart be faint because of these two tails of smoking firebrands, at the heat of the anger of Rezin and Syria and the son of Remaliah. 5 Because Syria has planned evil against you, with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, saying, 6 "Let us go up against Judah and terrify it, and let us break it open for ourselves, and let us make a king reign in its midst, the son of Tabeel (Tav'al)," 7 thus says the Lord GOD: It will not stand, and it will not happen. 8 For the head of Syria is Damascus (Dameseq), and the head of Damascus is Rezin; and within sixty-five years Ephraim will be shattered from being a people. 9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria (Shomron), and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah. If you do not believe, surely you will not be established.'" 10 And the LORD again spoke to Ahaz, saying, 11 "Ask a sign for yourself from the LORD your God; make it deep as Sheol or make it high above." 12 And Ahaz said, "I will not ask, and I will not test the LORD." 13 And he said, "Hear, please, house of David! Is it too little for you to weary men, that you will weary my God also? 14 Therefore the Lord Himself will give you a sign: Look, the virgin is pregnant and bearing a son, and she will call His name Immanuel (Imanu'el). 15 Curds and honey He will eat, when He knows to reject the evil and to choose the good. 16 For before the boy knows to reject the evil and to choose the good, the land whose two kings you dread will be forsaken.

The Coming of Assyria

17 The LORD will bring on you and on your people and on the house of your father days that have not come since the day Ephraim departed from Judah, the king of Assyria (Ashur). 18 And it will be in that day that the LORD will whistle for the fly which is at the end of the streams of Egypt (Mitsrayim), and for the bee which is in the land of Assyria. 19 And they will come and settle, all of them, in the wadis of the cliffs and in the clefts of the rocks, and on all the thorn-bushes and on all the watering places. 20 In that day the Lord will shave with the razor hired beyond the River, with the king of Assyria, the head and the hair of the feet; and it will

7:2 his heart and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake Ephraim, the largest northern tribe, stands for the whole northern kingdom. Fear is a normal reaction to danger. What matters is what we do with it. Ahaz must choose between trusting God and trusting man.
7:3 you and Shear-jashub your son His name means a remnant will return, a message in itself. Ahaz was probably inspecting the water supply before a siege. Years later the Rabshakeh would stand at this same spot and mock Hezekiah's trust in God (36:2).
7:4 these two tails of smoking firebrands Stay calm and trust Me. The two kings are burned-out ends of sticks, still smoking but nearly out, and both were soon dead (2 Kgs 15:30; 16:9). Many things we fear are like that. God knows how little fire is left in them.
7:6 let us make a king reign in its midst, the son of Tabeel We do not know who he was, but the plan was to remove David's family from the throne. God had promised David's line would last forever (2 Sam 7:16). Satan has always tried to wipe out the line of the Messiah, and this was one more attempt.
7:8 within sixty-five years Ephraim will be shattered from being a people The heads of Aram are only Damascus and Rezin, just men. Samaria fell in 722 B.C., about twelve years later. Assyria then settled foreigners in the land, and later kings kept doing so (2 Kgs 17:24; Ezra 4:2). Many believe the sixty-five years run to that final resettlement, when the northern tribes ceased to be a separate nation.
7:9 If you do not believe, surely you will not be established The heart of the chapter. God does not even name Pekah, only "the son of Remaliah." The Hebrew plays on words: if you will not stand firm in faith, you will not be made to stand firm (2 Chr 20:20). Faith in God is the only firm ground.
7:11 Ask a sign for yourself from the LORD your God Ahaz had not responded in faith, but God came back with another offer, and He set no limits, deep as Sheol or high as heaven. It is hard to think of a more generous offer in Scripture.
7:12 I will not ask, and I will not test the LORD It sounds spiritual (Deut 6:16), but God Himself told him to ask. It was disobedience dressed in religious words. Ahaz had already sent temple silver and gold to Tiglath-pileser of Assyria for help (2 Kgs 16:7-8). A sign would have forced him to trust God instead.
7:13 Hear, please, house of David In Hebrew the "you" of verses 13-14 is plural. The sign is for David's whole royal line, not only this faithless king. Isaiah now says "my God." Ahaz had pushed God away.
7:14 Look, the virgin is pregnant and bearing a son The Hebrew almah means a young woman of marriageable age, never clearly used in the Bible of a married woman. Jewish scholars translating into Greek before Jesus chose parthenos, virgin. A young woman having a baby the normal way would be no sign. A virgin conceiving is a true miracle. Matthew says this was fulfilled when Jesus was born of the virgin Mary (Matt 1:22-23).
7:14 she will call his name Immanuel Immanuel means God with us. This child would not only be sent by God. He would be God, the "Mighty God" of 9:6. Teachers disagree whether there was also a child in Ahaz's day. I read the sign as given to David's house and fulfilled in Jesus, with verses 15-16 using a child's early years as a measure of time. God came to be with us, and He promises to be with us always (Matt 28:20).
7:15 Curds and honey he will eat Thick yogurt or butter and honey were simple food, what people ate when the land was stripped (v. 22). The child would grow up in humble, hard times. Jesus was laid in a manger and grew up in a land under foreign rule.
7:16 the land whose two kings you dread will be forsaken Before a child born now knew right from wrong, Ahaz's enemies would be gone. In 732 B.C. Tiglath-pileser took Damascus and killed Rezin (2 Kgs 16:9), and Pekah was murdered about then (2 Kgs 15:30), just as God said.
7:17 the king of Assyria Because Ahaz chose Assyria over God, God would bring Assyria on Judah, days unlike any since the kingdom split after Solomon (1 Kgs 12). What we lean on instead of God can become the thing that crushes us.
7:18 the LORD will whistle for the fly which is at the end of the streams of Egypt The fly is Egypt from the Nile branches, the bee is Assyria. Ahaz thought he was playing politics with world powers, but God was the One calling them. They will settle everywhere, like a swarm over a field (v. 19).
7:20 the Lord will shave with the razor hired beyond the River The razor is Assyria from beyond the Euphrates. Ahaz paid Assyria to help (2 Kgs 16:8), and now that hired razor shaves Judah. Shaving head, body and beard was a terrible humiliation (2 Sam 10:4-5).

sweep away the beard also. 21 And it will be in that day that a man will keep alive a heifer of the herd and two sheep. 22 And it will be that from the abundance of the producing of milk he will eat curds; for curds and honey everyone who is left in the midst of the land will eat. 23 And it will be in that day that every place where there were a thousand vines, at a thousand pieces of silver, will become thorn and thornbush. 24 With arrows and with bow one will go there, for all the land will be thorn and thornbush. 25 And all the hills which used to be hoed with the hoe, you will not go there for fear of thorn and thornbush; and it will become a place for sending out oxen and a trampling place of sheep."

God With Us

1 And the LORD said to me, "Take for yourself a large tablet, and write on it with the stylus of a man, 'For Maher-shalal-hash-baz (Maher-Shalal-Chash-Baz).'" 2 And I will call reliable witnesses to testify for me, Uriah (Uriya) the priest and Zechariah (Zekharyahu) the son of Jeberechiah (Yeverekhyahu). 3 And I drew near to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. And the LORD said to me, "Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz; 4 for before the boy knows to call out, 'My father' and 'My mother,' one will carry off the wealth of Damascus (Dameseq) and the plunder of Samaria (Shomron) before the king of Assyria (Ashur)." 5 And the LORD again spoke to me further, saying, 6 "Because this people has rejected the waters of the Shiloah (Shiloach) that go gently, and is rejoicing with Rezin (Retsin) and the son of Remaliah (Remalyahu), 7 therefore, look, the Lord is about to bring up on them the waters of the River, mighty and many, the king of Assyria and all his glory; and it will rise over all its channels and go over all its banks. 8 And it will sweep on into Judah (Yehuda); it will overflow and pass through; it will reach to the neck; and the spreading of its wings will be the fullness of the breadth of your land, O Immanuel (Imanu'el). 9 Be broken, peoples, and be shattered; and give ear, all distant places of the earth; gird yourselves and be shattered; gird yourselves and be shattered. 10 Plan a plan, and it will be frustrated; speak a word, and it will not stand; for God is with us."

The Stone of Stumbling

11 For thus the LORD said to me with strength of the hand, and He instructed me against walking in the way of this people, saying, 12 "Do not call conspiracy all that this people calls conspiracy, and do not fear what it fears, and do not be in dread. 13 The LORD of armies, Him you shall regard as holy, and He shall be your fear, and He your dread. 14 And He will become a sanctuary, and a stone of striking and a rock of stumbling to both houses of Israel (Yisra'el), a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 15 And many will stumble over them, and they will fall and be bro-

7:22 for curds and honey everyone who is left in the midst of the land will eat Not a picture of plenty. With so few people left and fields gone wild, the survivors live off what grows by itself.
7:23 every place where there were a thousand vines Vineyards worth a thousand pieces of silver go back to briars and thorns, as in the vineyard song (5:6). Farmland becomes hunting ground (v. 24) and grazing land (v. 25).
7:25 it will become a place for sending out oxen The chapter ends sadly because Ahaz chose fear and Assyria over faith. But the sign of Immanuel stands in the middle of it. Even when kings fail, God keeps His promise to send the Son of David who is God with us.
8:1 Take for yourself a large tablet Written in ordinary letters anyone could read, like a billboard: Maher-shalal-hash-baz, the spoil speeds, the prey hastens. No one could say later they had not been warned.
8:2 Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah Two witnesses confirmed the matter (Deut 19:15). This Uriah is probably the priest who later copied a pagan altar for Ahaz (2 Kgs 16:10-11). Even a witness who sided with the king would have to admit Isaiah's word was written first.
8:3 And I drew near to the prophetess Isaiah's wife, perhaps a prophet herself or simply married to one. Every time someone called the boy, they heard God's warning.
8:4 before the boy knows to call out, 'My father' and 'My mother,' Within a year or two Assyria would plunder Damascus and Samaria, and in 732 B.C. it did (2 Kgs 15:29; 16:9). Some see this child as the near sign of chapter 7. I believe Immanuel is fulfilled in Jesus, while Isaiah's son was a sign of the near events (8:18).
8:6 this people has rejected the waters of the Shiloah that go gently Shiloah was a small, quiet channel from the Gihon spring, which gave its name to the pool of Siloam (John 9:7). It pictures God's quiet, steady care for Jerusalem and David's line. God's care often looks small to people who want something loud and powerful.
8:7 the waters of the River, mighty and many, the king of Assyria Since they rejected the gentle stream, God sends the flood of the Euphrates. Ahaz wanted Assyria's power, and he would get far more of it than he wanted.
8:8 it will reach to the neck A careful picture: the head stays above water. Assyria covered nearly all Judah in 701 B.C. but could not take Jerusalem (36:1; 37:33-36). And the land belongs to Immanuel. God has not forgotten His promise.
8:10 for God is with us In Hebrew the word is Immanuel. The nations may arm and plan, but none of it will stand, for one reason (Rom 8:31). The world's plans against God's people never get the last word.
8:12 Do not call conspiracy all that this people calls conspiracy All Jerusalem talked of plots and alliances. God gripped Isaiah with a strong hand (v. 11) so he would not be swept along with the crowd. Fear spreads quickly. Faith has to choose to stand apart from it (1 Pet 3:14).
8:13 The LORD of armies, Him you shall regard as holy The cure for fear: fear God instead of men. To regard Him as holy is to set Him apart in your heart as the One who really matters. Peter applies this to believers under pressure (1 Pet 3:15). When we fear God, we need not fear anything else.
8:14 a stone of striking and a rock of stumbling The same God is a sanctuary to one and a stumbling stone to another, depending on how we respond. The New Testament applies this to Jesus (Rom 9:33; 1 Pet 2:8; Luke 2:34). He is either the rock we stand on or the rock we stumble over. Those who fall trip over the One they refused to trust (v. 15).

ken, and be ensnared and be captured." 16 Bind up the testimony; seal the law among my disciples. 17 And I will wait for the LORD, who is hiding His face from the house of Jacob (Ya'aqov), and I will hope for Him. 18 Look, I and the children whom the LORD has given me are for signs and for portents in Israel from the LORD of armies, who dwells on Mount Zion (Tsiyon). 19 And when they say to you, "Consult the mediums and the spiritists who whisper and mutter," should not a people consult its God? On behalf of the living should they consult the dead? 20 To the law and to the testimony! If they do not speak according to this word, it is because there is no dawn for it. 21 And he will pass through it, hard pressed and hungry; and it will be that when he is hungry, he will be enraged and curse by his king and by his God, and turn upward. 22 And he will look to the earth, and look, distress and darkness, gloom of anguish; and he will be thrust into thick darkness.

A Child Is Born

1 For there will be no gloom for her who was in distress. As at the former time He treated with contempt the land of Zebulun (Zevulun) and the land of Naphtali (Naftali), so at the latter time He will make glorious the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan (Yarden), Galilee (Galil) of the nations. 2 The people who walk in the darkness have seen a great light; those who dwell in a land of deep darkness, a light has shone on them. 3 You have multiplied the nation; You have made great the joy for it; they rejoice before You as with the joy at the harvest, as men are glad when they divide plunder. 4 For the yoke of its burden and the staff of its shoulder, the rod of the one who oppresses it, You have shattered as in the day of Midian (Midyan). 5 For every boot of the one who tramps with tumult, and the cloak rolled in blood, will be for burning, fuel of fire. 6 For a child has been born to us, a son has been given to us; and the dominion is on His shoulder; and one has called His name Wonder, Counselor, Mighty God, Father of Eternity, Prince of Peace. 7 Of the increase of the dominion and of peace there will be no end, on the throne of David and over His kingdom, to establish it and to sustain it with justice and with righteousness from now and until forever. The zeal of the LORD of armies will do this.

8:16 Bind up the testimony; seal the law among my disciples Important documents were tied and sealed until needed. This is the first mention of Isaiah's disciples. While the nation turned away, a faithful few gathered around God's word and kept it until it was fulfilled.
8:17 I will wait for the LORD, who is hiding His face God has turned from them in judgment for a time, but Isaiah will hope in Him. Waiting on God is a great theme of Isaiah (40:31), trusting His timing when we cannot see. Hebrews puts the Greek form of this verse in the mouth of Christ (Heb 2:13).
8:18 I and the children whom the LORD has given me are for signs Their names were messages: the LORD is salvation, a remnant will return, the spoil speeds. The family was a living sermon. Hebrews applies this to Jesus and those He saves, whom He is not ashamed to call brothers (Heb 2:11-13).
8:19 On behalf of the living should they consult the dead In fear people look for answers anywhere. God forbade mediums (Deut 18:10-12), and Saul tried one the night before he died (1 Sam 28). People still turn to psychics and horoscopes. Go to God.
8:20 To the law and to the testimony The test for every message: does it agree with God's word? If not, there is no dawn in it. The Bereans checked even Paul against the Scriptures (Acts 17:11). Test every teacher, book and idea the same way.
8:21 curse by his king and by his God Instead of turning to God in trouble, they blame Him for it, as people will at the end of the age (Rev 16:11).
8:22 he will be thrust into thick darkness This is where life without God's word ends. But the very next verse promises no more gloom for her who was in distress. Out of the darkness God brings a great light, and Matthew tells us that light is Jesus (Matt 4:15-16).
9:1 Galilee of the nations Zebulun and Naphtali, around the Sea of Galilee, were the first to fall to Assyria about 732 B.C. (2 Kgs 15:29). This mixed, looked-down-on region would be honored first. Jesus began His ministry by settling in Capernaum, in that very region, to fulfill this word (Matt 4:13-16). The light of the world began shining where the darkness first fell.
9:2 The people who walk in the darkness have seen a great light Isaiah speaks of the future as already done, so certain is God's promise. Darkness is sin, not knowing God, living without hope. Jesus is the light of the world (John 8:12). If you are in a dark place, the Light has come and still shines on those who look to Him.
9:3 they rejoice before You as with the joy at the harvest The joy of a full harvest and of dividing spoil after victory. I believe "You have multiplied the nation" reaches to the Messiah's kingdom, when Israel is restored and the nations come to Him.
9:4 You have shattered as in the day of Midian In Gideon's day God won with three hundred men so no one could boast (Judg 7). The yoke, staff and rod of slavery God Himself will break. Our freedom from sin is God's work from start to finish.
9:5 the cloak rolled in blood, will be for burning When war is truly over you burn its equipment (2:4). That kind of peace has never yet come. I believe it will when Christ returns and reigns.
9:6 For a child has been born to us, a son has been given to us One of the greatest verses in the Old Testament, telling more of the Son of 7:14. The child is born, truly human. The Son is given, sent from heaven by the Father (John 3:16). The yoke sat on Israel's shoulder (v. 4). Now the weight of ruling the world rests on His.
9:6 Wonder, Counselor, Mighty God, Father of Eternity, Prince of Peace He is beyond anything human, with wisdom that needs no advice. "Mighty God" is El Gibbor, the title Isaiah gives the LORD Himself (10:21). This child is God. "Father of Eternity" does not mean the Son is the Father, but that He cares for His people like a father forever. He makes peace with God by His cross (Col 1:20) and will bring peace to the earth. No king of Judah fit these names. Only Jesus does.
9:7 on the throne of David and over his kingdom The throne God promised forever (2 Sam 7:12-16), the promise Gabriel gave Mary (Luke 1:32-33). Some teachers say Jesus fulfills it only from heaven now. I read it plainly. Christ reigns now at the Father's right hand, but this also promises a real throne and kingdom of justice on earth, the Millennium (Rev 20:4-6), going on into eternity. His zeal guarantees it, not Israel's or ours.
9:8 The Lord has sent a word into Jacob The tone changes. From here to 10:4 is one poem of judgment against the northern kingdom, in four stanzas with the same closing line. God's word lands where He aims it.

in pride and in greatness of heart, saying, 10 "Bricks have fallen, and with hewn stone we will build; sycamores have been cut down, and cedars we will put in their place." 11 And the LORD set on high the adversaries of Rezin (Retsin) against him, and He stirs up his enemies: 12 Syria (Aram) from the east and the Philistines from the west; and they have devoured Israel with all their mouth. For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out. 13 And the people have not turned back to the One who struck it, and the LORD of armies they have not sought. 14 And the LORD cut off from Israel head and tail, palm branch and reed, in one day. 15 The elder and the one lifted up of face, he is the head; and the prophet who teaches falsehood, he is the tail. 16 And those who guide this people were leading them astray, and those who are guided by them are swallowed up. 17 Therefore the Lord does not rejoice over its young men, and on its fatherless and its widows He has no compassion; for every one of it is godless and an evildoer, and every mouth speaks folly. For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out. 18 For wickedness has burned like the fire; it eats thorn and thornbush, and it has kindled the thickets of the forest, and they roll upward, a rising of smoke. 19 By the wrath of the LORD of armies the land has been scorched, and the people became like fuel of fire; a man does not spare his brother. 20 And he cut on the right, and was hungry; and he ate on the left, and they were not satisfied; each eats the flesh of his arm. 21 Manasseh (Menashe) against Ephraim, and Ephraim against Manasseh; together they are against Judah (Yehuda). For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out.

The Rod of His Anger

1 Woe to those who decree decrees of wickedness, and to writers who have written trouble, 2 to turn aside the poor from judgment, and to rob the afflicted of My people of their justice, so that widows may be their plunder, and they may despoil the fatherless! 3 And what will you do in the day of punishment, and in the devastation that will come from afar? To whom will you flee for help, and where will you leave your glory? 4 Nothing is left but that one has bowed down under the prisoners, and they will fall under the slain. For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out. 5 Woe to Assyria (Ashur), the rod of My anger; and the staff in their hand, it is My indignation. 6 Against a godless nation I send him, and against the people of My wrath I command him, to take plunder and to seize spoil, and to make it a trampling place like the mud of the streets. 7 And he does not intend so, and his heart does not plan so; for to destroy is in his heart, and to cut off nations not a few. 8 For he says, "Are not my commanders kings, all alike? 9 Is not Calno (Kalno) like Carchemish (Karkemish)? 9:10 Bricks have fallen, and with hewn stone we will build The voice of pride. They saw the damage but would not see God's hand in it. We too can promise to rebuild bigger and better when God is asking us to turn back to Him.
9:12 For all this His anger has not turned back, and His hand is still stretched out Rezin's Aram, once Israel's ally (7:1), and the Philistines become its attackers. The refrain of 5:25 returns. Here the outstretched hand is raised to strike, because the people still refuse to repent.
9:13 the people have not turned back to the One who struck it The real problem. Discipline was meant to bring them back (Heb 12:11). The same hardship can soften one heart and harden another.
9:15 the prophet who teaches falsehood, he is the tail God cuts off leaders top to bottom in one day. The head is the elders and men of rank. The false prophet is the tail because a tail follows and wags, saying what the powerful want to hear.
9:17 on its fatherless and its widows He has no compassion A hard verse, from the God who defends orphans and widows all through Scripture. Sin had spread to everyone, and no group was untouched. When a whole society turns from God, judgment falls on the whole society.
9:18 For wickedness has burned like the fire Sin destroys itself. It starts among the thorns and spreads until the whole forest is ablaze. It never stays the size it begins.
9:19 a man does not spare his brother Wickedness burns (v. 18) and the LORD's wrath burns. Both are true. God often judges by letting sin run its course (Rom 1:24-28), turning people against one another.
9:20 each eats the flesh of his arm A starving society that grabs on every side and is never filled. I take "the flesh of his arm" as their own kinsmen, since verse 21 explains it as tribe against tribe. Life without God is a hunger nothing in this world satisfies.
9:21 Manasseh against Ephraim, and Ephraim against Manasseh Brother tribes, sons of Joseph, fought each other and joined only to attack Judah. In Israel's last years king after king was murdered (2 Kgs 15). About 722 B.C. Samaria fell and the northern kingdom ended, as Isaiah warned.
10:1 Woe to those who decree decrees of wickedness The last stanza of the poem begun at 9:8. These men did not break the law. They made bad laws and used paperwork to rob widows and orphans (Exod 22:22). A thing can be permitted by the courts and still be wicked in God's sight, and He calls the poor "My people."
10:3 where will you leave your glory What will you do, where will you run, where will you leave your money? Stolen wealth cannot save them (Matt 16:26).
10:4 For all this His anger has not turned back Only two outcomes remain: crouch among the captives or lie among the dead. The refrain sounds the fourth and last time, because the people have not turned back.
10:5 Woe to Assyria, the rod of My anger Assyria, centered in what is now northern Iraq with Nineveh its chief city, was famous for cruelty. God calls it His rod. It did not know it was a tool. That does not make God the author of its evil, but no nation ever moves outside His control.
10:6 Against a godless nation I send him The godless nation is God's own people. When God's people live like the world, He may let the world discipline them. Judgment begins with the household of God (1 Pet 4:17).
10:7 And he does not intend so Assyria has no idea it serves God. God's purpose was discipline, Assyria's was greed and conquest, and God would judge Assyria for its own motives (Gen 50:20).
10:9 Is not Samaria like Damascus Real cities of Syria and the upper Euphrates, all taken. Damascus fell in 732 B.C. and Samaria about 722 B.C. To the king they were trophies on a list.

not Hamath (Chamat) like Arpad? Is not Samaria (Shomron) like Damascus (Dameseq)? 10 As my hand has found the kingdoms of the idol, and their carved images were more than Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and than Samaria, 11 shall I not, as I have done to Samaria and to her idols, so do to Jerusalem and to her images?" 12 And it will be, when the Lord has finished all His work on Mount Zion (Tsiyon) and in Jerusalem, that I will punish the fruit of the greatness of heart of the king of Assyria, and the splendor of the haughtiness of his eyes. 13 For he has said, "By the strength of my hand I have done it, and by my wisdom, for I have understanding; and I remove the boundaries of peoples, and I have plundered their stores, and like a mighty one I bring down the inhabitants. 14 And my hand has found, like a nest, the wealth of the peoples; and as one gathers abandoned eggs, I have gathered all the earth; and there was none that fluttered a wing or opened a mouth or chirped." 15 Does the axe glorify itself over the one who hews with it? Or does the saw magnify itself over the one who wields it? As if a rod should wield those who lift it up! As if a staff should lift up one who is not wood! 16 Therefore the Lord, the LORD of armies, will send leanness among his fat ones, and under his glory a burning will burn like the burning of fire. 17 And the light of Israel (Yisra'el) will become a fire, and his Holy One a flame; and it will burn and eat his thornbush and his thorn in one day. 18 And the glory of his forest and of his fruitful land He will bring to an end, from soul even to flesh; and it will be as when a sick man wastes away. 19 And the remnant of the trees of his forest will be few in number, and a boy will write them down.

A Remnant Will Return

20 And it will be in that day that the remnant of Israel and the escaped remnant of the house of Jacob (Ya'aqov) will no longer again lean on the one who struck him, and will lean on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. 21 A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the Mighty God. 22 For though your people, Israel, be like the sand of the sea, a remnant within it will return; destruction is decided, overflowing with righteousness. 23 For a complete destruction, and one that is decided, the Lord GOD of armies is about to make in the midst of all the land. 24 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD of armies: "Do not be afraid, My people who dwell in Zion, of Assyria; with the rod he will strike you, and he will lift up his staff against you in the way of Egypt (Mitsrayim). 25 For yet a very little while, and the indignation will be finished, and My anger will be for their destruction." 26 And the LORD of armies will stir up a whip against him, like the striking of Midian (Midyan) at the rock of Oreb (Orev); and His staff will be over the sea, and He will lift it up in the way of Egypt. 27 And it will be in that day that his burden will turn aside from on your shoulder, and his yoke from on your neck, and the yoke will be destroyed because of fatness. 28 He has come against Aiath (Ayyat); he has passed through Migron; at Michmash (Mikhmas) he deposits his baggage. 29 They have passed over the pass; Geba (Geva) is a lodging

10:11 shall I not, as I have done to Samaria and to her idols, so do to Jerusalem He puts the LORD on the same shelf as the idols. That was his fatal mistake, repeated later outside Jerusalem's walls (36:18-20). The living God is not one more idol.
10:12 I will punish the fruit of the greatness of heart of the king of Assyria God finishes disciplining Jerusalem first, then turns to Assyria. Pride is the root and cruelty the fruit. God lets proud men go only so far.
10:13 By the strength of my hand I have done it, and by my wisdom Count the "my" and "I." He takes all the credit and says robbing nations was as easy as taking eggs from an abandoned nest. Nebuchadnezzar talked the same way and was humbled (Dan 4). Watch for the word "I" in our own boasting.
10:16 the Lord, the LORD of armies The SLB shows two Hebrew names together: Adonai, Lord or Master, and Yahweh, God's personal name. He will send a wasting sickness among Assyria's warriors, a fire smoldering under their glory.
10:17 the light of Israel will become a fire God is light to His people and a consuming fire to His enemies (Heb 12:29). Now Assyria is the thicket, burned "in one day." I believe this was fulfilled in 701 B.C., when the angel of the LORD struck the Assyrian camp in one night (37:36).
10:18 as when a sick man wastes away Assyria lasted almost another century and even conquered Egypt. But God's word stood, and Nineveh fell in 612 B.C. So few trees remain that a boy could count them (v. 19).
10:20 will no longer again lean on the one who struck him The remnant is the small part God preserves after judgment. Ahaz leaned on Assyria (2 Kgs 16:7), and that alliance became a beating. The remnant will lean on the Holy One alone. Hardship had done its work.
10:21 A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the Mighty God In Hebrew, Shear-jashub, the name of Isaiah's son (7:3). They return to El Gibbor, the title of the Child in 9:6. I believe this is a clear hint that the coming Messiah is God Himself.
10:22 a remnant within it will return Israel was promised descendants like the sand (Gen 22:17), yet only a remnant returns. Paul quotes this to explain Israel's unbelief (Rom 9:27). But he also says all Israel will be saved when the Deliverer comes out of Zion (Rom 11:25-27). I believe that points to the day of Christ's return. God has not given up on Israel.
10:24 Do not be afraid, My people who dwell in Zion, of Assyria Assyria will strike as Egypt did long ago, but Egypt's power ended at the Red Sea. Remembering what God did before helps us trust Him now.
10:25 yet a very little while, and the indignation will be finished God's anger toward His people has a limit, and then it turns on their oppressor (Ps 30:5). Hard seasons are real but not forever.
10:26 like the striking of Midian at the rock of Oreb Gideon's men killed Oreb (Judg 7:25), and Moses lifted his staff over the sea (Exod 14:26-28). God had done both before and would do it to Assyria.
10:27 the yoke will be destroyed because of fatness The yoke breaks as 9:4 promised. The last phrase is hard to translate, and some read it as because of the anointing. I take it that Judah, blessed and strengthened by God, will outgrow the yoke and burst it. Either way it breaks because of what God does.
10:29 Gibeah of Saul has fled A vivid march from the north through towns a few miles from Jerusalem: Aiath (old Ai), Migron, Michmash, Geba, Ramah, Gibeah, Anathoth (Jer 1:1). Panic spreads hilltop to hilltop. Some read it as Sennacherib's actual route in 701 B.C., others as a poetic picture. Either way the threat was close.

place for us; Ramah (Rama) has trembled; Gibeah (Giva) of Saul (Shaul) has fled. 30 Cry aloud with your voice, daughter of Gallim (Galim)! Pay attention, Laishah (Laysha)! O afflicted Anathoth (Anatot)! 31 Madmenah (Madmena) has fled; the inhabitants of Gebim (Gevim) have taken refuge. 32 Yet today he will stand at Nob (Nov); he will shake his hand at the mountain of the daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem. 33 Look, the Lord, the LORD of armies, is about to lop off the boughs with a crash; and the exalted of height will be cut down, and the lofty will be brought low. 34 And He will cut down the thickets of the forest with the iron, and the Lebanon (Levanon) will fall by a mighty one.

The Branch from Jesse

1 And a shoot will come forth from the stump of Jesse (Yishay), and a branch from his roots will bear fruit. 2 And the Spirit of the LORD will rest on Him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD. 3 And His delight will be in the fear of the LORD; and He will not judge by the sight of His eyes, and He will not decide by the hearing of His ears; 4 and He will judge the poor with righteousness, and decide with uprightness for the humble of the earth; and He will strike the earth with the rod of His mouth, and with the breath of His lips He will put the wicked to death. 5 And righteousness will be the waistband of His hips, and faithfulness the waistband of His loins. 6 And the wolf will sojourn with the lamb, and the leopard will lie down with the young goat, and the calf and the young lion and the fatling will be together; and a small boy will lead them. 7 And the cow and the bear will graze; their young will lie down together; and the lion, like the ox, will eat straw. 8 And the nursing child will play over the hole of the cobra, and the weaned child will put out his hand over the nest of the viper. 9 They will not do evil and they will not destroy in all the mountain of My holiness; for the earth will be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea.

The Root of Jesse and the Second Gathering

10 And it will be in that day that the root of Jesse, who will stand as a banner of the peoples, nations will seek Him, and His resting place will be glory. 11 And it will be in that day that the Lord will again set His hand a second time to acquire the remnant of His people which will remain, from Assyria (Ashur) and from Egypt (Mitsrayim) and from Pathros
(Patros) and from Cush (Kush) and from Elam and from Shinar and from Hamath (Chamat) and from the coastlands of the sea. 12 And He will lift up a banner for the nations, and He will gather the banished of Israel (Yisra'el), and the scattered of Judah (Yehuda) He will assemble from the four cor-

10:32 he will shake his hand at the mountain of the daughter of Zion Nob, a town of priests (1 Sam 21:1), was within sight of the city. The fist is shaken but never strikes. God sets the line.
10:34 the Lebanon will fall by a mighty one Assyria called itself the axe (v. 15), and now it is the tree cut down, a forest of stumps with no new life. But chapter 11 begins with a stump that sprouts.
11:1 a shoot will come forth from the stump of Jesse Isaiah names Jesse, not David, because David's royal house will look like a stump, back to its humble beginnings in Bethlehem (1 Sam 16:11). Jesus was born in David's line (Matt 1:1-16), but to a carpenter's family with no throne. "Branch" became a title of the Messiah (Jer 23:5; Zech 3:8), the Anointed One, Christ in Greek. Assyria fell and stayed fallen. David's stump sprouted.
11:2 the Spirit of the LORD will rest on Him The Spirit came on judges and kings for a season. On this King He remains. Wisdom and understanding, counsel and might, knowledge and the fear of the LORD. The Spirit came down on Jesus at His baptism and remained (John 1:32-33), and He read, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me" (Luke 4:18).
11:3 His delight will be in the fear of the LORD Reverence and love that want to please God. He always did what pleased the Father (John 8:29). He will not judge by appearances or rumor. He sees the heart, a comfort if you have been misjudged and a warning if you are hiding something.
11:4 with the breath of His lips He will put the wicked to death The poor will get a fair hearing. He needs no army, for His word is enough. Paul draws on this for the Lord Jesus slaying the lawless one at His coming (2 Thess 2:8; Rev 19:15). At His first coming He came to save, not slay. I believe verses 4-9 describe His second coming and the kingdom that follows.
11:5 righteousness will be the waistband of His hips A belt held a robe together for work. Everything He does is held together by righteousness and faithfulness, and what is true of the King is meant to be true of His people (Eph 6:14).
11:6 the wolf will sojourn with the lamb Some say this pictures only peace between people. I take it as written, for nothing marks it as a figure, and creation itself waits to be set free from corruption (Rom 8:19-22). It has not happened yet. I believe it describes the Millennium, Christ's thousand-year reign (Rev 20:4-6), when a child is safe among animals that once would have killed him.
11:7 the lion, like the ox, will eat straw Predators become plant eaters, as at the beginning (Gen 1:30; Isa 65:25). The violence that entered creation through sin is undone.
11:8 the nursing child will play over the hole of the cobra Every parent knows the terror of that picture today. Some see a reminder of the serpent in Eden. The creature that brought death will be harmless around the smallest child.
11:9 the earth will be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea The holy mountain is Zion, the center of His rule. No spot in the sea is left dry, and no person will be ignorant of God (Hab 2:14). Until then we have a part in spreading that knowledge, one person at a time.
11:10 the root of Jesse, who will stand as a banner of the peoples In verse 1 He is a shoot from Jesse, here the root, because He is both David's descendant and David's Lord (Rev 22:16). Paul quotes this to show God always planned to bring the Gentiles to Christ (Rom 15:12). If you are not Jewish and trust Jesus, this verse is about you.
11:11 the Lord will again set His hand a second time to acquire the remnant of His people The first time was Egypt (v. 16). Some apply this to the return under Cyrus in 538 B.C., but that came mostly from one place. This list covers the known world: Pathros in southern Egypt, Cush south of Egypt, Elam east of Babylon, Shinar or Babylon, Hamath in Syria, and the coastlands. I believe it points to a final regathering of Israel when Christ returns (Matt 24:31).
11:12 from the four corners of the earth Both north and south are gathered. Many see the modern return of Jews to the land and the State of Israel in 1948 as a step toward this. I do not want to read too much into headlines, but God keeps His promises to Israel, and the full keeping comes when the nation turns to its Messiah (Rom 11:25-27).

The Fall of Babylon

1 The oracle of Babylon (Bavel), which Isaiah (Yeshayahu) the son of Amoz (Amots) saw. 2 On a bare mountain lift up a banner; raise a voice to them; wave a hand, so that they may enter the doors of the nobles. 3 I have commanded My consecrated ones; I have also summoned My mighty ones for My anger, the exultant ones of My pride. 4 The sound of a tumult on the mountains, the likeness of a great people! The sound of an uproar of kingdoms of nations gathered together! The LORD of armies is mustering an army of battle. 5 They are coming from a distant land, from the end of the heavens, the LORD and the weapons of His indignation, to destroy all the land. 6 Wail, for the day of the LORD is near; it will come like destruction from the Almighty. 7 Therefore all hands will go limp, and every heart of man will melt. 8 And they will be terrified; pangs and pains will seize them; they will writhe like a woman giving birth; each will look in astonishment at his neighbor; their faces will be faces of flames. 9 Look, the day of the LORD is coming, cruel, and with wrath and burning of anger, to make the land a waste; and He will destroy its 11:13 Ephraim will not be jealous of Judah The old rivalry of north and south (9:21) is over, one nation under one king (Ezek 37:15-22). Under Christ's rule old hatreds can finally be laid down.

11:14 Edom and Moab will be the stretching out of their hand Israel's old enemies on every side will no longer threaten God's people, who will be secure in the land under the King.
11:15 He will make men walk over in sandals God dries the tongue of Egypt's sea and splits the River, the Euphrates, so people cross dry-shod, as at the Red Sea and the Jordan (Exod 14; Josh 3). He removes every barrier to His people coming home.
11:16 there will be a highway for the remnant of His people Highways run through Isaiah (19:23; 35:8; 40:3). God does not only call people home. He makes the road. If you feel far from God, He is the One who builds the way back.
12:1 let Your anger turn back, and may You comfort me "That day" is the day of chapter 11, and the "you" is singular. Each person sings for himself. The singer admits God was rightly angry. Through chapters 9-10 His anger "has not turned back," and now at last he asks God to turn it. Jesus took that anger on Himself at the cross (Rom 5:9), so every believer can sing this.
12:2 Look, God is my salvation Not only does God save. He is my salvation. My rescue is a Person. Fear and trust cannot both rule one heart. The rest echoes the Red Sea song (Exod 15:2; Ps 118:14). A new Exodus deserves the old Exodus song.
12:3 you will draw water with joy from the springs of the salvation In a dry land a spring meant life, and drawing water was hard daily work, done here with joy. At the Feast of Booths, where water was later poured at the temple, Jesus cried out that the thirsty should come to Him and drink (John 7:37-38). Are you drinking from Him, or from wells that leave you thirsty?
12:4 make known His deeds among the peoples Salvation is never meant to stay private (49:6; Matt 28:19-20). The song closes with joy that the Holy One lives among His people (v. 6). The God who undid Isaiah in chapter 6 becomes their gladness, which is what forgiveness does (Rev 21:3).
13:1 The oracle of Babylon The word can also mean burden, a heavy message of judgment. Isaiah saw it more than a century before Babylon fell. Predicting the future is what the God of the Bible does (46:9-10). Chapters 13-23 hold oracles against the nations.
13:3 I have commanded My consecrated ones Set apart for a task. These are pagan armies, but God sets them apart to carry out His anger, as He used Assyria in chapter 10. They have no idea whose plan they fulfill.
13:5 from the end of the heavens The Medes and Persians came from far northeast of Babylon. "All the land" can also mean the whole earth, a hint that this judgment reaches past Babylon.
13:6 Wail, for the day of the LORD is near Any time God steps into history to judge sin is a day of the LORD, like Babylon's fall, and there is a final Day of the LORD at the end of this age (2 Pet 3:10; 1 Thess 5:2). In Hebrew "destruction" sounds like Shaddai, the Almighty. No one can stand against it.
13:8 they will writhe like a woman giving birth Strong men go weak, a picture Jesus also used for the troubles before His return (Matt 24:8). Every proud empire comes to the moment it finds it is not in control.
13:9 cruel, and with wrath and burning of anger Hard words, but God's anger is not a temper like ours. It is His settled, holy opposition to evil. Sin will not be allowed to stay, and God has given sinners a way to be saved before that day.

sinners from it. 10 For the stars of the heavens and their constellations will not flash forth their light; the sun will be dark at its going forth, and the moon will not make its light shine. 11 And I will punish the world for evil, and the wicked for their iniquity; and I will put an end to the pride of the arrogant, and the haughtiness of the ruthless I will bring low. 12 I will make man more rare than pure gold, and mankind than the gold of Ophir (Ofir). 13 Therefore I will make the heavens tremble, and the earth will shake from its place at the wrath of the LORD of armies and in the day of the burning of His anger. 14 And it will be that like a hunted gazelle, and like sheep with no one gathering them, each will turn to his people, and each will flee to his land. 15 Everyone who is found will be pierced through, and everyone who is caught will fall by the sword. 16 And their children will be dashed in pieces before their eyes; their houses will be plundered, and their wives lain with. 17 Look, I am about to stir up Media (Maday) against them, who do not value silver, and gold, they do not delight in it. 18 And their bows will dash youths in pieces, and on the fruit of the womb they will have no compassion; on sons their eye will not look with pity. 19 And Babylon, the beauty of kingdoms, the splendor of the pride of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), will be like God's overthrow of Sodom (Sedom) and Gomorrah (Amora). 20 It will not be inhabited ever, and it will not be dwelt in from generation to generation; and an Arab will not pitch a tent there, and shepherds will not make their flocks lie down there. 21 And desert creatures will lie down there, and their houses will be full of howling creatures; and the daughters of the ostrich will dwell there, and wild goats will leap about there. 22 And hyenas will cry out in its citadels, and jackals in the palaces of delight; and its time is near to come, and its days will not be prolonged.

The Fallen Star

1 For the LORD will have compassion on Jacob (Ya'aqov), and will again choose Israel (Yisra'el), and will give them rest on their land; and the sojourner will join himself to them, and they will attach themselves to the house of Jacob. 2 And peoples will take them and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess them as an inheritance on the land of the LORD as male servants and female servants; and they will be captors of their captors, and they will have dominion over their oppressors. 3 And it will be in the day the LORD gives you rest from your pain and from your turmoil and from the hard labor with which you were made to labor, 4 that you will take up this proverb against the king of Babylon (Bavel), and say, "How the oppressor has ceased! The raging has ceased! 5 The LORD has broken the staff of the wicked, the scepter of rulers, 6 which struck peoples in wrath, a blow without ceasing, which had dominion over nations in anger, a persecution without restraint. 7 All the earth is at rest, it is quiet; they break forth into a shout of 13:10 the sun will be dark at its going forth The scene widens to the cosmos. Jesus used this language for right after the Tribulation and before His return (Matt 24:29; Joel 2:31; Rev 6:12-13). I read it as a double fulfillment: Babylon's fall was a near Day of the LORD, but the language looks ahead to the final Day at the end of the Tribulation.

13:11 I will punish the world for evil Not Babylon only but the world, and God singles out pride, the sin that started the rebellion and the one He brings low at the end (Jas 4:6).
13:12 I will make man more rare than pure gold Ophir's gold was the finest Israel knew (1 Kgs 9:28). Revelation describes huge numbers dying in the Tribulation judgments (Rev 6:8; 9:15). The final judgment is real, and it is coming.
13:13 I will make the heavens tremble God will shake heaven and earth so only what cannot be shaken remains (Heb 12:26-27). Everything built without God will be shaken loose.
13:14 each will flee to his land Babylon was full of foreigners, traders and captives. A city held together by money and power falls apart when the power fails.
13:16 Their children will be dashed in pieces before their eyes Among the hardest verses in Isaiah. He does not approve these horrors. He describes what war is and what Babylon's enemies would do. Babylon had done the same to others, Jerusalem included (Ps 137:8-9), and what it sowed it would reap (Gal 6:7). The Bible never hides how terrible sin and its fruit can be. I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
13:17 I am about to stir up Media against them In Isaiah's day the Medes were scattered mountain tribes, yet God named them. In 539 B.C. Cyrus, ruling the Medes and Persians, took Babylon, the night of Belshazzar's feast (Dan 5:30-31). This is real predictive prophecy. They could not be bought off with silver.
13:19 Babylon, the beauty of kingdoms Famous for its walls, gates and gardens, ruled in its last great age by the Chaldeans. Cyrus took it with little fighting, but it declined over centuries into ruin. Revelation takes up the name for the final world system, which falls in a single hour (Rev 18:10). I believe the full weight of this verse lands there.
13:20 It will not be inhabited ever By the early centuries after Christ the city was largely abandoned, and it has never again become what it was. God's word held true.
13:21 the daughters of the ostrich will dwell there The Hebrew names of some of these animals are not certain. The picture is clear: the palace of the world's proudest city becomes a den of wild creatures (Rev 18:2).
13:22 its time is near to come More than a century away for Isaiah's readers, but near in God's sight (2 Pet 3:8). The judgment of the proud may seem slow, but it always comes on time.
14:1 the LORD will have compassion on Jacob, and will again choose Israel Babylon falls because God has compassion on Jacob. His choice of Israel was not canceled by their sin. Foreigners will join them, as Ruth did (Ruth 1:16), and in the end people of every nation are joined to God's people through the Messiah (Eph 2:12-13).
14:2 they will be captors of their captors The tables turn. Cyrus paying to send the Jews home and rebuild the temple was a first taste (Ezra 1:1-4). I believe the full picture waits for the Messiah's kingdom (60:10-14).
14:4 you will take up this proverb against the king of Babylon A mocking song over a fallen tyrant. It is not personal revenge but rejoicing that God has ended evil (Rev 18:20). Verse 4 says plainly whom the song is about, and we start there.
14:6 which struck peoples in wrath, a blow without ceasing Babylon carried off whole peoples, Judah among them. Its kings thought their rod would never break, and God snapped it like a stick (v. 5).

14:8 Since you lay down, the cutter does not come up against us Conquering kings cut Lebanon's forests for their buildings and wars (37:24). Now even the trees rest. When evil is removed, all creation benefits (Rom 8:21).
14:9 Sheol beneath is stirred up over you to meet your coming Sheol is the place of the dead. The spirits of dead kings rise to meet the newcomer. It is poetry built on truth: the dead are conscious (Luke 16:22-24), and earthly rank means nothing there.
14:11 under you maggots are spread as a bed The man who slept in a palace lies in decay, and the dead kings mock his weakness (v. 10). Every ruler ends here unless God raises him. Our only hope beyond the grave is the One who rose from it.
14:12 How you have fallen from heaven, O shining one, son of dawn Hebrew helel ben shachar, the bright morning star that fades at sunrise. First and plainly this is the king of Babylon (v. 4), a man with a body and a grave (vv. 16-20). Early church writers applied it to the devil, tying it to Luke 10:18. Jerome's Latin Bible used lucifer, the everyday Latin name for the morning star, and it became a proper name in the King James Version. The SLB goes back to "shining one."
14:12 You have been cut down to the ground The language goes beyond any human king, as with the king of Tyre who was "in Eden" (Ezek 28:12-17; Rev 12:9). I read it both ways, in order. The king of Babylon is the first meaning. Behind him stands Satan, who drives every proud empire. The king's pride copies the devil's, and his fall previews the devil's final fall (Rev 20:10).
14:13 And you said in your heart Sin began where no one could see. Count five "I will" boasts in verses 13-14. The mount of assembly was where ancient peoples imagined the gods met, far north, and Zion is God's true dwelling (Ps 48:2). He wanted God's seat. Satan tempted Eve with the same offer (Gen 3:5). When we insist on running our lives without God, we echo those words.
14:14 I will make myself like the Most High Not wanting God's character, but God's throne without God's heart. Jesus was equal with God yet emptied Himself and took the form of a slave, and was given the name above every name (Phil 2:6-9). The way up in God's kingdom is down.
14:15 Yet you are brought down to Sheol, to the remotest parts of the pit One word ends five boasts. He wanted the heights and gets the depths. For Satan the final place is the lake of fire (Rev 20:10).
14:16 Is this the man who made the earth tremble At the first level this is a human king. Babylon's kings did not let captives go home (v. 17). The terror of the world turns out to be small and weak like everyone else.
14:19 you have been cast out from your tomb like an abhorred branch Other kings lie in honor. Being refused burial was the final disgrace. The man who wanted a throne above the stars does not even get a grave.
14:21 Prepare a place of slaughter for his sons Harsh to our ears, but the point is that Babylon's empire will not rise again under his descendants. God ends a dynasty that filled the earth with violence, and Babylon's royal line ended in 539 B.C.
14:23 I will sweep it with the broom of destruction The greatest city on earth, built among the Euphrates canals, becomes a swamp for the hedgehog, swept away like dust.
14:24 The LORD of armies has sworn Isaiah turns from far-off Babylon to Assyria, the threat in front of him. There is no stronger promise than God's oath (Heb 6:17-18). The near fulfillment would prove the far one.
14:25 to break Assyria in My land Not far away but right in Judah. In 701 B.C. the angel of the LORD struck 185,000 Assyrians in one night outside Jerusalem (37:36), and the yoke came off as promised (10:27).
14:27 For the LORD of armies has planned, and who will frustrate it The hand that warned Israel is stretched over all nations (v. 26). No one can cancel His plan or push back His hand. If God has planned your salvation and future (Rom 8:28-30), no enemy can undo it.

who will turn it back? 28 In the year of the death of King Ahaz (Achaz) this oracle came: 29 Do not rejoice, Philistia (Peleshet), all of you, that the rod of the one who struck you is broken; for from the root of the snake a viper will come forth, and its fruit will be a flying serpent. 30 And the firstborn of the poor will graze, and the needy will lie down in security; and I will put your root to death by famine, and it will slay your remnant. 31 Wail, O gate! Cry out, O city! Melt away, Philistia, all of you! For from the north smoke is coming, and there is no straggler in his ranks. 32 And what will one answer the messengers of the nation? That the LORD has founded Zion (Tsiyon), and in it the afflicted of His people will take refuge.

Moab Weeps

1 The oracle of Moab (Mo'av): For in a night Ar of Moab was devastated, it was cut off; for in a night Kir (Qir) of Moab was devastated, it was cut off. 2 He has gone up to the house and to Dibon (Divon), to the high places, for weeping; over Nebo (Nevo) and over Medeba (Medva) Moab wails; on all its heads is baldness, every beard is clipped. 3 In its streets they have girded on sackcloth; on its roofs and in its open squares all of it wails, going down in weeping. 4 And Heshbon (Cheshbon) cries out, and Elealeh (Elale); their voice is heard as far as Jahaz (Yahats). Therefore the armed men of Moab shout; its soul trembles within it. 5 My heart cries out for Moab; its fugitives flee as far as Zoar (Tso'ar), to Eglath-shelishiyah (Eglat-Shelishiyah). For the ascent of Luhith (Luchit), with weeping he goes up on it; for on the road of Horonaim (Choronayim) they rouse a cry of shattering. 6 For the waters of Nimrim are desolations; for the grass has dried up, the vegetation has wasted away, there is no greenery.
7 Therefore the abundance that it has made and their stored goods they carry off over the wadi of the willows. 8 For the cry has gone around the territory of Moab; its wailing is as far as Eglaim (Eglayim), and its wailing is at Beer-elim. 9 For the waters of Dimon are full of blood; for I will put added things on Dimon: for the escaped of Moab a lion, and for the remnant of the land.

The Pride of Moab

1 Send a lamb to the ruler of the land, from Sela toward the wilderness, to the mountain of the daughter of Zion (Tsiyon). 2 And it will be that like a fluttering bird, a nest sent away, so the daughters of Moab (Mo'av) will be at the fords of the Arnon. 3 Bring counsel, make a decision; make your shade like the night in the middle of noon; hide the outcasts; do not expose the fugitive. 4 Let my outcasts sojourn among you, Moab; be a shelter to them from before the destroyer. For the oppressor has come to an end, devastation has ceased, the trampler is consumed from the land. 5 And a throne will be established in steadfast love, and he will sit on it in faithfulness in the tent of David, judging and seeking justice and 14:28 In the year of the death of King Ahaz The faithless king of chapter 7. Scholars date his death between about 727 and 715 B.C. His godly son Hezekiah came to the throne.

14:29 Do not rejoice, Philistia The coastal enemy since Samson and David celebrated because some rod that struck them was broken, perhaps a king of Judah or of Assyria. A worse attacker is coming, a darting flying serpent. Philistia was trading a bad master for a worse one.
14:30 the needy will lie down in security God's poor are fed while Philistia's root dies of famine. The humble are lifted and the proud brought down (Luke 1:52-53).
14:31 For from the north smoke is coming A disciplined army with no stragglers fits Assyria, which took the Philistine city of Ashdod (20:1).
14:32 That the LORD has founded Zion, and in it the afflicted of His people will take refuge Messengers, probably from Philistia, hoped Judah would join them against Assyria. The answer: Judah's safety is in God, not alliances. When people offer us security everywhere but the Lord, our reply is the same.
15:1 For in a night Ar of Moab was devastated Ar and Kir, two chief cities, ruined overnight. Kir is probably Kir-hareseth (16:7). The Moabites descended from Lot (Gen 19:36-37) and lived on the plateau east of the Dead Sea, relatives of Israel and often enemies. Yet Ruth, David's great-grandmother, was a Moabitess. God's dealings with Moab were never simple hatred.
15:2 He has gone up to the house and to Dibon, to the high places, for weeping In distress they ran to the shrines of Chemosh (1 Kgs 11:7), who could not help. The Moabite Stone of King Mesha was found at Dibon. Shaved heads and clipped beards were signs of deep mourning.
15:5 My heart cries out for Moab Isaiah announces judgment on an idol-worshiping nation, yet he grieves, and through him we hear God's heart (Jer 48:31-36; Ezek 33:11). Jesus wept over Jerusalem as He foretold its fall (Luke 19:41-44). When we speak of judgment, our hearts should be broken, not hard. The refugees flee toward Zoar, where Lot once fled (Gen 19:22).
15:7 they carry off over the wadi of the willows Everything they stored up is now a bundle on their backs, carried across the border stream. Treasure on earth can be lost (Matt 6:19-20).
15:9 the waters of Dimon are full of blood The Hebrew spells it Dimon, which sounds like dam, blood, a grim wordplay. Even then a lion awaits the survivors. Those who escape one judgment while refusing God meet another. Moab's only safe place was the one it would not go to, the God of Israel.
16:1 Send a lamb to the ruler of the land Moab once paid Israel a tribute of a hundred thousand lambs (2 Kgs 3:4). Now from Sela, a rock fortress in Edom where refugees fled, they are to send lambs to Zion. Moab should humble itself and seek the protection of David's house.
16:3 hide the outcasts; do not expose the fugitive A plea for mercy, from the refugees or from Isaiah on their behalf: shade us like night at noon. God's law told Israel to care for the stranger (Deut 10:19). Even an old enemy in distress should be sheltered.
16:5 a throne will be established in steadfast love The heart of the chapter. Steadfast love is hesed, God's loyal covenant love. No king of Isaiah's day fully fit this. I believe it points to the Messiah of 9:7 and 11:1-5, raising up David's tent (Amos 9:11; Acts 15:16). Moab's refuge is not only Jerusalem but the King on David's throne, and Jesus is that refuge for anyone from any nation.

swift in righteousness. 6 We have heard the pride of Moab, it is very proud, its haughtiness and its pride and its arrogance; its empty boasts are not right. 7 Therefore Moab will wail for Moab; all of it will wail. For the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth (Qir-Chareset) you will moan, utterly stricken. 8 For the fields of Heshbon (Cheshbon) have withered, the vine of Sibmah (Sivmah); the lords of the nations have struck down its choice vines; they reached as far as Jazer (Yazer), they wandered into the wilderness; its shoots were spread out, they passed over the sea. 9 Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer for the vine of Sibmah; I drench you with my tears, Heshbon and Elealeh (Elale); for over your summer fruit and over your harvest the shouting has fallen. 10 And gladness and rejoicing will be removed from the fruitful field, and in the vineyards it will not be sung, it will not be shouted; the treader will not tread wine in the winepresses; I have made the shouting cease. 11 Therefore my inward parts sound like the lyre for Moab, and my inner being for Kir-haresh (Qir-Chares). 12 And it will be, when it is seen that Moab has wearied itself on the high place, and it comes to its sanctuary to pray, that it will not prevail. 13 This is the word which the LORD spoke concerning Moab long ago. 14 And now the LORD has spoken, saying, "In three years, like the years of a hired laborer, the glory of Moab will be held in contempt with all the great multitude, and a remnant will be small, very little, not mighty."

Damascus and Ephraim

1 The oracle of Damascus (Dameseq): Look, Damascus is about to be removed from being a city, and it will be a heap of ruin. 2 The cities of Aroer (Aro'er) will be abandoned; they will be for flocks, and they will lie down, and there will be none who terrifies them. 3 And the fortress will cease from Ephraim (Efrayim), and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria (Aram); they will be like the glory of the sons of Israel (Yisra'el), declares the LORD of armies. 4 And it will be in that day that the glory of Jacob (Ya'aqov) will become low, and the fatness of his flesh will be made lean. 5 And it will be like the gathering of the harvest of standing grain, and his arm reaps the ears of grain; and it will be like one who gathers ears of grain in the valley of Rephaim (Refa'im). 6 And gleanings will be left in it like the beating of an olive tree, two or three olives at the top of the highest branch, four or five on the branches of the fruit-bearing tree, declares the LORD, the God of Israel. 7 In that day man will look to his Maker, and his eyes will look to the Holy One of Israel. 8 And he will not look to the altars, the work of his hands; and what his fingers have made he will not regard, either the Asherah poles or the incense altars. 9 In that day his strong cities will be like the forsaken place of the forest and the treetop which they abandoned because of the sons of Israel; and it will be a desolation. 10 For you have forgotten the God of your salvation, and the rock of your stronghold

16:6 We have heard the pride of Moab, it is very proud Why Moab does not take the offer (Jer 48:29). Its boasts have nothing behind them. Pride still keeps people from the Son of David. It is hard to ask for shelter when you will not admit you need it.
16:7 For the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth you will moan A delicacy of pressed grapes, perhaps used in worship. The small luxuries taken for granted are the first missed when judgment comes.
16:8 the vine of Sibmah Moab's vineyards were famous, their branches reaching to Jazer, the desert and the sea. Foreign lords have trampled the best of them.
16:9 Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer Verse 10 says "I have made the shouting cease," which sounds like God Himself. I believe the grief is God's own, carried in His prophet's voice.
16:10 the treader will not tread wine in the winepresses The grape harvest was a time of singing as workers trod grapes in stone presses. Joy not rooted in God can be taken in a single season (Jer 48:33).
16:11 my inward parts sound like the lyre for Moab Like lyre strings vibrating low. God's judgments are not cold. If He grieves over a proud pagan nation, how much more does He care for you?
16:12 Moab has wearied itself on the high place It wears itself out praying to Chemosh, and no one is there to hear (1 Kgs 18:26). Moab had a living God offering shelter in Zion and chose an idol that could not even hear.
16:14 In three years, like the years of a hired laborer The earlier word (v. 13) now comes due with an exact deadline. A hired man counts his years and works not a day more. We are not told when this was spoken, so we cannot date its fulfillment, but Moab fell under Assyria and in time disappeared as a people. God has also set the day of Christ's return (Acts 17:31).
17:1 Damascus is about to be removed from being a city The capital of Aram, whose king Rezin joined Israel against Judah (7:1). In 732 B.C. Tiglath-pileser took Damascus and killed Rezin (2 Kgs 16:9). Damascus was rebuilt and is a major city today, so some believe a final fulfillment remains. I read it as fulfilled plainly in 732 B.C., when it ceased to be a royal capital. It may have a future layer, but I hold that loosely and would not tie it to any headline.
17:3 the fortress will cease from Ephraim Samaria, Ephraim's fortress. The allies against Judah fall together, Samaria about 722 B.C., ten years after Damascus.
17:4 the glory of Jacob will become low Israel's prosperity under kings like Jeroboam II had made them forget God (Amos 6:1-6). Now it melts away like a strong man wasting to skin and bone.
17:6 two or three olives at the top of the highest branch Grace in judgment. A few olives always stayed out of reach. That is the remnant. Some from the fallen north later worshiped at Jerusalem in Hezekiah's day (2 Chr 30:11), and there is still a remnant by grace (Rom 11:5).
17:7 In that day man will look to his Maker The goal of judgment. Sometimes God must take everything else away before we look up. That feels harsh, but it is mercy, like a shepherd bringing a straying sheep home.
17:8 either the Asherah poles or the incense altars Asherah poles were wooden poles or images for a Canaanite goddess. You cannot look to your Maker and to the things you made at the same time (1 Thess 1:9).
17:10 For you have forgotten the God of your salvation The reason for everything. Many think the "pleasant plantings" were gardens for foreign fertility gods, trusted for a good harvest instead of the LORD. Forgetting God always leads to replacing Him with something else.

you have not remembered; therefore you plant pleasant plantings, and you sow it with the vine branch of a stranger. 11 In the day of your planting you make it grow, and in the morning you make your seed sprout; a heap is the harvest in a day of sickness and incurable pain. 12 Woe to the tumult of many peoples; they roar like the roaring of the seas; and the rumbling of nations; they rumble like the rumbling of mighty waters. 13 Nations rumble like the rumbling of many waters, and He will rebuke it, and it will flee far away, and it will be chased like the chaff of the mountains before a wind and like whirling dust before a storm wind. 14 At evening time, and look, sudden terror! Before morning it is no more. This is the portion of those who plunder us, and the lot of those who despoil us.

Cush

1 Woe, land of the whirring of wings, which is beyond the rivers of Cush (Kush), 2 which sends envoys by the sea, and in vessels of papyrus on the face of the waters: "Go, swift messengers, to a nation tall and smooth-skinned, to a people feared from it and onward, a nation of strength, strength, and trampling, whose land the rivers divide." 3 All inhabitants of the world and dwellers of the earth, when a banner is lifted up on the mountains, you will see it, and when a trumpet is blown, you will hear it. 4 For thus the LORD said to me, "I will be quiet, and I will look on from My dwelling place, like dazzling heat upon light, like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest." 5 For before harvest, when the bud is finished, and the blossom becomes a ripening grape, then He will cut off the shoots with the pruning knives, and the tendrils He will remove, He will cut away. 6 They will be left together for the birds of prey of the mountains and for the beasts of the earth; and the birds of prey will spend the summer on it, and every beast of the earth will spend the winter on it. 7 At that time a gift will be brought to the LORD of armies from a people tall and smooth-skinned, and from a people feared from it and onward, a nation of strength, strength, and trampling, whose land the rivers divide, to the place of the name of the LORD of armies, Mount Zion (Tsiyon).

Egypt Judged

1 The oracle of Egypt (Mitsrayim): Look, the LORD is riding on a swift cloud, and He is coming to Egypt; and the idols of Egypt will tremble before Him, and the heart of Egypt will melt within it. 2 And I will stir up Egypt against Egypt, and they will fight, each against his brother and each against his neighbor, city against city, kingdom against kingdom. 3 And the spirit of Egypt will be emptied out within it, and its counsel I will swallow up; and they will seek the idols and the mutterers and the mediums and the spiritists. 4 And I will hand over Egypt into the hand of a cruel master, and a strong king will rule over them, declares the Lord, the LORD of 17:11 a heap is the harvest in a day of sickness and incurable pain Their pagan gardens bloomed fast, but they reaped grief (Gal 6:7-8). What we plant in place of God never brings the harvest it promises.

17:12 they roar like the roaring of the seas The sea often stands for the restless nations (Rev 17:15). Here it is Assyria's army of many conquered peoples flooding toward Judah (8:7-8).
17:13 and He will rebuke it, and it will flee far away God only rebukes, and they are blown off like chaff (Ps 1:4). Armies that seem unstoppable are weightless in His hand.
17:14 At evening time, and look, sudden terror! Before morning it is no more Fulfilled exactly in 701 B.C., when 185,000 Assyrians lay dead by morning (37:36). I believe it also points ahead to the nations gathering against Jerusalem at the end of the age and being destroyed when Christ returns (Zech 14:2-3; Rev 19:19). God's people may be plundered for a night, but joy comes in the morning (Ps 30:5).
18:1 Woe, land of the whirring of wings, which is beyond the rivers of Cush Cush is the land south of Egypt along the upper Nile, roughly Sudan today, called Ethiopia in older Bibles. The whirring may be its insect swarms or its fast river boats. God sees a real nation far from Jerusalem.
18:2 Go, swift messengers, to a nation tall and smooth-skinned Kings from Cush then ruled Egypt too, and their envoys came in papyrus boats, most likely seeking partners against Assyria. Isaiah describes them with respect but sends them home. Judah's safety would come from the LORD, not a treaty.
18:3 when a banner is lifted up on the mountains, you will see it When God acts, no one will miss it. I believe this was seen first in Assyria's sudden defeat, and it looks ahead to the great trumpet and every eye seeing Christ return (Matt 24:30-31).
18:4 I will be quiet, and I will look on from My dwelling place While the nations rush about making alliances, God sits still and watches, steady as the sun's heat or harvest dew. The Bible does not fully say why He waits, but He sees and acts at the right time. His quiet is not His absence.
18:5 then He will cut off the shoots with the pruning knives Assyria's plans looked ready for harvest, and God cut them off, as in 701 B.C. (37:36). The fallen army is left to birds and beasts (v. 6). Those who set themselves against God's purpose will not stand.
18:7 At that time a gift will be brought to the LORD of armies The same feared people will bring gifts to Mount Zion. I believe this points to the Millennium, when the nations worship the King in Jerusalem (Zeph 3:10; Zech 14:16). A first taste came when an Ethiopian official read Isaiah and believed in Jesus (Acts 8:26-39).
19:1 the LORD is riding on a swift cloud, and He is coming to Egypt An oracle is a solemn message, often of judgment. Egypt worshiped many gods, and every one trembles before the real God. Idols cannot protect the people who made them.
19:2 I will stir up Egypt against Egypt Civil war. Egypt was long divided among rival rulers in this period. A nation that looks strong outside can crumble from within.
19:3 they will seek the idols and the mutterers and the mediums and the spiritists When people will not seek the living God, they look in dark places, and the answers only add to their confusion (8:19).
19:4 a strong king will rule over them Teachers suggest different rulers. Assyria's Esarhaddon took Memphis about 671 B.C., and other foreign kings followed. I take it as fulfilled in that run of conquest. The land Judah trusted could not even keep itself free.

How will you say to Pharaoh, "I am a son of the wise, a son of kings of old"? 12 Where are they, then, your wise ones? And let them tell you, please, and let them know what the LORD of armies has planned against Egypt. 13 The officials of Zoan have become fools; the officials of Memphis (Nof) have been deceived; they have led Egypt astray, the cornerstone of its tribes. 14 The LORD has mixed within it a spirit of distortion, and they have led Egypt astray in all its work, as a drunkard staggers in his vomit. 15 And there will not be for Egypt a work which head and tail, palm branch and bulrush, can do.

Egypt and Assyria Turn to the LORD

16 In that day Egypt will be like women, and it will tremble and be in dread because of the waving of the hand of the LORD of armies, which He is waving over it. 17 And the land of Judah (Yehuda) will become a terror to Egypt; everyone to whom one mentions it will be in dread because of the plan of the LORD of armies which He is planning against it. 18 In that day five cities in the land of Egypt will be speaking the language of Canaan (Kena'an) and swearing to the LORD of armies; one will be called City of Destruction (Ir-Heres). 19 In that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the middle of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to the LORD beside its border. 20 And it will become a sign and a witness to the LORD of armies in the land of Egypt; for they will cry out to the LORD because of oppressors, and He will send them a savior and a defender, and he will rescue them. 21 And the LORD will make Himself known to Egypt, and Egypt will know the LORD in that day; and they will serve with sacrifice and grain offering, and they will vow a vow to the LORD and will pay it. 22 And the LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing; and they will return to the LORD, and He will be entreated by them, and He will heal them. 23 In that day there will be a highway from Egypt toward Assyria (Ashur), and Assyria will come into Egypt, and Egypt into Assyria; and Egypt will serve with Assyria. 24 In that day Israel (Yisra'el) will be a third to Egypt and to Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, 25 whom the LORD of armies will bless, saying, "Blessed be My people Egypt, and the work of My hands Assyria, and My inheritance Israel."

19:5 the river will become parched and will be dry Egypt's whole life hung on the Nile's yearly flood. "The sea" likely means the Nile itself, so wide it was called a sea. The God who made the river can stop it. The canals stink and the riverbank fields blow away (vv. 6-7). What people build their security on can become the very thing that fails them.
19:9 the workers of combed flax will be ashamed Egypt was famous for fine white linen woven from Nile flax. One failure leads to the next, rippling through a whole economy.
19:10 its foundations will be crushed Probably the leaders and wealthy who held society up. From the top to the hired workers at the bottom, no class is spared.
19:11 The officials of Zoan are only fools Zoan in the delta was where Pharaoh's officials gathered. Egypt was proud of its wisdom and its long lines of wise men. Wisdom that leaves God out ends in foolishness (1 Cor 1:20).
19:13 the officials of Memphis have been deceived Memphis was the ancient capital. The cornerstone that should hold the nation together has led it astray.
19:14 as a drunkard staggers in his vomit The picture is ugly on purpose. God gives people over to the confusion they chose (Rom 1:28). No one, high or low, can get anything done (v. 15; Ps 127:1).
19:16 In that day Egypt will be like women Prose now, with "in that day" six times in verses 16-25. God waves His hand over Egypt as in Moses' day (Exod 14:16, 26). Fear is the first step, not the last.
19:18 five cities in the land of Egypt will be speaking the language of Canaan Hebrew, and swearing loyalty to the LORD. Some ancient copies read City of the Sun, Heliopolis, a center of sun worship. If so, a city of false worship becomes one of true worship. Readers differ on details, but the point is plain: Egypt will turn to the LORD.
19:19 there will be an altar to the LORD in the middle of the land of Egypt Like the altars and pillars of Abraham and Jacob (Gen 12:7; 28:18), signs the land belongs to the LORD. The old house of slavery becomes a place of worship.
19:20 He will send them a savior and a defender Egypt cries out, and God answers as in the days of the judges. I believe the final Savior is Jesus Christ, for no other can bring a nation to know God (Acts 4:12). Those who cried to idols (19:3) now cry to the LORD.
19:21 Egypt will know the LORD in that day More than defeat, this is conversion. I take it as the Millennium, when the nations worship the King (Zech 14:16-19).
19:22 striking and healing God strikes Egypt so it will return, and then He heals. His correction is never meant to destroy His children but to bring us home (Heb 12:6, 11).
19:23 there will be a highway from Egypt toward Assyria Armies once marched this road between the two great powers. In that day worshipers will travel it together. Only God turns old enemies into fellow worshipers. I believe it will be seen in Christ's thousand-year reign.
19:25 Blessed be My people Egypt, and the work of My hands Assyria, and My inheritance Israel Israel is a blessing in the middle of the earth, fulfilling the promise to Abraham (Gen 12:3). "My people" and "the work of My hands" were Israel's names, now given to Egypt and Assyria. Yet Israel is still "My inheritance." God brings in the Gentiles without throwing Israel out (Rom 11:1, 25-26).

Naked and Barefoot

1 In the year of the coming of the supreme commander to Ashdod, when Sargon the king of Assyria (Ashur) sent him, and he fought against Ashdod and captured it, 2 at that time the LORD spoke by the hand of Isaiah (Yeshayahu) the son of Amoz (Amots), saying, "Go, and loosen the sackcloth from your waist, and take off your sandals from your feet." And he did so, walking naked and barefoot. 3 And the LORD said, "Just as My servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot three years as a sign and a portent against Egypt (Mitsrayim) and against Cush (Kush), 4 so the king of Assyria will lead away the captives of Egypt and the exiles of Cush, young men and old men, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, the nakedness of Egypt. 5 And they will be dismayed and ashamed because of Cush their hope and because of Egypt their boast. 6 And the inhabitant of this coastland will say in that day, 'Look, thus is our hope, where we fled for help to be delivered from before the king of Assyria; and how will we ourselves escape?'"

Babylon Has Fallen

1 The oracle of the wilderness of the sea: Like storm winds in the Negeb (Negev) sweeping through, it comes from the wilderness, from a land to be feared. 2 A harsh vision has been told to me: the traitor is acting treacherously, and the destroyer is destroying. Go up, Elam! Lay siege, Media (Maday)! All its groaning I have made to cease. 3 Therefore my loins are filled with anguish; pangs have seized me like the pangs of a woman giving birth; I am bent over from hearing; I am terrified from seeing. 4 My heart has wandered; shuddering has overwhelmed me; the twilight of my desire He has made into trembling for me. 5 Arranging the table, spreading out the rug, eating, drinking! Arise, officials; anoint a shield! 6 For thus the Lord has said to me, "Go, station the watchman; what he sees, let him tell." 7 And he will see a rider, a pair of horsemen, a rider of a donkey, a rider of a camel; and he will listen with attentiveness, great attentiveness. 8 And he called out like a lion, "On a watchtower, Lord, I am standing continually by day, and at my post I am stationed all the nights. 9 And look, this is coming: a rider, a man, a pair of horsemen." And he answered and said, "Babylon (Bavel) has fallen, has fallen, and all the carved images of her gods He has shattered to the ground." 10 My threshed one, and the son of my threshing floor, what I have heard from the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), I have told to you. 11 The oracle of Dumah (Duma): One is calling to me from Seir (Se'ir), "Watchman, what of the night? Watchman, what of the night?" 12 The watchman says, "Morning comes, and also night. If you will inquire, inquire; return, come." 13 The oracle against Arabia (Arav): In the thicket in Arabia you will lodge, caravans of Dedanites. 14 To meet the thirsty bring water, inhabitants of the land of Tema; with his bread they have met the fugitive. 15 For they have fled from before swords, from before a drawn sword, and from before a bent bow, and from before the weight of battle. 16 For thus the Lord has said to me, "Within yet a 20:1 when Sargon the king of Assyria sent him Philistine Ashdod rebelled, counting on Egypt, and was captured about 711 B.C. Sargon was once known only from this verse, until digs uncovered his palace and records, a reminder that the Bible's history can be trusted.

20:2 walking naked and barefoot Sackcloth was the rough garment of mourners and prophets. "Naked" most likely means stripped to an undergarment, the way prisoners of war were marched away. Isaiah let his own life become the message, even at the cost of his dignity.
20:3 three years as a sign and a portent against Egypt and against Cush A long time to be a walking sign. God calls him "My servant," a title of honor. Faithfulness can look foolish to the world, but God sees and honors it.
20:4 so the king of Assyria will lead away the captives of Egypt Esarhaddon conquered Egypt and took Memphis in 671 B.C., and Ashurbanipal pushed farther south. What Isaiah acted out came true.
20:6 and how will we ourselves escape The coastland is Philistia and, by extension, Judah. It is the honest cry of anyone whose false hope has collapsed. Isaiah's answer is always the same: turn to the LORD (Ps 20:7).
21:1 The oracle of the wilderness of the sea Babylon (v. 9), in the flat land of southern Mesopotamia where rivers and marshes spread out like a sea. The attack is like a sudden desert windstorm out of the Negeb, the dry land south of Judah.
21:2 Go up, Elam! Lay siege, Media Elam lay east of Babylon, the Medes to the northeast. In 539 B.C. Cyrus of Persia, with the Medes, took Babylon. I take this as a plain prophecy of that event, given well over a century ahead.
21:3 pangs have seized me like the pangs of a woman giving birth A true prophet does not deliver judgment with a cold heart. Even deserved judgment grieves him, a good word for us when we speak of it.
21:5 Arranging the table, spreading out the rug, eating, drinking While danger is at the door, Babylon's leaders feast. Then the order: oil the leather shields so they will not crack. Belshazzar's feast ended with the city's fall that same night (Dan 5:30).
21:8 On a watchtower, Lord, I am standing continually by day Watching is slow, hard work, and most of the time nothing happens. Faithful waiting is part of the job, as for the church awaiting Christ (Luke 12:37).
21:9 Babylon has fallen, has fallen Her gods could not save her. Nearly the same words ring out over end-times Babylon (Rev 14:8; 18:2). Both falls are certain because the same God has spoken.
21:11 Watchman, what of the night Dumah sounds like the word for silence, and Seir is the mountain country of Edom. It is the cry of a people under Assyria's shadow, asking when the night will end.
21:12 Morning comes, and also night. If you will inquire, inquire; return, come Relief may come, but darkness will return. I take the invitation as a door left open. The only lasting morning comes to those who turn to the LORD.
21:14 To meet the thirsty bring water, inhabitants of the land of Tema Hospitality was a sacred duty in the desert. Even in judgment there is a call to mercy for those running for their lives.
21:16 all the glory of Kedar will be finished Kedar was a strong Arabian tribe from Ishmael (Gen 25:13). Within a year, counted like a hired man's contract, its archers will be few. Babylon, Edom and Arabia seemed beyond Judah's reach, but none was beyond God's.

year, like the years of a hired laborer, all the glory of Kedar (Qedar) will be finished. 17 And the remnant of the number of the archers, the warriors of the sons of Kedar, will be few; for the LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken."

The Valley of Vision

1 The oracle of the valley of vision: What is the matter with you, then, that you have gone up, all of you, to the roofs? 2 Full of noises, turbulent city, jubilant town, your slain are not slain by the sword, and not dead in battle. 3 All your rulers have fled together; without the bow they have been captured; all who were found of you were captured together; they had fled far away. 4 Therefore I said, "Look away from me; let me weep bitterly; do not insist on comforting me over the devastation of the daughter of my people." 5 For it is a day of tumult and trampling and confusion for the Lord GOD of armies in the valley of vision, a breaking down of a wall and a crying out to the mountain. 6 And Elam took up a quiver, with chariots of men and horsemen; and Kir (Qir) uncovered a shield. 7 And it was that the choicest of your valleys were full of chariots, and the horsemen surely took their stand toward the gate. 8 And he uncovered the covering of Judah (Yehuda); and you looked in that day to the weapons of the House of the Forest. 9 And you saw the breaches of the city of David, that they were many; and you gathered the waters of the lower pool. 10 And you counted the houses of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and you pulled down the houses to fortify the wall. 11 And you made a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old pool; and you did not look to the One who made it, and the One who formed it long ago you did not see. 12 And the Lord GOD of armies called in that day for weeping and for mourning and for baldness and for girding on sackcloth. 13 And look, joy and gladness, killing cattle and slaughtering sheep, eating flesh and drinking wine: "Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die." 14 And the LORD of armies has revealed Himself in my ears: "Surely this iniquity will not be atoned for you until you die," says the Lord GOD of armies.

Shebna and Eliakim

15 Thus says the Lord GOD of armies: "Go, come to this steward, to Shebna (Shevna), who is over the house: 16 What is yours here, and whom do you have here, that you have dug out a tomb for yourself here, digging out his tomb on high, cutting a dwelling for himself in the rock? 17 Look, the LORD is about to hurl you away with a hurling, O man, and to grasp you firmly. 18 He will surely wind you up in a winding, like a ball, into a land broad on both sides; there you will die, and there the chariots of your glory will be, the disgrace of the house of your master. 19 And I will push you from your office, and from your post He will tear you down. 20 And it will be in that day that I will summon My servant, Eliakim (Elyaqim) the son of Hilkiah (Chilqiyahu), 21 and I will clothe him with your tunic, and with your sash I will make him firm, and your authority I will put into his hand; and he will become a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. 22 And I will put the key of the house of David on his shoulder; and he will open, and there will be

22:1 The oracle of the valley of vision Unlike the oracles around it, this one is about Jerusalem, the city of Isaiah's visions, ringed by valleys. The people are on their flat rooftops, perhaps celebrating, perhaps watching the enemy.
22:2 your slain are not slain by the sword Many think they died of hunger and disease in a siege, or while fleeing. A city can be loud with celebration and still be on the edge of ruin.
22:3 All your rulers have fled together Zedekiah fled by night and was caught near Jericho (2 Kgs 25:4-6). I believe Isaiah may be looking past his own day to the fall of 586 B.C., though teachers differ. Either way, leaders abandon their people.
22:4 let me weep bitterly While the city laughs, the prophet weeps, as Jesus wept over Jerusalem (Luke 19:41-44). A heart close to God breaks over sin and its cost.
22:6 And Elam took up a quiver Soldiers from distant lands, Elam and Kir, where Assyria exiled Damascus (2 Kgs 16:9). Far-off nations are at Jerusalem's door, and chariots fill its valleys (v. 7).
22:8 you looked in that day to the weapons of the House of the Forest Solomon's cedar hall where shields were stored (1 Kgs 7:2; 10:17). Being prepared is not wrong. The problem was where they placed their trust.
22:10 you pulled down the houses to fortify the wall Archaeologists have found a thick wall from this period built over the remains of houses. Inspecting walls and gathering water were sensible, and people gave up their homes for it.
22:11 you did not look to the One who made it The heart of the chapter. Hezekiah also cut a tunnel through rock to bring Gihon's water into the city, and it can still be walked today (2 Kgs 20:20; 2 Chr 32:30). They checked walls, water and weapons but never looked to God. We too plan and prepare and forget to pray.
22:13 Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die Instead of repenting they party. Paul shows this is how people live when they do not believe in the resurrection (1 Cor 15:32). Despair can look a lot like celebration.
22:14 Surely this iniquity will not be atoned for you until you die A hard word. I take it that those who laughed at God's call to repent would carry their guilt to the grave. There can come a point when the door of repentance is shut (Heb 3:15).
22:16 that you have dug out a tomb for yourself here Shebna, steward over the royal household, carved a costly tomb high in the rock while the nation was in danger, thinking of his own legacy. Tombs from this time have been found cut into the hills near Jerusalem.
22:18 He will surely wind you up in a winding, like a ball He wanted to stay forever and is tossed into a wide country to die, his chariots going with him into disgrace (Prov 16:18).
22:19 I will push you from your office Later Shebna appears as a scribe while Eliakim is over the house (36:3). It seems he was demoted. God gives positions of power and can take them away.
22:20 My servant, Eliakim the son of Hilkiah A title of honor. Shebna served himself. Eliakim would serve God and the people.
22:22 I will put the key of the house of David on his shoulder The steward's key decided who entered the palace. Jesus takes these words for Himself as the One who has the key of David (Rev 3:7). Christ alone opens the door to the King's house, and no one can shut it.

none who shuts; and he will shut, and there will be none who opens. 23 And I will drive him as a tent peg in a firm place, and he will become a throne of glory for the house of his father. 24 And they will hang on him all the glory of the house of his father, the offspring and the offshoots, all the vessels of the small kind, from the vessels of bowls even to all the vessels of jars. 25 In that day, declares the LORD of armies, the tent peg that was driven in a firm place will be removed; and it will be cut down and will fall, and the burden that was on it will be cut off; for the LORD has spoken."

1 The oracle of Tyre (Tsor): Wail, ships of Tarshish, for it has been devastated, without house, without entrance; from the land of Cyprus (Kiti) it has been revealed to them. 2 Be silent, inhabitants of the coastland, the merchant of Sidon (Tsidon); those who pass over the sea have filled you. 3 And on many waters was the seed of Shihor (Shichor), the harvest of the Nile (Ye'or), her revenue; and she became the trade of nations. 4 Be ashamed, Sidon, for the sea has spoken, the stronghold of the sea, saying, "I have not been in labor, and I have not given birth, and I have not brought up young men, nor raised virgins." 5 When the report comes to Egypt (Mitsrayim), they will be in anguish according to the report of Tyre. 6 Pass over to Tarshish; wail, inhabitants of the coastland. 7 Is this your jubilant city, whose origin is from the days of antiquity, whose feet carried her far away to sojourn? 8 Who has planned this against Tyre, the bestower of crowns, whose traders were princes, whose merchants were the honored of the earth? 9 The LORD of armies has planned it, to profane the pride of all splendor, to treat with contempt all the honored of the earth. 10 Pass over your land like the Nile, daughter of Tarshish; there is no restraint any longer. 11 He has stretched out His hand over the sea; He has made kingdoms tremble; the LORD has given command concerning Canaan (Kena'an) to destroy its strongholds. 12 And He said, "You will not again exult any more, oppressed one, virgin daughter of Sidon. Arise, pass over to Cyprus; even there there will be no rest for you." 13 Look, the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim): this is the people that was not; Assyria (Ashur) assigned it to desert creatures; they raised up its siege towers; they stripped bare its palaces; he made it a ruin. 14 Wail, ships of Tarshish, for your stronghold has been devastated. 15 And it will be in that day that Tyre will be forgotten seventy years, like the days of one king. At the end of seventy years it will be for Tyre like the song of the prostitute: 16 "Take a lyre, go around the city, forgotten prostitute; play well, sing many songs, so that you may be remembered." 17 And it will be at the end of seventy years that the LORD will visit Tyre, and she will return to her hire, and she will prostitute herself with all the kingdoms of the earth on the face of the ground. 18 And her profit and her hire will be holiness to the LORD; it will not be stored up, and it will not be hoarded; for her profit will be for those who dwell before the LORD, for eating to satisfaction and for choice covering.

22:23 I will drive him as a tent peg in a firm place A peg in the wall held heavy household things. Eliakim would be secure and dependable.
22:25 the tent peg that was driven in a firm place will be removed Teachers differ on whether Eliakim later failed or this returns to Shebna. I take it as a warning that even the best human leader can fail under the weight people put on him. Only Christ, the true holder of David's key, never gives way.
23:1 Wail, ships of Tarshish Tarshish was a far western port, most likely in Spain, and its ships were the great ocean traders. Coming home by way of Cyprus, they hear Tyre is destroyed. There is no harbor to come back to.
23:2 the merchant of Sidon Tyre's older sister city to the north. The coast grown rich by sea trade has nothing to say.
23:3 the harvest of the Nile, her revenue Tyre did not grow much. She carried others' goods, like Egypt's grain, and became the trade of nations.
23:5 When the report comes to Egypt, they will be in anguish Egypt sold grain through Tyre. In a world tied together by trade, one city's collapse is felt everywhere, as when a great financial center fails today.
23:7 whose feet carried her far away to sojourn Ancient Tyre planted colonies far away, Carthage among them. Now her own people will be scattered (v. 6).
23:9 The LORD of armies has planned it, to profane the pride of all splendor Who could bring down a city that crowned kings (v. 8)? God has nothing against beauty or honest trade, but He is against pride (Jas 4:6).
23:10 there is no restraint any longer I take it that with Tyre's grip broken, her colonies are on their own, though teachers read it several ways. Tyre's control is gone.
23:11 He has stretched out His hand over the sea Canaan is the old name for the coast of Tyre and Sidon. No harbor is beyond the reach of the God of Israel.
23:13 Look, the land of the Chaldeans Sennacherib destroyed Babylon in 689 B.C. If Babylon could fall, so could Tyre.
23:15 Tyre will be forgotten seventy years, like the days of one king About one long reign or lifetime. Nebuchadnezzar besieged Tyre thirteen years in the 500s B.C., and its power waned under Babylon's rule (Jer 25:11).
23:16 Take a lyre, go around the city, forgotten prostitute A harsh picture of a city that sold itself to anyone for profit, described in the Bible's terms for unfaithfulness.
23:17 she will prostitute herself with all the kingdoms of the earth Tyre recovered and became a great trader again. Revelation uses this picture for end-times Babylon and her merchants (Rev 18:3, 11-19).
23:18 her profit and her hire will be holiness to the LORD A surprise. There were believers in Tyre, and Paul stayed a week with them (Acts 21:3-4). I also believe this looks ahead to the Millennium, when the wealth of the nations comes to the King (60:5). God can take what was used for greed and use it for His glory.

ISAIAH 24

The Earth Laid Waste

1 Look, the LORD is about to empty the earth and lay it waste, and He will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants. 2 And it will be, like the people, like the priest; like the servant, like his master; like the maidservant, like her mistress; like the buyer, like the seller; like the lender, like the borrower; like the creditor, like the one who owes him. 3 The earth will surely be emptied, and it will surely be plundered, for the LORD has spoken this word. 4 The earth has mourned, it has withered; the world has languished, it has withered; the exalted of the people of the earth have languished. 5 And the earth has been polluted under its inhabitants, for they have transgressed laws, they have overstepped the statute, they have broken the everlasting covenant. 6 Therefore a curse has consumed the earth, and those who dwell in it are held guilty; therefore the inhabitants of the earth have dwindled, and few of mankind are left. 7 The new wine has mourned, the vine has languished; all the glad of heart have groaned. 8 The gaiety of tambourines has ceased; the uproar of the jubilant has stopped; the gaiety of the lyre has ceased. 9 With song they will not drink wine; strong drink will be bitter to those who drink it. 10 The town of formlessness has been broken; every house has been shut up from entering.

11 There is an outcry over the wine in the streets; all gladness has turned to evening; the gaiety of the earth has departed. 12 Desolation has remained in the city, and the gate will be crushed to ruin. 13 For thus it will be in the midst of the earth among the peoples, like the beating of an olive tree, like gleanings when the grape harvest has ended. 14 They will lift up their voice; they will shout for joy; in the majesty of the LORD they cry aloud from the west.
15 Therefore glorify the LORD in the east, the name of the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), in the coastlands of the sea. 16 From the edge of the earth we have heard songs,
"Splendor to the righteous one." And I said, "Leanness to me, leanness to me; woe to me! The treacherous act treacherously, and with treachery the treacherous act treacherously." 17 Dread and pit and snare are on you, inhabitant of the earth. 18 And it will be that the one who flees from the sound of the dread will fall into the pit, and the one who goes up from the midst of the pit will be caught in the snare; for the windows from on high have been opened, and the foundations of the earth have shaken. 19 The earth has been utterly broken; the earth has been utterly split apart; the earth has been utterly shaken. 20 The earth will surely stagger like the drunkard, and it will sway like the hut; and its transgression will be heavy on it, and it will fall and will not rise again. 21 And it will be in that day that the LORD will visit punishment on the host of the height in the height, and 24:1 Look, the LORD is about to empty the earth and lay it waste Chapters 24-27 belong together and move beyond the single nations to the whole world at the end of the age. I believe they describe the worldwide judgment of the Tribulation, the seven years of trouble before Christ returns, followed by His kingdom. God made the world, so He has the right to judge it.

24:2 like the people, like the priest; like the servant, like his master Money and position can buy a way out of most trouble, but not this. Kings and slaves alike will hide from the wrath of the Lamb (Rev 6:15-17).
24:3 for the LORD has spoken this word Isaiah repeats the words to make the point as strong as he can. When God says it, it is settled.
24:4 The earth has mourned, it has withered Creation droops like a plant without water. Sin does not only hurt people. It damages the world God gave us to care for (Rom 8:20-22).
24:5 they have broken the everlasting covenant I take this as God's basic covenant with all mankind through Noah, which called for respect for human life (Gen 9:5-6, 16). Not only Israel is accountable to God. Every person is.
24:6 few of mankind are left This fits the Tribulation, when a third of the earth burns and great numbers die (Rev 8:7; 9:18). "Few" is sobering, but it holds hope: God always keeps a faithful remnant.
24:8 The gaiety of tambourines has ceased Music falls silent, as in end-times Babylon (Rev 18:22). A world that lived for pleasure without God loses the very pleasures it lived for, and even strong drink turns bitter (v. 9).
24:10 The town of formlessness has been broken Unnamed, it seems to stand for the whole proud world system organized without God, like Babylon in Revelation 17-18. People hide behind locked doors, but there is no safety there.
24:11 all gladness has turned to evening The world chose joy without God, and joy cut off from God cannot last (Ps 16:11). The smashed gate, where business and judgment happened, means the city's strength has collapsed (v. 12).
24:13 like the beating of an olive tree, like gleanings when the grape harvest has ended A few olives always remained after the beating, a few grapes for gleaners. Most are gone, but a remnant remains, as with Israel (17:6).
24:14 They will lift up their voice; they will shout for joy The turning point. Out of the ruins comes worship, like the multitude who came out of the great tribulation (Rev 7:9-14). From east to west God's name is honored (v. 15). Their praise does not depend on comfortable circumstances.
24:16 Splendor to the righteous one I believe the righteous one is the LORD Himself, whom we know in Jesus Christ (Acts 3:14). But Isaiah cannot yet join the song, for the treacherous are still at work. We can rejoice in God's final victory and still grieve over the evil around us.
24:17 Dread and pit and snare are on you, inhabitant of the earth In Hebrew the three words sound alike, ringing like a warning bell. They are hunters' words: terror drives, the pit catches, the snare holds (Jer 48:43-44).
24:18 the windows from on high have been opened There is no escape. The words recall Noah's flood (Gen 7:11). God has judged the whole world before and will again, and Jesus compared His coming to Noah's days (Matt 24:37-39).
24:19 The earth has been utterly broken A great earthquake unlike any since man has been on the earth (Rev 16:18-20). There is no reason to soften these words.
24:20 its transgression will be heavy on it, and it will fall and will not rise again The earth staggers like a drunk and sways like a flimsy hut. Sin has real weight, and at the end it brings the proud world system down. Only the cross can lift that weight from us (53:6).
24:21 the LORD will visit punishment on the host of the height in the height Not God's holy angels, but Satan and the fallen angels behind the rulers of this world (Eph 6:12; Dan 10:13, 20). Evil in heaven and on earth face the same Judge.

on the kings of the earth on the earth. 22 And they will be gathered, a gathering of prisoners, into a pit, and they will be shut up in a prison; and after many days they will be visited. 23 And the moon will be abashed, and the sun will be ashamed, for the LORD of armies will reign on Mount Zion (Tsiyon) and in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and before His elders will be glory.

Death Swallowed Up

1 O LORD, You are my God; I will exalt You; I will give thanks to Your name; for You have done a wonder, plans from long ago, faithfulness and firmness. 2 For You have made a city into a heap, a fortified town into a ruin, a fortress of strangers to be no city; it will never be rebuilt. 3 Therefore a strong people will glorify You; the town of ruthless nations will fear You. 4 For You have been a stronghold for the poor, a stronghold for the needy in his distress, a shelter from the rainstorm, a shade from the heat; for the breath of the ruthless is like a rainstorm against a wall. 5 Like heat in a dry land You will subdue the uproar of strangers; like heat by the shade of a cloud, the song of the ruthless will be humbled. 6 And the LORD of armies will make for all the peoples on this mountain a feast of fat things, a feast of aged wines, of fat things full of marrow, of aged wines refined. 7 And He will swallow up on this mountain the face of the covering that covers over all the peoples, and the veil that is woven over all the nations. 8 He will swallow up death forever; and the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from all faces, and the reproach of His people He will remove from all the earth; for the LORD has spoken. 9 And one will say in that day, "Look, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us. This is the LORD; we have waited for Him; let us be glad and let us rejoice in His salvation." 10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain, and Moab (Mo'av) will be trampled down in its place, as straw is trampled down in a dunghill. 11 And it will spread out its hands in its midst, as the swimmer spreads them out to swim; and He will bring low its pride together with the tricks of its hands. 12 And the fortress of the high refuge of your walls He will lay low, He will bring low, He will make it touch the ground, down to the dust.

24:22 after many days they will be visited This fits Revelation 20 closely. At Christ's return Satan is bound in the abyss for a thousand years, then released briefly and thrown into the lake of fire (Rev 20:1-3, 7-10). I take "after many days" as Christ's thousand-year reign. Teachers of other views read it differently, but the plain sense fits the premillennial view I hold.
24:23 for the LORD of armies will reign on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem Sun and moon look dim beside the King's glory, and His glory shines before His elders (Rev 4:4). I believe this is Christ's reign from Jerusalem in the Millennium (2:2-4; Zech 14:9), looking on to the eternal city that needs no sun or moon (Rev 21:23). The judgment is terrible, but the King is coming to reign.
25:1 O LORD, You are my God; I will exalt You Isaiah answers the vision with personal worship. God is not only great but his. Nothing in chapter 24 caught God by surprise. When the world is shaking, you can still call Him "my God."
25:2 You have made a city into a heap Like the town of 24:10, unnamed. I take it as the proud world city Revelation calls Babylon the great, thrown down and found no longer (Rev 18:21). Man's proudest city falls, and God's city stands.
25:3 the town of ruthless nations will fear You When God judges He also shows the world who He is, and some who were His enemies come to honor Him.
25:4 a shelter from the rainstorm, a shade from the heat The fury of the ruthless beats against the wall like rain, but the wall holds. Those who trust Him may face the storm, but it cannot reach them where He shelters them. If you are in a hard season, He is your wall today.
25:5 the song of the ruthless will be humbled God does not need to shout His enemies down. He simply brings them to silence, as a cloud's shade cools the heat.
25:6 a feast of fat things, a feast of aged wines On Mount Zion the LORD spreads a feast for all peoples, Gentiles welcome at His table. Jesus said many will come from east and west to recline with Abraham (Matt 8:11), the marriage supper of the Lamb (Rev 19:9). I believe it begins when Christ returns to reign in the Millennium. At the Last Supper He looked forward to drinking it new in His Father's kingdom (Matt 26:29).
25:7 the veil that is woven over all the nations A shroud covered the face of the dead. I take it as the shadow of death over the human race and the blindness that keeps people from seeing God (2 Cor 3:15-16; 4:4). God will swallow it. When Jesus died the temple veil tore from top to bottom (Matt 27:51), the first sign of this.
25:8 He will swallow up death forever Death has swallowed everyone who ever lived, and now God swallows death. Paul quotes this of the resurrection of believers (1 Cor 15:54). Death does not get the last word. Jesus does.
25:8 the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from all faces Picture the Lord Himself gently wiping the tears from your face (Rev 21:4). Every grief and every funeral will be answered, and the long shame of God's people removed, "for the LORD has spoken."
25:9 Look, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us Generations lived and died waiting, but not in vain. I believe this will be Israel's cry when Christ returns and they look on the One they pierced (Zech 12:10; Rom 11:26). It is every believer's cry too. Waiting on God is never wasted.
25:10 Moab will be trampled down in its place Moab, Israel's proud neighbor, stands for all God's enemies. On the day God's people feast, His enemies are brought low.
25:11 as the swimmer spreads them out to swim Moab struggles to stay afloat, but no struggling saves a proud heart. Only humility before God brings rescue (Jas 4:10). Every proud fortress set against God falls to the dust (v. 12).
26:1 A city of strength is ours; He sets salvation as walls and rampart The proud world city lies in ruins (25:2), but God's people have a city that stands. Our security does not come from stones we stack. God Himself is our wall.

keeps faithfulness may enter. 3 The steadfast mind You will keep in peace, peace, for it is trusting in You. 4 Trust in the LORD forever, for in the LORD, the LORD, is an everlasting rock. 5 For He has laid low the inhabitants of the height, the lofty town; He brings it low, He brings it low to the ground; He makes it touch the dust. 6 The foot will trample it, the feet of the afflicted, the steps of the poor. 7 The way of the righteous is uprightness; O Upright One, You make level the track of the righteous. 8 Yes, in the way of Your judgments, O LORD, we have waited for You; for Your name and for Your remembrance is the desire of our soul. 9 With my soul I have desired You in the night; yes, with my spirit within me I will seek You earnestly; for when Your judgments are on the earth, the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness. 10 Though the wicked is shown favor, he does not learn righteousness; in a land of straightforwardness he acts unjustly, and he does not see the majesty of the LORD. 11 O LORD, Your hand is lifted up, but they do not see it. Awake and shout for joy, dwellers of the dust! For Your dew is a dew of lights, and the earth will cast forth the shades. 20 Come, My people, enter into your rooms, and shut your door behind you; hide for a little moment until the indignation passes by. 21 For look, the LORD is about to come out from His place to visit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth on them; and the earth will reveal its bloodshed, and will no longer cover its slain.

26:3 The steadfast mind You will keep in peace, peace, for it is trusting in You The Hebrew doubles the word to show complete, perfect peace. Isaiah sings this right after describing the end of the world. Peace does not come from calm circumstances but from a mind fixed on God. When our thoughts run to our problems we lose it. When they rest on Him, He keeps us (Phil 4:6-7).
26:4 for in the LORD, the LORD, is an everlasting rock A rock is the same in sunshine and storm. Everything else we lean on wears out, but He will not, so trust in Him can last forever.
26:6 the feet of the afflicted, the steps of the poor The proud city is trampled by those it looked down on. The humble are lifted and the proud brought low (Luke 1:52; 14:11).
26:7 O Upright One, You make level the track of the righteous The righteous still face hills and rocks, but God goes ahead and makes a way. When you walk with God, He takes responsibility for the road (Prov 3:5-6).
26:8 for Your name and for Your remembrance is the desire of our soul Waiting on God means walking in His ways while we look for His coming. A believer's deepest longing is God Himself.
26:9 With my soul I have desired You in the night For every believer who has lain awake longing for God. His judgments are meant to wake people up, and even in the Tribulation some will turn to Him (Rev 7:14; 11:13).
26:10 Though the wicked is shown favor, he does not learn righteousness God's kindness should lead to repentance (Rom 2:4), but a hard heart turns even kindness into an excuse to keep sinning.
26:11 O LORD, Your hand is lifted up, but they do not see it A sad blindness that refuses to see God working in plain sight, as people in the Tribulation will see His judgments and still not repent (Rev 9:20-21; 16:9).
26:12 also all our works You have done for us Our good works are His work in us (Phil 2:13; Eph 2:10). The believer takes no credit and simply thanks Him.
26:13 lords besides You have ruled over us Egypt, Assyria, Babylon and idols ruled them. In the end they confess the LORD alone. God can free us from what rules our lives and make His name the only one we serve.
26:14 The dead will not live; the shades will not rise The old tyrants are gone for good and their names fade. The contrast with verse 19, where God's own dead live, is on purpose.
26:15 You have extended all the borders of the land I believe this will be seen in full in the Millennium, when Israel is gathered back and the promises of the land are kept (54:2-3).
26:16 they poured out a whispered prayer when Your chastening was on them Sometimes the pain is so heavy all we can manage is a whisper. That is enough. God hears whispered prayers, and the Spirit helps us when we do not know how to pray (Rom 8:26).
26:18 we gave birth, as it were, to wind; we do not accomplish salvation for the earth Labor pains often picture end-time distress (Matt 24:8; Rev 12:2). After all the pain, no one was born. Israel was meant to be a light, but by its own effort it could save no one. Neither can we. Salvation must come from God, as the next verse promises.
26:19 Your dead will live; my corpse, they will rise God does what they could not. With Daniel 12:2, this is about as clear a promise of bodily resurrection as the Old Testament gives: real bodies from real graves. Jesus is firstborn from the dead (Col 1:18). The dead in Christ are raised when He comes for His church before the Tribulation (1 Thess 4:16; 1 Cor 15:52), and those who die for Him in the Tribulation are raised when He returns at its end. Together this is the first resurrection (Rev 20:5-6). If you buried someone who loved the Lord, they will rise.
26:20 hide for a little moment until the indignation passes by Like the first Passover behind blood-marked doors (Exod 12:22-23) and Noah shut in the ark (Gen 7:16). Some see a picture of the church taken out before the Tribulation, and I believe the church will already be with Christ, for God did not appoint us for wrath (1 Thess 4:16-17; 5:9). In its setting God speaks to Israel. I believe it fits the faithful remnant of Israel in the Tribulation, sheltered as in Goshen (Exod 8:22) and in the wilderness (Rev 12:6, 14). His wrath lasts only a little moment.
26:21 the earth will reveal its bloodshed, and will no longer cover its slain Every murder covered up and every innocent life taken will come to light. Abel's blood cried from the ground (Gen 4:10), and the martyrs ask how long (Rev 6:9-10). This is God's answer. Justice will be done.

Leviathan and the Vineyard

1 In that day the LORD will visit punishment with His fierce and great and mighty sword on Leviathan the fleeing serpent, and on Leviathan the twisting serpent; and He will slay the sea monster that is in the sea. 2 In that day, a vineyard of delight, sing of it! 3 I, the LORD, am its keeper; every moment I water it; lest anyone visit harm on it, night and day I keep it. 4 Wrath I do not have. Who will give Me thorns and briers in battle? Let Me march against it; I will burn it altogether. 5 Or let him take hold of My stronghold; let him make peace with Me; peace let him make with Me. 6 In days to come Jacob (Ya'aqov) will take root; Israel (Yisra'el) will blossom and bud, and they will fill the face of the world with fruit. 7 Like the striking of the one who struck him, has He struck him? Or like the slaughter of his slain, has he been slain? 8 By startling, by sending her away, You contend with her; He drove her out with His fierce wind in the day of the east wind. 9 Therefore by this the iniquity of Jacob will be atoned for, and this is all the fruit of the removing of his sin: when he makes all the stones of the altar like crushed chalk stones, Asherah poles and incense altars will not stand. 10 For the fortified city is solitary, a habitation deserted and forsaken like the wilderness; there the calf will graze, and there it will lie down, and it will consume its branches. 11 When its branches dry up, they are broken off; women come and set it on fire. For it is not a people of understanding; therefore the One who made it will not have compassion on it, and the One who formed it will not show it favor. 12 And it will be in that day that the LORD will beat out grain from the flowing stream of the River to the Brook of Egypt (Mitsrayim); and you will be gathered one by one, sons of Israel. 13 And it will be in that day that a great trumpet will be blown, and those who were perishing in the land of Assyria (Ashur) and the outcasts in the land of Egypt will come, and they will bow down to the LORD on the holy mountain in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim).

Woe to the Drunkards of Ephraim

1 Woe to the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim (Efrayim), and the withering flower of the beauty of its splendor, which is on the head of the valley of fatness of those struck down by wine. 2 Look, the Lord has a mighty and strong one, like a storm of hail, a tempest of destruction, like a storm of mighty overflowing waters; he has cast it down to the earth with his hand. 3 With feet the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim will be trampled. 4 And the withering flower of the beauty of its splendor, which is

27:1 Leviathan the fleeing serpent A fearsome sea creature (Job 41; Ps 104:26) that became a picture of chaos and evil against God. Some see the great empires like Egypt, often pictured as a monster in the water (Ezek 29:3), and that may be part of it. I believe the deeper target is Satan, the great dragon and ancient serpent (Rev 12:9; 20:2). Since the garden the serpent has warred against God's people (Gen 3:15). God does not negotiate with him. He kills him (Rev 20:10).
27:2 In that day, a vineyard of delight, sing of it In chapter 5 Isaiah sang a sad song over a vineyard of worthless grapes (5:1-7). Now the same vineyard is fruitful and loved. That is the story of God's grace.
27:3 I, the LORD, am its keeper In chapter 5 God removed the hedge. Here He is the hedge. I believe this is Israel restored in the Millennium. The One who keeps us never sleeps (Ps 121:4).
27:4 Wrath I do not have His anger against His vineyard is over. The thorns and briers are its enemies, and perhaps the sin that once choked it. God is no longer at war with His people but for them.
27:5 let him make peace with Me; peace let him make with Me Even the enemy may take hold of God's protection instead of being burned. God says it twice. This is the gospel in the Old Testament, for through Jesus we have peace with God (Rom 5:1).
27:6 Israel will blossom and bud, and they will fill the face of the world with fruit The opposite of chapter 5. I believe this will be seen in the Millennium, when Israel is restored to her land and Messiah and blesses all nations (Gen 12:3; Rom 11:12). In one sense her fruit already fills the world, for the Savior and the Scriptures came through her.
27:7 Like the striking of the one who struck him, has He struck him No. Assyria and Babylon are gone, and Israel is still here. God's discipline of His people is measured, but His judgment on His enemies is final.
27:8 He drove her out with His fierce wind in the day of the east wind The hot desert wind, and the empires that came from the east. It was real discipline, but He did not drive them out forever.
27:9 by this the iniquity of Jacob will be atoned for The exile's purpose, proven when Israel crushes her altar stones like chalk and tears down the Asherah poles of a false goddess. Paul draws on this for all Israel saved and their sins taken away (Rom 11:26-27). Forgiveness rests finally on the cross, and true forgiveness shows in a changed life. When God forgives, we let go of our idols.
27:10 For the fortified city is solitary Unnamed again (25:2; 26:5). Some take it as Jerusalem or Samaria under judgment. I lean toward the proud world city, set against God's fruitful vineyard. The city that trusted its walls ends as a pasture.
27:11 For it is not a people of understanding A hard verse. God's mercy is offered, but it can be refused. Those who will not turn face their Maker without His favor.
27:12 you will be gathered one by one, sons of Israel From the Euphrates to the Brook of Egypt, the borders promised Abraham (Gen 15:18). God does not gather His people in a crowd where some get lost. He picks up each one by hand, and that is how carefully He gathers you.
27:13 a great trumpet will be blown The trumpet called Israel to feasts and to the jubilee, when slaves went free (Lev 25:9). Jesus will send His angels with a great trumpet to gather His elect (Matt 24:31). I believe this looks to His return at the end of the Tribulation, bringing Israel home to worship in Jerusalem. Chapters 24-27 began with the earth laid waste and end with worship on God's holy mountain. That is where history is headed.
28:1 Woe to the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim The first of six woes in chapters 28-33. Samaria, capital of the north, sat on a hill above a rich valley like a crown of flowers on a drunk man's head at a feast, proud of its beauty and soaked in luxury. Isaiah probably spoke this shortly before Samaria fell in 722 B.C.
28:2 the Lord has a mighty and strong one Assyria, "the rod of My anger" (10:5), coming like hail and flood. God is not watching from a distance. Ephraim's proud crown ends in the dirt (v. 3; Prov 16:18).
28:4 like an early fig before summer A first-ripe fig was eaten on the spot. That is how quickly Assyria would swallow Samaria.

on the head of the valley of fatness, will be like an early fig before summer, which the one who sees it sees; while it is still in his hand, he swallows it. 5 In that day the LORD of armies will become a crown of beauty and a diadem of splendor for the remnant of His people, 6 and a spirit of justice for the one who sits in judgment, and strength for those who turn back the battle toward the gate. 7 And these also reel with wine and stagger with strong drink; priest and prophet reel with strong drink; they are swallowed up by the wine; they stagger from the strong drink; they reel in the vision; they totter in giving judgment. 8 For all tables are full of vomit, filth, without a place. 9 Whom will he teach knowledge, and whom will he make understand the message? Those weaned from milk, those removed from the breasts? 10 For it is command to command, command to command, line to line, line to line, a little there, a little there. 11 For with stammerings of lip and with another tongue He will speak to this people, 12 to whom He said, "This is the rest; give rest to the weary; and this is the repose"; and they were not willing to hear. 13 And the word of the LORD will be to them command to command, command to command, line to line, line to line, a little there, a little there, so that they may go and stumble backward, and be broken, and be snared, and be captured.

The Cornerstone

14 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, men of mockery, rulers of this people who are in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 15 Because you have said, "We have made a covenant with death, and with Sheol we have made an agreement; an overflowing scourge, when it passes through, will not come to us; for we have made falsehood our refuge, and in deception we have hidden ourselves," 16 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Look, I am He who has laid in Zion (Tsiyon) a stone, a stone of testing, a precious corner of a foundation, firmly founded; the one who believes will not hurry. 17 And I will make justice the measuring line and righteousness the plumb line; and hail will sweep away the refuge of falsehood, and waters will overflow the hiding place. 18 And your covenant with death will be annulled, and your agreement with Sheol will not stand; an overflowing scourge, when it passes through, you will become a trampling place for it. 19 As often as it passes through, it will take you; for morning by morning it will pass through, by day and by night; and it will be sheer terror to understand the message." 20 For the bed is too short to stretch oneself out, and the blanket is narrow when one wraps oneself up. 21 For the LORD will rise up as at the mountain of Perazim (Peratsim); He will rage as in the valley in Gibeon (Givon), to do His deed, strange is His deed, and to work His work, alien is His work. 22 And now, do not be mockers, lest your bonds become strong; for a complete end, and one decided, I have heard from the Lord GOD of armies upon all the earth. 23 Give ear and hear my voice; pay attention and hear my utterance. 24 Does the plowman plow all

28:5 the LORD of armies will become a crown of beauty and a diadem of splendor for the remnant of His people Two crowns side by side. The drunkards' fading flowers are trampled, but God Himself crowns the faithful remnant. When everything people boasted in is gone, the faithful find the Lord was their glory all along. I believe "that day" reaches to Christ's reign, when Israel's remnant has the Lord as King.
28:6 a spirit of justice for the one who sits in judgment Justice in the court and courage at the gate both come from Him. A nation is only as strong as the character God puts into its people.
28:7 priest and prophet reel with strong drink Judah's leaders are no better than Ephraim's. Those who should teach God's law and speak His word are drunk on the job. When spiritual leaders are compromised, the whole nation loses its way. The vomit-covered tables are ugly on purpose (v. 8).
28:10 For it is command to command, command to command, line to line, line to line In Hebrew a string of short sounds, tsav la-tsav, kav la-kav, as if Isaiah talked baby talk, drilling them like children.
28:11 For with stammerings of lip and with another tongue He will speak to this people Since they would not listen in their own language, they would hear the harsh speech of Assyrian soldiers. Paul quotes this to show that unknown tongues were a sign of judgment to unbelievers (1 Cor 14:21).
28:12 This is the rest; give rest to the weary The heart of Isaiah's message: trust the Lord, stop running to foreign powers, and find peace in Him. They refused. Jesus makes the same offer (Matt 11:28).
28:13 so that they may go and stumble backward They mocked His word as a little here, a little there, so that is all they get, and it trips them. When people reject God's plain word, that word becomes what judges them.
28:15 We have made a covenant with death, and with Sheol we have made an agreement Sheol is the grave. I take this as their political deals, most likely the alliance with Egypt against Assyria (chs. 30-31). Isaiah says it plainly: they made lies their refuge.
28:16 I am He who has laid in Zion a stone, a stone of testing, a precious corner of a foundation While the rulers built on lies, God laid a tested foundation. The cornerstone was the first stone, and every other was lined up by it. Paul and Peter apply this to Jesus (Rom 9:33; 1 Pet 2:6-7; Ps 118:22). He was tested in every way and did not fail, the only foundation that will hold (1 Cor 3:11).
28:16 the one who believes will not hurry The word carries the idea of rushing in panic, as Judah's leaders rushed to Egypt. The one who trusts Christ need not run from plan to plan (Rom 10:11). Are you trusting Jesus, or your own arrangements?
28:17 I will make justice the measuring line and righteousness the plumb line God checks the wall like a builder with line and level. Anything crooked comes down, and the flood sweeps away the refuge of lies.
28:18 your covenant with death will be annulled Every promise made apart from God will be broken. Their judgment would come morning after morning (v. 19), and understanding it at last would be terror.
28:20 For the bed is too short to stretch oneself out Probably a common saying. Your feet hang off and the blanket will not cover you. Every human refuge apart from God turns out too small.
28:21 strange is His deed, and to work His work, alien is His work At Perazim God broke through the Philistines for David (2 Sam 5:20), and at Gibeon He threw hailstones on Israel's enemies (Josh 10:10-11). Now He will fight His own people. Judging them is not what He delights in, but He will do it.
28:22 for a complete end, and one decided, I have heard Stop mocking, or the chains grow tighter. "Upon all the earth" points, I believe, beyond Assyria to the final Day of the LORD.
28:24 Does the plowman plow all day to sow A parable from the farm. Plowing has a purpose and stops when the ground is ready. God's judgment breaks up the hard heart so something can grow.

day to sow? Does he keep loosening and harrowing his ground? 25 Does he not, when he has leveled its surface, scatter black cumin and sprinkle cumin, and put wheat in rows and barley in its appointed place, and spelt in its border? 26 And his God instructs him for judgment; He teaches him. 27 For black cumin is not threshed with a threshing sledge, and the wheel of a cart is not turned over cumin; for black cumin is beaten out with a staff, and cumin with a rod. 28 Grain for bread is crushed, for he does not keep threshing it forever; and when he drives the wheel of his cart and his horses over it, he does not crush it. 29 This also has gone out from the LORD of armies; He has made counsel wonderful; He has made sound wisdom great.

Ariel

1 Woe to Ariel, Ariel, the town where David camped! Add year to year; let festivals go around. 2 And I will bring distress to Ariel, and there will be mourning and lamentation, and she will be to Me like Ariel. 3 And I will encamp like a circle against you, and I will lay siege against you with siege works, and I will raise up fortifications against you. 4 And you will be brought low; from the earth you will speak, and from the dust your utterance will be humbled; and your voice will be like a medium from the earth, and from the dust your utterance will whisper. 5 And the multitude of your strangers will be like fine dust, and the multitude of the ruthless like chaff that passes away; and it will be in an instant, suddenly. 6 From the LORD of armies you will be visited with thunder and with earthquake and great noise, storm wind and tempest, and the flame of devouring fire. 7 And the multitude of all the nations that wage war against Ariel will be like a dream, a vision of the night, even all who wage war against her and her stronghold, and those who bring distress to her. 8 And it will be just as when the hungry one dreams, and look, he is eating, and he awakes, and his soul is empty; and just as when the thirsty one dreams, and look, he is drinking, and he awakes, and look, he is faint, and his soul is longing; so will be the multitude of all the nations that wage war against Mount Zion (Tsiyon). 9 Delay and be astounded; blind yourselves and be blind! They are drunk, and not with wine; they stagger, and not with strong drink. 10 For the LORD has poured out on you a spirit of deep sleep, and He has shut your eyes, the prophets; and your heads, the seers, He has covered. 11 And the vision of all has become to you like the words of the sealed scroll, which they give to one who knows writing, saying, "Read this, please," and he says, "I am not able, for it is sealed." 12 And the scroll is given to one who does not know writing, saying, "Read this, please," and he says, "I do not know writing."

28:26 And his God instructs him for judgment; He teaches him The farmer plants each seed in its place (v. 25), and even that common sense is God's gift. If God gives a farmer such wisdom, how much more does He know how to handle His people?
28:27 black cumin is beaten out with a staff, and cumin with a rod Delicate seeds are not crushed under a sledge. A good farmer uses only the force each crop needs. God's discipline is measured, and He knows how much we can bear (1 Cor 10:13).
28:28 for he does not keep threshing it forever Even wheat is not threshed until it is ruined. God's goal is to separate grain from chaff, not destroy. If you are in a hard season, God knows when to stop.
28:29 He has made counsel wonderful The same Hebrew as the Messiah's name, "Wonder, Counselor" (9:6). God's ways may look harsh in the middle of them, but He never wastes a single blow.
29:1 Woe to Ariel, Ariel, the town where David camped The second woe. Ariel is Jerusalem, which David made his capital (2 Sam 5:6-9). The word can mean lion of God, and a similar word means the altar hearth (Ezek 43:15). I lean toward the altar meaning. The feasts went on schedule, but the routine had become empty.
29:2 she will be to Me like Ariel The city that burned sacrifices would itself become like an altar hearth, a place of fire and blood. Religion without a real heart for God protects no one.
29:3 I will encamp like a circle against you Not only Assyria. God Himself surrounds the city where David once camped as king. The enemy army was only a tool in His hand.
29:5 it will be in an instant, suddenly The picture flips, and the attackers become dust and chaff. I believe this was fulfilled in 701 B.C., when the angel of the LORD struck 185,000 Assyrians in one night (37:36).
29:6 From the LORD of armies you will be visited with thunder and with earthquake "Visited" can mean a visit in judgment or in rescue, and readers take it both ways. Since verses 5 and 7 blow the enemy away, I read the storm as falling mainly on the attackers.
29:7 will be like a dream, a vision of the night Assyria's army held soldiers of many nations, fitting Isaiah's day. I also see a far fulfillment when all nations gather against Jerusalem at the end of the age and the Lord fights for His city (Zech 12:2-9; 14:2-3).
29:8 he awakes, and his soul is empty They thought Jerusalem was theirs to swallow and woke with nothing. Whoever sets himself against God's purposes ends up empty.
29:9 They are drunk, and not with wine Dazed and blind to what God is doing. When people keep refusing to see, God eventually lets them have their blindness.
29:10 the LORD has poured out on you a spirit of deep sleep The prophets, the nation's eyes, had them shut. Paul uses this to explain why much of Israel did not recognize Jesus (Rom 11:8), yet the hardening is partial and temporary (Rom 11:25-26). God is not finished with Israel.
29:11 I am not able, for it is sealed The truth was in front of them, but they could not open it, and the unlearned had another excuse (v. 12). The problem was a closed heart, not a lack of education. Many treat the Bible the same way.
29:13 this people has drawn near with its mouth, and with its lips they have honored Me, and its heart it has put far from Me This should make every churchgoer stop and think, me included. Right words and motions, but hearts far away, and worship that was habit passed down without love. Jesus quoted this against the leaders of His day (Matt 15:7-9). You can sing every song in church and keep your heart at a distance. God wants you, not a performance.

And who knows us?" 16 Your perversity! 29:14 the wisdom of its wise ones will perish The advisers pushing the Egypt alliance would be shown fools. Paul quotes this to show the cross makes the world's wisdom look foolish (1 Cor 1:19).
29:15 Woe to those who go deep to hide counsel from the LORD The third woe. They made their plans in secret, probably with Egypt, as if God could not see. Anything we plan in the dark we plan in His full view (Heb 4:13).
29:16 Is the potter to be regarded like the clay They acted as if they were the potter and God the clay (Rom 9:20-21). Our part is to trust our Maker, not correct Him.
29:17 Lebanon will turn into the fruitful field A great reversal and renewal. I believe it points to the kingdom age, when even the land is restored.
29:18 in that day the deaf will hear the words of a scroll The sealed book of verse 11 is opened. This happens spiritually whenever someone comes to faith, and Jesus did it physically (Matt 11:5), a preview of His kingdom (35:5).
29:21 who make a man sin with a word, and lay a trap for the one who reproves in the gate They twisted words to get people charged and trapped the honest judge at the gate where court was held. God sees injustice in the courtroom, and when Christ returns He will remove the ruthless and the mockers (v. 20).
29:22 who ransomed Abraham God called Abraham out of an idol-worshiping family (Josh 24:2-3) and kept him. He will keep Jacob's descendants, and Israel will no longer be ashamed.
29:23 they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob I take this as a promise to the nation. When Israel turns to Jesus (Zech 12:10; Rom 11:26), they will honor God's name and stand in awe of Him.
29:24 those who go astray in spirit will know understanding The chapter ends with mind and heart. The sealed book is open at last. No heart is so hard that God cannot open it.
30:1 Woe to rebellious sons The fourth woe. God calls Judah His children, which makes the rebellion hurt more. They made a plan and an alliance, and neither came from God. Making plans is not wrong. Making them without God is.
30:2 who walk to go down to Egypt, and My mouth they have not asked Most scholars place this around 705-701 B.C., when Hezekiah's officials sought Egyptian help against Assyria. God brought them up out of Egypt and slavery, and now they ran back for protection. The shelter would become their shame (v. 3).
30:4 his officials have been in Zoan, and his messengers have reached Hanes Royal cities of Egypt, north and south. All that effort was spent in the wrong direction. Egypt did send an army in 701 B.C., but it did not save Judah. Only the Lord did (37:36).
30:6 The oracle of the animals of the Negeb The dry desert between Judah and Egypt. A caravan carries Judah's treasure through country full of lions and snakes, all to pay a nation that could not deliver.
30:7 Rahab, they are a sitting still Not the woman of Jericho but a proud sea monster, a poetic name for Egypt (Ps 87:4). Versions render the phrase differently, but the sense is clear: Egypt talks big and does nothing.
30:9 sons who have not been willing to hear the law of the LORD Torah, God's teaching. They knew what God said. They did not want to hear it.

LORD; 10 who have said to the seers, "You shall not see," and to the visionaries, "You shall not envision for us right things; speak to us smooth things; envision deceptions. 11 Turn away from the way; turn aside from the path; cause the Holy One of Israel (Yisra'el) to cease from before us." 12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel: "Because you have rejected this word, and you have trusted in oppression and crookedness, and you have leaned on it, 13 therefore this iniquity will be to you like a breach about to fall, bulging out in a high wall, whose breaking comes suddenly, in an instant. 14 And He will break it like the breaking of a potters' jar, crushed; He will not spare, and there will not be found among its fragments a potsherd to snatch up fire from a hearth and to scoop water from a cistern." 15 For thus says the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel: "In returning and rest you will be saved; in keeping quiet and in trust will be your strength. And you were not willing. 16 And you said, 'No, for on horse we will flee'; therefore you will flee! 'And on a swift one we will ride'; therefore those who pursue you will be swift. 17 One thousand will flee because of the rebuke of one; because of the rebuke of five you will flee, until you are left like a flagstaff on the top of the mountain, and like a banner on the hill."

The LORD Waits to Be Gracious

18 And therefore the LORD waits to show favor to you, and therefore He rises up to have compassion on you. For the LORD is a God of justice; how blessed are all who wait for Him. 19 For a people will dwell in Zion (Tsiyon), in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); you will surely not weep. He will surely show favor to you at the sound of your cry; when He hears it, He will answer you. 20 And the Lord will give you bread of distress and water of oppression, and your Teacher will no longer hide Himself, and your eyes will be seeing your Teacher. 21 And your ears will hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way; walk in it," when you go to the right and when you go to the left. 22 And you will defile the plating of your images of silver and the sheathing of your molten image of gold; you will scatter them like a menstrual rag; "Filth!" you will say to it. 23 And He will give the rain of your seed with which you sow the ground, and bread, the produce of the ground, and it will be fat and rich. Your livestock will graze in that day in a roomy pasture. 24 And the oxen and the donkeys that work the ground will eat salted fodder, which one winnows with the shovel and with the fork. 25 And there will be on every high mountain and on every lifted-up hill streams, channels of water, in a day of great slaughter, when towers fall. 26 And the light of the moon will be like the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, like the light of seven days, in the day the LORD binds up the fracture of His people, and the wound of His blow He heals. 27 Look, the name of the LORD comes from afar; His anger is burning, and heavy is the rising smoke; His lips are full of indignation, and His tongue is like a consuming fire. 28 And His breath is like an overflowing torrent; up to the neck it reaches, to shake nations in a sieve of worthlessness, and a bridle that leads astray is on the jaws of the 30:10 speak to us smooth things; envision deceptions Perhaps the most honest thing a rebellious people ever said. They wanted nice things, not truth. People still gather teachers who tell them what they want to hear (2 Tim 4:3-4).

30:11 cause the Holy One of Israel to cease from before us They were tired of hearing about a holy God. A holy God is uncomfortable for anyone who wants to keep sinning.
30:13 bulging out in a high wall, whose breaking comes suddenly, in an instant They traded God's word for force and trickery (v. 12). Sin builds pressure quietly like a bulging wall, and then everything gives way at once, shattered past saving like a smashed clay jar (v. 14).
30:15 In returning and rest you will be saved; in keeping quiet and in trust will be your strength The heart of the chapter. Turn back, stop striving, be quiet before Him and trust Him. "And you were not willing," among the saddest words in Scripture (Matt 23:37). When you are anxious and grabbing for control, this verse is worth memorizing.
30:17 One thousand will flee because of the rebuke of one The obedient were to have five chase a hundred (Lev 26:8). Now it is reversed. I believe this pictures Judah in 701 B.C., when Assyria took its fortified cities and only Jerusalem was left standing like a lone flagpole (36:1).
30:18 therefore the LORD waits to show favor to you After all that rebellion we expect more judgment, but God waits to be gracious and rises up to have compassion. He is just and will not ignore sin, but His heart is to restore. God waits to be gracious, and blessed are those who wait for Him. That is where God and His people meet.
30:19 He will surely show favor to you at the sound of your cry I believe this looks ahead to Israel's full restoration when Christ reigns from Jerusalem. It also shows how God answers anyone who cries to Him humbly.
30:20 your eyes will be seeing your Teacher After the hard rations of siege, their Teacher would no longer be hidden. Some take it as the prophets. The SLB's capital T reflects the reading I agree with: God Himself teaching His people.
30:21 This is the way; walk in it Like a shepherd behind his sheep calling when one wanders. The Holy Spirit guides believers into truth (John 16:13), usually through God's word. When unsure which way to turn, ask Him, and listen.
30:22 "Filth!" you will say to it Even costly idols plated with silver and gold are thrown away. Real repentance always gets rid of whatever has taken God's place.
30:23 He will give the rain of your seed Blessing on the land was a covenant promise (Deut 28:12). I believe it will be fulfilled in full in Christ's thousand-year reign, when the curse on the ground is largely lifted. His blessing reaches even to the oxen and donkeys (v. 24).
30:25 in a day of great slaughter, when towers fall Blessing for God's people and judgment on His enemies on the same day, the pattern of the Day of the LORD. The towers are the proud strongholds of the nations.
30:26 the light of the sun will be sevenfold I take this as real changes in creation when Christ returns, though teachers differ on how far to press details. The God who wounded them for sin will bind them up (Hos 6:1).
30:27 Look, the name of the LORD comes from afar His name stands for God Himself in all His character and power, coming against Assyria in the language of storm and Sinai.

peoples. 29 The song will be yours like a night of consecrating a festival, and gladness of heart like the one who walks with the flute to go to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel. 30 And the LORD will cause the majesty of His voice to be heard, and He will show the lowering of His arm, with the raging of anger and a flame of consuming fire, a driving storm and a rainstorm and hailstones. 31 For at the voice of the LORD Assyria (Ashur) will be shattered; with the rod He will strike. 32 And every stroke of the staff of appointment which the LORD will lay on him will be with tambourines and with lyres; and in battles of brandishing He will fight against them. 33 For a burning place is arranged from yesterday; it also has been prepared for the king; He has made it deep, He has made it large; its pile is fire and much wood; the breath of the LORD, like a torrent of sulfur, burns in it.

Horses and Chariots

1 Woe to those who go down to Egypt (Mitsrayim) for help; on horses they lean, and they trust in chariotry because it is much, and in horsemen because they are exceedingly numerous; and they have not looked to the Holy One of Israel (Yisra'el), and the LORD they have not sought. 2 And He also is wise, and He has brought calamity, and His words He has not turned aside; and He will rise up against the house of evildoers, and against the help of those who do wickedness. 3 And Egypt is man and not God, and their horses are flesh and not spirit; and the LORD will stretch out His hand, and the one who helps will stumble, and the one who is helped will fall, and together all of them will come to an end. 4 For thus the LORD has said to me: "Just as the lion growls, and the young lion, over its prey, against which a multitude of shepherds is called out, and it is not dismayed by their voice, and it does not cringe at their tumult, so the LORD of armies will come down to wage war on the mountain of Zion (Tsiyon) and on its hill. 5 Like flying birds, so the LORD of armies will defend Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); He will defend and He will rescue it; He will pass over and He will deliver it." 6 Return to Him against whom the sons of Israel have made rebellion deep. 7 For in that day they will reject, each man, his idols of silver and his idols of gold, which your hands have made for you as sin. 8 And Assyria (Ashur) will fall by a sword not of a man, and a sword not of mankind will consume him; and he will flee for himself from before a sword, and his young men will become forced labor. 9 And his rock will pass away because of terror, and his commanders will be dismayed at the banner, declares the LORD, who has a fire in Zion, and has an oven in Jerusalem.

A Righteous King

1 Look, a king will reign for righteousness, and as for princes, they will rule for justice. 2 And a man will be like a hiding place from the wind, and a shelter from the rainstorm, like streams of water in a dry place, like the shadow of a heavy rock in a weary land. 3 And the eyes of those who see will not look away, and the ears of those who hear will pay attention. 4 And the heart of the hasty will understand knowledge, and

30:29 The song will be yours like a night of consecrating a festival Probably Passover, which began at night, and pilgrims going up to Jerusalem with flutes. Their deliverance will be like a holy feast.
30:31 at the voice of the LORD Assyria will be shattered The empire that terrified every nation would be terrified at His voice, as when He struck Sennacherib's army (37:36). God needs no Egyptian horses. He brings His own weapons from the sky (v. 30), and His people's part is to trust and praise (v. 32).
30:33 For a burning place is arranged from yesterday; it also has been prepared for the king The Hebrew is Topheth, in the valley of Hinnom, where some of Judah's kings burned their children to false gods (2 Kgs 23:10; Jer 7:31). I take the king first as Assyria's king. In the New Testament the valley's name, Gehenna, becomes a word for hell (Mark 9:43), the final end of all who set themselves against God.
31:1 on horses they lean, and they trust in chariotry because it is much The fifth woe. Egypt's horses and chariots were the tanks of the ancient world, and Judah looked at the numbers and felt safe. The real issue was where they put their trust (Ps 20:7).
31:3 Egypt is man and not God, and their horses are flesh and not spirit When God stretches out His hand, helper and helped fall together. Whenever we lean on people or things more than God, we lean on something that can fall with us.
31:4 Just as the lion growls, and the young lion, over its prey The shepherds shout, but the lion will not let go. Jerusalem is held firmly in God's grip, and no army on earth can pry it out of His hand.
31:5 Like flying birds, so the LORD of armies will defend Jerusalem Now a mother bird hovering over her nest. "Pass over" recalls the first Passover (Exod 12:13), and Jesus used the picture of a hen gathering her chicks (Matt 23:37).
31:6 Return to Him against whom the sons of Israel have made rebellion deep They had gone deep into rebellion, but the door was still open. No matter how far someone has gone, the call is the same: come back to Him.
31:7 they will reject, each man, his idols of silver and his idols of gold Some saw this in Hezekiah's reforms (2 Kgs 18:4). I believe the full answer comes when Israel turns to the Lord as a nation at Christ's return.
31:8 Assyria will fall by a sword not of a man Fulfilled plainly in 701 B.C., when the angel of the LORD struck 185,000 in a night without a human weapon lifted (37:36). Sennacherib went home and was later killed by his own sons (37:37-38).
31:9 who has a fire in Zion, and has an oven in Jerusalem Assyria's strength flees in panic at God's banner. The same fire that warms and protects God's people consumes His enemies (Heb 12:29).
32:1 a king will reign for righteousness Some see Hezekiah, and his reign brought real reform. I believe the full meaning is the Messiah of 9:6-7 and 11:1-5, for only Jesus reigns in perfect righteousness. The princes ruling with Him fit the promise that His people will reign with Him (Rev 20:4-6; 2 Tim 2:12).
32:2 like the shadow of a heavy rock in a weary land Isaiah's own leaders had been the storm. In the kingdom leaders will be the shelter, and Christ Himself is all of this to His people.
32:3 the eyes of those who see will not look away The judgment of 6:9-10 is lifted. The hardening of chapter 6 is not the end of the story. The hasty will understand and stammerers speak clearly (v. 4).

the tongue of stammerers will hasten to speak clearly. 5 The fool will no longer be called noble, and of the scoundrel it will not be said, "eminent." 6 For a fool speaks folly, and his heart does wickedness, to do godlessness and to speak error concerning the LORD, to keep empty the soul of the hungry; and the drink of the thirsty he causes to fail. 7 And the scoundrel, his weapons are evil; he plans evil schemes to ruin the afflicted with words of falsehood, and when the needy speaks justice. 8 And a noble plans noble things, and he stands on noble things. 9 Untroubled women, rise; hear my voice; confident daughters, give ear to my saying. 10 Days beyond a year you will be agitated, confident women; for the grape harvest will fail; the gathering will not come.
11 Tremble, untroubled women; be agitated, confident women; strip, and make yourselves bare, and gird yourselves on your loins. 12 Over the breasts they are mourning, over fields of delight, over the fruitful vine. 13 Over the ground of my people thorn and brier will come up, indeed, over all the houses of joy, a jubilant town. 14 For the palace has been forsaken; the tumult of the city has been abandoned; hill and watchtower have become for caves forever, a joy of wild donkeys, a pasture of flocks; 15 until the Spirit is poured out on us from on high, and the wilderness becomes the orchard, and the orchard is considered the forest. 16 And justice will dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness will live in the orchard. 17 And the work of righteousness will be peace, and the labor of righteousness keeping quiet and security forever. 18 And my people will live in a habitation of peace, and in dwellings of confidence, and in untroubled resting places. 19 And it will hail when the forest comes down, and in lowness the city will become low. 20 How blessed are you who sow beside all waters, who let loose the foot of the ox and the donkey.

32:6 For a fool speaks folly A fool lives as though there is no God (Ps 14:1). Foolishness always shows up in how we treat people in need.
32:7 to ruin the afflicted with words of falsehood The scoundrel uses lies to crush the poor even when the poor man is in the right. God notices every such lie.
32:8 And a noble plans noble things What we plan reveals who we are. A good test for my own heart: what am I planning, and would God call it noble?
32:9 Untroubled women, rise At ease in a careless way, feeling safe when they were not (3:16-4:1). Isaiah is not singling out women as worse. He speaks to a comfortable class who assumed life would go on as always.
32:10 Days beyond a year you will be agitated I take this as the Assyrian invasion of 701 B.C., which ruined Judah's countryside (37:30). Most date the prophecy shortly before it. God's kindest word is sometimes a warning that shakes us out of complacency (v. 11).
32:14 For the palace has been forsaken The hill and watchtower are probably the Ophel area of Jerusalem. I believe this covers the long desolation after Babylon's destruction about 586 B.C. and the years of foreign rule.
32:15 until the Spirit is poured out on us from on high Everything turns on "until." The desolation is not permanent (Joel 2:28-29; Ezek 36:26-27). The church received the Spirit at Pentecost (Acts 2:16-17), but I believe the full outpouring on Israel comes at Christ's return (Zech 12:10).
32:17 the work of righteousness will be peace Peace is the fruit of righteousness. The world keeps trying for peace without righteousness, and it never works. For the believer, peace with God comes through being made righteous by faith in Christ (Rom 5:1).
32:19 it will hail when the forest comes down A forest sometimes pictures a proud enemy army (10:18-19, 33-34). I take it as God's enemies falling when He restores His people, and the city as the proud world city (24:10; 25:2).
32:20 Blessed are you who sow beside all waters A peaceful farm with plenty of water and no enemy at the gate, a simple picture of a world where God reigns.
33:1 Woe, destroyer, and you have not been destroyed The sixth woe, against Assyria, which crushed nations and broke every promise. What a nation sows it eventually reaps (Gal 6:7).
33:2 LORD, show favor to us; for You we have waited The right response to chapters 28-32. Instead of running to Egypt, the faithful ask for grace. A good prayer for any of us: Lord, be my strength this morning, and save me in my distress.
33:4 And your plunder will be gathered as the gathering of the caterpillar After God struck Sennacherib's army, the abandoned camp was stripped like a field by locusts (v. 23).
33:5 He has filled Zion with justice and righteousness While the destroyer rages, the Lord is still on His throne. Zion is the temple hill, often standing for the city and people of God.
33:6 the fear of the LORD, it is His treasure With Assyria at the gates, God was their steady ground. The fear of the LORD is the deep awe that makes us take God seriously.
33:7 the messengers of peace weep bitterly Hezekiah paid Sennacherib huge tribute for peace (2 Kgs 18:14-16), and Assyria still sent its army (2 Kgs 18:17). He broke covenant (v. 8). Trusting the word of a godless power is dangerous.

man. 9 The land has mourned, it has languished; Lebanon (Levanon) has been put to shame, it has withered; Sharon has become like the Arabah (Arava), and Bashan and Carmel (Karmel) are shaking off their leaves. 10 "Now I will arise," says the LORD, "now I will exalt Myself, now I will lift Myself up. 11 You will conceive chaff; you will give birth to stubble; your breath, a fire, will consume you. 12 And the peoples will be burnings of lime; thorns cut down, they will be kindled with fire. 13 Hear, you who are far off, what I have done; and know, you who are near, My might." 14 Sinners in Zion are in dread; trembling has seized the godless: "Who of us will sojourn with the consuming fire? Who of us will sojourn with everlasting burnings?" 15 He who walks in righteousness and speaks uprightness, who rejects the unjust gain of extortion, who shakes out his palms from grasping the bribe, who stops his ear from hearing of bloodshed, and shuts his eyes from looking on evil, 16 he will dwell on the heights; strongholds of cliffs will be his fortress; his bread will be given, his water will be sure. 17 Your eyes will see a king in his beauty; they will see a land of distances. 18 Your heart will meditate on terror: "Where is the one who counted? Where is the one who weighed? Where is the one who counted the towers?" 19 You will not see the barbarous people, a people too deep of lip to hear, of stammering tongue, with no understanding. 20 Look upon Zion, the town of our appointed feasts; your eyes will see Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), an untroubled habitation, a tent that no one will pack up; no one will pull out its tent pegs forever, and all its ropes will not be torn apart. 21 But there the LORD will be majestic for us, a place of rivers, canals wide on both sides; a ship with oars will not go on it, and a majestic ship will not pass along it. 22 For the LORD is our judge; the LORD is our lawgiver; the LORD is our king; He, He will save us. 23 Your ropes hang loose; they do not hold firm the base of their mast; they have not spread out the sail. Then the booty of abundant plunder will be divided; the lame will plunder spoil. 24 And no inhabitant will say, "I am sick"; the people who dwell in it will be forgiven of iniquity.

The Day of Vengeance

1 Draw near, nations, to hear; and peoples, pay attention! Let the earth hear, and what fills it, the world and all its offspring. 2 For the LORD has wrath against all the nations, and rage against all their army; He has devoted them to destruction; He has given them to the slaughter. 3 And their slain will be thrown out, and their corpses, their stench will go up, and mountains will melt with their blood. 4 And all the host of the heavens will rot away, and the heavens will be rolled up like the scroll; and all their host will wither, as the leaf withers from the vine, and like the withered fruit from the 33:9 Sharon has become like the Arabah Lebanon, Sharon, Bashan and Carmel were the land's most fertile regions. War ruins the land as well as people.

33:10 Now I will arise Three times "now." When things are at their worst God steps in. His timing often seems late to us, but He knows the exact moment.
33:11 your breath, a fire, will consume you Their plans produce nothing, and their own raging becomes the fire that burns them. Evil carries the seeds of its own destruction.
33:14 Who of us will sojourn with the consuming fire A surprise: the terrified are the godless in Zion. Seeing God's fire on the enemy, they realized the same holy God lived among them. It is the most important question a person can ask.
33:15 He who walks in righteousness and speaks uprightness Like Psalms 15 and 24:3-4. No one lives this perfectly except Jesus, which is why we need His righteousness credited to us by faith (2 Cor 5:21). Those made right with God begin to live this way.
33:17 Your eyes will see a king in his beauty During the siege they saw Hezekiah in sackcloth (37:1). The promise reaches past him to the Messiah. Isaiah saw Christ's glory in chapter 6 (John 12:41), and every believer will see Jesus face to face (1 John 3:2; Rev 22:4). If you are weary, let this verse lift your eyes.
33:18 Where is the one who counted the towers Assyrian officials who counted tribute, weighed silver and surveyed defenses. Paul echoes these questions (1 Cor 1:20). The enemy's experts are gone, and the strange foreign tongue of judgment is heard no more (v. 19; 28:11).
33:20 a tent that no one will pack up Jerusalem has been destroyed, rebuilt and fought over many times since. I believe this awaits full fulfillment when Christ reigns from Jerusalem in the Millennium.
33:21 there the LORD will be majestic for us, a place of rivers Nineveh and Babylon had rivers for trade and defense, and Jerusalem had none. The LORD Himself will be its broad rivers, where no enemy warship can sail.
33:22 For the LORD is our judge; the LORD is our lawgiver; the LORD is our king Power usually split among roles rests in one Person. I believe this is Christ in His reign. And the best part: "He, He will save us."
33:23 the lame will plunder spoil The enemy ship is helpless, ropes loose and mast unheld. When God wins, even the weakest of His people share in the victory.
33:24 no inhabitant will say, "I am sick" Healing and forgiveness side by side, looking to Christ's kingdom and finally the new creation (Rev 21:4). Forgiveness is the root and healing the fruit. Sin is the deepest sickness, and Jesus came to heal it.
34:1 Draw near, nations, to hear Chapters 13-23 judged nations one by one. Here every nation is summoned at once. I believe this is the final judgment on the nations at the end of the age, when Christ returns.
34:2 He has devoted them to destruction Spoken as already done, because God's word makes it certain. The world's armies gather against Christ at His return and are destroyed (Rev 19:17-21).
34:3 mountains will melt with their blood Grim, and I do not believe Isaiah exaggerates (Rev 14:20). God takes rebellion seriously, and the end of those who reject Him is real.
34:4 the heavens will be rolled up like the scroll Jesus spoke of sun and moon darkened and stars falling before His return (Matt 24:29), and Revelation uses nearly Isaiah's words (Rev 6:13-14). I take it as real upheaval in the heavens in the Tribulation and at Christ's return, not just a figure for political change.

blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah (Botsra), and a great slaughter in the land of Edom. 7 And wild oxen will go down with them, and young bulls with mighty bulls; and their land will drink its fill of blood, and their dust will be made fat recompenses for the cause of Zion (Tsiyon). 9 And its torrents will be turned into pitch, and its dust into sulfur, and its land will become burning pitch. 10 Night and day it will not be quenched; forever its smoke will go up; from generation to generation it will lie desolate; to the perpetuity of perpetuities there will be none passing through it. 11 And the desert owl and the hedgehog will possess it, and the great owl and the raven will dwell in it; and He will stretch out over it a measuring line of formlessness and stones of emptiness. 12 Its nobles, and there is none there whom they will these will be missing; each with its companion, they will not be lacking. For my mouth, it has commanded, and His Spirit,

He has gathered them. 17 And He, He has cast a lot for them, and His hand has divided it to them by the measuring line;
forever they will possess it; to generation and generation they will dwell in it.

The Highway of Holiness

1 The wilderness and the dry land will be glad, and let the desert plain rejoice, and let it blossom like the crocus. 2 It will surely blossom, and let it rejoice, also with rejoicing and shouting for joy. The glory of Lebanon (Levanon) will be given to it, the splendor of Carmel (Karmel) and Sharon.
They, they will see the glory of the LORD, the splendor of our God. 3 Strengthen slack hands, and make firm stumbling knees. 4 Say to those who are hasty of heart, "Be strong; do not be afraid. Look, your God! Vengeance will come, the recompense of God; He, He will come and save you." 5 Then the 34:5 look, it will come down on Edom Edom came from Esau, Jacob's twin (Gen 36:1), south and east of the Dead Sea, a bitter enemy for centuries that cheered Jerusalem's fall (Ps 137:7; Obad 10-14). Here it stands as the leading example of the nations that hate God's people.

34:6 For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah Bozrah was a chief city of Edom. The Lord also comes from Bozrah with garments stained red (63:1), and Christ returns clothed in a robe dipped in blood (Rev 19:13). I see these as the same event. The wild oxen and bulls are Edom's mighty men (v. 7).
34:8 For the LORD has a day of vengeance, a year of recompenses for the cause of Zion The key to the chapter. God has not forgotten what the nations did to His people. Isaiah 61:2 reverses the pair, "a year of favor" and "a day of vengeance." His favor is long and His vengeance short. Jesus stopped reading before the day of vengeance (Luke 4:18-21), which waits for His second coming.
34:10 forever its smoke will go up The language of Babylon's judgment and of the beast's worshipers (Rev 19:3; 14:11). The Edomites, later Idumeans, faded from history in Roman times. I believe the full and final fulfillment comes at the end of the age.
34:11 a measuring line of formlessness and stones of emptiness Builders used line and plumb stones to build straight walls. God uses them to measure a ruin. Some animal names here are hard to identify, and translations differ, but the picture is the same.
34:12 there is none there whom they will call to kingship Edom had kings before Israel did (Gen 36:31), and now it will have no ruler at all.
34:13 thorns will grow up in its fortresses Edom's rock cities seemed untouchable (Obad 3-4). God's judgment reaches the highest fortress, and jackals move in.
34:14 surely there the night creature will rest The Hebrew is lilith. Scholars are unsure whether it is a night bird, a wild animal, or a demonic creature of folklore. The point is a land of fear and darkness, abandoned by people.
34:16 Seek from the scroll of the LORD and read: not one of these will be missing God keeps track even of the birds in the ruins, each with its mate. If He is that careful in judgment, we can trust Him to be that careful in His promises.
34:17 He, He has cast a lot for them As Joshua divided Canaan by lot (Josh 18:10), God gives Edom to the wild creatures forever. That is the end for all who set themselves against God. But chapter 35 tells the other side.
35:1 The wilderness and the dry land will be glad Edom's land became a waste (34:9-10). Now the wilderness rejoices. The desert plain is the harsh Arabah rift running through the Dead Sea. I take this at face value: when Christ reigns, the land will be physically renewed, part of creation's freedom (Rom 8:19-22; Gen 3:17-18). It also speaks to the dry places of our lives. God specializes in making deserts bloom.
35:2 They, they will see the glory of the LORD, the splendor of our God Lebanon, Carmel and Sharon, withered in 33:9, now lend their beauty to the desert. But the greatest gift of the kingdom is not the flowers but God Himself, seen and known (33:17). In the Millennium Jesus will be present, reigning from Jerusalem.
35:3 Strengthen slack hands, and make firm stumbling knees A word for God's tired people while they wait, quoted to weary believers (Heb 12:12). You probably know someone whose knees are shaking. Strengthen them with the hope of this chapter. Tell them where the story is going.
35:4 Look, your God! Vengeance will come, the recompense of God; He, He will come and save you The same words used for Edom (34:8). Christ's coming is vengeance for those who reject Him (Rev 19:11-21) and salvation for His own. The One who comes is your God, not a stranger. If you are anxious, He is coming, and He is coming for you.
35:5 Then the eyes of the blind will be opened When John the Baptist asked from prison whether Jesus was the One, Jesus pointed to this very work (Matt 11:2-5). Every healing was a sign the King had come. I believe the complete fulfillment is in the Millennium, when healing will be the normal state of the kingdom, and in the eternal state there will be no pain at all (Rev 21:4).

be unstopped. 6 Then the lame will leap like the deer, and the tongue of the mute will shout for joy; for waters will burst forth in the wilderness, and torrents in the desert plain. 7 And the parched ground will become a pool, and the thirsty ground springs of water; in the habitation of jackals, its resting place, grass will become reed and papyrus. 8 And there will be a highway there, and a way, and it will be called the way of holiness; the unclean will not pass along it, and it will be for them; one who walks the way, and fools, will not wander about. 9 No lion will be there, and a violent one of the living things will not go up on it; it will not be found there; and the redeemed will walk. 10 And the ransomed of the LORD will return and come to Zion (Tsiyon) with a shout of joy, and everlasting gladness will be on their head; joy and gladness they will overtake, and sorrow and sighing will flee.

The Taunt

1 And it was in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah (Chizqiyahu) that Sennacherib (Sancheriv) the king of Assyria (Ashur) came up against all the fortified cities of Judah (Yehuda), and he seized them. 2 And the king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh from Lachish (Lakhish) to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), to King Hezekiah, with a heavy army; and he stood by the conduit of the upper pool, on the highway of the field of the launderer. 3 And there went out to him Eliakim (Elyaqim) the son of Hilkiah (Chilqiyahu), who was over the house, and Shebna (Shevna) the scribe, and Joah (Yo'ach) the son of Asaph (Asaf), the recorder. 4 And the Rabshakeh said to them, "Say, please, to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: What is this trust in which you trust? 5 I say, only a word of lips is counsel and strength for the war. 35:6 Then the lame will leap like the deer Not just standing but leaping, not whispering but shouting (Acts 3:8). God's healing brings us past normal into joy. Healing of people and of the land go together. Water in the desert is one of Isaiah's favorite pictures (41:18; 43:19-20; 44:3), and Jesus used it for the Spirit (John 7:38-39).

35:7 in the habitation of jackals, its resting place, grass will become reed and papyrus Even the dry dens of 34:13 grow plants that need plenty of water. No life is so dry and no situation so hopeless that God cannot bring living water into it.

35:8 it will be called the way of holiness A highway is a raised, cleared road. Translations differ on the last line, some reading that even simple people will not get lost. At face value I believe it is a real road home to Zion in the kingdom (11:16; 19:23). It also teaches that Jesus is the way (John 14:6) and the road to God is holy (Heb 12:14). We walk it because He has made us clean.

35:9 and the redeemed will walk No lion or robber on this road. To redeem is to buy back, as a close relative could buy a family member out of slavery (Lev 25:25, 47-49). We were redeemed with the precious blood of Christ (1 Pet 1:18-19), and every traveler was bought at the same price.

35:10 And the ransomed of the LORD will return and come to Zion with a shout of joy Repeated almost word for word in 51:11. The near view includes the return from Babylon, but I believe it reaches to Israel's regathering at the start of Christ's kingdom (Rom 11:26) and on to the eternal state (Rev 21:4). Gladness comes and finds us, and sorrow and sighing flee. If you belong to Christ, your story ends on this road with joy on your head.

36:1 Sennacherib the king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah, and he seized them Isaiah shifts from prophecy to history. Most scholars date this to 701 B.C. Sennacherib's own clay prism (the Taylor Prism) boasts that he took forty-six walled cities and shut Hezekiah in Jerusalem like a bird in a cage. It never claims he took Jerusalem. Only the capital was left, and that is often where God does His best work.

36:2 he stood by the conduit of the upper pool, on the highway of the field of the launderer Lachish, Judah's second city, was under siege, and carvings of that siege were found in his palace at Nineveh. Rabshakeh is a title for a high official, not a name. He stands at the exact spot where Ahaz refused God's sign and leaned on Assyria (7:3). What we trust in place of God can become what comes against us.

36:3 Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe Eliakim now holds the office Isaiah said he would take from Shebna, who serves as scribe (22:15-22).

36:6 you trust in the staff of this crushed reed, in Egypt Here he is right, preaching Isaiah's own sermon (30:1-3; 31:1). Satan also points out our real failures, not to lead us to God but to make us give up.

36:7 is it not He whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah has removed Here he is wrong. Hezekiah tore down the hilltop shrines that mixed the LORD's worship with pagan practice (2 Kgs 18:4) and called the people back to one altar. To a man of many gods that looked like an insult, but it was obedience. The devil still takes our faithfulness and calls it the reason things went wrong.

36:10 The LORD said to me, "Go up to this land and destroy it." The boldest lie, carrying some truth. God did call Assyria His rod (10:5-6), but He said Assyria would go too far and be judged (10:7, 12). Test anyone who claims to speak for God against what God has already said. A half-truth used to scare God's people is still a lie.

36:11 Speak, please, to your servants in Aramaic Aramaic was the language of trade and diplomacy, like English today. "Judean" is Hebrew. He crudely refuses, aiming to break the ordinary soldier's will (v. 12).

Hezekiah's Prayer

1 And it was, when King Hezekiah (Chizqiyahu) heard, and he tore his clothes, and he covered himself with sackcloth, and he went into the house of the LORD. 2 And he sent Eliakim (Elyaqim), who was over the house, and Shebna (Shevna) the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah (Yeshayahu) the son of Amoz (Amots), the prophet. 3 And they said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah: 'A day of distress and rebuke and contempt is this day, for children have come to birth, and there is no strength to give birth. 4 Perhaps the LORD your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria (Ashur) has sent to taunt the living God, and will rebuke him for the words which the LORD your God has heard; and you shall lift up a prayer for the remnant that is found.'" 5 And the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah. 6 And Isaiah said to them, "Thus you shall say to your master: 'Thus says the LORD: "Do not be afraid because of the words which you have heard, with which the young men of the king of Assyria have blasphemed Me. 7 Look, I am about to put a spirit in him, and he will hear a report and return to his land; and I will make him fall by the sword in his land."'" 8 And the Rabshakeh returned and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah (Livna), for he had heard that he had departed from Lachish (Lakhish). 9 And he heard concerning Tirhakah (Tirhaqa) the king of Cush (Kush), saying, "He has come out to fight with you." And he heard, and he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, 10 "Thus you shall say to Hezekiah the king of Judah (Yehuda), saying, 'Do not let your God, in whom you are trusting, deceive you, saying, "Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria." 11 Look, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, devoting them to destruction; and will you

36:15 do not let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD The heart of the attack. Assyria did not mind if Judah prayed. It could not allow them to trust. Real trust in God is the one thing an enemy cannot answer.

36:17 until I come and take you to a land like your land Vine and fig tree were a picture of peace (Mic 4:4), but the fine print was deportation, as with Samaria in 722 B.C. (2 Kgs 17:6). The world still promises rest now and leaves out where the road ends. Sin always takes more than it gives.

36:20 Who among all the gods of these lands are those who have delivered their land from my hand Hamath, Arpad and Sepharvaim's gods had not saved them. His fatal mistake was putting the living God on the shelf with idols. He had insulted Hezekiah. Now he insulted the LORD, and God answers him personally (37:23).

36:21 And they kept silent and did not answer him a word Not every taunt needs a reply, and arguing with a liar on his terms usually helps him. Their silence left the answer to God, as Jesus did before His accusers (Matt 27:12-14).

36:22 came to Hezekiah with garments torn Torn clothes were a sign of grief and alarm. Nothing is solved yet. What happens next depends on what Hezekiah does with the bad news.

37:1 he tore his clothes, and he covered himself with sackcloth, and he went into the house of the LORD Hezekiah's first move was not to the war room but to the house of the LORD. When bad news comes, go to God before you go anywhere else. Sackcloth showed he knew Judah's only hope was the LORD.

37:3 children have come to birth, and there is no strength to give birth This was a proverb for a crisis at its worst moment. The baby is ready to be born, but the mother has no strength left. Judah had come to the end of itself, which is right where God loves to work.

37:4 you shall lift up a prayer for the remnant that is found Most of Judah's cities had already fallen (36:1). Only Jerusalem was left, a remnant. Hezekiah asked the prophet to pray. It is right to ask godly people to pray for us when we are in trouble.

37:6 Do not be afraid because of the words which you have heard God's first word was comfort. The Assyrians had blasphemed Him, so this was now His fight, not just Hezekiah's. Fear fades when we see that the battle belongs to the LORD.

37:7 he will hear a report and return to his land; and I will make him fall by the sword in his land This was a very specific prophecy with three parts: a report, a return home, and death by the sword in his own land. Every part came true (37:9, 37, 38). God's word is exact.

37:9 Tirhakah the king of Cush Tirhakah was a Cushite ruler of Egypt. His army coming up from the south was the report that pulled Sennacherib's attention away. God can use the movements of nations to keep His word.

37:10 Do not let your God, in whom you are trusting, deceive you Sennacherib moved from mocking Hezekiah to calling God a liar. This is the oldest lie of all, that God cannot be trusted to keep His word (Gen 3:4-5). It is the enemy's favorite attack on faith.

be delivered? 12 Did the gods of the nations deliver them, whom my fathers destroyed: Gozan and Haran (Charan) and Rezeph (Retsef) and the sons of Eden who were in Telassar (Telasar)? 13 Where is the king of Hamath (Chamat), and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim (Sefarvayim), Hena, and Ivvah (Ivva)?'" 14 And Hezekiah took the letters from the hand of the messengers, and he read it; and he went up to the house of the LORD, and Hezekiah spread it out before the LORD. 15 And Hezekiah prayed to the LORD, saying, 16 "LORD of armies, God of Israel (Yisra'el), who sits on the cherubim, You are He, the God, You alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; You have made the heavens and the earth. 17 Incline Your ear, LORD, and hear; open Your eyes, LORD, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib (Sancheriv), which he has sent to taunt the living God. 18 Truly, LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the lands and their land, 19 and they have put their gods into the fire, for they were not gods, but the work of the hands of man, wood and stone; and they destroyed them. 20 And now, LORD our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that You are the LORD, You alone."

The Answer

21 And Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'As for what you have prayed to Me concerning Sennacherib the king of Assyria, 22 this is the word which the LORD has spoken concerning him: "She has despised you, she has mocked you, the virgin daughter of Zion (Tsiyon); behind you she has shaken her head, the daughter of Jerusalem. 23 Whom have you taunted and blasphemed? And against whom have you raised a voice and lifted up your eyes on high? Against the Holy One of Israel! 24 By the hand of your servants you have taunted the Lord, and you have said, 'With the abundance of my chariots I, I have gone up to the height of mountains, to the remotest parts of Lebanon (Levanon); and I will cut down the height of its cedars, the choicest of its cypresses; and I will come to the height of its end, the forest of its orchard. 25 I, I have dug and drunk water, and I will dry up with the sole of my feet all the canals of Egypt (Matsor).' 26 Have you not heard? From afar I did it; from days of antiquity I formed it; now I have brought it, and you are to make fortified cities crash into ruined heaps. 27 And their inhabitants were short of hand; they were dismayed and were ashamed; they were the vegetation of the field and the greenery of grass, the grass of roofs, and a field before standing grain. 28 And your sitting down and your going out and your coming in I know, and your raging against Me. 29 Because of your raging against Me, and your arrogance has come up into My ears, I will put My hook in your nose and My bridle in your lips, and I will turn you back by the way by which you came. 30 And this will be the sign for you: eating this year self-sown grain, and in the second year self-seeded growth, and in the third year sow and reap, and plant vineyards and eat their fruit. 31 And the escaped remnant of the house of Judah that remains will 37:14 Hezekiah spread it out before the LORD Hezekiah did not answer the letter. He laid it open before God. This is a beautiful picture of casting all our anxiety on Him (1 Pet 5:7). Take the actual thing that is troubling you and lay it before the Lord.

37:16 LORD of armies, God of Israel, who sits on the cherubim Hezekiah began his prayer with who God is, not with the problem. God is enthroned above the cherubim and is the Maker of heaven and earth. When we see how big God is, the enemy shrinks to his true size.
37:17 which he has sent to taunt the living God Hezekiah's concern was God's honor. Assyria's gods were dead idols. Judah's God is the living God, and He hears and sees.
37:19 for they were not gods, but the work of the hands of man, wood and stone Hezekiah admitted the facts. Assyria really had destroyed many nations and their gods. But those gods fell because they were never gods at all. The living God is in a different category.
37:20 that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that You are the LORD, You alone The highest goal of the prayer was God's glory, not just Judah's safety. When we pray for His name to be known, we are praying in line with His will.
37:21 As for what you have prayed to Me concerning Sennacherib God connects His answer to Hezekiah's prayer. Prayer matters. Sometimes we do not have because we do not ask (Jas 4:2).
37:22 She has despised you, she has mocked you, the virgin daughter of Zion Jerusalem is pictured as a young woman who is not afraid of the great king. She shakes her head at him as he runs away. The city that was trembling will soon be laughing.
37:23 Against the Holy One of Israel This is the heart of the matter. Sennacherib thought he was fighting a small king in a small city. In fact he had raised his voice against the Holy One of Israel, and no one does that and wins.
37:24 With the abundance of my chariots I, I have gone up to the height of mountains Notice how often the king says "I." Pride boasts in its own power, like Nebuchadnezzar on his roof (Dan 4:30-32). God humbles those who walk in pride.
37:26 From afar I did it; from days of antiquity I formed it Sennacherib thought his victories were his own. God says He planned them long ago. Assyria was only the rod in His hand (10:5-6). God rules over history, even through proud men who do not know Him.
37:27 the grass of roofs Grass on a flat roof springs up fast and withers before it grows tall. The nations Assyria conquered were like that, and so is all human strength (40:6-8).
37:28 your raging against Me God knows everything about the proud king, his rest, his comings and goings, and his rage. Nothing about our enemies is hidden from Him.
37:29 I will put My hook in your nose and My bridle in your lips The Assyrians were known for leading captives by hooks through the nose. Now God would do the same to the king of Assyria and lead him home like an animal. God often turns the proud man's cruelty back on his own head.
37:30 in the third year sow and reap, and plant vineyards and eat their fruit The sign was that life would return to normal. For two years they would live on what grew by itself, but in the third year they would farm again in peace. Assyria would not be back.

again take root downward and produce fruit upward. 32 For from Jerusalem a remnant will go out, and an escaped remnant from the mountain of Zion; the zeal of the LORD of armies will do this. 33 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria: He will not come into this city, and he will not shoot an arrow there, and he will not confront it with a shield, and he will not pour out a siege mound against it. 34 By the way by which he came, by it he will return, and into this city he will not come, declares the LORD. 35 And I will defend this city to save it, for My own sake and for the sake of David My servant."'" 36 And the angel of the LORD went out and struck down in the camp of Assyria one hundred and eighty-five thousand; and they rose early in the morning, and look, all of them were dead corpses. 37 And Sennacherib the king of Assyria set out and went and returned, and he dwelt in Nineveh (Ninve). 38 And it was, he was bowing down in the house of Nisroch (Nisrokh) his god, and Adrammelech (Adrammelekh) and Sharezer (Sharetser) his sons struck him down with the sword; and they escaped to the land of Ararat. And Esarhaddon (Esar-Chadon) his son reigned in his place.

37:32 the zeal of the LORD of armies will do this The same words promise the coming King's kingdom (9:7). The remnant's survival did not depend on Judah's strength but on God's zeal for His own promises.
37:33 he will not shoot an arrow there God was more specific than any general could be. Not one arrow, not one shield and not one siege mound. The Assyrian army was right there, yet it never touched the city.
37:35 for My own sake and for the sake of David My servant God saved Jerusalem for His own honor and because of His promise to David (2 Sam 7:16). He keeps His covenant promises even when His people are weak, That faithfulness runs to Jesus, the Son of David, who will one day reign from Jerusalem.
37:36 the angel of the LORD went out and struck down in the camp of Assyria one hundred and eighty-five thousand This was a direct act of God, not just a plague or bad luck. In one night the greatest army on earth was gone. Sennacherib's own records boast about shutting Hezekiah up in Jerusalem but never claim he took the city.
37:38 he was bowing down in the house of Nisroch his god, and Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons struck him down with the sword He was killed about 681 B.C., years after the siege, but just as God said (37:7). The irony is sharp. He mocked Hezekiah's God for not saving, and his own god could not save him in his own temple.
38:1 Command your house, for you are dying, and you will not live "In those days" is loose. Since God promises to deliver the city from Assyria (38:6), this illness most likely came before the events of chapters 36-37. Isaiah arranged these chapters by theme, leading us toward Babylon. Every one of us will hear this word someday, so it is wise to have our house in order with God now.
38:2 Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD He turned away from everyone in the room and poured out his heart to God alone. When the news is worst, there is still one place to turn.
38:3 remember, please, how I have walked before You in faithfulness and with a complete heart I don't believe Hezekiah was boasting. He knew his sins (38:17). He was speaking honestly to the God he had served. God invites that kind of honesty, and the Psalms are full of it.
38:5 I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Look, I am He who will add to your days fifteen years Before Isaiah had left the courtyard, God sent him back (2 Kgs 20:4). Does prayer change God's mind? God's first word showed where the illness was heading, and He planned all along to answer His servant's prayer. God does not change, but He has chosen to work through our prayers.
38:6 from the hand of the king of Assyria I will deliver you and this city This promise is what places the illness before Sennacherib's defeat. Hezekiah's healing and Jerusalem's rescue came as a package from the same faithful God.
38:8 Look, I am about to turn back the shadow on the steps, which has gone down on the steps of Ahaz with the sun, backward ten steps The steps likely worked like a sundial. Hezekiah chose the harder sign, the shadow going backward (2 Kgs 20:8-11). How God did it the text does not say, and I won't guess. The God who made the sun can move a shadow.
38:9 A writing of Hezekiah the king of Judah, when he had been sick and had revived from his sickness This psalm is found only here, not in 2 Kings. It moves from despair to thanksgiving and gives an honest look inside a believer facing death.
38:10 In the middle of my days I must go into the gates of Sheol Hezekiah was about thirty-nine (2 Kgs 18:2). Sheol is the grave, the place of the dead. To an Old Testament believer, going there in mid-life felt like being robbed of his years.
38:11 I will not see the LORD, the LORD, in the land of the living His deepest grief was losing worship with God's people. The Old Testament saints did not yet have the full light on life after death that came through Christ's resurrection (2 Tim 1:10). We do, and that is a great gift.

him, "What did these men say? And from where do they 38:12 like the tent of a shepherd; I have rolled up my life like the weaver A shepherd's tent comes down in an afternoon. A weaver cuts finished cloth from the loom and rolls it up. Life is that fragile, and Hezekiah felt God cutting his thread quickly.

38:13 like the lion, so He breaks all my bones He saw God's hand even in his pain. That is not a lack of faith. It is honest faith that admits God is in control of the hard things too.
38:14 Lord, oppression is mine; stand surety for me To stand surety is to guarantee another person's debt by standing in for him. Hezekiah asked God to stand in for him. In the end that is exactly what Jesus did for us.
38:15 I will walk slowly all my years on account of the bitterness of my soul God had spoken and God had acted. Hezekiah vowed to walk humbly for the rest of his life. Suffering taught him something he would not forget, at least for a while (39:2).
38:16 Lord, by these things they live Life comes from God's word and God's acts, not from our own strength. His prayer is short and plain: restore me and let me live.
38:17 You have thrown all my sins behind Your back This is the key verse of the song. The bitter trial was for his good. When you throw something behind your back you no longer see it. God does not keep forgiven sins before His eyes (Ps 103:12). For those who trust Jesus, this is ours too.
38:19 a father makes known to sons Your faithfulness Telling our children about God's faithfulness is one of the best uses of the years God gives us. Sadly, Manasseh was born during these extra years (2 Kgs 21:1) and became one of Judah's most wicked kings. We must not only tell our children. We must keep on telling them.
38:21 Let them take a cake of figs, and let them rub it on the boil These two verses fill in details from earlier (2 Kgs 20:7-8). God healed Hezekiah and used a simple remedy to do it. Using medicine is not a lack of faith. The healing still came from God.

39:1 Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan, the king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah Merodach-baladan was a Chaldean who ruled Babylon more than once and fought for years to break free of Assyria. Babylon was not yet a great empire. These letters were more than get-well cards. He was likely seeking an ally against Assyria. The envoys also asked about the sign (2 Chr 32:31).
39:2 Hezekiah was glad over them, and he showed them the house of his treasure Flattered by the attention, he showed them everything. His heart had grown proud after his healing, and God left him to test him (2 Chr 32:25-26, 31). Instead of telling them about the God who healed him, he showed off his wealth. Success can be a harder test than suffering.
39:3 What did these men say? And from where do they come to you Like God's question to Adam (Gen 3:9), Isaiah's questions were not for information. God already knew. He wanted Hezekiah to say it out loud and see what he had done.
39:6 all that is in your house, and what your fathers have stored up until this day, will be carried to Babylon In Isaiah's day Assyria was the great power and Babylon a minor rebel. Yet Isaiah named Babylon. It happened more than a century later when Nebuchadnezzar took Jerusalem's treasures and destroyed the city in 586 B.C. (2 Kgs 24:13; 25:13-15). Fulfilled prophecy is fulfilled plainly.
39:7 they will be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon Some of Hezekiah's descendants would serve in Babylon's palace. Daniel and his friends were among the young men of the royal family taken for this (Dan 1:3-6). What we show off to the world can end up in the world's hands.
39:8 Good is the word of the LORD which you have spoken Bible teachers read this two ways, as humble acceptance or as relief that the trouble would fall on others. I believe there is some of both. His concern seems to stop at his own lifetime. We should care about the generations after us, because the faith we pass on will outlive us.

word of the LORD which you have spoken." And he said, "For there will be peace and security in my days."

Comfort My People

1 "Comfort, comfort My people," says your God. 2 "Speak to the heart of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and call out to her that her service has been completed, that her iniquity has been accepted, that she has received from the hand of the LORD double for all her sins." 3 A voice is calling, "In the wilderness clear the way of the LORD; make straight in the desert plain a highway for our God. 4 Every valley will be lifted up, and every mountain and hill will become low; and the steep ground will become level ground, and the rough places a plain. 5 And the glory of the LORD will be revealed, and all flesh will see it together; for the mouth of the LORD has spoken." 6 A voice is saying, "Call out." And he said, "What shall I call out?" All flesh is grass, and all its steadfast love is like the flower of the field. 7 Grass dries up, a flower withers, when the breath of the LORD blows on it; surely the people is grass. 8 Grass dries up, a flower withers, and the word of our God will stand forever. 9 On a high mountain go up for yourself, bearer of good news of Zion (Tsiyon); lift up your voice with strength, bearer of good news of Jerusalem; lift it up, do not be afraid; say to the cities of Judah (Yehuda), "Look, your God!" 10 Look, the Lord GOD will come in strength, and His arm rules for Him; look, His reward is with Him, and His recompense before Him. 11 Like a shepherd He will shepherd His flock; in His arm He will gather lambs, and in His bosom He will carry them; nursing ewes He will lead.

40:1 Comfort, comfort My people," says your God The doubled word is meant to sink in. After thirty-nine chapters of warning, God still says "My people" and "your God." Many say a later writer begins here, but I take the book's own claim. Isaiah wrote it all, and the New Testament names him for these chapters (Matt 3:3; John 12:38-41). Comfort comes after judgment, not instead of it.

40:2 Speak to the heart of Jerusalem This means speak tenderly. Her hard service is over, her iniquity is paid for, and she has received "double," which I take to mean full and complete punishment. The near fulfillment was the return from Babylon in 538 B.C. The deeper fulfillment is in Christ, and one day Israel as a nation will know her sin is pardoned through the Messiah (Rom 11:26-27).

40:3 In the wilderness clear the way of the LORD When a king was coming, workers went ahead to smooth his road. All four Gospels apply this to John the Baptist (Matt 3:3; Mark 1:3; Luke 3:4; John 1:23). The road is for "the LORD," and John prepared the way for Jesus. That tells us Jesus is the LORD. John's road was repentance, and that is still how we get ready for Him.

40:4 Every valley will be lifted up, and every mountain and hill will become low This is road-building language that also describes hearts. The proud are humbled and the lowly lifted (Luke 3:5). I believe the first coming fulfilled the spiritual side, and the second coming will fulfill the physical side too, when the earth itself is changed (Zech 14:4).

40:5 And the glory of the LORD will be revealed, and all flesh will see it together God's glory was revealed in Jesus at His first coming (John 1:14), but only some saw it. A day is coming when every eye will see Him at once (Rev 1:7). It is certain because the LORD has said it.

40:6 All flesh is grass, and all its steadfast love is like the flower of the field The word for steadfast love here is hesed, the same word used of God's loyal love. Even our best human loyalty fades. That humbling message is part of the prophet's call.

40:7 surely the people is grass In Israel grass could be green at dawn and brown by evening when the hot east wind blew. Kings, armies and empires, including the boasting Assyria of chapter 37, all wither this way.

40:8 the word of our God will stand forever People fade, but God's word does not. Peter quotes this and calls it the gospel preached to us (1 Pet 1:24-25). The promises of this chapter rest on a word that cannot fail. Anything else we build on will wither like grass.

40:9 bearer of good news of Zion The Greek Old Testament used the same word family the New Testament uses for the gospel. The message is short: "Look, your God!" The best news there is, is that God Himself has come. We have the same calling to lift up our voice and not be afraid.

40:10 look, His reward is with Him, and His recompense before Him In Isaiah the arm of the LORD is His power in action, later tied to the Servant (53:1). Jesus echoes this at the end of the Bible (Rev 22:12). I believe it looks ahead to Christ's second coming, when He returns in power, reigns on the earth and rewards His people.

40:11 Like a shepherd He will shepherd His flock; in His arm He will gather lambs The arm that rules in 40:10 is the arm that carries the lambs. Jesus is the Good Shepherd (John 10:11). He knows who is weak, young or worn out, and He moves at their pace. If you feel like one of the weak ones, this verse is for you.

40:12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand The span is the width of a hand from thumb to little finger. What would take us a lifetime to measure, God holds in His palm. Only He can answer these questions.

40:13 Who has gauged the Spirit of the LORD, and who is the man of His counsel who will inform Him No one has ever given God advice. Paul quotes this as he worships God for His plan for Israel and the Gentiles (Rom 11:34; 1 Cor 2:16). God does not need our counsel. He wants our trust.

40:15 nations are like a drop from a bucket Whole nations are like a drop on the edge of a bucket or dust that does not move the scale. Assyria and later Babylon seemed unstoppable. Isaiah wanted the exiles to see their captors at their true size.

40:17 All the nations are as nothing before Him This is not because people do not matter to God. He made us and loves us. It is because no nation can stand next to Him or threaten His plans. Even all of Lebanon's cedars and animals could not make an offering worthy of Him (40:16).

40:20 to prepare an idol that will not be shaken The scene is sad and almost funny. The God of 40:12 holds the oceans. The idol has to be fixed in place so it won't tip over. Anything we trust in place of God, whether money, success or a relationship, is just as unable to hold us up.
40:21 Do you not know? Do you not hear Four questions in a row say this truth has been plain from the beginning. Creation itself shows there is a God, and people are without excuse (Rom 1:20).
40:22 It is the One who sits above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers The circle is the vault or horizon of the world. God is far above us, yet He spread the heavens like a tent for people to live under. He is high but not distant from what He made.
40:24 He also blows on them and they dry up Rulers are barely planted before He blows on them. Sennacherib, Nebuchadnezzar and Cyrus all had their moment and passed. The powerful of our day will too. Only God's kingdom lasts.
40:25 And to whom will you liken Me, that I should be equal?" says the Holy One Now God asks the question Himself. He is not the biggest of the gods. He is in a category of His own.
40:26 He calls them all by name Babylon worshiped the stars and thought they ruled human life. Isaiah says they are servants who answer roll call (Ps 147:4). If God keeps track of every star, He can keep track of you.
40:27 My way is hidden from the LORD This is the real problem. The exiles felt God did not see or care. We can feel that way too. The whole chapter answers it. The God who measures the oceans and names the stars has not lost track of Jacob.
40:28 He does not grow faint, and He does not grow weary; there is no searching of His understanding Our trouble does not exhaust God. When we cannot see why He allows something, it is because His understanding goes deeper than ours, not because He stopped paying attention. He is not tired of us, and He is not confused about us.
40:29 He gives power to the faint God does not just have power. He gives it to the weary. Paul learned that His power is perfected in weakness (2 Cor 12:9). The less we have, the more room there is for His strength.
40:30 youths may grow faint and grow weary Even the strongest young people tire and fall. Isaiah is not insulting the young. No one, even at his best, can carry life on his own strength forever.
40:31 those who wait for the LORD will renew power To wait for the LORD is to hope in Him, look to Him and trust Him to act. The order surprises us: fly, run, then walk. Anyone in a long trial knows that walking day after day can take more strength than flying. God gives strength simply to keep walking with Him when the road is long.
41:1 let peoples renew strength The scene is a courtroom. God summons the far-off nations to make their case. "Renew strength" repeats the words of 40:31. In effect God says, gather all the strength you can, and let's see whose argument stands.
41:2 Who has stirred up from the east the one whom righteousness calls to his foot Isaiah names him later. This is Cyrus of Persia (44:28; 45:1), who rose from the east and took Babylon in 539 B.C. Isaiah wrote this long before Cyrus was born, and that is God's point. Only the true God can name the future.
41:4 I, the LORD, am first, and with the last ones I am He God was there before history began and will be there at its end, calling each generation onto the stage. Jesus takes this same title in Revelation (Rev 22:13). He is the LORD of this verse.
41:6 to his brother he says, "Be strong The nations see the conqueror and huddle together instead of turning to the LORD. Fear without God makes people run to each other or to something they can make with their hands.
41:7 he strengthened it with nails; it will not totter They are building a god to save them from a conqueror the real God sent. People still do this. When fear comes we build something to hold onto and tell each other it will be fine, while the One who is really in control goes ignored.

I have strengthened you; indeed, I have helped you; indeed, I have upheld you with the right hand of My righteousness. 11 Look, all who are angry with you will be ashamed and disgraced; the men of your strife will be as nothing, and they will perish. 12 You will seek them, and you will not find them, the men of your contention; the men of your war will be as nothing and as nothingness. 13 For I, the LORD your God, am holding your right hand, who says to you, "Do not be afraid; I will help you." 14 Do not be afraid, worm of Jacob, men of Israel; I will help you, declares the LORD, and your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel. 15 Look, I have made you into a threshing sledge, sharp, new, possessing teeth; you will thresh mountains and crush them, and you will make hills like the chaff. 16 You will winnow them, and a wind will carry them away, and a tempest will scatter them; and you, you will rejoice in the LORD; in the Holy One of Israel you will boast. 17 The afflicted and the needy are seeking water, and there is none; their tongue has dried up with thirst. 41:8 And you, Israel, My servant, Jacob, whom I have chosen, the offspring of Abraham, My friend The tone changes completely. Abraham is called God's friend in this special way (2 Chr 20:7; Jas 2:23). Israel's standing came from God's choice, not her goodness. In chapters 41-48 "servant" usually means the nation. In 42:1 we meet a Servant who does what Israel could not.
41:9 I have chosen you, and I have not rejected you God called Abraham from Ur and Haran at the ends of the earth. The exiles in Babylon may have thought God was finished with them. He wasn't, and He isn't. God has not rejected His people (Rom 11:2).
41:10 do not be afraid, for I am with you; do not look about, for I am your God God does not say nothing bad will happen. He says do not fear because He is present. To look about pictures someone glancing around in panic for help. Then the promises stack up: strengthened, helped, upheld. If you are afraid today, read this verse slowly and out loud.
41:11 all who are angry with you will be ashamed and disgraced This was true of Babylon and of many nations that tried to destroy the Jewish people. I believe it will be true in the final days, when the nations gather against Jerusalem and the Lord Himself fights for her (Zech 12:2-3, 9).
41:12 You will seek them, and you will not find them Her enemies will simply be gone. Think of the Assyrian army in chapter 37. In the morning the threat over the city was nothing but dead men.
41:13 I, the LORD your God, am holding your right hand God repeats Himself on purpose. A parent walking with a small child holds the child's hand. God is not shouting encouragement from far away. He is holding on.
41:14 Do not be afraid, worm of Jacob That sounds harsh but it is tender. God knows how small Israel feels (Ps 22:6). This is the first time Isaiah calls God Israel's Redeemer. A redeemer was a close relative who bought back family land or freed a relative sold into slavery (Lev 25:25, 47-49). God is Israel's next of kin, and for us He paid that price in Jesus.
41:15 I have made you into a threshing sledge, sharp, new, possessing teeth A threshing sledge was a heavy board with sharp stones or iron teeth underneath. The worm becomes the thresher. Micah uses this picture for the last days (Mic 4:13). I believe the full answer waits for Christ's return and reign, when Israel is restored and her enemies brought down.
41:17 The afflicted and the needy are seeking water, and there is none God Himself will answer them and not forsake them. Thirst pictures the soul's deep need, and Jesus invites the thirsty to come to Him and drink (John 7:37).
41:18 I will make a wilderness into a pool of water This repeats 35:6-7. It came true in part when the exiles came home. I believe it will be fulfilled in full in the Millennium, when the land is restored and the curse begins to lift. God also brings life to dry hearts.
41:19 I will put in the wilderness cedar, acacia and myrtle, and oil tree These trees would never grow together naturally in a desert. Only God can make a garden out of a wasteland.
41:20 that the hand of the LORD has done this When God does what cannot be explained any other way, the glory goes to Him. The same is true of a changed life. The best answer we can give is that the Lord did this.
41:21 says the King of Jacob God calls the idols back to court. Israel had no human king in exile, but she still had a King.
41:22 tell us what will happen A real god should be able to explain history and predict the future. That is God's test, and He alone passes it.
41:23 indeed, you may do good, and you may do harm There is holy mockery here, like Elijah on Carmel (1 Kgs 18:27). Do anything at all, good or bad. The idols cannot even do harm.
41:24 an abomination is he who chooses you The idols are nothing. The person who chooses them is an abomination to God. Choosing something in God's place is something God takes personally.
41:25 I have stirred up one from the north, and he has come; from the rising of the sun he will call on My name Both directions fit Cyrus. Persia lay east, and his armies came on Babylon from the north. Cyrus was not a worshiper like Israel, but his decree named the LORD, the God of heaven, as the One who gave him his kingdoms (Ezra 1:2-3).

My Servant

1 Look, My servant, whom I uphold, My chosen one, in whom My soul is pleased; I have put My Spirit on Him; He will bring forth justice to the nations. 2 He will not cry out, and He will not lift up, and He will not make His voice heard in the street. 3 A crushed reed He will not break, and a dim wick He will not extinguish; He will bring forth justice in truth. 4 He will not grow dim, and He will not be crushed until He establishes justice on the earth; and the coastlands will wait for His law. 5 Thus says the God, the LORD, who created the heavens and stretched them out, who spread out the earth and its produce, who gives breath to the people on it and spirit to those who walk in it: 6 I, the LORD, have called You in righteousness, and I will take hold of Your hand, and I will watch over You, and I will give You for a covenant of the people, for a light of the nations, 7 to open blind eyes, to bring out the prisoner from the dungeon, those who dwell in darkness from a house of confinement. 8 I am the LORD; that is My name; and My glory I will not give to another, and My praise to carved images. 9 The former things, look, have come, and new things I am telling; before they spring up I will make you hear them.

A New Song and a Blind Servant

10 Sing to the LORD a new song, His praise from the end of the earth, you who go down to the sea, and its fullness, coastlands and their inhabitants. 11 Let the wilderness and its cities lift up their voice, the villages where Kedar (Qedar) dwells; let the inhabitants of Sela shout for joy; let them cry aloud from the top of the mountains. 12 Let them give glory to the LORD, and let them declare His praise in the coastlands. 13 The LORD will go forth like the mighty man; like a man of wars He will stir up zeal; He will shout, indeed, He will raise a battle cry; over His enemies He will show Himself

41:26 Who told it from the beginning, so that we may know None of the idols announced it. Only the LORD told His people beforehand. That is why fulfilled prophecy matters so much. It shows who is really God.
41:27 to Jerusalem I will give one who brings good news This ties back to 40:9. God speaks first, and He speaks good news. He does not leave His people guessing.
41:29 their molten images are wind and formlessness The courtroom ends in silence. The nations have nothing to say. This sets the stage for 42:1, where God says, "Look, My servant." Over against empty idols, God presents a real Person.
42:1 Look, My servant, whom I uphold, My chosen one, in whom My soul is pleased; I have put My Spirit on Him This begins the first of four Servant Songs. In chapter 41 the servant was Israel, but this Servant does what Israel never could. Matthew quotes 42:1-4 and says it was fulfilled in Jesus (Matt 12:15-21). At His baptism the Spirit came on Him and the Father spoke His delight from heaven (Matt 3:16-17). The Servant is Jesus Christ, and He brings justice to the nations.
42:2 He will not cry out, and He will not lift up, and He will not make His voice heard in the street The Servant does not promote Himself like a politician. Jesus often told those He healed not to spread the news (Matt 12:16). Many wanted a loud Messiah to throw off Rome. Instead the Anointed One came first in humility.
42:3 A crushed reed He will not break, and a dim wick He will not extinguish Most people would snap off a cracked reed and pinch out a smoking wick. Jesus does neither. Think of the woman caught in adultery (John 8:10-11) or Peter after his denial (John 21:15-17). If you feel like a bruised reed, He won't break you. Yet He is still committed to setting the world right.
42:4 He will not grow dim, and He will not be crushed until He establishes justice on the earth The same two words from 42:3 return. The reed and the wick are weak, but the Servant is not. The world is plainly not yet full of justice. I believe this looks ahead to His second coming and His thousand-year reign on earth (2:4; Rev 20:4-6).
42:5 who gives breath to the people on it and spirit to those who walk in it Before God speaks to His Servant, we are reminded who is speaking. The One who sends the Servant is Creator of all and giver of every breath. That is why the mission cannot fail.
42:6 I will give You for a covenant of the people, for a light of the nations The Servant does not just bring a covenant. He is the covenant. Jesus spoke of the new covenant in His blood (Luke 22:20). Simeon called the baby Jesus a light to the Gentiles (Luke 2:32). From the start God planned to bless all the families of the earth through Abraham's offspring (Gen 12:3).
42:7 to open blind eyes, to bring out the prisoner from the dungeon Jesus gave sight to the blind again and again (Matt 11:5; John 9) and read a related passage in Nazareth as fulfilled in Himself (Luke 4:18-21). He also opens spiritually blind eyes and sets sin's captives free (Acts 26:18). Every person who comes to Christ was once in that dark cell.
42:8 My glory I will not give to another LORD is God's personal name, given to Moses at the bush (Exod 3:14-15). Yet Jesus asked the Father for the glory He had with Him before the world was (John 17:5). Since God does not share His glory with another, the only way to make sense of this is that Jesus is not "another." He is God the Son.
42:9 The former things, look, have come, and new things I am telling That is the argument of chapters 40-48 in a sentence. The God who kept His word, as with Assyria's fall, will keep it again. The coming of the Servant was one of those new things, told about seven hundred years before Jesus was born.
42:10 Sing to the LORD a new song New acts of God call for new praise. The redeemed sing a new song to the Lamb for people from every nation (Rev 5:9). That is where this verse is headed.
42:11 the villages where Kedar dwells; let the inhabitants of Sela shout for joy Kedar was a nomadic Arab tribe east of Israel. Sela, meaning rock, was a stronghold in Edom. These were far and often hostile places. Even there the light to the nations reaches.
42:13 The LORD will go forth like the mighty man; like a man of wars He will stir up zeal The God who is gentle with the bruised reed is fierce against evil. Both are true of Jesus. At His second coming He rides out from heaven to judge and make war in righteousness (Rev 19:11-15). I believe this looks ahead to that day.

mighty. 14 I have kept quiet from long ago; I have been silent; I have restrained Myself; like the woman giving birth I will groan; I will gasp and pant together. 15 I will lay waste mountains and hills, and all their vegetation I will dry up; and I will make rivers into islands, and pools I will dry up. 16 And I will lead the blind by a way that they have not known; in paths that they have not known I will make them tread; I will make the dark place before them into light, and rough places into level ground. You Are Mine

42:14 I have kept quiet from long ago; I have been silent; I have restrained Myself God's long silence is patience, not wishing any to perish (2 Pet 3:9). But patience has an end. Labor pains mean something new is about to be born and cannot be held back. Jesus used the same picture for the troubles at the end of the age (Matt 24:8).

42:15 I will lay waste mountains and hills This reverses 41:18. The power that blesses His people can judge His enemies. It is a picture of the Day of the LORD.

42:16 I will do them, and I will not forsake them In the middle of judgment God leads the blind on a road they do not know. He finishes what He starts (Phil 1:6).

42:17 those who trust in the carved image On the day God acts, everyone will see what they have trusted in, and the idols will fail the people who leaned on them.

42:19 Who is blind but My servant, and deaf like My messenger whom I send Here is the painful twist. This servant is Israel (42:24), not the Servant of 42:1-9. Israel was meant to be a light to the nations but was as blind as they were. That is why the true Servant had to come. Where Israel failed, Jesus succeeded.

42:20 Seeing many things, and you do not keep them Israel saw the Exodus, the sea parted and Assyria's army fall, yet did not listen. It is possible to grow up hearing sermon after sermon and still not see (Matt 13:13-15).

42:21 He will magnify the law, and He will make it glorious God's law was a gift. Israel's failure did not make it less glorious. It showed our need for a Savior who would keep it perfectly. Jesus came not to abolish the law but to fulfill it (Matt 5:17).

42:22 it is a people despoiled and plundered This pictures the Babylonian exile foretold in 39:6-7. It also pictures every life that goes its own way. Sin promises freedom and leaves us captive.

42:24 Was it not the LORD, He against whom we have sinned It was not Babylon's strength or gods. This is hard to hear but also a comfort. If the LORD allowed the exile, it was in His hands, and He could end it too.

42:25 it burned against him, and he does not lay it to heart Israel suffered and still did not learn. But God's answer opened the chapter: My Servant. In Him God would do for Israel what she could not do herself. One day all Israel will be saved (Rom 11:26).

43:1 Do not be afraid, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by your name; you are Mine After the rebuke of chapter 42 we might expect more anger, but God speaks tenderly. A people He made on purpose is a people He won't throw away. To redeem is to buy back. Every believer has this in Christ. We were bought with a price (1 Cor 6:20), and we belong to Him.

43:2 When you pass through the waters, I will be with you God says "when," not "if." The promise is not that we will be spared the river and the fire, but that He will be in it with us. Israel crossed the sea and the Jordan, and Daniel's friends walked out of the furnace without the smell of smoke (Dan 3:27).

43:3 I have given Egypt as your ransom, Cush and Seba in place of you Cush is roughly modern Sudan, and Seba was probably nearby. Some see this fulfilled when Persia, after freeing the Jews, conquered Egypt in 525 B.C. under Cyrus's son Cambyses. The point is that God moves empires for His people's sake.

43:4 Because you are precious in My eyes, you are honored, and I, I love you Israel had done nothing to earn this. They were blind and deaf (42:18-20). That is grace, God's favor to people who do not deserve it. God's love never rested on how lovely we are. It rests on Him.

43:5 from the east I will bring your offspring, and from the west I will gather you Isaiah wrote this before the exile, yet he speaks to a scattered people God already sees. A first fulfillment came after 538 B.C. I believe the fuller fulfillment is still ahead, when God gathers Israel from the whole earth at the return of Christ (Matt 24:31).

Indeed, I will make a way in the wilderness, rivers in a desolate place. 20 The living things of the field will honor Me, jackals and daughters of an ostrich, for I have put water in the wilderness, rivers in a desolate place, to give drink to My people, My chosen, 21 the people whom I formed for Myself; they will recount My praise. 22 And you have not called on Me, Jacob, for you have grown weary of Me, Israel. 23 You have not brought to Me the sheep of your burnt offerings, and with your sacrifices you have not honored Me; I have not burdened you with grain offering, and I have not wearied you with frankincense. 24 You have not bought calamus for Me with money, and with the fat of your sacrifices you have not satisfied Me; only, you have burdened Me with your sins; you have wearied Me with your iniquities. 25 I, I am He who wipes out your transgressions for My own sake, 43:7 whom I created for My glory God speaks to the four directions like a commander and calls them "My sons" and "My daughters." This is why we exist, to show the world what God is like. When we live for His glory, we are doing what we were made to do.

43:8 Bring out a blind people, and there are eyes, and deaf ones, and they have ears The courtroom again. God is honest that Israel is blind and deaf, yet these are the very people He calls as witnesses. God does not wait for perfect people before He uses them.
43:9 Who among them will tell this, and make us hear former things Which god foretold the past events? Let them bring witnesses. Prophecy is history written in advance, and only God can write it. The idols have no record to show.
43:10 You are My witnesses, declares the LORD Israel's history was the evidence that God foretells and fulfills. He was not formed in a workshop like the idols. He simply is. Jesus used this language when He warned that unless they believed that He is He, they would die in their sins (John 8:24). I believe He was claiming to be the God who speaks here.
43:11 I, I am the LORD, and besides Me there is no Savior There is one Savior and no other. The world offers many roads to rescue, some very spiritual sounding. Salvation belongs to God alone, and it comes through one name, Jesus Christ (Acts 4:12).
43:12 I, I have declared, and I have saved, and I have made it heard God declared, saved, then proclaimed it. No strange god did that for Israel. Every believer has a testimony too. What has God done in your life that you could tell someone this week?
43:13 there is no deliverer from My hand; I act, and who will turn it back No one snatches anyone out of His hand, as Jesus said of His sheep (John 10:28). That is a comfort to those who trust Him and a warning to those who fight Him.
43:14 For your sake I have sent to Babylon Babylon is named here, though in Isaiah's day Assyria was the great threat. The Chaldeans were Babylon's ruling people and were proud of their river trade. Their ships of joy would become boats for fleeing.
43:15 the Creator of Israel, your King Israel's kings failed them over and over. Their true King was the LORD. One day the King will reign in Jerusalem in plain sight, when Christ returns and rules the earth for a thousand years (Rev 20:4-6).
43:17 like the wick they are extinguished This looks back to the Exodus, when Pharaoh's chariots drowned in the path God made through the sea. The God who did that has not grown weaker since.
43:18 Do not remember former things God does not mean forget His past works. He means don't think the past was the best He can do. Some of us live looking backward at our failures or our good old days. God isn't finished.
43:19 Look, I am doing a new thing The new thing is a second exodus, out of Babylon through the desert. I believe it reaches further. God's greatest new thing is the new covenant in Christ, and Revelation ends with Him making all things new (Rev 21:5).
43:20 jackals and daughters of an ostrich Even creatures of dry, lonely places benefit when God brings water for His people. Creation shares in the blessing of redemption (Rom 8:19-21).
43:21 the people whom I formed for Myself; they will recount My praise This explains the whole chapter. Peter applies the same idea to the church (1 Pet 2:9). Praise is the reason we were made, not an extra.
43:22 for you have grown weary of Me, Israel Faith had become a chore. It is possible to go to church and sing the songs and still be tired of God. The cure isn't more effort but a fresh look at the God who never grows weary of you.
43:23 I have not burdened you with grain offering Many think this speaks of the exile, when there was no temple. Others see offerings brought with empty hearts (1:11-13). Either way, God was not demanding more.
43:24 only, you have burdened Me with your sins; you have wearied Me with your iniquities Calamus was used in the holy anointing oil (Exod 30:23). God did not weigh Israel down, but Israel weighed God down with sin. That load the Lord Himself would one day carry (53:6).
43:25 I, I am He who wipes out your transgressions for My own sake, and your sins I will not remember Right after listing their sins, God announces forgiveness. It comes from His own nature, not our merit. God does not forget the way we do. He will not hold our sins against us or bring them up again. Hebrews repeats this as part of the new covenant (Heb 8:12).

and your sins I will not remember. 26 Remind Me; let us enter into judgment together; you, recount, so that you may be justified. 27 Your first father sinned, and your spokesmen transgressed against Me. 28 So I will profane the officials of holiness, and I will give Jacob to be devoted to destruction, and Israel to reviling words.

The Spirit Poured Out

1 And now listen, Jacob (Ya'aqov), My servant, and Israel (Yisra'el), whom I have chosen. 2 Thus says the LORD, who made you and who formed you from the womb, who will help you: Do not be afraid, My servant Jacob, and Jeshurun (Yeshurun), whom I have chosen. 3 For I will pour out water on the thirsty ground, and streams on the dry ground; I will pour out My Spirit on your offspring, and My blessing on your descendants. 4 And they will spring up in among the grass, like poplars by watercourses of water. 5 This one will say, "I am the LORD's," and this one will call himself by the name of Jacob, and this one will write on his hand, "The LORD's," and he will surname himself with the name of Israel. 6 Thus says the LORD, the King of Israel, and his Redeemer, the LORD of armies: I am first and I am last, and besides Me there is no God. 7 And who is like Me? Let him proclaim it, and let him declare it and set it in order for Me, since I established the ancient people; and the coming things, and what will come, let them declare to them. 8 Do not be in dread, and do not be frightened. Did I not make you hear from then, and declare it? And you are My witnesses. Is there a God besides Me? And there is no Rock; I do not know one.

The Living God and the Block of Wood

43:26 you, recount, so that you may be justified If you think you are innocent, make your case. No one can. The whole world stands guilty before God (Rom 3:19). The only way to be declared right is God's own forgiveness (43:25).
43:27 Your first father sinned Many take this as Jacob, whose life was full of scheming (Hos 12:2-3). Some think of Adam. I lean toward Jacob, since the chapter speaks to Jacob by name. From the start the family has needed grace.
43:28 I will give Jacob to be devoted to destruction The word means set apart for destruction. This happened when Babylon destroyed Jerusalem and the temple in 586 B.C. But it is not the end of the story. The very next verse opens with "And now" (44:1).
44:1 And now listen, Jacob, My servant, and Israel, whom I have chosen God turns from judgment straight back to grace. In chapters 41-48 the servant is often the nation, as here. Israel's calling always depended on God's choice, not on her success.
44:2 and Jeshurun, whom I have chosen Jeshurun means upright one and is used only here and in Deuteronomy (Deut 32:15; 33:5, 26). It is like a pet name, calling Israel what God intended her to be. He has cared for her from the womb, from the start of her life as a nation.
44:3 I will pour out My Spirit on your offspring, and My blessing on your descendants Water on thirsty ground pictures the Spirit giving life. A first taste came after the return. The great outpouring came at Pentecost on Jewish believers in Jerusalem (Acts 2:1-4, 17). I believe a future outpouring is coming for the nation of Israel, when they look on Him whom they pierced (Zech 12:10).
44:5 this one will write on his hand, "The LORD's A slave or soldier might be marked with his owner's name. This is a willing mark of love. The beast forces his mark on people (Rev 13:16), but God's servants bear His name freely (Rev 14:1).
44:6 I am first and I am last, and besides Me there is no God Nothing came before Him and nothing will outlast Him. Jesus takes these same words for Himself (Rev 1:17; 22:13). He was not borrowing a phrase. Jesus is the eternal God who speaks here.
44:7 And who is like Me? Let him proclaim it No idol can tell the past from the beginning and announce what is coming. This is why Bible prophecy matters so much. It shows the God of the Bible is real and in control of history.
44:8 there is no Rock; I do not know one God had told His people ahead of time what was coming. Prophecy is meant to settle our fear, not stir it up. If the all-knowing God does not know of another rock, there is none.
44:9 their witnesses, they do not see and they do not know The LORD's witnesses had seen Him act. The idols' witnesses have seen nothing, and in the end they will be ashamed.
44:10 Who has formed a god and cast a carved image to no profit The question answers itself, yet people did it all the time. We may not carve statues, but we build our lives around money, success or approval, and those gods can't help when it counts.
44:11 the craftsmen, they are from mankind That is the whole problem. A god made by a man can be no greater than the man who made it.
44:12 also he is hungry, and there is no strength; he has not drunk water, and he grows weary The blacksmith can't keep himself going without food and water. How can what he makes keep him going? The God of Israel never grows weary (40:28).
44:14 he plants a laurel, and the rain makes it grow Before the woodworker carved, someone planted the tree, and the rain made it grow. The LORD sends the rain. The idol depends from start to finish on the God it replaces.

prostrates himself to it. 16 Half of it he burns in a fire; over half of it he eats meat; he roasts a roast and is satisfied; also he warms himself and says, "Aha, I am warm; I have seen the fire." 17 And the remainder of it he makes into a god, into his carved image; he prostrates himself to it, and he bows down, and he prays to it, and he says, "Deliver me, for you are my god." 18 They do not know, and they do not understand, for He has smeared their eyes from seeing, their hearts from having insight. 19 And he does not bring it back to his heart, and there is no knowledge and no understanding to say, "Half of it I burned in a fire, and also I baked bread on its coals; I roast meat and eat it; and shall I make the rest of it into an abomination? Shall I prostrate myself to a block of wood?" 20 He feeds on ashes; a deceived heart has turned him aside, and he will not deliver his soul, and he will not say, "Is there not a falsehood in my right hand?"

Cyrus My Shepherd

21 Remember these things, Jacob, and Israel, for you are My servant; I formed you; you are a servant to Me, Israel; you will not be forgotten by Me. 22 I have wiped out your transgressions like the thick cloud, and your sins like the cloud; return to Me, for I have redeemed you. 23 Shout for joy, heavens, for the LORD has acted; shout aloud, lower parts of the earth; break forth into a shout of joy, mountains, forest, and every tree in it; for the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and in Israel He will glorify Himself. 24 Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer, and the One who formed you from the womb: I am the LORD, who makes everything, who stretches out the heavens alone, who spreads out the earth by Myself, 25 who frustrates the signs of empty talkers, and makes diviners mad; who turns the wise backward, and makes their knowledge foolish; 26 who establishes the word of His servant, and performs the counsel of His messengers; who says of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), "She will be inhabited," and of the cities of Judah (Yehuda), "They will be rebuilt, and I will raise up her ruins"; 27 who says to the ocean depth, "Be dried up, and I will make your rivers dry"; 28 who says of Cyrus (Koresh), "My shepherd, and he will perform all My desire," even saying of Jerusalem, "Let her be rebuilt," and of the temple, "Let it be founded."

Cyrus, God's Anointed

1 Thus says the LORD to His anointed, to Cyrus (Koresh), whose right hand I have taken hold of, to subdue nations before him, and I will loosen the loins of kings, to open doors before him, and gates will not be shut: 2 I, I will go before you, and I will make the swelling places straight; I will break doors of bronze, and I will cut through bars of iron. 3 And I will give you treasures of darkness and hidden riches of secret places, so that you may know that I am the LORD, who calls you by your name, the God of Israel (Yisra'el). 4 For the sake of My servant Jacob (Ya'aqov), and Israel My chosen one, I called you by your name; I surname you, and you have

44:17 Deliver me, for you are my god Half the log warms him and cooks his meat. The other half becomes his savior. Isaiah wants us to see how foolish that is. A god you made with your own hands can't rescue you.
44:18 for He has smeared their eyes from seeing This is God's judgment on people who keep refusing the truth. When someone rejects God long enough, God may give him over to his choice (Rom 1:21-25). It echoes Isaiah's call (6:10). Blindness can become a judgment.
44:20 He feeds on ashes Ashes are what is left after the fire. They feed no one. "Is there not a falsehood in my right hand?" is a question worth asking ourselves. What am I holding onto to save me that can't?
44:21 you will not be forgotten by Me The idol maker formed his god. Israel's God formed Israel. That is the difference between false religion and the truth.
44:22 I have wiped out your transgressions like the thick cloud, and your sins like the cloud; return to Me, for I have redeemed you A cloud hiding the sun can be gone in an hour. Notice the order. God forgives first, then says return. He does not ask us to clean ourselves up before we come home. He has already paid the price.
44:23 Shout for joy, heavens, for the LORD has acted The idols could not make a tree. The true God made the trees, and now even they are told to sing. When God saves His people, all creation has reason to celebrate.
44:24 who stretches out the heavens alone, who spreads out the earth by Myself This long sentence builds to the naming of Cyrus. No helper and no other god was there at creation. That is what makes Him able to say what comes next.
44:25 who frustrates the signs of empty talkers, and makes diviners mad Babylon was famous for omen readers. Diviners claimed to read the future through signs and magic. When God speaks, the world's wise men have to back down.
44:26 who establishes the word of His servant The servant here is likely Isaiah and the prophets God sent. In Isaiah's day Jerusalem had not even fallen, yet God promised it would be inhabited and rebuilt.
44:27 who says to the ocean depth, "Be dried up This recalls the Red Sea and the Jordan. It may also point to Babylon, protected by the Euphrates and its canals. Nothing that shields God's enemies stands when He speaks.
44:28 who says of Cyrus, "My shepherd, and he will perform all My desire Isaiah wrote in the late 700s or early 600s B.C. Cyrus took Babylon in 539 B.C. and soon decreed the temple rebuilt (Ezra 1:1-4). Isaiah named him well over a hundred years ahead. No man can name a king before he is born, but God can. A pagan king did God's will without knowing it.
45:1 Thus says the LORD to His anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have taken hold of Anointed is the word from which we get Messiah. It means set apart by God for a task. Cyrus was not the Messiah and not a believer, but God chose him to free His people. Babylon fell to him in 539 B.C. with little fighting.
45:2 I will break doors of bronze, and I will cut through bars of iron Babylon's walls and gates were among the greatest in the world. No gate is strong enough when God opens it. When God sends you through a door, nothing can keep it shut (Rev 3:8).
45:3 treasures of darkness and hidden riches of secret places Cyrus gathered great wealth from Lydia and Babylon. God's purpose went beyond the gold. He wanted even this pagan king to know who had called him by name.
45:4 For the sake of My servant Jacob God's main interest was not the Persian Empire but His people. "You have not known Me" shows God can use people who don't follow Him to bless those who do. He rules the whole world, not just the church.

not known Me. 5 I am the LORD, and there is none else; besides Me there is no God. Turn to Me and Be Saved

14 Thus says the LORD: The toil of Egypt (Mitsrayim) and the merchandise of Cush (Kush), and the Sabeans (Seva'im), men of stature, will pass over to you, and they will be yours; they will walk behind you; in the fetters they will pass over; and to you they will bow down; to you they will pray: "Surely God is among you, and there is none else, no God." 15 Truly You are a God who hides Himself, God of Israel, Savior. 16 They have been ashamed and also disgraced, all of them; together they have gone in humiliation, the craftsmen of images. 17 Israel has been saved by the LORD with a salvation of ages; you will not be ashamed, and you will not be disgraced, to ages of perpetuity. 18 For thus says the LORD, who created the heavens (He is the God), who formed the earth and made it (He established it; He did not create it as formlessness; He formed it to be dwelt in): I am the LORD, and there is none else. 19 I did not speak in secret, in a place of a land of darkness; I did not say to the offspring of Jacob, "Seek Me in formlessness." I am the LORD, speaking righteousness, declaring upright things. 20 Gather yourselves and come; draw near together, survivors of the nations. They do not know, those who carry the wood of their carved image, and who pray to a god that will not save. 21 Declare and bring it near; indeed, let them take counsel together. 45:21 Titus 2:13; Mark 12:32; Luke 1:47

45:5 I will gird you, and you have not known Me To gird is to strap on belt and armor for battle. God helped a man who did not worship Him because His plans were bigger than one man. He was keeping His promises to Israel.
45:7 who makes peace and creates calamity Older translations read create evil, which has confused many. The word means disaster or trouble, not moral sin. God is never the author of sin (Jas 1:13). He is sovereign over good days and hard days, over Cyrus's rise and Babylon's fall.
45:8 let clouds pour down righteousness The picture is a field after rain, bursting with life. When God acts, right living and rescue spring up together. "I, the LORD, have created it." This harvest is His work, not ours.
45:9 Does the clay say to the one who forms it, "What are you making Some in Israel must have complained about a pagan deliverer. God answers with the potter picture (29:16), which Paul also uses (Rom 9:20-21). When we argue with God's plans, we forget who is the potter and who is the clay.
45:10 Woe to him who says to a father, "What are you fathering A child has no say in being born. Israel had no business questioning how God brought about her new birth as a nation. We may bring honest questions to God, but we don't put Him on trial.
45:11 Ask Me about the coming things; concerning My sons and concerning the work of My hands you command Me Instead of arguing, His people can come to Him and trust Him with the work of His hands. A good prayer is not asking why He is doing this to me but telling Him I trust Him with what He is making of me.
45:12 I, I made the earth, and I created mankind on it The One who stretched out the heavens can surely handle the return of some fifty thousand exiles (Ezra 2:64-65). Our biggest problems are small things to the Creator.
45:13 he will let My exiles go, not for price and not for bribe God stirred him up (Ezra 1:1). Conquerors usually demanded ransom. Cyrus let the Jews go freely and even sent back the temple vessels Nebuchadnezzar had taken (Ezra 1:7-11).
45:14 Surely God is among you, and there is none else, no God The Sabeans were tall men from a land south of Egypt. The picture looks further ahead. I believe it points to the Millennium, when Christ reigns from Jerusalem and the nations come to worship (Zech 8:22-23; 14:16). The fetters, I think, picture full surrender to Israel's God.
45:15 Truly You are a God who hides Himself, God of Israel, Savior God often works out of sight, through a pagan king, exile and hard years, and we see His hand only later. He may seem hidden, but He is still Savior. Hidden doesn't mean absent.
45:16 the craftsmen of images The two outcomes are sharp. Idol makers end in shame, Israel in salvation (45:17). Every person will one day be ashamed of what he trusted or glad he trusted the LORD.
45:17 Israel has been saved by the LORD with a salvation of ages The return from Babylon did not last forever. Israel was conquered again. So this reaches further, to salvation through the Messiah. I believe the promise that all Israel will be saved (Rom 11:26) is still ahead for the nation, and God will keep it.
45:18 For thus says the LORD, who created the heavens, who formed the earth and made it God did not create the earth as tohu, the word for formlessness in Genesis 1:2. He made it to be lived in by people who know Him. That purpose hasn't changed, and the new earth will fulfill it (Rev 21:3).
45:19 I did not speak in secret, in a place of a land of darkness Pagan oracles gave murky, hidden answers. God spoke openly through Moses and the prophets. Seeking Him is never useless. If you seek Him, you will find Him (Jer 29:13).
45:20 those who carry the wood of their carved image The idol has to be carried. The LORD carries His people (46:3-4). This call to the survivors of the nations hints at the open door of 45:22.
45:21 a righteous God and a Savior A righteous judge must punish sin, and a Savior rescues sinners. At the cross both are true at once. God stays just, and He justifies those who believe (Rom 3:26).

eous God and a Savior; there is none besides Me. 22 Turn to Me and be saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else. 23 By Myself I have sworn; righteousness has gone out from My mouth, a word, and it will not return, that to Me every knee will bow, every tongue will swear. 24 Only in the LORD, one has said of Me, are righteousnesses and strength; to Him one will come, and all who are angry with Him will be ashamed. 25 In the LORD all the offspring of Israel will be justified, and they will boast.

The God Who Carries

1 Bel has bowed down; Nebo (Nevo) is stooping low; their idols have become a load for the beast and for the livestock; the things you carry are loaded, a load for a weary one. 2 They have stooped low; they have bowed down together; they have not been able to rescue the load, and their soul has gone into captivity. 3 Listen to Me, house of Jacob (Ya'aqov), and all the remnant of the house of Israel (Yisra'el), who have been loaded from the belly, who have been carried from the womb: 4 and to old age I am He, and to gray hair I, I will bear you; I, I have made you, and I, I will carry, and I, I will bear and will rescue. 5 To whom will you liken Me and make Me equal, and compare Me, that we may be alike? 6 Those who pour out gold from a bag, and weigh out silver on the scale, hire a refiner, and he makes it a god; they prostrate themselves; indeed, they bow down. 7 They lift it up on the shoulder; they bear it, and they set it down in its place, and it stands; from its place it does not move. Indeed, one cries out to it, and it does not answer; it does not save him from his trouble. 8 Remember this, and be firm; bring it back to heart, transgressors. 9 Remember former things from long ago, for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like Me, 10 declaring the end from the beginning, and from antiquity what has not been done, saying, "My counsel will stand, and all My desire I will do," 11 calling a bird of prey from the east, the man of My counsel from a far land. Indeed, I have spoken; indeed, I will bring it about; I have formed it; indeed, I will do it. 12 Listen to Me, mighty of heart, who are far from righteousness: 13 I have brought near My righteousness; it is not far away, and My salvation will not delay; and I will give salvation in Zion (Tsiyon), to Israel My beauty.

45:22 Turn to Me and be saved, all the ends of the earth The invitation goes past Israel to every nation. It doesn't ask you to earn anything or climb anywhere. It asks you to turn. That invitation now comes through Jesus Christ, the only Savior. If you have never turned to Him, today is the day.
45:23 to Me every knee will bow, every tongue will swear God swears by Himself since there is no one greater (Heb 6:13). Paul applies this to the final judgment (Rom 14:11) and says every knee will bow at the name of Jesus (Phil 2:10-11). What Isaiah says of the LORD, Paul says of Jesus. That tells us plainly who Jesus is.
45:24 Only in the LORD, one has said of Me, are righteousnesses and strength Neither being right with God nor the strength to live for Him comes from ourselves. Every knee will bow, some in joy and some in defeat. Better to bow now, willingly.
45:25 In the LORD all the offspring of Israel will be justified Justified means declared right with God, the same idea Paul uses for righteousness by faith. I believe this looks ahead to the day Israel as a nation turns to Jesus, the One they once rejected.
46:1 Bel has bowed down; Nebo is stooping low; their idols have become a load for the beast Bel, meaning lord, was a title for Marduk, Babylon's chief god. Nebo was his son, god of writing and wisdom, whose name appears in Nebuchadnezzar. At festivals their images were paraded in glory. Isaiah sees another parade. When Babylon falls they are loaded on weary animals and carted off.
46:2 they have not been able to rescue the load, and their soul has gone into captivity Conquerors often carried off defeated peoples' gods as trophies. These gods could not even save their own statues. A god who can be captured is no god at all.
46:3 who have been loaded from the belly, who have been carried from the womb Israel did not carry God around. God carried Israel, ever since He made them a people in Egypt. The remnant is the small group left after judgment whom God keeps for Himself.
46:4 and to old age I am He, and to gray hair I, I will bear you God does not tire of His people as the years go by. If you are getting older, or caring for someone who is, hold onto this. You were never meant to carry yourself. The God who carried you as a child still carries you now.
46:5 To whom will you liken Me and make Me equal Every idol is an attempt to make God smaller, something we can see, handle and control (40:18, 25). God won't be shrunk to our size.
46:6 hire a refiner, and he makes it a god The man pays for the god and the craftsman shapes it. The god has no say. How can something you bought be your Lord?
46:7 one cries out to it, and it does not answer; it does not save him from his trouble The idol is set in place and cannot move. The LORD hears His people when they call and comes to rescue them (Ps 34:17). A god who can't hear can't help.
46:8 Remember this, and be firm; bring it back to heart, transgressors Many exiles were tempted to worship Babylon's gods, which seemed to be winning. God says stop, remember and stand on solid ground. Don't be pulled away by what looks powerful today.
46:9 Remember former things from long ago, for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like Me Remembering what God has done, from the Exodus on, is one of the best ways to trust what He will do. "There is none like Me" is the message of these chapters in one sentence.
46:10 declaring the end from the beginning Prophecy is history written in advance. God tells the end before the story begins because He is the author. What God said about the past came true exactly. That is why I take prophecy at face value, including the return of Christ.
46:11 calling a bird of prey from the east, the man of My counsel from a far land This is Cyrus, swift and strong from Persia. Four statements follow: spoken, bring about, formed, do. There is no gap between God's word and His deed.
46:12 Listen to Me, mighty of heart, who are far from righteousness This describes many in Israel then and every one of us apart from grace. God does not walk away from stubborn people. Hard hearts are still within reach of His voice.
46:13 I have brought near My righteousness; it is not far away We could never reach righteousness, so God brings it near. That is the gospel in a sentence. The return was a first step, the full answer came in Jesus, and Israel's final glory will come when He returns to reign from Jerusalem.

The Fall of the Queen

1 Go down and sit on the dust, virgin daughter of Babylon (Bavel); sit on the earth, where there is no throne, daughter of the Chaldeans (Kasdim); for you will not again have them call you tender and delicate. 2 Take a pair of millstones and grind flour; uncover your veil; strip off the skirt; uncover the leg; pass through rivers. 3 Let your nakedness be uncovered; also your reproach will be seen. I will take vengeance, and I will not meet a man. 4 Our Redeemer, the LORD of armies is His name, the Holy One of Israel (Yisra'el). 5 Sit silently and go into the darkness, daughter of the Chaldeans; for you will not again have them call you mistress of kingdoms. 6 I was angry with My people; I profaned My inheritance, and I gave them into your hand; you did not set compassion for them; on the old man you made your yoke exceedingly heavy. 7 And you said, "I will be mistress forever," so that you did not lay these things on your heart; you did not remember its end. 8 And now hear this, voluptuous one, who sits in security, who says in her heart, "I am, and besides me there is none else; I will not sit as a widow, and I will not know loss of children." 9 And these two things will come to you in a moment, in one day: loss of children and widowhood; in their completeness they will come on you, in the abundance of your sorceries, in the very great power of your spells. 10 And you trusted in your evil; you said, "There is no one who sees me." Your wisdom and your knowledge, it has turned you away; and you said in your heart, "I am, and besides me there is none else." 11 And evil will come on you; you will not know how to charm it away; and disaster will fall on you; you will not be able to cover it; and ruin will come on you suddenly, which you will not know. 12 Stand now in your spells and in the abundance of your sorceries, in which you have labored from your youth; perhaps you will be able to profit; perhaps you will strike terror. 13 You are weary with the abundance of your counsels; let them stand now and save you, those who divide the heavens, who gaze at the stars, who make known at the new moons, from what will come on you. 14 Look, they have become like chaff; fire has burned them; they will not deliver their soul from the hand of the flame; there is no coal to warm them, no fire to sit before it. 15 So they have become to you, those for whom you have labored, your traders from your youth; they have wandered, each man to his side; there is none saving you.

47:1 Go down and sit on the dust, virgin daughter of Babylon Virgin means a city never conquered. Babylon was tender and delicate, used to luxury. Sitting on the ground is the posture of mourning. Isaiah announced her fall before she became the power that destroyed Jerusalem.
47:2 Take a pair of millstones and grind flour Grinding grain was slaves' work. The proud queen is marched into exile, wading rivers barefoot, the very thing Babylon did to others.
47:3 I will take vengeance God's vengeance is the just punishment of a holy Judge, not petty human revenge. Believers are told not to avenge themselves but to leave room for His wrath (Rom 12:19). We can leave wrongs in His hands.
47:4 Our Redeemer, the LORD of armies is His name, the Holy One of Israel Isaiah breaks in with praise. Babylon's fall is bad news for Babylon and good news for God's people. The One judging the proud is the One redeeming the humble.
47:5 you will not again have them call you mistress of kingdoms Babylon really was the greatest kingdom for a time, the head of gold (Dan 2). But every earthly kingdom has an end date. Only Christ's kingdom lasts forever (Dan 2:44).
47:6 you did not set compassion for them; on the old man you made your yoke exceedingly heavy God handed His people to Babylon as discipline, but Babylon went too far. God uses nations but still holds them responsible for cruelty. Being used by God isn't the same as being approved by Him.
47:7 I will be mistress forever Pride always forgets the end of the road. Jesus told of a rich man planning bigger barns whose soul was required that night (Luke 12:20).
47:8 I am, and besides me there is none else This is the language God uses of Himself (45:5-6). Babylon put herself in God's place. The end-times Babylon boasts the same way that she is a queen and no widow (Rev 18:7).
47:9 these two things will come to you in a moment, in one day Babylon fell to Cyrus in a single night in 539 B.C. (Dan 5:30). Revelation uses the same words of the final Babylon (Rev 18:8). I believe the ancient city is the first fulfillment, and Revelation picks up the name for the world system of the last days.
47:10 you said, "There is no one who sees me Sinners have always told themselves this, but God sees everything (Heb 4:13). Knowledge without the fear of the LORD only makes a person a more skillful fool.
47:11 you will not know how to charm it away Spells and money could not stop this disaster. There is only one protection from God's judgment, His own provision of mercy. For us, that provision is the blood of Christ.
47:12 perhaps you will be able to profit God mocks Babylon's magic. The repeated "perhaps" shows how empty it is. You can't bet your life on a perhaps.
47:13 those who divide the heavens, who gaze at the stars, who make known at the new moons Babylon was famous for astrology. God forbade His people these practices (Deut 18:10-12). Horoscopes and fortune telling are as useless now as they were in Babylon.
47:14 there is no coal to warm them, no fire to sit before it Chaff burns in a moment. This is not a cozy fire to warm your hands. It is a fire of judgment that leaves nothing behind.
47:15 there is none saving you Her trading partners all wander off. In Revelation the merchants likewise stand far off and weep but do not help (Rev 18:11, 15). The world's friends disappear in the day of judgment. Only God saves.
48:1 who swear by the name of the LORD and make mention of the God of Israel, not in truth and not in righteousness They used all the proud names and said the right words, but their lives didn't match. It is possible to know the religious language and not truly know God. Jesus said the same of people who honored Him with their lips while their hearts were far away (Matt 15:8).

not in righteousness. 2 For they have called themselves after the city of holiness, and they have supported themselves on the God of Israel; the LORD of armies is His name. 3 The former things I declared from then, and they went out from My mouth, and I made them heard; suddenly I acted, and they came. 4 Because I knew that you are stubborn, and your neck is a sinew of iron, and your forehead bronze, 5 I declared them to you from then; before it came I made it heard to you, lest you should say, "My idol did them, and my carved image and my molten image commanded them." 6 You have heard; look at all of it; and you, will you not declare it? I have made you hear new things from now, and hidden things, and you have not known them. 7 Now they have been created, and not from then; and before today you had not heard them, lest you should say, "Look, I knew them." 8 Neither have you heard, nor have you known, nor from then has your ear been opened; for I knew that you would surely act treacherously, and "a transgressor from the womb" you have been called. 9 For the sake of My name I will lengthen My anger, and for My praise I will restrain it for you, so as not to cut you off. 10 Look, I have refined you, and not with silver; I have chosen you in a furnace of affliction. 11 For My own sake, for My own sake I will act; for how should it be profaned? And My glory I will not give to another. 12 Listen to Me, Jacob, and Israel, My called one: I am He; I am first; indeed, I am last. 13 Indeed, My hand founded the earth, and My right hand spread out the heavens; I call to them; they stand together. 14 Gather together, all of you, and listen. Who among them has declared these things? The LORD loves him; he will do His pleasure on Babylon (Bavel), and his arm will be on the Chaldeans (Kasdim). 15 I, I have spoken; indeed, I have called him; I have brought him, and he will make his way successful. 16 Draw near to Me; listen to this: from the beginning I have not spoken in secret; from the time it came to be, I was there. And now the Lord GOD has sent Me, and His Spirit. 17 Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: I am the LORD your God, who teaches you to profit, who makes you tread in the way that you should go. 18 Oh that you had paid attention to My commandments! And your peace would have been like the river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea; 19 and your offspring would have been like the sand, and the descendants of your inward parts like its grains; his name would not be cut off and would not be destroyed from before Me. 20 Go out from Babylon; flee from the Chaldeans; with a voice of a shout of joy declare, make this heard; send it out to the end of the earth; say, "The LORD has redeemed His servant Jacob." 21 And they did not thirst when He led them through the waste places; He made water flow from a rock 48:2 they have called themselves after the city of holiness A holy address doesn't make a holy heart. Some trust that church membership or a family's faith will carry them. God looks for faith that is real, not borrowed.

48:4 your neck is a sinew of iron, and your forehead bronze A stiff neck pictures an ox that won't take the yoke, and a bronze forehead is hard and unashamed. God called Israel stiff-necked as far back as the golden calf (Exod 32:9). Nothing had changed.
48:5 lest you should say, "My idol did them This is why God announced things ahead of time. He took away the excuse. God's foreknowledge is not only a show of power. It is a mercy to hard hearts.
48:6 I have made you hear new things from now, and hidden things The fall of Babylon and the return home were new. Beyond them lay greater new things, the coming of the Servant and the salvation of the nations, which the rest of Isaiah unfolds.
48:7 lest you should say, "Look, I knew them God reveals some things only when the time is right, so no one can boast in his own wisdom. Our part is to listen and receive.
48:8 a transgressor from the womb" you have been called God is honest about His people. This is a picture of every human heart, not only Israel's (Ps 51:5). We all need a grace we did not earn.
48:9 For the sake of My name I will lengthen My anger God's patience rested on His own character and His promises to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. His mercy toward us rests on who He is, not on who we are.
48:10 Look, I have refined you, and not with silver; I have chosen you in a furnace of affliction Many take "not with silver" to mean God did not turn the heat as high as silver requires, or Israel would have been consumed. The exile was a measured furnace. For those in Christ, trials are there to purify us, not pay us back (1 Pet 1:7).
48:11 For My own sake, for My own sake I will act If God abandoned Israel, the nations would say Babylon's gods were stronger (42:8). Our salvation and His glory go hand in hand.
48:12 I am He; I am first; indeed, I am last This is the title of 44:6, which Jesus claims (Rev 1:17). The One there at the beginning will be there at the end, and everything in between is in His hands.
48:13 I call to them; they stand together Heaven and earth stand at attention like servants awaiting orders. If creation answers when God calls, how much more should His people?
48:14 The LORD loves him; he will do His pleasure on Babylon In context this is Cyrus. It is striking that God says this of a pagan king. It shows His favor resting on the man He chose for the task.
48:15 I have brought him, and he will make his way successful Cyrus's victories were God's doing, not luck or skill alone. History is not a string of accidents. It is God carrying out His word.
48:16 And now the Lord GOD has sent me, and His Spirit A new speaker appears. Some say Isaiah. I believe it is the Servant stepping forward just before chapter 49, where He speaks in the first person. If so, we glimpse the Father who sends, the Son who is sent and the Spirit (Luke 4:18; 61:1).
48:17 who teaches you to profit, who makes you tread in the way that you should go God's commands are a loving teacher's instructions from One who knows the road ahead. Following Him is how life works best.
48:18 Oh that you had paid attention to My commandments! And your peace would have been like the river You can hear God's ache. Peace, shalom, would have flowed like a river that never runs dry. Obedience doesn't earn God's love, but disobedience costs us the peace He wanted us to have.
48:19 your offspring would have been like the sand This was God's promise to Abraham (Gen 22:17). The exile shrank the nation, but the promise was not cancelled. It will still be kept, by a harder road.
48:20 Go out from Babylon; flee from the Chaldeans Isaiah speaks as if the day had come. It came after Cyrus's decree in 538 B.C. The same call rings out in Revelation (Rev 18:4). God's people are always called to come out from the world's pride and sin and not share in its judgment.
48:21 He made water flow from a rock for them The God who split the rock in the wilderness (Exod 17:6; Num 20:11) would provide on the road home. Paul says that rock pictured Christ (1 Cor 10:4).

for them; and He split a rock, and waters gushed out. 22 There is no peace, says the LORD, for the wicked.

A Light to the Nations

1 Listen to Me, coastlands, and pay attention, peoples, from far away: the LORD called Me from the womb; from the inward parts of My mother He made mention of My name. 2 And He made My mouth like a sharp sword; in the shadow of His hand He hid Me; and He made Me into a polished arrow; in His quiver He concealed Me. 3 And He said to Me, "You are My servant, Israel (Yisra'el), in whom I will glorify Myself." 4 And I, I said, "I have labored for emptiness; I have spent My strength for formlessness and vanity; truly My justice is with the LORD, and My reward with My God." 5 And now says the LORD, who formed Me from the womb to be His servant, to bring back Jacob (Ya'aqov) to Him, and that Israel might be gathered to Him (and I am honored in the eyes of the LORD, and My God has been My strength); 6 and He said, "It is too light for You to be My servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob and to bring back the preserved ones of Israel; and I will give You for a light of the nations, to be My salvation to the end of the earth." 7 Thus says the LORD, the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One, to the One despised of soul, to the One abhorred by the nation, to a servant of rulers: Kings will see and arise, princes, and they will bow down, because of the LORD, who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, and He has chosen You. 8 Thus says the LORD: In a time of favor I have answered You, and in a day of salvation I have helped You; and I will watch over You and give You for a covenant of the people, to raise up the land, to make them inherit the desolate inheritances, 9 saying to the prisoners, "Come out," to those who are in the darkness, "Show yourselves." They will graze along the roads, and on all bare heights will be their pasture. 10 They will not hunger, and they will not thirst, and burning heat and sun will not strike them; for He who has compassion on them will guide them, and to springs of water He will lead them. 11 And I will make all My mountains into a road, and My highways will be raised up. 12 Look, these will come from far away, and look, these from the north and from the sea, and these from the land of Sinim. 13 Shout for joy, heavens, and rejoice, earth, and break forth into a shout of joy, mountains; for the LORD has comforted His people, and He will have compassion on His afflicted.

I Will Not Forget You

14 And Zion (Tsiyon) said, "The LORD has forsaken me, and 48:22 There is no peace, says the LORD, for the wicked This line returns at 57:21, and the book closes on a similar warning (66:24). Many see it dividing chapters 40-66 into three parts of nine chapters. Real peace comes only by being made right with God, which the Servant comes to bring.

49:1 the LORD called Me from the womb; from the inward parts of My mother He made mention of My name This is the second Servant Song (49:1-13). The Servant calls to the far nations, so His mission is worldwide. I believe the Servant is Jesus Christ. Before His birth He was named, and the angel told why (Matt 1:21). He came into the world for this mission, born of a real mother.

49:2 He made My mouth like a sharp sword The Servant's weapon is His word (Heb 4:12). John saw a sharp sword from Jesus' mouth (Rev 1:16), and with it He strikes the nations when He returns (Rev 19:15). An arrow is hidden until the right moment. Jesus lived quietly in Nazareth for thirty years. Seasons of hiddenness aren't wasted.

49:3 You are My servant, Israel, in whom I will glorify Myself If He is called Israel, is He just the nation? No. This Servant brings Israel back to God (49:5-6), which the nation could not do for itself. Jesus is the true Israel, the one Israelite who did perfectly what the nation was called to do (Matt 2:15; John 17:4).

49:4 I have labored for emptiness The Servant sounds discouraged. Jesus was rejected at home, many disciples left (John 6:66), His nation did not receive Him (John 1:11), and the Twelve fled. Yet He left the results with God (Luke 23:46), and the Father raised Him. If your service feels wasted, the results belong to God.

49:5 to bring back Jacob to Him, and that Israel might be gathered to Him The Servant is distinct from Israel. He brings Israel back. Jesus' ministry began with the lost sheep of Israel (Matt 15:24). I believe the full gathering is still ahead, when the nation turns to the One it pierced (Zech 12:10; Rom 11:26).

49:6 It is too light for You to be My servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob Restoring Israel was not enough. The Servant is also a light to the nations. Simeon called the baby Jesus a light for the Gentiles (Luke 2:32), and Paul and Barnabas quoted this verse to explain preaching to Gentiles (Acts 13:47). If you are not Jewish and know Jesus, God had you in mind here.

49:7 to the One despised of soul, to the One abhorred by the nation, to a servant of rulers: Kings will see and arise Jesus was despised by the religious leaders and handed over to Pilate. Then everything turns. This is the gospel pattern, humiliation first, then glory (Phil 2:8-9). When Christ returns, every king will bow to Him (Rev 19:16).

49:8 In a time of favor I have answered You, and in a day of salvation I have helped You The Servant is the covenant (Luke 22:20). Paul quotes this verse and says now is the day of salvation (2 Cor 6:2). The favorable time is now.

49:9 saying to the prisoners, "Come out The first picture is exiles leaving Babylon. The deeper picture is sinners set free by Christ, who came to proclaim release to captives (Luke 4:18).

49:10 They will not hunger, and they will not thirst, and burning heat and sun will not strike them Revelation applies this to the multitude coming out of the great tribulation, whom the Lamb shepherds to springs of the water of life (Rev 7:14-17). The promise for the road home reaches all the way to heaven.

49:11 I will make all My mountains into a road Mountains were a traveler's hardest obstacle. This echoes the highway of 40:3-4. What mountain stands between you and where God leads? He can make it a road.

49:12 these from the land of Sinim Many scholars think Sinim is Syene, today Aswan in southern Egypt, and the Great Isaiah Scroll from the Dead Sea Scrolls reads Syene here. God's people come home from every direction. I believe that gathering is complete when Christ returns and gathers His elect from the four winds (Matt 24:31).

49:13 for the LORD has comforted His people The song ends in praise. This part of Isaiah began with "Comfort, comfort My people" (40:1), and that comfort comes through the Servant.

49:14 The LORD has forsaken me, and the Lord has forgotten me Zion feels abandoned, as many believers have in hard times. Even Jesus cried out that He was forsaken (Matt 27:46). God does not scold Zion for her feelings. He answers with love.

the Lord has forgotten me." 15 Will a woman forget her nursing child, from having compassion on the son of her womb? Even these will forget, and I, I will not forget you. 16 Look, I have engraved you on My palms; your walls are before Me continually. 17 Your sons have hurried; those who tear you down and those who lay you waste will go out from you. 18 Lift up your eyes all around and see: all of them have gathered together; they have come to you. As I live, declares the LORD, you will surely put on all of them like the ornament, and you will tie them on like the bride. 19 For your waste places and your desolate places and the land of your destruction, for now you will be too cramped for inhabitants, and those who swallowed you up will be far away. 20 Yet the sons of your bereavement will say in your ears, "The place is too cramped for me; make room for me, so that I may dwell." 21 And you will say in your heart, "Who has fathered these for me, and I was bereaved and barren, an exile and thrust away? And these, who has brought them up? Look, I, I was left alone; these, where were they?" 22 Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I will lift up My hand to the nations, and to peoples I will raise My standard; and they will bring your sons in the bosom, and your daughters will be carried on the shoulder. 23 And kings will be your foster fathers, and their princesses your nursing mothers; with faces to the earth they will bow down to you, and they will lick up the dust of your feet; and you will know that I am the LORD; those who wait for Me will not be ashamed. 24 Will booty be taken from a mighty man, or will the captives of a righteous one escape? 25 For thus says the LORD: Even the captives of a mighty man will be taken, and the booty of a ruthless one will escape; and with the one who contends with you, I, I will contend, and your sons I, I will save. 26 And I will make those who oppress you eat their own flesh, and they will become drunk with their own blood as with the sweet wine; and all flesh will know that I am the LORD, your Savior and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

The Obedient Servant

1 Thus says the LORD: Where is this, the document of the divorce of your mother, by which I sent her away? Or which of My creditors is it to whom I sold you? Look, for your iniquities you were sold, and for your transgressions your mother was sent away. 2 Why did I come, and there was no man? Why did I call, and there was none answering? Is My hand really too short for ransom? Or is there no strength in Me to deliver? Look, by My rebuke I dry up the sea; I make rivers a wilderness; their fish stink because there is no water, and they die of thirst. 3 I clothe the heavens with blackness, and I make sackcloth their covering. 4 The Lord GOD has given Me a tongue of disciples, to know how to sustain the weary with a word. He awakens morning by morning; He 49:15 Will a woman forget her nursing child A mother's love is one of earth's strongest bonds, yet sadly some forget. God's love is deeper. If someone who should have loved you forgot you, hear this verse. Your heavenly Father has never forgotten you for one moment.

49:16 Look, I have engraved you on My palms People sometimes wrote a name on the hand as a reminder. Zion's name is carved into God's palms. Many think of the nail prints Jesus showed Thomas (John 20:27). The verse is about God's love for Zion, so I would call that an application, but a true one.
49:17 Your sons have hurried The returning exiles under Cyrus, Ezra and Nehemiah began to rebuild. The destroyers' day was ending and the builders' day beginning.
49:18 you will tie them on like the bride God swears by His own life. Zion wears her returning children like a bride's jewels. To God's city, the return of His people is glory, not a burden.
49:20 The place is too cramped for me; make room for me, so that I may dwell Imagine a grieving mother suddenly hearing her children argue over room in the house. This pictures many Jews returning to the land. I believe its complete fulfillment comes in the Millennium, when Israel is fully restored under Christ.
49:21 Who has fathered these for me Zion did not produce her own restoration. It came as a gift. That is grace. When God's people ask how all this happened, the only answer is that the LORD did it.
49:22 to peoples I will raise My standard; and they will bring your sons in the bosom A standard is a banner soldiers rally to. The nations that once scattered Israel will help bring her children home. God can turn enemies into helpers.
49:23 those who wait for Me will not be ashamed I believe this points to the Millennium, when Christ reigns from Jerusalem and the nations honor the city of the great King (Zech 14:16). Waiting on God is never wasted.
49:24 Will booty be taken from a mighty man Babylon was strong. How could they ever get free? When we are held by something stronger than we are, we ask the same thing.
49:25 with the one who contends with you, I, I will contend, and your sons I, I will save God fights for His people. Jesus spoke of tying up the strong man and plundering his house (Matt 12:29), describing His victory over Satan. No captor is stronger than our Redeemer.
49:26 all flesh will know that I am the LORD, your Savior and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob The oppressors turn on each other. God's rescue of Israel will be so clear that the whole world will recognize who did it.
50:1 Where is this, the document of the divorce of your mother, by which I sent her away A man who divorced his wife gave her a written certificate (Deut 24:1). There is no such paper for Zion. The exile was real, but it came from Israel's sin, not God's unfaithfulness. Because there was no divorce, the relationship could be restored.
50:2 Is My hand really too short for ransom God came through His prophets and no one answered. The God who dries up the sea is strong enough to bring them home. The problem was never His power but Israel's unwillingness to answer.
50:3 I clothe the heavens with blackness This recalls the darkness over Egypt (Exod 10:21-23). It may look ahead to the darkness at the cross (Matt 27:45) and the darkened sun before Christ returns (Matt 24:29; Rev 6:12).
50:4 The Lord GOD has given Me a tongue of disciples, to know how to sustain the weary with a word This is the third Servant Song (50:4-11), and I believe the speaker is Jesus. A disciple is a learner. Jesus lifted weary people with His words (Matt 11:28). Before speaking to people, He listened to God morning by morning (Mark 1:35). Our words help the weary only if we have first heard from God.

awakens My ear to hear like the disciples. 5 The Lord GOD has opened My ear, and I, I was not rebellious; I did not turn away backward. 6 I gave My back to those who strike, and My cheeks to those who pluck them bare; I did not hide My face from humiliations and spitting. 7 And the Lord GOD helps Me; therefore I have not been disgraced; therefore I have set My face like the flint, and I know that I will not be ashamed. 8 He who justifies Me is near; who will contend with Me? Let us stand up together. Who is the master of My judgment? Let him draw near to Me. 9 Look, the Lord GOD helps Me; who is he who will condemn Me? Look, all of them will wear out like the garment; the moth will eat them. 10 Who among you fears the LORD, listens to the voice of His servant? He who has walked in darkness and has no brightness, let him trust in the name of the LORD and lean on his God. 11 Look, all of you who kindle a fire, who gird on firebrands, walk in the light of your fire and among the firebrands that you have kindled. From My hand this will be yours: you will lie down in pain.

Look to the Rock

1 Listen to Me, you who pursue righteousness, who seek the LORD: look to the rock from which you were hewn, and to the hollow of the pit from which you were dug. 2 Look to Abraham (Avraham) your father, and to Sarah (Sara) who gave birth to you; for as one I called him, and I blessed him and multiplied him. 3 For the LORD has comforted Zion (Tsiyon); He has comforted all her waste places, and He has made her wilderness like Eden, and her desert plain like the garden of the LORD; joy and gladness will be found in her, thanksgiving and the sound of song. 4 Pay attention to Me, My people, and give ear to Me, My nation; for law will go out from Me, and My justice I will set at rest for a light of peoples. 5 My righteousness is near; My salvation has gone out, and My arms will judge peoples; the coastlands will wait for Me, and for My arm they will hope. 6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look to the earth beneath; for the heavens will vanish like the smoke, and the earth will wear out like the garment, and its inhabitants will die like gnats; and My salvation will be forever, and My righteousness will not be shattered. 7 Listen to Me, you who know righteousness, a people with My law in their heart: do not fear the reproach of men, and do not be dismayed at their reviling words. 8 For like the garment the moth will eat them, and like the wool the clothes moth will eat them; and My righteousness will be forever, and My salvation to a generation of generations. 9 Awake, awake, put on strength, arm of the LORD; awake as in the days of antiquity, generations of ages. Are You not the one who cut Rahab (Rahav) in pieces, who pierced the monster?

50:5 I, I was not rebellious; I did not turn away backward Israel's ears were closed (48:8), but the Servant's ear was open. Obedience led Him to the cross, yet He prayed for the Father's will (Luke 22:42) and learned obedience through suffering (Heb 5:8). Where Adam and Israel failed, Christ obeyed all the way.
50:6 I gave My back to those who strike, and My cheeks to those who pluck them bare About seven hundred years before the cross, Isaiah described Jesus beaten and spat upon (Matt 26:67; 27:26, 30). The Gospels don't mention His beard, but Isaiah does. Notice the word "gave." No one took His life. He laid it down Himself (John 10:18).
50:7 therefore I have set My face like the flint Flint is very hard stone. Jesus set His face to go to Jerusalem (Luke 9:51), knowing what waited there. His resolve came from trust, not stubbornness. The cross looked like disgrace, but the empty tomb showed God had not abandoned Him.
50:8 He who justifies Me is near; who will contend with Me The falsely condemned Servant was cleared by God when He raised Jesus from the dead (Rom 1:4). Paul uses this language for believers (Rom 8:33). Because the Servant is vindicated, everyone who belongs to Him is too.
50:9 who is he who will condemn Me? Look, all of them will wear out like the garment His accusers' charges won't last. For the believer, every accusation, whether from people, conscience or Satan (Rev 12:10), falls silent before Christ (Rom 8:1, 34).
50:10 He who has walked in darkness and has no brightness, let him trust in the name of the LORD and lean on his God Faith does not always mean seeing clearly. Faithful people walk through dark seasons. If you are in a dark place, you are not disqualified. Lean on God as the Servant did.
50:11 all of you who kindle a fire, who gird on firebrands, walk in the light of your fire The other path is to make your own light, refusing to wait on God. It ends in pain. Our own fires can't light the way home. Jesus is the light of the world (John 8:12).
51:1 look to the rock from which you were hewn God speaks to the remnant who still seek Him. Like stone from a quarry, Israel came from Abraham and Sarah (51:2). When we feel small and forgotten, it helps to remember where God started with us.
51:2 for as one I called him, and I blessed him and multiplied him Abraham was one old, childless man, and Sarah was barren (Gen 12:1-3). If God built a nation from them, He can restore a scattered people. Those who believe are Abraham's sons by faith (Gal 3:7).
51:3 He has made her wilderness like Eden, and her desert plain like the garden of the LORD Jerusalem was rebuilt after the exile, but nothing in history has yet made her like Eden. I read this as a real promise that waits for Christ's reign on earth (35:1-2) and reaches its fullness in the river and tree of life (Rev 22:1-2).
51:4 My justice I will set at rest for a light of peoples This is the hope of 2:3. The Servant was given as a light to the nations (42:6; 49:6). God's plan was never for Israel only.
51:5 for My arm they will hope The arm of the LORD is God's power in action, like a man rolling up his sleeve. Watch for it in 51:9, 52:10 and 53:1, where we learn who that arm is.
51:6 the heavens will vanish like the smoke, and the earth will wear out like the garment Sky and earth feel permanent, but both will pass (2 Pet 3:10; Rev 21:1). Jesus said His words will not pass away (Matt 24:35). God's salvation and righteousness last, so that is where we should put our weight.
51:7 do not fear the reproach of men Faithful people still feel the sting of insults, which is why God has to say this. Jesus said the same to His followers (Matt 5:11-12).
51:8 For like the garment the moth will eat them Critics wear away like wool in a closet full of moths. The universe wears out like a garment (51:6), and so do those who mock God's people.
51:9 Awake, awake, put on strength, arm of the LORD God does not sleep (Ps 121:4), but this is how people pray when He seems quiet too long. Rahab here is not the woman of Jericho but a poetic name for Egypt, the proud sea monster (Ps 87:4; 30:7).

10 Are You not the one who dried up the sea, the waters of the great deep; who made the depths of the sea a way for the redeemed to pass over? 11 And the ransomed of the LORD will return and come to Zion with a shout of joy, and everlasting gladness will be on their head; they will obtain joy and gladness; sorrow and sighing will flee.

The Cup of Staggering

12 I, I am He who comforts you. Who are you, that you are afraid of man who dies, and of the son of mankind who is made as grass? 13 And you have forgotten the LORD your Maker, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth; and you are in dread continually all the day because of the rage of the oppressor, when he has prepared to destroy. And where is the rage of the oppressor? 14 The one bowed down will hasten to be set free, and he will not die and go to the pit, and his bread will not be lacking. 15 And I am the LORD your God, who stirs up the sea, and its waves roar; the LORD of armies is His name. 16 And I have put My words in your mouth, and with the shadow of My hand I have covered you, to plant the heavens and to found the earth, and to say to Zion, "You are My people." 17 Rouse yourself, rouse yourself, arise, Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), who have drunk from the hand of the LORD the cup of His rage; the bowl of the cup of staggering you have drunk, you have drained. 18 There is none leading her from all the sons whom she has borne, and there is none taking hold of her hand from all the sons whom she has brought up. 19 These two things have befallen you (who will show sympathy to you?): the devastation and the destruction, and the famine and the sword; by whom will I comfort you? 20 Your sons have fainted; they have lain down at the head of all the streets like an antelope in a net, those full of the rage of the LORD, the rebuke of your God. 21 Therefore hear this now, afflicted one, and drunk one, and not from wine. 22 Thus says your Lord, the LORD, and your God, who contends for His people: Look, I have taken from your hand the cup of staggering, the bowl of the cup of My rage; you will not drink it again anymore. 23 And I will put it into the hand of those who torment you, who have said to your soul, "Bow down, so that we may pass over"; and you made your back like the earth and like the street for those who pass over.

Your God Reigns

1 Awake, awake, put on your strength, Zion (Tsiyon); put on the garments of your beauty, Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), the city of holiness; for the uncircumcised and the unclean will not again come into you anymore. 2 Shake yourself from the dust; arise, sit, Jerusalem; loosen the fetters of your neck, captive one, daughter of Zion. 3 For thus says the LORD: You were sold for nothing, and not with money will you be redeemed. 4 For thus says the Lord GOD: My people went down to Egypt (Mitsrayim) at the first to sojourn there, and Assyria (Ashur) oppressed it without cause. 5 And now, what is there for Me here, declares the LORD, that My people have been taken for nothing? Its rulers wail, declares the LORD, 51:10 who made the depths of the sea a way for the redeemed to pass over God turned the Red Sea into a road (Exod 14:21-22). When we pray, it is good to remember what He has already done. If He opened the sea once, He can open a way again.

51:11 sorrow and sighing will flee This almost repeats 35:10. The return from Babylon was a first answer. Everlasting gladness points to the day God wipes away every tear (Rev 21:4). I believe Israel will see it fully when Christ returns and reigns.
51:13 And you have forgotten the LORD your Maker The real problem was forgetting God, not the oppressor. When we forget how big God is, our enemies look huge. Babylon fell to Cyrus in 539 B.C., and its rage came to nothing.
51:14 The one bowed down will hasten to be set free The exile is a prisoner bent low. For the Jews this came true under Cyrus (Ezra 1:1-4). God does not leave His people to die in the pit.
51:16 I have put My words in your mouth, and with the shadow of My hand I have covered you Similar words were said of the Servant (49:2). Israel was meant to carry God's word, and the Servant would do it perfectly. Belonging to God isn't earned. He says it over us.
51:17 who have drunk from the hand of the LORD the cup of His rage The cup of wrath is a common picture in the prophets (Jer 25:15). In the garden Jesus prayed for the cup to pass (Matt 26:39). He drank God's wrath so those who trust Him never have to.
51:19 the devastation and the destruction, and the famine and the sword; by whom will I comfort you These are pairs, ruin on the land and famine and sword on the people, all suffered in 586 B.C. I take God's question as the grief of a Father over judgment He had to bring.
51:20 like an antelope in a net The harder it struggles, the more tangled it gets. This is what sin does when it runs its course. We can't free ourselves.
51:22 Look, I have taken from your hand the cup of staggering God defends His people in court. Jerusalem was judged again by Rome in A.D. 70, so I believe "you will not drink it again anymore" looks ahead to the day Israel turns to her Messiah and is restored for good (Rom 11:26-27).
51:23 And I will put it into the hand of those who torment you God keeps His promise to curse those who curse Abraham's family (Gen 12:3). The same cup is handed to the beast's followers (Rev 14:10). God sees how His people are treated, and He will settle it.
52:1 Awake, awake, put on your strength, Zion; put on the garments of your beauty In chapter 51 the people asked God's arm to wake up. Now God tells Zion to wake and dress like a bride. Jerusalem was invaded again by Greeks and Romans after the return, so I read the promise of no more unclean invaders as looking ahead to Christ's reign and finally the New Jerusalem (Rev 21:27).
52:2 loosen the fetters of your neck, captive one, daughter of Zion God has already unlocked the chain. He tells her to shake off the dust and take it off. He does the rescuing, and then He calls us to stand up and walk in it.
52:3 You were sold for nothing, and not with money will you be redeemed God received nothing when He handed them over, so He owes nothing to get them back. We too were redeemed not with silver or gold but with the precious blood of Christ (1 Pet 1:18-19).
52:4 My people went down to Egypt at the first to sojourn there, and Assyria oppressed it without cause Israel went to Egypt as guests and became slaves. Later Assyria destroyed the northern kingdom and Samaria in 722 B.C.
52:5 continually all the day My name is reviled Paul quotes this (Rom 2:24). When God's people live badly, or are defeated because of their sin, the world blames God. Our lives carry His reputation.

and continually all the day My name is reviled. 6 Therefore My people will know My name; therefore in that day they will know that I am He who speaks: here I am. 7 How beautiful on the mountains are the feet of him who brings good news, who makes peace heard, who brings good news of good, who makes salvation heard, who says to Zion, "Your God reigns." 8 The voice of your watchmen! They lift up a voice; together they shout for joy; for eye to eye they will see when the LORD returns to Zion. 9 Break forth, shout for joy together, waste places of Jerusalem; for the LORD has comforted His people; He has redeemed Jerusalem. 10 The LORD has bared the arm of His holiness before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth will see the salvation of our God. 11 Depart, depart, go out from there; do not touch the unclean; go out from her midst; purify yourselves, bearers of the vessels of the LORD. 12 For you will not go out in haste, and you will not go in flight; for the LORD is going before you, and the God of Israel (Yisra'el) is your rear guard.

The Suffering Servant

13 Look, My servant will act wisely; He will be high and lifted up, and exalted exceedingly. 14 Just as many were appalled at You (so His appearance was a disfigurement beyond that of a man, and His form beyond the sons of mankind), 15 so He will sprinkle many nations; kings will shut their mouth because of Him; for what had not been recounted to them they will see, and what they had not heard they will understand.

52:7 How beautiful on the mountains are the feet of him who brings good news The watchmen see the runner's feet on the mountain road before they hear his words: "Your God reigns." Paul applies this to gospel preachers (Rom 10:15). The greater news is that Jesus has paid for sin and God's kingdom is coming. Every believer who shares it has lovely feet.

52:8 eye to eye they will see when the LORD returns to Zion I believe this has a near and a far meaning. The exiles saw God bring His people home. The fullest moment is still ahead, when the Lord Jesus returns and every eye sees Him (Rev 1:7).

52:9 Break forth, shout for joy together, waste places of Jerusalem Even the ruins are told to sing. The verbs are past tense though the event was future. When God promises something, it is as good as done.

52:10 The LORD has bared the arm of His holiness before the eyes of all the nations God rolls back His sleeve (51:5, 9). Simeon thanked God for seeing His salvation in the baby Jesus (Luke 2:30-32). God's bared arm has a name and a face, and 53:1 asks who has believed it.

52:11 purify yourselves, bearers of the vessels of the LORD The priests and Levites carried the temple vessels home, which Cyrus returned (Ezra 1:7-11). Paul applies this call to the church (2 Cor 6:17). God still calls His people out of the world's ways.

52:12 the LORD is going before you, and the God of Israel is your rear guard The first Exodus was in haste (Exod 12:11). This one will not be. God goes before and behind, as the pillar of cloud moved behind Israel at the sea (Exod 14:19). He surrounds His people on every side.

52:13 Look, My servant will act wisely; He will be high and lifted up, and exalted exceedingly This begins the fourth Servant Song (52:13-53:12). This Servant is one Person who suffers for God's people (53:8), and I believe with the New Testament that He is Jesus. The words echo the LORD on His throne (6:1; 57:15). Only God is lifted that high. The song begins with the ending. The cross is the road to the throne (Phil 2:9).

52:14 Just as many were appalled at You He would be beaten so badly He hardly looked human. Jesus was struck, scourged, crowned with thorns and hit on the head (Matt 26:67; 27:29-30; John 19:1). The One lifted highest in 52:13 was brought lowest here. When we think our sin is small, this verse tells us what it cost.

52:15 so He will sprinkle many nations Sprinkling was a priest's work to atone and cleanse (Lev 14:7; 16:14). The Servant cleanses many nations (Heb 12:24; 1 Pet 1:2). Some translations read startle, but I follow the SLB, which fits the priestly picture of chapter 53. Paul quoted the end of the verse for preaching where Christ was unknown (Rom 15:21).

53:1 Who has believed our report? And the arm of the LORD, to whom has it been revealed John quotes this to explain why many saw Jesus' miracles and did not believe (John 12:37-38; Rom 10:16). He also quotes 6:10 and says Isaiah spoke of Jesus' glory, crediting both chapters to the same man (John 12:41). God's arm turns out to be a Person. The Great Isaiah Scroll holds this chapter and was copied before Jesus was born.

53:2 He grew up like the sapling before Him, and like the root from dry ground Nobody expects much from a shoot in the desert. Jesus came from the cut-down stump of Jesse (11:1), born to a poor couple and raised in despised Nazareth (John 1:46). There was nothing in His looks to make people stare. God often works through what the world overlooks.

53:3 He was despised and rejected by men, a man of pains and acquainted with sickness His own did not receive Him (John 1:11). He wept at Lazarus' tomb and over Jerusalem (John 11:35; Luke 19:41). Notice "we did not value Him." If you have ever felt rejected or overlooked, your Savior has been there, and He understands.

53:4 Surely our sicknesses He Himself bore, and our pains, He carried them Here the chapter turns. "He" and "our" sit side by side. Matthew applies this to Jesus' healings (Matt 8:17). Onlookers thought God was punishing Him for His own wrongs (Matt 27:41-43). God was striking Him, but for our sins, not His.

53:5 And He was pierced for our transgressions, crushed for our iniquities This may be the center of the Old Testament. Transgressions are crossing God's line, and iniquity is the twisted sin inside us. He was pierced by nails and spear (John 19:34; Zech 12:10). The wound is a whip's welt. Peter applies the healing to sin (1 Pet 2:24). Our deepest wound was sin, and His wound healed it. This is substitution, seven centuries before the cross.

53:6 All of us like the sheep have gone astray Sheep don't wander out of hatred. They keep their heads down until they are lost. Sin is choosing my way over God's (Rom 3:23). The verse starts and ends with "all." Like the goat on the Day of Atonement (Lev 16:21), the Servant bore it all (2 Cor 5:21; 1 Pet 2:25).

iniquity of all of us. 7 He was oppressed, and He was afflicted, and He did not open His mouth; like the lamb that is brought to the slaughter, and like a ewe that before her shearers is mute, and He did not open His mouth. 8 From oppression and from judgment He was taken away; and His generation, who will consider it? For He was cut off from the land of the living; for the transgression of My people a wound was His. 9 And one assigned His grave with wicked men, and with a rich man in His deaths, although He had done no violence, and no deceit was in His mouth. 10 And the LORD was pleased to crush Him; He made Him sick. If His soul makes a guilt offering, He will see offspring, He will prolong days, and the pleasure of the LORD will prosper in His hand. 11 From the labor of His soul He will see; He will be satisfied. By His knowledge the Righteous One, My servant, will justify the many, and their iniquities He Himself will bear. 12 Therefore I will apportion to Him a share among the many, and with mighty ones He will apportion plunder, because He poured out His soul to death, and with transgressors He was numbered; and He Himself bore the sin of many, and for the transgressors He will intercede.

The Barren Woman

53:7 like the lamb that is brought to the slaughter Jesus gave no answer before Pilate or Herod (Matt 27:12-14; Luke 23:9). He was silent because He came to die. John called Him the Lamb of God (John 1:29). The Ethiopian read this verse, and Philip began from it and preached Jesus (Acts 8:26-35). That is still the right answer to his question.

53:8 for the transgression of My people a wound was His Jesus was tried at night with false witnesses (Mark 14:55-56) and condemned by a governor who found no guilt (John 18:38). He was cut off young with no children. The Servant suffers for God's people, so He cannot be those same people. He is the innocent One who stands in for them.

53:9 And one assigned His grave with wicked men, and with a rich man in His deaths Jesus died between criminals (Luke 23:32-33), yet rich Joseph of Arimathea laid Him in his own new tomb (Matt 27:57-60). Both halves came true. He had no deceit in His mouth (1 Pet 2:22). Only a sinless One could be a substitute.

53:10 And the LORD was pleased to crush Him God did not enjoy His Son's pain. The pleasure was in the plan (Acts 2:23). A guilt offering paid for a wrong and made it right (Lev 5:14-6:7). Then the surprise: the crushed and buried Servant will see offspring and prolong days. This is the resurrection told seven centuries ahead.

53:11 By His knowledge the Righteous One, My servant, will justify the many, and their iniquities He Himself will bear He sees what His death accomplished and is satisfied (John 19:30; Heb 12:2). To justify is to declare not guilty in God's court. "By His knowledge" may mean His own knowledge or people knowing Him. I lean toward the second, since faith is knowing and trusting Him (Rom 5:19).

53:12 and with transgressors He was numbered; and He Himself bore the sin of many, and for the transgressors He will intercede Jesus quoted this the night before the cross (Luke 22:37). "Many" means a great multitude. He prayed for His killers (Luke 23:34) and still intercedes (Heb 7:25). The spoils of His victory will be shared openly when He reigns. If you belong to Him, He is praying for you today.

54:1 Shout for joy, barren woman who has not given birth Chapter 53 ends with the Servant seeing offspring, and chapter 54 opens with a childless woman told to sing. The barren one is Zion, emptied by exile. Paul quotes this of the Jerusalem above (Gal 4:27). I believe it is first about Israel, whom God will restore, and Paul rightly shows it takes in the family born through the Servant's death, Jew and Gentile together.

54:2 Enlarge the place of your tent A growing family needs room. When God promises to bless, we should make room for it and expect Him to do more than we planned.

54:3 your offspring will possess nations, and they will make desolated cities inhabited I read this as part of Israel's coming restoration. It began when the exiles resettled Judah's towns, and it will be complete when Christ reigns and Israel lives in the land in peace.

54:4 the shame of your youth you will forget, and the reproach of your widowhood you will not remember again The shame of youth probably looks back to early unfaithfulness and slavery in Egypt. Widowhood points to the exile. Grace doesn't just cover our shame. In time it lets us stop living under it.

54:5 For your Husband is your Maker The God who made her has bound Himself to her in love. Scripture often calls this a marriage (Jer 3:14; Hos 2:19-20), and the New Testament carries it on with Christ the Bridegroom and His bride (Eph 5:25-27; Rev 19:7).

54:6 a wife of youth when she is rejected The wife of youth is the love of a man's early years. God has not traded Israel for someone else. He calls her back as His first love. God has not rejected His people (Rom 11:2).

54:7 For a small moment I abandoned you, and with great compassion I will gather you The exile lasted about seventy years (Jer 29:10) and felt endless, yet to God it was a moment next to the compassion to follow. Paul calls our troubles momentary beside the coming glory (2 Cor 4:17), not because the pain is small, but because God's plan is so much bigger.

54:8 and with everlasting steadfast love I will have compassion on you A flood of wrath for a moment, steadfast love forever. The word is hesed, God's covenant love that keeps its promises. His anger at sin is real, but it is not the last word. His compassion is.

54:9 For this is the waters of Noah to Me After the flood God swore never again to destroy the earth by water and set the rainbow as a sign (Gen 9:11-16). He swears the same way not to stay angry with Zion. If you wonder whether He keeps this promise, look at the sky after rain.

again, so I have sworn not to be angry with you and not to rebuke you. 10 For the mountains will be removed, and the hills will shake, and My steadfast love will not be removed from you, and the covenant of My peace will not shake, says the One who has compassion on you, the LORD. 11 Afflicted one, storm-tossed, not comforted, look, I am setting your stones in antimony, and I will found you with sapphires. 12 And I will make your battlements of ruby, and your gates of stones of beryl, and all your border of stones of delight. 13 And all your sons will be taught by the LORD, and great will be the peace of your sons. 14 In righteousness you will be established; be far from oppression, for you will not be afraid, and from terror, for it will not come near you. 15 Look, anyone may surely stir up strife, it is not from Me; whoever stirs up strife with you will fall because of you. 16 Look, I Myself created a craftsman who blows on a fire of charcoal and brings out a weapon for his work; and I Myself created a destroyer to ruin. 17 Every weapon that is formed against you will not succeed, and every tongue that rises against you in judgment you will condemn. This is the inheritance of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness is from Me, declares the LORD.

Come to the Waters

1 Oh, everyone who is thirsty, come to the waters; and you who have no money, come, buy grain and eat; and come, buy grain without money and without price, wine and milk. 2 Why do you weigh out money for what is not bread, and your toil for what is not for satisfaction? 54:10 For the mountains will be removed, and the hills will shake, and My steadfast love will not be removed from you Mountains are the most solid things we know. Ezekiel speaks of this covenant of peace too (Ezek 37:26). I believe it will be kept with Israel when they turn to their Messiah. God's love is more stable than the ground under your feet.
54:11 Afflicted one, storm-tossed, not comforted, look, I am setting your stones in antimony Antimony was the dark mineral women used to line their eyes, so the stones are set in a dark, beautiful mortar. The battered city is rebuilt with jewels.
54:12 And I will make your battlements of ruby Battlements are the notches along the top of a wall. John saw a city like this with jeweled foundations and gates of pearl (Rev 21:18-21). I believe Isaiah's restored Zion points ahead to that final city. God builds with jewels.
54:13 And all your sons will be taught by the LORD Jesus quoted this to say everyone who learns from the Father comes to Him (John 6:45). No one will need a go-between to know God (Jer 31:34).
54:14 In righteousness you will be established This has never fully been true of Jerusalem. It will be when Christ rules from Zion and nations no longer learn war (2:4).
54:15 anyone may surely stir up strife, it is not from Me God once sent Assyria and Babylon to discipline (10:5). In this coming day any attack will be without His approval, and the attacker will fall. When discipline is over, God becomes His people's defender.
54:16 I Myself created a destroyer to ruin The smith who makes swords and the destroyer both exist under God's control. Scripture doesn't answer every question about why God allows destroyers, but no destroyer works outside His reach or beyond His limits.
54:17 Every weapon that is formed against you will not succeed This doesn't mean God's people will never be attacked (54:15). It means no attack will finally succeed. Notice the plural "servants." After the one Servant of chapter 53 come many who belong to Him, and their vindication is from God (Rom 8:31).
55:1 Oh, everyone who is thirsty, come to the waters; and you who have no money, come, buy grain and eat God calls like a man in a marketplace, but what He sells is free. How do you buy without money? Someone else has paid the price, as chapter 53 showed. Jesus made the same offer (John 7:37), and the Bible ends with it (Rev 22:17). If you are thirsty, come.
55:2 Why do you weigh out money for what is not bread People chase money, pleasure, approval and success and come away hungry. God feeds the soul through His word. Jesus is the bread of life (John 6:35). Many of us are tired because we keep buying what can't fill us.
55:3 I will make for you an everlasting covenant, the faithful acts of steadfast love of David God promised David an everlasting throne (2 Sam 7:12-16). Paul quotes this verse to show God kept it by raising Jesus (Acts 13:34). A king who stays dead can't reign forever. A risen King can.
55:4 Look, I have made him a witness to peoples, a leader and commander of peoples Him is David, but David died, so these words point to his greater Son. Jesus is the faithful witness and ruler of the kings of the earth (Rev 1:5). The prophets often called the coming Messiah "David" (Ezek 34:23-24).
55:5 a nation that has not known you will run to you Not because Israel is impressive but because of the LORD. This has been happening since Pentecost, and it will be seen in full in the kingdom, when the nations stream to Jerusalem (2:2-3; Zech 8:23).
55:6 Seek the LORD while He lets Himself be found; call on Him while He is near The offer is free but not open forever (2 Cor 6:2; Matt 25:10). For each of us the time ends at death or at Christ's return, whichever comes first. If you have been putting it off, don't wait.
55:7 let him return to the LORD, that He may have compassion on him, and to our God, for He will abundantly forgive Repentance starts with how we think and works out to how we live. It means to turn around. This verse is written to the wicked, so that is exactly who it is for. No one has gone so far that God's pardon can't cover him (Luke 23:42-43).
55:8 For My thoughts are not your thoughts In context this explains 55:7. We hold grudges and want people to earn their way back. God pardons abundantly because He doesn't think the way we do. It is first of all a statement about grace.
55:9 so My ways are higher than your ways The same picture appears in Ps 103:11. When God's ways seem strange to us, the problem is our height, not His.

ens are higher than the earth, so My ways are higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. 10 For just as the rain and the snow come down from the heavens, and do not return there unless they have watered the earth, and made it bring forth and made it sprout, and given seed to the sower and bread to the eater, 11 so My word that goes out from My mouth will be; it will not return to Me empty, unless it has done what I desired, and has prospered in that for which I sent it. 12 For in joy you will go out, and in peace you will be led; the mountains and the hills will break forth before you into a shout of joy, and all the trees of the field will clap the palm. 13 Instead of the thornbush a cypress will grow up, and instead of the nettle a myrtle will grow up; and it will be for the LORD for a name, for an everlasting sign that will not be cut off.

A House of Prayer

1 Thus says the LORD: Keep justice and do righteousness, for My salvation is near to come, and My righteousness to be revealed. 2 How blessed is the man who does this, and the son of man who takes hold of it, keeping the Sabbath from profaning it, and keeping his hand from doing any evil. 3 And let not the son of the foreigner who has joined himself to the LORD say, saying, "The LORD will surely separate me from His people"; and let not the eunuch say, "Look, I am a dry tree." 4 For thus says the LORD to the eunuchs who keep My Sabbaths, and choose what I delight in, and take hold of My covenant: 5 And I will give to them in My house and within My walls a monument and a name better than sons and than daughters; an everlasting name I will give to him, which will not be cut off. 6 And the sons of the foreigner who join themselves to the LORD, to minister to Him, and to love the name of the LORD, to be His servants, everyone who keeps the Sabbath from profaning it, and those who take hold of My covenant, 7 and I will bring them to My holy mountain, and I will make them rejoice in My house of prayer; their burnt offerings and their sacrifices will be for acceptance on My altar; for My house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples. 8 Declares the Lord GOD, who gathers the banished of Israel (Yisra'el): Yet I will gather others to him, to his gathered ones. 9 All you animals of the field, come to devour, all you animals in the forest. 10 His watchmen are blind; all of them do not know; all of them are mute dogs; they are not able to bark; dreaming, lying down, loving to slumber. 11 And the dogs are strong of appetite; they do not know satisfaction; and they are shepherds who do not know how to understand; all of them have turned to their own way, each to his unjust gain, to the last one. 12 "Come, let me take wine, and let us drink our fill of strong drink; and tomorrow will be like this day, great, abundant exceedingly."

55:11 it will not return to Me empty This comforts anyone who teaches the Bible, raises children or shares the gospel. Some seed takes years to sprout, but God's word is never wasted (Heb 4:12). It is also a warning. To those who reject it, the word becomes a witness against them (John 12:48).
55:12 all the trees of the field will clap the palm This is a new exodus, out of Babylon and home. Trees don't have palms. Creation itself will celebrate when God redeems His people (Rom 8:19-22). When Christ returns and reigns, the whole earth will seem to sing.
55:13 Instead of the thornbush a cypress will grow up After the fall the ground grew thorns (Gen 3:18). Here the curse is reversed. I read this as the renewed earth in Christ's kingdom. Every redeemed life is a small version of that sign, thorns replaced with something green and alive.
56:1 Keep justice and do righteousness, for My salvation is near to come Notice the order. We don't do right to earn salvation. We do right because salvation is coming and we want to be found ready. John the Baptist preached the same way (Matt 3:2).
56:2 keeping the Sabbath from profaning it, and keeping his hand from doing any evil The Sabbath was the seventh day, the sign of God's covenant with Israel (Exod 20:8-11; 31:13). Christians differ on how it applies today (Rom 14:5-6; Col 2:16-17). All of us can learn the heart of it. Setting apart time for God shows whom we belong to.
56:3 let not the eunuch say, "Look, I am a dry tree The foreigner feared being separated from God's people, and the eunuch feared he had no children and no future. The Law kept certain foreigners and eunuchs out of the assembly (Deut 23:1-3). God now tells both not to say that.
56:4 and choose what I delight in, and take hold of My covenant The barrier was outward. God looks at the heart. A man who could never have children could still be fully faithful to the LORD.
56:5 a monument and a name better than sons and than daughters The eunuch's sorrow was that his name would die with him. God answers it directly. In Acts an Ethiopian eunuch was reading Isaiah when Philip told him about Jesus, and he was baptized (Acts 8:26-39). We can see this verse coming true there.
56:6 And the sons of the foreigner who join themselves to the LORD This is not second-class membership. Foreigners who come to God this way are His servants just as Israelites are. It was always God's plan to bless all the families of the earth (Gen 12:3).
56:7 for My house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples Jesus quoted this when He cleared the temple (Mark 11:17). The outer court where Gentiles could pray had become a market. Christ's one sacrifice took away sin for good (Heb 10:12-14). Some see millennial offerings as memorials pointing back to the cross (Ezek 40-48), and others see worship language. I hold the first view loosely.
56:8 Yet I will gather others to him, to his gathered ones These others are non-Israelites. Jesus spoke of other sheep He must bring (John 10:16). God gathers Israel and the nations into one flock, and that includes most of us reading this.
56:9 All you animals of the field, come to devour The mood shifts. Wild beasts picture enemy nations coming to devour Israel. The next verses explain why. Her guardians have failed.
56:10 all of them are mute dogs; they are not able to bark Watchmen were to warn of danger (Ezek 33:6-7). A sheepdog that won't bark is useless. These leaders were asleep when danger came. Church leaders today should read this verse with care.
56:11 all of them have turned to their own way, each to his unjust gain This echoes 53:6. Even the shepherds are lost and greedy. Jesus, by contrast, is the Good Shepherd who lays down His life for the sheep (John 10:11).
56:12 tomorrow will be like this day, great, abundant exceedingly They never expected a reckoning, like the rich fool whose soul was required that night (Luke 12:19-20). Assuming tomorrow will always be like today is one of the oldest traps there is.

Idolatry Exposed

1 The righteous man has perished, and there is no man laying it to heart; and men of steadfast love are gathered away, with no one understanding that from before the evil the righteous man is gathered away. 2 He enters into peace; they rest on their beds, each one walking in his uprightness. 3 And you, draw near here, sons of a sorceress, offspring of an adulterer, and she has played the prostitute. 4 Against whom are you making sport? Against whom do you make wide a mouth and make long a tongue? Are you not children of transgression, offspring of deception, 5 who inflame yourselves among the terebinths, under every luxuriant tree, who slaughter the children in the wadis, under the clefts of the cliffs? 6 Among the smooth stones of the wadi is your portion; they, they are your lot; also to them you have poured out a drink offering; you have offered up a grain offering. Should I relent concerning these things? 7 On a high and lifted-up mountain you have set your bed; also there you have gone up to sacrifice a sacrifice. 8 And behind the door and the doorpost you have set up your memorial; for away from Me you have uncovered yourself, and you have gone up; you have made wide your bed, and you have cut a covenant for yourself with them; you have loved their bed; you have looked on a hand. 9 And you journeyed to the king with oil, and you multiplied your perfumes; and you sent your envoys to far away, and you abased yourself to Sheol. 10 With the greatness of your way you became weary; you did not say, "Hopeless!" You found the life of your hand; therefore you did not become weak. 11 And whom did you dread, and fear, that you lie, and you did not remember Me, and did not lay it to your heart? Have I not been silent, even from long ago, and you do not fear Me? 12 I, I will declare your righteousness and your deeds, and they will not benefit you. 13 When you cry out, let your collections of idols deliver you; and a wind will carry all of them away; a breath will take them. And the one who takes refuge in Me will inherit the land and will possess My holy mountain.

The High and Lifted-Up One

14 And one will say, "Build up, build up, clear the way; lift up the obstacle from the way of My people." 15 For thus says the High and Lifted-Up One, who dwells forever, and holy is His name: In a high and holy place I dwell, and with the contrite and lowly of spirit, to revive the spirit of the lowly and to revive the heart of the crushed. 16 For I will not contend forever, and I will not be angry perpetually; for the spirit would grow faint before Me, and the breaths that I, I have made. 17 In the iniquity of his unjust gain I was angry, and I struck him; I hid My face and was angry; and he went on, turning away, in the way of his heart. 18 I have seen his ways, and I will heal him; and I will lead him, and I will restore comforts

57:18 Matt 13:15; John 12:40; Hos 14:4-8

57:1 from before the evil the righteous man is gathered away Godly people die and no one asks why. God sometimes brings His people home before a coming disaster, as He promised Josiah (2 Kgs 22:19-20).
57:2 He enters into peace; they rest on their beds For the believer, death is not the end. The body rests in the grave while the person is at peace with God. To depart and be with Christ is very much better (Phil 1:23). When a godly person dies young, it is our loss but their peace.
57:3 sons of a sorceress, offspring of an adulterer This is spiritual language. The parents practiced witchcraft and unfaithfulness, and the children followed. Scripture often calls idolatry adultery (Jer 3:8-9).
57:5 who slaughter the children in the wadis Canaanite fertility worship under green trees often included sexual acts. Worse, they killed their own children. Ahaz and Manasseh did this (2 Kgs 16:3; 21:6), and Jeremiah condemned it in the Valley of Hinnom (Jer 7:31). Our culture has its own ways of sacrificing children to comfort and convenience. God sees, and He hates it.
57:6 they, they are your lot You chose the smooth stones as gods, so they are all you get. Should God simply overlook it? A holy God can't shrug at idolatry.
57:8 And behind the door and the doorpost you have set up your memorial God told Israel to write His words on the doorposts (Deut 6:9). They put a pagan sign there instead. The language is strong on purpose. Sin is more than rule-breaking. It is a broken relationship.
57:9 And you journeyed to the king with oil The king may be a foreign ruler whose help they bought, or Molech, whose name is close to the word for king and who was tied to child sacrifice (Lev 18:21). Bible teachers read it both ways. The point is the same. They went to any length for help, except to God.
57:10 you did not say, "Hopeless They wore themselves out but always found a little more strength to keep going the wrong way. People will exhaust themselves rather than admit their path isn't working. The better thing is to stop and turn back to the Lord.
57:11 Have I not been silent, even from long ago, and you do not fear Me Fear of people drove them to false gods. They took God's patience as permission. God's patience is meant to lead us to repentance, not make us careless (2 Pet 3:9).
57:12 I, I will declare your righteousness and your deeds, and they will not benefit you This is irony. God will lay out their religious busyness and expose it as worthless. Good-looking religion can't save anyone.
57:13 And the one who takes refuge in Me will inherit the land and will possess My holy mountain A breath blows the idols away. The one who trusts God inherits the land. Jesus said the meek will inherit the earth (Matt 5:5). I believe this will be fulfilled when Christ reigns over the earth with His people.
57:15 In a high and holy place I dwell, and with the contrite and lowly of spirit God has two addresses, the highest place in the universe and the broken heart. "High and lifted up" are the words of 6:1 and 52:13. Contrite means crushed over sin. The proud have no room for God (Ps 51:17; Jas 4:6). If you feel crushed today, you are exactly the kind of person God loves to dwell with.
57:16 For I will not contend forever, and I will not be angry perpetually He made us and knows how frail we are (Ps 103:14). His discipline always has a limit and a purpose.
57:17 and he went on, turning away, in the way of his heart Punishment alone didn't change them. Discipline can show us our sin, but it can't give us a new heart. Only grace can do that.
57:18 I have seen his ways, and I will heal him This is pure grace. God saw all their stubborn ways and decided to heal anyway, not because they finally got it right. That is how He saves all of us.

to him and to his mourners, 19 creating the fruit of the lips: Peace, peace, to the far and to the near, says the LORD, and I will heal him. 20 And the wicked are like the tossed sea, for it is not able to be quiet, and its waters toss up mire and mud. 21 There is no peace, says my God, for the wicked.

The True Fast

1 Call out with the throat; do not hold back; like the trumpet raise your voice, and declare to My people their transgression, and to the house of Jacob (Ya'aqov) their sins. 2 And they seek Me day by day, and they delight in the knowledge of My ways, like a nation that has done righteousness and has not forsaken the judgment of its God; they ask Me for judgments of righteousness; they delight in the nearness of God. 3 "Why have we fasted, and You have not seen? Why have we afflicted our soul, and You do not know?" Look, on the day of your fast you find pleasure, and you oppress all your laborers. 4 Look, for strife and contention you fast, and to strike with a fist of wickedness; you do not fast as you do this day to make your voice heard on high. 5 Is it like this, the fast that I choose, a day for a man to afflict his soul? Is it to bow down his head like a bulrush, and to spread out sackcloth and ashes as his bed? Will you call this a fast and a day of acceptance to the LORD? 6 Is not this the fast that I choose: to loosen the bonds of wickedness, to unfasten the bindings of the yoke-bar, and to let the crushed go free, and that you tear apart every yoke-bar? 7 Is it not to break your bread for the hungry, and that you bring the afflicted homeless into your house; when you see the naked, and you cover him, and you do not hide yourself from your own flesh? 8 Then your light will break forth like the dawn, and your healing will spring up quickly; and your righteousness will go before you; the glory of the LORD will be your rear guard. 9 Then you will call, and the LORD will answer; you will cry for help, and He will say, "Here I am." If you remove from your midst the yoke-bar, the stretching out of the finger, and the speaking of wickedness, 10 and you offer your soul to the hungry and satisfy the soul of the afflicted, then your light will rise in the darkness, and your gloom will be like the noonday. 11 And the LORD will lead you continually, and He will satisfy your soul in scorched places, and He will strengthen your bones; and you will be like a watered garden, and like a spring of waters whose waters do not fail. 12 And those from you will rebuild the ancient ruins; the foundations of generation and generation you will raise up; and you will be called One Who Walls Up a Breach, One Who Restores Paths for Dwelling. 13 If you turn back your foot from the Sabbath, from doing your pleasures on My holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy day of the LORD honorable, and honor it, turning from doing your own ways, from finding your own

57:19 Peace, peace, to the far and to the near Doubling makes it full and complete peace. Paul applies this to the gospel, peace to Gentiles far off and Jews near, both with access to the Father (Eph 2:17). Whether you grew up near to God or far from Him, this peace is offered to you.
57:20 And the wicked are like the tossed sea A heart without God is restless, and what it stirs up is dirty. Many try to quiet that restlessness with noise, busyness or pleasure.
57:21 There is no peace, says my God, for the wicked This closes the second set of nine chapters as at 48:22, and the idea returns at 66:24. Peace is offered to all in 57:19, but those who refuse to turn shut themselves out. Peace is free, but it must be received.
58:1 like the trumpet raise your voice, and declare to My people their transgression The trumpet is the shofar, a ram's horn blown to warn or gather. This message is for "My people," not outsiders. Sometimes those who most need a wake-up call are the ones sitting in church.
58:2 like a nation that has done righteousness They seek God daily and enjoy learning His ways. The key word is "like." It is a performance. It is possible to enjoy religion and still be far from God.
58:3 Why have we fasted, and You have not seen To fast is to go without food for a time to seek God. On their fast days they did as they pleased and drove their workers hard. They skipped meals but kept squeezing their employees.
58:4 Look, for strife and contention you fast Their fasts ended in fistfights. Religious acts done with a hateful heart don't reach God. Jesus said to make things right with your brother before offering your gift (Matt 5:23-24).
58:5 to bow down his head like a bulrush, and to spread out sackcloth and ashes as his bed Sackcloth and ashes are signs of grief and are not wrong in themselves. But without a changed heart they are only a costume.
58:6 Is not this the fast that I choose: to loosen the bonds of wickedness A yoke was the bar across the neck of an animal or slave. When Jesus read Isaiah 61 at Nazareth, He also read words from this verse about release for the oppressed (Luke 4:18). Setting people free was at the heart of His mission.
58:7 Is it not to break your bread for the hungry "Your own flesh" means your own relatives and people. Jesus said the same (Matt 25:35-36), and James calls caring for orphans and widows pure religion (Jas 1:27). The question isn't whether we skip meals, but whether our faith feeds anyone.
58:8 Then your light will break forth like the dawn When God's people live this way, everything changes. This echoes 52:12. Their righteousness goes ahead, and God's glory guards them from behind.
58:9 Then you will call, and the LORD will answer; you will cry for help, and He will say, "Here I am This answers the complaint of 58:3. Their sin was in the way. "The stretching out of the finger" means accusing and looking down on others. Many of us want God to answer while we keep pointing fingers. Put the finger down.
58:10 and you offer your soul to the hungry Not just food but yourself. Real compassion costs our time and attention, not just our leftovers. People who pour themselves out often find their own darkness lifting.
58:11 and you will be like a watered garden, and like a spring of waters whose waters do not fail The person who pours out is never left empty. Rivers of living water flow from the one who believes in Jesus (John 7:38). We become a spring for others because God is our source.
58:12 and you will be called One Who Walls Up a Breach The returning exiles began rebuilding Jerusalem and Judah, as Ezra and Nehemiah record. A breach is a gap in a city wall. That is a good name for any believer, someone who repairs what is broken.
58:13 and call the Sabbath a delight The Sabbath was a sign of Israel's covenant (Exod 31:13). Christians differ on how it applies under the new covenant (Rom 14:5-6; Col 2:16-17). God wants a people who delight in Him, not grudging rule keepers. The Sabbath was made for man (Mark 2:27).

pleasure, and speaking a word, 14 then you will take delight in the LORD, and I will make you ride on the high places of the earth, and I will feed you with the inheritance of Jacob your father; for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

Sin Separates

1 Look, the hand of the LORD is not too short to save, and His ear is not too heavy to hear. 2 But your iniquities have been separating between you and your God, and your sins have hidden His face from you so that He does not hear. 3 For your palms are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken falsehood; your tongue mutters injustice. 4 There is no one calling in righteousness, and there is no one pleading his case in faithfulness; trusting in emptiness and speaking worthlessness, conceiving trouble and bringing forth wickedness. 5 They have hatched eggs of a viper, and they weave webs of a spider; the one who eats of their eggs will die, and the crushed egg is hatched into an adder. 6 Their webs will not become clothing, and they will not cover themselves with their works; their works are works of wickedness, and the deed of violence is in their palms. 7 Their feet run to evil, and they hasten to shed innocent blood; their thoughts are thoughts of wickedness; devastation and destruction are in their highways. 8 A way of peace they do not know, and there is no justice in their tracks; they have made their paths crooked for themselves; everyone who treads on it does not know peace. 9 Therefore justice is far from us, and righteousness does not overtake us; we wait for light, and look, darkness; for brightness, and in gloom we walk. 10 We grope for the wall like the blind, and like those who have no eyes we grope; we have stumbled at noonday as in the twilight, among the robust like the dead. 11 We growl like the bears, all of us, and like the doves we moan and moan; we wait for justice, and there is none; for salvation, and it is far from us. 12 For our transgressions are many before You, and our sins testify against us; for our transgressions are with us, and our iniquities, we know them: 13 transgressing and denying the LORD, and turning back from after our God, speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering from the heart words of falsehood. 14 And justice is driven back, and righteousness stands far off; for truth has stumbled in the public square, and uprightness is not able to enter. 15 And the truth was lacking, and the one turning aside from evil was plundered. And the LORD saw, and it was evil in His eyes that there was no justice.

The Redeemer Will Come

16 And He saw that there was no man, and He was appalled that there was no one to intercede; and His own arm brought salvation to Him, and His righteousness, it upheld Him. 17 And He put on righteousness like the body armor, and a helmet of salvation on His head; and He put on garments of vengeance for clothing, and He wrapped Himself in zeal like the robe. 18 According to their deeds, accordingly He will repay: rage to His adversaries, recompense to His enemies; to 58:14 and I will feed you with the inheritance of Jacob your father Those who make God's day a delight find their delight in God Himself. I believe the inheritance promised to Jacob's family will be fully given to Israel in Christ's kingdom.

59:1 Look, the hand of the LORD is not too short to save, and His ear is not too heavy to hear The people blamed God (50:2). If our prayers seem to hit the ceiling, the first thing to check isn't God's ability.
59:2 But your iniquities have been separating between you and your God Sin is a wall. Isaiah speaks to a nation in open sin. Not every unanswered prayer means hidden sin, as Job and Paul show (2 Cor 12:9). But when sin is the wall, confess it and turn. Separation from God is sin's deepest wage (Rom 6:23), and in Christ that wall is torn down (Eph 2:14).
59:3 For your palms are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity Hands, fingers, lips, tongue. Isaiah checks each part of the body. Sin isn't only in one corner of our lives. It touches all of us.
59:4 conceiving trouble and bringing forth wickedness The courts were broken. Sin is pictured as a pregnancy that starts as an idea in the heart and is born as an action (Jas 1:15).
59:6 Their webs will not become clothing A spider web looks like fabric, but you can't make clothes from it. We try to cover sin with our own works like Adam and Eve's fig leaves (Gen 3:7). Only God can clothe us with His righteousness.
59:7 Their feet run to evil, and they hasten to shed innocent blood Paul quotes 59:7-8 to prove there is none righteous (Rom 3:10, 15-17). Isaiah described Israel, and Paul shows it describes the whole human race.
59:9 Therefore justice is far from us The voice turns from "they" to "we." Real change begins when we stop saying "they" and start saying "we," as Daniel prayed for his people (Dan 9:5).
59:11 We growl like the bears, all of us, and like the doves we moan and moan They say their frustration to God instead of pretending. Lament, an honest cry of grief to God, is a real part of faith.
59:12 For our transgressions are many before You, and our sins testify against us Confession is agreeing with God about our sin (1 John 1:9). We can't be healed of what we refuse to admit.
59:13 transgressing and denying the LORD Notice where it starts. All the other sins come from turning away from Him. When God is pushed out of the center, everything else goes crooked.
59:14 for truth has stumbled in the public square Picture truth lying in the town square while people step over it. Many of us know what it is to live in a culture like that.
59:15 and the one turning aside from evil was plundered. And the LORD saw Doing right got you robbed. Then the turning point. God is not blind to injustice. He sees it, and He doesn't like it.
59:16 And He saw that there was no man, and He was appalled that there was no one to intercede; and His own arm brought salvation to Him No one could stand between the guilty and judgment. The arm of the LORD returns (51:9; 52:10; 53:1), and we know it is the Servant. There is one mediator, Christ Jesus (1 Tim 2:5). Since 63:5 repeats this of judgment, I read it as both comings of Christ.
59:17 And He put on righteousness like the body armor, and a helmet of salvation on His head Paul borrows this armor for believers (Eph 6:14, 17; 1 Thess 5:8). God fights first, then clothes us in what He wore.
59:18 According to their deeds, accordingly He will repay This looks ahead to Christ's return on the white horse, judging in righteousness (Rev 19:11-15). God's justice has been delayed for centuries, but it hasn't been canceled.

the coastlands He will repay recompense. 19 And they will fear the name of the LORD from the west, and His glory from the rising of the sun; for He will come like a pent-up river which the wind of the LORD drives on. 20 And a Redeemer will come to Zion (Tsiyon), and to those who turn from transgression in Jacob (Ya'aqov), declares the LORD. 21 And as for Me, this is My covenant with them, says the LORD: My Spirit that is on you, and My words that I have put in your mouth, will not depart from your mouth, and from the mouth of your offspring, and from the mouth of the offspring of your offspring, says the LORD, from now and until forever.

The Glory of Zion

1 Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD has dawned on you. 2 For look, the darkness will cover the earth, and thick darkness the peoples; and on you the LORD will dawn, and His glory will appear over you. 3 And nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawning. 4 Lift up your eyes all around and see: all of them have gathered together; they have come to you; your sons will come from far away, and your daughters will be carried on the hip. 5 Then you will see and be radiant, and your heart will tremble and be enlarged, for the abundance of the sea will be turned to you; the wealth of nations will come to you. 6 A multitude of camels will cover you, young camels of Midian (Midyan) and Ephah (Efa); all of them will come from Sheba (Sheva); they will carry gold and frankincense, and they will bring good news of the praises of the LORD. 7 All the flocks of Kedar (Qedar) will be gathered to you; the rams of Nebaioth (Nevayot) will minister to you; they will go up for acceptance on My altar, and I will beautify the house of My splendor. 8 Who are these who fly like the cloud, and like the doves to their windows? 9 For the coastlands will wait for Me, and the ships of Tarshish first, to bring your sons from far away, their silver and their gold with them, to the name of the LORD your God, and to the Holy One of Israel (Yisra'el), for He has glorified you. 10 And sons of the foreigner will rebuild your walls, and their kings will minister to you; for in My wrath I struck you, and in My favor I have had compassion on you. 11 And your gates will be open continually; day and night they will not be shut, to bring to you the wealth of nations, and their kings being led. 12 For the nation and the kingdom that will not serve you will perish, and the nations will be utterly laid waste. 13 The glory of Lebanon (Levanon) will come to you, cypress, elm, and box tree together, to beautify the place of My sanctuary; and I will glorify the place of My feet. 14 And the sons of those who afflicted you will come to you bowing low, and all

59:19 for He will come like a pent-up river which the wind of the LORD drives on The word for wind is also the word for Spirit. Jesus' return will be as sudden and unstoppable as a flash flood, and every nation will see His glory (Matt 24:27, 30).
59:20 And a Redeemer will come to Zion, and to those who turn from transgression in Jacob A redeemer was a relative who paid to free family (Lev 25:47-49). Paul quotes this when he says all Israel will be saved, with the Deliverer coming "out of Zion" (Rom 11:26). Both are true. He comes to Zion and rules from it. I believe God has not abandoned Israel. When Christ returns, Israel will turn to Him (Zech 12:10).
59:21 My Spirit that is on you, and My words that I have put in your mouth, will not depart from your mouth Paul joins this with 59:20 (Rom 11:27). It is the new covenant (Jer 31:31-34). I believe it will be fulfilled for Israel when they turn to the Messiah, and every believer, Jew or Gentile, already shares that Spirit and word (Acts 2:38-39).
60:1 Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD has dawned on you Zion does not shine with her own light. A Redeemer was promised to come to Zion (59:20), and I take this light to be Him, Jesus, the light of the world (John 8:12). She shines because He has come to her. Our job too is to rise and reflect a light we didn't make.
60:2 For look, the darkness will cover the earth, and thick darkness the peoples; and on you the LORD will dawn I believe this fits the end of the age, when the world sinks into the darkness of the Tribulation, the seven years of judgment before Christ returns, and then the Lord appears in glory over His people. Light shines brightest against a black sky.
60:3 And nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawning They are not forced but drawn. This picks up 2:2-4. The wise men who came to the child Jesus were an early taste of it (Matt 2:1-2).
60:5 the wealth of nations will come to you Zion's heart pounds with joy as her children return. The nations that once plundered Israel now bring her their best.
60:6 they will carry gold and frankincense, and they will bring good news of the praises of the LORD Midian, Ephah and Sheba were in Arabia. The wise men's gifts (Matt 2:11) were a small preview. These Gentiles come as worshipers, not only traders.
60:7 All the flocks of Kedar will be gathered to you; the rams of Nebaioth will minister to you Kedar and Nebaioth were tribes from Ishmael (Gen 25:13). God welcomes Ishmael's descendants at His altar. Teachers differ on animal offerings in the Millennium (Ezek 40-48). I read it plainly as worship in Christ's kingdom, though no offering adds to Jesus' finished sacrifice (Heb 10:12).
60:8 Who are these who fly like the cloud, and like the doves to their windows Sails fill the sky, so many and so fast they look like birds racing home. The next verse says they are ships bringing Israel's sons.
60:9 the ships of Tarshish first, to bring your sons from far away Tarshish ships were the great merchant ships of the ancient world. The nations do this to the name of the LORD. They honor the God who kept His word to Israel, not Israel's own greatness.
60:10 for in My wrath I struck you, and in My favor I have had compassion on you The exile was real discipline for real sin, but His anger was for a moment and His mercy lasts (54:7-8). God has not abandoned Israel (Rom 11:1-2).
60:11 And your gates will be open continually Gates were shut at night against enemies. Zion has nothing left to fear. The New Jerusalem's gates likewise are never shut (Rev 21:25-26).
60:12 For the nation and the kingdom that will not serve you will perish We shouldn't soften this. The Millennium is peace under a King who rules with a rod of iron (Ps 2:9; Rev 19:15). Nations that refuse to come up and worship receive no rain (Zech 14:16-19).
60:13 and I will glorify the place of My feet Solomon built with Lebanon's cedars (1 Kgs 5:6). Its finest trees come again for God's sanctuary, the place on earth where He chooses to set His presence.
60:14 and they will call you the City of the LORD, Zion of the Holy One of Israel Jesus echoes this for the faithful church in Philadelphia (Rev 3:9). God has a way of turning the tables for those who stay faithful to Him.

those who despised you will bow down at the soles of your feet; and they will call you the City of the LORD, Zion (Tsiyon) of the Holy One of Israel. 15 Instead of your being forsaken and hated, with no one passing through, I will make you an everlasting majesty, a joy of generation and generation. 16 And you will suck the milk of nations, and you will suck the breast of kings; and you will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob (Ya'aqov). 17 Instead of the bronze I will bring gold, and instead of the iron I will bring silver, and instead of the wood, bronze, and instead of the stones, iron; and I will make your overseers peace, and your oppressors righteousness. 18 Violence will not be heard again in your land, devastation and destruction within your borders; and you will call your walls Salvation, and your gates Praise. 19 The sun will no longer be for you for light by day, and for brightness the moon will not give light to you; and the LORD will be for you an everlasting light, and your God your splendor. 20 Your sun will no longer go down, and your moon will not be withdrawn; for the LORD will be for you an everlasting light, and the days of your mourning will be completed. 21 And your people, all of them will be righteous; forever they will possess the land, the shoot of My planting, the work of My hands, to beautify Myself. 22 The small one will become a thousand, and the little one a mighty nation. I am the LORD; in its time I will hasten it.

The Anointed One

1 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is on Me, because the LORD has anointed Me to bring good news to the humble; He has sent Me to bind up the broken of heart, to proclaim liberty to captives, and to those who are bound, release; 2 to proclaim a year of favor of the LORD, and a day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all mourners; 3 to grant to the mourners of Zion (Tsiyon), to give to them a headdress instead of ashes, oil of joy instead of mourning, a mantle of praise instead of a faint spirit; and they will be called terebinths of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, to beautify Himself. 4 And they will rebuild the ancient ruins; they will raise up the former desolate places; and they will renew the cities of devastation, the desolate places of generation and generation. 5 And strangers will stand and shepherd your flocks, and sons of the foreigner will be your farmers and your vinedressers. 6 And you, you will be called priests of the LORD; ministers of our God, it will be said of you; you will eat the wealth of nations, and in their glory you will boast. 7 Instead of your shame, you will have a double portion; and instead of humiliation they will shout for joy over their portion; therefore in their land they will possess a double portion; everlasting joy will be theirs. 8 For I, the LORD, love justice; I hate robbery

60:15 Instead of your being forsaken and hated, with no one passing through, I will make you an everlasting majesty Jerusalem has known long seasons so empty that travelers went around her. Many carry a past that feels like ruins. God specializes in making forsaken places into places of joy.
60:16 and you will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob Zion draws strength from the nations like a nursing child. Every blessing in this chapter is meant to lead to knowing God.
60:17 and I will make your overseers peace, and your oppressors righteousness Everything is upgraded, beyond even Solomon's day (1 Kgs 10:27). The government itself changes. That is what a city looks like when Christ is King.
60:18 and you will call your walls Salvation, and your gates Praise The city's protection is God's saving work, and the way in is praise. We still come to God through thanksgiving and praise (Ps 100:4).
60:19 and the LORD will be for you an everlasting light John saw the New Jerusalem lit by God's glory with the Lamb as its lamp (Rev 21:23). Much of this chapter describes the Millennium, but I read 60:19-20 as reaching past it to the eternal city. Isaiah often sees both mountain peaks without the valley between.
60:20 and the days of your mourning will be completed God will wipe away every tear (Rev 21:4). Whatever you are grieving today, it has an end date in God's plan.
60:21 And your people, all of them will be righteous; forever they will possess the land Not because Israel earned it. God makes them righteous as His planting. Paul looks to this day (Rom 11:26), and the land was promised to Abraham forever (Gen 17:8).
60:22 I am the LORD; in its time I will hasten it God has a set time, and then He acts quickly. We don't know the day or hour (Matt 24:36) and shouldn't set dates. Our part is to trust His timing and live ready.
61:1 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is on Me, because the LORD has anointed Me to bring good news to the humble Anointed gives us Messiah, and in Greek, Christ. At Nazareth Jesus read this from the scroll of Isaiah and said, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your ears" (Luke 4:21). He came for the humble, the brokenhearted and the captives, empowered by the Spirit (Luke 3:22; 42:1).
61:2 to proclaim a year of favor of the LORD, and a day of vengeance of our God This recalls the Jubilee, when debts were canceled and slaves freed (Lev 25). Jesus stopped reading mid-verse (Luke 4:19). His first coming brought the year of favor, still open now (2 Cor 6:2). His second will bring the day of vengeance (2 Thess 1:7-8). One small "and" holds a gap of more than two thousand years.
61:3 to give to them a headdress instead of ashes, oil of joy instead of mourning, a mantle of praise instead of a faint spirit Mourners put ashes on their heads, and the festive headdress replaces them. Every exchange moves from grief to joy. Jesus doesn't just tell us to cheer up. He takes what we carry and gives us something better. His people become deep-rooted trees (Ps 1:3).
61:4 And they will rebuild the ancient ruins Israel rebuilt after the exile, but Jerusalem was torn down again. I believe the full fulfillment comes when Christ returns and Israel is restored in His kingdom. No damage is too old for God to repair.
61:5 And strangers will stand and shepherd your flocks This doesn't make the nations slaves. It frees Israel for her priestly work (61:6). The nations that once took Israel's harvest (62:8) now help bring it in.
61:6 And you, you will be called priests of the LORD Israel was meant to be a kingdom of priests (Exod 19:6) and never fully lived it. Here it finally happens. Peter calls believers a royal priesthood (1 Pet 2:9), and believers reign as priests in the thousand years (Rev 20:6). The calling is shared, not taken away from Israel.
61:7 Instead of your shame, you will have a double portion The firstborn received a double share (Deut 21:17), and Israel is God's firstborn (Exod 4:22). Where they once received double for their sins (40:2), they now receive double in blessing.
61:8 For I, the LORD, love justice God acts from His character. The everlasting covenant is the new covenant (Jer 31:31-34), sealed in Jesus' blood (Luke 22:20).

with injustice; and I will give their recompense in faithfulness, and I will make an everlasting covenant with them. 9 And their offspring will be known among the nations, and their descendants in the midst of the peoples; all who see them will recognize them, that they are offspring whom the LORD has blessed. 10 I will greatly rejoice in the LORD; let my soul exult in my God; for He has clothed me with garments of salvation; He has covered me with a robe of righteousness, like the bridegroom who acts as a priest with a headdress, and like the bride who adorns herself with her ornaments. 11 For like the earth that brings forth its growth, and like a garden that makes the things sown in it spring up, so the Lord GOD will make righteousness and praise spring up before all the nations.

A New Name

1 For the sake of Zion (Tsiyon) I will not be silent, and for the sake of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) I will not be quiet, until her righteousness goes forth like the brightness, and her salvation like a torch that burns. 2 And nations will see your righteousness, and all kings your glory; and you will be called a new name, which the mouth of the LORD will designate. 3 And you will be a crown of beauty in the hand of the LORD, and a turban of royalty in the palm of your God. 4 It will no longer be said of you, "Forsaken," and of your land it will no longer be said, "Desolation"; for you will be called Hephzibah (Cheftsi-Vah), and your land Married; for the LORD delights in you, and your land will be married. 5 For as a young man marries a virgin, so your sons will marry you; and with the joy of a bridegroom over a bride your God will rejoice over you. 6 On your walls, Jerusalem, I have appointed watchmen; all the day and all the night continually they will not be silent. You who remind the LORD, let there be no rest for you, 7 and do not give Him rest until He establishes, and until He makes Jerusalem a praise in the earth. 8 The LORD has sworn by His right hand and by the arm of His strength: I will not again give your grain as food to your enemies, and sons of the foreigner will not drink your new wine for which you have labored; 9 for those who gather it will eat it and praise the LORD, and those who collect it will drink it in the courts of My holiness. 10 Pass through, pass through the gates; clear the way of the people; build up, build up the highway; rid it of stones; lift up a banner over the peoples. 11 Look, the LORD has proclaimed to the end of the earth: Say to the daughter of Zion, "Look, your salvation is coming; look, His reward is with Him, and His recompense before Him." 12 And they will call them the Holy People, the Redeemed of the LORD; and you will be called Sought Out, A City Not Forsaken.

61:9 that they are offspring whom the LORD has blessed God wants His people to be living proof of His goodness. Those around the church too should be able to see the Lord has been good to us.
61:10 for He has clothed me with garments of salvation; He has covered me with a robe of righteousness I take this as redeemed Zion answering the Messiah. Some hear the Messiah speaking. God does the dressing. Our own righteousness is a soiled garment (64:6), but He gives us His through faith in Christ (2 Cor 5:21; Phil 3:9). The bride points ahead to Rev 19:7-8.
61:11 so the Lord GOD will make righteousness and praise spring up before all the nations Spiritual growth is God's work. We plant and water, but He makes things grow (1 Cor 3:6-7). One day the whole world will see the harvest.
62:1 For the sake of Zion I will not be silent, and for the sake of Jerusalem I will not be quiet Bible teachers disagree on the speaker. Some hear Isaiah praying for his city. I believe it is the Messiah of chapter 61 still speaking. Either way, God has not given up on Jerusalem, and He won't stay quiet about her.
62:2 and you will be called a new name, which the mouth of the LORD will designate A name often tells who someone is, as when Abram became Abraham and Jacob became Israel. A new name means a new identity. Jesus promises overcomers a new name on a white stone (Rev 2:17).
62:3 And you will be a crown of beauty in the hand of the LORD God holds the crown in His hand like a king admiring a treasured jewel. He doesn't just put up with His people. He treasures them.
62:4 for you will be called Hephzibah, and your land Married; for the LORD delights in you Hephzibah means my delight is in her, and Married is Beulah in Hebrew. God says this to a people who broke His heart many times. His love isn't based on our record. In Christ, God's verdict over you is not Forsaken but Hephzibah.
62:6 You who remind the LORD, let there be no rest for you These watchmen pray, calling on God to keep His promises, day and night. This pictures what Jesus taught about always praying and not losing heart (Luke 18:1).
62:7 and do not give Him rest until He establishes, and until He makes Jerusalem a praise in the earth That is bold language. God is not annoyed by persistent prayer for what He has promised. He welcomes it. "Your kingdom come" (Matt 6:10) is the same prayer.
62:8 The LORD has sworn by His right hand and by the arm of His strength Enemies often swept in and ate Israel's harvest (Judg 6:3-6). God swears by Himself, since no one is greater (Heb 6:13). The promise is as sure as God is.
62:9 and those who collect it will drink it in the courts of My holiness In God's kingdom work and worship go together. Labor is no longer wasted or stolen. It becomes an offering of praise (65:21-22).
62:10 build up, build up the highway; rid it of stones; lift up a banner over the peoples The doubled commands give urgency. This picks up the highway of 40:3 and 57:14. Nothing is left in the road to trip God's people on their way home.
62:11 Look, your salvation is coming; look, His reward is with Him Salvation is a Person who comes. Matthew uses "Say to the daughter of Zion" when Jesus rides into Jerusalem (Matt 21:5), and Jesus promises His reward is with Him when He comes (Rev 22:12).
62:12 and you will be called Sought Out, A City Not Forsaken Once avoided, Jerusalem is sought by the nations and above all by God. I believe this will be fully true when Christ returns and reigns from Jerusalem. It pictures every believer too. He came looking for us (Luke 19:10).
63:1 Who is this coming from Edom, with reddened garments from Bozrah Edom, from Esau, was Israel's long-time enemy, and in Isaiah it stands for nations set against God (34:5-6). This is no tired soldier but a conqueror. "Great to save" tells us who He is. I believe this is the Lord Jesus Christ at His second coming.

from Bozrah (Botsra), this one adorned in His clothing, stooping in the greatness of His strength? "I, speaking in righteousness, great to save." 2 Why is there red on Your clothing, and Your garments like one who treads in a winepress? 3 "I have trodden the winepress alone, and from the peoples no man was with Me; and I trod them in My anger, and I trampled them in My rage, and their lifeblood spattered on My garments, and I have defiled all My clothing. 4 For a day of vengeance was in My heart, and the year of My redemption had come. 5 And I looked, and there was no one helping; and I was appalled, and there was no one upholding; and My own arm brought salvation to Me, and My rage, it upheld Me. 6 And I trod down peoples in My anger, and I made them drunk in My rage, and I brought down their lifeblood to the earth."

Remembering the Days of Old

7 I will make mention of the acts of steadfast love of the LORD, the praises of the LORD, according to all that the LORD has bestowed on us, and the great goodness to the house of Israel (Yisra'el), which He has bestowed on them according to His compassion, and according to the greatness of His acts of steadfast love. 8 And He said, "Surely they are My people, sons who will not deal falsely." And He became a Savior to them. 9 In all their distress He was distressed, and the angel of His presence saved them; in His love and in His pity He Himself redeemed them; and He lifted them up and carried them all the days of old. 10 And they rebelled and grieved His Holy Spirit; and He turned Himself to be an enemy to them; He Himself fought against them. 11 And His people remembered the days of old, the days of Moses (Moshe): Where is He who brought them up from the sea with the shepherds of His flock? Where is He who put in its midst His Holy Spirit, 12 who caused the arm of His splendor to go at the right hand of Moses, who split the waters before them, to make for Himself an everlasting name, 13 who led them through the deeps? Like the horse in the wilderness, they did not stumble. 14 Like the livestock that goes down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest. So You led Your people, to make for Yourself a name of splendor. 15 Look down from heaven and see, from the lofty dwelling of Your holiness and Your splendor. Where are Your zeal and Your mighty deeds? The stirring of Your inward parts and Your compassion toward me have restrained themselves. 16 For You are our Father, for Abraham (Avraham) does not know us, and Israel does not acknowledge us; You, LORD, are our Father; our Redeemer from long ago is Your name. 17 Why, LORD, do You make us go astray from Your ways, and harden our heart from fear of You? Return for the sake of Your servants, the tribes of Your inheritance. 18 For a little while Your holy people possessed it; our adversaries have trodden down Your sanctuary. 19 We have become like those over

63:2 Why is there red on Your clothing, and Your garments like one who treads in a winepress Grapes were crushed by stomping in a stone trough, and the juice stained the robes. The question sets up a sobering answer.
63:3 I have trodden the winepress alone, and from the peoples no man was with Me This is not Christ's own blood from the cross. The verse says it is His enemies' blood. John saw this scene (Rev 14:19-20; 19:13, 15). Isaiah and John look at the same day, when Christ returns at the end of the Tribulation and defeats the armies gathered against Him.
63:4 For a day of vengeance was in My heart, and the year of My redemption had come Jesus stopped reading before "a day of vengeance" at Nazareth (61:2). Here is that day. Vengeance and redemption arrive together. For the believer, Christ's return is the day we are set free for good (Luke 21:28).
63:5 and My own arm brought salvation to Me This repeats 59:16. No human army will defeat evil at the end, and no human effort could save us from sin. Salvation is God's work from start to finish, which is humbling and a great relief.
63:6 And I trod down peoples in My anger, and I made them drunk in My rage These are hard words (51:17; Rev 19:21). God's wrath is never cruel or out of control. It is a holy God's response to evil that refused every offer of mercy. Before that day, His patience still holds the door open (2 Pet 3:9).
63:7 I will make mention of the acts of steadfast love of the LORD The tone changes completely. A long prayer begins and runs through chapter 64. Hesed, God's loyal covenant love, appears twice. It is good to start prayer where Isaiah does, remembering what God has done.
63:9 In all their distress He was distressed, and the angel of His presence saved them God felt Israel's suffering and carried them like a father (Deut 1:31). God's presence went with them (Exod 33:14). Many teachers, and I am one, see this angel as the LORD Himself appearing before Christ was born. In Jesus He took on our suffering Himself (Heb 4:15).
63:10 And they rebelled and grieved His Holy Spirit The Spirit is a Person who can be grieved, not a force (Eph 4:30). God fought against His own people through wilderness judgments, Assyria and Babylon. His discipline comes from a love that won't let His people keep destroying themselves.
63:11 And His people remembered the days of old, the days of Moses Sometimes the first step back to God is remembering what He did before and longing for Him to do it again.
63:12 who caused the arm of His splendor to go at the right hand of Moses, who split the waters before them When Moses raised his staff, it was God's power that split the sea (Exod 14:21). The Exodus showed the whole world who God is, and people still speak of it thousands of years later.
63:14 the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest Like cattle going down to graze after a long walk. The Spirit appears in 63:10, 11 and 14, guiding, grieving and giving rest through Israel's whole story.
63:15 Look down from heaven and see This is an honest prayer. God's people may tell Him plainly that they feel His absence, as the Psalms do (Ps 13:1; 44:23-24).
63:16 For You are our Father, for Abraham does not know us Even if Abraham and Jacob would not recognize this ruined people, God does. Calling God Father this directly is unusual in the Old Testament. Jesus taught us to pray the same way (Matt 6:9).
63:17 Why, LORD, do You make us go astray from Your ways, and harden our heart from fear of You Is God to blame for their sin? No. The prayer admits the sin was theirs (64:5-7). When people keep rejecting God, He can hand them over to the hardness they chose (6:9-10; Rom 1:24). This is a cry for Him to return.
63:18 our adversaries have trodden down Your sanctuary Isaiah looks ahead to Babylon destroying the temple in 586 B.C. Jesus warned that Jerusalem would be trampled until the times of the nations are fulfilled (Luke 21:24). The trampling has an end date.
63:19 We have become like those over whom You have not ruled from long ago The prayer ends low. Yet the fact that they are praying shows they still belong to Him. When we feel far from God, the right move is to keep praying.

whom You have not ruled from long ago, over whom Your name has not been called.

The Potter and the Clay

1 Oh that You had torn the heavens and come down, that the mountains had quaked at Your presence, 2 as fire kindles brushwood, as fire makes water boil, to make Your name known to Your adversaries; the nations will tremble at Your presence. 3 When You did awesome things that we did not look for, You came down; the mountains quaked at Your presence. 4 And from long ago they have not heard, they have not given ear; the eye has not seen a God besides You, who acts for the one who waits for Him. 5 You meet the one who rejoices and does righteousness, those who remember You in Your ways. Look, You, You were angry, and we sinned; in them we have been a long time, and will we be saved? 6 And we have all become like the unclean, and all our righteous deeds like a garment of menstruation; and we all wither like the leaf, and our iniquities, like the wind, carry us away. 7 And there is no one who calls on Your name, who rouses himself to take hold of You; for You have hidden Your face from us, and You have melted us by the hand of our iniquities. 8 And now, LORD, You are our Father; we are the clay, and You are our Potter; and all of us are the work of Your hand. 9 Do not be angry, LORD, exceedingly, and do not remember iniquity forever. 65:4 Rom 10:21; Lev 11:7; Isa 66:3,17
65:5 Luke 18:9; Jude 1:19; Luke 18:10

64:1 Oh that You had torn the heavens and come down, that the mountains had quaked at Your presence This is a desperate prayer for God to rip the sky open like a curtain. I believe it will be answered in full when Christ returns and heaven opens (Rev 19:11). The warrior of 63:1-6 is the answer. Until then believers pray, "Come, Lord Jesus" (Rev 22:20).
64:2 to make Your name known to Your adversaries The goal of the fire is not destruction for its own sake but that God's name be known. When God shows up, no one can pretend He isn't real anymore.
64:3 When You did awesome things that we did not look for, You came down; the mountains quaked at Your presence This looks back to Sinai, which trembled and smoked as the LORD came down in fire (Exod 19:18). God is not limited to what we imagine He can do.
64:4 the eye has not seen a God besides You, who acts for the one who waits for Him Idols do nothing. The LORD acts. Paul draws on this for what God has prepared for those who love Him (1 Cor 2:9). To wait for God is to keep trusting and expecting Him to move (40:31).
64:5 You, You were angry, and we sinned; in them we have been a long time, and will we be saved That is the right question for any sinner to ask. The answer is found in God's mercy, not in us (64:8-9).
64:6 and all our righteous deeds like a garment of menstruation Not just our sins but our best deeds are stained before a holy God. Good deeds are not worthless before people, but they can't pay for sin (Rom 3:10). We need a righteousness not our own (Phil 3:9). In 61:10 God clothes His people with a robe of righteousness. Our rags are exchanged for His robe.
64:7 And there is no one who calls on Your name, who rouses himself to take hold of You This is a people who stopped seeking God. When prayer dries up we slowly drift, and the results of our choices start to rule us.
64:8 And now, LORD, You are our Father; we are the clay, and You are our Potter Everything turns here. They point not to themselves but to who God is. A potter doesn't throw away marred clay. He reshapes it (Jer 18:4-6; Rom 9:21). If you feel broken or spoiled, you are still in the Potter's hands.
64:9 Look, please look: Your people are all of us They don't deny their guilt. They ask God to remember the relationship. Under the new covenant He promised not to remember sins (Jer 31:34; Heb 8:12).
64:10 Zion has become a wilderness, Jerusalem a desolation In Isaiah's day Jerusalem still stood, spared from Sennacherib in 701 B.C. Isaiah speaks as though standing in the ruins of 586 B.C. God let him see it ahead and pray as if it had happened.
64:11 The house of our holiness and our splendor, where our fathers praised You, has become a burning of fire Babylon burned Solomon's temple (2 Kgs 25:9) more than a century later. God knows the future and does not hide hard things from His people (6:11-12). He prepares us for sorrow and gives us words to pray in it.
64:12 Will You restrain Yourself at these things, LORD The prayer is left hanging. The next chapter is God's reply. When heaven feels quiet, it is all right to ask this same question. Keep praying, because God answers.
65:1 I let Myself be found by those who did not seek Me God answers the prayer of chapters 63-64. Paul applies this to the Gentiles, who weren't looking for God and found Him through the gospel (Rom 10:20). Most of us weren't searching for God when He found us. He came looking first.
65:2 I spread out My hands all the day to a rebellious people The picture is outstretched arms pleading for someone to come home. Paul applies this to Israel (Rom 10:21). God had not been silent. He had been calling, and Israel had been refusing.
65:3 sacrificing in the gardens and making smoke on the bricks Gardens were places of pagan worship (1:29), and the bricks were probably small altars to other gods. God gave one place to worship Him, and they set up their own altars.
65:4 who sit among the graves and spend the night in the secret places; who eat the flesh of the pig They were likely trying to contact the dead, which God forbade (Deut 18:10-12; 8:19), and they ate what the Law called unclean (Lev 11:7). These were deliberate turns to the practices of the nations.
65:5 Keep to yourself; do not come near me, for I am too holy for you Few things offend God more than people deep in sin who still look down on others. They are like smoke that keeps stinging the eyes. Jesus faced this attitude too (Luke 18:9-14).

smoke in My nose, a fire that burns all the day. 6 Look, it is written before Me: I will not be silent, but I will repay, and I will repay into their bosom 7 your iniquities and the iniquities of your fathers together, says the LORD, who made smoke on the mountains and taunted Me on the hills; and I will measure their former recompense into their bosom. 8 Thus says the LORD: As the new wine is found in the cluster, and one says, "Do not destroy it, for a blessing is in it," so I will do for the sake of My servants, so as not to destroy all. 9 And I will bring forth offspring from Jacob (Ya'aqov), and from Judah (Yehuda) a possessor of My mountains; and My chosen ones will possess it, and My servants will dwell there. 10 And Sharon will become a pasture of sheep, and the Valley of Achor (Akhor) a resting place of cattle, for My people who have sought Me. 11 And you who forsake the LORD, who forget My holy mountain, who arrange a table for Fortune, and who fill mixed wine for Destiny, 12 and I will destine you for the sword, and all of you will bow down to the slaughter; because I called, and you did not answer; I spoke, and you did not listen; and you did what is evil in My eyes, and you chose that in which I did not delight.

13 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Look, My servants will eat, and you will be hungry; look, My servants will drink, and you will be thirsty; look, My servants will rejoice, and you will be put to shame; 14 look, My servants will shout for joy from goodness of heart, and you will cry out from pain of heart, and from brokenness of spirit you will wail. 15 And you will leave your name for a curse to My chosen ones, and the Lord GOD will put you to death; and He will call His servants by another name, 16 so that he who blesses himself in the land will bless himself by the God of Amen, and he who swears in the land will swear by the God of Amen; because the former distresses are forgotten, and because they are hidden from My eyes.

65:6 Look, it is written before Me: I will not be silent, but I will repay God keeps a record. Repaying into the bosom pictures grain measured into the fold of a garment. The books are opened at the final judgment (Rev 20:12).

65:7 your iniquities and the iniquities of your fathers together The children kept doing what their parents did on the high places. God is patient, but He does not forget unrepented sin.

65:8 Do not destroy it, for a blessing is in it," so I will do for the sake of My servants A farmer doesn't throw away a cluster because some grapes are bad. God will save His servants, the remnant, the faithful few He always keeps (Rom 11:5).

65:10 and the Valley of Achor a resting place of cattle Sharon was the fertile western plain. Achor, meaning trouble, was where Achan was stoned (Josh 7:24-26), and Hosea promised it would be a door of hope (Hos 2:15). God can turn a valley of trouble into a place of rest.

65:11 who arrange a table for Fortune, and who fill mixed wine for Destiny In Hebrew these are Gad and Meni, gods of luck. People still trust luck or fate rather than the living God.

65:12 and I will destine you for the sword God plays on words. They poured drinks to Destiny, so He destines them for the sword, because He called and they did not answer. Judgment is never God's first word.

65:13 Look, My servants will eat, and you will be hungry Three times "look." In this life the faithful and faithless often seem treated alike. In the end God will make a clear difference (Mal 3:18).

65:15 and He will call His servants by another name The rebels' name becomes a curse. God's servants receive a new name (62:2; Rev 2:17; 3:12), a new identity in Him.

65:16 will bless himself by the God of Amen Amen means it is true, so be it. Jesus calls Himself the Amen, the faithful and true Witness (Rev 3:14). In His kingdom people will rely on God's word fully.

65:17 For look, I am creating new heavens and a new earth God will not only repair the old world but create a new one, using the creating word of Gen 1:1 (2 Pet 3:13; Rev 21:1). Teachers differ here, and I hold my view with care. Verse 17 points to the eternal new creation. Since 65:20 still has death (Rev 21:4), I believe 65:18-25 describe the Millennium, its first stage and foretaste.

65:18 for look, I am creating Jerusalem as gladness, and her people as joy God commands joy. The city that was a desolation (64:10) becomes the center of joy on earth. Christ will reign from Jerusalem (Zech 14:9, 16), and the city will finally be what God always meant.

65:19 and the sound of weeping and the sound of crying will not be heard in her again Imagine a city where no one cries. God doesn't only stop the weeping. He shares in the joy, and in eternity He wipes away every tear (Rev 21:4).

65:20 for the youth will die a son of a hundred years Death still exists here, though rarely. That is why I place this in the Millennium. Survivors of the Tribulation, including Israel turned to Christ and spared Gentiles, enter in natural bodies and live very long lives (Zech 12:10; 14:16). Sin is rare but not gone (Rev 20:7-9). Raised believers won't die again (Rev 20:6).

65:21 And they will build houses and dwell in them Deuteronomy's curse said others would live in the houses they built (Deut 28:30). Christ's kingdom reverses the curse. Ordinary life will finally be good, safe and lasting.

65:22 for like the days of the tree will be the days of My people Some trees stand for centuries. People will live long enough to enjoy everything they make. Under Christ's rule our labor will bear lasting fruit.

65:23 and they will not bear children for sudden terror Every parent who has feared for a child's future can feel this. The blessing passes from one generation to the next.

descendants with them. 24 And it will be that before they call, I will answer; while they are still speaking, I will hear. 25 Wolf and lamb will graze as one, and the lion like the ox will eat straw, and as for the snake, dust will be its food. They will not do evil and they will not destroy in all My holy mountain, says the LORD.

The One Who Trembles at My Word

1 Thus says the LORD: The heavens are My throne, and the earth is the footstool of My feet. Where then is a house that you could build for Me, and where then is a place of My rest? 2 And all these things My hand has made, and all these things came to be, declares the LORD. And to this one I will look: to the afflicted and stricken of spirit, and trembling at My word. 3 He who slaughters the ox is like one who strikes down a man; he who sacrifices the lamb, like one who breaks the neck of a dog; he who offers up a grain offering, like one who offers the blood of a pig; he who offers frankincense as a memorial, like one who blesses wickedness. They also have chosen their own ways, and their soul delights in their detestable things. 4 I also will choose their punishments, and I will bring their fears on them; because I called, and there was no one answering; I spoke, and they did not listen; and they did what is evil in My eyes, and they chose that in which I did not delight. 5 Hear the word of the LORD, you who tremble at His word: Your brothers who hate you, who exclude you for the sake of My name, have said, "Let the LORD be glorified, that we may see your joy"; and they will be put to shame. 6 A sound of uproar from the city! A sound from the temple! The sound of the LORD repaying recompense to His enemies! 7 Before she was in labor, she gave birth; before pain came to her, she delivered a male. 8 Who has heard anything like this? Who has seen anything like these? Will a land be brought forth in one day? Or will a nation be born at one time? For Zion (Tsiyon) was in labor; she also gave birth to her sons. 9 Will I break open the womb and not cause it to bring forth? says the LORD. Or am I the One who causes to bring forth, and will I shut it? says your God. 10 Rejoice with Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and be glad in her, all who love her; exult with her with exultation, all who mourn over her, 11 so that you may suck and be satisfied from the breast of her consolations, so that you may drink deeply and delight yourselves from the abundance of her glory. 12 For thus says the LORD: Look, I am extending to her peace like a river, and the glory of the nations like an overflowing torrent; and you will suck; you will be carried on the hip, and you will be bounced on the knees. 13 Like a man whom his mother comforts, so I will comfort you; and in Jerusalem you will be comforted. 14 And you will see, and your heart will exult, and your bones will sprout like the grass; and the hand of the LORD will be made known to His servants, and He will be indignant against His enemies.

65:24 And it will be that before they call, I will answer This is the opposite of 64:12, where God seemed silent. Even now our Father knows what we need before we ask (Matt 6:8). That should give us confidence in prayer today.
65:25 Wolf and lamb will graze as one, and the lion like the ox will eat straw, and as for the snake, dust will be its food This repeats 11:6-9. I take it as written. When Christ reigns, the curse on creation lifts (Rom 8:19-21). The serpent stays under its curse (Gen 3:14), and Satan is bound for the thousand years (Rev 20:2-3).
66:1 The heavens are My throne, and the earth is the footstool of My feet God is not rejecting the temple. He chose it and filled it with glory (1 Kgs 8:10-11). He warns against thinking a building can hold Him. Solomon said heaven cannot contain Him (1 Kgs 8:27), and Stephen quoted this verse at his trial (Acts 7:49-50).
66:2 to the afflicted and stricken of spirit, and trembling at My word God needs nothing from us. He looks for a heart broken over sin that takes Scripture seriously (Ps 51:17). You don't need to be important or impressive for God to notice you.
66:3 He who slaughters the ox is like one who strikes down a man Their offerings were right outwardly, but they had chosen their own ways and loved detestable things. Isaiah said the same in 1:11-15. Worship without a changed heart is not worship to God. It offends Him.
66:4 because I called, and there was no one answering God repeats the charge of 65:12. People receive the result of the path they insisted on. When you hear His voice, don't harden your heart (Heb 3:15).
66:5 Let the LORD be glorified, that we may see your joy"; and they will be put to shame The faithful are mocked and pushed out by their own brothers, as Jesus warned (John 16:2). If you are mocked for your faith, God sees it, and He will vindicate you.
66:6 The sound of the LORD repaying recompense to His enemies The mockers asked God to show Himself, and He does, in judgment. God may seem slow, but when He acts, everyone will hear it.
66:7 Before she was in labor, she gave birth; before pain came to her, she delivered a male I believe this points first to the Messiah born from Israel. In my Revelation study I noted how closely Revelation 12:2-5 echoes this. The woman stands for Israel, and her son who rules the nations is Jesus Christ.
66:8 Will a land be brought forth in one day? Or will a nation be born at one time Nations take generations to form. Teachers read the details differently, but in my view the fullest fulfillment comes at Christ's return, when Israel looks on Him whom they pierced (Zech 12:10) and all Israel is saved (Rom 11:26). The birth pains of the Tribulation will be short.
66:10 Rejoice with Jerusalem and be glad in her, all who love her Many have grieved over Jerusalem's long suffering, and Jesus wept over the city (Luke 19:41). God promises that grief will turn to joy.
66:12 Look, I am extending to her peace like a river Peace steady and full, never drying up, and the glory of the nations flowing in as in chapter 60. God's people are carried and bounced on the knee like little children.
66:13 Like a man whom his mother comforts, so I will comfort you God usually compares Himself to a father, but here to a mother. Isaiah 40 began with comfort, and near the end God is still comforting. Whatever you carry, He offers that kind of comfort (2 Cor 1:3-4).
66:14 and the hand of the LORD will be made known to His servants, and He will be indignant against His enemies Bones sprouting like grass picture new strength. The same coming of God brings joy to some and judgment to others.

The Final Word

15 For look, the LORD will come in fire, and His chariots will be like the storm wind, to render His anger with rage, and His rebuke with flames of fire. 16 For by fire the LORD will enter into judgment, and by His sword, with all flesh; and the slain of the LORD will be many. 17 Those who consecrate themselves and purify themselves to go to the gardens, following one in the midst, eating the flesh of the pig and the detestable thing and the mouse, will come to an end together, declares the LORD. 18 And I, their deeds and their thoughts I know; the time is coming to gather all the nations and the tongues; and they will come and see My glory. 19 And I will set a sign among them, and I will send survivors from them to the nations: Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, those who draw the bow, Tubal (Tuval) and Greece (Yavan), the distant coastlands that have not heard My report and have not seen My glory; and they will declare My glory among the nations. 20 And they will bring all your brothers from all the nations as an offering to the LORD, on horses and in chariots and in wagons and on mules and on camels, to My holy mountain Jerusalem, says the LORD, just as the sons of Israel (Yisra'el) bring the grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD. 21 And also from them I will take for priests and for Levites, says the LORD. 22 For just as the new heavens and the new earth which I am making will stand before Me, declares the LORD, so your offspring and your name will stand. 23 And it will be that from new moon to new moon, and from Sabbath to Sabbath, all flesh will come to bow down before Me, says the LORD. 24 And they will go out and look on the corpses of the men who have transgressed against Me; for their worm will not die, and their fire will not be extinguished; and they will be an abhorrence to all flesh.

66:15 For look, the LORD will come in fire, and His chariots will be like the storm wind Paul describes Christ revealed from heaven in flaming fire (2 Thess 1:7-8). This is the second coming of Christ at the end of the Tribulation.
66:16 For by fire the LORD will enter into judgment, and by His sword, with all flesh This is the Day of the LORD, when the sword from Christ's mouth strikes down the nations gathered against Him (Rev 19:15, 21).
66:17 eating the flesh of the pig and the detestable thing and the mouse These were unclean under the Law (Lev 11). This repeats 65:3-4. The book won't end without making clear that idolatry has no future.
66:18 the time is coming to gather all the nations and the tongues; and they will come and see My glory Nothing is hidden from God. This reverses the scattering at Babel (Gen 11:9). John saw a multitude from every nation and tongue before the throne (Rev 7:9).
66:19 and I will send survivors from them to the nations Survivors of the judgment become missionaries to far peoples who never heard of Him. Tarshish was a far western port, Lud probably Lydia in Asia Minor, Tubal a people of Asia Minor, and Greece the Ionian Greeks. This was God's heart from Abraham on (Gen 12:3; 49:6), and the church carries it now (Matt 28:19).
66:20 And they will bring all your brothers from all the nations as an offering to the LORD The nations bring scattered Israel home like a grain offering in a clean vessel. Paul seems to draw on this when he calls his Gentile ministry an acceptable offering (Rom 15:16).
66:21 And also from them I will take for priests and for Levites Some take "them" as returning Israelites, others as the Gentiles who bring them. I lean toward the Gentiles, a stunning sign of grace, since under the Law only Levites served. Believers from every nation are now a royal priesthood (1 Pet 2:9; Rev 1:6).
66:22 For just as the new heavens and the new earth which I am making will stand before Me, declares the LORD, so your offspring and your name will stand Israel's future is as secure as the new creation itself (Jer 31:35-36). I see this reaching to the eternal new heaven and earth (Rev 21:1), with the Millennium as its first stage. Our lives are heading toward a world God has made new.
66:23 from new moon to new moon, and from Sabbath to Sabbath, all flesh will come to bow down before Me New moons and Sabbaths were Israel's set times of worship. This fits the Millennium, when the nations come up to worship the King (Zech 14:16). One day every knee will bow (Phil 2:10-11).
66:24 for their worm will not die, and their fire will not be extinguished Outside lie those slain at His coming (66:16; Rev 19:21). Jesus used these words for hell (Mark 9:48), pointing to the lake of fire (Rev 20:14-15). Isaiah began by calling sinners to reason with God (1:18) and ends with two destinies. The choice is still open. Come to Jesus, who was pierced for our transgressions (53:5).

JEREMIAH

Introduction

Title

The book is named for the prophet whose messages it holds, Jeremiah the son of Hilkiah. It is the second of the Major Prophets, after Isaiah and before Lamentations. They are called major because they are long, not because they matter more than the twelve shorter books. By number of words Jeremiah is the longest book in the Bible. Jeremiah has 52 chapters and 1,364 verses.

Author and Date

The book names its author in its first verse: "Jeremiah the son of Hilkiah, from the priests who were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin" (1:1). Anathoth was a small town a few miles north of Jerusalem. Jeremiah was a priest by family, but God called him to be a prophet. He dictated his messages to his helper Baruch the son of Neriah, a scribe (36:4). When King Jehoiakim cut up and burned that first scroll in 605 B.C., Jeremiah dictated it again, and many more words were added (36:32). Jeremiah's own words end at 51:64: "Thus far are the words of Jeremiah." Chapter 52 was added by another hand, most likely Baruch or another faithful scribe, and it is nearly the same as 2 Kings 24:18-25:30. Many modern scholars think the book grew over a long time and that later editors wrote many of its prose sermons in Jeremiah's name. I take the book at its word. It tells us plainly how Jeremiah's words were written down, by whom and when.

The book was written over Jeremiah's whole ministry, which began in 627 B.C. and ran past the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. The last messages came from Egypt, and chapter 52 was added after Jehoiachin's release about 560 B.C.

Background and Setting

God called Jeremiah in the thirteenth year of King Josiah, 627 B.C., while he was still young (1:2, 6). He preached through the reigns of Judah's last five kings. Dates here follow Edwin Thiele and those who built on his work. Josiah (about 640 to 609 B.C.) found the Book of the Law and led a great reform, but the hearts of the people did not change. Jehoahaz, also called Shallum (22:11), reigned three months in 609 B.C. and was taken to Egypt. Jehoiakim (about 609 to 598 B.C.) was Jeremiah's bitter enemy and burned his scroll. Jehoiachin, also called Coniah and Jeconiah (22:24; 24:1), reigned three months and was taken to Babylon in 597 B.C. Zedekiah (about 597 to 586 B.C.) asked Jeremiah for God's word more than once but would not obey it.

Assyria, which had destroyed the northern kingdom in 722 B.C., was dying. Nineveh fell in 612 B.C. In 605 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar crushed Pharaoh Neco at Carchemish (46:2), and from then on Babylon ruled the region. Babylon took captives from Jerusalem in 605 B.C. (when Daniel was taken), in 597 B.C. (when Jehoiachin and Ezekiel were taken), and in 586 B.C., when the city and temple were burned. Jeremiah often calls the Babylonians the Chaldeans. After the fall he stayed with the poor left in the land, and then he was forced to go to Egypt with those who fled after Gedaliah's murder (43:6-7). Scripture does not tell us how or when he died.

The book is arranged mostly by subject, not by date. Chapters 1-6 come largely from Josiah's days; much of 7-20 and chapters 22, 25, 26, 35, 36 and 45 from Jehoiakim's; chapters 21, 24, 27-29, 32-34 and 37-39 from Zedekiah's; and chapters 40-44 from after the fall. The old Greek translation gives a shorter form of the book, about one eighth shorter, and places the words against the nations after 25:13. The SLB follows the Hebrew text, as nearly all English Bibles do.

Themes

God gave Jeremiah a double work on the day He called him: "to pluck up and to pull down, and to destroy and to tear down, to build and to plant" (1:10). Four words tear down and two build up, and that is the shape of the book. Most of it exposes sin and warns of judgment. Judah had forsaken God, "a spring of living water" (2:13), for idols. The people trusted the temple instead of the LORD who lived there (7:4). The heart is deceitful (17:9), and the prophets, priests and kings led the people astray. For forty years Jeremiah called them to return, and they would not.

But judgment is not God's last word. He promised that the exile would last seventy years (25:11; 29:10), that He would bring His people home, and, above all in chapters 30-33, that He would make "a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah" (31:31), writing His law on their hearts. That promise was made to Israel, and I believe God will keep it to the nation in the last days, while all who trust Christ share in its forgiveness now. God also judges the nations, Babylon included, as the Judge of all the earth.

Jeremiah shows us what faithfulness looks like when it costs everything. He was beaten, put in stocks, jailed and thrown into a cistern. He wept over his people and argued honestly with God in his laments. God kept him through it all, just as He promised (1:8, 19).

Christ in Jeremiah

The clearest link is the new covenant. Jeremiah heard God promise a covenant that would forgive sin and remember it no more (31:31-34). The night before He died, Jesus took the cup and said, "This cup is the new covenant in My blood" (Luke 22:20), and Hebrews 8:8-12 quotes Jeremiah's promise in full. Jeremiah also promised a King from David's line, "a righteous Branch" (23:5), whose name would be "The LORD Our Righteousness" (23:5-6; 33:15-16). That King is Jesus, the Son of David. Matthew quotes Jeremiah when Herod killed the children of Bethlehem (Matt 2:17-18; Jer 31:15), and Jesus used Jeremiah's words from the temple sermon when He cleared the temple (Matt 21:13; Jer 7:11). Jeremiah himself is a picture of Christ in some ways: rejected by his own people, plotted against by his hometown, weeping over Jerusalem, and suffering for the truth. Some even thought Jesus was Jeremiah (Matt 16:14). But Jeremiah could only warn and weep. Jesus wept over the city and then gave His life for sinners.

Hard Passages

Why did God tell Jeremiah not to pray for the people (7:16; 11:14; 14:11)? Their sin had reached the point where judgment was fixed. The notes explain that this was for that moment and that people, not a rule for us today.

How could Jeremiah speak so harshly to God and even curse the day he was born (15:10-18; 20:7-18)? These laments are honest prayers from a suffering servant. God did not cast him off but called him back and renewed His promise (15:19-21).

The prophet's call to surrender to Babylon (21:9; 38:2) made him sound like a traitor. The notes show that Babylon was God's tool of judgment and that Jeremiah was trying to save lives.

Jeremiah 22:30 says none of Jehoiachin's offspring would sit on David's throne, yet Jesus descends from him (Matt 1:11-12). The notes give the common answer: Matthew traces Jesus' legal line through Joseph, while many believe Luke traces His physical line through Mary.

The time of Jacob's trouble (30:7), the new covenant (31:31-34) and the promises to David (33:14-26) are read differently by different teachers. The notes take them as promises to the nation of Israel, fulfilled in part at the return from exile and fully in the last days and the Messiah's kingdom, and they name the other views.

The words against the nations (chapters 46-51) are hard to read. The notes frame them as the justice of the Judge of all the earth and point out the promises of mercy to Egypt, Moab, Ammon and Elam. Babylon's fall in 539 B.C. is taken as the first fulfillment of chapters 50-51, with the full fulfillment in the Babylon of Revelation 17-18.

Some numbers and dates differ from 2 Kings, such as the deportation counts in 52:28-30 and the days in 52:12 and 52:31. The notes give the common explanations honestly.

JEREMIAH 1

The Call of Jeremiah

1 The words of Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the son of Hilkiah (Chilqiyahu), from the priests who were in Anathoth (Anatot) in the land of Benjamin (Binyamin), 2 to whom the word of the LORD came in the days of Josiah (Yoshiyahu) the son of Amon, king of Judah (Yehuda), in the thirteenth year of his reigning. 3 And it came in the days of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the finishing of the eleventh year of Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the exile of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) in the fifth month. 4 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 5 "Before I formed you in the belly I knew you, and before you came forth from the womb I consecrated you; a prophet to the nations I appointed you." 6 And I said, "Alas, Lord GOD! Look, I do not know how to speak, for I am a youth." 7 And the LORD said to me, "Do not say, 'I am a youth,' for to all to whom I send you, you will go, and all that I command you, you will speak. 8 Do not be afraid of their faces, for I am with you to deliver you," declares the LORD. 9 And the LORD stretched out His hand and touched my mouth, and the LORD said to me, "Look, I have put My words in your mouth. 10 See, I have appointed you this day over the nations and over the kingdoms, to pluck up and to pull down, and to destroy and to tear down, to build and to plant."

Two Visions

11 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, "What are you seeing, Jeremiah?" And I said, "I am seeing a rod of almond." 12 And the LORD said to me, "You have done well to see, for I am watching over My word to do it." 13 And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, "What are you seeing?" And I said, "I am seeing a pot blown upon, and its face is from the face of the north." 14 And the LORD said to me, "From the north the calamity will be opened on all the inhabitants of the land. 15 For look, I am calling to all the clans of the kingdoms of the north," declares the LORD, "and they will come, and they will set each one his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all its walls all around, and against all the cities of Judah. 16 And I will speak My judgments with them concerning all their evil, in that they have forsaken Me and have burned incense to other gods and have bowed down to the works of their

1:16 Acts 7:41; Rev 9:20; Jer 19:4

1:1 The words of Jeremiah These are Jeremiah's words, and yet verse 2 says at once that "the word of the LORD came" to him. That is what a prophet is: a man whose words are God's words.

1:1 from the priests who were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin Anathoth was a small priests' town about three miles northeast of Jerusalem (Josh 21:18). Many think the family came from Abiathar, whom Solomon sent home to Anathoth (1 Kgs 2:26), but Scripture does not say so. This Hilkiah is probably not the high priest who found the Book of the Law (2 Kgs 22:8), though we cannot be sure.

1:2 in the thirteenth year of his reigning The thirteenth year of Josiah was 627 B.C. The word kept coming until Jerusalem went into exile in 586 B.C. (1:3). The heading skips Jehoahaz and Jehoiachin, who reigned only three months each. It marks the main span: forty years of warning a nation that would not listen.

1:5 Before I formed you in the belly I knew you To "know" here is the knowing of a personal choice (Amos 3:2). "Formed" is the potter's word, used of God forming Adam (Gen 2:7). To consecrate is to set apart for God's use. Jeremiah's call to be a prophet was special to him, as Paul's was (Gal 1:15). But the truth under it belongs to all of us. God forms each child in the womb and knows him before birth (Ps 139:13-16). That is why the unborn child is precious to God. Your parents may not have planned you, but God did.

1:5 a prophet to the nations He would speak mostly to Judah, but his words would reach Egypt, Moab, Edom, Babylon and the rest (chapters 46 to 51).

1:6 Alas, Lord GOD "Lord GOD" stands for Adonai Yahweh, Lord YHWH. "Youth" covered anyone from a boy to a young man not yet settled in life, and in that culture the young listened while the elders spoke. Moses gave nearly the same excuse (Exod 4:10).

1:8 for I am with you to deliver you God did not argue about Jeremiah's age or skill. He did not promise that people would listen or that Jeremiah would not suffer. He would be beaten, jailed and left in a muddy pit. God promised His presence and deliverance, and He kept that promise every time. Jesus gave His followers the same promise (Matt 28:20).

1:9 Look, I have put My words in your mouth When Isaiah was called, a seraph touched his lips (Isa 6:6-7). Here God touched Jeremiah's mouth Himself. This fulfills the promise that God would raise up prophets and put His words in their mouths (Deut 18:18). Jeremiah's worry was that he could not speak. God's answer was that the words would not be his.

1:10 to pluck up and to pull down, and to destroy and to tear down, to build and to plant Jeremiah never held an office or led an army. His authority was the word he carried. Four verbs tear down and two build up, and that is the shape of the whole book. God tears down so that He can build (24:6; 31:28). He often has to tear down our pride and our idols first, but He does not tear down to leave us in ruins.

1:11 a rod of almond A play on words. The almond tree is shaqed, the "wakeful" tree, the first to bloom in late winter. God says He is "watching" (shoqed) over His word. People mocked Jeremiah because his warnings seemed slow to come true (17:15), but God was not asleep. He does what He says, in His warnings and in His promises.

1:13 a pot blown upon, and its face is from the face of the north A large cooking pot over a fanned fire, tipped toward the south. Babylon lay east, but the desert between was impassable for an army, so invaders came around by the north. Jeremiah speaks often of the enemy "from the north" (4:6; 6:1, 22), and later names it: Babylon (20:4).

1:15 they will set each one his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem The gate was where judgment was given. Foreign kings in Jerusalem's gates meant they would pass sentence. It came true in 586 B.C. when Babylon's officials sat in the middle gate (39:3).

1:16 they have forsaken Me and have burned incense to other gods The root of it all was forsaking the LORD. Idolatry fills the empty place when we leave God. People do not stop worshiping. They worship something smaller, something their own hands made.

hands. 17 And you, you will gird your loins, and you will arise, and you will speak to them all that I command you. Do not be dismayed before them, lest I dismay you before them. 18 And I, look, I have made you this day into a fortified city and into an iron pillar and into bronze walls against all the land, against the kings of Judah, against its officials, against its priests, and against the people of the land. 19 And they will fight against you, and they will not prevail against you, for I am with you," declares the LORD, "to deliver you."

Forsaking the Spring of Living Water

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Go, and you will proclaim in the ears of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), saying, 'Thus says the LORD: I remember for you the steadfast love of your youth, the love of your betrothals, your walking after Me in the wilderness, in a land not sown. 3 Israel (Yisra'el) was holiness to the LORD, the first of His produce; all who devour it will be held guilty; calamity will come to them,' declares the LORD." 4 Hear the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob (Ya'aqov), and all the clans of the house of Israel. 5 Thus says the LORD: "What injustice did your fathers find in Me, that they went far from Me, and walked after vanity, and became vain? 6 And they did not say, 'Where is the LORD, who brought us up from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), who led us in the wilderness, in a land of desert plain and pit, in a land of dryness and deep darkness, in a land that no one has passed through, and where no man has dwelt?' 7 And I brought you into the land of the fruitful field, to eat its fruit and its good things; and you came in and made My land unclean, and My inheritance you made into an abomination. 8 The priests did not say, 'Where is the LORD?' And those who handle the law did not know Me, and the shepherds transgressed against Me, and the prophets prophesied by Baal and walked after things that do not profit. 9 Therefore I will contend with you again," declares the LORD, "and with your sons' sons I will contend. 10 For pass over to the coasts of Cyprus (Kiti) and see, and send to Kedar (Qedar) and consider carefully, exceedingly, and see whether anything like this has happened. 11 Has a nation exchanged gods, and they are not gods? And My people has exchanged its glory for that which does not profit. 12 Be appalled, O heavens, at this, and shudder, be exceedingly desolate," declares the LORD. 13 "For My people has done two evils: they have forsaken Me, a spring of living water, to hew out for themselves cisterns, broken cisterns, which cannot hold the water. 14 Is Israel a slave? Or is he one born of the household? Why has he become plunder? 15 Against him young lions roar; they have given their voice, and they have made his land into a waste; his cities are burned, without inhabitant. 16 Also the sons of Memphis (Nof) and Tahpanhes (Tachpanches) will graze on you, on the crown of your head. 17 Have you not done this to yourself by your forsaking the LORD your God at the time when He was leading you in the

1:17 you will gird your loins Tuck the long robe into the belt so you can run or work or fight. Get ready for action. "Lest I dismay you" is a hard word: if fear of people ruled Jeremiah, God would let him be shaken before them. The fear of man is a trap (Prov 29:25).
1:18 into a fortified city and into an iron pillar and into bronze walls A young man who felt weak would stand like a fortress, and he would need to. Kings, officials, priests and people would all be against him.
1:19 they will not prevail against you, for I am with you The chapter ends where verse 8 did. Jeremiah's courage would come from God's presence, not his own strength. When we stand for the truth and feel outnumbered, we are not alone.
2:2 I remember for you the steadfast love of your youth, the love of your betrothals Steadfast love is hesed, loyal covenant love. God looks back to the exodus and the wilderness years as Israel's engagement, when she followed Him "in a land not sown," trusting Him for food and water. Israel grumbled often in those years, but she followed, and God remembers that.
2:3 Israel was holiness to the LORD, the first of His produce The firstfruits of the harvest belonged to God and were holy (Lev 23:10). Anyone who ate them without right was guilty. Israel belonged to God, and nations that tried to devour her would answer to Him. God has not given up His claim on Israel (Rom 11:28-29).
2:5 What injustice did your fathers find in Me God invites them to name one wrong He had done. They could not. "Vanity" is hebel, a breath or vapor, the word that runs through Ecclesiastes. People who worship nothing become empty themselves. We become like what we worship (Ps 115:8).
2:8 The priests did not say, 'Where is the LORD?' Every group of leaders failed. The priests stopped seeking Him, the teachers of the law did not know Him, the shepherds (kings and rulers) rebelled, and the prophets spoke by Baal, the Canaanite storm god thought to send rain and crops. When those who should lead people to God stop seeking Him, the whole nation drifts.
2:9 I will contend with you A law-court word. God is bringing charges.
2:10 the coasts of Cyprus From Cyprus in the west to Kedar in the eastern desert, search the world. Pagan nations stayed loyal to idols that were not gods at all. Israel traded the living God, her glory, for nothing. Paul describes the same exchange in Romans 1:23.
2:13 they have forsaken Me, a spring of living water, to hew out for themselves cisterns, broken cisterns The key verse of the chapter. Living water is running water, fresh and always flowing, and you do not have to make it. A cistern was a pit cut in rock to catch rain. It was hard work, the water went stale, and if the rock cracked it all drained away. The first evil was leaving God. The second was trying to replace Him. Idols, alliances with Egypt and Assyria, and their own plans were all broken cisterns.
2:13 a spring of living water We dig for satisfaction in money, success, pleasure, people, even religion without God, and the cisterns never hold. Jesus invited the thirsty to come to Him and drink (John 7:37-38), and said whoever drinks the water He gives will never thirst (John 4:13-14). The spring Israel left is open to us in Christ. Why keep digging?
2:14 Is Israel a slave Israel was God's own son (Exod 4:22), not a slave. Yet "young lions," the invading armies, roared at him. The northern kingdom had already fallen to Assyria in 722 B.C.
2:16 the sons of Memphis and Tahpanhes Two cities of Egypt. Judah trusted Egypt, and Egypt would turn on her. In 609 B.C. Pharaoh Neco killed Josiah and put Judah under tribute (2 Kgs 23:29-35).
2:17 Have you not done this to yourself Judah's troubles were not bad luck. They came from forsaking the LORD.

way? 18 And now, what is it to you to be on the way to Egypt, to drink the waters of the Shihor (Shichor)? And what is it to you to be on the way to Assyria (Ashur), to drink the waters of the River (Nahar)? 19 Your evil will discipline you, and your apostasies will rebuke you. And know and see that it is evil and bitter, your forsaking the LORD your God, and the dread of Me is not in you," declares the Lord GOD of armies.

Israel's Unfaithfulness

20 "For from long ago you broke your yoke; you tore off your bonds, and you said, 'I will not transgress.' For on every high hill and under every luxuriant tree you are lying down, playing the prostitute. 21 And I, I had planted you a choice vine, all of it a seed of truth. And how have you turned yourself, toward Me, into the degenerate shoots of the alien vine? 22 For though you wash with soda, and use much soap for yourself, your iniquity is stained before Me," declares the Lord GOD. 23 "How can you say, 'I have not made myself unclean; after the Baals I have not walked'? See your way in the valley; know what you have done, a swift young camel entwining her paths, 24 a wild donkey accustomed to the wilderness, in the desire of her soul she sniffs the wind; her heat, who can turn it back? All who seek her will not grow weary; in her month they will find her. 25 Withhold your foot from being barefoot, and your throat from thirst. And you said, 'It is hopeless! No, for I have loved strangers, and after them I will walk.' 26 Like the shame of a thief when he is found, so they have been put to shame, the house of Israel, they, their kings, their officials, and their priests and their prophets, 27 who say to the wood, 'You are my father,' and to the stone, 'You gave birth to us.' For they have turned to Me a back and not a face; and in the time of their calamity they will say, 'Arise and save us!' 28 And where are your gods which you made for yourself? Let them arise, if they can save you in the time of your calamity; for your gods have been as many as the number of your cities, O Judah (Yehuda). 29 Why do you contend with Me? All of you have transgressed against Me," declares the LORD. 30 "In vain I have struck your sons; they did not accept correction. Your sword has devoured your prophets like a destroying lion. 31 O generation, you, see the word of the LORD! Have I been a wilderness to Israel, or a land of deep darkness? Why have My people said, 'We have roamed free; we will not come to You again'? 32 Will a virgin forget her ornaments, a bride her sashes? And My people have forgotten Me days without number. 33 How you make your way good to seek love! Therefore you have also taught the wicked women your ways. 34 Also on your skirts is found the blood of the souls of the innocent needy; you did not find them breaking in, but on all these things. 35 And you said, 'For I am innocent; surely His anger has turned back from me.' Look, I am entering into judgment with you because of your saying, 'I have not sinned.' 36 Why do you go about so much to change your way? Also by Egypt you will be ashamed, just as you were ashamed by Assyria. 37 Also from this one you will go out, and your hands will be on your head; for the LORD has rejected your objects of confidence, and you will not prosper by them."

2:18 to drink the waters of the Shihor Running back and forth between Egypt and Assyria (the River is the Euphrates) were more broken cisterns.
2:19 Your evil will discipline you Often God's judgment is simply letting sin bring its own results. We reap what we sow, and sin is always "evil and bitter" in the end.
2:20 you broke your yoke An ox that breaks its yoke runs free, but it is no longer useful or safe. "I will not transgress" is likely I will not serve.
2:20 playing the prostitute The first of many places where Jeremiah calls idolatry spiritual adultery. God's covenant with Israel was like a marriage, and turning to other gods was unfaithfulness to Him. The picture also fit the facts, since worship at the high places, the hilltop shrines, often included sexual rites. God uses strong words because He takes our faithfulness seriously.
2:21 I had planted you a choice vine Compare Isaiah 5:1-7. The good vine had turned wild.
2:22 though you wash with soda, and use much soap for yourself, your iniquity is stained before Me We cannot scrub away our own sin. Only God can, and He has, through the blood of Jesus Christ (1 John 1:7).
2:23 See your way in the valley Most likely the valley of Hinnom outside Jerusalem, where they worshiped idols (7:31). Judah denied going after the Baals, and God pointed to the place.
2:24 a wild donkey accustomed to the wilderness A young camel running every way and a wild donkey in season sniffing the wind: Judah's chase after false gods was restless, driven by desire and out of control.
2:25 It is hopeless! No, for I have loved strangers This is what sin does when we keep feeding it. We stop thinking we can change, and then we stop wanting to.
2:27 who say to the wood, 'You are my father,' and to the stone, 'You gave birth to us.' They gave the honor of Creator and Father to a carved pole and a standing stone. Many people treat God this way, ignoring Him when life is good and expecting Him to come running in trouble. God answers, Where are your gods? Let them save you (2:28).
2:30 Your sword has devoured your prophets like a destroying lion Manasseh filled Jerusalem with innocent blood (2 Kgs 21:16), and tradition says Isaiah was killed in his days. Jesus mourned over Jerusalem as the city that kills the prophets (Matt 23:37).
2:31 We have roamed free Had God ever been a wilderness to them? They wanted independence from Him all the same.
2:32 Will a virgin forget her ornaments, a bride her sashes One of the saddest lines in the book. No bride forgets her wedding dress, but God's people forgot Him for days beyond counting.
2:34 the blood of the souls of the innocent needy They had not caught these poor people breaking in, which could excuse killing a thief at night (Exod 22:2). These were innocent people crushed by the powerful.
2:35 I am entering into judgment with you because of your saying, 'I have not sinned.' The most dangerous place a person can be is denying his sin. If we say we have no sin we deceive ourselves, but if we confess, God is faithful to forgive (1 John 1:8-9).
2:37 your hands will be on your head A sign of grief and captivity (2 Sam 13:19). Anything we trust in place of God, He will one day take away.

Return, Faithless Israel

1 Saying, "Look, a man sends away his wife, and she goes from him and belongs to another man; will he return to her again? Will not that land be utterly polluted? And you, you have played the prostitute with many companions; and return to Me?" declares the LORD. 2 "Lift up your eyes to the bare heights and see: where have you not been lain with? By the roads you sat for them, like an Arab in the wilderness; and you have polluted the land with your prostitutions and with your evil. 3 And the showers have been withheld, and the spring rain has not come; and you have had the forehead of a prostitute woman; you refused to be ashamed. 4 Have you not just now called to Me, 'My father, You are the companion of my youth. 5 Will He keep anger forever? Will He watch it to perpetuity?' Look, you have spoken, and you have done the evil things, and you have been able." 6 And the LORD said to me in the days of Josiah (Yoshiyahu) the king, "Have you seen what apostate Israel (Yisra'el) has done? She has been going on every high hill and under every luxuriant tree, and she has played the prostitute there. 7 And I said, 'After she has done all these things, she will return to Me.' And she did not return. And her treacherous sister Judah (Yehuda) saw it. 8 And I saw that for all the causes for which apostate Israel committed adultery, I sent her away and gave her the document of her divorce; and treacherous Judah her sister was not afraid, and she went and played the prostitute, she also. 9 And it was, from the lightness of her prostitution, that she polluted the land, and she committed adultery with the stone and with the wood. 10 And also for all this her treacherous sister Judah did not return to Me with all her heart, but rather with falsehood," declares the LORD. 11 And the LORD said to me, "Apostate Israel has justified herself more than treacherous Judah. 12 Go, and you will proclaim these words toward the north, and you will say, 'Return, apostate Israel,' declares the LORD; 'I will not make My face fall on you, for I am loyal,' declares the LORD; 'I will not keep anger forever. 13 Only know your iniquity, that against the LORD your God you have transgressed, and you have scattered your ways to the strangers under every luxuriant tree, and to My voice you have not listened,' declares the LORD. 14 Return, O backsliding sons," declares the LORD, "for I, I have been husband over you; and I will take you, one from a city and two from a clan, and I will bring you to Zion (Tsiyon). 15 And I will give you shepherds according to My heart, and they will shepherd you with knowledge and insight. 16 And it will be, when you multiply and are fruitful in the land in those days," declares the LORD, "they will not say again, 'The ark of the covenant of the LORD,' and it will not come up on a heart, and they will not remember it, and

3:1 will he return to her again The Law said a man who divorced his wife could not take her back after she married another (Deut 24:1-4). That law kept marriage from becoming a revolving door. By that standard Judah, who had gone after many gods, had no way back. Yet the chapter shows God's grace going beyond what the Law allowed. That is the wonder of the gospel.
3:1 you have played the prostitute with many companions God is not teaching about human divorce here, or speaking about any woman's worth. He uses the closest human bond there is to show how deeply idolatry wounds Him. His love is like a faithful husband's love, and our turning to other gods is that personal.
3:2 Lift up your eyes to the bare heights and see The bare hilltops were the sites of the high places. She waited for her lovers "like an Arab in the wilderness," like a desert raider waiting by the road.
3:3 the showers have been withheld, and the spring rain has not come The Law warned that drought would follow idolatry (Deut 11:16-17). The Baals were supposed to bring rain, and they brought none. Still Judah had a face that would not blush.
3:4 My father, You are the companion of my youth The kind of repentance God rejects: pious words with no change of life. "You have spoken, and you have done the evil things." Many think this points to the days after Josiah's reform, when the temple was cleaned up but hearts stayed the same.
3:6 apostate Israel Apostate means one who has turned away from the faith. Israel here is the northern kingdom, the ten tribes that broke away after Solomon.
3:8 I sent her away and gave her the document of her divorce The exile of the northern kingdom to Assyria in 722 B.C. (2 Kgs 17:6-18). Judah watched it and learned nothing. It is far worse to sin after watching God judge the same sin in someone else.
3:10 did not return to Me with all her heart, but rather with falsehood Josiah's reform was real for Josiah. He tore down the high places and cleansed the temple (2 Kgs 23). For many of the people it was outward only. They went along with the king, and their hearts did not change.
3:11 Apostate Israel has justified herself more than treacherous Judah Israel was not innocent, but Judah had more light, more warnings and a godly king, and she faked her return. Pretended repentance is worse in God's eyes than open rebellion. Jesus said much the same of cities that saw His miracles and did not repent (Matt 11:20-24).
3:12 proclaim these words toward the north The northern tribes had been in exile about a hundred years, and God still called them home. "Loyal" comes from the same root as hesed. God keeps His covenant when His people do not.
3:13 Only know your iniquity Repentance begins with honesty. God does not ask us to fix ourselves before we come. He asks us to tell the truth about what we have done (1 John 1:9).
3:14 I have been husband over you The word can also mean master or owner. He still claims them. "One from a city and two from a clan" is a remnant, a faithful few, gathered one by one to Zion.
3:15 I will give you shepherds according to My heart The bad shepherds of 2:8 would be replaced. God gave some good leaders after the exile, like Zerubbabel, Ezra and Nehemiah, but the full meaning points to the Messiah, the Good Shepherd (23:4-6; John 10:11).
3:16 The ark of the covenant of the LORD The ark was the gold-covered chest holding the tablets of the Law, kept in the Most Holy Place as the throne of God's presence. A day is coming when no one will miss it, because all Jerusalem will be "The throne of the LORD." Scripture does not tell us what became of the ark. It was most likely destroyed or taken when Babylon burned the temple in 586 B.C.

they will not miss it, and it will not be made again. 17 At that time they will call Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) 'The throne of the LORD,' and all the nations will be gathered to it, to the name of the LORD, to Jerusalem; and they will not walk again after the stubbornness of their evil heart. 18 In those days the house of Judah will walk with the house of Israel, and they will come together from the land of the north to the land that I gave as an inheritance to your fathers.

A Call to Come Home

19 And I, I said, 'How I will set you among the sons and give you a land of desire, an inheritance of the beauty of the beauties of nations!' And I said, 'You will call Me, My father, and from after Me you will not turn back.' 20 Surely as a woman deals treacherously from her companion, so you have dealt treacherously with Me, O house of Israel," declares the LORD. 21 A voice on the bare heights is heard, the weeping of the supplications of the sons of Israel; for they have perverted their way, they have forgotten the LORD their God.

22 "Return, O backsliding sons; I will heal your apostasies."
"Look, we have come to You, for You are the LORD our God. 23 Truly, it is for falsehood, from the hills and the tumult on the mountains; truly in the LORD our God is the salvation of Israel. 24 And the shameful thing has consumed the toil of our fathers from our youth, their flock and their herd, their sons and their daughters. 25 Let us lie down in our shame, and let our disgrace cover us; for against the LORD our God we have sinned, we and our fathers, from our youth even until this day, and we have not listened to the voice of the LORD our God."

Circumcise Your Hearts

1 "If you return, O Israel (Yisra'el)," declares the LORD, "to Me you will return; and if you remove your detestable things from before Me, and you do not wander, 2 and you swear, 'As the LORD lives,' in truth, in justice, and in righteousness, then nations will bless themselves in Him, and in Him they will boast." 3 For thus says the LORD to the man of Judah (Yehuda) and to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim): "Break up for yourselves unplowed ground, and do not sow among thorns. 4 Circumcise yourselves to the LORD, and remove the foreskins of your heart, O man of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, lest My rage go forth like fire and burn, and there be no one who quenches it, because of the evil of your deeds."

Disaster From the North

5 Declare in Judah, and in Jerusalem make it heard, and say, "Blow a trumpet in the land"; call out, fill your voice, and say, "Gather yourselves, and let us go into the fortified cities." 6 Lift up a standard toward Zion (Tsiyon); take refuge, do not stand still; for I am bringing calamity from the north, and great destruction. 7 A lion has gone up from his thicket, and a destroyer of nations has set out; he has gone out from his place to make your land into a waste; your cities will be laid in ruins, without inhabitant. 8 For this gird yourselves with sackcloth; mourn and wail; for the burning of the anger of the LORD has not turned back from us. 9 "And it will be in that day," declares the LORD, "that the heart of the king will perish, and the heart of the officials; and the priests will be

3:17 all the nations will be gathered to it This did not happen in the return from Babylon. The ten tribes were not gathered as a nation, and the nations did not stream to Jerusalem with changed hearts. I believe this points to the thousand-year reign of Jesus Christ from Jerusalem (Isa 2:2-4; Zech 14:16). Some read it as fulfilled spiritually in the church, but the details are about Jerusalem, Judah, Israel and the land, and I take it as God's promise to Israel that He will keep.
3:18 the house of Judah will walk with the house of Israel The divided kingdom will be one again in its land (Ezek 37:15-28).
3:19 You will call Me, My father God tells what He had longed to do: treat Israel as a beloved child and give her the most beautiful land among the nations.
3:20 so you have dealt treacherously with Me God's heart is open here. This is not a cold judge reading charges but a Father and Husband who has been betrayed.
3:22 Return, O backsliding sons; I will heal your apostasies God answers their weeping at once. He does more than forgive. He heals the sickness that made them wander.
3:24 the shameful thing A name for Baal. Idolatry ate up everything their fathers worked for, even their children.
3:25 against the LORD our God we have sinned, we and our fathers This is what real repentance sounds like, the opposite of verses 4-5 and 10. It blames no one else, admits a long history, and names the root: "we have not listened." God gave His people the words to say. When we come to Him honestly, He always receives us (Luke 15:20-24).

4:1 If you return, O Israel Real repentance is not just turning away from something. It is turning back to Someone. They were to put away their "detestable things," the idols, and stop wandering.
4:2 then nations will bless themselves in Him To swear "As the LORD lives" in truth was to confess Him as the true God. Then the promise to Abraham would come to life, that all nations would be blessed through his seed (Gen 12:3; 22:18). When God's people walk with Him, others see Him. When they do not, His name is dragged through the mud (Rom 2:24).
4:3 Break up for yourselves unplowed ground Hard ground gone wild will not take seed, and seed among thorns is choked. Judah's heart had to be broken up before God's word could take root (Hos 10:12). Jesus told a parable of seed on hard ground and among thorns (Matt 13:3-9).
4:4 remove the foreskins of your heart Circumcision was the sign of God's covenant with Abraham (Gen 17:10-11). God always wanted more than the outward sign. He wanted a heart cut free from sin and given to Him (Deut 10:16; 30:6). Real circumcision is of the heart, by the Spirit (Rom 2:28-29). His "rage" is not a temper tantrum but holy anger against evil.
4:5 Blow a trumpet in the land Jeremiah speaks like a watchman on the wall. When an army came, country people ran for the walled towns. A "standard" (4:6) was a flag on a pole showing where to run.
4:7 a destroyer of nations has set out Not named yet, but this is Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon.
4:8 gird yourselves with sackcloth Rough goat-hair cloth worn in mourning. Notice "from us." Jeremiah does not stand apart from his people. He grieves with them.

appalled, and the prophets will be astounded." 10 And I said, "Alas, Lord GOD! Truly You have utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, 'Peace will be yours,' and a sword has reached to the soul." 11 At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, "A scorching wind of the bare heights in the wilderness is on the way of the daughter of My people, not to winnow and not to cleanse, 12 a wind too full for these things will come for Me; now I also, I will speak judgments with them." 13 Look, like clouds he goes up, and like the storm wind are his chariots; his horses are swifter than eagles. Woe to us, for we are devastated! 14 Wash your heart from evil, O Jerusalem, so that you may be saved. Until when will your thoughts of wickedness lodge in your inner being? 15 For a voice declares from Dan, and proclaims trouble from the hill country of Ephraim (Efrayim). 16 Make it known to the nations, look; proclaim against Jerusalem, "Besiegers are coming from the land of the distance, and they have given their voice against the cities of Judah. 17 Like guards of a field they are against her all around, for she has rebelled against Me," declares the LORD. 18 Your way and your deeds have done these things to you. This is your evil, for it is bitter, for it has reached to your heart.

Jeremiah's Anguish

19 My inward parts, my inward parts! I writhe! The walls of my heart! My heart is in turmoil within me; I cannot keep silent; for you have heard the sound of a trumpet, O my soul, the shout of battle. 20 Destruction on destruction is proclaimed, for all the land is devastated; suddenly my tents are devastated, in a moment my curtains. 21 Until when will I see a standard, and hear the sound of a trumpet? 22 "For My people is foolish; they do not know Me; they are foolish sons, and they are not understanding; they are wise to do evil, and to do good they do not know." 23 I looked at the earth, and look, it was formlessness and emptiness; and to the heavens, and their light was not. 24 I looked at the mountains, and look, they were quaking, and all the hills shook to and fro. 25 I looked, and look, there was no man, and all the birds of the heavens had fled. 26 I looked, and look, the fruitful field was the wilderness, and all its cities were pulled down from before the LORD, from before the burning of His anger. 27 For thus says the LORD: "All the land will be a desolation, and I will not make a complete end. 28 For this the land will mourn, and the heavens above will be dark, because I have spoken, I have purposed, and I have not relented, and I will not turn back from it." 29 From the sound of the horseman and the archer every city is fleeing; they have gone into the thickets, and they have gone up on the rocks; every city is abandoned, and there is not a man dwelling in them. 30 And you, O devastated one, what will you do? Though you clothe yourself in scarlet, though you adorn yourself with ornaments of gold, though you tear open your eyes with paint, in vain you make yourself beautiful; lovers reject you; they seek your life. 31 For I have heard a sound like a sick woman, distress like one bearing her first child, the sound of the daugh-

4:10 Truly You have utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem One of the hardest lines in the book. The false prophets had been saying, "Peace will be yours." God had told the truth for years through Jeremiah, but He let the false prophets speak and let the people believe what they wanted to hear, as a judgment on those who refuse the truth (1 Kgs 22:19-23; 2 Thess 2:10-12). God does not lie (Num 23:19; Titus 1:2). Jeremiah takes his anguish to God, which is the right place for our confusion. Some read the verse as a question or as Jeremiah's mistaken complaint.
4:11 not to winnow and not to cleanse Farmers used a gentle breeze to blow chaff from grain. This would be a hot desert wind, too strong for that work, sent to judge.
4:13 his horses are swifter than eagles Babylon's army would roll in like a storm. Habakkuk, living at the same time, describes their horses the same way (Hab 1:8).
4:14 Wash your heart from evil, O Jerusalem, so that you may be saved Even with the enemy on the move, it was not too late. Evil thoughts were like guests that had moved in and would not leave. Repentance throws them out.
4:15 a voice declares from Dan Dan was the far northern edge of the land, then Ephraim closer still, like messengers running from town to town ahead of the enemy.
4:17 Like guards of a field Men camped around a field to protect a crop. These "guards" were there to keep the people in.
4:18 Your way and your deeds have done these things to you Not bad luck or politics, but the harvest of sin.
4:19 My inward parts, my inward parts! I writhe! Jeremiah doubles over in pain. This is why he is called the weeping prophet. He did not stand above his people pointing a finger. He stood with them and broke inside. That is the heart every pastor and Christian should have toward a world under judgment. Jesus had it when He wept over Jerusalem (Luke 19:41-44).
4:22 they are wise to do evil, and to do good they do not know Clever in sin and clueless about righteousness. Paul wanted the opposite for believers (Rom 16:19).
4:23 it was formlessness and emptiness The same two Hebrew words as Genesis 1:2, tohu and bohu. Four times Jeremiah says "I looked," and he sees creation run backward: no light, quaking mountains, no man, no birds, the fruitful field a wilderness. This is poetry describing Judah after Babylon came. When God's people reject their Creator, everything good He made begins to come apart.
4:23 I looked at the earth Some have used this verse for a gap of long ages between Genesis 1:1 and 1:2. I do not think Jeremiah is speaking of that. The context is the invasion of Judah and "the burning of His anger" (4:26). Others see the words also looking ahead to the day of the LORD, when heaven is darkened and earth shaken (Isa 13:10; Matt 24:29). The words fit that day, but the first meaning is the coming ruin of Judah.
4:27 I will not make a complete end A ray of light. Even in His anger God keeps a remnant, because His promises to Abraham and David cannot fail (5:10, 18; 30:11; 46:28).
4:28 I have spoken, I have purposed, and I have not relented There comes a point when warnings have been rejected so long that judgment is fixed. Judah was close to it.
4:30 in vain you make yourself beautiful Jerusalem is pictured trying to save herself with scarlet, gold and eye paint, as cities tried to win invaders or allies with gifts and charm. The nations she flirted with would turn on her.
4:31 the sound of the daughter of Zion gasping for breath "Daughter of Zion" is a tender name for Jerusalem. The chapter ends with the cry of a woman in labor. Sin always promises beauty and ends in pain.

ter of Zion gasping for breath; she spreads out her hands: "Woe to me now, for my soul faints before murderers!"

JEREMIAH 5

Not One Who Does Justice

1 Rove about in the streets of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and see, please, and know, and search in its open places, if you can find a man, if there is one who does justice, who seeks faithfulness, and I will forgive it. 2 And though they say, "As the LORD lives," therefore they swear to falsehood. 3 O LORD, are not Your eyes on faithfulness? You struck them, and they did not writhe; You brought them to an end; they refused to accept correction; they made their faces stronger than rock; they refused to return. 4 And I, I said, "Surely these are poor; they have acted foolishly, for they do not know the way of the LORD, the judgment of their God. 5 I will go for myself to the great ones, and I will speak with them, for they, they know the way of the LORD, the judgment of their God." Surely they altogether had broken the yoke, had torn off the bonds. 6 Therefore a lion from the forest has struck them; a wolf of the desert plains will devastate them; a leopard is watching over their cities; everyone who goes out from them will be torn in pieces; for their transgressions are many, their apostasies are numerous. 7 "How, for this, can I forgive you? Your sons have forsaken Me and have sworn by those that are not gods. And I satisfied them, and they committed adultery, and to the house of a prostitute they thronged. 8 They have been well-fed horses, lustful; each one neighs to the wife of his neighbor. 9 Will I not punish for these things?" declares the LORD. "Or on a nation which is like this, will My soul not avenge itself? 10 Go up among its vine rows and destroy, and do not make a complete end; remove its tendrils, for they are not the LORD's. 11 For the house of Israel (Yisra'el) and the house of Judah (Yehuda) have utterly dealt treacherously with Me," declares the LORD. 12 They have denied the LORD, and they have said, "Not He! And harm will not come on us, and sword and famine we will not see. 13 And the prophets will become wind, and the word is not in them. Thus let it be done to them." 14 Therefore thus says the LORD God of armies: "Because you have spoken this word, look, I am making My words in your mouth into a fire, and this people wood, and it will consume them. 15 Look, I am bringing on you a nation from afar, O house of Israel," declares the LORD. "It is an enduring nation; it is a nation from long ago, a nation whose language you do not know, and you do not hear what it says. 16 Its quiver is like an open grave; all of them are mighty men. 17 And it will devour your harvest and your food; they will devour your sons and your daughters; it will devour your flock and your herd; it will devour your vine and your fig tree; it will shatter the cities of your fortifications in which you are trusting, with the sword. 18 And also in those days," declares the LORD, "I will not make a complete end with you. 19 And it will be, when you say, 'Why has the LORD our God done all these things to us?' then you will say to them, 'Just as you forsook Me and served gods of foreignness in your land, so you will serve strangers in a land that is not yours.'

5:1 if you can find a man, if there is one who does justice God would have spared Sodom for ten righteous people (Gen 18:23-32). Here He offers to spare Jerusalem for one. That shows how ready God is to forgive and how deep the rot had gone. Jeremiah and a few others, like Baruch and Ebed-melech, were faithful, so the search is about the city's public life and its people at large.
5:2 they swear to falsehood They used God's name in their most solemn promises, and the promises were lies. Religious on the outside, dishonest at the core.
5:3 You struck them, and they did not writhe God disciplined them, and they felt nothing. They set their faces like rock. God disciplines those He loves, for our good (Heb 12:5-11). The right response is to be trained by it, not to harden ourselves.
5:5 I will go for myself to the great ones Maybe the poor had never been taught. But the leaders, who knew the most, had thrown off God's yoke just as completely. Knowledge without obedience is worse than ignorance, because it is willful (James 4:17).
5:6 a lion from the forest Lion, wolf and leopard picture the enemy armies waiting to tear apart anyone who went out.
5:7 How, for this, can I forgive you Not that God was unable to forgive, but that they gave Him no ground, because they would not repent. He filled them with good things, and they used His gifts to sin. "The house of a prostitute" can mean both pagan shrines and real immorality.
5:8 They have been well-fed horses, lustful Prosperity had made them like animals in season, chasing other men's wives. When people forget God, sexual sin is never far behind (Rom 1:24-25).
5:9 Will I not punish for these things God asks it twice in this chapter (5:29). His justice requires it.
5:10 do not make a complete end; remove its tendrils, for they are not the LORD's God speaks to the invaders like workers in a vineyard. Prune the wild branches that do not belong to Him. The vine itself would survive.
5:12 They have denied the LORD, and they have said, "Not He!" They did not deny that God existed. They denied that He would act. That is a common kind of unbelief, even among religious people. Peter warned that mockers would say the same about Christ's return (2 Pet 3:3-4).
5:13 the prophets will become wind Wind is ruach, which also means spirit. They said Jeremiah was all hot air.
5:14 I am making My words in your mouth into a fire, and this people wood They called his words wind. God would make them fire. The words they mocked would come true and burn them up.
5:15 a nation whose language you do not know Moses warned of exactly this (Deut 28:49-52). Babylon was an old nation with roots going back to Babel (Gen 11:9), and its language, Akkadian, was strange to Judah. Paul applies a similar warning from Isaiah in 1 Corinthians 14:21.
5:16 Its quiver is like an open grave Every arrow meant a death. Four times the enemy will "devour" (5:17). Whatever we trust in place of God will fail us.
5:18 I will not make a complete end with you The third time God promises a remnant (4:27; 5:10). He is angry, but He is faithful.
5:19 so you will serve strangers in a land that is not yours The punishment fit the sin. They wanted foreign gods in God's land, so God would send them to serve foreigners in a foreign land.

A Stubborn and Rebellious Heart

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob (Ya'aqov), and proclaim it in Judah, saying, 21 'Hear this, please, O foolish people, and without heart; eyes they have, and they do not see; ears they have, and they do not hear. 22 Do you not fear Me?' declares the LORD. 'Or do you not tremble before Me, who appointed the sand as a boundary for the sea, a perpetual decree, and it will not pass over it? And they shook back and forth, and they will not prevail; and its waves roar, and they will not pass over it. 23 And this people has a stubborn and rebellious heart; they have turned aside and have gone away. 24 And they have not said in their heart, "Let us fear, please, the LORD our God, who gives rain, autumn rain and spring rain in its time, the weeks of the appointments of harvest He keeps for us." 25 Your iniquities have turned these aside, and your sins have withheld the good from you. 26 For wicked men are found among My people; he watches like the bending down of fowlers; they set a trap; they catch men. 27 Like a cage full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit; therefore they have become great and have grown rich. 28 They have grown fat; they have become sleek; also they have passed beyond matters of evil; they have not pleaded the cause, the cause of the fatherless, that they may prosper; and the justice of the needy they have not judged. 29 Will I not punish for these things?' declares the LORD. 'Or on a nation which is like this, will My soul not avenge itself? 30 An appalling and horrible thing has occurred in the land: 31 the prophets have prophesied with falsehood, and the priests rule by their hands, and My people have loved it so. And what will you do at its end?'"

Jerusalem Under Siege

1 Flee for refuge, O sons of Benjamin (Binyamin), from the midst of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and in Tekoa (Teqoa) blow a trumpet, and over Beth-haccherem (Bet-Hakerem) raise a signal; for calamity has looked down from the north, and great destruction. 2 The lovely and the dainty one, I have likened the daughter of Zion (Tsiyon). 3 To her shepherds and their flocks will come; they will pitch tents against her all around; they will graze, each one at his hand. 4 Consecrate battle against her; arise, and let us go up at noon. Woe to us, for the day has turned, for the shadows of evening are stretched out. 5 Arise, and let us go up in the night, and let us destroy her fortresses. 6 For thus says the LORD of armies: "Cut down trees, and pour out a siege mound against Jerusalem. She is the city to be punished; all of her is oppression in her midst. 7 As a well keeps its water fresh, so she keeps her evil fresh; violence and devastation are heard in her; before My face continually are sickness and wound. 8 Let yourself be disciplined, O Jerusalem, lest My soul be alienated from you, lest I make you a desolation, a land not inhabited." 9 Thus says the LORD of armies: "They will thoroughly glean the remnant of Israel (Yisra'el) like the vine; return your hand like a grape gatherer over the branches." 10 To whom will I speak and give warning, that

5:21 eyes they have, and they do not see This sounds like the idols of Psalm 115:5-6. They had become like what they worshiped. Jesus used similar words (Mark 8:18). "Without heart" means without understanding.
5:22 who appointed the sand as a boundary for the sea The waves roar but cannot cross the line God set (Job 38:8-11). The sea obeys its Creator. His people would not.
5:24 autumn rain and spring rain in its time Autumn rains in October and November softened the ground for planting. Spring rains in March and April brought the crops to harvest.
5:25 your sins have withheld the good from you When the rains failed, God had not become stingy. Their sins had blocked the blessing. Sin always costs us good things God wanted to give.
5:27 Like a cage full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit The rich caught men like fowlers catch birds and filled their houses with what they took.
5:28 the cause of the fatherless They looked successful, but orphans and the poor had no one to stand up for them. God has always cared how we treat the weak (Exod 22:22-24; Deut 10:18; James 1:27). A nation can be wealthy and religious and still be under judgment because it crushes the poor.
5:31 and My people have loved it so False prophets, self-serving priests, and the worst part: the people liked it. The lies were comfortable. Paul warned of people gathering teachers to tell them what their itching ears want (2 Tim 4:3-4).
5:31 And what will you do at its end When the comfortable lies fall apart, what then? The only safe place to stand at the end is on the truth of God's Word and the work of Christ.
6:1 Flee for refuge, O sons of Benjamin, from the midst of Jerusalem Jeremiah was a Benjamite, and Jerusalem sat on the border of Benjamin and Judah. People usually fled into Jerusalem when an enemy came. Now they are told to flee out of it. The city that seemed safest would be the most dangerous place to be.
6:1 in Tekoa blow a trumpet Tekoa, the hometown of Amos, lay about ten miles south of Jerusalem, and its name sounds like the Hebrew for blowing a trumpet. Beth-haccherem was a nearby hilltop for signal fires. The warning went south because the danger came from the north.
6:3 To her shepherds and their flocks will come Enemy kings and their armies, camping around Jerusalem and grazing her bare.
6:4 Consecrate battle against her Ancient armies offered sacrifices before battle. Armies usually rested at midday, but these were so eager they would attack at noon, and when evening came, they would attack by night. Babylon would be relentless.
6:6 pour out a siege mound against Jerusalem A ramp of dirt and timber built against the wall so soldiers and battering rams could reach the top. Here we learn who is giving the orders. God Himself stands behind Babylon's army.
6:7 As a well keeps its water fresh, so she keeps her evil fresh As a spring keeps pouring out new water, Jerusalem kept pouring out new evil, day after day.
6:8 Let yourself be disciplined, O Jerusalem, lest My soul be alienated from you Even now God pleads. His heart was still reaching for her.
6:9 They will thoroughly glean the remnant of Israel like the vine Gleaners went back over a vineyard for what pickers had left. The north was already gone. Now Judah, the remnant, would be picked clean.
6:10 their ear is uncircumcised Like their hearts (4:4), their ears were closed to God's word. Worse, it had "become a reproach to them." They mocked it. The man of Psalm 1:2 delights in God's law. What we delight in shows where our heart is.

they may listen? Look, their ear is uncircumcised, and they are not able to pay attention. Look, the word of the LORD has become a reproach to them; they do not delight in it. 11 And I am full of the rage of the LORD; I am weary of holding it in. "Pour it out on the child in the street, and on the gathering of young men together; for also a husband with a wife will be caught, the old with the one full of days. 12 And their houses will be turned over to others, fields and wives together; for I will stretch out My hand against the inhabitants of the land," declares the LORD. 13 "For from their least even to their greatest, every one is gaining unjust gain; and from prophet even to priest, every one is doing falsehood. 14 And they have healed the fracture of My people lightly, saying, 'Peace, peace,' and there is no peace. 15 Were they ashamed because they had done an abomination? They are not at all ashamed, and they do not know how to blush. Therefore they will fall among those who fall; at the time I punish them they will stumble," says the LORD.

The Ancient Paths

16 Thus says the LORD: "Stand by the roads and look, and ask for the paths of ancient time, where this is, the good way, and walk in it, and find rest for your soul." And they said, "We will not walk in it." 17 "And I raised up watchmen over you: 'Pay attention to the sound of the trumpet.'" And they said, "We will not pay attention." 18 "Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O congregation, what is in them. 19 Hear, O earth: look, I am bringing calamity on this people, the fruit of their schemes; for they have not paid attention to My words, and My law, they have rejected it. 20 Why is this to Me, frankincense that comes from Sheba (Sheva), and the good cane from a land of distance? Your burnt offerings are not for acceptance, and your sacrifices are not pleasing to Me." 21 Therefore thus says the LORD: "Look, I am giving stumbling blocks to this people, and they will stumble over them, fathers and sons together; a neighbor and his friend, and they will perish." 22 Thus says the LORD: "Look, a people is coming from the land of the north, and a great nation will be roused from the remotest parts of the earth. 23 They take hold of bow and javelin; it is cruel, and they have no mercy; their voice roars like the sea, and on horses they ride, arranged like a man for battle against you, O daughter of Zion." 24 We have heard the report of it; our hands hang limp; distress has taken hold of us, anguish like a woman giving birth. 25 Do not go out into the field, and do not walk on the road, for the enemy has a sword; terror is all around. 26 O daughter of my people, gird yourself with sackcloth and roll in ashes; make for yourself the mourning of an only child, a wailing of bitterness; for suddenly the destroyer will come on us. 27 "I have made you an assayer among My people, a fortification, that you may know, and you will test their way. 28 All of them are the most stubborn of rebels, going about with slander; bronze and iron, all of them are destroyers. 29 The bellows puff; from the fire the lead is consumed; in vain someone has refined thoroughly, and the evil ones have not been separated. 30 They have called them rejected silver, for the LORD has rejected them."

6:11 Pour it out on the child in the street Jeremiah could not hold God's message in any longer (20:9). No age would escape. This is painful to read. When judgment comes on a nation, the innocent suffer with the guilty, and that is one reason sin is so terrible: its effects spread to everyone around it.
6:12 their houses will be turned over to others One of the covenant curses Moses warned about (Deut 28:30).
6:14 they have healed the fracture of My people lightly, saying, 'Peace, peace,' and there is no peace Like a doctor who puts a small bandage on a broken leg and says the patient is fine. That kind of preaching feels kind but is cruel, because it keeps people from real help. Any message that tells people they are fine without dealing with their sin is a light healing. The gospel begins with the bad news so that the good news of Christ can really heal.
6:15 they do not know how to blush When a person or a nation can no longer blush at sin, it is in grave danger.
6:16 ask for the paths of ancient time, where this is, the good way A traveler at a crossroads is told to stop, look and ask. The ancient paths are not just old traditions but the covenant way of trust and obedience that Abraham, Moses and David walked. Jesus used the same words when He promised rest for our souls to all who come to Him (Matt 11:28-29). The good way leads to Christ.
6:17 We will not pay attention Two invitations and two refusals. They were not confused about what God wanted. They knew, and they said no. The watchmen were prophets like Jeremiah.
6:19 the fruit of their schemes Their own plans had planted this harvest.
6:20 frankincense that comes from Sheba, and the good cane from a land of distance Frankincense was costly incense from southern Arabia, and the fragrant cane went into the holy anointing oil (Exod 30:23). They spared no cost on worship, but God did not want gifts without obedience (1 Sam 15:22). Church attendance, giving and worship songs mean nothing to Him if we reject His Word in daily life.
6:23 it is cruel, and they have no mercy Babylon's army, roaring like the sea.
6:25 terror is all around Jeremiah used the phrase so often it became a nickname for him (20:3, 10).
6:26 the mourning of an only child The deepest grief in that culture, because with an only child the family line ended.
6:27 I have made you an assayer among My people An assayer tested ore to see how much silver was in it. Jeremiah's preaching showed what the people were made of: bronze and iron, base metals.
6:29 The bellows puff; from the fire the lead is consumed Silver was refined by heating ore with lead, which carried off the impurities. The fire burned all the lead away, and still no silver came out. All God's warnings had produced nothing.
6:30 They have called them rejected silver The word for rejected sounds like the word for silver. God refines His people so their faith comes out pure (1 Pet 1:7; Mal 3:3). When people refuse the fire, there is nothing left but rejection.

LORD, saying, 2 "Stand in the gate of the house of the LORD, and you will proclaim there this word, and you will say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah (Yehuda), who come in through these gates to bow down to the LORD. 3 Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): Make your ways and your deeds good, and I will cause you to dwell in this place. 4 Do not trust for yourselves in the words of falsehood, saying, "The temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD are these." 5 For if you thoroughly make your ways and your deeds good, if you thoroughly do justice between a man and his neighbor, 6 if you do not oppress the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow, and do not shed innocent blood in this place, and do not walk after other gods to your harm, 7 then I will cause you to dwell in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers, from long ago and until forever. 8 Look, you are trusting for yourselves in the words of falsehood, to no profit. 9 Will you steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear to falsehood, and burn incense to Baal, and walk after other gods whom you have not known, 10 and come and stand before Me in this house, on which My name is called, and say, "We are delivered," so as to do all these abominations? 11 Has this house, on which My name is called, become a den of robbers in your eyes? Also I, look, I have seen it,' declares the LORD. 12 'For go, please, to My place which was in Shiloh (Shilo), where I caused My name to dwell at the first, and see what I did to it because of the evil of My people Israel. 13 And now, because you have done all these deeds,' declares the LORD, 'and I spoke to you, rising early and speaking, and you did not listen, and I called you, and you did not answer, 14 then I will do to the house on which My name is called, in which you are trusting, and to the place which I gave to you and to your fathers, just as I did to Shiloh. 15 And I will cast you out from before My face, just as I cast out all your brothers, all the offspring of Ephraim (Efrayim).'"

Do Not Pray for This People

16 "And you, do not pray for this people, and do not lift up for them a cry and a prayer, and do not entreat Me, for I am not hearing you. 17 Are you not seeing what they are doing in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim)? 18 The sons are gathering wood, and the fathers are kindling the fire, and the women are kneading dough, to make cakes for the queen of the heavens; and they are pouring out drink offerings to other gods, so as to provoke Me to anger. 19 Are they provoking Me?" declares the LORD. "Is it not themselves, for the shame of their faces? 20 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Look, My anger and My rage are about to be poured out on this place, on mankind and on the animals, and on the trees of the field, and on the fruit of the ground; and it will burn and not be quenched.' 21 Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat

7:2 Stand in the gate of the house of the LORD On feast days thousands streamed through the temple gates, and Jeremiah was to speak right where they entered. Chapter 26 tells of this same sermon, given "in the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim" (26:1), about 609 B.C. The priests and prophets demanded his death for it (26:8-11).
7:3 Make your ways and your deeds good, and I will cause you to dwell in this place God's promise of the land was tied to how they lived (Deut 4:40).
7:4 The temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD are these A slogan, almost a magic charm. About a hundred years earlier God had saved Jerusalem from Assyria in one night (2 Kgs 19:35), and many came to believe He would never let His city or temple fall, no matter what. A building cannot protect people who will not obey the God who lives there. A person can point to his church, his baptism or his believing family and feel safe while his life shows no faith at all. What saves is a living trust in God that changes how we live (James 2:17).
7:6 the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow The foreigner, the orphan and the widow had no one to stand up for them in court (Deut 10:18). Justice for the weak and faithfulness to God go side by side (Matt 22:37-40).
7:9 Will you steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear to falsehood A walk through the Ten Commandments (Exod 20:3-16). They broke them all week and then went to the temple and said, "We are delivered."
7:11 Has this house, on which My name is called, become a den of robbers in your eyes A den was the cave where robbers hid between raids. Judah robbed and murdered in the city and ran to the temple as a hideout. Six hundred years later Jesus drove the merchants from the temple and joined Isaiah 56:7 with this verse (Matt 21:13). The same sin came back, and the same end followed: Jeremiah's temple was burned, and the temple of Jesus' day was destroyed in A.D. 70.
7:12 go, please, to My place which was in Shiloh Shiloh, about twenty miles north of Jerusalem, held the tabernacle in the days of the judges (Josh 18:1; 1 Sam 1:3). In Eli's day Israel carried the ark into battle like a lucky charm and lost it (1 Sam 4), and God abandoned Shiloh (Ps 78:60). It was a ruin they could walk to in a day.
7:13 rising early and speaking A picture of how eager and constant God was in warning them. He kept sending word (7:25).
7:15 all the offspring of Ephraim Ephraim was the leading tribe of the northern kingdom, taken into exile by Assyria in 722 B.C.
7:16 do not pray for this people One of the hardest verses in Jeremiah, and God says it three times (11:14; 14:11). God would not need to say it if Jeremiah had not been praying. It was a word to a prophet about a generation whose judgment was fixed (15:1). It did not end God's care for individuals. Jeremiah kept praying (14:7-9), and God spared those who listened, like Ebed-melech (39:15-18) and Baruch (45:5). We do not know such things about anyone, so we pray for all people (1 Tim 2:1), even enemies (Matt 5:44), as Jesus prayed for those who crucified Him (Luke 23:34). If you have prayed for someone for years, keep going.
7:18 to make cakes for the queen of the heavens A whole-family project. The queen of heaven was most likely the Babylonian goddess Ishtar, called Astarte in Canaan, a goddess of love and fertility tied to the planet Venus. Some suggest another goddess such as Asherah or Anat. Chapter 44 tells more.
7:19 Is it not themselves, for the shame of their faces Their sin grieved God, but in the end they hurt themselves most. Sin always comes back on the sinner.
7:21 Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat flesh The burnt offering was wholly burned for God. With bitter irony God says, eat that too. It means nothing to Me.

flesh. 22 For I did not speak with your fathers, and I did not command them in the day that I brought them out from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), concerning matters of burnt offering and sacrifice. 23 But this thing I commanded them, saying, "Listen to My voice, and I will be God to you, and you, you will be a people to Me; and you will walk in all the way that I command you, so that it may go well for you." 24 And they did not listen, and they did not incline their ear, and they walked in counsels, in the stubbornness of their evil heart, and they went backward and not forward. 25 From the day that your fathers came out from the land of Egypt until this day, and I sent to you all My servants the prophets, day by day rising early and sending. 26 And they did not listen to Me, and they did not incline their ear, and they stiffened their neck; they did evil more than their fathers. 27 And you will speak all these words to them, and they will not listen to you; and you will call to them, and they will not answer you. 28 And you will say to them, "This is the nation that did not listen to the voice of the LORD its God, and did not accept correction; faithfulness has perished, and it has been cut off from their mouth." 29 Cut off your hair and throw it away, and take up a lamentation on the bare heights; for the LORD has rejected and has abandoned the generation of His fury.

The Valley of Slaughter

30 For the sons of Judah have done the evil in My eyes,' declares the LORD. 'They have put their detestable things in the house on which My name is called, to make it unclean. 31 And they have built the high places of the Topheth (Tofet), which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom (Hinom), to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, which I did not command, and it did not come up on My heart.

32 Therefore look, days are coming,' declares the LORD, 'and it will no longer be said, "The Topheth," and "The valley of the son of Hinnom," but rather "The valley of the slaughter"; and they will bury in Topheth for lack of room. 33 And the corpses of this people will become food for the birds of the heavens and for the animals of the earth, and there will be no one who terrifies them. 34 And I will cause to cease from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem the sound of joy and the sound of gladness, the sound of the bridegroom and the sound of the bride; for the land will become a desolation.'"

1 "At that time," declares the LORD, "they will bring out the bones of the kings of Judah (Yehuda), and the bones of its officials, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), from their graves. 2 And they will spread them out to the sun and to the moon and to all the host of the heavens, which they loved, and which they served, and which they walked after, and which they sought, and which they bowed down to. They will not be gathered, and they will not be buried; they will become dung on the face of the ground. 3 And death will be chosen rather than life by all the remnant who remain of this evil clan, in all the places that remain, where I have banished them," declares the LORD of armies.

7:22 I did not command them in the day that I brought them out from the land of Egypt, concerning matters of burnt offering and sacrifice God did give laws on sacrifice. But Hebrew often says not this but that when it means not mainly this but that. At Sinai God's first word was about obedience (Exod 19:5), and the sacrifices came as part of a life of listening to Him. Obedience was always the heart of the covenant (Hos 6:6; Matt 9:13).
7:26 they stiffened their neck Like an ox that will not bend to the yoke.
7:27 they will not listen to you God told Jeremiah ahead of time. Faithfulness, not success, is what God asks of His servants (1 Cor 4:2).
7:28 faithfulness has perished The word also means truth. It had disappeared from their mouths.
7:29 Cut off your hair and throw it away A sign of mourning (Job 1:20), on the very hills of her idolatry.
7:30 They have put their detestable things in the house on which My name is called Manasseh had put idols in the temple (2 Kgs 21:4-7), and it seems to have come back after Josiah.
7:31 the high places of the Topheth, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire The valley of Hinnom ran along the south and west of Jerusalem, and Topheth was a place in it, perhaps a fire pit or altar. There people sacrificed their own children to Molech (32:35) and Baal (19:5). Ahaz and Manasseh did it with their own sons (2 Kgs 16:3; 21:6). Josiah defiled Topheth to stop it (2 Kgs 23:10), but it came back. The Law forbade it in the strongest terms (Lev 18:21; Deut 12:31). God loves children, and Jesus took them in His arms and blessed them (Mark 10:16).
7:31 which I did not command, and it did not come up on My heart Ge Hinnom became Gehenna, the word Jesus used for hell (Matt 5:22). If this touches a wound for you, God's anger here is against those who killed children and kept on doing it. For anyone who comes to Him in repentance there is full forgiveness in Christ (1 John 1:9). And I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
7:32 The valley of the slaughter So many would die in the siege that they would bury in Topheth. The place where they killed their children would become their own graveyard.
7:33 the corpses of this people will become food for the birds of the heavens To be left unburied was the deepest disgrace, one of the covenant curses (Deut 28:26).
7:34 the sound of the bridegroom and the sound of the bride No more weddings, no more laughter in the streets (16:9; 25:10). But in 33:10-11 God promises that the voice of the bridegroom and the bride will be heard in Jerusalem again.
8:1 they will bring out the bones of the kings of Judah Invading armies sometimes opened tombs to rob the treasure buried with the dead or to shame a conquered people.
8:2 to the sun and to the moon and to all the host of the heavens, which they loved, and which they served The host of heaven is the stars and planets. Five verbs show how fully Judah had worshiped the sky (2 Kgs 21:3-5; 23:5). Now their bones would lie before those same lights, and the lights would do nothing. Their gods could not even protect their graves.
8:3 death will be chosen rather than life Sin promises life and freedom. In the end it makes people wish they were dead.

A People Who Will Not Return

4 "And you will say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: Do they fall and not rise? Does one turn away and not return? 5 Why has this people, Jerusalem, turned away in an enduring apostasy?
They have kept hold of deceitfulness; they have refused to return. 6 I have paid attention, and I have heard; they do not speak what is right; there is no man who relents over his evil, saying, "What have I done?" Every one is turning in their course, like a horse rushing in the battle. 7 Even a stork in the heavens knows her appointed times; and turtledove and swift and crane keep the time of their coming; and My people do not know the judgment of the LORD. 8 How can you say,
"We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us"? Truly, look, the stylus of falsehood of the scribes has made it into falsehood. 9 The wise men are put to shame; they are dismayed, and they have been captured. Look, they have rejected the word of the LORD, and what wisdom do they have? 10 Therefore I will give their wives to others, their fields to those who dispossess, for from the small even to the great, every one is gaining unjust gain; from prophet even to priest, every one is doing falsehood. 11 And they have healed the fracture of the daughter of My people lightly, saying,
"Peace, peace," and there is no peace. 12 Were they ashamed because they had done an abomination? They are not at all ashamed, and they do not know how to blush. Therefore they will fall among those who fall; at the time of their punishment they will stumble,' says the LORD. 13 'Gathering, I will make an end of them,' declares the LORD. 'There will be no grapes on the vine, and no figs on the fig tree, and the leaf will wither; and what I gave them will pass away from them.'" 14 Why are we sitting? Gather yourselves, and let us go into the fortified cities, and let us perish there; for the LORD our God has silenced us, and has given us water of poison to drink, for we have sinned against the LORD. 15 We waited for peace, and there was no good; for a time of healing, and look, terror. 16 From Dan the snorting of his horses has been heard; at the sound of the neighings of his mighty ones all the land has shaken; and they have come and have consumed the land and what fills it, the city and those who dwell in it. 17 "For look, I am sending among you snakes, vipers, which have no charm, and they will bite you," declares the LORD.

Is There No Balm in Gilead?

18 My cheerfulness is upon sorrow; my heart is faint upon me. 19 Look, the sound of the cry for help of the daughter of my people from a land of distances: "Is the LORD not in Zion (Tsiyon)? Is her King not in her?" "Why have they provoked Me to anger with their idols, with vanities of foreignness?"
20 The harvest has passed, the summer has come to an end, and we, we have not been saved. 21 Over the fracture of the daughter of my people I am broken; I mourn; horror has taken hold of me. 22 Is there no balm in Gilead (Gilad)? Is 8:4 Do they fall and not rise? Does one turn away and not return Common sense. A man who trips gets up. A traveler who takes a wrong turn turns back. Judah fell and stayed down.

8:6 What have I done No one stopped to ask the simple question that begins repentance. They rushed into sin like a war horse charging into battle, head down, into danger.
8:7 Even a stork in the heavens knows her appointed times Israel lies on one of the world's great bird migration routes, and every spring and fall storks, doves, swifts and cranes pass over right on schedule. Birds follow their Maker's design by instinct. God's people, who had His written Word, ignored His. The ox knows its owner, but Israel did not know Him (Isa 1:3).
8:8 the stylus of falsehood of the scribes has made it into falsehood A stylus was a pen. Judah was proud of having the law, and Josiah's reform had brought the Book of the Law back to the center of national life (2 Kgs 22-23). But the scribes twisted it with false teaching. It is possible to own Bibles, study them and teach them, and still bend them to say what we want.
8:9 they have rejected the word of the LORD, and what wisdom do they have Wisdom begins with the fear of the LORD (Prov 9:10). If we reject His Word, all our learning is foolishness (1 Cor 1:20).
8:11 And they have healed the fracture of the daughter of My people lightly Verses 10-12 repeat 6:12-15 almost word for word. Some truths need to be said over and over. God's patience shows in the repetition, and so does Judah's hardness.
8:13 There will be no grapes on the vine, and no figs on the fig tree "Gathering" is the harvest word. God came looking for fruit and found leaves. Jesus cursed a fig tree with leaves and no fruit as a sign against a Jerusalem that looked religious and bore no fruit (Mark 11:12-14, 20-21). God looks for fruit, not just leaves (John 15:2).
8:14 for we have sinned against the LORD They admit their sin only when it is too late to escape. There is a sorrow that comes only from getting caught. Paul calls it "the grief of the world produces death" (2 Cor 7:10), as opposed to godly sorrow that leads to repentance.
8:15 We waited for peace, and there was no good They believed the false prophets, and the promised peace never came.
8:16 From Dan the snorting of his horses has been heard Dan was the northern border where invaders entered (4:15).
8:17 snakes, vipers, which have no charm Snake charmers could calm some snakes. These could not be charmed. Babylon could not be bought off or talked out of it, like the snakes God sent when Israel rebelled in the wilderness (Num 21:6).
8:18 My cheerfulness is upon sorrow The Hebrew is hard to translate, but the meaning is clear: Jeremiah is overwhelmed with grief.
8:19 Is the LORD not in Zion? Is her King not in her The exiles cannot understand how this happened. God answers with His own question. He had been in Zion, and they pushed Him out with their idols. The problem was never God's absence but their unfaithfulness.
8:20 The harvest has passed, the summer has come to an end, and we, we have not been saved Probably a common saying. Grain came in late spring and fruit at the end of summer. If both failed, there was nothing for the winter. Season after season passed with no rescue. There is a time to respond to God, and it does not last forever. Paul says, "now is a day of salvation" (2 Cor 6:2). Do not wait until the harvest is past.
8:21 Over the fracture of the daughter of my people I am broken Jeremiah takes his people's wound on himself.
8:22 Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there Gilead, east of the Jordan, was famous for balm, a healing ointment from tree resin (Gen 37:25). The cure was available, but the people would not come. The physician was the LORD Himself, who heals His people (Exod 15:26). The old spiritual answers the question: there is a balm in Gilead. For us the balm is Jesus Christ, the physician for the sick (Matt 9:12), by whose wounds we are healed (Isa 53:5; 1 Pet 2:24).

there no physician there? For why has the healing of the daughter of my people not come up?

Jeremiah Weeps for His People

1 Who will give that my head be water, and my eye a fountain of tears, that I may weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people! 2 Who will give me in the wilderness a lodging place of travelers, that I may leave my people and go from them! For all of them are adulterers, an assembly of treacherous men. 3 And they have bent their tongue, their bow of falsehood; and not for faithfulness are they strong in the land; for from evil to evil they have gone out, and Me they do not know, declares the LORD. 4 Take heed, each one, of his neighbor, and do not rely on any brother; for every brother surely supplants, and every neighbor goes about as a slanderer. 5 And each one deceives his neighbor, and they do not speak truth; they have taught their tongue to speak falsehood; they weary themselves committing iniquity.
6 Your dwelling is in the midst of deceit; through deceit they refuse to know Me, declares the LORD. 7 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies: "Look, I am refining them, and I will test them; for how will I act because of the daughter of My people? 8 Their tongue is a beaten arrow; it speaks deceit; with his mouth one speaks peace with his neighbor, and in his inner being he sets his ambush. 9 Will I not punish them for these things?" declares the LORD. "Or on a nation which is like this, will My soul not avenge itself?" 10 Over the mountains I will take up weeping and wailing, and over the pastures of the wilderness a lamentation, for they are burned up, without anyone passing through, and they do not hear the sound of livestock; from the birds of the heavens even to the animals, they have fled, they have gone. 11 "And I will make Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) into heaps of stones, a habitation of jackals; and the cities of Judah (Yehuda) I will make a desolation, without inhabitant." 12 Who is the wise man, that he may understand this? And who is he to whom the mouth of the LORD has spoken, that he may declare it? Why has the land perished, and been burned up like the wilderness, without anyone passing through? 13 And the LORD said, "Because they have forsaken My law which I set before them, and they have not listened to My voice, and they have not walked in it, 14 and they have walked after the stubbornness of their heart, and after the Baals, which their fathers taught them, 15 therefore thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): 'Look, I am feeding them, this people, wormwood, and I will give them water of poison to drink. 16 And I will scatter them among the nations which they have not known, they and their fathers; and I will send the sword after them until I have made an end of them.'" 17 Thus says the LORD of armies: "Consider, and summon the wailing women, that they may come; and send to the skillful women, that they may come; 18 and let them hasten, and let them take up a wailing over us, that our eyes may run down with tears, and our eyelids flow with water. 19 For a sound of wailing has been heard from Zion (Tsiyon): 'How we are devastated! We are exceedingly ashamed, for we have left the land, for they have cast down our dwellings.'" 20 For hear, O women, the word of the LORD, and let your ear receive the word of His mouth; and teach your daughters a mourning song, and each woman her neighbor a lamentation. 21 For death has come up into our windows; it has come into our fortresses, to cut off the child from the street, young men

9:21 Matt 2:18; Jer 6:11; Jer 15:7

9:1 Who will give that my head be water, and my eye a fountain of tears The reason Jeremiah is called the weeping prophet. Ordinary weeping was not enough for his grief. He preached judgment and wept over it, and those belong together. If we speak of God's judgment without tears, we have not understood it. Jesus wept over Jerusalem (Luke 19:41), and Paul had constant pain in his heart for his people (Rom 9:2-3).
9:2 Who will give me in the wilderness a lodging place of travelers A bare desert shelter for caravans. Jeremiah loved his people and was also worn out by them. Anyone who has loved someone caught in sin knows both feelings. God records both. We do not have to pretend with Him.
9:3 they have bent their tongue, their bow of falsehood The chapter focuses on one sin above all, lying. Their tongues were bows shooting lies like arrows.
9:4 every brother surely supplants The word behind the name Jacob, who cheated his brother (Gen 27:36). Every brother had become a Jacob.
9:5 they weary themselves committing iniquity They worked at sin until they were tired from it. When lying becomes normal, no one can trust anyone.
9:6 through deceit they refuse to know Me Lies and knowing God cannot live together, because God is truth (John 14:6).
9:7 I am refining them, and I will test them God as refiner again (6:27-30). What else could He do with a people like this?
9:8 Their tongue is a beaten arrow An arrow hammered to a deadly point. They said "peace" while setting an ambush (Ps 28:3).
9:9 Will I not punish them for these things The third time God asks it (5:9, 29). A holy God cannot ignore sin forever.
9:11 heaps of stones, a habitation of jackals Jackals live in ruins. The proud capital would become rubble where wild dogs howled. Lamentations 5:18 describes exactly this after the fall.
9:13 Because they have forsaken My law which I set before them God answers His own question. They had His Word and threw it away.
9:14 after the Baals, which their fathers taught them Sin was handed down from parents to children. What we teach our children matters for generations, for good or evil.
9:15 wormwood A very bitter plant. Moses used the same picture of the bitter fruit of idolatry (Deut 29:18), and warned that God would scatter them among the nations (Deut 28:64). God did exactly what He said.
9:16 until I have made an end of them Strong words, yet God had promised not to make a complete end (4:27; 5:18). The judgment would be thorough for that generation, but a remnant would remain.
9:17 summon the wailing women Families hired professional mourners who knew the songs of grief and led the weeping, a custom still seen in parts of the Middle East. A great funeral was coming, and it was Judah's own.
9:19 How we are devastated "How" is the word that opens Lamentations (Lam 1:1), the sound of a city going into exile.
9:21 death has come up into our windows Death pictured as a thief climbing in. Walls and locks could not keep it out. So many would die that every woman would need to learn the mourning songs (9:20).

from the open places. 22 Speak thus, declares the LORD: "And the corpses of mankind will fall like dung on the face of the field, and like cut grain behind the reaper, and there will be no one who gathers them."

Let Him Who Boasts Boast in This

23 Thus says the LORD: "Let not a wise man boast in his wisdom, and let not the mighty man boast in his might; let not a rich man boast in his riches; 24 but in this let him who boasts boast: in having insight and knowing Me, that I am the LORD who does steadfast love, justice, and righteousness on the earth; for in these I delight," declares the LORD. 25 "Look, days are coming," declares the LORD, "and I will punish every circumcised one in his foreskin: 26 on Egypt (Mitsrayim), and on Judah, and on Edom, and on the sons of Ammon (Amon), and on Moab (Mo'av), and on all who are cut at the corner, who dwell in the wilderness; for all the nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel are uncircumcised of heart."

JEREMIAH 10

The Idols and the Living God

1 Hear the word which the LORD has spoken to you, O house of Israel (Yisra'el). 2 Thus says the LORD: "Do not learn the way of the nations, and do not be dismayed at the signs of the heavens, for the nations are dismayed at them. 3 For the statutes of the peoples, it is vanity; for a tree from a forest someone has cut down, the work of the hands of a craftsman with an axe. 4 With silver and with gold he beautifies it; with nails and with hammers they fasten it, and it will not totter. 5 They are like a scarecrow of a cucumber field, and they do not speak; they must surely be carried, for they do not step. Do not be afraid of them, for they do no harm, and also doing good is not in them." 6 There is none like You, O LORD; You are great, and Your name is great in might. 7 Who would not fear You, O King of the nations? For to You it is fitting; for among all the wise of the nations and in all their kingdom there is none like You. 8 And in one they are stupid and foolish; the instruction of vanities, it is wood. 9 Beaten silver is brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz (Ufaz), the work of a craftsman and of the hands of a refiner; violet and purple are their clothing; the work of skilled ones are all of them. 10 And the LORD is the true God; He is a living God and an everlasting King. At His wrath the earth quakes, and nations will not endure His indignation. 11 Thus you shall say to them: "The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth and from under these heavens." 12 He is the Maker of the earth by His power, the Establisher of the world by His wisdom, and by His under-

9:22 like cut grain behind the reaper, and there will be no one who gathers them Bodies lying in rows like cut grain with no one to bury them. God gave this terrible picture so people would turn before it happened.

9:23 Let not a wise man boast in his wisdom, and let not the mighty man boast in his might; let not a rich man boast in his riches To boast is to find your worth and confidence in something. Judah had wisdom, might and riches, and all three were about to fail. Our world still says get smart, get strong, get rich, and you will be secure. God gives these things, but they make terrible gods. They cannot save us, and they can be taken in a day.

9:24 in having insight and knowing Me Not knowing about Him, but knowing Him, the way one knows a friend. Eternal life is to know the true God and Jesus Christ whom He sent (John 17:3). Paul counted all he once boasted in as loss compared to knowing Christ (Phil 3:7-8).

9:24 that I am the LORD who does steadfast love, justice, and righteousness on the earth; for in these I delight Hesed, justice and righteousness, and He does them "on the earth." He is not distant, and He loves to do these things. If we know Him, we will delight in them too, which is why knowing God and caring for the wronged go together (22:16). Paul quotes this verse (1 Cor 1:31; 2 Cor 10:17). Christ became for us wisdom from God, righteousness, holiness and redemption (1 Cor 1:30), so our boasting is in Him.

9:25 I will punish every circumcised one in his foreskin Those with the outward sign but not the inward reality. Several of these nations also practiced circumcision.

9:26 all who are cut at the corner Desert tribes who trimmed the hair at their temples as a religious custom, forbidden to Israel (Lev 19:27). Judah is listed among the pagan nations: the outward sign meant nothing without a heart given to God (4:4). Neither circumcision nor uncircumcision means anything, but a new creation (Gal 6:15).

10:2 Do not learn the way of the nations God's people were to be different (Rom 12:2).

10:2 do not be dismayed at the signs of the heavens The Babylonians were famous for astrology. They watched eclipses, comets and planets and believed these controlled the future. The stars are not gods. God made them and rules them (Gen 1:14-16). Many still read horoscopes and fear omens. The child of God has no reason to.

10:3 a tree from a forest someone has cut down Like Isaiah (Isa 44:9-20), Jeremiah describes an idol being made step by step, with quiet mockery in every line. A god is made from firewood and then nailed down so it will not tip over.

10:5 They are like a scarecrow of a cucumber field Sticks and rags that look like a man from far off. The true God carries His people (Isa 46:3-4). Idols have to be carried by theirs. An idol can neither hurt nor help. It is nothing (1 Cor 8:4), though demons stand behind idol worship (1 Cor 10:19-20). Its danger is what it does to the one who trusts it.

10:7 Who would not fear You, O King of the nations The idols belonged to the nations, but the LORD is King over them. Seeing how empty idols are should turn us to worship. Revelation 15:4 echoes this verse in the song of Moses and the Lamb.

10:9 Beaten silver is brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz Tarshish was a distant port, probably in Spain. Where Uphaz was is not known. Violet and purple were the costly royal dyes. The best materials and finest craftsmen still made a dead thing.

10:10 the LORD is the true God; He is a living God and an everlasting King Three titles that answer the idols. They are false, dead and rot away. He is true, living and everlasting. The idol cannot stand without nails. The LORD shakes the earth.

10:11 The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth shall perish This verse is in Aramaic, the common language of trade and government, which Babylonians could understand. God gave His people a message for their neighbors in their own language. Some critics call it a later insertion, but it reads as a planned word for the exiles. The test of a real God is whether He made heaven and earth. We too should be ready to give an answer (1 Pet 3:15) in words people understand.

10:12 He is the Maker of the earth by His power Power, wisdom and understanding all show in creation (Prov 3:19; Rom 1:20).

standing He stretched out the heavens. 13 At the sound of His giving forth, there is a roar of waters in the heavens; and He makes mists go up from the end of the earth; He makes lightnings for the rain, and He brings out wind from His storehouses. 14 Every man is stupid, without knowledge; every refiner has been put to shame by the carved image, for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them. 15 They are vanity, a work of mockeries; at the time of their punishment they will perish. 16 Not like these is the Portion of Jacob (Ya'aqov), for He is the Former of everything, and Israel is the tribe of His inheritance; the LORD of armies is His name.

A Prayer in the Coming Exile

17 Gather up your bundle from the land, O you who dwell in the siege. 18 For thus says the LORD: "Look, I am slinging out the inhabitants of the land at this time, and I will bring distress on them, so that they may find it." 19 Woe to me because of my fracture! My wound is severe. And I, I said, "Surely this is a sickness, and I will bear it." 20 My tent has been devastated, and all my tent cords have been snapped; my sons have gone out from me, and they are not; there is no one stretching out my tent again and raising my curtains. 21 For the shepherds have become stupid, and they have not sought the LORD; therefore they have not prospered, and all their flock has been scattered. 22 The sound of a report! Look, it is coming, and a great quaking from the land of the north, to make the cities of Judah (Yehuda) a desolation, a habitation of jackals. 23 I know, O LORD, that his way is not to mankind; it is not to a man who walks to direct his step. 24 Correct me, O LORD, only with justice, not in Your anger, lest You diminish me. 25 Pour out Your rage on the nations that have not known You, and on the clans that have not called on Your name; for they have eaten Jacob, and they have eaten him and have made an end of him, and his habitation they have made desolate.

The Broken Covenant

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD, saying, 2 "Hear the words of this covenant, and you shall speak them to the man of Judah (Yehuda) and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); 3 and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Cursed is the man who does not hear the words of this covenant, 4 which I commanded your fathers in the day I brought them out from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), from the iron furnace, saying, 'Listen to My voice, and you shall do them according to all that I command you; and you shall be to Me for a people, and I, I will be to you for God,' 5 so as to establish the oath which I swore to your fathers, to give to them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day."'" And I answered and said, "Amen, O LORD." 6 And the LORD said to me, "Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, 'Hear the words of this covenant, and you shall do them. 7 For I surely warned your fathers in the day I brought them up from the land of 10:13 He makes lightnings for the rain The Canaanites said Baal sent the storm. Jeremiah says the LORD does (Ps 135:7).

10:14 there is no breath in them The living God breathed life into man (Gen 2:7). The idol has no breath at all, and its maker will be ashamed of it.
10:16 Not like these is the Portion of Jacob A portion was a share of an inheritance. Israel's portion was God Himself (Ps 16:5; 73:26; Lam 3:24), and Israel is His inheritance. It goes both ways. Verses 12-16 appear again in 51:15-19, against Babylon. The God who made all things will judge the city of idols.
10:17 Gather up your bundle from the land The small sack a captive could carry into exile.
10:18 I am slinging out the inhabitants of the land Thrown out hard and far, like a stone from a sling.
10:20 My tent has been devastated, and all my tent cords have been snapped A family tent in a storm, the poles down, the children gone, and no one left to set it up again.
10:21 the shepherds have become stupid, and they have not sought the LORD The kings and leaders. When leaders do not seek God, the people they lead suffer. That is a heavy warning for anyone who leads a nation, a church or a home.
10:23 it is not to a man who walks to direct his step One of the humblest, wisest lines in the book. We make plans, but we cannot guide our own steps (Prov 16:9; 20:24). Judah tried, trusting Egypt, then Babylon, then idols, and it ended in ruin. A prayer worth praying every morning: Lord, I cannot run my own life. Lead me.
10:24 Correct me, O LORD, only with justice, not in Your anger Jeremiah does not ask God to skip the discipline. He asks that it be measured, as a father corrects a child. God disciplines us for our good (Heb 12:10) and does not deal with us as our sins deserve (Ps 103:10).
10:25 Pour out Your rage on the nations that have not known You Psalm 79:6-7 has almost the same words. Having asked God to correct Judah justly, Jeremiah asks Him to deal justly with the nations who devoured Jacob. God would judge Babylon too (25:12; chapters 50 and 51). Jeremiah leaves vengeance with God, as Scripture tells us to (Rom 12:19).
11:2 Hear the words of this covenant A covenant was a binding agreement with promises and conditions. God's covenant with Israel was made at Sinai and renewed by Moses in Deuteronomy. Many think "this covenant" points to the Book of the Law found in Josiah's eighteenth year, about 622 B.C., when he led the people in renewing it (2 Kgs 22:8-13; 23:1-3). Others see a general reminder of the Sinai covenant. Jeremiah may have gone from town to town pressing its words.
11:3 Cursed is the man who does not hear the words of this covenant Compare Deuteronomy 27:26 and 28:15. Paul quotes Deuteronomy 27:26 to show that all who rely on keeping the law are under a curse, since no one keeps it perfectly (Gal 3:10). That is why we need Christ, who "redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us" (Gal 3:13).
11:4 from the iron furnace Egypt was like a smelting furnace for Israel, a place of hard suffering (Deut 4:20). "You shall be to Me for a people, and I, I will be to you for God" is the heart of every covenant God made with His people (Exod 6:7; 31:33; Rev 21:3).
11:5 Amen, O LORD Amen means so be it, it is true. Jeremiah agreed with God's covenant, curses included. The land was a gift that came from God's oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.
11:6 Hear the words of this covenant, and you shall do them Hearing was not enough. The covenant had to be done (James 1:22).

Egypt, and until this day, rising early and warning, saying, "Listen to My voice." 8 And they did not listen, and they did not incline their ear, and they walked, each one, in the stubbornness of their evil heart; and I brought on them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, and they did not do them.'" 9 And the LORD said to me, "A conspiracy has been found among the man of Judah and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10 They have returned to the iniquities of their former fathers, who refused to hear My words; and they, they have walked after other gods to serve them. The house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken My covenant which I made with their fathers. 11 Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am bringing calamity to them which they will not be able to go out from; and they will cry out to Me, and I will not listen to them. 12 And the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go, and they will cry out to the gods to whom they are burning incense, and they will surely not save them in the time of their calamity. 13 For as many as the number of your cities your gods have been, O Judah; and as many as the number of the streets of Jerusalem you have set up altars to the shameful thing, altars to burn incense to Baal.' 14 And you, do not pray for this people, and do not lift up for them a cry and a prayer; for I will not be listening in the time of their calling to Me on account of their calamity. 15 What is there for My beloved in My house, her doing the scheme with the many? And the flesh of holiness will pass away from you; for your evil, then you exult. 16 'A luxuriant olive tree, beautiful of fruit and form,' the LORD called your name. At the sound of a great tumult He has kindled a fire on it, and its branches are broken. 17 And the LORD of armies, who planted you, has spoken calamity against you, on account of the evil of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have done for themselves, to provoke Me to anger by burning incense to Baal."

The Plot at Anathoth

18 And the LORD made it known to me, and I knew it; then You showed me their deeds. 19 And I was like a docile lamb that is led to slaughter; and I did not know that against me they had planned plans: "Let us destroy the tree with its bread, and let us cut him off from the land of the living, and let his name not be remembered again." 20 And O LORD of armies, who judges righteousness, who tests the kidneys and the heart, let me see Your vengeance on them, for to You I have revealed my case. 21 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the men of Anathoth (Anatot) who are seeking your life, saying, "You shall not prophesy in the name of the LORD, and you will not die by our hand." 22 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies: "Look, I am punishing them; the young men will die by the sword; their sons and their daughters will die by famine; 23 and a remnant will not belong to them, for I will bring calamity to the men of Anathoth, the year of their punishment."

11:23 Jer 23:12; Hos 9:7; Mic 7:4

11:8 I brought on them all the words of this covenant The curses He had warned about. God's covenant has blessings and curses, and He keeps both.
11:9 A conspiracy has been found As if the whole nation had quietly agreed to turn against God. Josiah's reform had been on the surface, and underneath the people were ready to go back to their idols.
11:10 have broken My covenant which I made with their fathers Both kingdoms broke it. The covenant was not broken by God.
11:11 they will cry out to Me, and I will not listen to them Those who refuse God's call again and again may call in trouble and not be answered (Prov 1:24-31). This is not cruelty. They wanted Him only to escape the consequences, not because they wanted Him.
11:13 altars to the shameful thing Baal. Judah had as many gods as cities and as many altars as Jerusalem had streets, and not one would answer.
11:14 do not pray for this people The second time (7:16). A word to Jeremiah about a nation whose judgment was fixed, which would cry out only to get out of trouble. It does not forbid us from praying for anyone. We pray for all people, because God wants all people to be saved (1 Tim 2:1-4).
11:15 What is there for My beloved in My house God still calls Judah "My beloved," but what right did she have in His temple while plotting evil? The holy meat of the sacrifices could not save her.
11:16 A luxuriant olive tree, beautiful of fruit and form The olive lived for centuries and gave oil for food, light and anointing (Ps 52:8). The tumult is the noise of the invading army. Paul uses this picture in Romans 11:17-24. Some natural branches were broken off for unbelief, and Gentile believers were grafted in by faith. But the tree is still God's olive tree, and He is able to graft the natural branches back in, and "all Israel will be saved" (Rom 11:26). God has not cut down the tree.
11:18 the LORD made it known to me The first of Jeremiah's "confessions," where he pours out his own heart to God (11:18-12:6; 15:10-21; 17:14-18; 18:18-23; 20:7-18). God told him of the plot.
11:19 I was like a docile lamb that is led to slaughter A pet lamb trusts the people who feed it and follows them to the knife. The plotters were the men of his own hometown (11:21), even his own family (12:6). This is a picture of Christ, led like a lamb to the slaughter (Isa 53:7; Acts 8:32-35), rejected in Nazareth (Luke 4:28-30), whose brothers, the later children of Mary and Joseph, did not believe in Him at first (John 7:5). Jeremiah did not know the plot. Jesus knew exactly where He was going and went willingly.
11:20 who tests the kidneys and the heart In Hebrew thinking the kidneys were the seat of the deepest feelings, and the heart the center of thought and will. God sees all the way down and judges fairly.
11:20 let me see Your vengeance on them, for to You I have revealed my case A prayer for judgment on enemies, like many in the Psalms. Jeremiah did not plot back or take revenge. He handed his case to the Judge, as Scripture tells us to (Rom 12:19; Neh 4:4-5). Jesus teaches us to go further, to love our enemies and pray for them (Matt 5:44), and He prayed for those who crucified Him (Luke 23:34). Our first prayer for those who hurt us should be for their salvation. We can also hand our case to God, which frees us from carrying the burden of revenge.
11:21 You shall not prophesy in the name of the LORD, and you will not die by our hand Stop preaching or we will kill you. Perhaps Anathoth, a town of priests, lost standing when Josiah closed the local shrines (2 Kgs 23:8-9), or perhaps they were ashamed of a native son who preached against the nation. Scripture does not say exactly why.
11:23 a remnant will not belong to them Judgment would fall on the plotters' families. Yet Ezra 2:23 lists 128 men of Anathoth among the returning exiles, and Jeremiah would later buy a field there as a sign of hope (chapter 32).

Why Does the Way of the Wicked Prosper?

1 Righteous are You, O LORD, when I bring a case to You;
nevertheless, I will speak judgments with You: Why does the way of the wicked prosper? Why are all who deal treacherously with treachery at ease? 2 You have planted them; they have also taken root; they go on; they have also produced fruit. You are near in their mouth and far from their kidneys.
3 And You, O LORD, You know me; You see me, and You test my heart with You. Drag them away like sheep to slaughter, and set them apart for a day of killing. 4 Until when will the land mourn, and the vegetation of every field be dried up?
Because of the evil of those who dwell in it, animals and birds are swept away, for they have said, "He will not see our end."
5 If you have run with foot soldiers and they have wearied you, and how will you compete with the horses? And in a land of peace you are trusting, and how will you do in the thicket of the Jordan (Yarden)? 6 For even your brothers and the house of your father, even they have dealt treacherously with you; even they have called out after you fully. Do not trust in them when they speak good things to you. 7 I have forsaken My house; I have abandoned My inheritance; I have given the beloved of My soul into the hand of her enemies.
8 My inheritance has become to Me like a lion in the forest; it has given forth against Me with its voice; therefore I hate it.
9 Is My inheritance to Me a speckled bird of prey? Are the birds of prey all around against it? Go, gather every living thing of the field; bring them for food. 10 Many shepherds have ruined My vineyard; they have trodden down My portion; they have made the portion of My desire into a wilderness of desolation. 11 He has set it into a desolation; it mourns to Me, desolate; all the land has been made desolate, for there is no man who sets it on his heart. 12 Over all the bare heights in the wilderness destroyers have come, for a sword of the LORD is devouring from one end of the land and to the other end of the land; there is no peace for any flesh.
13 They have sown wheat, and they have reaped thorns; they have wearied themselves; they do not profit. And be ashamed of your produce because of the burning of the anger of the LORD. 14 Thus says the LORD concerning all My evil neighbors who touch the inheritance which I caused My people Israel (Yisra'el) to inherit: "Look, I am plucking them up from their ground, and the house of Judah (Yehuda) I will pluck up from their midst. 15 And it will be, after I have plucked them up, I will return, and I will have compassion on them, and I will bring them back, each one to his inheritance and each one to his land. 16 And it will be, if they will surely learn the ways of My people, to swear by My name, 'As the LORD lives,' just as they taught My people to swear by Baal,

12:16 Rom 14:11; Jer 4:2; Josh 23:7

12:1 Righteous are You, O LORD, when I bring a case to You Before he complains, Jeremiah confesses that God is righteous. He comes to Him as to a judge with a case he does not understand.
12:1 Why does the way of the wicked prosper One of the oldest questions in the Bible (Job 21:7; Ps 73; Hab 1:13). His enemies at Anathoth lived comfortably while he was in danger. Is it wrong to ask God why? No. God put this question in the Bible. It is better to bring it to Him honestly than to let it eat at our faith in silence. Asaph found his answer when he went into God's sanctuary and saw the end of the wicked (Ps 73:17).
12:2 You are near in their mouth and far from their kidneys They talked about God constantly, but in their deepest self He was far away (Isa 29:13; Matt 15:8). God gives life and blessing even to the wicked (Matt 5:45), and that was part of what troubled Jeremiah.
12:3 Drag them away like sheep to slaughter In 11:19 Jeremiah was the lamb. Now he asks God to turn it around. As at 11:20, he does not take revenge but asks God to judge, in line with what God had already said (11:22-23). We also hand our enemies to God (Rom 12:19), and Jesus teaches us to pray for their good (Luke 6:27-28).
12:4 Until when will the land mourn There seems to have been a drought (chapter 14). The land suffered for the people's sin. "He will not see our end" may mean God will not see, or Jeremiah will not live to see their downfall. Either way, they were sure nothing would happen.
12:5 If you have run with foot soldiers and they have wearied you, and how will you compete with the horses God answers with a question. The plot at Anathoth was the footrace. Kings, priests and armies would be the horses. The thicket of the Jordan was the jungle of brush along the river where lions lived (49:19). God did not explain the prosperity of the wicked. He called Jeremiah to get stronger and keep running. Sometimes He gives us Himself instead of an explanation and calls us to endure (Heb 12:1-3).
12:6 even your brothers and the house of your father, even they have dealt treacherously with you "Called out after you fully" may mean they raised a mob. Jesus said a man's enemies would be those of his own household (Matt 10:36). If your family has rejected you for your faith, you are not alone.
12:7 I have given the beloved of My soul into the hand of her enemies God's own words, showing His heart. Even as He judges her, she is the one He loves. This is a Father handing over a child who will not stop running away, and it hurts Him.
12:8 therefore I hate it Judah had roared at God like a lion. In Hebrew, to hate can mean to turn away from or reject (Mal 1:2-3). God set Himself against what Judah had become.
12:9 a speckled bird of prey A strangely colored bird is attacked by other birds. Judah had made herself strange, not by holiness but by mixing with idols, and the nations would gather to attack.
12:10 Many shepherds have ruined My vineyard Probably the enemy kings and their armies, grazing the land (6:3). No one took it to heart and repented (12:11).
12:12 a sword of the LORD is devouring God's sword, though Babylon holds it. The false prophets promised peace, and there would be none.
12:13 They have sown wheat, and they have reaped thorns If God is against us, we can work and plan and sow and still reap thorns (Hag 1:6).
12:14 all My evil neighbors who touch the inheritance Nations like Edom, Moab, Ammon and the Philistines, who grabbed land and plunder when Judah fell. Babylon would conquer them too. Plucking up the house of Judah from their midst may mean pulling His scattered people out from among them, though some read it as part of Judah's judgment.
12:15 I will have compassion on them, and I will bring them back Amazing grace. God's compassion would reach even these nations (48:47; 49:6).
12:16 if they will surely learn the ways of My people, to swear by My name They once taught Israel to swear by Baal. Now they could learn from Israel to worship the true God, as God promised to bless all nations through Abraham (Gen 12:3; Isa 56:6-7). In Christ, Gentiles have been brought near (Eph 2:12-19), and in the coming kingdom the nations will come to Jerusalem to learn His ways (Isa 2:2-3). They are built up "in the midst of My people." They are added in. They do not replace Israel.

and they will be built up in the midst of My people. 17 And if they will not listen, and I will pluck up that nation, plucking up and destroying," declares the LORD.

The Linen Sash

1 Thus the LORD said to me: "Go, and you shall buy for yourself a loincloth of linen, and you shall put it on your loins, and you shall not bring it into water." 2 And I bought the loincloth according to the word of the LORD, and I put it on my loins. 3 And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, 4 "Take the loincloth which you bought, which is on your loins, and arise, go to Euphrates (Perat), and hide it there in a cleft of the rock." 5 And I went, and I hid it at Euphrates, just as the LORD had commanded me. 6 And it was at the end of many days, and the LORD said to me, "Arise, go to Euphrates, and take from there the loincloth which I commanded you to hide there." 7 And I went to Euphrates, and I dug, and I took the loincloth from the place where I had hidden it; and look, the loincloth was ruined; it was not profitable for anything. 8 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 9 "Thus says the LORD: 'Thus I will ruin the pride of Judah (Yehuda) and the great pride of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 10 This evil people, who refuse to hear My words, who walk in the stubbornness of their heart, and have walked after other gods to serve them and to bow down to them, let it be like this loincloth, which is not profitable for anything. 11 For just as the loincloth clings to the loins of a man, so I have made all the house of Israel (Yisra'el) and all the house of Judah cling to Me,' declares the LORD, 'to be for Me for a people and for a name and for praise and for beauty; and they did not listen.'

The Wine Jars and a Warning Against Pride

12 And you shall speak to them this word: 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: "Every jar will be filled with wine."' And they will say to you, 'Do we not surely know that every jar will be filled with wine?' 13 And you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: "Look, I am filling all the inhabitants of this land, and the kings who sit for David on his throne, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, with drunkenness. 14 And I will smash them, each one against his brother, and the fathers and the sons together," declares the LORD. "I will not spare, and I will not pity, and I will not have compassion, from ruining them."'" 15 Hear and give ear; do not be haughty, for the LORD has spoken. 16 Give glory to the LORD your God before He brings darkness, and before your feet stumble on the mountains of twilight, and you wait for light, and He sets it into deep darkness, and makes it into thick darkness. 17 And if you will not listen to it, my soul will weep in secret places because of pride; and it will surely shed tears, and my eye will run down with tears, for the flock of the LORD has been taken captive. 18 Say to the king and to the queen mother, "Make yourselves low, sit down, for your headdress has come down, the crown of your beauty." 19 The cities of the Negeb (Negev) have been shut up, and there is no one who opens; Judah has been taken into exile, all of it; it has been taken into exile completely. 20 Lift up your eyes and see those who are 12:17 if they will not listen, and I will pluck up that nation The offer is real, and so is the judgment for refusing it. Plucking up and building, as in Jeremiah's call (1:10).

13:1 a loincloth of linen A cloth or sash worn around the waist next to the body, the piece of clothing that clung most closely to a man. Linen was what the priests wore (Lev 16:4). He was not to wash it, a detail that matters later.

13:2 And I bought the loincloth according to the word of the LORD The first of Jeremiah's acted-out messages, or sign-acts. Isaiah walked barefoot (Isa 20:2-4), Ezekiel lay on his side (Ezek 4:4-6), and Jeremiah will wear a yoke (27:2) and buy a field (32:6-15). People forget sermons. They remember pictures. Jeremiah obeyed without asking why.

13:4 go to Euphrates, and hide it there in a cleft of the rock The Euphrates was about 350 miles away, weeks on foot each way. Some think Jeremiah went to Parah near Anathoth (Josh 18:23), whose name sounds almost like Perath, the Euphrates. Others believe he went to the river itself, since the text names it four times with its usual name. Either way, it was the river of Babylon, and the cloth points to exile.

13:7 the loincloth was ruined; it was not profitable for anything Damp ground, mold and time rotted the linen. What was once fresh and close to his body was now fit only to throw away.

13:9 Thus I will ruin the pride of Judah The cloth stood for the people. Pride was their sin, and pride was what God would bring down. Their contact with Babylon and its gods would leave them rotten and useless.

13:11 so I have made all the house of Israel and all the house of Judah cling to Me The heart of the chapter. "Cling" is the word of Genesis 2:24. God wanted His people as close as the clothing next to a man's skin, to be His people, carry His name and show His beauty (1 Pet 2:9). "And they did not listen" explains the whole tragedy. God does not want a people at arm's length. Jesus said, "Remain in Me" (John 15:4). Pride pushes God away. Humility clings to Him.

13:12 Every jar will be filled with wine Probably a common saying at feasts, like a toast. Of course jars are for wine.

13:13 with drunkenness The jars are the people and the wine is God's judgment. Judah would stagger in confusion as if drunk on His wrath (25:15-17), and the jars would smash against one another.

13:14 I will not spare, and I will not pity Some of the hardest words God speaks in the book. His patience had been long. Now the time had come.

13:16 Give glory to the LORD your God before He brings darkness To give God glory here means to confess Him and admit your sin (Josh 7:19). Do it now, like travelers who must get off the mountain before night falls. There comes a point when the light goes out.

13:17 my soul will weep in secret places because of pride The weeping prophet would weep alone, where no one could see. He still calls them "the flock of the LORD." They belonged to God even in exile.

13:18 Say to the king and to the queen mother Most likely Jehoiachin, who was eighteen, and his mother Nehushta, who held great influence (2 Kgs 24:8). In 597 B.C. they surrendered and were taken to Babylon (2 Kgs 24:12, 15; 29:2). They really did lose their crowns. Some suggest Jehoiakim and his mother.

13:19 The cities of the Negeb have been shut up The Negeb was the dry south. Even the towns farthest from the invader would be helpless.

Woe to you, O Jerusalem! You will not be clean; after how long yet?

JEREMIAH 14

Drought, Prayer and False Prophets

1 That which came as the word of the LORD to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) concerning the matters of the droughts: 2 Judah (Yehuda) mourns, and her gates languish; they are darkened to the ground, and the outcry of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) has gone up. 3 And their nobles have sent their little ones for water; they have come to the cisterns; they have not found water; they have returned, their vessels empty; they are ashamed and humiliated, and they have covered their head. 4 Because of the ground that is cracked, for there has been no rain in the land, the farmers are ashamed; they have covered their head. 5 For even the doe in the field has given birth and forsaken it, for there is no grass. 6 And wild donkeys have stood on the bare heights; they have panted for breath like jackals; their eyes have failed, for there is no vegetation. 7 Though our iniquities testify against us, O LORD, act for the sake of Your name; for our apostasies are many; against You we have sinned. 8 O Hope of Israel (Yisra'el), its Savior in a time of distress, why are You like a sojourner in the land, and like a traveler who has turned aside to spend the night? 9 Why are You like a man astounded, like a mighty man who is not able to save? And You are in our midst, O LORD, and Your name is called on us; do not leave us. 10 Thus says the LORD concerning this people: "So they have loved to wander; their feet they have not restrained. And the LORD has not accepted them; now He will remember their iniquity and punish their sins." 11 And the LORD said to me, "Do not pray for this people for good. 12 When they fast, I

13:21 close friends for head Judah had courted the Babylonians as friends (2 Kgs 20:12-18). Now they would rule her. The verse is hard to translate, but the point is plain: the ones she trusted would become her masters.
13:22 your skirts have been uncovered; your heels have suffered violence The language of public shame. Captives were sometimes led away stripped and barefoot (Isa 20:4). The reason was the greatness of her own sin.
13:23 Will a Cushite change his skin, and a leopard its spots Cush lay south of Egypt, around modern Sudan and Ethiopia, and its people had dark skin. The verse does not say dark skin is bad. Moses married a Cushite (Num 12:1), and the Cushite Ebed-melech is a hero of this book (38:7-13). The point is that some things cannot be changed by trying harder. Sin had become part of who they were.
13:23 you who are trained to do evil We cannot make ourselves good by effort. Sin is part of our nature (Rom 3:10-12; Eph 2:1-3). But God promised to write His law on our hearts (31:33) and give a new heart (Ezek 36:26). "If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation" (2 Cor 5:17). The leopard cannot change its spots, but God can make a new creature.
13:24 like chaff passing away to the wind of the wilderness The dry husk blown away at threshing.
13:25 This is your lot A share measured out, what Judah had earned by trusting in falsehood.
13:26 I will strip off your skirts over your face The picture of the unfaithful wife again (5:8). God uses strong language because idolatry is as personal as adultery in a marriage, and the shame of exile would match the shame of their sin. It is God's judgment in the language of a broken covenant. It is not a picture of how anyone should treat another, and nothing in it excuses abuse.
13:27 You will not be clean; after how long yet Even here God's question carries a longing. One day He would provide the cleansing they could not provide for themselves (Ezek 36:25; Zech 13:1).
14:1 concerning the matters of the droughts The word is plural, so this may have been several dry years. In a land that lived on the autumn and spring rains, drought meant hunger and death. God had warned that He would shut the heavens if Israel turned to other gods (Deut 11:16-17; 28:23-24), as He did in Elijah's day to show Baal could not give rain (1 Kgs 17:1).
14:3 they have come to the cisterns; they have not found water God called Himself the spring of living water and accused Judah of digging broken cisterns (2:13). Now their real cisterns were empty too. Covering the head was a sign of grief and shame.
14:5 even the doe in the field has given birth and forsaken it The doe was known for caring for her young. She left her fawn because she had no milk. The wild donkeys stood sniffing the air for any hint of water.
14:7 Though our iniquities testify against us, O LORD, act for the sake of Your name A model prayer for a time of trouble. Jeremiah admits guilt and does not ask God to act because the people deserve it. He asks for the sake of God's own name and promises, the strongest ground any prayer can stand on.
14:8 O Hope of Israel, its Savior in a time of distress Beautiful names for God (17:13). Paul called his message "the hope of Israel" (Acts 28:20). A traveler stopping for the night does not care about the town. Jeremiah asks why God seems so distant.
14:9 Your name is called on us; do not leave us To have God's name called on them meant they belonged to Him. Jeremiah holds God to that, and so may we. He has promised never to leave or forsake us (Heb 13:5).
14:10 So they have loved to wander Jeremiah's prayer was right, but the people had not changed. A prophet's prayer could not take the place of their own repentance (Hos 8:13).
14:11 Do not pray for this people for good The third time (7:16; 11:14). "For good" means do not ask Me to spare them. Jeremiah kept praying anyway (14:19-22), and God did not rebuke him. That is the heart of a true intercessor. We do not have Jeremiah's special knowledge, so we pray for all people (1 Tim 2:1) and leave the outcome with God.
14:12 When they fast, I am not listening to their cry They fasted and sacrificed, but their hearts had not turned (Isa 58:3-7). Sword, famine and pestilence come together often in Jeremiah, the three great killers in a siege.

am not listening to their cry; and when they offer up a burnt offering and a grain offering, I am not accepting them; for by the sword and by the famine and by the pestilence I am bringing them to an end." 13 And I said, "Alas, Lord GOD! Look, the prophets are saying to them, 'You will not see a sword, and famine will not come to you, for I will give you peace of truth in this place.'" 14 And the LORD said to me, "The prophets are prophesying falsehood in My name. I did not send them, and I did not command them, and I did not speak to them. A vision of falsehood, and divination, and a worthless thing, and the deceit of their heart, they are prophesying to you. 15 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who are prophesying in My name, and I, I did not send them, and they are saying, 'Sword and famine will not be in this land': By the sword and by the famine those prophets will be consumed. 16 And the people to whom they are prophesying will be thrown out in the streets of Jerusalem because of the famine and the sword, and there will be no one burying them—them, their wives and their sons and their daughters; and I will pour out on them their evil. 17 And you shall say to them this word: 'Let my eyes run down with tears night and day, and let them not cease; for the virgin daughter of my people has been broken with a great breaking, a very severe wound. 18 If I go out to the field, then look, those slain by the sword! And if I enter the city, then look, the diseases of famine! For both prophet and priest have roamed to a land, and they do not know.'" 19 Have You utterly rejected Judah? Has Your soul abhorred Zion (Tsiyon)? Why have You struck us, and there is no healing for us? We waited for peace, and there was no good, and for a time of healing, and look, terror! 20 We know, O LORD, our wickedness, the iniquity of our fathers, for we have sinned against You. 21 Do not spurn us for the sake of Your name; do not disgrace the throne of Your glory; remember, do not break Your covenant with us. 22 Are there among the vanities of the nations any who send rain? Or do the heavens give showers? Is it not You, He, O LORD our God? And we will wait for You, for You, You have made all these things.

Judgment Will Not Be Turned Back

1 And the LORD said to me, "Though Moses (Moshe) and Samuel (Shemu'el) should stand before Me, My soul would not be toward this people. Send them away from before My face, and let them go out. 2 And it will be, when they say to you, 'Where shall we go out?' then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: "Those who are for death, to death; and those who are for the sword, to the sword; and those who are for the famine, to the famine; and those who are for captivity, to captivity."' 3 And I will appoint over them four kinds, declares the LORD: the sword to kill, and the dogs to drag away, and the birds of the heavens and the animals of the earth to devour and to ruin. 4 And I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, on account of Manasseh (Menashe) the son of Hezekiah (Chizqiyahu), king of Judah (Yehuda), for what he did in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 5 For who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem? And who will show sympathy to you? And who will turn aside to ask about your welfare? 6 You, you have abandoned Me, declares the LORD; you keep going backward. And I have stretched out My hand against you, and I have ruined you; I am weary of relenting.

14:13 for I will give you peace of truth in this place Jeremiah seems to make excuses for the people. They were being misled by prophets who claimed to speak for God.
14:14 I did not send them, and I did not command them, and I did not speak to them Divination was seeking the future through omens and magic, which the Law forbade (Deut 18:10-12). Their message came from their own hearts.
14:15 By the sword and by the famine those prophets will be consumed A prophet whose word does not come true has not spoken from the LORD (Deut 18:21-22). Their own deaths would prove them false. The people who listened would die too. They chose what they wanted to hear (5:31). Jesus said we will know false prophets by their fruits (Matt 7:15-20), and we test every message by God's Word (1 John 4:1). Anyone promising comfort and safety while we live in sin speaks like these prophets.
14:17 Let my eyes run down with tears night and day God's own grief, spoken through His prophet's tears. "Virgin daughter" is a tender name for a city never conquered, now crushed.
14:18 both prophet and priest have roamed to a land, and they do not know They wandered confused, or were taken to a land they did not know. Either way, those who promised peace were helpless.
14:20 We know, O LORD, our wickedness, the iniquity of our fathers Daniel and Nehemiah later prayed this way in exile (Dan 9:4-19; Neh 1:5-11).
14:21 remember, do not break Your covenant with us Three appeals: God's name, His glory (the throne of His glory is Jerusalem and the temple, 3:17) and His covenant. God would answer, not by stopping the exile, but by keeping His covenant after it (31:31-37).
14:22 Are there among the vanities of the nations any who send rain Not Baal, not even the sky itself. Only the LORD. When the cisterns are empty and the drought goes on, the believer waits for God. Waiting is not doing nothing. It is trusting Him alone, and "those who wait for the LORD will renew power" (Isa 40:31).
15:1 Though Moses and Samuel should stand before Me The two great intercessors of Israel's history. Moses pleaded after the golden calf (Exod 32:11-14; Num 14:13-20), and Samuel prayed and God answered (1 Sam 7:5-9; 12:19-23; Ps 99:6). Jeremiah's prayers were not too weak. Even they could not change this. That explains the "do not pray" commands of chapters 7, 11 and 14. The nation had passed the point where judgment would be turned aside.
15:2 Those who are for death, to death Four destinies: disease, battle, hunger and captivity in Babylon. Moses had warned of all this (Deut 28:25-26).
15:4 on account of Manasseh the son of Hezekiah Manasseh reigned fifty-five years, the longest and worst reign in Judah. He rebuilt the high places, put idols in the temple, burned his son and filled Jerusalem with innocent blood (2 Kgs 21:1-16), and Jerusalem fell for his sins (2 Kgs 24:3-4). He did repent, and God forgave him (2 Chr 33:12-16). But the nation never left the paths he led them down. The children were not punished for a father's sin while innocent (Ezek 18:20). They had made his sins their own.
15:5 who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem No one would even stop to ask how she was. Lamentations 1:12 echoes this.
15:6 I am weary of relenting God had turned back His judgment many times. His patience had a purpose, and that purpose had been refused (Rom 2:4-5).

7 And I have winnowed them with a winnowing fork in the gates of the land; I have bereaved them; I have destroyed My people; from their ways they have not turned back. 8 Its widows have become more numerous to Me than the sand of the seas; I have brought to them, against the mother of a young man, a destroyer at noon; I have made anguish and terrors fall on her suddenly. 9 She who bore seven has languished; she has breathed out her soul; her sun has gone down while it was still day; she has been ashamed and abashed. And their remnant I will give to the sword before their enemies," declares the LORD.

Jeremiah's Lament and God's Answer

10 Woe to me, my mother, that you gave birth to me, a man of strife and a man of contention to all the land! I have not lent, and they have not lent to me, yet all of them curse me. 11 The LORD said, "Surely I will set you free for good; surely I will cause the enemy to plead with you in a time of evil and in a time of distress. 12 Will iron break iron from the north, and bronze? 13 Your wealth and your treasures I will give for plunder, not for a price, and for all your sins, and in all your territories. 14 And I will make your enemies pass into a land which you have not known; for a fire has been kindled in My anger; against you it will burn." 15 You, You know, O LORD; remember me, and visit me, and avenge Yourself for me on those who pursue me. Do not, in the slowness of Your anger, take me away; know that I bear reproach for Your sake. 16 Your words were found, and I ate them; and Your word became to me a joy and the delight of my heart; for Your name is called on me, O LORD God of armies. 17 I did not sit in the council of merrymakers and exult; because of Your hand I sat alone, for You filled me with indignation. 18 Why has my pain been perpetual, and my wound incurable? It has refused to be healed. You will surely be to me like a deceptive stream, waters that are not reliable. 19 Therefore thus says the LORD: "If you return, then I will bring you back; before Me you will stand. And if you bring out the precious from the worthless, like My mouth you will be. They, they will return to you, and you, you shall not return to them. 20 And I will make you to this people a fortified wall of bronze; and they will fight against you, and they will not prevail over you, for I am with you to save you and to deliver you," declares the LORD. 21 "And I will deliver you from the hand of evil ones, and I will ransom you from the palm of ruthless ones."

15:7 I have winnowed them with a winnowing fork Grain tossed in the air for the wind to carry off the chaff. God would scatter His people.
15:8 more numerous to Me than the sand of the seas The words of God's promise to Abraham about his descendants (Gen 22:17), now describing widows.
15:9 She who bore seven has languished A mother of seven sons was greatly blessed (Ruth 4:15; 1 Sam 2:5). Now she would lose them all. Her sun went down at noon, a picture of grief without words.
15:10 Woe to me, my mother, that you gave birth to me Raw honesty. God's message made Jeremiah a man of strife, and he wishes he had never been born (20:14-18). Money lending caused bitter quarrels, but he had not cheated anyone. He was hated for telling the truth. This is lament like Job 3 and many psalms, and God put it in the Bible. Jesus said the world would hate His followers because it hated Him first (John 15:18-20).
15:11 I will cause the enemy to plead with you in a time of evil This came true. King Zedekiah, who let Jeremiah be thrown in a pit, later came to him secretly asking for a word from God (21:1-2; 37:17; 38:14).
15:12 Will iron break iron from the north, and bronze Hard to translate. It probably means no one can break the iron from the north, Babylon. Or it may mean that Jeremiah, made iron and bronze by God (1:18), could not be broken.
15:13 Your wealth and your treasures I will give for plunder, not for a price Verses 13-14 speak to the nation, not Jeremiah. The same words appear in 17:3-4.
15:15 avenge Yourself for me on those who pursue me As at 11:20 and 12:3, Jeremiah puts the matter in God's hands. "Avenge Yourself" because attacks on him were attacks on God's word, the same cry as the souls under the altar (Rev 6:10). He bore reproach for God's sake, and Jesus calls such people blessed (Matt 5:10-12; 1 Pet 4:14).
15:16 Your words were found, and I ate them To eat God's words is to take them in completely and make them part of yourself (Ezek 3:1-3; Rev 10:9-10; Matt 4:4). Some think "found" points to the Book of the Law found in Josiah's day (2 Kgs 22:8). It may simply mean the words God gave him at his call (1:9). In the middle of his lament he remembers his first love for God's word.
15:17 because of Your hand I sat alone He could not join the parties and laughter, knowing what was coming. Faithfulness sometimes means sitting alone, not from pride, but because standing with God means we cannot stand with the crowd.
15:18 like a deceptive stream, waters that are not reliable Many streams in Israel ran in the rainy season and dried up in summer, and a thirsty traveler might walk miles to find a dry bed (Job 6:15-20). God had called Himself "a spring of living water" (2:13). Now Jeremiah says He has become a dry creek. He was wrong, but God let him say it. In seasons of depression or grief when God seems silent, keep talking to Him, as Jeremiah did. He can take it. And do not carry it alone. Talk to a pastor, a trusted friend or a counselor too.
15:19 If you return, then I will bring you back; before Me you will stand God's answer is a call to repent, using the word Jeremiah had preached to the people (3:12; 4:1). God does the restoring. To stand before Him is to serve Him (1 Kgs 17:1). Jeremiah was not fired. God does not tell a discouraged servant he is fine or finished. He calls him back, as He restored Peter (John 21:15-19).
15:19 if you bring out the precious from the worthless, like My mouth you will be Some of what Jeremiah said was true and good, and some, like calling God a deceptive stream, was not. He must speak only what is true, and he must not bend the message to win the people back.
15:20 they will fight against you, and they will not prevail over you, for I am with you The promise of his call repeated (1:18-19). The fight would not stop, but they would not win. He was beaten, jailed and dropped in a cistern, but never destroyed, and Babylon set him free when the city fell (39:11-14). The chapter that began "Woe to me" ends "I am with you."
15:21 I will ransom you from the palm of ruthless ones To ransom is to pay the price to set someone free.

Jeremiah Forbidden to Marry

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "You shall not take for yourself a wife, and there shall not be to you sons and daughters in this place. 3 For thus says the LORD concerning the sons and concerning the daughters who are born in this place, and concerning their mothers who bore them, and concerning their fathers who fathered them in this land: 4 Deaths of diseases they will die; they will not be lamented, and they will not be buried; they will be for dung on the surface of the ground; and by the sword and by the famine they will come to an end; and their corpses will be for food for the birds of the heavens and for the animals of the earth. 5 For thus says the LORD: Do not enter a house of mourning, and do not go to lament, and do not show sympathy to them; for I have withdrawn My peace from this people, declares the LORD, the steadfast love and the compassions. 6 And great and small will die in this land; they will not be buried, and they will not lament for them, and one will not cut himself, and one will not make himself bald for them. 7 And they will not break bread for them in mourning, to comfort him for the dead, and they will not give them a cup of consolations to drink for his father and for his mother. 8 And a house of feasting you shall not enter, to sit with them, to eat and to drink. 9 For thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): Look, I am causing to cease from this place, before your eyes and in your days, the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of a bridegroom and the voice of a bride. 10 And it will be, when you tell this people all these words, and they say to you, 'Why has the LORD spoken against us all this great evil? And what is our iniquity, and what is our sin which we have sinned against the LORD our God?' 11 then you shall say to them, 'Because your fathers forsook Me,' declares the LORD, 'and walked after other gods, and served them, and bowed down to them; and Me they forsook, and My law they did not keep. 12 And you, you have done evil more than your fathers; and look, you are walking, each one, after the stubbornness of his evil heart, so as not to listen to Me. 13 And I will hurl you from this land to the land which you have not known, you and your fathers; and you will serve other gods there day and night, for I will not give you favor.'

A New Exodus Promised

14 Therefore look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and it will not be said again, 'As the LORD lives, who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim),' 15 but, 'As the LORD lives, who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of the north and from all the lands where He had banished them.' And I will bring them back to their land which I gave to their fathers. 16 Look, I am sending for many fishermen, declares the LORD, and they will fish them out; and after that I will send for many hunters, and they will hunt them from every mountain and from every hill and from the clefts of the rocks. 17 For My eyes are on all their ways; they have not been hidden from before Me, and their iniquity has not been concealed from before My eyes. 18 And I will repay first the double of their iniquity and their sin, because they

16:2 You shall not take for yourself a wife The only place in the Old Testament where God tells a man not to marry. In Israel marriage and children were a great blessing (Gen 1:28; Ps 127:3-5), and people would ask why he had no family. His single life was a sermon: the families of this city are going to die. "In this place" shows the reason was the coming judgment, not that marriage is bad (Heb 13:4).
16:4 Deaths of diseases they will die; they will not be lamented, and they will not be buried So many would die in the siege that no one would be left to bury them, one of the covenant curses (Deut 28:26). If you have longed for marriage or children and not had them, Jeremiah's story does not mean God is against you. His life without a family was one of the most fruitful in the Old Testament. Paul was unmarried and said a single person can serve the Lord with an undivided heart (1 Cor 7:7-8, 32-35), and Jesus Himself never married.
16:5 Do not enter a house of mourning Neighbors came to weep with a grieving family, and staying away was an insult. "Peace" is shalom, wholeness and well-being, and "steadfast love" is hesed. God had not stopped being loving. The time of sparing them was over.
16:6 one will not cut himself, and one will not make himself bald for them Pagan mourning customs the Law forbade (Deut 14:1), though many in Judah did them. There would be no funeral meal, no cup of comfort. Death would be everywhere, and grief would have no time to be spoken.
16:8 a house of feasting you shall not enter Cut off from his people's sorrows and their joys. "In your days" (16:9) means those listening would live to see it.
16:9 the voice of a bridegroom and the voice of a bride As in 7:34 and 25:10. But in 33:10-11 God promises those voices will be heard again. Jeremiah's whole life said one thing: God means what He says. Does the way we live say anything about what we believe?
16:10 what is our iniquity, and what is our sin They truly did not see what they had done wrong. That is what long years of sin do to a heart. It stops seeing.
16:12 you have done evil more than your fathers They could not blame their fathers. They had taken their fathers' sins and gone further.
16:13 you will serve other gods there day and night Sad irony. In Babylon they would have all the false gods they wanted, and none could help.
16:14 As the LORD lives, who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt The usual form of a solemn oath, recalling the greatest rescue in their history.
16:15 from the land of the north and from all the lands where He had banished them A rescue so great it would make the exodus look small. The return from Babylon in 538 B.C. was a first taste, but it brought back a small group from one land. This reaches to "all the lands." I believe it points to the day God will gather Israel from every nation and bring them home for good (23:7-8; Isa 11:11-12; Ezek 36:24), and He will keep it to the letter. He has not cast away His people (Rom 11:1-2, 25-29).
16:16 I am sending for many fishermen The Babylonian armies, dragging people out like fish and then hunting down anyone who hid. This is not the happy picture of fishers of men (Matt 4:19). Here they catch people for judgment.
16:18 the double of their iniquity and their sin Likely a full and fitting payment (Isa 40:2). Their idols were dead things, like corpses, filling God's land. The land was His, and Israel lived there as His tenants (Lev 25:23).

have profaned My land with the corpses of their detestable things, and with their abominations they have filled My inheritance." 19 O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, and my refuge in a day of distress, to You nations will come from the ends of the earth, and they will say, "Surely our fathers inherited falsehood, vanity, and there is nothing in them that profits." 20 Will man make gods for himself? And they are not gods! 21 Therefore look, I am making them know; at this time I will make them know My hand and My might, and they will know that My name is the LORD.

The Deceitful Heart

1 The sin of Judah (Yehuda) is written with a stylus of iron; with a point of flint it is engraved on the tablet of their heart and on the horns of your altars, 2 while their sons remember their altars and their Asherim beside the luxuriant tree on the high hills. 3 O My mountain in the field, your wealth, all your treasures I will give for plunder, your high places for sin in all your territories. 4 And you will let go, even through yourself, of your inheritance which I gave you; and I will make you serve your enemies in the land which you do not know; for you have kindled a fire in My anger; it will burn forever. 5 Thus says the LORD: "Cursed is the man who trusts in mankind and makes flesh his arm, and from the LORD his heart turns aside. 6 And he will be like a juniper in the desert plain, and he will not see when good comes; and he will dwell in parched places in the wilderness, a land of saltiness, and it is not inhabited. 7 Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD, and the LORD is his trust. 8 And he will be like a tree transplanted by water, and that sends out its roots by a stream; and it will not see when heat comes, and its leaves will be luxuriant; and in a year of drought it will not be anxious, and it will not cease from producing fruit. 9 The heart is deceitful more than everything, and it is incurable; who can know it? 10 I, the LORD, search the heart; I test the kidneys, even to give to each one according to his ways, according to the fruit of his deeds. 11 As a partridge gathers a brood and has not laid it, so is one who makes riches, and not with justice; in the middle of his days it will leave him, and at his end he will be a fool." 12 A throne of glory, on high from the first, is the place of our sanctuary. 13 O Hope of Israel (Yisra'el), O LORD, all who forsake You will be ashamed; and those who turn aside from Me will be written in the earth, for they have forsaken the spring of living water, the LORD. 14 Heal me, O LORD, and I will be healed; save me, and I will be saved; for 16:19 O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, and my refuge in a day of distress In his loneliness and all the bad news, Jeremiah runs to God.

16:19 to You nations will come from the ends of the earth Irony. Judah was running to idols, and one day idol-worshiping nations would run from them to Judah's God. That began when the gospel went to the Gentiles (Acts 14:15; 1 Thess 1:9), and it will be complete in Christ's kingdom, when the nations come to Jerusalem (Isa 2:2-3; Zech 8:22-23).
16:20 Will man make gods for himself? And they are not gods The foolishness of idolatry in two lines. A god you can make is no god at all.
16:21 they will know that My name is the LORD The chapter that began with no wife, no funerals and no feasts ends with the earth knowing the LORD.
17:1 The sin of Judah is written with a stylus of iron An iron stylus with a hard point cut letters into stone so they would last. God wrote His law on stone at Sinai (Exod 31:18). Judah's hearts had become tablets too, but what was written there was sin. Later God promises to write His law on their hearts (31:33). The horns were the altar's corners, where the blood of the sin offering made atonement (Lev 4:7).
17:2 their Asherim beside the luxuriant tree on the high hills Wooden poles for Asherah, a Canaanite fertility goddess. Their children grew up remembering them. Sin was passed down like a family heirloom.
17:3 O My mountain in the field Jerusalem, God's own mountain. High places were hilltop shrines, often to false gods. Verses 3-4 repeat 15:13-14.
17:5 Cursed is the man who trusts in mankind and makes flesh his arm Two ways to live, as in Psalm 1. The arm stands for strength. Judah's kings looked to Egypt (2:36-37; 37:5-7). Getting help from people is not the sin. The sin is a heart that turns from God and puts its whole weight on something else.
17:6 like a juniper in the desert plain A low, dry shrub in salty ground. Even when blessing comes, such a man cannot take it in.
17:7 Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD, and the LORD is his trust The tree is "transplanted." It did not start by the water. God moved it there, as He does with us when we come to Him by faith.
17:8 in a year of drought it will not be anxious The heat still comes, but the tree does not fear it. We are not promised that there will be no drought, but that our roots will find water when everything around is dry. The difference is not the weather but where the roots go. When the heat comes, what do you reach for first?
17:9 The heart is deceitful more than everything, and it is incurable; who can know it The heart in Hebrew is the whole inner person: mind, will, desires and feelings (Prov 4:23). "Deceitful" shares the root of Jacob's name, the trickster (Gen 27:36). It fools its owner most of all, as Judah did not know what it had done wrong (16:10). "Incurable" is the word for a wound that will not heal (15:18; 30:12). That is why the advice to follow your heart is so dangerous. David asked God to search him (Ps 139:23-24), and Paul knew a clear conscience did not make him innocent (1 Cor 4:4).
17:9 who can know it Sin comes out of the heart (Mark 7:21-23), so the cure must start there. God promised to write His law on the heart (31:33) and give a new heart (Ezek 36:26), and He does it when a person is born again through faith in Christ (John 3:3-7; 2 Cor 5:17). Even then believers still fight the old ways (Gal 5:17), so let God's Word judge your heart, not the other way around (Heb 4:12).
17:10 I, the LORD, search the heart; I test the kidneys The kidneys stood for the deepest feelings and hidden thoughts, as we might say the gut. What is in the heart shows up in what we do, and God judges both. Jesus says the same of Himself (Rev 2:23). We can hide nothing from Him, so we can bring Him the truth.
17:11 As a partridge gathers a brood and has not laid it People believed the partridge sat on eggs it had not laid, and the chicks ran off when they hatched. The exact Hebrew is uncertain. Wealth gained by cheating was never really his. Compare the rich fool (Luke 12:16-21).
17:12 A throne of glory, on high from the first God's true throne is in heaven, and has been from the beginning.
17:13 those who turn aside from Me will be written in the earth Names written in dust are soon blown away, unlike names written in God's book (Exod 32:32; Luke 10:20). They left the spring of living water (2:13), which Jesus offers to all who come to Him (John 4:10-14).
17:14 Heal me, O LORD, and I will be healed The man who just called the heart incurable asks God to heal him. Only God can, and when He does, the healing is real.

You are my praise. 15 Look, they are saying to me, "Where is the word of the LORD? Let it come, please!" 16 And I, I have not hurried away from being a shepherd after You, and the incurable day I have not desired; You, You know; what came out of my lips was before Your face. 17 Do not become a terror to me; You are my refuge in a day of calamity. 18 Let those who pursue me be put to shame, and let me not be put to shame, me; let them be dismayed, them, and let me not be dismayed, me. Bring on them a day of calamity, and break them with a double breaking.

Keep the Sabbath Holy

19 Thus the LORD said to me: "Go, and you shall stand in the Gate of the Sons of the People, by which the kings of Judah come in and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); 20 and you shall say to them, 'Hear the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, who come in through these gates. 21 Thus says the LORD: "Take heed for your lives, and do not carry a burden on the day of the Sabbath and bring it in through the gates of Jerusalem. 22 And you shall not bring out a burden from your houses on the day of the Sabbath, and you shall not do any work; and you shall sanctify the day of the Sabbath, just as I commanded your fathers. 23 And they did not listen, and they did not incline their ear, and they stiffened their neck so as not to listen and not to accept correction. 24 And it will be, if you will surely listen to Me, declares the LORD, so as not to bring a burden through the gates of this city on the day of the Sabbath, and to sanctify the day of the Sabbath, so as not to do any work on it, 25 and there will come in through the gates of this city kings and officials sitting on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their officials, the man of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city will remain forever. 26 And they will come from the cities of Judah and from around Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin (Binyamin), and from the Shephelah, and from the hill country, and from the Negeb (Negev), bringing burnt offering and sacrifice, and grain offering and frankincense, and bringing a thank offering to the house of the LORD. 27 And if you will not listen to Me to sanctify the day of the Sabbath, and not to carry a burden and come in through the gates of Jerusalem on the day of the Sabbath, and I will kindle a fire in its gates, and it will devour the fortresses of Jerusalem, and it will not be quenched."'"

"Look, like the clay in the hand of the potter, so are you in My hand, O house of Israel. 7 At one moment I may speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to pluck up and to pull down and 17:15 Where is the word of the LORD? Let it come, please He had warned for years, and they mocked. Scoffers say the same about Christ's coming, but God's delay is His patience, not His forgetfulness (2 Pet 3:3-9).

17:16 the incurable day I have not desired He had not run from his calling, and he took no pleasure in announcing disaster.
17:17 Do not become a terror to me His greatest fear was not his enemies but that God might turn against him too.
17:18 Bring on them a day of calamity As at 11:20 and 15:15, Jeremiah hands his case to the righteous Judge and asks for what God had already said He would do. Jesus teaches us to love and pray for our enemies (Matt 5:44), and Paul tells us to leave vengeance to God (Rom 12:19).
17:21 do not carry a burden on the day of the Sabbath The Sabbath was the seventh day, Saturday, set apart as Israel's day of rest and a sign of God's covenant (Exod 20:8-11; 31:13-17), remembering creation and freedom from Egypt (Deut 5:12-15). Farmers and merchants were carrying goods in to sell as on any other day. Nehemiah faced the same (Neh 13:15-22).
17:25 this city will remain forever Two paths again. Obedience would bring kings on David's throne and worshipers from every region.
17:27 I will kindle a fire in its gates Exactly what happened in 586 B.C. (52:13). The Sabbath was a test of trust. If they could not stop for one day to honor God, their hearts belonged to money and work. The Sabbath was a shadow, and the substance belongs to Christ (Col 2:16-17). There is a rest we enter by faith (Heb 4:9-10). Believers differ on how the command applies today: some keep Saturday, many keep Sunday, the Lord's Day, and others see every day as the Lord's (Rom 14:5-6). The heart question is the same: do we trust God enough to stop?
18:2 you shall go down to the house of the potter God sometimes taught Jeremiah through ordinary things. A potter's shop would be in the lower city, near water and clay.
18:3 he was doing work on the wheels Two stone disks joined by a shaft. The potter turned the lower one with his feet and shaped the clay on the upper one with his hands.
18:4 he would again make it another vessel, just as it was right in the eyes of the potter Perhaps a stone or lump spoiled the clay. The potter did not throw it away. He kept working with it, and he decided what the new vessel would be.
18:6 like the clay in the hand of the potter, so are you in My hand The heart of the chapter (Isa 29:16; 45:9; 64:8; Rom 9:20-21). For Judah it was a warning. The clay does not tell the potter what to do. Yet there was hope too. The potter did not give up on the clay. God would bring Judah down, but He would build Israel again (31:4, 28).
18:7 to pluck up and to pull down and to destroy The words of Jeremiah's call (1:10).

to destroy; 8 and that nation turns back from its evil, concerning which I had spoken against it, and I will relent concerning the calamity which I had planned to do to it. 9 And at another moment I may speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to build up and to plant; 10 and it does the evil in My sight, so as not to listen to My voice, and I will relent concerning the good which I had said I would do good to it. 11 And now, say, please, to the man of Judah (Yehuda) and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Look, I am forming calamity against you and planning a plan against you. Turn back, please, each one from his evil way, and make your ways and your deeds good."' 12 And they say, 'It is hopeless! For after our plans we will walk, and we will do, each one, the stubbornness of his evil heart.' 13 Therefore thus says the LORD: Ask, please, among the nations: Who has heard things like these? The virgin of Israel has done a very horrible thing. 14 Does the snow of Lebanon (Levanon) leave the rock of the field? Or are the strange, cold, flowing waters plucked up? 15 For My people have forgotten Me; they burn incense to worthlessness, and they have made them stumble in their ways, the ancient tracks, to walk in paths, a way not built up, 16 to make their land a horror, a perpetual hissing; everyone who passes by it will be appalled and shake his head. 17 Like an east wind I will scatter them before the enemy; the back and not the face I will show them in the day of their disaster."

A Plot Against Jeremiah

18 And they said, "Come, and let us plan plans against Jeremiah, for law will not perish from the priest, and counsel from the wise, and word from the prophet. Come, and let us strike him with the tongue, and let us not pay attention to any of his words." 19 Pay attention to me, O LORD, and listen to the voice of my opponents. 20 Should evil be repaid in place of good? For they have dug a pit for my life. Remember my standing before You to speak good concerning them, to turn back Your rage from them. 21 Therefore give their sons to the famine, and pour them out over the hands of the sword; and let their wives become childless and widows, and let their men be slain by death, their young men struck down by the sword in battle. 22 Let a cry be heard from their houses when You bring a raiding band on them suddenly; for they have dug a pit to capture me, and they have hidden snares for my feet. 23 And You, O LORD, You know all their counsel against me for death. Do not make atonement for their iniquity, and do not wipe out their sin from before You; and let them be made to stumble before You; in the time of Your anger deal with them.

18:8 I will relent concerning the calamity which I had planned to do to it Nineveh is the clearest example (Jonah 3:4-10). To relent does not mean God made a mistake or changed His character. God does not change (Mal 3:6) or change His mind as men do (Num 23:19). He changes what He does when people change how they stand before Him. His warnings often carry an unspoken unless you turn.
18:10 I will relent concerning the good God's blessing was not a blank check for a people living in rebellion, as Saul learned (1 Sam 15:23, 26). This does not cancel His unconditional covenants with Abraham and David, which rest on His own faithfulness (31:35-37; 33:20-26). What one generation enjoys of the blessing can be lost by sin. The promise itself stands.
18:11 Turn back, please, each one from his evil way God says "please." He pleads. "Forming" is the potter's word. God is the sovereign Potter, and His call to turn is real and sincere, both taught in the same few verses. Good teachers explain how these fit in different ways, and I will not try to settle that here. No one can say he wanted to turn and God would not let him. If something in your life has been spoiled, a marriage, a calling, a season, the potter did not throw the clay away. God can remake a broken life that turns to Him.
18:12 It is hopeless! For after our plans we will walk It sounds like despair, but they are not saying they cannot change. They are saying they will not. Sometimes people say they are too far gone when the truth is they do not want to give it up. Be honest with God about which one it is.
18:14 Does the snow of Lebanon leave the rock of the field The snow on Lebanon's peaks was always there, and its cold streams never ran dry. Nature is faithful. Even pagans did not abandon their gods (2:10-11), but God's people forgot Him.
18:15 the ancient tracks The old paths of faithfulness (6:16). They left the good road for rough tracks that go nowhere.
18:16 a perpetual hissing Passers-by would hiss and shake their heads in shock.
18:17 the back and not the face I will show them The east wind was the hot desert wind that withered everything. They turned their backs on God (2:27). In their trouble He would turn His back on them.
18:18 Come, and let us plan plans against Jeremiah Irony. God was planning a plan against them (18:11), and they planned plans against His prophet. We have priests, wise men and prophets, they said, and they cannot fail. Attack the messenger and stop listening is still how many people deal with an unwelcome truth.
18:20 Remember my standing before You to speak good concerning them He had prayed for these very people, and they dug a pit for him. David knew this pain (Ps 109:4-5), and so did Jesus, who did good to His people and was crucified by them.
18:21 give their sons to the famine One of the hardest prayers in Jeremiah. It is honest, from a man betrayed by people he prayed for, and God recorded it as He did the imprecatory psalms (Ps 109; 137). He does not take revenge. He asks for the very judgments God had announced (15:2, 8).
18:23 in the time of Your anger deal with them He leaves the timing to God. This is not where the Bible leaves us. Jesus prayed for those who crucified Him (Luke 23:34), and Stephen did the same (Acts 7:60). We bless those who persecute us and leave vengeance to God (Rom 12:14, 19). When someone has hurt you deeply, tell God the truth first, then let Him have it, and ask for grace to pray for them as Jesus did.
19:1 a potter's flask of earthenware A narrow-necked clay water jar. Unlike the soft clay of chapter 18, this jar had already been fired. If it broke, it could not be reshaped. That difference is the whole message. The elders of the people and priests came as witnesses.
19:2 the gate of the potsherd Likely where broken pottery was thrown out into the valley of Hinnom below (7:31-32), a fitting place to break a jar.

entrance of the Gate of the Potsherd, and you shall proclaim there the words which I will speak to you. 3 And you shall say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah (Yehuda) and inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Look, I am bringing calamity on this place, which everyone who hears of it, his ears will tingle, 4 because they have forsaken Me and have made this place foreign, and have burned incense in it to other gods whom they did not know, they and their fathers and the kings of Judah; and they have filled this place with the blood of innocent ones, 5 and they have built the high places of Baal to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, which I did not command, and I did not speak it, and it did not come up on My heart. 6 Therefore look, days are coming," declares the LORD, "and this place will not be called again Topheth (Tofet) and the valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of the slaughter. 7 And I will make void the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem in this place, and I will make them fall by the sword before their enemies and by the hand of those who seek their life; and I will give their corpses for food to the birds of the heavens and to the animals of the earth. 8 And I will make this city a horror and a hissing; everyone who passes by it will be appalled and will hiss because of all its wounds. 9 And I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and each one will eat the flesh of his neighbor in the siege and in the distress with which their enemies and those who seek their life will distress them."' 10 And you shall break the flask before the eyes of the men who go with you, 11 and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of armies: "Thus I will break this people and this city, just as one breaks the vessel of the potter, which cannot be repaired again; and they will bury in Topheth, because there is no place to bury. 12 Thus I will do to this place," declares the LORD, "and to its inhabitants, to make this city like Topheth. 13 And the houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah will be like the place of Topheth, unclean, all the houses on whose roofs they burned incense to all the host of the heavens, and poured out drink offerings to other gods."'" 14 And Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) came from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, and he stood in the court of the house of the LORD, and he said to all the people, 15 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Look, I am bringing to this city and on all its cities all the calamity which I have spoken against it, because they have stiffened their neck so as not to hear My words.'"

20:3 Acts 4:5; Jer 20:10; Isa 8:3

19:3 his ears will tingle News so shocking it would make ears ring, the words used of Shiloh in Eli's day (1 Sam 3:11) and of Jerusalem in Manasseh's day (2 Kgs 21:12).
19:4 have made this place foreign They turned God's city into a place belonging to foreign gods. The innocent blood likely includes the children killed at Topheth and the people Manasseh put to death (2 Kgs 21:16; 24:4).
19:5 which I did not command, and I did not speak it, and it did not come up on My heart The sin of 7:31, here to Baal and in 32:35 to Molech. Ahaz and Manasseh did it with their own sons (2 Kgs 16:3; 21:6). It was the murder of children, and God denies it three ways. The Law forbade it (Lev 18:21; Deut 12:31). If this touches a wound for you, God's anger is against those who killed children and kept on. For anyone who comes in repentance there is full forgiveness in Christ (1 John 1:9), and I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
19:6 the valley of the slaughter As in 7:32. The place where they killed their children would be filled with their own dead.
19:7 I will make void the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem The Hebrew for "make void" sounds like the word for "flask." As Jeremiah held up the jar, God said He would empty out all their plans.
19:9 I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters One of the most terrible verses in the Bible. Moses had warned of this as a covenant curse (Lev 26:29; Deut 28:53-57). It happened in the siege of Samaria (2 Kgs 6:28-29) and of Jerusalem (Lam 2:20; 4:10). These people had burned their children to Baal, and now their sin came back on their own heads. We will not dwell on it. God's warnings are true, and sin left unchecked leads where no one would choose to go.
19:11 just as one breaks the vessel of the potter, which cannot be repaired again Soft clay can be reshaped. A fired pot, once broken, cannot be mended. Judah had hardened year after year, and the time for reshaping was over. God would restore His people later (30:3; 31:4), but that generation, city and kingdom would be shattered first.
19:13 all the houses on whose roofs they burned incense to all the host of the heavens Flat roofs were used like porches, and people worshiped the sun, moon and stars there (Zeph 1:5; 2 Kgs 23:12). Our idols are not always in a distant valley. Sometimes they are at home, in the private places where we think no one sees.
19:15 because they have stiffened their neck so as not to hear My words An ox that would not bow its neck to the yoke was useless. That one phrase sums up the problem of the whole book.
20:1 Pashhur the son of Immer, the priest Immer was an old priestly family (1 Chr 24:14). Pashhur was something like the chief of temple security, and he decided Jeremiah was a threat to order. He is not the Pashhur son of Malchiah in 21:1.
20:2 Pashhur struck Jeremiah the prophet, and he put him in the stocks Likely a beating of up to forty blows, as the Law allowed (Deut 25:2-3). The stocks held the feet, and sometimes hands and neck, in a twisted position, painful and shameful, at a busy gate where all could mock him. The first physical attack on Jeremiah, and not the last (37:15; 38:6). A priest in God's house beat God's prophet for speaking God's word.
20:3 Terror All Around A night in the stocks did not silence him. A new name in the Bible often tells who a person really is or what will happen to him. Pashhur tried to frighten Jeremiah, and terror would surround Pashhur. The Hebrew is Magor-missabib, a phrase Jeremiah used often (6:25; 46:5), and his enemies made it his nickname (20:10).

not called your name Pashhur, but Terror All Around. 4 For thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am making you a terror to yourself and to all your friends; and they will fall by the sword of their enemies, and your eyes will be seeing it; and all Judah (Yehuda) I will give into the hand of the king of Babylon (Bavel), and he will take them into exile to Babylon, and he will strike them down with the sword. 5 And I will give all the wealth of this city, and all its labor, and all its precious things, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah I will give into the hand of their enemies; and they will plunder them, and they will take them, and they will bring them to Babylon. 6 And you, Pashhur, and all who dwell in your house, will go into captivity; and to Babylon you will come, and there you will die, and there you will be buried, you and all your friends to whom you have prophesied in falsehood.'"

Jeremiah's Complaint

7 You have enticed me, O LORD, and I was enticed; You were stronger than I, and You prevailed. I have become a laughingstock all the day; every one is mocking me. 8 For as often as I speak, I cry out; "Violence and destruction!" I proclaim; for the word of the LORD has become for me a reproach and a derision all the day. 9 And I say, "I will not remember Him, and I will not speak again in His name"; and it becomes in my heart like a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I am weary of holding it in, and I am not able. 10 For I have heard the whispering of many: "Terror is all around! Tell, and let us tell about him!" Every man of my peace is watching for my stumbling: "Perhaps he will be enticed, and we will prevail over him, and we will take our vengeance on him." 11 And the LORD is with me like a ruthless mighty man; therefore my pursuers will stumble, and they will not prevail; they will be greatly ashamed, for they have not prospered, an everlasting dishonor that will not be forgotten. 12 And O LORD of armies, who tests the righteous, who sees the kidneys and the heart, let me see Your vengeance on them, for to You I have revealed my case. 13 Sing to the LORD; praise the LORD; for He has delivered the soul of the needy from the hand of evildoers. 14 Cursed be the day on which I was born! The day on which my mother bore me, let it not be blessed! 15 Cursed be the man who brought the news to my father, saying, "A son, a male, has been born to you," surely making him rejoice. 16 And let that man be like the cities which the LORD overthrew and did not relent; and let him hear a cry in the morning and a shout of alarm at the time of noon, 17 because he did not kill me from the womb, and my mother would have been to me my grave, and her womb pregnant forever. 18 Why is this, that I came forth from the womb to see trouble and sorrow, and my days have come to an end in shame?

21:1 Jer 29:25; Jer 37:3; Jer 38:1

20:4 all Judah I will give into the hand of the king of Babylon The first time the book names Babylon as the enemy from the north.
20:6 to whom you have prophesied in falsehood Pashhur was also telling people all would be well, and his lies would follow him into exile. Scripture does not say when he was taken, but many think it was in 597 B.C., with Jehoiachin and the leading men (2 Kgs 24:14-16).
20:7 You have enticed me, O LORD, and I was enticed A startling thing to say to God. "Enticed" is used of someone talked into something, even by trickery (1 Kgs 22:20-22). God had not deceived him. He said from the first day that the people would fight him (1:19). But Jeremiah feels overpowered and used, the laughingstock of the city. God put these words in the Bible. He would rather have our honest pain than our polite silence (Ps 13; 22:1-2; 88).
20:8 the word of the LORD has become for me a reproach and a derision Every message was bad news, and the word God gave him had made him a joke. He was faithful, and faithfulness brought him only shame.
20:9 like a burning fire shut up in my bones One of the great verses about God's word. Jeremiah tried to quit, and he could not hold it in. God's word is alive (Heb 4:12), and God had put it in his mouth (1:9). Peter and John could not stop speaking what they had seen and heard (Acts 4:20), and Paul said woe to him if he did not preach (1 Cor 9:16). What hurt Jeremiah also kept him going. Sometimes what holds us when we want to give up is not our strength but the word of God that has taken root in us.
20:10 Every man of my peace is watching for my stumbling A "man of my peace" is a close friend. They whispered his own words as a nickname and hoped he would be "enticed" so they could "prevail," the very words he used of God. David knew a friend's betrayal (Ps 41:9; 55:12-14), and Jesus applied Psalm 41:9 to Judas (John 13:18).
20:11 the LORD is with me like a ruthless mighty man Suddenly the tone changes. Jeremiah remembers the promise of his call (1:8, 19). Feelings do not change all at once, but he turns his eyes from his enemies to God, and from his feelings to God's promises. That is how faith works in the dark.
20:12 let me see Your vengeance on them, for to You I have revealed my case Almost the same prayer as 11:20. He hands his case to the Judge (17:10; Rom 12:19). Jesus calls us further, to pray for those who persecute us (Matt 5:44), but Jeremiah still teaches us where to take our wrongs.
20:13 Sing to the LORD; praise the LORD Still surrounded and not yet set free, he praises God by faith as if it were done. "The needy" is Jeremiah himself.
20:14 Cursed be the day on which I was born Then he falls lower than ever. He does not curse God or his parents but the day and the messenger, things that cannot be harmed. This is the language of deep grief, like Job 3. God put it in the Bible and did not cast him off for it. The God who said, "Before I formed you in the belly I knew you" (1:5), did not take back His purpose. Some think verses 14-18 were spoken at another time and placed here by subject.
20:16 like the cities which the LORD overthrew and did not relent Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen 19:24-25).
20:18 Why is this, that I came forth from the womb to see trouble and sorrow The chapter ends with only the question. The swing from praise in verse 13 to this is true to life, as many in grief and depression know. If you are in that place, Jeremiah's feelings were real but not the last word. God kept him, and he served many more years. Bring your darkness to God, and do not carry it alone. Talk to a pastor, a trusted friend or a counselor. If you are thinking of ending your life, reach out today to someone near you or to a crisis line where you live. Your life matters to God, who knew you before you were born.
21:1 when King Zedekiah sent to him Pashhur the son of Malchiah Chapters 21 to 24 are not in time order with chapter 20. Zedekiah was Judah's last king, about 597 to 586 B.C. Babylon began its final siege in his ninth year, about 588 B.C. (52:4), and this message likely comes early in it. It may sit here because both chapters have a Pashhur. This one later helped throw Jeremiah into the cistern (38:1-6). Zephaniah the priest was friendlier (29:29; 37:3).

LORD when King Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) sent to him Pashhur (Pashchur) the son of Malchiah (Malkiya) and Zephaniah (Tsefanya) the son of Maaseiah (Ma'aseya), the priest, saying, 2 "Inquire, please, of the LORD for us, for Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) king of Babylon (Bavel) is waging war against us. Perhaps the LORD will deal with us according to all His wonders, and he will go up from us." 3 And Jeremiah said to them, "Thus you shall say to Zedekiah: 4 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Look, I am turning back the weapons of war that are in your hand, with which you are fighting the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans (Kasdim) who are besieging you outside the wall; and I will gather them into the midst of this city. 5 And I, I will fight against you with an outstretched hand and with a strong arm, and in anger and in rage and in great wrath. 6 And I will strike the inhabitants of this city, both mankind and animals; by a great pestilence they will die. 7 And after that," declares the LORD, "I will give Zedekiah king of Judah (Yehuda), and his servants, and the people, and those who remain in this city from the pestilence, from the sword, and from the famine, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those who seek their life; and he will strike them with the edge of the sword; he will not have pity on them, and he will not spare, and he will not have compassion."'" 8 And to this people you shall say, "Thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am setting before you the way of life and the way of death. 9 He who remains in this city will die by the sword and by the famine and by the pestilence; and he who goes out and falls away to the Chaldeans who are besieging you will live, and his life will be to him for plunder. 10 For I have set My face against this city for calamity and not for good,' declares the LORD. 'Into the hand of the king of Babylon it will be given, and he will burn it with fire.'" 11 And to the house of the king of Judah: Hear the word of the LORD, 12 O house of David, thus says the LORD: Judge justice in the morning, and deliver the one robbed from the hand of the oppressor, lest My rage go forth like fire and burn, and there be no one who quenches it, because of the evil of your deeds. 13 Look, I am against you, O inhabitant of the valley, O rock of the plain, declares the LORD, you who say, "Who will come down against us? And who will come into our dwelling places?" 14 And I will punish you according to the fruit of your deeds, declares the LORD; and I will kindle a fire in its forest, and it will devour all that is around it.

Words to the Kings of Judah

1 Thus said the LORD: "Go down to the house of the king of Judah (Yehuda), and you shall speak there this word, 2 and you shall say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, who sits on the throne of David, you and your servants and your people who come in through these gates. 3 Thus says the LORD: "Do justice and righteousness, and deliver the one who has been robbed from the hand of the oppressor. And the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow do not maltreat; do not treat them violently; and innocent blood do not shed in this place. 4 For if you indeed do this thing, and kings sitting for David on his throne will come in through the gates of this house, riding in chariots and on horses, he and his ser-

21:2 Perhaps the LORD will deal with us according to all His wonders Zedekiah was likely thinking of Hezekiah's day, when the angel of the LORD struck down the Assyrian army in one night (2 Kgs 19:1-7, 35-36). But Hezekiah humbled himself and trusted God. Zedekiah wanted God's miracle without God's word (37:2). Many still pray that way, wanting God to get them out of trouble but not to change them.
21:4 I am turning back the weapons of war that are in your hand The army would be driven back inside the walls.
21:5 I, I will fight against you with an outstretched hand and with a strong arm Exodus words (Deut 4:34; 26:8). God's mighty arm that fought for Israel against Pharaoh would now fight against them. Zedekiah hoped God would fight Babylon. Instead He would fight Jerusalem. The hardest thing is not to have enemies against you but to have God against you. The good news is that in Christ, God is for us (Rom 8:31).
21:6 by a great pestilence they will die In a besieged city, packed with people, short of food and clean water, disease spreads fast.
21:7 I will give Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants It came true exactly. Zedekiah fled by night, was caught near Jericho, saw his sons killed at Riblah, was blinded and taken to Babylon in chains (39:4-7; 52:8-11).
21:8 I am setting before you the way of life and the way of death Moses set life and death before Israel and told them to choose life (Deut 30:15, 19). Here the choice is a strange one.
21:9 he who goes out and falls away to the Chaldeans who are besieging you will live To fall away is to surrender. The Chaldeans are the Babylonians. In war a soldier was lucky to come home with plunder. Those who surrendered would come away with one prize: their life. Babylon was God's tool of judgment, and to resist Babylon was to resist God. This made Jeremiah sound like a traitor, and the officials used these words to demand his death (38:2-4). But he was trying to save as many as he could. Whoever loses his life for Christ's sake will find it (Matt 16:25). Surrender to God is never defeat.
21:12 Judge justice in the morning The king was the highest judge, and court was held in the morning. Judge promptly, and do not make the poor wait. The king was to do what God Himself does, protecting the weak from the strong (Ps 72:1-4, 12-14). Anyone with authority, in a home, business, church or government, answers to God for how he treats those under him.
21:13 O inhabitant of the valley, O rock of the plain Jerusalem, on hills ringed by deep valleys, felt like a fortress on a rock. Even with Babylon at the gates they said, Who can get in? No wall stands when God is against it.
21:14 I will kindle a fire in its forest Likely the cedar buildings of the palace, one of which was called the House of the Forest of Lebanon (1 Kgs 7:2; 22:23). Some take it as the woods around the city. Babylon burned the palace and every great house (52:13). They trusted the temple (7:4), their walls and a miracle without repentance. Our security is in Christ alone, the rock that does not fall (Matt 7:24-25).
22:1 Go down to the house of the king of Judah The palace stood just below the temple, so Jeremiah went "down" to it.
22:3 the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow do not maltreat A sojourner was a foreigner living in Israel without family land. These three had no one to defend them. This was what God always asked of kings (Deut 17:18-20). Power is given to protect, not to take.

vants and his people. 5 And if you will not listen to these words, by Myself I swear," declares the LORD, "that this house will become a ruin."'" 6 For thus says the LORD concerning the house of the king of Judah: "You are Gilead (Gilad) to Me, the top of Lebanon (Levanon); surely I will make you a wilderness, cities that are not inhabited. 7 And I will consecrate destroyers against you, each with his weapons, and they will cut down the choicest of your cedars, and they will cast them on the fire. 8 And many nations will pass by this city, and they will say, each to his neighbor, 'Why has the LORD done thus to this great city?' 9 And they will say, 'Because they forsook the covenant of the LORD their God, and they bowed down to other gods and served them.'" 10 Do not weep for the dead, and do not show sympathy to him; indeed weep for the one who goes away, for he will not return again and see the land of his kindred. 11 For thus says the LORD concerning Shallum (Shalum) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu), the king of Judah, who was reigning in place of Josiah his father, who went out from this place: "He will not return there again; 12 for in the place where they have taken him into exile, there he will die, and this land he will not see again.

Woe to Jehoiakim

13 Woe to him who builds his house without righteousness, and his upper rooms without justice; he makes his neighbor work for nothing, and his wages he does not give to him; 14 who says, 'I will build for myself a house of great dimensions and spacious upper rooms,' and he cuts out for himself its windows, and it is paneled with cedar and painted with vermilion. 15 Do you reign because you are competing in cedar? Your father, did he not eat and drink, and do justice and righteousness? Then it was well for him. 16 He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well. Is not that the knowledge of Me?" declares the LORD. 17 "For your eyes and your heart are on nothing except on your unjust gain, and on the blood of the innocent, to shed it, and on oppression and on extortion, to do it." 18 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah, the king of Judah: "They will not mourn for him, 'Alas, my brother!' and 'Alas, sister!' They will not mourn for him, 'Alas, lord!' and 'Alas, his splendor!' 19 With the burial of a donkey he will be buried, dragged and thrown out beyond the gates of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 20 Go up to Lebanon and cry out, and in Bashan give forth your voice, and cry out from Abarim (Avarim), for all your lovers have been broken. 21 I spoke to you in your prosperity; you said, 'I will not listen.' This has been your way from your youth, that you have not listened to My voice. 22 All your shepherds the wind will shepherd, and your lovers will go into captivity; for then you will be ashamed, and you will be humiliated because of all your wickedness. 23 O you who dwell in Lebanon, nested among the cedars, how you will groan when labor pains come to you, anguish like a woman giving birth!"

22:5 by Myself I swear There is no one greater to swear by, so God swears by Himself (Heb 6:13).
22:6 You are Gilead to Me, the top of Lebanon Both were known for tall forests, and the cedar palace was like a forest (1 Kgs 7:2). God valued it, but He would still make it a wilderness.
22:7 I will consecrate destroyers against you God would set apart the Babylonian army for His work of judgment. The cedar beams would burn (52:13).
22:9 Because they forsook the covenant of the LORD their God Moses said the nations would ask this very question (Deut 29:24-26). Even the pagan world would understand why Jerusalem fell.
22:10 Do not weep for the dead Josiah, killed at Megiddo in 609 B.C. and deeply mourned (2 Kgs 23:29-30; 2 Chr 35:24-25). He was at rest. Weep instead for the son who would never come home.
22:11 Shallum the son of Josiah His personal name. As king he was Jehoahaz (2 Kgs 23:30-34; 1 Chr 3:15). After three months Pharaoh Neco took him to Egypt, and he died there. Josiah died with honor. His son lived on as a prisoner, the sadder end.
22:13 Woe to him who builds his house without righteousness Jehoiakim (22:18), king about 609 to 598 B.C. While Judah paid heavy tribute to Egypt (2 Kgs 23:35), he built a new palace with forced labor and unpaid wages. The Law said to pay a hired man the same day (Lev 19:13; Deut 24:14-15), and James says withheld wages cry out to God (James 5:4).
22:14 painted with vermilion A bright red paint. A beautiful house built on the backs of the poor.
22:15 Do you reign because you are competing in cedar Does the biggest house make you a king? Josiah ate and drank and enjoyed life, and God was not against that. But he also did what was right.
22:16 Is not that the knowledge of Me One of the most important lines in Jeremiah. To know God is not only to know facts about Him but to live as He lives and care for those He cares for (9:24). Whoever says he knows God and does not keep His commands is a liar (1 John 2:3-4). Real knowledge of God changes how we treat people who cannot pay us back.
22:17 on the blood of the innocent Jehoiakim killed the prophet Uriah for preaching what Jeremiah preached (26:20-23).
22:19 With the burial of a donkey he will be buried A dead donkey was dragged outside the city and left. No one would mourn him (22:18). Second Kings 24:6 says he slept with his fathers, which can mean only that he died, and Scripture does not say exactly how this word was fulfilled. He died about 598 B.C. as Babylon came against Jerusalem, and many think his body was thrown out in the siege or dishonored later (36:30). I take God at His word that it happened as He said.
22:20 Go up to Lebanon and cry out From Lebanon in the north, Bashan in the northeast and Abarim in Moab, Jerusalem would cry. Her "lovers" were the allies she trusted instead of God.
22:21 I spoke to you in your prosperity; you said, 'I will not listen.' Prosperity is often more dangerous to faith than trouble.
22:22 All your shepherds the wind will shepherd The kings and leaders, blown away like chaff.
22:23 nested among the cedars Jerusalem with its cedar palaces felt as safe as a bird in a high nest.

Coniah Cast Out

24 "As I live," declares the LORD, "though Coniah (Konyahu) the son of Jehoiakim, the king of Judah, were a signet ring on My right hand, yet from there I would pull you off. 25 And I will give you into the hand of those who seek your life, and into the hand of those whom you dread, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel), and into the hand of the Chaldeans (Kasdim). 26 And I will hurl you and your mother who bore you to another land, where you were not born, and there you will die. 27 And to the land to which they lift up their soul to return, there they will not return." 28 Is this man Coniah a despised, smashed pot, or a vessel in which there is no pleasure? Why have they been hurled, he and his offspring, and thrown to the land which they did not know? 29 O land, land, land, hear the word of the LORD! 30 Thus says the LORD: "Write this man down as childless, a man who will not prosper in his days; for no man from his offspring will prosper, sitting on the throne of David and ruling again over Judah."

JEREMIAH 23

The Righteous Branch

1 "Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the flock of My pasture!" declares the LORD. 2 Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), concerning the shepherds who shepherd My people: "You have scattered My flock, and you have banished them, and you have not visited them. Look, I am about to visit on you the evil of your deeds," declares the LORD. 3 "And I, I will gather the remnant of My flock from all the lands where I have banished them, and I will bring them back to their pasture, and they will be fruitful, and they will multiply. 4 And I will raise up shepherds over them, and they will shepherd them; and they will not be afraid again, and they will not be dismayed, and they will not be missing," declares the LORD. 5 "Look, days are coming," declares the LORD, "and I will raise up for David a righteous Branch; and He will reign as king, and He will act prudently, and He will do justice and righteousness in the land. 6 In His days Judah (Yehuda) will be saved, and Israel will dwell in security; and this is His name by which one will call Him: 'The LORD Our Righteousness.' 7 Therefore look, days are coming," declares the LORD, "and they will no longer say, 'As the LORD lives, who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim),' 8 but, 'As the LORD lives, who brought up and who brought in the offspring of the house of 22:24 though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, the king of Judah, were a signet ring on My right hand Coniah is a short form of Jeconiah, called Jehoiachin as king. He reigned three months in 597 B.C. (2 Kgs 24:8-15). A signet ring carried a king's seal and never left his hand. Even if Coniah were that precious, God would pull him off. Yet after the exile God told Coniah's grandson Zerubbabel that He would make him like a signet ring (Hag 2:23). God had not given up on David's line.

22:26 I will hurl you and your mother who bore you to another land His mother Nehushta went with him (13:18). He was held in Babylon thirty-seven years, later released and fed at the king's table, but he never came home (52:31-34).
22:28 a despised, smashed pot The broken pot of chapter 19. The people may have hoped he would come back.
22:30 Write this man down as childless Coniah had sons (1 Chr 3:17-18). "Childless" means as far as the throne goes. None of his offspring ever ruled Judah as king. His uncle Zedekiah reigned after him, and even Zerubbabel was only a governor under Persia.
22:30 for no man from his offspring will prosper, sitting on the throne of David God promised David's throne would last forever (2 Sam 7:16; 33:17). How can both stand? Matthew gives Joseph's line through Solomon and Jeconiah (Matt 1:6-7, 11-12), which gave Jesus the legal right to the throne. But Jesus was not Joseph's physical son. He was born of the virgin Mary (Matt 1:18-25). Luke gives a line through David's son Nathan (Luke 3:31), which many teachers understand to be Mary's, making Jesus truly David's descendant in the flesh (Rom 1:3) without coming from Coniah. Only the virgin birth could make both true. Jesus will reign on David's throne forever (Luke 1:32-33).
23:1 Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the flock of My pasture Kings and leaders are often called shepherds. The sheep never belonged to the kings. They belonged to God.
23:2 you have not visited them. Look, I am about to visit on you the evil of your deeds A play on one word. To visit is to look after. You did not visit My sheep with care, so I will visit you with judgment (Ezek 34).
23:3 I, I will gather the remnant of My flock from all the lands where I have banished them The remnant is the part of God's people that survives the judgment. God takes the scattering on Himself, and the gathering will be His work too.
23:4 they will not be afraid again After the return God raised up good leaders like Zerubbabel, Ezra and Nehemiah. But "not be afraid again" and "from all the lands" reach further, to the day when Christ reigns and Israel is gathered from every nation.
23:5 I will raise up for David a righteous Branch One of the great promises of the Messiah, the Anointed King from David's line (Christ in Greek). After chapter 22 David's tree looked like a stump, but a shoot would come from the stump of Jesse (Isa 11:1; Zech 3:8; 6:12). He is righteous, unlike Jehoiakim (22:13). "Act prudently" is the word used of the Servant (Isa 52:13). He will do the justice God asked of David's sons (22:3). Jesus is the Son of David (Matt 1:1), and God will give Him David's throne forever (Luke 1:32-33).
23:6 In His days Judah will be saved, and Israel will dwell in security Both kingdoms, split since about 930 B.C., saved together (Ezek 37:15-22). This has not happened fully. At His first coming Jesus was rejected and did not set up His kingdom. After the Tribulation He will return in glory, "all Israel will be saved" (Rom 11:26), and He will reign on the earth a thousand years (Rev 20:4-6). I believe this means a real King over a real, gathered Israel in their own land, not a promise taken from Israel and given to the church. Gentile believers share in the blessing (Rom 11:17-18), but Israel's promises remain Israel's.
23:6 The LORD Our Righteousness YHWH Tsidqenu. The King from David's line bears God's own name. Only God the Son, who became man, can be both David's son and David's Lord (Isa 9:6; Matt 22:41-45). There may be a wordplay with Zedekiah, whose name means the LORD is my righteousness. The true King will be what that name only claimed. None of us can meet God's standard (Rom 3:10, 23), but this King gives His righteousness to those who trust Him (1 Cor 1:30; 2 Cor 5:21; Phil 3:9). If you trust Jesus, your standing before God is not your record. It is His.
23:8 from a land northward and from all the lands where I had banished them The promise of 16:14-15 again, now right after the righteous Branch. The regathering of Israel and the Messiah's reign belong together. "Their own ground" is the land God gave Abraham, and I believe He will keep it to the letter.

Israel from a land northward and from all the lands where I had banished them'; and they will dwell on their own ground."

The False Prophets

9 Concerning the prophets: My heart is broken within me; all my bones have become weak; I have become like a drunken man, and like a man whom wine has overcome, because of the LORD and because of the words of His holiness. 10 For the land is full of adulterers; for because of a curse the land mourns; the pastures of the wilderness have dried up. And their course has become evil, and their might is not right. 11 "For both prophet and priest are polluted; even in My house I have found their wickedness," declares the LORD. 12 "Therefore their way will be to them like slippery places in the darkness; they will be pushed down, and they will fall in it; for I will bring calamity on them, the year of their punishment," declares the LORD. 13 "And among the prophets of Samaria (Shomron) I saw offensiveness: they prophesied by Baal, and they caused My people Israel to err. 14 And among the prophets of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) I have seen a horrible thing: committing adultery and walking in falsehood; and they strengthen the hands of evildoers, so that they have not turned back, each from his evil. All of them have become to Me like Sodom (Sedom), and its inhabitants like Gomorrah (Amora)." 15 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies concerning the prophets: "Look, I am about to make them eat wormwood, and I will make them drink water of poison; for from the prophets of Jerusalem profaneness has gone out to all the land." 16 Thus says the LORD of armies: "Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you; they are deluding you; they speak a vision of their own heart, not from the mouth of the LORD. 17 They keep saying to those who despise Me, 'The LORD has spoken: "You will have peace"'; and to everyone who walks in the stubbornness of his own heart they have said, 'Calamity will not come on you.' 18 For who has stood in the council of the LORD, that he may see and hear His word? Who has paid attention to His word and listened? 19 Look, the storm of the LORD! Rage has gone out, and a whirling storm; it will whirl on the head of the wicked. 20 The anger of the LORD will not turn back until He has done and until He has carried out the purposes of His heart. At the end of the days you will understand it with understanding. 21 I did not send the prophets, and they, they ran; I did not speak to them, and they, they prophesied. 22 And if they had stood in My council, then they would have made My people hear My words, and they would have turned them back from their evil way and from the evil of their deeds. 23 Am I a God from near," declares the LORD, "and not a God from afar? 24 Or can anyone hide himself in hiding places, and I not see him?" declares the LORD. "Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?" declares the LORD. 25 "I have heard what the prophets have said who prophesy falsehood in My name, saying, 'I have dreamed, I have dreamed!' 26 Until when? 23:9 Concerning the prophets The chapter turns to the false prophets. Jeremiah staggers like a drunken man, crushed by God's holy words.
23:10 because of a curse the land mourns The drought of chapter 14 was the covenant curse at work.
23:11 even in My house I have found their wickedness Those who should have led people to God brought their sin right into the temple.
23:13 they prophesied by Baal The northern prophets openly served Baal. Jerusalem's prophets claimed to speak for the LORD and lived in sin (23:14). That was worse, because they did it in God's name.
23:14 they strengthen the hands of evildoers By telling sinners all was well, they made it easier to keep sinning. They had become like Sodom (Gen 19).
23:15 from the prophets of Jerusalem profaneness has gone out to all the land Their poison spread everywhere, and now they would drink it themselves.
23:16 they speak a vision of their own heart, not from the mouth of the LORD The test of a prophet: does the message come from God's mouth or from the speaker's heart?
23:17 Calamity will not come on you People will gather teachers to tickle their ears (2 Tim 4:3-4). A message that promises peace without repentance is not from God.
23:18 who has stood in the council of the LORD God's throne room, where He makes His plans (1 Kgs 22:19). The false prophets had never been there.
23:20 At the end of the days you will understand it with understanding After the fall of Jerusalem they would look back and see that Jeremiah had been right.
23:22 they would have turned them back from their evil way Another test. A true word from God calls people away from sin. A false word leaves them comfortable in it. Does what I hear agree with God's Word and call me to follow Christ, or only tell me what I want to hear?
23:23 Am I a God from near They treated God like a small local god, close by and easy to manage. He fills heaven and earth, and no one can hide from Him (Ps 139:7-12).
23:25 I have dreamed, I have dreamed God did speak in dreams at times (Num 12:6), but these men made theirs up. False teaching does not always deny God openly. Sometimes it just buries His name (23:27).
23:28 What has the straw to do with the grain Straw looks like grain but feeds no one. Only God's word nourishes.
23:29 Is not My word thus, like fire Fire burns away what is false, as Jeremiah knew in his bones (20:9). A hammer breaks hard hearts nothing else can break (Isa 55:11; Heb 4:12). Opinions and feelings cannot change a heart. The Word of God can.
23:30 I am against the prophets Three times: those who borrow each other's words to sound real, those who use "declares the LORD" for their own ideas, and those who preach made-up dreams.

from his neighbor. 31 Look, I am against the prophets," declares the LORD, "who take their tongue and declare a declaration. 32 Look, I am against those who prophesy dreams of falsehood," declares the LORD, "and they recount them, and they cause My people to err by their falsehoods and by their recklessness; and I, I did not send them, and I did not command them, and they surely do not benefit this people," declares the LORD.

The Burden of the LORD

33 "And if this people or the prophet or a priest asks you, saying, 'What is the burden of the LORD?' and you shall say to them, 'What burden? And I will abandon you,' declares the LORD. 34 And the prophet and the priest and the people who says, 'The burden of the LORD,' and I will punish that man and his house. 35 Thus you shall say, each to his neighbor and each to his brother: 'What has the LORD answered?' and 'What has the LORD spoken?' 36 And the burden of the LORD you shall not remember again, for the burden will be to each man his own word, and you have overturned the words of the living God, the LORD of armies, our God. 37 Thus you shall say to the prophet: 'What has the LORD answered you?' and 'What has the LORD spoken?' 38 And if you say, 'The burden of the LORD,' therefore thus says the LORD: 'Because you have said this word, "The burden of the LORD," and I sent to you, saying, "You shall not say, 'The burden of the LORD,'" 39 therefore look, I, I will surely forget you, and I will abandon you and the city which I gave to you and to your fathers, away from My face. 40 And I will put on you an everlasting reproach and an everlasting shame which will not be forgotten.'"

JEREMIAH 24

Two Baskets of Figs

1 The LORD showed me, and look, two baskets of figs set before the temple of the LORD, after Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) had taken into exile Jeconiah (Yekhonyahu) the son of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim), the king of Judah (Yehuda), and the officials of Judah, and the craftsmen, and the smiths, from Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and had brought them to Babylon. 2 One basket had very good figs, like the early figs; and the other basket had very bad figs, which cannot be eaten because of badness. 3 And the LORD said to me, "What are you seeing, Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu)?" And I said, "Figs; the good figs are very good, and the bad are very bad, which cannot be eaten because of badness." 4 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 5 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): 'Like these good figs, so I will regard the exiles of Judah, whom I have sent from this place to the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), for good. 6 And I will set My eye on them for good, and I will bring them back to this land; and I will build them up and not tear them down, and I will plant them and not pluck them up. 7 And I will give them a heart to know Me, that I am the LORD; and they will be to Me for a people, and I, I will be to them for God; for they will return to Me with all their heart. 8 And like the bad figs which cannot be eaten because of badness'—for thus says the LORD—'so I will make Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah, and his officials, and the remnant of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and those who dwell in the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim). 9 And I will make them into a terror, into an evil to all the kingdoms of the earth, into a reproach and into a byword, into a taunt and into a curse, in all the places where I will

23:33 What is the burden of the LORD Massa means a burden and was also used for a prophet's heavy message (Isa 13:1). The people turned it into a joke to mock Jeremiah. God's answer: "What burden?" You are the burden, and I will throw you off.
23:35 What has the LORD answered God forbade the mocking phrase. They had worn out His words with jokes and "overturned the words of the living God" (23:36). We must not treat God's Word lightly. The right question is the humble one: what has the LORD spoken?
24:1 two baskets of figs set before the temple of the LORD A vision, or real baskets God used to teach. Firstfruits were brought to the temple in baskets (Deut 26:2). Jeconiah is Coniah (22:24) and Jehoiachin, taken to Babylon in 597 B.C. with the leaders and skilled workers who could make weapons and lead a revolt (2 Kgs 24:14-16). Ezekiel went in this group (Ezek 1:1-2). Zedekiah was left as a servant king (2 Kgs 24:17), so this comes about 597 B.C. or soon after.
24:2 very good figs, like the early figs The first figs of early summer were prized as the best (Isa 28:4; Hos 9:10).
24:3 the good figs are very good, and the bad are very bad God asks the question of 1:11 so the lesson will sink in. There is no basket in between. The difference was total.
24:5 Like these good figs, so I will regard the exiles of Judah This would shock Jerusalem. Those left behind thought the exiles were the sinners God threw away (Ezek 11:15). The exiles were not better by nature. The difference was what God would do with them. "Whom I have sent" means He did not lose them. Daniel and his friends were among the faithful exiles. Sometimes God sends us into a hard place "for good," to share His holiness and bear the peaceful fruit of righteousness (Heb 12:10-11).
24:6 I will set My eye on them for good In 21:10 God set His face against Jerusalem "for calamity and not for good." Now His eye is on the exiles. Cyrus let them go home in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1:1-4). Building and planting are the words of Jeremiah's call (1:10).
24:7 I will give them a heart to know Me The most important promise in the chapter. The heart is deceitful and incurable (17:9), so God Himself will change it. "They will be to Me for a people" is the heart of His covenant (Exod 6:7; Lev 26:12; 31:33; Rev 21:3). After the exile Israel never again fell into open idolatry as before. The full gift of a new heart for the nation is still ahead, in the new covenant (31:31-34; Ezek 36:26-27), complete when Israel turns to her Messiah at His return (Zech 12:10; Rom 11:26-27). For each of us, this is what God does when we are born again (2 Cor 5:17).
24:7 for they will return to Me with all their heart Not halfway, as in Josiah's day (3:10), but wholly.
24:8 so I will make Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his officials The bad figs were those who stayed with Zedekiah and refused God, and those in Egypt. Some went there with Jehoahaz (2 Kgs 23:34), and more fled after the fall against God's word (chapters 42 to 44), and they would die there (44:27-28).
24:9 into a byword A name people use as a warning, the curse Moses foretold (Deut 28:37).

banish them. 10 And I will send on them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, until they are finished from upon the ground which I gave to them and to their fathers.'"

Seventy Years

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) concerning all the people of Judah (Yehuda) in the fourth year of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu), the king of Judah; it was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel); 2 which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), saying, 3 "From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon, the king of Judah, and until this day, these twenty-three years, the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, and you have not listened. 4 And the LORD has sent to you all His servants the prophets, rising early and sending, and you have not listened, and you have not inclined your ear to hear, 5 saying, 'Turn back, please, each one from his evil way and from the evil of your deeds, and dwell on the ground which the LORD gave to you and to your fathers from long ago and until forever. 6 And do not walk after other gods to serve them and to bow down to them, and do not provoke Me to anger with the work of your hands, and I will not do harm to you.' 7 And you have not listened to Me," declares the LORD, "so as to provoke Me to anger with the work of your hands, for harm to you. 8 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies: 'Because you have not listened to My words, 9 look, I am about to send, and I will take all the clans of the north,' declares the LORD, 'and to Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, My servant, and I will bring them against this land and against its inhabitants and against all these nations around; and I will utterly destroy them, and I will make them into a horror and into a hissing and into everlasting ruins. 10 And I will destroy from them the sound of joy and the sound of gladness, the sound of a bridegroom and the sound of a bride, the sound of millstones and the light of a lamp. 11 And all this land will become a ruin, a horror, and these nations will serve the king of Babylon seventy years. 12 And it will be, when seventy years are completed, I will visit on the king of Babylon and on that nation,' declares the LORD, 'their iniquity, and on the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim); and I will make it into everlasting desolations. 13 And I will bring on that land all My words which I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. 14 For many nations and great kings will make servants of them, even of them; and I will repay them according to their deeds and according to the work of their hands.'"

The Cup of Wrath

15 For thus said the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), to me: "Take this cup of the wine of rage from My hand, and you shall make all the nations to whom I am sending you drink it. 16 And they will drink, and they will stagger, and they will act like madmen because of the sword which I am about to send among them." 17 And I took the cup from the hand of the LORD, and I made all the nations drink to whom the 24:10 until they are finished from upon the ground They stayed in the land but did not turn to God. Being in the right place did not make them right with Him. We judge by health, money and ease, but God looks at the heart (1 Sam 16:7). Not everyone in Jerusalem was lost. Jeremiah stayed, and so did faithful Ebed-melech (39:15-18). God knows each person who trusts Him.

25:1 in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, the king of Judah; it was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar 605 B.C., one of the great years of ancient history. Nebuchadnezzar, then crown prince, defeated Pharaoh Neco at Carchemish (46:2), Babylon became the ruling power, and that year he took the first captives from Jerusalem, Daniel among them (Dan 1:1-6). Daniel 1:1 says "third year," usually explained by different ways of counting a king's years. This is also the year Jeremiah wrote his scroll (36:1-2).

25:3 these twenty-three years From 627 B.C. (1:2) to 605 B.C., counting both ends. Twenty-three years of faithful preaching with little to show for it. If you have served God a long time without much fruit, Jeremiah understands. God measures faithfulness, not results.

25:4 all His servants the prophets Men like Zephaniah, Habakkuk and Uriah (26:20). Their message was simple: turn back.

25:9 Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, My servant The enemy "from the north" (1:14; 4:6) is named. A pagan king is God's servant because God was using him to carry out judgment, as He later called Cyrus His anointed (Isa 45:1). God rules kings who do not know Him (Prov 21:1). Nebuchadnezzar would later humble himself before God (Dan 4:34-37).

25:10 the sound of millstones and the light of a lamp Every home ground grain each morning and lit a lamp at night. When those stopped, no one lived there.

25:11 these nations will serve the king of Babylon seventy years One of the most precise time prophecies in the Bible. The most common count runs from 605 B.C., when Babylon took control and the first captives, to 538 B.C., when Cyrus let the Jews go home (Ezra 1:1-4). Another runs from the burning of the temple in 586 B.C. to the new temple in 516 B.C., exactly seventy years. Both show God keeping His word. The land would also enjoy the Sabbath rests Israel had ignored for centuries (Lev 25:1-7; 26:34-35; 2 Chr 36:21).

25:11 seventy years Daniel, an old man in Babylon, read this and saw that the seventy years were nearly over (Dan 9:2). He did not sit back. He prayed and confessed his people's sin (Dan 9:3-19). God's promises do not make prayer unnecessary. They give us something to pray for.

25:12 I will visit on the king of Babylon and on that nation Babylon was God's tool but not innocent. It did its work with pride and cruelty (compare Assyria, Isa 10:5-15). Babylon fell to Cyrus in 539 B.C. (Dan 5) and faded over the centuries until it was empty. Many teachers see a final fulfillment of chapters 50 and 51 still to come, in the fall of the Babylon of Revelation 17 and 18.

25:13 all that is written in this book Likely the scroll written that year (36:2) and the messages against the nations in chapters 46 to 51. In the old Greek translation those chapters come right here.

25:15 Take this cup of the wine of rage from My hand The cup is a common picture of God's judgment, which makes nations stagger (Ps 75:8; Isa 51:17). Most likely a vision or an acted sign before the nations' messengers (27:3). In Gethsemane Jesus asked the Father to remove "this cup" (Luke 22:42), the cup of wrath against sin. He drank it all on the cross in our place, so that those who trust Him never will (Rom 5:9).

LORD sent me: 18 Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, and its kings, its officials, to make them into a ruin, into a horror, into a hissing, and into a curse, as it is this day; 19 Pharaoh the king of Egypt (Mitsrayim), and his servants and his officials and all his people; 20 and all the mixed people, and all the kings of the land of Uz (Uts), and all the kings of the land of the Philistines, and Ashkelon (Ashqelon) and Gaza (Aza) and Ekron (Eqron) and the remnant of Ashdod; 21 Edom and Moab (Mo'av) and the sons of Ammon (Amon); 22 and all the kings of Tyre (Tsor) and all the kings of Sidon (Tsidon), and the kings of the coastland which is beyond the sea; 23 and Dedan and Tema and Buz, and all who are cut at the corner; 24 and all the kings of Arabia (Arav), and all the kings of the mixed people who dwell in the wilderness; 25 and all the kings of Zimri and all the kings of Elam and all the kings of Media (Maday); 26 and all the kings of the north, the near and the far, each to his brother, and all the kingdoms of the earth which are on the face of the ground; and the king of Sheshach (Sheshakh) will drink after them. 27 "And you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: "Drink, and be drunk, and vomit, and fall, and you will not rise, because of the sword which I am about to send among you."' 28 And it will be, if they refuse to take the cup from your hand to drink, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of armies: "You will surely drink. 29 For look, on the city over which My name is called I am beginning to do harm, and you, will you indeed go unpunished? You will not go unpunished, for I am calling a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth," declares the LORD of armies.' 30 And you, you shall prophesy to them all these words, and you shall say to them, 'The LORD will roar from on high, and from the dwelling of His holiness He will give forth His voice; He will surely roar against His pasture; a shout like those who tread grapes He will sing out to all the inhabitants of the earth. 31 An uproar has come to the end of the earth, for the LORD has a controversy with the nations; He is entering into judgment with all flesh; the wicked He has given to the sword,' declares the LORD." 32 Thus says the LORD of armies: "Look, calamity is going out from nation to nation, and a great storm will be roused from the remotest parts of the earth. 33 And the slain of the LORD will be in that day from the end of the earth and to the end of the earth; they will not be mourned, and they will not be gathered, and they will not be buried; they will become dung on the face of the ground. 34 Wail, O shepherds, and cry out; and roll yourselves in ashes, O nobles of the flock; for your days for slaughter have been completed, and your scatterings, and you will fall like a desirable vessel. 35 And refuge will perish from the shepherds, and escape from the nobles of the flock. 36 The sound of the outcry of the shepherds and the wailing of the nobles of the flock! For the LORD is destroying their pasture. 37 And the pastures of peace will be devastated because of the burning of the anger of the LORD. 38 He has left His lair like the young lion; for their land has become a waste because of the burning of the oppressor and because of the burning of His anger."

25:18 Jerusalem and the cities of Judah The list starts at home and moves out to Egypt, the Philistine cities, Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon, the Arabian tribes, and Elam and Media far east. God is not a local god. Every nation answers to Him (Acts 17:26).
25:26 the king of Sheshach will drink after them Sheshach is a code name for Babylon (51:41), formed by a letter game called atbash that swaps the first letter of the alphabet for the last, and so on. Babylon, who handed the cup to everyone, would drink last.
25:29 on the city over which My name is called I am beginning to do harm If God did not spare His own city, how could the nations escape? Judgment begins at the house of God (1 Pet 4:17). God's people are not exempt from His discipline, and His patience with the world does not mean He will never judge it.
25:30 The LORD will roar from on high Like a lion before it springs (Amos 1:2; Joel 3:16). Workers shouted as they trampled grapes. Revelation uses this picture for the judgment at Christ's return (Rev 14:19-20; 19:15).
25:31 the LORD has a controversy with the nations A controversy is a lawsuit. God is bringing charges against all flesh.
25:33 from the end of the earth and to the end of the earth These words reach beyond Babylon, which never ruled the ends of the earth. Like many prophecies this had a near fulfillment and points ahead to the day of the LORD, when God judges the whole earth at the end of the Tribulation and Christ returns (Rev 19:11-21). Some read it only of the Babylonian era.
25:34 Wail, O shepherds The kings and rulers of the nations, shattering like a dropped jar.
25:38 He has left His lair like the young lion God's patience has ended, and He has risen to act. His word comes true to the year. But the cup of wrath does not have to be ours. Jesus drank it. Have you put your trust in Him?
26:1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim About 609 B.C., soon after Josiah died and Pharaoh Neco put Jehoiakim on the throne. This is the occasion of the temple sermon. Chapter 7 gives the sermon, and chapter 26 gives the trial that followed.
26:2 do not hold back a word It would have been easy to leave out the part about the temple and keep the crowd friendly. Paul too declared the whole counsel of God (Acts 20:27).
26:3 Perhaps they will listen and turn back The principle of 18:7-8. God's warning came with an open door.

and I will relent concerning the calamity which I am planning to do to them because of the evil of their deeds. 4 And you shall say to them, "Thus says the LORD: 'If you will not listen to Me, to walk in My law which I have set before you, 5 to listen to the words of My servants the prophets, whom I am sending to you, even rising early and sending, and you have not listened, 6 and I will make this house like Shiloh (Shilo), and this city I will make into a curse for all the nations of the earth.'"'" 7 And the priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) speaking these words in the house of the LORD. 8 And it was, when Jeremiah had finished speaking all that the LORD had commanded him to speak to all the people, and the priests and the prophets and all the people seized him, saying, "You will surely die! 9 Why have you prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying, 'This house will be like Shiloh, and this city will be desolate, without inhabitant'?" And all the people assembled to Jeremiah in the house of the LORD. 10 And the officials of Judah heard these things, and they came up from the house of the king to the house of the LORD, and they sat at the entrance of the New Gate of the LORD. 11 And the priests and the prophets said to the officials and to all the people, saying, "A sentence of death belongs to this man, for he has prophesied against this city, just as you have heard with your own ears." 12 And Jeremiah said to all the officials and to all the people, saying, "The LORD sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city all the words which you have heard. 13 And now, make your ways and your deeds good, and listen to the voice of the LORD your God, and the LORD will relent concerning the calamity which He has spoken against you. 14 And I, look, I am in your hand; do to me as is good and as is right in your eyes. 15 Only, you must surely know that if you put me to death, you are putting innocent blood on yourselves and on this city and on its inhabitants; for in truth the LORD has sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears."

Jeremiah Spared

16 And the officials and all the people said to the priests and to the prophets, "There is no sentence of death for this man, for he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God." 17 And men from the elders of the land arose, and they said to all the assembly of the people, saying, 18 "Micah (Mikha) the Morashtite was prophesying in the days of Hezekiah (Chizqiyahu) the king of Judah, and he said to all the people of Judah, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of armies: "Zion (Tsiyon) will be plowed as a field, and Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) will become heaps of ruins, and the mountain of the house high places of a forest."' 19 Did Hezekiah the king of Judah and all Judah indeed put him to death? Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the face of the LORD, and the LORD relented concerning the calamity which He had spoken against them? And we are about to do great harm against ourselves." 20 And also there was a man prophesying in the name of the LORD, Uriah (Uriyahu) the son of Shemaiah (Shemayahu) from Kiriath-jearim (Qiryat-Ye'arim); and he prophesied against this city and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah. 21 And King Jehoiakim and all his mighty men and all the officials heard his words, and the king sought to put him to death; and Uriah heard, and he was afraid, and he fled, and he went to Egypt (Mitsrayim). 22 And King Jehoiakim sent men to Egypt, Elnathan (Elnatan) the son of Achbor (Akhbor), and men with him, to Egypt. 23 And they brought Uriah out from Egypt, and they brought 26:6 I will make this house like Shiloh Shiloh held the tabernacle in the judges' days and was destroyed after the ark was lost (7:12-14; 1 Sam 4). To people sure the temple could never fall (7:4), this sounded like blasphemy.

26:8 You will surely die The religious leaders led the attack. The priests and the false prophets who promised peace (23:17) saw their place, income and pride threatened. The Law said a false prophet must die (Deut 18:20), but they never asked whether his message was true. Jesus was accused of speaking against the temple (Mark 14:57-58), and so was Stephen (Acts 6:13).
26:10 they sat at the entrance of the New Gate of the LORD The king's council came up from the palace and sat as judges. Courts were held at a gate (Deut 21:19; Ruth 4:1).
26:11 for he has prophesied against this city Not that he lied, but that he spoke against Jerusalem. To them it was treason.
26:12 The LORD sent me A short defense. He did not deny or soften what he said. He named who sent him. Then, on trial for his life, he preached again (26:13), more concerned for their lives than his own.
26:14 I am in your hand He did not beg, threaten or run. He was first in God's hands.
26:15 you are putting innocent blood on yourselves and on this city Killing an innocent man brought guilt on the whole land (Deut 19:10). Courage like this comes from God (Matt 10:18-20; Acts 5:29).
26:16 There is no sentence of death for this man The crowd that shouted "You will surely die!" now joined the officials. The crowd that shouted Hosanna shouted Crucify Him a few days later (Mark 11:9; 15:13). It is God's approval that matters.
26:18 Micah the Morashtite From Moresheth in the lowlands of Judah, about a hundred years earlier. These are the very words of Micah 3:12, a prophet's book quoted word for word a century later, known and respected as God's word.
26:19 Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the face of the LORD A good king listens to a hard word and repents, and God spares. A foolish king kills the prophet.
26:20 Uriah the son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim A town about eight miles west of Jerusalem where the ark once stayed (1 Sam 7:1-2). The only place we read of him. He preached what Jeremiah preached.
26:22 Elnathan the son of Achbor Egypt, which had put Jehoiakim on the throne (2 Kgs 23:34), handed Uriah over. Elnathan later begged the king not to burn Jeremiah's scroll (36:12, 25). People are not always simple.
26:23 he struck him with the sword, and he threw his corpse into the graves of the sons of the people The common burial ground, denying him an honorable grave. This shows how real Jeremiah's danger was, and the innocent blood Jehoiakim shed (22:17). Faithfulness does not always end in rescue in this life. Some believers were delivered and some were killed by the sword, and the world was not worthy of them (Heb 11:33-38; Matt 23:37). Was Uriah wrong to flee? Scripture does not say, and Jesus allowed fleeing persecution (Matt 10:23). Both men were in God's hands.

him to King Jehoiakim, and he struck him with the sword, and he threw his corpse into the graves of the sons of the people. 24 Nevertheless the hand of Ahikam (Achiqam) the son of Shaphan (Shafan) was with Jeremiah, so as not to give him into the hand of the people to put him to death.

The Yoke of Babylon

1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu), the king of Judah (Yehuda), this word came to Jeremiah (Yirmeya) from the LORD, saying, 2 Thus said the LORD to me: "Make for yourself fetters and yoke-bars, and you shall put them on your neck. 3 And you shall send them to the king of Edom and to the king of Moab (Mo'av) and to the king of the sons of Ammon (Amon) and to the king of Tyre (Tsor) and to the king of Sidon (Tsidon), by the hand of the messengers who have come to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) to Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah. 4 And you shall command them to go to their masters, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Thus you shall say to your masters: 5 'I, I made the earth, mankind and the animals which are on the face of the earth, by My great power and by My outstretched arm, and I give it to whom it is right in My eyes. 6 And now I, I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel), My servant; and also the living things of the field I have given to him to serve him. 7 And all the nations will serve him and his son and his son's son, until the time of his own land comes, also it; and many nations and great kings will make him serve. 8 And it will be, the nation and the kingdom which will not serve him, Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and which will not put its neck in the yoke of the king of Babylon, with the sword and with the famine and with the pestilence I will punish that nation,' declares the LORD, 'until I have consumed them by his hand. 9 And you, do not listen to your prophets and to your diviners and to your dreams and to your soothsayers and to your sorcerers, who are saying to you, saying, "You shall not serve the king of Babylon." 10 For they are prophesying falsehood to you, so as to remove you far from your ground, and I will drive you out, and you will perish. 11 And the nation which will bring its neck into the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will let it remain on its own ground,' declares the LORD, 'and it will till it and dwell in it.'"'" 12 And to Zedekiah the king of Judah I spoke according to all these words, saying, "Bring your necks into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live. 13 Why will you die, you and your people, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, just as the LORD has spoken concerning the nation which will not serve the king of Babylon? 14 And do not listen to the words of the prophets who say to you, saying, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon,' for they are prophesying falsehood to you. 15 For I have not sent them," declares the LORD, "and they are prophesying falsely in My name, so that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who are

26:24 the hand of Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah Ahikam was sent to Huldah when the Book of the Law was found (2 Kgs 22:12-14), and his father Shaphan read it to Josiah, a family that loved God's word. His son Gedaliah would later protect Jeremiah too (39:14; 40:5-6). God kept His promise (1:8) through one man with courage. Is there someone standing alone who needs you to be their Ahikam?

27:1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah A long puzzle. The rest of the chapter names Zedekiah (27:3, 12), and 28:1 places these events in Zedekiah's fourth year. The Hebrew reads Jehoiakim here, but a few Hebrew manuscripts and some old translations read Zedekiah. Most think an early copyist repeated 26:1 by mistake. Others suggest the word came under Jehoiakim and was acted out under Zedekiah. Either way, the setting is Zedekiah's fourth year, about 593 B.C. "The beginning of the reign" can mean the early part of a reign (28:1).

27:2 Make for yourself fetters and yoke-bars A yoke was a heavy wooden bar across the necks of a pair of oxen, held by straps. To wear one meant to serve someone else. Jeremiah walked Jerusalem wearing it, another acted message (13:1-11; 19:1-11).

27:3 by the hand of the messengers who have come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon had sent envoys, most likely to plan a revolt against Babylon together. Egypt, under a new Pharaoh, may have been urging them on, though Scripture does not say. Picture diplomats at secret talks being handed a prophet's message from the God of Israel.

27:5 I give it to whom it is right in My eyes The foundation of the message. Because God made the earth, it is His to give (Dan 4:17, 25; Acts 17:24-26). No ruler, election or war is outside His hand. He sets up kings and takes them down (Dan 2:21).

27:6 also the living things of the field I have given to him God's "servant" again (25:9). Even the wild animals were under his rule, the language of Genesis 1:28 (Dan 2:38).

27:7 him and his son and his son's son, until the time of his own land comes Babylon's rule had a time limit of a few generations (25:11-12). Nebuchadnezzar died in 562 B.C., his son Evil-merodach followed (52:31), and Babylon fell to Cyrus in 539 B.C. The great master became a servant.

27:8 which will not put its neck in the yoke of the king of Babylon To resist Babylon was to resist God's judgment, and fighting it would only make it worse.

27:9 your diviners and to your dreams and to your soothsayers and to your sorcerers Diviners read omens such as the livers of sacrificed animals, and sorcerers practiced magic, all forbidden by the Law (Deut 18:10-12). They all told their kings the same pleasing thing.

27:11 I will let it remain on its own ground Submission meant survival. Judgment was coming either way. Sometimes God's mercy is telling us not to fight the discipline He has sent.

27:12 Bring your necks into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live Spoken to Zedekiah himself.

27:13 Why will you die, you and your people The cry of a man who wanted them to live. Ezekiel said it from Babylon, and God takes no pleasure in anyone's death (Ezek 18:31-32).

27:15 they are prophesying falsely in My name Judah's prophets said the same as the pagan diviners. A prophet in God's own temple can sound exactly like a sorcerer if he is not speaking God's word (23:21).

prophesying to you." 16 And to the priests and to all this people I spoke, saying, "Thus says the LORD: 'Do not listen to the words of your prophets who are prophesying to you, saying, "Look, the articles of the house of the LORD will now shortly be brought back from Babylon," for they are prophesying falsehood to you. 17 Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a ruin? 18 And if they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, let them entreat, please, the LORD of armies, that the articles which remain in the house of the LORD and in the house of the king of Judah and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. 19 For thus says the LORD of armies concerning the pillars and concerning the sea and concerning the stands and concerning the rest of the articles which remain in this city, 20 which Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon did not take when he took Jeconiah (Yekhonya) the son of Jehoiakim, the king of Judah, into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem; 21 for thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel, concerning the articles which remain in the house of the LORD and in the house of the king of Judah and in Jerusalem: 22 "They will be brought to Babylon, and there they will be until the day I visit them," declares the LORD. "And I will bring them up, and I will bring them back to this place."'"

Hananiah the False Prophet

1 And it was in that year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah (Tsidqiya) the king of Judah (Yehuda), in the fourth year, in the fifth month, Hananiah (Chananya) the son of Azzur (Azur), the prophet who was from Gibeon (Givon), said to me in the house of the LORD, before the eyes of the priests and all the people, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), saying, 'I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon (Bavel). 3 Within two more years I am bringing back to this place all the articles of the house of the LORD which Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) the king of Babylon took from this place and brought to Babylon. 4 And Jeconiah (Yekhonya) the son of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim), the king of Judah, and all the exiles of Judah who went to Babylon, I am bringing back to this place,' declares the LORD, 'for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.'" 5 And Jeremiah (Yirmeya) the prophet said to Hananiah the prophet before the eyes of the priests and before the eyes of all the people who were standing in the house of the LORD; 6 and Jeremiah the prophet said, "Amen! May the LORD do so! May the LORD carry out your words which you have prophesied, by bringing back the articles of the house of the LORD and all the exiles from Babylon to this place. 7 Nevertheless, listen, please, to this word which I am speaking in your ears and in the ears of all the people: 8 The prophets who were before me and before you from long ago, and they prophesied against many lands and against great kingdoms, of war and of calamity and of pestilence. 9 The prophet who prophesies of peace, when the word of the prophet comes, the prophet whom the LORD has sent in truth will be known." 10 And Hananiah the prophet took the yoke-bar from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, and he broke it. 11 And Hananiah said before the eyes of all the people, saying, "Thus says the 27:16 the articles of the house of the LORD will now shortly be brought back from Babylon In 597 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar took the temple's gold vessels (2 Kgs 24:13). The false prophets promised quick recovery. How many people want to hear their trouble will soon be over, with no change of heart? It is the most popular sermon there is.

27:18 let them entreat, please, the LORD of armies A test. A true prophet also speaks to God for the people (18:20). These men were not praying, only promising. False teachers are often long on promises and short on prayer.

27:19 concerning the pillars and concerning the sea and concerning the stands Solomon's great bronze works: the two pillars Jachin and Boaz, the "sea," a huge bronze basin for the priests' washing, and the stands for smaller basins (1 Kgs 7:15-39). They were broken up and carried off in 586 B.C. (52:17-23).

27:22 And I will bring them up, and I will bring them back to this place Hope even here. Cyrus returned thousands of gold and silver articles (Ezra 1:7-11). The false prophets said it would all come back soon with no need to change. Jeremiah said more would be lost first, but God would bring it back in His time. We want the quick way out. God gives the true way through.

28:1 Hananiah the son of Azzur, the prophet who was from Gibeon Zedekiah's fourth year was about 593 B.C., and the fifth month fell in July or August. Jeremiah was still wearing the yoke. Gibeon, about six miles northwest of Jerusalem, was a priests' town (Josh 21:17). Hananiah is called "the prophet" six times. He was known and respected as one, but that did not make him one. He chose the most public place he could find.

28:2 I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon He used Jeremiah's very words, "Thus says the LORD of armies," and spoke as if it were already done.

28:3 Within two more years Specific, hopeful and exactly what everyone wanted to hear. God had said seventy years (25:11). Hananiah said two.

28:4 And Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim Many in Jerusalem still thought of Jehoiachin as the true king. The message was political too: Babylon's day is almost over and revolt will succeed.

28:6 Amen! May the LORD do so Not sarcasm. Jeremiah loved his people and took no pleasure in judgment (17:16). He would have loved to see the exiles home in two years. But wishing does not make a thing true. We can long for good things for people, even those who oppose us, and still not pretend a lie is true.

28:8 they prophesied against many lands and against great kingdoms, of war and of calamity and of pestilence The true prophets of the past mostly warned of judgment and called people to repent.

28:9 the prophet whom the LORD has sent in truth will be known Moses' test (Deut 18:21-22). A warning of judgment can be turned aside by repentance, as at Nineveh (18:7-8). A promise of peace to an unrepentant people can only be proved by happening. Jeremiah himself would speak great words of peace in chapters 30 to 33, but peace without repentance carries a heavy burden of proof.

28:10 took the yoke-bar from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, and he broke it Hananiah matched Jeremiah's sign with one of his own. It was dramatic, powerful and a lie.

28:11 And Jeremiah the prophet went his way One of the most striking lines in the chapter. He did not argue or make up an answer. He walked away and waited for God to speak. When we do not have a word from God, it is better to be quiet than to say something of our own.

LORD: 'Thus I will break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon within two more years from the neck of all the nations.'" And Jeremiah the prophet went his way. 12 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah after Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke-bar from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, saying, 13 "Go, and you shall say to Hananiah, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "You have broken yoke-bars of wood, and you will make in place of them yoke-bars of iron." 14 For thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: "A yoke of iron I have put on the neck of all these nations, to serve Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and they will serve him; and also the living things of the field I have given to him."'" 15 And Jeremiah the prophet said to Hananiah the prophet, "Listen, please, Hananiah: the LORD has not sent you, and you, you have made this people trust in falsehood. 16 Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am about to send you away from the face of the ground. This year you will die, for you have spoken rebellion against the LORD.'" 17 And Hananiah the prophet died in that year, in the seventh month.

Jeremiah's Letter to the Exiles

1 And these are the words of the letter which Jeremiah (Yirmeya) the prophet sent from Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) to the remainder of the elders of the exiles, and to the priests, and to the prophets, and to all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) had taken into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon (Bavel), 2 after Jeconiah (Yekhonya) the king and the queen mother and the court officials, the officials of Judah (Yehuda) and Jerusalem, and the craftsmen and the smiths had gone out from Jerusalem, 3 by the hand of Elasah (Elasa) the son of Shaphan (Shafan) and Gemariah (Gemarya) the son of Hilkiah (Chilqiya), whom Zedekiah (Tsidqiya) the king of Judah sent to Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, to Babylon, saying, 4 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon: 5 'Build houses and dwell in them, and plant gardens and eat their produce. 6 Take wives and father sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters; and multiply there, and do not diminish. 7 And seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the LORD on its behalf; for in its welfare you will have welfare.' 8 For thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Do not let your prophets who are in your midst and your diviners deceive you, and do not listen to your dreams which you are dreaming. 9 For they are prophesying falsely to you in My name; I did not send them,' declares the LORD. 10 For thus says the LORD: 'When seventy years for Babylon are completed, I will visit you, and I will carry out on you My good word, to bring you back to this place. 11 For I, I know the plans which I am planning concerning you,' declares the LORD, 'plans of wel-

28:13 You have broken yoke-bars of wood, and you will make in place of them yoke-bars of iron By leading the people to resist Babylon, Hananiah set them up for a much harder bondage. When Zedekiah rebelled, Babylon destroyed the city. Moses warned of "a yoke of iron" for those who would not serve the LORD with joy (Deut 28:47-48).
28:14 A yoke of iron I have put on the neck of all these nations When we throw off God's discipline our own way, we often end up in something heavier. Jesus offers another yoke. "My yoke is easy, and My burden is light" (Matt 11:28-30). The way out is not breaking the yoke ourselves but coming to Him.
28:15 you have made this people trust in falsehood The real crime. He led a nation to trust a lie that would cost thousands of lives.
28:16 I am about to send you away from the face of the ground A wordplay. God had not "sent" him, so God would "send" him off the earth. The Law said a prophet who "has spoken rebellion against the LORD" (Deut 13:5) must die (Deut 18:20).
28:17 And Hananiah the prophet died in that year, in the seventh month He promised two years and did not live two months. By Moses' test, Jeremiah was true and Hananiah false. Teachers will be judged more strictly (James 3:1), and anyone who teaches God's Word carries that weight. False voices may be loud and popular for a while, but God's word stands forever (Isa 40:8). We test every voice by Scripture (Acts 17:11; 1 John 4:1).
29:1 the words of the letter which Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem To the exiles of 597 B.C. (2 Kgs 24:12-16), the good figs of chapter 24. Scripture gives no year, but it was likely early in Zedekiah's reign, near chapters 27 and 28.
29:3 by the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah Jeremiah's letter went with royal envoys to Babylon. Elasah was probably a brother of Ahikam, who had saved Jeremiah's life (26:24).
29:4 to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile Not Nebuchadnezzar, but "I have sent." The exile was God's discipline, not His defeat, and if God sent them, He was with them there.
29:5 Build houses and dwell in them, and plant gardens You do not build a house and plant a garden if you expect to leave in two years. Some exiles were living out of their bags. Jeremiah told them to unpack, marry and think three generations ahead.
29:7 seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the LORD on its behalf Welfare is shalom. Babylon was the enemy, and God told them to seek its peace and pray for it, because their own peace was tied to it. They were not to become Babylonians. Daniel and his friends served the king faithfully but would not bow to idols (Dan 1:8; 3:16-18; 6:10). Believers too are "sojourners and exiles" (1 Pet 2:11), citizens of heaven (Phil 3:20), called to do good to our cities and pray for those in authority (1 Pet 2:12; 1 Tim 2:1-2). Have you prayed for your town and leaders this week?
29:8 Do not let your prophets who are in your midst and your diviners deceive you There were Hananiahs in Babylon too, promising the trouble would soon be over.
29:10 When seventy years for Babylon are completed The timeline of 25:11-12. Most who read the letter would die in Babylon. Their children or grandchildren would go home, as they did under Cyrus in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1:1).
29:11 plans of welfare and not for calamity, to give you a latter end and a hope One of the most loved verses in the Bible, and it must be read where God put it. "You" is plural, a promise to the exiles as a people, right after "seventy years." It did not mean home next week. It meant God had not abandoned them, and their story would not end in Babylon. It is not a promise of health, wealth or an easy road, and the plans are His, not ours. But it shows God's heart. For every believer, God works all things for good (Rom 8:28-29), and our hope is an inheritance kept in heaven (1 Pet 1:3-4). Read it in Babylon, in the hard place, where it was written.

fare and not for calamity, to give you a latter end and a hope. 12 And you will call on Me, and you will come and pray to Me, and I will listen to you. 13 And you will seek Me and find Me, when you seek Me with all your heart. 14 And I will be found by you,' declares the LORD, 'and I will turn back your captivity, and I will gather you from all the nations and from all the places where I have banished you,' declares the LORD, 'and I will bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.' 15 Because you have said, 'The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon,' 16 for thus says the LORD concerning the king who sits on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who dwell in this city, your brothers who did not go out with you into exile; 17 thus says the LORD of armies: 'Look, I am about to send on them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and I will make them like the rotten figs which cannot be eaten because of badness. 18 And I will pursue after them with the sword, with the famine, and with the pestilence, and I will make them into a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth, into a curse and into a horror and into a hissing and into a reproach among all the nations where I have banished them, 19 because they have not listened to My words,' declares the LORD, 'which I sent to them by My servants the prophets, rising early and sending; and you did not listen,' declares the LORD. 20 And you, hear the word of the LORD, all the exiles whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babylon. 21 Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab (Achav) the son of Kolaiah (Qolaya), and concerning Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the son of Maaseiah (Ma'aseya), who are prophesying falsehood to you in My name: 'Look, I am about to give them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and he will strike them down before your eyes. 22 And a curse will be taken from them by all the exiles of Judah who are in Babylon, saying, "May the LORD make you like Zedekiah and like Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire," 23 because they have done folly in Israel, and they have committed adultery with the wives of their neighbors, and they have spoken a word in My name falsely, which I did not command them; and I am the one who knows, and a witness,' declares the LORD."

A Word Against Shemaiah

24 And to Shemaiah (Shemayahu) the Nehelamite you shall speak, saying, 25 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel, saying, 'Because you, you have sent letters in your own name to all the people who are in Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah (Tsefanya) the son of Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying, 26 "The LORD has made you priest in place of Jehoiada (Yehoyada) the priest, to be overseers in the house of the LORD for every man who is mad and who prophesies, and you shall put him into the stocks and into the iron collar. 27 And now, why have you not rebuked Jeremiah the Anathothite, who is prophesying to you? 28 For therefore he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, 'It will be long; build houses and dwell in them, and plant gardens and eat their produce.'"'" 29 And Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet. 30 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 31 "Send to all the exiles, saying, 'Thus says the LORD concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite: "Because Shemaiah has prophesied to you, and I, I did not send him, and he has made you trust in falsehood, 32 therefore thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am about to punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite and his offspring; he will not have a man dwelling among this people, and he will not look on the good which I am doing for My people,' declares the LORD, 'for he has spoken rebellion against the LORD.'"'"

29:12 you will come and pray to Me, and I will listen to you God's plan would come as His people turned to Him. Daniel did exactly this when he read Jeremiah's prophecy (Dan 9:2-3).
29:13 you will seek Me and find Me, when you seek Me with all your heart Moses said the same of Israel scattered among the nations (Deut 4:27-29). Judah's problem was always a divided heart (3:10). In exile, without temple or land, they would learn to seek God Himself. He is not hiding from those who seek Him honestly (Matt 7:7).
29:14 I will gather you from all the nations To "turn back your captivity" is to restore their fortunes. The return under Cyrus brought some home, but like 16:15 and 23:8 this reaches further, to God gathering Israel from every nation when Christ returns.
29:15 The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon The exiles were proud of prophets who said the exile would be short.
29:17 I will make them like the rotten figs Zedekiah and those left in Jerusalem, the picture of chapter 24. And the exiles had not listened either (29:19).
29:21 Ahab the son of Kolaiah, and concerning Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah Two false prophets in Babylon. This Zedekiah is not the king. Nebuchadnezzar would kill them, probably because promising Babylon's fall stirred hope of revolt.
29:22 whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire Burning was a known Babylonian punishment. God delivered three faithful men from that furnace (Dan 3). These two had no such deliverance.
29:23 they have committed adultery with the wives of their neighbors Their lives matched their lies. We know false prophets by their fruit (Matt 7:15-20). They hid their sins from people, but God is the witness.
29:24 Shemaiah the Nehelamite In Babylon, furious at Jeremiah's letter, he wrote to the priest Zephaniah, who now held Pashhur's old post (20:1), demanding Jeremiah be put in the stocks.
29:26 for every man who is mad and who prophesies People who speak God's truth have often been called crazy. Festus said it of Paul (Acts 26:24), and some said it of Jesus (Mark 3:21).
29:29 Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah He did not lock him up. Zephaniah seems more open to Jeremiah than others (21:1; 37:3).
29:32 he will not look on the good which I am doing for My people The charge brought against Hananiah (28:16). Shemaiah wanted the exiles to have hope, but a quick, false one. Because he rejected God's true hope, he and his family would have no share in it.

LORD, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), saying, 'Write for yourself all the words which I have spoken to you in a book. 3 For look, days are coming,' declares the LORD, 'and I will turn back the captivity of My people Israel and Judah (Yehuda),' says the LORD, 'and I will bring them back to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they will possess it.'" 4 And these are the words which the LORD spoke concerning Israel and concerning Judah: 5 "For thus says the LORD: 'A sound of trembling we have heard, of dread, and there is no peace. 6 Ask, please, and see whether a male gives birth. Why have I seen every man with his hands on his loins like a woman giving birth, and all faces turned to paleness? 7 Alas! For that day is great, so that there is none like it; and it is a time of distress for Jacob (Ya'aqov), and from it he will be saved. 8 And it will be in that day,' declares the LORD of armies, 'I will break his yoke from your neck, and your fetters I will tear apart; and strangers will no longer make him serve. 9 And they will serve the LORD their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them. 10 And you, do not fear, O My servant Jacob,' declares the LORD, 'and do not be dismayed, O Israel; for look, I am about to save you from afar, and your offspring from the land of their captivity; and Jacob will return and be undisturbed and be at ease, and there will be none who terrifies him. 11 For I am with you,' declares the LORD, 'to save you; for I will make a full end of all the nations where I have scattered you; only of you I will not make a full end; and I will discipline you in justice, and I will by no means leave you unpunished.'

Healing for an Incurable Wound

12 For thus says the LORD: 'Your fracture is incurable; your wound is severe. 13 There is none who pleads your cause, for your sore; remedies of healing there are none for you. 14 All your lovers have forgotten you; they do not seek you; for with the blow of an enemy I have struck you, with the correction of a cruel one, because of the greatness of your iniquity; your sins are numerous. 15 Why do you cry out over your fracture? Your pain is incurable. Because of the greatness of your iniquity, your sins are numerous; I have done these things to you. 16 Therefore all who devour you will be devoured, and all your opponents, all of them, will go into captivity; and those who plunder you will become plunder, and all who despoil you I will make into spoil. 17 For I will bring up healing for you, and from your wounds I will heal you,' declares the LORD, 'for they have called you an outcast: "She is Zion (Tsiyon); there is none who seeks her."' 18 Thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am about to turn back the captivity of the tents of Jacob, and on his dwellings I will have compassion; and the city will be rebuilt on its mound, and the citadel

30:2 Write for yourself all the words which I have spoken to you in a book Chapters 30 to 33 are often called the Book of Comfort. Many of these promises would not be fulfilled for a long time, so God had them kept in writing. The chapter is not dated, but many think it comes from the last years before the fall, near chapters 32 and 33.
30:3 I will turn back the captivity of My people Israel and Judah Both names. The north had been in exile since 722 B.C., and Judah was going now. God promises to restore both as one people to the real land He gave Abraham, Isaac and Jacob (Gen 15:18; 17:8; 3:18; 23:6).
30:6 Why have I seen every man with his hands on his loins like a woman giving birth Strong men bent double and white with fear. The prophets use birth pains for the terror of the day of the LORD (Isa 13:6-8), and Jesus called the troubles before His return "the beginning of birth pains" (Matt 24:8).
30:7 that day is great, so that there is none like it; and it is a time of distress for Jacob One of the key verses in the Old Testament about the last days, often called the time of Jacob's trouble. "That day" is the day of the LORD (Isa 2:12; Joel 2:1-2; Zeph 1:14-15). "None like it" was not true even of 586 B.C. Daniel speaks of "a time of distress such as has not been since there was a nation until that time" (Dan 12:1), and Jesus of a great tribulation unlike any before or after (Matt 24:21). It is focused on Jacob, the nation of Israel (Gen 32:28), not the church.
30:7 and from it he will be saved I believe, with many teachers, this is the coming seven-year Tribulation, Daniel's seventieth week (Dan 9:24-27). Before it begins Christ will come for His church and catch believers up to meet Him in the air (1 Thess 4:13-18; 1 Cor 15:51-52). He promised to keep us from the hour of trial (Rev 3:10), for God has not appointed us to wrath (1 Thess 5:9). Israel will go through it, many will look on Him whom they pierced (Zech 12:10), and at its end Christ will return visibly (Matt 24:29-31; Rev 19:11-16), and "all Israel will be saved" (Rom 11:26). Others see only the Babylonian crisis, or A.D. 70, or apply it to the church, but "none like it" and what follows in 30:8-10 have not happened yet. If God will not abandon Jacob, He will not abandon anyone who belongs to Him (John 14:1-3).
30:8 I will break his yoke from your neck Hananiah broke a wooden yoke and promised freedom in two years (chapter 28). "In that day" God Himself will break the yoke, and foreigners will never again rule Israel.
30:9 David their king, whom I will raise up for them David had been dead about four hundred years. Most teachers take "David" as the Messiah, the great Son of David, Jesus Christ (23:5; Hos 3:5; Ezek 34:23-24; 37:24-25), to whom God gives "the throne of David His father" (Luke 1:32). Some premillennial teachers believe David himself will be raised to serve as a prince under Christ (Dan 12:2). Either way, the King is Jesus. They still serve, but now the right Master.
30:10 do not fear, O My servant Jacob After the terror, tenderness. Undisturbed and at ease will be fully true in the kingdom.
30:11 only of you I will not make a full end The promise God made Jeremiah at his call (1:8, 19), now made to the nation. History bears it out. Assyria, Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome are gone, and the Jewish people are still here. God disciplines "in justice," a father's discipline, not final rejection (Heb 12:6; Rom 11:1-2).
30:12 Your fracture is incurable; your wound is severe Like the heart in 17:9, the nation had a wound no doctor could heal, and the allies it trusted had forgotten it (22:20).
30:15 I have done these things to you God is honest. The wound came from His hand because of their sin. As long as Judah blamed others there was no cure. When we stop making excuses and own our sin, we are ready for God's healing.
30:16 Therefore all who devour you will be devoured You would expect therefore I will destroy you. Instead God turns on those who devoured Israel with cruelty and pride.
30:17 For I will bring up healing for you, and from your wounds I will heal you In verse 12 the wound is incurable. Here God heals it. What is impossible with man is possible with God (Luke 18:27). The nations called Zion an outcast no one cared about. God cared. Our wound of sin is incurable by any human remedy, but by Christ's wound we are healed (1 Pet 2:24).
30:18 the city will be rebuilt on its mound Ancient cities were rebuilt on their own ruins and over time sat on a hill of rubble called a tell. Jerusalem would rise again.

will dwell on its proper place. 19 And thanksgiving will go out from them, and the sound of those who make merry; and I will multiply them, and they will not diminish; and I will make them honored, and they will not be insignificant. 20 And his sons will be as long ago, and his congregation will be established before Me; and I will punish all who oppress him. 21 And his noble one will be from him, and his ruler will come out from his midst; and I will bring him near, and he will draw near to Me; for who is he, this one who has pledged his heart to draw near to Me?' declares the LORD. 22 'And you will be to Me for a people, and I, I will be to you for God.'" 23 Look, the storm of the LORD! Rage has gone out, a sweeping storm; it will whirl on the head of the wicked. 24 The burning of the anger of the LORD will not turn back until He has done and until He has carried out the purposes of His heart. At the end of the days you will understand it.

Loved With an Everlasting Love

1 At that time, declares the LORD, I will be God to all the clans of Israel (Yisra'el), and they, they will be a people to Me. 2 Thus says the LORD: The people of the survivors of the sword found favor in the wilderness, going to give him rest, Israel. 3 From afar the LORD appeared to me: And with an everlasting love I have loved you; therefore I have drawn you with steadfast love. 4 Again I will build you, and you will be built, O virgin of Israel; again you will adorn yourself with your tambourines, and you will go out in the dance of those making merry. 5 Again you will plant vineyards on the mountains of Samaria (Shomron); planters will plant, and they will put them to common use. 6 For there is a day when watchmen will call out on the mountain of Ephraim (Efrayim), "Arise, and let us go up to Zion (Tsiyon), to the LORD our God." 7 For thus says the LORD: Cry out with gladness for Jacob (Ya'aqov), and shout for joy at the head of the nations; proclaim, praise, and say, "Save, O LORD, Your people, the remnant of Israel." 8 Look, I am bringing them from the land of the north, and I will gather them from the remotest parts of the earth; among them are the blind and the lame, the pregnant and the one giving birth together; a great assembly, they will return here. 9 With weeping they will come, and with supplications I will bring them; I will make them walk to torrents of water, on a straight path; they will not stumble on it; for I have become a father to Israel, and Ephraim, he is My firstborn. 10 Hear the word of the LORD, O nations, and declare it in the coastlands from afar, and say, "He who scattered Israel will gather him, and He will keep him as a shepherd keeps his flock." 11 For the LORD has ransomed Jacob, and He has redeemed him from the hand of one stronger than he. 12 And they will come and shout for joy on the height of Zion, and they will stream to the goodness of the LORD, for grain and for new wine and for fresh oil, and for the young of the flock and the herd; and their soul will be like a watered garden, and they will not languish again anymore. 13 Then the virgin will rejoice in the dance,

30:19 thanksgiving will go out from them, and the sound of those who make merry The joy silenced in 7:34 and 16:9 comes back. The return from Babylon was a beginning. The full joy and honor wait for Christ's kingdom.
30:21 his ruler will come out from his midst Not a foreigner set over them, but one of their own, as the Messiah came from Judah and David's family (Heb 7:14).
30:21 I will bring him near, and he will draw near to Me Only priests could come near God in the temple. King Uzziah was struck with leprosy for trying (2 Chr 26:16-21). Who would risk his life to draw near? Only one God invites. This points to a Ruler who is also a Priest (Ps 110:4; Zech 6:13), and Hebrews says that is Jesus (Heb 5:5-6; 7:1-17). Some apply it first to a ruler of the restored nation like Zerubbabel, with the full meaning in Christ.
30:22 And you will be to Me for a people The heart of the covenant (24:7; 31:33). Through this Priest-King, God and His people will be together at last.
30:24 At the end of the days you will understand it Verses 23-24 repeat 23:19-20, now aimed at the wicked who oppress Israel. "The end of the days" is the prophets' phrase for the last days (Isa 2:2; Dan 10:14). God will finish both His judgment and His restoration.
31:1 I will be God to all the clans of Israel "At that time" points back to the last days (30:24). The northern tribes, carried off in 722 B.C., were thought lost for good. God did not think so. The covenant promise of the exodus (Exod 6:7) comes back in verse 33.
31:2 The people of the survivors of the sword found favor in the wilderness Israel escaped Pharaoh's sword and found grace in the desert. God would do it again for the survivors of Babylon's sword.
31:3 with an everlasting love I have loved you; therefore I have drawn you with steadfast love Steadfast love is hesed, loyal covenant love that will not let go. God did not bring them back because they earned it. His love does not end. That is the same reason He saves anyone (Eph 2:4-5). His love comes first, and it draws us to Him.
31:4 Again I will build you, and you will be built, O virgin of Israel The building of Jeremiah's call (1:10). The nation once called an unfaithful wife (3:1-3) is now called "virgin," clean and restored. Tambourines and dancing come back.
31:6 Arise, and let us go up to Zion, to the LORD our God Since Jeroboam's golden calves about 930 B.C. the north had refused to worship in Jerusalem (1 Kgs 12:26-30). One day north and south will worship together at Zion.
31:8 among them are the blind and the lame, the pregnant and the one giving birth together The weakest are not left behind (Isa 40:11).
31:9 With weeping they will come Tears of repentance and of joy together.
31:9 Ephraim, he is My firstborn Ephraim, Joseph's son, led the northern tribes and stands for them all. The tribes that seemed lost were still God's children (Exod 4:22).
31:10 He who scattered Israel will gather him The scattering was God's judgment, and the gathering will be His grace. He will keep them as a shepherd keeps his flock.
31:11 He has redeemed him from the hand of one stronger than he To redeem is the work of the go'el, the kinsman-redeemer, the close relative who bought back a family member's land or freedom (Lev 25:25, 47-49). Babylon was stronger than Israel, and God was stronger than Babylon. He is our Redeemer too, and the price was the blood of Christ (1 Pet 1:18-19).
31:12 they will not languish again anymore Fulfilled in part after 538 B.C., but Jerusalem suffered again under Greece and Rome. I believe the full meaning waits for the day when Christ reigns and Israel is gathered for good (Amos 9:14-15).

and young men and old men together; and I will turn their mourning into joy, and I will comfort them, and I will make them glad from their sorrow. 14 And I will saturate the soul of the priests with fatness, and My people will be satisfied with My goodness, declares the LORD.

Rachel Weeping for Her Children

15 Thus says the LORD: A voice is heard in Ramah (Rama), lamentation, weeping of bitterness; Rachel is weeping over her sons; she refuses to be comforted over her sons, because they are not. 16 Thus says the LORD: Restrain your voice from weeping and your eyes from tears, for there is a reward for your work, declares the LORD, and they will return from the land of the enemy. 17 And there is hope for your latter end, declares the LORD, and the sons will return to their own territory. 18 I have certainly heard Ephraim bemoaning himself: "You have disciplined me, and I was disciplined, like a calf that was not trained; bring me back, and let me return, for You are the LORD my God. 19 For after my turning, I repented; and after my being instructed, I slapped my thigh; I was ashamed, and also I was humiliated, for I bore the reproach of my youth." 20 Is Ephraim a dear son to Me? Or a child of delights? For as often as I speak against him, I certainly remember him still; therefore My inward parts are in a tumult for him; I will surely have compassion on him, declares the LORD. 21 Set up road markers for yourself; make guideposts for yourself; set your heart to the highway, the way which you went. Return, O virgin of Israel; return to these your cities. 22 Until when will you waver, O apostate daughter? For the LORD has created a new thing in the earth: a female will surround a man. 23 Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: Again they will say this word in the land of Judah (Yehuda) and in its cities, when I turn back their captivity: "May the LORD bless you, O abode of righteousness, O mountain of holiness." 24 And Judah and all its cities will dwell in it together, farmers, and they will set out with the flock. 25 For I have saturated the weary soul, and every soul that has languished I have filled. 26 On this I awoke, and I looked, and my sleep was pleasant to me. 27 Look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of mankind and the seed of animals. 28 And it will be, just as I kept watch over them to pluck up and to pull down and to tear down and to destroy and to do harm, so I will keep watch over them to build and to plant, declares the LORD. 29 In those days they will not say again, "Fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the teeth of sons will be blunt." 30 But each man will die for his own iniquity; every man who eats the sour grapes, his teeth will be blunt.

The New Covenant

31 Look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah, 32 not like the covenant which I made with their fathers on the day I took hold of their hand to bring them out from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), in that they, they broke My covenant, and I, I was a husband over them, declares the 31:15 A voice is heard in Ramah Rachel, Jacob's beloved wife and mother of Joseph and Benjamin (Gen 35:16-19), is pictured as mother of the nation. Ramah, a Benjamite town about five miles north of Jerusalem, was where Babylon later gathered the captives in chains (40:1).

31:15 Rachel is weeping over her sons; she refuses to be comforted over her sons, because they are not When Herod killed the boys of Bethlehem, Matthew says this word was fulfilled (Matt 2:16-18). Rachel's tomb was on the way to Bethlehem (Gen 35:19), and the same grief came back, with Jesus born into the middle of it. The Child Herod tried to kill escaped, and He would bring His people the true return. Some see a more direct prediction. If you have lost a child, this verse does not hurry you. God put a mother's grief in His word and did not call it weak. And I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
31:17 there is hope for your latter end God does not mock Rachel's grief. He answers it. Hope does not deny the loss but looks past it. In Christ we grieve, but not as those without hope (1 Thess 4:13-14).
31:18 like a calf that was not trained A young ox fights the yoke until it learns. "Bring me back, and let me return": Ephraim asks God to give him even his repentance. Slapping the thigh was a sign of grief and shame.
31:20 therefore My inward parts are in a tumult for him; I will surely have compassion on him One of the tenderest verses in the Old Testament. Every time God spoke against Ephraim, He still remembered him. Jesus told of a father who saw his son far off and ran to him (Luke 15:20). If you have wandered, the Father is not waiting to shame you. He is longing for you to come home.
31:21 Set up road markers for yourself Exiles marching to Babylon should mark the road, because they would walk it back.
31:22 a female will surround a man One of the hardest lines in Jeremiah. Many think Israel, pictured as a woman, will cling to the LORD where before she ran from Him. Others see a reversal so new that the weak will protect the strong. Some in the early church saw the virgin birth in it. "Created" is the word of Genesis 1:1, for what only God can do. Whatever the exact picture, God is doing something new.
31:23 O abode of righteousness, O mountain of holiness Jerusalem blessed again.
31:25 I have saturated the weary soul Jesus makes the same offer to the weary (Matt 11:28).
31:26 On this I awoke, and I looked, and my sleep was pleasant to me It seems this message came in a dream. For a prophet with so few pleasant words to carry, this one was sweet.
31:28 so I will keep watch over them to build and to plant God watched over His words of judgment, and they came true (1:12). He will watch over His words of blessing with the same care.
31:29 Fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the teeth of sons will be blunt A saying used to complain of being punished for parents' sins (Ezek 18:2-4). Sin's results pass down through families, but each person answers to God for his own sin. The new covenant is personal in the same way.
31:31 I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah A covenant is a binding agreement in which God commits Himself to His people. This one is made with the whole nation, north and south.
31:32 on the day I took hold of their hand to bring them out from the land of Egypt The old covenant made at Sinai. God led them like a father holding a small child's hand. The trouble was never on God's side. The Law was holy and good (Rom 7:12), but written on stone, outside them, it could not change their hearts (Heb 8:7-8).

LORD. 33 For this is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put My law in their inward part, and on their heart I will write it; and I will be God to them, and they, they will be a people to Me. 34 And they will not teach again, each man his neighbor and each man his brother, saying, "Know the LORD," for all of them will know Me, from the least of them and to the greatest of them, declares the LORD; for I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin I will not remember again. 35 Thus says the LORD, who gives the sun for light by day, the statutes of the moon and the stars for light by night, who stirs up the sea, and its waves roar; the LORD of armies is His name: 36 If these statutes depart from before Me, declares the LORD, also the seed of Israel will cease from being a nation before Me all the days. 37 Thus says the LORD: If the heavens above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth below can be searched out, also I, I will reject all the seed of Israel for all that they have done, declares the LORD. 38 Look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and the city will be built for the LORD from the tower of Hananel (Chananel) to the Gate of the Corner. 39 And the measuring line will go out again in front of it over the hill of Gareb (Garev), and it will turn toward Goah (Go'a). 40 And all the valley of the corpses and of the fat ashes, and all the fields to the wadi of Kidron (Qidron), to the corner of the Gate of the Horses toward the east, will be holy to the LORD; it will not be plucked up, and it will not be torn down again forever.

Jeremiah Buys a Field

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD in the tenth year of Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah (Yehuda); that was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar). 2 And then the army of the king of Babylon (Bavel) was besieging Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the guard, which was in the house of the king of Judah, 3 where Zedekiah the king of Judah had shut him up, saying, "Why are you prophesying, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Look, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will capture it; 4 and Zedekiah the king of Judah will not escape from the hand of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), for he will certainly be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and his mouth will speak with his mouth, and his eyes will see his eyes; 5 and he will lead Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he will be until I visit him," declares the LORD. "Though you fight with the Chaldeans, you will not succeed"'?" 6 And Jeremiah said, "The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 7 'Look, Hanamel (Chanamel) the son of Shallum (Shalum), your uncle, is coming to you, saying, "Buy for yourself my field which is in Anathoth (Anatot), for the right of the 31:33 I will put My law in their inward part, and on their heart I will write it At Sinai God wrote on stone (Exod 31:18). Now He would write on hearts. It is not a different law but God's same holy will, now inside, so His people want to do it. God will give a new heart and His Spirit (Ezek 36:26-27), writing "not on tablets of stone but on fleshy tablets of heart" (2 Cor 3:3). The goal of every covenant is a relationship.

31:34 for all of them will know Me, from the least of them and to the greatest of them Under the old covenant many were born into Israel without knowing God. In the new, every member knows the LORD personally. There are still teachers (Eph 4:11), but no member needs to be told to start knowing God.
31:34 for I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin I will not remember again "For" makes forgiveness the foundation of the rest. God does not forget as we forget. He chooses never to bring our sin up again. He can because Someone paid. Jesus said, "This cup is the new covenant in My blood, which is being poured out for you" (Luke 22:20). Hebrews quotes this passage and says no further offering for sin is needed (Heb 8:8-12; 10:17-18). The sacrifices covered sin until Christ's one sacrifice took it away (Heb 10:4, 10).
31:34 I will forgive their iniquity How does a covenant made with Israel touch us? Christ's blood put it into effect, and believers today, Jews and Gentiles, share its spiritual blessings now: forgiveness, the Spirit within, a heart that knows God (2 Cor 3:6). Gentiles are grafted into Israel's tree and share her spiritual things (Rom 11:17; 15:27). The church has not replaced Israel, and the national fulfillment is still future, when Israel looks on Him whom they pierced (Zech 12:10) and "all Israel will be saved" (Rom 11:26-27). Most dispensational teachers hold this one-covenant view. Some older teachers spoke of two new covenants, a few gave the church no part in it, and others teach the church is now the Israel of the promise. I believe verse 31 means what it says. Do you know the Lord, and not just about Him?
31:35 who gives the sun for light by day God swears by His creation. Israel will last as long as the sun comes up.
31:37 I, I will reject all the seed of Israel for all that they have done Only if the heavens could be measured. God knows all they have done and still will not cast them off. That is why I cannot accept that God is finished with Israel. "The gifts and the calling of God are irrevocable" (Rom 11:1, 29). Many see a living sign of this in the survival of the Jewish people through two thousand years of scattering. If God will not break His word to Israel, He will not break it to you (Phil 1:6).
31:38 from the tower of Hananel to the gate of the corner Landmarks of the city wall (Neh 3:1; 2 Kgs 14:13). Gareb and Goah (31:39) can no longer be found on a map.
31:40 all the valley of the corpses and of the fat ashes Most likely the valley of Hinnom, where children were burned (7:31-32). The most defiled place around Jerusalem will be holy, as God makes sinners holy (1 Cor 6:11). Jerusalem was rebuilt after the exile (Neh 3:1, 28), but Rome destroyed it in A.D. 70, so "forever" points to Christ's kingdom (Zech 14:10-11).
32:1 in the tenth year of Zedekiah the king of Judah 587 B.C. The siege had begun about a year before (39:1), and the city would fall the next summer. This chapter is placed out of time order because it belongs with the promises of chapters 30 to 33.
32:2 shut up in the court of the guard An open courtyard by the palace where prisoners were kept under watch. Chapters 37 and 38 tell how he got there.
32:3 Why are you prophesying Zedekiah did not want the truth. He wanted Jeremiah quiet. Many people still deal with God's word that way, not arguing with it but locking it away where they do not have to hear it.
32:4 his eyes will see his eyes Zedekiah would meet Nebuchadnezzar face to face (39:5-7).
32:7 for the right of the redemption is yours, to buy it Land was not to leave a family for good. If a man had to sell, his nearest relative, the go'el or redeemer, had the right and duty to buy it back (Lev 25:25), as Boaz did for Naomi (Ruth 4:1-10). Anathoth was Jeremiah's hometown (1:1).

redemption is yours, to buy it.'" 8 And Hanamel the son of my uncle came to me according to the word of the LORD, to the court of the guard, and he said to me, 'Buy, please, my field which is in Anathoth, which is in the land of Benjamin (Binyamin); for the right of the possession is yours, and the redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.' And I knew that it was the word of the LORD. 9 And I bought the field which was in Anathoth from Hanamel the son of my uncle, and I weighed out to him the silver, approximately 7 ounces (seventeen shekels) of silver. 10 And I wrote in the document, and I sealed it, and I had witnesses testify, and I weighed out the silver on scales. 11 And I took the document of the purchase, the sealed one, the commandment and the statutes, and the open one; 12 and I gave the document of the purchase to Baruch (Barukh) the son of Neriah (Neriya), the son of Mahseiah (Machseya), before the eyes of Hanamel my uncle, and before the eyes of the witnesses who wrote in the document of the purchase, before the eyes of all the Jews who were sitting in the court of the guard. 13 And I commanded Baruch before their eyes, saying, 14 'Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Take these documents, this document of the purchase, both the sealed one and this open document, and put them in an earthenware vessel, so that they may remain many days." 15 For thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: "Houses and fields and vineyards will again be bought in this land."'

Jeremiah's Prayer

16 And I prayed to the LORD after I had given the document of the purchase to Baruch the son of Neriah, saying, 17 'Ah, Lord GOD! Look, You, You have made the heavens and the earth by Your great strength and by Your outstretched arm; nothing is too difficult for You, 18 who shows steadfast love to thousands, and repays the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their sons after them; the great, the mighty God, the LORD of armies is His name; 19 great in counsel and mighty in deed, whose eyes are open on all the ways of the sons of mankind, to give to each man according to his ways and according to the fruit of his deeds; 20 who performed signs and wonders in the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim) until this day, and in Israel and among mankind; and You have made for Yourself a name, as at this day. 21 And You brought out Your people Israel from the land of Egypt with signs and with wonders, and with a strong hand and with an outstretched arm, and with great terror; 22 and You gave them this land, which You swore to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey. 23 And they came in and took possession of it, and they did not listen to Your voice, and in Your law they did not walk; all that You commanded them to do, they did not do; and You have caused all this calamity to meet them. 24 Look, the siege mounds have come to the city to capture it, and the city has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans who are fighting against it, because of the sword and the famine and the pestilence; and what You spoke has happened, and look, You are seeing it. 25 And You, You have said to me, O Lord GOD, "Buy for yourself the field with silver, and have witnesses testify," and the city has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans!'"

Nothing Is Too Hard for the LORD

32:8 And I knew that it was the word of the LORD Humanly, a terrible deal. The land was under Babylonian control, and Hanamel may have wanted his money while money still meant something. But Hanamel came just as God said.
32:9 approximately 7 ounces of silver Seventeen shekels, weighed on scales, because coins were not yet in common use.
32:11 the sealed one, the commandment and the statutes, and the open one Two copies. The sealed one was rolled and closed with clay seals so no one could change it. The open one could be read any time, and if questioned, the sealed copy could be opened in court.
32:12 Baruch the son of Neriah Jeremiah's faithful scribe, a trained writer who drew up documents. Clay seal impressions called bullae, used to close documents like this, have been found from this period. One bears the name Berechiah son of Neriah the scribe, the long form of Baruch, though scholars debate whether that piece is genuine.
32:14 put them in an earthenware vessel, so that they may remain many days A clay jar kept papers safe for a long time. The Dead Sea Scrolls lasted about two thousand years that way. The deed would be needed long after the siege.
32:15 Houses and fields and vineyards will again be bought in this land With Babylon outside the wall, land was worthless, and Jeremiah bought it in public with witnesses. His purchase was a sermon. Faith acts on God's word. Abraham bought a burial field in a land he did not yet own (Gen 23). Jeremiah did the same in the land's darkest hour.
32:17 nothing is too difficult for You Jeremiah starts with creation, because that is where faith stands when circumstances say no. If God made heaven and earth, a siege and an empire are not too hard for Him (Gen 18:14; Luke 1:37). He prayed this before he knew how it would turn out. He was taken to Egypt, and Scripture never says he came back. When your situation looks hopeless, begin where he began: remind yourself who God is.
32:18 who shows steadfast love to thousands, and repays the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their sons Words from the Ten Commandments (Exod 20:5-6). God's mercy is wide and His justice real. Children who follow their parents' sins share their judgment (31:29-30).
32:19 whose eyes are open on all the ways of the sons of mankind Nothing escapes His notice (Heb 4:13).
32:23 and they did not listen to Your voice One line sums up Israel's history. God kept every promise, and they broke every command. Jeremiah does not blame God for the siege.
32:24 the siege mounds have come to the city Ramps of earth piled against the wall for soldiers and battering rams.
32:25 Buy for yourself the field with silver, and have witnesses testify Jeremiah obeyed first and asked afterward. He was not doubting God's power. He had just praised it. He was trying to understand God's plan. God is not offended when we bring our questions with a trusting heart (Ps 62:8).
32:27 I am the LORD, the God of all flesh; is anything too difficult for Me God turns Jeremiah's own words into a question: did you mean it? Babylon's soldiers, Judah's people and Jeremiah were all flesh, all in His hand (Num 16:22). Sometimes the words we pray are truer than we know. With God all things are possible (Matt 19:26). Is a marriage, a prodigal child, an addiction or a sin you cannot break too hard for Him? The answer is no.

difficult for Me? 28 Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and he will capture it. 29 And the Chaldeans who are fighting against this city will come, and they will set this city on fire with fire, and they will burn it, and the houses on whose roofs they have burned incense to Baal and poured out drink offerings to other gods, so as to provoke Me to anger. 30 For the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah have been only doing evil in My eyes from their youth; for the sons of Israel have only been provoking Me to anger by the work of their hands, declares the LORD. 31 For this city has been to Me a cause of My anger and of My rage from the day that they built it and until this day, to remove it from before My face, 32 because of all the evil of the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah which they have done to provoke Me to anger, they, their kings, their officials, their priests and their prophets, and the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 33 And they have turned to Me the back and not the face; and I was teaching them, rising early and teaching, and they were not listening to receive discipline. 34 And they put their detestable things in the house on which My name is called, to make it unclean. 35 And they built the high places of Baal which are in the valley of the son of Hinnom (Hinom), to make their sons and their daughters pass through to Molech, which I did not command them, and it did not come up on My heart, to do this abomination, so as to cause Judah to sin.' 36 And now therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you are saying, 'It has been given into the hand of the king of Babylon by the sword and by the famine and by the pestilence': 37 'Look, I am gathering them from all the lands where I have banished them in My anger and in My rage and in great wrath; and I will bring them back to this place, and I will make them dwell in security. 38 And they will be a people to Me, and I, I will be God to them. 39 And I will give them one heart and one way, to fear Me all the days, for good to them and to their sons after them. 40 And I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn back from after them, to do them good; and I will put My fear in their heart, so as not to turn aside from Me. 41 And I will rejoice over them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all My heart and with all My soul. 42 For thus says the LORD: "Just as I have brought all this great calamity to this people, so I, I am bringing on them all the good which I, I am speaking concerning them. 43 And the field will be bought in this land of which you are saying, 'It is a desolation, without man and animal; it has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans.' 44 They will buy fields for silver, and write in the document, and seal it, and have witnesses testify, in the land of Benjamin and in the surroundings of Jerusalem and in the cities of Judah and in the cities of the hill country and in the cities of the Shephelah and in the cities of the Negeb (Negev); for I will turn back their captivity," declares the LORD.'"

32:29 the houses on whose roofs they have burned incense to Baal Flat roofs were living space turned into altars (19:13). The houses where they worshiped idols would burn.
32:33 they have turned to Me the back and not the face Someone who will not even look at the person speaking to him, though God kept "rising early and teaching."
32:34 they put their detestable things in the house on which My name is called Idols in God's own temple, as in Manasseh's day (2 Kgs 21:4-7; 7:30).
32:35 to make their sons and their daughters pass through to Molech Molech was an Ammonite god (1 Kgs 11:7), and to make a child "pass through" meant giving him to be burned, the horror of Topheth (7:31; 19:5). God never commanded or willed it (Lev 18:21). If this touches a wound in your life, there is full forgiveness in Christ for all who turn to Him (1 John 1:9).
32:36 And now therefore After all that sin we expect judgment as the last word. God turns.
32:38 they will be a people to Me, and I, I will be God to them The covenant promise again (31:33). The judgment is real, but it is not God's last word.
32:39 I will give them one heart and one way, to fear Me all the days To fear God is to hold Him in reverent awe. A divided heart was Israel's problem. God will give an undivided one.
32:40 I will make with them an everlasting covenant The new covenant of 31:31-34. God commits Himself never to stop doing them good, and puts His fear in their heart so they will not turn away. It is kept on both sides because God works on both sides.
32:41 with all My heart and with all My soul Nowhere else does God say He does something with all His heart and soul. He is wholehearted about restoring His people. The planting was fulfilled in part after 538 B.C. and fully waits for Israel's future.
32:44 They will buy fields for silver Now Jeremiah knew why he bought the field. Deeds would be signed again from Benjamin to the Shephelah, the low western hills, and the Negeb, the dry south. The exiles came home after seventy years (Ezra 1). Jeremiah did not see it, but his faith was not wasted. Our acts of faith never are, even when we do not see the result in our lifetime (Heb 11:13).
33:1 he was still shut up in the court of the guard The same year as chapter 32, about 587 B.C. Walls could hold Jeremiah, but they could not keep God's word out.
33:2 the LORD who formed it to establish it The One who planned the future and is forming it is the One who speaks.
33:3 Call to Me, and I will answer you, and I will tell you great and inaccessible things which you have not known "Inaccessible" describes something fenced off, like a walled city no one can enter, things Jeremiah could never figure out alone. This was a promise to a prophet, and God gave him words now in our Bibles, so it is not a promise of new revelation. But its heart is for every believer. God invites us to call, and He answers (Ps 50:15). He shows us in His word what we could never find ourselves (1 Cor 2:9-10). When you are shut in by trouble, call to Him first.

cessible things which you have not known.' 4 For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), concerning the houses of this city and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah (Yehuda) which are pulled down because of the siege mounds and because of the sword: 5 'They are coming to fight with the Chaldeans (Kasdim), and to fill them with the corpses of the men whom I have struck down in My anger and in My rage, and for whom I have hidden My face from this city on account of all their evil. 6 Look, I am bringing to it health and healing, and I will heal them, and I will reveal to them an abundance of peace and truth. 7 And I will turn back the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel, and I will build them as at the first. 8 And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity by which they have sinned against Me, and I will forgive all their iniquities by which they have sinned against Me and by which they have transgressed against Me. 9 And it will be to Me a name of joy, for praise and for beauty, to all the nations of the earth who will hear all the good which I am doing for them; and they will be in dread, and they will tremble over all the good and over all the peace which I am doing for it.' 10 Thus says the LORD: 'Again there will be heard in this place, of which you are saying, "It is desolate, without man and without animal," in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) that are desolated, without man and without inhabitant and without animal, 11 the sound of joy and the sound of gladness, the sound of the bridegroom and the sound of the bride, the sound of those saying, "Give thanks to the LORD of armies, for the LORD is good, for His steadfast love is forever," of those bringing a thank offering to the house of the LORD. For I will turn back the captivity of the land as at the first,' says the LORD. 12 Thus says the LORD of armies: 'Again there will be in this place, which is desolate, without man and even animal, and in all its cities, a pasture of shepherds making the flock lie down. 13 In the cities of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephelah, and in the cities of the Negeb (Negev), and in the land of Benjamin (Binyamin), and in the surroundings of Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, the flock will again pass by the hands of one who counts them,' says the LORD.

The Promise to David Renewed

14 'Look, days are coming,' declares the LORD, 'and I will carry out the good word which I have spoken to the house of Israel and concerning the house of Judah. 15 In those days and at that time I will cause to sprout for David a Branch of righteousness, and He will do justice and righteousness in the land. 16 In those days Judah will be saved, and Jerusalem will dwell in security; and this is what one will call her: "The LORD Our Righteousness."' 17 For thus says the LORD: 'There will not be cut off for David a man sitting on the throne of the house of Israel; 18 and for the priests, the Levites, there will not be cut off a man from before Me offering up a burnt offering and burning a grain offering and making a sacrifice all the days.'" 19 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 20 "Thus says the LORD: 'If you can break My covenant of the day and My covenant of the night, so that 33:4 the houses of the kings of Judah which are pulled down because of the siege mounds Defenders tore down houses for stones to strengthen the wall (Isa 22:10). God does not hide the cost of sin before He speaks of grace.

33:6 I am bringing to it health and healing, and I will heal them Jeremiah asked, "Is there no balm in Gilead?" (8:22). Here is the answer. God Himself will heal.
33:8 I will cleanse them from all their iniquity Three words for sin: iniquity, the crookedness of sin; sinning, missing the mark; and transgressing, rebellion. God forgives all of it, the new covenant again (31:34). Healing for a nation, or a person, begins with forgiveness from God (1 John 1:9).
33:9 they will be in dread, and they will tremble over all the good Jerusalem, once a byword of shame, will bring God praise. The nations will be shaken by how much good God does for His people. Grace on this scale is frightening to those who have not known it.
33:11 Give thanks to the LORD of armies, for the LORD is good, for His steadfast love is forever The silenced sounds return (7:34; 16:9; 25:10), with Israel's song of worship (Ps 136:1). "LORD of armies" means He commands all the hosts of heaven and earth. When the exiles laid the second temple's foundation about 536 B.C., they sang this very song (Ezra 3:10-11). The full joy waits for Christ's reign, and the Bible ends with a wedding, the marriage of the Lamb (Rev 19:7-9).
33:13 the flock will again pass by the hands of one who counts them A shepherd counted his sheep through the gate at night, touching each one. Peace will be so real that shepherds can count flocks in the open again. Jesus knows His sheep by name and loses none (John 10:3, 28).
33:15 I will cause to sprout for David a Branch of righteousness A promise already made in 23:5-6. From the stump of David's fallen line a new shoot would sprout (Isa 11:1; Zech 3:8; 6:12). That King is Jesus, born of David's line (Matt 1:1; Rom 1:3), the only King who always did what is just. He reigns at the Father's right hand now and will rule the earth in righteousness when He returns (Isa 9:7; Rev 19:11). These verses (33:14-26) are not in the old Greek form of Jeremiah, which is shorter. The Hebrew and SLB are followed.
33:16 this is what one will call her: "The LORD Our Righteousness." In 23:6 this is the King's name. Here it is the city's. The city bears its King's name because His righteousness is its own. So God makes sinners right with Him: we have none of our own, but in Christ we receive His (2 Cor 5:21; Phil 3:9).
33:17 There will not be cut off for David a man sitting on the throne of the house of Israel God promised David a throne forever (2 Sam 7:12-16). After 586 B.C. no son of David sat in Jerusalem, but God kept the line alive through Zerubbabel to Joseph and Mary. God will give Jesus "the throne of David His father" (Luke 1:32), and His kingdom will have no end (Luke 1:33). He sits at the Father's right hand now and will reign from Jerusalem when He returns (Matt 25:31; Rev 20:4-6).
33:18 for the priests, the Levites, there will not be cut off a man from before Me The Levites served at God's sanctuary, and the priests were Aaron's sons within that tribe. How is this kept when Christ's one sacrifice ended the need for sacrifice for sin (Heb 10:10-18)? Many who read prophecy as I do see it kept in Ezekiel's future temple, where Levites and the sons of Zadok serve (Ezek 40-48; 44:15), with offerings as memorials looking back to the cross, as the Lord's Supper does now, not a return to it. Others see it kept in Christ, who "holds the priesthood permanently" (Heb 7:24), and in believers, "a royal priesthood" (1 Pet 2:9). Both agree no offering will ever add to what Christ finished.
33:20 If you can break My covenant of the day and My covenant of the night Can anyone stop the sun from rising? Then no one can stop God's promise to David.

daytime and night will not be in their time, 21 also My covenant with David My servant can be broken, so that there will not be for him a son reigning on his throne, and with the Levites, the priests, My ministers. 22 As the host of the heavens cannot be counted and the sand of the sea cannot be measured, so I will multiply the seed of David My servant and the Levites who minister to Me.'" 23 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 24 "Have you not seen what this people have spoken, saying, 'The two clans which the LORD chose, He has rejected them'? And they spurn My people, from their being a nation again before them. 25 Thus says the LORD: 'If My covenant with daytime and night is not, if I have not made the statutes of heaven and earth, 26 also the seed of Jacob (Ya'aqov) and David My servant I will reject, from taking from his seed rulers over the seed of Abraham (Avraham), Isaac (Yischaq), and Jacob. For I will turn back their captivity, and I will have compassion on them.'"

A Word to Zedekiah

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD, and Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) and all his army and all the kingdoms of the earth under the rule of his hand and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and against all its cities, saying, 2 Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Go, and you shall speak to Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah (Yehuda), and you shall say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: Look, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will burn it with fire. 3 And you, you will not escape from his hand, for you will certainly be captured, and into his hand you will be given; and your eyes will see the eyes of the king of Babylon, and his mouth will speak with your mouth, and you will go to Babylon.' 4 Nevertheless hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah: Thus says the LORD concerning you: 'You will not die by the sword. 5 In peace you will die; and as with the burnings of your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so they will burn for you; and "Alas, lord!" they will mourn for you. For I, I have spoken a word, declares the LORD.'" 6 And Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah the king of Judah in Jerusalem, 7 and the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the cities of Judah that were left, against Lachish (Lakhish) and against Azekah (Azeqa); for they, they remained among the cities of Judah, cities of fortification.

Freedom Promised and Broken

8 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people who were in Jerusalem, to proclaim liberty to them, 9 for each man to let go his male slave and each man his female slave, the Hebrew man and the Hebrew woman, free, so that no man should make them serve, a Jew his brother. 10 And all the officials and all the people who had entered into the covenant obeyed, to let go each man his male slave and each man his female slave free, so as not to make them serve again; and they obeyed, and they let them go. 11 And they turned back afterward, and they brought back the male slaves and the female slaves whom they had let go free, and they subjugated them as male slaves and as female slaves. 12 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, 13 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'I, I made a covenant with your fathers on the day I brought 33:22 As the host of the heavens cannot be counted The words used of Abraham's descendants (Gen 22:17). Every sunrise reminds us God keeps His word, and every promise in Christ is yes (2 Cor 1:20).

33:24 The two clans which the LORD chose, He has rejected them Most likely Israel and Judah, though some think the families of Jacob and David (33:26). People looking at the ruins said God was finished with His people. People still say it. God's answer has not changed (Rom 11:1-2).
33:26 For I will turn back their captivity, and I will have compassion on them The same oath as before. As long as heaven and earth hold their order, God will not reject the seed of Jacob and David.
34:1 all the kingdoms of the earth under the rule of his hand Babylon's army included soldiers from every nation it ruled, the whole known world against one small city.
34:3 your eyes will see the eyes of the king of Babylon It happened just as God said (39:5-7).
34:5 In peace you will die; and as with the burnings of your fathers The fires were not cremation but spices burned to honor a dead king (2 Chr 16:14). Zedekiah was blinded and died in prison in Babylon (39:7; 52:11). Some think this was fulfilled in part: he did not die by the sword and was mourned in exile. Others think this kinder end depended on the surrender God kept offering him (38:17-18), which he refused. Either way, God's word came true, and the king's choices shaped his end.
34:7 against Lachish and against Azekah Lachish lay about thirty miles southwest of Jerusalem and Azekah about eleven. They were the last strongholds left. Letters written in ink on broken pottery were found at Lachish in the 1930s, from these last days. In one an officer says they are watching for the signal fires of Lachish but can no longer see Azekah's. It seems Azekah had already fallen.
34:8 to proclaim liberty to them Zedekiah and the people made a covenant to free their Hebrew slaves.
34:9 the Hebrew man and the Hebrew woman, free This was not the race-based slavery of later centuries. Kidnapping a man to sell him was a capital crime (Exod 21:16). An Israelite in debt could sell himself to work for another Israelite, with hard limits: six years and freedom in the seventh (Exod 21:2), no harsh rule (Lev 25:39-43), and gifts from flock, grain and wine when he left, remembering Israel's own slavery in Egypt (Deut 15:12-15). It was a way to pay off debt and get a fresh start. Judah had ignored the limits and kept their brothers for life.
34:10 and they obeyed, and they let them go Why then? Perhaps real fear of God, perhaps freed slaves could help defend the walls, or masters could not feed them in a siege. The text does not say.
34:11 they brought back the male slaves and the female slaves whom they had let go free The Babylonians lifted the siege to meet Pharaoh's army (34:21; 37:5), the danger seemed past, and the masters grabbed their slaves back. Imagine walking out free and being dragged back weeks later. It was cruel, and God saw it.
34:13 from a house of slaves Israel itself had been a nation of slaves. God set them free and required them to free their own brothers.

them out from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), from a house of slaves, saying, 14 "At the end of seven years you shall let go each man his brother, the Hebrew, who has been sold to you; and he shall serve you six years, and you shall let him go free from with you." And your fathers did not listen to Me, and they did not incline their ear. 15 And you, you turned back today, and you did what is right in My eyes, by proclaiming liberty each man to his neighbor; and you made a covenant before Me in the house on which My name is called. 16 And you turned back, and you profaned My name, and you brought back each man his male slave and each man his female slave whom you had let go free to their desire, and you subjugated them to be male slaves and female slaves to you. 17 Therefore thus says the LORD: You, you have not listened to Me by proclaiming liberty each man to his brother and each man to his neighbor. Look, I am proclaiming liberty to you, declares the LORD, to the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine; and I will make you into a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth. 18 And I will make the men who have transgressed My covenant, who have not carried out the words of the covenant which they made before Me, like the calf which they cut in two and passed between its pieces, 19 the officials of Judah and the officials of Jerusalem, the court officials and the priests and all the people of the land who passed between the pieces of the calf; 20 and I will give them into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their life, and their corpse will be food for the birds of the heavens and for the animals of the earth. 21 And Zedekiah the king of Judah and his officials I will give into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their life, and into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon which has gone up from you. 22 Look, I am commanding, declares the LORD, and I will bring them back to this city, and they will fight against it, and they will capture it, and they will burn it with fire; and the cities of Judah I will make a desolation without inhabitant.'"

The Faithful Rechabites

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu), the king of Judah (Yehuda), saying, 2 "Go to the house of the Rechabites, and speak with them, and bring them to the house of the LORD, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink." 3 And I took Jaazaniah (Ya'azanya) the son of Jeremiah, the son of Habazziniah (Chavatsinya), and his brothers and all his sons and all the house of the Rechabites, 4 and I brought them into the house of the LORD, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan (Chanan) the son of Igdaliah (Yigdalyahu), the man of God, which was beside the chamber of the officials, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah (Ma'aseyahu) the son of Shallum (Shalum), the keeper of the threshold. 5 And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites bowls full of wine, and cups, and I said to them, "Drink wine." 6 And they said, "We will not drink wine, for Jonadab (Yonadav) the son of Rechab (Rekhav), our father, commanded us, saying, 'You shall not drink wine, you and your sons, forever. 7 And a house you shall not build, and seed you shall not sow, and a vineyard you shall not plant, and it shall not be yours; for in tents you shall dwell all your days, so that you may live many days on the face of the ground where you are sojourning.' 8 And we have listened to the voice of Jonadab (Yehonadav) the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us, not to drink wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters,

35:8 Col 3:20; Prov 1:8,9; Prov 4:1,2,10

34:14 you shall let go each man his brother, the Hebrew "Brother" is the key word. A Hebrew servant was family, not property. The law had been ignored for generations.
34:16 you turned back, and you profaned My name To profane is to treat what is holy as common. Twice "you turned back," first toward God, then away. Many make vows in a crisis, and when the crisis passes the old life returns. God takes our promises seriously, even ones we forget (Eccl 5:4-5).
34:17 Look, I am proclaiming liberty to you, declares the LORD, to the sword A terrible freedom: released from God's protection into the hands of death. When we refuse others the mercy God commands, we cut ourselves off from His mercy (Matt 18:32-35; James 2:13). How different is the liberty Jesus came "to proclaim" to captives (Luke 4:18; Isa 61:1), freeing all who come to Him from the slavery of sin.
34:18 the calf which they cut in two and passed between its pieces An ancient way of making a solemn oath: may I be cut in pieces like this if I break my word. When God made His covenant with Abraham, God alone passed between the pieces (Gen 15:9-17), putting the whole weight of the promise on Himself. Judah's leaders broke their oath, and God would hold them to it.
34:21 the army of the king of Babylon which has gone up from you The pullback was only a pause.
34:22 Look, I am commanding, declares the LORD, and I will bring them back to this city The Babylonians thought they followed their own king's orders, but they followed God's. A pause in God's judgment is His patience, giving time to repent (2 Pet 3:9).
35:1 in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah Verse 11 places this near the end of his reign, when raiders from Babylon and Syria attacked Judah (2 Kgs 24:1-2), about 599 or 598 B.C. It sits here, out of time order, as a contrast with the broken covenant of chapter 34.
35:2 Go to the house of the Rechabites "House" means family. The temple had side rooms around its courts. God was not tempting them to sin. He knew what they would do and was setting up a lesson for everyone watching.
35:4 the keeper of the threshold One of the high temple officers (52:24). This was a public place, near important men.
35:5 I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites bowls full of wine A prophet of God, in God's house, offering wine. It would have been easy to say yes.
35:6 We will not drink wine, for Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us They did not argue. They explained. Jonadab rode with King Jehu about 841 B.C. when Jehu wiped out Baal worship in the north (2 Kgs 10:15-23), a man zealous for the LORD. The Rechabites seem to have been Kenites, the family of Moses' father-in-law (Judg 1:16; 1 Chr 2:55).
35:7 for in tents you shall dwell all your days Scripture does not say why. Many think Jonadab wanted his family kept apart from the soft, Baal-worshiping city life he fought, living simply as strangers in the land. It was his rule for his family, never God's command for all Israel.
35:8 we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters For about two hundred and forty years they had kept his word.

9 and not to build houses for our dwelling; and vineyard and field and seed will not be ours. 10 And we have dwelt in tents, and we have obeyed, and we have done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. 11 And it came about, when Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) came up against the land, that we said, 'Come, and let us go to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) because of the army of the Chaldeans (Kasdim) and because of the army of Syria (Aram).' And we have dwelt in Jerusalem." 12 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 13 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): Go, and say to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 'Will you not receive discipline, to listen to My words? declares the LORD. 14 The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab, which he commanded his sons, not to drink wine, have been carried out, and they have not drunk until this day, for they have obeyed the commandment of their father. And I, I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, and you have not listened to Me. 15 And I have sent to you all My servants the prophets, rising early and sending, saying, "Turn back, please, each man from his evil way, and make your deeds good, and do not walk after other gods to serve them, and dwell on the ground which I gave to you and to your fathers"; and you have not inclined your ear, and you have not listened to Me. 16 For the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have carried out the commandment of their father which he commanded them, and this people has not listened to Me. 17 Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of armies, the God of Israel: Look, I am bringing to Judah and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the calamity which I have spoken against them, because I spoke to them, and they did not listen, and I called to them, and they did not answer.'" 18 And to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said, "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Because you have listened to the commandment of Jonadab your father, and you have kept all his commandments, and you have done according to all that he commanded you, 19 therefore thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: There will not be cut off for Jonadab the son of Rechab a man standing before Me all the days.'"

Baruch Reads the Scroll

1 And it came about in the fourth year of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu), the king of Judah (Yehuda), that this word came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD, saying, 2 "Take for yourself a scroll of a book, and write on it all the words which I have spoken to you concerning Israel (Yisra'el) and concerning Judah and concerning all the nations, from the day I spoke to you, from the days of Josiah, and until this day. 3 Perhaps the house of Judah will hear all the calamity which I am planning to do to them, so that they may turn back, each man from his evil way, and I will forgive their iniquity and their sin." 4 And Jeremiah called Baruch (Barukh) the son of Neriah (Neriya), and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD which He had spoken to him on a scroll of a book. 5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, "I am shut up; I am not able to go into the house of the LORD. 6 And you, you shall go, and you shall read aloud in the scroll which you have written from my mouth the words of the LORD in the ears of the people in the house of the LORD on a day of fasting; and also in the ears of all Judah who are coming from their cities you shall read them aloud. 7 Perhaps their supplication will fall before the LORD, and they will turn back, each man from his evil way; for great is the anger and the rage which the LORD has spoken against this people." 8 And 35:11 let us go to Jerusalem because of the army of the Chaldeans They moved inside the walls for safety in an emergency. They were flexible where they could be, but would not break the clear command.

35:13 Will you not receive discipline, to listen to My words To receive discipline is to accept correction and learn from it.
35:14 And I, I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, and you have not listened to Me Jonadab was a man, long dead, who spoke once, and his family obeyed for generations. God is the living Creator who spoke again and again, and His own people would not listen. If a human father's word can be kept that faithfully, how much more our Father in heaven's (Heb 12:9)?
35:15 Turn back, please, each man from his evil way The whole message of Jeremiah in one sentence. It was not complicated or hidden.
35:16 this people has not listened to Me A small wandering family put the whole nation to shame.
35:17 because I spoke to them, and they did not listen, and I called to them, and they did not answer God's judgment was not sudden or unfair. When people face judgment, it will not be because God was silent, but because they would not hear (John 3:19).
35:19 There will not be cut off for Jonadab the son of Rechab a man standing before Me all the days To "stand before" God means to serve Him (15:19; 1 Kgs 17:1). Scripture does not say how this was kept later, but God promised it. The passage does not require believers to refuse wine. God praised obedience to a father's rule. Scripture forbids drunkenness (Prov 20:1; Eph 5:18), many choose not to drink for good reasons, and believers differ and should act in love (Rom 14:21). God honors those who honor Him (1 Sam 2:30). One faithful father's choice shaped his family for two hundred and forty years.
36:1 in the fourth year of Jehoiakim 605 B.C., the year of Carchemish (46:2) and of the seventy-years prophecy (25:1, 11).
36:2 Take for yourself a scroll of a book A long strip of papyrus or leather sheets joined together, written in columns and rolled up. It would hold about twenty-three years of preaching (25:3).
36:3 so that they may turn back, each man from his evil way, and I will forgive Even now God's purpose in warning was mercy. He warns so that He may forgive (2 Pet 3:9).
36:4 Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD This is how much of our book came to be. God gave the words, Jeremiah spoke them, Baruch wrote them, and the Holy Spirit guided it all (2 Pet 1:21).
36:5 I am shut up; I am not able to go into the house of the LORD Not in prison yet. He seems to have been banned from the temple after the trouble of 20:1-2 and 26:8-11.
36:7 Perhaps their supplication will fall before the LORD "Perhaps" twice in this passage. God's servants keep hoping as long as God gives time.

Baruch the son of Neriah did according to all that Jeremiah the prophet had commanded him, reading aloud in the book the words of the LORD in the house of the LORD. 9 And it came about in the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, the king of Judah, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a fast before the LORD, all the people in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and all the people who were coming from the cities of Judah to Jerusalem. 10 And Baruch read aloud in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah (Gemaryahu) the son of Shaphan (Shafan) the scribe, in the upper court, at the entrance of the New Gate of the house of the LORD, in the ears of all the people. 11 And Micaiah (Mikhayhu) the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD from the book, 12 and he went down to the house of the king, to the chamber of the scribe; and look, all the officials were sitting there: Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah (Delayahu) the son of Shemaiah (Shemayahu), and Elnathan (Elnatan) the son of Achbor (Akhbor), and Gemariah the son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the son of Hananiah (Chananyahu), and all the officials. 13 And Micaiah told them all the words which he had heard when Baruch read aloud in the book in the ears of the people. 14 And all the officials sent Jehudi (Yehudi) the son of Nethaniah (Netanyahu), the son of Shelemiah (Shelemyahu), the son of Cushi (Kushi), to Baruch, saying, "The scroll in which you have read aloud in the ears of the people, take it in your hand and come." And Baruch the son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand, and he came to them. 15 And they said to him, "Sit down, please, and read it aloud in our ears." And Baruch read it aloud in their ears. 16 And it came about, when they heard all the words, they were in dread, each man toward his neighbor; and they said to Baruch, "We will certainly tell the king all these words." 17 And they asked Baruch, saying, "Tell us, please, how did you write all these words from his mouth?" 18 And Baruch said to them, "From his mouth he called out all these words to me, and I was writing on the book with ink." 19 And the officials said to Baruch, "Go, hide yourself, you and Jeremiah, and let no man know where you are."

The King Burns the Scroll

20 And they went in to the king into the court, and they had deposited the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe; and they told all the words in the ears of the king. 21 And the king sent Jehudi to fetch the scroll, and he fetched it from the chamber of Elishama the scribe; and Jehudi read it aloud in the ears of the king and in the ears of all the officials who were standing beside the king. 22 And the king was sitting in the winter house in the ninth month, and the brazier was burning before him. 23 And it came about, when Jehudi had read aloud three columns and four, he would tear it with the knife of the scribe and throw it into the fire that was in the brazier, until all the scroll was consumed on the fire that was on the brazier. 24 And they were not afraid, and they did not tear their garments, the king and all his servants who heard all these words. 25 And also Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah had made entreaty to the king not to burn the scroll, and he did not listen to them. 26 And the king commanded Jerahmeel (Yerachme'el) the son of the king and Seraiah (Serayahu) the son of Azriel and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel (Avde'el) to seize Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet; and the LORD hid them. 27 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah after the king had burned the scroll and the words which Baruch had written from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying, 28 "Return, take for yourself another scroll, and write on it all the former words which were on the first scroll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah burned. 29 And concerning Jehoiakim the king of Judah you shall say, 'Thus says the LORD: You, you have burned this scroll, saying, "Why have you written on it, saying, 'The king of Baby-

36:9 in the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, the king of Judah, in the ninth month About December 604 B.C. Babylonian records say Nebuchadnezzar destroyed Ashkelon about then, so the fast may have been called in fear of Babylon. It took courage for Baruch to read words the king would hate.

36:10 in the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the scribe Shaphan read the Book of the Law to Josiah (2 Kgs 22:8-10), and his family stood with Jeremiah (26:24; 39:14). A clay seal impression with the name Gemariah son of Shaphan has been found in the City of David, likely this man, a reminder that these were real people.

36:12 Elnathan the son of Achbor The man who fetched Uriah from Egypt to be killed (26:22-23), yet here he pleads for the scroll (36:25). The word of God can move hard hearts.

36:16 they were in dread, each man toward his neighbor The right response to God's word, Josiah's response (2 Kgs 22:11-13). These men had it, but not the power to make the king share it.

36:18 I was writing on the book with ink They wanted to be sure the words were Jeremiah's. Simple and honest.

36:19 Go, hide yourself, you and Jeremiah They knew Jehoiakim had already killed one prophet (26:23). Sometimes God protects His people through people of influence who quietly do right.

36:22 the brazier was burning before him It was December, cold and rainy. A brazier was a metal pan of burning coals to heat a room.

36:23 he would tear it with the knife of the scribe and throw it into the fire Every few columns the king sliced off what had been read with the small blade used to trim reed pens and dropped it in the coals. Cold, calm, deliberate contempt. Josiah tore his clothes when he heard God's word. Jehoiakim tore the scroll. People still cut out the parts they do not like, openly or by quietly skipping them. But cutting words out of the Book does not cut them out of reality (Isa 40:8; Matt 24:35).

36:24 they did not tear their garments Tearing garments was a sign of grief and repentance. There was none.

36:25 Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah had made entreaty to the king not to burn the scroll Three men spoke up in the king's own room. It did not change him, but God recorded their names.

36:26 and the LORD hid them Scripture does not say how, only that God did it. The king could burn a scroll, but he could not find the men God hid.

36:28 take for yourself another scroll God was not shaken. He simply ordered a second copy. Kings and empires have burned Bibles, and the Bible has outlived every one of them.

lon (Bavel) will certainly come, and he will destroy this land, and he will cause man and animal to cease from it'?" 30 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim the king of Judah: There will not be for him one sitting on the throne of David, and his corpse will be thrown out to the heat by day and to the frost by night. 31 And I will visit their iniquity on him and on his seed and on his servants; and I will bring on them and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem and on the men of Judah all the calamity which I have spoken against them, and they did not listen.'" 32 And Jeremiah took another scroll, and he gave it to Baruch the son of Neriah, the scribe; and he wrote on it from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim the king of Judah had burned in the fire; and again many words like them were added to them.

Zedekiah Seeks a Word

1 And King Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu) reigned in place of Coniah (Konyahu) the son of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim), whom Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) made king in the land of Judah (Yehuda). 2 And he did not listen, he and his servants and the people of the land, to the words of the LORD which He spoke by the hand of Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet. 3 And King Zedekiah sent Jehucal (Yehukhal) the son of Shelemiah (Shelemya) and Zephaniah (Tsefanyahu) the son of Maaseiah (Ma'aseya), the priest, to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "Pray, please, for us to the LORD our God." 4 And Jeremiah was coming in and going out among the people, and they had not put him into the house of imprisonment. 5 And the army of Pharaoh had come out from Egypt (Mitsrayim); and the Chaldeans (Kasdim) who were besieging Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) heard the report of them, and they withdrew from Jerusalem. 6 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, 7 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): 'Thus you shall say to the king of Judah who sent you to Me to inquire of Me: "Look, the army of Pharaoh which came out to you for help is going to return to its own land, Egypt. 8 And the Chaldeans will return, and they will fight against this city, and they will capture it, and they will burn it with fire."' 9 Thus says the LORD: 'Do not deceive yourselves, saying, "The Chaldeans will certainly go away from us," for they will not go away. 10 For even if you had struck down all the army of the Chaldeans who are fighting with you, and there remained among them men pierced through, each man in his tent, they would rise up and burn this city with fire.'"

Jeremiah Arrested and Imprisoned

11 And it came about, when the army of the Chaldeans had withdrawn from Jerusalem because of the army of Pharaoh, 12 that Jeremiah went out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin (Binyamin), to receive a portion from there among the people. 13 And he was at the Gate of Benjamin, and a captain of the guard was there, and his name was Irijah (Yir'iya) the son of Shelemiah, the son of Hananiah (Chananya); and he seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "You are falling away to the Chaldeans." 14 And Jeremiah said, "A lie! I am not falling away to the Chaldeans." And he did not listen to him; and Irijah seized Jeremiah, and he brought him to the officials. 15 And the officials were angry at Jeremiah, and they struck him, and they put him in the house of the fetters, the house of Jonathan (Yehonatan) the scribe; for they had made it into the house of imprisonment.

36:30 There will not be for him one sitting on the throne of David His son Jehoiachin reigned only three months before exile (2 Kgs 24:8-15), and none of his line ruled again (22:30). His unburied body echoes "the burial of a donkey" (22:19). Second Kings 24:6 says only that he died, and Scripture does not say exactly what happened to his body. The man who threw God's word in the fire would himself be thrown out.
36:32 and again many words like them were added to them The king's fire did not shrink God's word. It grew. When men try to silence His word, He speaks more. You hold in your Bible what a king tried to burn. Read it with Josiah's fear, not Jehoiakim's contempt.
37:1 whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah Coniah, or Jehoiachin, was taken in 597 B.C., and Nebuchadnezzar put Josiah's son Mattaniah on the throne and renamed him Zedekiah (2 Kgs 24:8-17). The Babylonian Chronicle, clay tablets recording each year of Babylon's kings, says that in 597 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar captured the city of Judah, seized its king and appointed a king of his own choice, a clear outside witness to this history.
37:2 And he did not listen The summary of Zedekiah's whole reign, about 597 to 586 B.C.
37:3 Pray, please, for us to the LORD our God Zedekiah wanted God's help, but he did not want to obey God (21:1-2).
37:5 the army of Pharaoh had come out from Egypt Pharaoh Hophra (44:30), who reigned about 589 to 570 B.C. Zedekiah had turned to Egypt for help (Ezek 17:15). The Babylonians pulled back to meet him, and to those inside it looked like rescue. This is the pause that tempted the masters to take back their slaves (34:11, 21).
37:7 the army of Pharaoh which came out to you for help is going to return to its own land God's word did not bend to the good news. Prayer is not a way to get God to approve our plans. It is where we learn His.
37:9 Do not deceive yourselves The most dangerous lies are the ones we tell ourselves.
37:10 there remained among them men pierced through, each man in his tent, they would rise up and burn this city Even if only wounded men were left, they would burn Jerusalem anyway. The point is not Babylon's strength but God's decree. When God has spoken, no human strength can overturn it (Prov 21:30).
37:12 to receive a portion from there among the people He was heading home toward Anathoth, probably to settle a share of family property. The field he bought from his cousin came later (32:6-9).
37:13 You are falling away to the Chaldeans Irijah accused him of deserting. On the surface it made sense, since Jeremiah urged surrender (21:9) and some had deserted (38:19). But it was false. Some think Irijah's grandfather was the false prophet Hananiah (28:1-17), but Scripture does not say.
37:15 the officials were angry at Jeremiah, and they struck him Not the men who protected him under Jehoiakim (36:19). Those had gone into exile in 597 B.C. or lost their places. The new officials were hostile.

16 For Jeremiah had come into the house of the cistern and into the vaults, and Jeremiah remained there many days. 17 And King Zedekiah sent and took him, and the king asked him in his house in secret, and he said, "Is there a word from the LORD?" And Jeremiah said, "There is." And he said, "Into the hand of the king of Babylon you will be given." 18 And Jeremiah said to King Zedekiah, "What have I sinned against you and against your servants and against this people, that you have put me into the house of imprisonment? 19 And where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land'? 20 And now listen, please, my lord the king; please let my supplication fall before you, and do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the scribe, so that I will not die there." 21 And King Zedekiah commanded, and they committed Jeremiah to the court of the guard, and they gave him a round loaf of bread daily from the street of the bakers, until all the bread from the city was finished. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

Jeremiah in the Cistern

1 And Shephatiah (Shefatya) the son of Mattan (Matan), and Gedaliah (Gedalyahu) the son of Pashhur (Pashchur), and Jucal (Yukhal) the son of Shelemiah (Shelemyahu), and Pashhur the son of Malchiah (Malkiya) heard the words which Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) was speaking to all the people, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD: 'He who remains in this city will die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence; and he who goes out to the Chaldeans (Kasdim) will live, and his life will be to him for plunder, and he will live.' 3 Thus says the LORD: 'This city will certainly be given into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon (Bavel), and he will capture it.'" 4 And the officials said to the king, "Please let this man be put to death, because he is making slack the hands of the men of war who remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking to them according to these words; for this man is not seeking welfare for this people, but rather calamity." 5 And King Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) said, "Look, he is in your hand; for the king is not able to do anything against you." 6 And they took Jeremiah, and they threw him into the cistern of Malchiah (Malkiyahu) the son of the king, which was in the court of the guard; and they let down Jeremiah with ropes. And in the cistern there was no water, but mud, and Jeremiah sank in the mud. 7 And Ebed-melech (Eved-Melekh) the Cushite, a man, a court official, and he was in the house of the king, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern; and the king was sitting in the Gate of Benjamin (Binyamin). 8 And Ebed-melech went out from the house of the king, and he spoke to the king, saying, 9 "My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom they have thrown into the cistern; and he will die in his place because of the famine, for there is no more bread in the city." 10 And the king commanded Ebed-melech the Cushite, saying, "Take with you from here thirty men, and bring up Jeremiah the prophet from the cistern before he dies." 11 And Ebed-melech took the men with him, and he went into the house of the king, to a place under the storehouse, and he

37:16 into the house of the cistern and into the vaults A private house turned prison, with an underground cell, dark and damp. Jeremiah was no longer young, and he suffered for a crime he did not commit. If you suffer unfairly for doing right, you are in good company (Matt 5:11-12; 1 Pet 2:19-21).

37:17 Is there a word from the LORD Afraid of his officials, the king met the prophet in secret. He knew Jeremiah spoke for God. Maybe he hoped weeks in the dungeon had made him ready to say something nicer. "There is," and in one sentence, the truth. One kind word could have bought his freedom. A faithful servant does not shape the message to please the one who holds power over him (Gal 1:10).

37:19 where are your prophets who prophesied to you The false prophets' words had failed and Jeremiah's had come true, yet he was the one in prison.

37:20 listen, please, my lord the king He was not too proud to ask for mercy, and he spoke respectfully to a weak and wrong king. Standing firm on God's word did not make him rude (Rom 13:7; 1 Pet 2:17).

37:21 a round loaf of bread daily from the street of the bakers Bakers often worked on one street. God kept Jeremiah alive through the siege as He fed Elijah by the brook (1 Kgs 17:2-6), keeping His promise (1:8) one loaf at a time. In this prison yard he bought the field (32:2) and heard "Call to Me" (33:1). Some of the greatest promises in his book came to him here.

38:1 Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, and Jucal the son of Shelemiah Jucal is the Jehucal of 37:3, and Pashhur son of Malchiah appeared in 21:1. Clay seal impressions bearing the names Jehucal son of Shelemiah and Gedaliah son of Pashhur have been found in the City of David, and many believe these are the very men named here.

38:2 his life will be to him for plunder Plunder is what a soldier carries off from battle. Whoever surrendered would escape with his life as his prize. The city's fall was God's judgment, and surrender was the way to accept it and live (21:8-10).

38:4 he is making slack the hands of the men of war To weaken the hands is to drain courage. One of the Lachish letters from these same months uses the same phrase of words from Jerusalem. "Not seeking welfare for this people" was false. Jeremiah was the one man trying to save them, praying and weeping for them (9:1; 14:7-9). They called the truth treason.

38:5 Look, he is in your hand; for the king is not able to do anything against you One of the weakest things a king ever said. He knew Jeremiah was right and handed him over anyway, as Pilate washed his hands and gave Jesus to the crowd (Matt 27:24-26).

38:6 in the cistern there was no water, but mud, and Jeremiah sank in the mud A cistern was a pit cut in rock and plastered to hold rainwater, often bottle-shaped, with no climbing out. They left him to die of hunger and cold so no one could say they shed his blood. Lamentations 3:52-55 may look back on this. Joseph was thrown into a pit by his brothers (Gen 37:24), Jeremiah by his nation's leaders.

38:7 Ebed-melech the Cushite, a man, a court official His name means servant of the king. Cush lay south of Egypt, in today's Sudan and part of Ethiopia. The word for court official sometimes means a eunuch, and many think he was one. He was an outsider with little standing.

38:9 these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet He spoke to the king in public, at the gate, naming the evil of the most powerful men in Jerusalem. He had every reason to stay quiet. When the leaders of God's people did nothing, a foreigner did what was right.

38:10 Take with you from here thirty men Enough to protect the rescue if the officials tried to stop it. The king changed his mind as quickly as before.

took from there worn-out pieces of cloth and worn-out rags, and he let them down to Jeremiah into the cistern with ropes. 12 And Ebed-melech the Cushite said to Jeremiah, "Put, please, the worn-out pieces of cloth and the rags under your armpits, under the ropes." And Jeremiah did so. 13 And they drew out Jeremiah with the ropes, and they brought him up from the cistern; and Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

Zedekiah's Secret Meeting

14 And King Zedekiah sent, and he took Jeremiah the prophet to himself, to the third entrance which was in the house of the LORD; and the king said to Jeremiah, "I am asking you a thing; do not hide anything from me." 15 And Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "If I tell you, will you not certainly put me to death? And if I counsel you, you will not listen to me." 16 And King Zedekiah swore to Jeremiah in secret, saying, "As the LORD lives, who made for us this life, I will not put you to death, and I will not give you into the hand of these men who are seeking your life." 17 And Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "Thus says the LORD, the God of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): 'If you will certainly go out to the officials of the king of Babylon, then your soul will live, and this city will not be burned with fire; and you will live, you and your house. 18 And if you will not go out to the officials of the king of Babylon, then this city will be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they will burn it with fire; and you, you will not escape from their hand.'" 19 And King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am anxious about the Jews who have fallen away to the Chaldeans, lest they give me into their hand, and they deal wantonly with me." 20 And Jeremiah said, "They will not give you. Listen, please, to the voice of the LORD in what I am speaking to you, so that it may go well with you, and your soul may live. 21 And if you are refusing to go out, this is the word which the LORD has shown me: 22 And look, all the women who are left in the house of the king of Judah (Yehuda) are being brought out to the officials of the king of Babylon, and they are saying, 'They misled you and prevailed over you, the men of your peace; your feet are sunk in the mire; they have turned backward.' 23 And all your wives and your sons they are bringing out to the Chaldeans, and you, you will not escape from their hand, for by the hand of the king of Babylon you will be captured, and this city you will burn with fire." 24 And Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Let no man know of these words, and you will not die. 25 And if the officials hear that I have spoken with you, and they come to you and say to you, 'Tell us, please, what you said to the king; do not hide it from us, and we will not put you to death; and what did the king say to you?' 26 then you shall say to them, 'I was making my supplication fall before the king, not to send me back to the house of Jonathan (Yehonatan) to die there.'" 27 And all the officials came to Jeremiah, and they asked him, and he told them according to all these words which the king had commanded; and they kept silent from him, for the matter had not been heard. 28 And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) was captured. And it came about, when Jerusalem was captured,

JEREMIAH 39

The Fall of Jerusalem

1 In the ninth year of Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah (Yehuda), in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) and all his army came to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and they besieged it. 2 In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the city was broken into.

38:12 Put, please, the worn-out pieces of cloth and the rags under your armpits, under the ropes Jeremiah was weak and starving, and the ropes would cut him as they pulled him from deep mud. Ebed-melech thought of that. Courage and kindness belong together. When we help someone in a pit, we should lift without hurting them more (Gal 6:1-2). God did not forget him (39:15-18).
38:14 do not hide anything from me A private meeting at a temple entrance.
38:16 As the LORD lives, who made for us this life Zedekiah believed in God enough to swear by Him, but did not trust Him enough to obey.
38:17 then your soul will live, and this city will not be burned with fire The clearest choice in the book. Even this late, God offered mercy: life for the king, his family and the city. God always puts the choice plainly before us (Deut 30:19).
38:19 I am anxious about the Jews who have fallen away to the Chaldeans He was more afraid of being mocked than of God. "The trembling of man sets a snare" (Prov 29:25), and Zedekiah is that proverb in a single life. Jeremiah's "please" (38:20) shows he was pleading, not gloating.
38:22 your feet are sunk in the mire "The men of your peace" were his trusted advisers who pushed him into war and would desert him. A bitter reversal: the king let Jeremiah sink in mud, and now he himself would be stuck with no one to pull him out.
38:23 this city you will burn with fire Babylon would set the fire, but by his refusal Zedekiah would burn it. Our choices affect the people who depend on us.
38:26 I was making my supplication fall before the king Jeremiah had made that very request (37:20) and likely made it again. What he told the officials was true, but not the whole conversation. Teachers differ: some see a fair keeping of a confidence, others a half-truth Scripture records without praising. Scripture does not comment.
38:28 Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem was captured God kept him alive through the whole siege. The last words begin a sentence that runs into chapter 39. Chapter breaks were added much later.
39:1 in the ninth year of Zedekiah the king of Judah, in the tenth month January 588 B.C. A siege surrounded a city, cut off supplies and slowly starved it until it gave up or the walls broke.
39:2 in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the city was broken into July 586 B.C., after about a year and a half, with a short break when Egypt came (37:5). Some date the fall to 587 B.C. By the end there was no bread (38:9; 52:6). After the exile the Jews still fasted in the fourth and tenth months to remember these days (Zech 8:19).

3 And all the officials of the king of Babylon came in, and they sat in the Middle Gate: Nergal-sar-ezer (Nergal-Sharetser), Samgar-nebo (Samgar-Nevo), Sarsechim (Sarsekhim) the Rab-saris, Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, and all the rest of the officials of the king of Babylon. 4 And it came about, when Zedekiah the king of Judah and all the men of war saw them, that they fled, and they went out at night from the city by the way of the garden of the king, through the gate between the two walls; and he went out by the way of the Arabah (Arava). 5 And the army of the Chaldeans (Kasdim) pursued after them, and they overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho (Yericho); and they seized him, and they brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon at Riblah (Rivla) in the land of Hamath (Chamat), and he spoke judgments with him. 6 And the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah at Riblah before his eyes; and all the nobles of Judah the king of Babylon slaughtered. 7 And the eyes of Zedekiah he blinded, and he bound him with bronze fetters to bring him to Babylon. 8 And the house of the king and the house of the people the Chaldeans burned with fire, and the walls of Jerusalem they broke down. 9 And the rest of the people who remained in the city, and those falling away who had fallen away to him, and the rest of the people who remained, Nebuzaradan (Nevuzaradan) the chief of the bodyguards took into exile to Babylon. 10 And some of the poor people who had nothing, Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards left in the land of Judah, and he gave them vineyards and fields on that day.

Jeremiah Freed and Ebed-melech Spared

11 And Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon commanded concerning Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) by the hand of Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards, saying, 12 "Take him, and set your eyes on him, and do not do anything harmful to him; but just as he says to you, so do with him." 13 And Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards sent, and Nebushazban (Nevushazban) the Rab-saris, and Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, and all the chiefs of the king of Babylon; 14 and they sent, and they fetched Jeremiah from the court of the guard, and they gave him over to Gedaliah (Gedalyahu) the son of Ahikam (Achiqam), the son of Shaphan (Shafan), to bring him out to the house; and he remained among the people. 15 And to Jeremiah the word of the LORD had come while he was shut up in the court of the guard, saying, 16 "Go, and say to Ebed-melech (Eved-Melekh) the Cushite, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Look, I am bringing My words against this city for calamity and not for good, and they will happen before you on that day. 17 And I will deliver you on that day," declares the LORD, "and you will not be given into the hand of the men before whom you are afraid. 18 For I will certainly rescue you, and by the sword you will not fall; and your life will be to you for plunder, for you have trusted in Me," declares the LORD.'"

39:3 they sat in the middle gate The gate was where leaders held court. Conquerors sitting there meant they ruled the city, as Jeremiah foretold at his call (1:15). Nergal-sar-ezer is most likely Neriglissar, later king of Babylon (about 560 to 556 B.C.). Rab-saris means something like chief official, and the exact meaning of Rab-mag is uncertain. The names fit what we know of Babylon's court.
39:4 they went out at night from the city by the way of the garden of the king Slipping out at the southeast corner toward the Arabah, the Jordan valley, likely hoping to cross the river and escape east.
39:5 they overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho He got about fifteen miles. Riblah, Nebuchadnezzar's headquarters in Syria, was about two hundred miles north. Zedekiah had sworn loyalty in God's name and broken his oath (2 Chr 36:13; Ezek 17:15-19). Jeremiah had told him he would not escape (38:18). Running from God's word never works.
39:7 And the eyes of Zedekiah he blinded One of the saddest passages in the Bible, and I will not add to what it says. The last thing Zedekiah saw was the death of his sons (39:6). Jeremiah said he would see Babylon's king (34:3; 32:4), and Ezekiel said he would be brought to Babylon yet not see it (Ezek 12:13). He saw Nebuchadnezzar at Riblah and arrived in Babylon blind. He asked for God's word many times and never obeyed it. Hearing is not enough (James 1:22).
39:8 the walls of Jerusalem they broke down The palace and houses burned, and the temple about a month later (52:12-13). The walls lay in ruins until Nehemiah rebuilt them about 445 B.C.
39:9 Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards took into exile to Babylon The third and largest deportation, after 605 and 597 B.C.
39:10 some of the poor people who had nothing A strange justice. The rich who oppressed the poor and took back their slaves (34:11) were in chains, and the poor were given fields and vineyards. God does not forget the poor (Ps 9:18).
39:12 do not do anything harmful to him How Nebuchadnezzar knew of Jeremiah, Scripture does not say. Deserters surely reported his call to surrender (38:2, 19). God was keeping His promise (1:19). Judah's kings imprisoned him, and Babylon's king set him free.
39:14 they gave him over to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan The family that had protected him before (26:24). Gedaliah would soon be governor (40:5). Jeremiah chose to stay with the poor in the ruined land. Chapter 40 says he was later found in chains at Ramah, so it seems he was swept up with the captives in the confusion and freed again.
39:16 Go, and say to Ebed-melech the Cushite The writer steps back in time to a word given during the siege for the man who pulled Jeremiah from the cistern (38:7-13).
39:17 you will not be given into the hand of the men before whom you are afraid He had made enemies of powerful officials, and God spoke to his fear personally.
39:18 for you have trusted in Me The reason God saved him. A foreigner, not a priest or prince, believed God and acted on it when Jerusalem's leaders did not, and he lived while king and nobles fell. God has always saved people, Jew or Gentile, by grace through faith (Eph 2:8-9). Ebed-melech is a small picture of the gospel going to the nations, like the Ethiopian official who later believed in Jesus (Acts 8:26-39).

Gedaliah at Mizpah

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from the LORD after Nebuzaradan (Nevuzaradan) the chief of the bodyguards had set him free from Ramah (Rama), when he took him, and he was bound with chains in the midst of all the exiles of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and Judah (Yehuda) who were being taken into exile to Babylon (Bavel). 2 And the chief of the bodyguards took Jeremiah, and he said to him, "The LORD your God spoke this calamity against this place. 3 And the LORD has brought it, and He has done just as He spoke, for you sinned against the LORD and did not listen to His voice, and this thing has happened to you. 4 And now, look, I have set you free today from the chains which are on your hand. If it is good in your eyes to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will set my eye on you; and if it is displeasing in your eyes to come with me to Babylon, refrain. See, all the land is before you; to what is good and to what is right in your eyes to go there, go." 5 And while he was still not returning, he said, "And return to Gedaliah (Gedalya) the son of Ahikam (Achiqam), the son of Shaphan (Shafan), whom the king of Babylon has appointed over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him in the midst of the people; or to any place right in your eyes to go, go." And the chief of the bodyguards gave him a food allowance and a present, and he let him go. 6 And Jeremiah went to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to Mizpah (Mitspa), and he dwelt with him in the midst of the people who remained in the land. 7 And all the commanders of the forces who were in the field, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam over the land, and that he had entrusted to him men and women and little ones, and some of the poor of the land, of those who had not been taken into exile to Babylon. 8 And they came to Gedaliah, to Mizpah: and Ishmael (Yishma'el) the son of Nethaniah (Netanyahu), and Johanan (Yochanan) and Jonathan (Yonatan) the sons of Kareah (Qareach), and Seraiah (Seraya) the son of Tanhumeth (Tanchumet), and the sons of Ephai (Eifay) the Netophathite, and Jezaniah (Yezanyahu) the son of the Maacathite, they and their men. 9 And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, swore to them and to their men, saying, "Do not be afraid of serving the Chaldeans (Kasdim). Dwell in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it will go well for you. 10 And I, look, I am dwelling at Mizpah to stand before the Chaldeans who will come to us; and you, gather wine and summer fruit and oil, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities which you have seized." 11 And also all the Jews who were in Moab (Mo'av) and among the sons of Ammon (Amon) and in Edom, and who were in all the lands, heard that the king of Babylon had given a remnant to Judah, and that he had appointed over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan. 12 And all the Jews returned from all the places where they had been driven, and they came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah, to Mizpah; and they gathered wine and summer fruit, very much. 13 And Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were in the field came to Gedaliah, to Mizpah. 14 And they said to him, "Do you really know that Baalis the king of the sons of Ammon has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to strike you and take your life?" And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam did not believe them. 15 And Johanan the son of Kareah said to Gedaliah in secret at Mizpah, saying, "Let me go, please, and let me strike Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no one will know. Why should he strike you and take your life, and all Judah who have gathered to you be scattered, and the remnant of Judah perish?"

40:1 after Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards had set him free from Ramah This line seems to introduce chapters 40 to 44, Jeremiah's ministry after the fall. The word itself comes at 42:7. Ramah, about five miles north of Jerusalem, is where the captives were gathered, the Ramah where Rachel weeps (31:15). In the confusion Jeremiah seems to have been swept up with the prisoners. In chains, the prophet waited with his people.
40:3 for you sinned against the LORD and did not listen to His voice A pagan general preaches Jeremiah's own message back to him, probably having heard it from deserters. Judah's kings, priests and prophets would not admit their sin brought this. A foreign soldier said it plainly. Sometimes outsiders see the truth about God's people more clearly than God's people do (Rom 2:24).
40:4 See, all the land is before you In Babylon he would be cared for. Or he could stay.
40:5 gave him a food allowance and a present Gedaliah came from the godly family of Shaphan, and his father Ahikam had saved Jeremiah's life (26:24).
40:6 Jeremiah went to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to Mizpah Mizpah, about eight miles north of Jerusalem, where Samuel once gathered Israel to repent (1 Sam 7:5-6), became Judah's new center. Babylon offered comfort. Jeremiah chose the ruined land and the poor people. He had bought a field there as a sign of return (32:15) and would not leave it now. Moses chose to suffer with God's people rather than enjoy Egypt (Heb 11:24-26).
40:7 all the commanders of the forces who were in the field Judah's soldiers, scattered into the countryside when the army broke up.
40:8 Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah Watch the first two names. Ishmael and Johanan shape the next three chapters.
40:9 Do not be afraid of serving the Chaldeans Jeremiah's message for years (27:11-12; 29:7), and Gedaliah believed it.
40:10 gather wine and summer fruit and oil Gedaliah would stand between them and Babylon, and their job was to farm. He did not fight a war God said would fail. He helped a broken people live and rebuild under God's judgment. There is wisdom in accepting what God has allowed and working faithfully within it.
40:11 all the Jews who were in Moab and among the sons of Ammon and in Edom People who had fled east of the Jordan came home.
40:12 they gathered wine and summer fruit, very much The summer of 586 B.C. saw Jerusalem burn, and that autumn brought a big harvest, a small sign God had not abandoned the poor remnant. In judgment He remembers mercy (Hab 3:2).
40:14 Baalis the king of the sons of Ammon has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah Ammon had joined plots against Babylon before (27:3), and its king may have wanted to keep Judah from settling down. Ishmael was of David's royal family (41:1) and may have resented a governor who was not a king's son.

16 And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said to Johanan the son of Kareah, "Do not do this thing, for you are speaking falsehood concerning Ishmael."

The Murder of Gedaliah

1 And it was in the seventh month that Ishmael (Yishma'el) the son of Nethaniah (Netanya), the son of Elishama, of the seed of the kingship, and the chiefs of the king, and ten men with him, came to Gedaliah (Gedalyahu) the son of Ahikam (Achiqam), to Mizpah (Mitspa); and they ate bread there together at Mizpah. 2 And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah arose, and the ten men who were with him, and they struck Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan (Shafan), with the sword; and he killed him whom the king of Babylon (Bavel) had appointed over the land. 3 And all the Jews who were with him, with Gedaliah, at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans (Kasdim) who were found there, the men of war, Ishmael struck. 4 And it was on the second day of the killing of Gedaliah, and no one knew, 5 and men came from Shechem (Shekhem), from Shiloh (Shilo), and from Samaria (Shomron), eighty men, shaven of beard and torn of clothes and cutting themselves, and a grain offering and frankincense were in their hand, to bring to the house of the LORD. 6 And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah went out from Mizpah to meet them, going along and weeping as he went; and it was, as he met them, that he said to them, "Come to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam." 7 And it was, when they came into the midst of the city, that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slaughtered them and threw them into the midst of the cistern, he and the men who were with him. 8 And ten men were found among them, and they said to Ishmael, "Do not kill us, for we have hidden treasures in the field: wheat and barley and oil and honey." And he refrained, and he did not kill them in the midst of their brothers. 9 And the cistern where Ishmael threw all the corpses of the men whom he had struck along with Gedaliah, it is the one which King Asa made because of Baasha (Basha) the king of Israel (Yisra'el); Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. 10 And Ishmael took captive all the remnant of the people who were at Mizpah, the daughters of the king and all the people who remained at Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan (Nevuzaradan) the chief of the bodyguards had entrusted to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam; and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah took them captive, and he went to cross over to the sons of Ammon (Amon).

Johanan Rescues the Captives

11 And Johanan (Yochanan) the son of Kareah (Qareach) and all the commanders of the forces who were with him heard of all the evil which Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done. 12 And they took all the men, and they went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and they found him by the great waters which are in Gibeon (Givon). 13 And it was, when all the people who were with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him, that they rejoiced. 14 And all the people whom Ishmael had taken captive from Mizpah turned around, and they returned and went to Johanan the son of Kareah. 15 And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped with eight men from before Johanan, and he went to the sons of Ammon. 16 And Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him took all the remnant of the people whom he had brought back from Ishmael the son of 40:16 Do not do this thing, for you are speaking falsehood concerning Ishmael Gedaliah was right not to approve a secret murder on a rumor. He was wrong to ignore the warning entirely. He could have set guards or questioned Ishmael. A good man's trust became blindness. Jesus said, "be shrewd as the serpents and innocent as the doves" (Matt 10:16). Gedaliah was the dove but not the serpent, and the next chapter shows what it cost.

41:1 it was in the seventh month About October. The year is not given. Most likely it was a few months after the fall, though some place it later, perhaps 582 B.C. (52:30). Ishmael was of David's royal family and may have thought the leadership should be his. Baalis of Ammon was behind him (40:14).
41:1 they ate bread there together at Mizpah Sharing a meal made a bond of trust. Gedaliah opened his table to the man he had been warned about.
41:2 they struck Gedaliah the son of Ahikam Betrayal at the table. David wrote of a friend who ate his bread and lifted his heel against him (Ps 41:9), and Jesus applied it to Judas (John 13:18). We cannot always prevent betrayal, but God sees it and will judge it. The Jews kept a fast in the seventh month after the exile (Zech 7:5; 8:19), commonly identified with this day, and many still keep the Fast of Gedaliah. With his death the last hope of a settled community in the land ended.
41:5 shaven of beard and torn of clothes and cutting themselves Eighty men from Shechem, Shiloh and Samaria in the old north, mourning most likely for Jerusalem and the temple. The temple was in ruins, but they still came with offerings to worship where it had stood. Faith was still alive in some hearts, even in the land of the old golden calves.
41:6 weeping as he went Ishmael pretended to share their grief.
41:7 Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slaughtered them Scripture does not say why, perhaps to keep the murder secret, perhaps to rob them. It was pure evil, the killing of worshipers on their way to God. If you have lost someone to violence, God does not shrug at it. He hates the shedding of innocent blood (Prov 6:16-17), and one day He will set every wrong right (Rev 21:4).
41:8 we have hidden treasures in the field In wartime farmers hid food in pits in the fields. Ishmael's greed was stronger than his rage.
41:9 it is the one which King Asa made because of Baasha the king of Israel About three hundred years earlier Asa fortified Mizpah against Baasha (1 Kgs 15:22). A cistern dug for defense became a grave for innocent worshipers.
41:10 the daughters of the king Women of Zedekiah's household left in Judah. Jeremiah and Baruch were probably among the captives, since they lived at Mizpah.
41:12 by the great waters which are in Gibeon A few miles from Mizpah. Its great pool is mentioned in David's day (2 Sam 2:13). Johanan, who had warned Gedaliah, now acted.
41:15 Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped with eight men He came with ten, and Scripture does not say what became of the other two, or of him. Evil men do not always face justice in this life, but no one escapes the judgment of God (Heb 9:27).
41:16 women and little ones and eunuchs Eunuchs here were palace officials.

Nethaniah, from Mizpah, after he had struck Gedaliah the son of Ahikam: men, men of war, and women and little ones and eunuchs, whom he had brought back from Gibeon. 17 And they went, and they dwelt in Geruth Chimham (Gerut Kimham), which is beside Bethlehem (Bet-Lechem), to go to enter Egypt (Mitsrayim), 18 from before the Chaldeans, for they were afraid of them, for Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had struck Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land.

The Remnant Asks for a Word

1 And all the commanders of the forces approached, and Johanan (Yochanan) the son of Kareah (Qareach) and Jezaniah (Yezanya) the son of Hoshaiah (Hosha'aya), and all the people from the small even to the great, 2 and they said to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet, "Let our supplication fall, please, before you, and pray for us to the LORD your God, for all this remnant; for we are left a few out of many, just as your eyes see us; 3 so that the LORD your God may declare to us the way in which we should go, and the thing which we should do." 4 And Jeremiah the prophet said to them, "I have heard. Look, I am about to pray to the LORD your God according to your words; and it will be that every word which the LORD answers you I will tell you; I will not withhold a word from you." 5 And they said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be against us a witness true and faithful, if we do not do so according to every word with which the LORD your God sends you to us. 6 Whether good or whether bad, to the voice of the LORD our God, to whom we are sending you, we will listen, so that it may go well for us, for we will listen to the voice of the LORD our God."

Stay in the Land

7 And it was at the end of ten days, and the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. 8 And he called Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him, and all the people from the small even to the great, 9 and he said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), to whom you sent me to make your supplication fall before Him: 10 'If you will indeed dwell in this land, then I will build you up and not tear you down, and I will plant you and not pluck you up; for I relent concerning the calamity which I have done to you. 11 Do not be afraid of the king of Babylon (Bavel), of whom you are afraid; do not be afraid of him,' declares the LORD, 'for I am with you, to save you and to deliver you from his hand. 12 And I will give you compassion, and he will have compassion on you and bring you back to your ground.' 13 And if you are saying, 'We will not dwell in this land,' so as not to listen to the voice of the LORD your God, 14 saying, 'No, but we will go to the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim), where we will not see war, and we will not hear the sound of a trumpet, and we will not be hungry for bread; and there we will dwell,' 15 then now, therefore, hear the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah (Yehuda). Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'If you really set your faces to go to Egypt, and you go to sojourn there, 16 then it will be that the sword of which you are afraid will overtake you there, in the land of Egypt; and the famine about which you are anxious will cling close after you there in Egypt; and there you will die. 17 And it will be that all the men who have set their faces to go to Egypt to sojourn there will die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence; and there will not be for them a survivor and an escapee from before the calamity which I am bringing on them.' 18 For thus says the 41:17 Geruth Chimham, which is beside Bethlehem Seemingly a lodging place on the road south to Egypt. Its name may go back to Chimham, whom David honored (2 Sam 19:37-40).

41:18 for they were afraid of them Babylon's governor and soldiers had been murdered, and they feared Babylon would punish them all. Their fear was understandable, but they had not asked God. Their hearts were already set on Egypt. It is easy to make plans in fear and then ask God to bless them, instead of asking Him first.
42:1 Jezaniah the son of Hoshaiah Seemingly the same man called Azariah son of Hoshaiah in 43:2, though some see two brothers. Everyone came, from least to greatest.
42:2 pray for us to the LORD your God "Your God," not "our God," a small hint of distance. They wanted Jeremiah's God to give them an answer. On the surface it was the right prayer.
42:4 I will not withhold a word from you God's whole answer, not just the parts they wanted.
42:6 Whether good or whether bad, to the voice of the LORD our God, to whom we are sending you, we will listen A beautiful promise, calling God as witness against themselves, and now "our God." Every believer should be able to say, Lord, whatever You say, I will do. But words are cheap. The test comes when God's answer is not what we want, like the son who said he would go and did not (Matt 21:28-31).
42:7 at the end of ten days Jeremiah did not give his own opinion and call it God's word. False prophets always had a quick answer (23:21). True prophets waited. Waiting is often part of God's guidance (Ps 27:14; Isa 40:31).
42:10 I will build you up and not tear you down, and I will plant you and not pluck you up The words of Jeremiah's call (1:10). After forty years of tearing down, God offered to build right there in the ruined land. "I relent" means God turns from judgment to mercy (18:7-8), not that He had done wrong.
42:11 Do not be afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom you are afraid Exactly their fear (41:18), and God spoke right to it. He would move Babylon's king to mercy. Often the hardest thing God asks is not to go somewhere, but to stay and trust Him where we are.
42:14 we will go to the land of Egypt, where we will not see war Egypt looked safe: far from Babylon, rich in grain and at peace.
42:16 the sword of which you are afraid will overtake you there What they ran from would follow them. You cannot outrun God's hand by moving to another country, as Jonah learned at sea (Jonah 1:3-4). God told Israel never to go back to Egypt (Deut 17:16), and the prophets warned against seeking help there (Isa 31:1; 2:18, 36; 37:7). Going back was a way of undoing the exodus, trusting Pharaoh rather than the LORD.
42:17 there will not be for them a survivor and an escapee Not cruelty, but God telling them plainly, in advance, where their road led.

LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Just as My anger and My rage were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), so My rage will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt; and you will become a sworn curse and a horror and a curse and a reproach, and you will not see this place again.' 19 The LORD has spoken to you, O remnant of Judah: 'Do not go to Egypt.' Know for certain that I have warned you today. 20 For you have led yourselves astray at the cost of your souls; for you sent me to the LORD your God, saying, 'Pray for us to the LORD our God, and according to all that the LORD our God says, so tell us, and we will do it.' 21 And I have told you today, and you have not listened to the voice of the LORD your God, even to all with which He has sent me to you. 22 And now, know for certain that by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence you will die in the place to which you desire to go to sojourn."

The Flight to Egypt

1 And it was, when Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) had finished speaking to all the people all the words of the LORD their God, with which the LORD their God had sent him to them, all these words, 2 that Azariah (Azarya) the son of Hoshaiah (Hosha'aya) and Johanan (Yochanan) the son of Kareah (Qareach) and all the arrogant men said, saying to Jeremiah, "You are speaking falsehood. The LORD our God has not sent you to say, 'You must not go to Egypt (Mitsrayim) to sojourn there.' 3 For Baruch (Barukh) the son of Neriah (Neriya) is inciting you against us, so as to give us into the hand of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), to kill us and to take us into exile to Babylon (Bavel)." 4 And Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces and all the people did not listen to the voice of the LORD, to dwell in the land of Judah (Yehuda). 5 And Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces took all the remnant of Judah who had returned from all the nations where they had been driven, to sojourn in the land of Judah: 6 the men and the women and the little ones and the daughters of the king, and every soul whom Nebuzaradan (Nevuzaradan) the chief of the bodyguards had left with Gedaliah (Gedalyahu) the son of Ahikam (Achiqam), the son of Shaphan (Shafan), and Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neriah; 7 and they went to the land of Egypt, for they did not listen to the voice of the LORD; and they came as far as Tahpanhes (Tachpanches).

Stones at Tahpanhes

8 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying, 9 "Take large stones in your hand, and hide them in the mortar in the brick terrace which is at the entrance of the house of Pharaoh in Tahpanhes, before the eyes of Jewish men. 10 And you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Look, I am about to send, and I will take Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon, My servant, and I will set his throne above these stones which I have hidden, and he will spread his canopy over them. 11 And he will come and strike the land of Egypt: those who are for death, to death; and those who are for captivity, to captivity; and those who are for the sword, to the sword. 12 And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he will burn them and take them captive; and he will pick clean the land of Egypt just as the shepherd picks clean his garment, and he will go out from there in peace.

42:19 Do not go to Egypt It could not be clearer. They could never say they did not know.
42:20 For you have led yourselves astray at the cost of your souls Jeremiah could already see their minds were set (43:2). The Hebrew may mean deceived yourselves or erred at the cost of your lives. One of the clearest warnings in the Bible about asking God's will when we have already decided. We can pray long prayers and make sincere-sounding promises with our minds made up. God is not fooled (Gal 6:7). Only an honest willingness to obey makes our asking real (John 7:17).
43:2 all the arrogant men The writer calls them what they were. Ten days earlier they swore to obey "whether good or whether bad" (42:5-6). When the answer was not what they wanted, they said God had not spoken. Pride cannot admit it was wrong, so it attacks the messenger. When Scripture crosses our plans, it is easier to say God does not really mean it than to obey.
43:3 For Baruch the son of Neriah is inciting you against us They could not deny Jeremiah was a true prophet, so they said Baruch was manipulating him. When you cannot attack the leader, attack the man beside him. Baruch paid for twenty years of faithfulness with slander.
43:4 did not listen to the voice of the LORD, to dwell in the land of Judah The whole story of Judah's last days, said again in verse 7.
43:6 and Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neriah They did not go willingly. They were taken. Perhaps the leaders feared what he might say behind them, or wanted a prophet along. Scripture does not say. Jeremiah went with his people even into their disobedience. He did not abandon them.
43:7 they came as far as Tahpanhes A fortress city on Egypt's northeastern border, the first major Egyptian city on the road from Judah. About nine hundred years after God brought Israel out of Egypt, the last of Judah walked back in against His word, as if undoing the exodus, one of the curses of a broken covenant (Deut 28:68).
43:8 the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes God was not left behind in Judah.
43:9 hide them in the mortar in the brick terrace which is at the entrance of the house of Pharaoh in Tahpanhes Probably a royal building used when the king visited, with a paved brick area in front. Another acted message, done before Jewish witnesses.
43:10 he will spread his canopy over them A canopy was the royal awning over a king's throne when he sat in judgment. God's "servant" Nebuchadnezzar (25:9; 27:6) would sit in judgment on this very spot. They ran to Egypt to escape him, and he would follow. There is no hiding place from God's word.
43:11 those who are for death, to death The words God used of Jerusalem (15:2). Egypt would get the judgment the refugees ran from.
43:12 just as the shepherd picks clean his garment A shepherd living outdoors picked his cloak clean of lice and burrs. Nebuchadnezzar would strip Egypt that easily and leave unharmed.

13 And he will break the sacred pillars of Beth-shemesh (Bet-Shemesh), which is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of Egypt he will burn with fire."'"

JEREMIAH 44

The Queen of Heaven in Egypt

1 The word which came to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) concerning all the Jews who were dwelling in the land of Egypt
(Mitsrayim), who were dwelling in Migdol and in Tahpanhes (Tachpanches) and in Memphis (Nof) and in the land of Pathros (Patros), saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): 'You, you have seen all the calamity which I brought on Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) and on all the cities of Judah (Yehuda); and look, they are a ruin this day, and there is no inhabitant in them, 3 because of their evil which they did to provoke Me to anger, by going to burn incense, to serve other gods whom they had not known, they, you, and your fathers. 4 And I sent to you all My servants the prophets, rising early and sending, saying, "Do not, please, do this thing of abomination which I hate." 5 And they did not listen, and they did not incline their ear to turn from their evil, so as not to burn incense to other gods. 6 And My rage and My anger were poured out, and it burned in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they became a ruin, a desolation, as at this day.' 7 And now, thus says the LORD, the God of armies, the God of Israel: 'Why are you doing great evil against your souls, to cut off for yourselves man and woman, child and nursing infant, from the midst of Judah, so as not to leave for yourselves a remnant, 8 by provoking Me to anger with the works of your hands, by burning incense to other gods in the land of Egypt, where you have come to sojourn, so as to cut yourselves off, and so as to become a curse and a reproach among all the nations of the earth? 9 Have you forgotten the evil deeds of your fathers, and the evil deeds of the kings of Judah, and the evil deeds of his wives, and your evil deeds, and the evil deeds of your wives, which they did in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 10 They have not been made contrite to this day, and they have not feared, and they have not walked in My law and in My statutes which I set before you and before your fathers.' 11 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: 'Look, I am about to set My face against you for harm, and to cut off all Judah. 12 And I will take the remnant of Judah who have set their faces to go to the land of Egypt to sojourn there, and they will all be consumed in the land of Egypt; they will fall by the sword; by the famine they will be consumed; from the small even to the great, by the sword and by the famine they will die; and they will become a sworn curse, a horror, and a curse, and a reproach. 13 And I will punish those who dwell in the land of Egypt, just as I punished Jerusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence. 14 And there will not be an escapee and a survivor for the remnant of Judah who have gone to sojourn there in the land of Egypt, even to return to the land of Judah, to which they are lifting up their soul to return to dwell there; for they will not return, except escapees.'"

The People Refuse

15 And all the men who knew that their wives were burning incense to other gods, and all the women who were standing by, a great assembly, and all the people who were dwelling in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying, 16 "The word which you have spoken to us in the name of

43:13 the sacred pillars of Beth-shemesh House of the sun, most likely the city the Greeks called Heliopolis, the Bible's On (Gen 41:45), a center of sun worship famous for its stone obelisks. A broken Babylonian tablet tells of a campaign against Egypt in Nebuchadnezzar's thirty-seventh year, about 568 or 567 B.C., and Ezekiel foretold it too (Ezek 29:19-20). The remnant trusted Egypt to protect them, and Egypt could not protect itself. Only God is a true refuge (Ps 46:1).
44:1 Migdol and in Tahpanhes and in Memphis and in the land of Pathros Jewish settlements had spread from the eastern border (Migdol, Tahpanhes) to Memphis and on south to Pathros, Upper Egypt. Some time had passed since chapter 43, perhaps several years. Papyri from a later Jewish colony at Elephantine in the fifth century B.C. show a temple to the God of Israel mixed with other worship, the kind of compromise this chapter condemns.
44:2 they are a ruin this day The refugees had seen the ruins with their own eyes. God starts with the evidence in front of them. Judgment had come exactly as His prophets said, and they still had not learned from it.
44:4 Do not, please, do this thing of abomination which I hate God did not only command. He pleaded, sending prophet after prophet, "rising early." The word "please" shows the heart of a Father begging His children to turn back before it was too late.
44:7 Why are you doing great evil against your souls Sin is first against God, but it also wounds the one who commits it. Their idolatry was cutting off their own families and leaving no remnant. Every sin is in the end self-destructive (Prov 8:36).
44:9 the evil deeds of his wives Five groups are named: the fathers, the kings, the kings' wives, the people, and the people's wives. The kings' wives recall Solomon's foreign wives, who turned his heart to other gods (1 Kgs 11:4-8). Sin forgotten is sin ready to be repeated.
44:10 They have not been made contrite to this day The ruin of Jerusalem had not broken their pride. God does not despise a broken and contrite heart (Ps 51:17), but these hearts stayed hard after the worst judgment in their history.
44:12 the remnant of Judah who have set their faces to go to the land of Egypt They had set their faces toward Egypt, so God set His face against them (44:11). The very place they chose for safety would become the place of their judgment.
44:14 for they will not return, except escapees They longed to return to Judah someday, but they would die in Egypt. Only a handful would make it back (44:28). The choice to disobey had lasting results they could not undo.
44:15 a great assembly The men who knew what their wives were doing and the women themselves stood together in open defiance. This was not private weakness but a community decision to reject God's word.
44:16 we are not listening to you This is the plainest statement of rebellion in the book. They did not pretend Jeremiah was a false prophet. They knew he spoke in the LORD's name and refused anyway.

the LORD, we are not listening to you. 17 For we will certainly do every thing that has gone out from our mouth, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens and to pour out drink offerings to her, just as we have done, we and our fathers, our kings and our officials, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and we were satisfied with bread, and we were well, and calamity we did not see. 18 And since we ceased to burn incense to the queen of the heavens and to pour out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything, and by the sword and by the famine we have been consumed. 19 And when we were burning incense to the queen of the heavens and pouring out drink offerings to her, was it without our husbands that we made cakes for her to form her image and to pour out drink offerings to her?"

Jeremiah's Answer

20 And Jeremiah said to all the people, to the men and to the women and to all the people who had answered him with a word, saying, 21 "The incense which you burned in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your officials, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them, and did it not come up on His heart? 22 And the LORD was no longer able to bear it, because of the evil of your deeds, because of the abominations which you did; and your land has become a ruin and a horror and a curse, without an inhabitant, as at this day. 23 Because you burned incense, and because you sinned against the LORD and did not listen to the voice of the LORD, and in His law and in His statutes and in His testimonies you did not walk, therefore this calamity has happened to you, as at this day." 24 And Jeremiah said to all the people and to all the women, "Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah who are in the land of Egypt. 25 Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel, saying: 'You and your wives, you have both spoken with your mouth and fulfilled it with your hands, saying, "We will certainly perform our vows which we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens and to pour out drink offerings to her." You will certainly carry out your vows, and you will certainly perform your vows.'

26 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all Judah who dwell in the land of Egypt: 'Look, I have sworn by My great name,' says the LORD, 'that My name will no longer be called on by the mouth of any man of Judah, saying, "As the Lord GOD lives," in all the land of Egypt. 27 Look, I am watching over them for harm and not for good; and every man of Judah who is in the land of Egypt will be consumed by the sword and by the famine until they come to an end. 28 And the escapees of the sword will return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number; and all the remnant of Judah who went to the land of Egypt to sojourn there will know whose word will be established, Mine or theirs. 29 And this will be the sign to you,' declares the LORD, 'that I am about to punish you in this place, so that you may know that My words will certainly be established against you for harm.' 30 Thus says the LORD: 'Look, I am about to give Pharaoh Hophra (Chafra) the king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and into the hand of those who seek his life, just as I gave Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel), his enemy and the one who sought his life.'"

A Word to Baruch

1 The word which Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet spoke to Baruch (Barukh) the son of Neriah (Neriya), when he wrote these words on a scroll from the mouth of Jeremiah, in

44:17 Jer 7:18; Neh 9:34; Deut 23:23
44:18 Mal 3:13-15; Jer 40:12; Num 11:5,6

44:22 Gal 3:13; Isa 7:13; Isa 43:24
44:23 2 Cor 6:16; 1 Kgs 9:9; Dan 9:11,12
44:24 Jer 43:7; Jer 42:15; Jer 44:15,26
44:25 Matt 14:9; Jer 44:15-19; Isa 28:15
44:26 Gen 22:16; Heb 6:13,18; Ps 50:16
44:27 Jer 31:28; Jer 1:10; 2 Kgs 21:14
44:28 Jer 44:14; Isa 10:19,22; Isa 27:12,13
44:29 Prov 19:21; Matt 24:15,16,32-34; Isa 40:8
44:30 2 Kgs 25:4-7; Jer 43:9-13; Jer 34:21
45:1 Jer 36:1,4,8,14-18,26,32; Jer 32:12,16; Jer 25:1

44:17 the queen of the heavens Most likely the Mesopotamian goddess Ishtar, known in Canaan as Astarte, a goddess of fertility and war (7:18). Her worship had been family religion in Judah, with incense, drink offerings and cakes. The people remembered those years as good times of plenty.

44:18 since we ceased to burn incense to the queen of the heavens They most likely meant Josiah's reform about 622 B.C., when the idols were torn down (2 Kgs 23:4-14). Their reasoning was backward: they credited the idol for the good years and blamed obeying God for the hard ones. The disasters came from generations of sin, not from Josiah's reform. God disciplines the children He loves (Heb 12:6).

44:19 was it without our husbands Under the Law a husband could cancel his wife's vow (Num 30:6-8). The women said their husbands had approved, so the whole household shared the guilt. The cakes were shaped in the goddess's image.

44:21 did not the LORD remember them Jeremiah gives the true explanation. God had not forgotten the incense offered to other gods. The years of plenty were His patience, not the goddess's blessing (Rom 2:4).

44:22 the LORD was no longer able to bear it God's patience is long, but it has a limit. The ruin of the land was the result of sin finally reaching its full measure.

44:23 therefore this calamity has happened to you Jeremiah names the cause four ways: they burned incense, sinned against the LORD, did not listen to His voice, and did not walk in His law. The judgment was not random. It matched their choices.

44:25 You will certainly carry out your vows God answers with holy irony. If they are set on keeping their vows to the goddess, let them. This is God giving people over to what they insist on choosing (Rom 1:24-25).

44:26 My name will no longer be called on by the mouth of any man of Judah They wanted to keep both, the queen of the heavens and the oath "As the Lord GOD lives." God would not share His name with an idol. Mixed worship ends in losing the true God altogether.

44:27 I am watching over them for harm and not for good At Jeremiah's call God was "watching over My word to do it" (1:12). The same watchful care that had protected them now ensured their judgment.

44:28 whose word will be established, Mine or theirs The contest was between God's word and their vows. History would settle it. The word of our God stands forever (Isa 40:8), and what people say against it will not stand.

44:30 I am about to give Pharaoh Hophra the king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies Hophra was the Pharaoh whose army briefly drew the Babylonians away from Jerusalem (37:5). Ancient history tells us he was overthrown about 570 B.C. in a revolt led by Amasis and later killed. This is the last recorded message of Jeremiah's ministry, and Scripture does not tell us how he died. God measures His servants by faithfulness, not by results (Matt 25:21).

45:1 in the fourth year of Jehoiakim That is 605 B.C., when Baruch wrote the first scroll (36:1-8). The book is arranged mostly by subject, so this word to Baruch closes the long section on Jeremiah's sufferings (chapters 26-45). Placed after the flight to Egypt, it shows that God kept His promise: Baruch was still alive (43:6).

the fourth year of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu) the king of Judah (Yehuda), saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), concerning you, O Baruch: 3 'You said, "Woe to me now! For the LORD has added sorrow to my pain; I am weary with my groaning, and rest I have not found."' 4 Thus you shall say to him: 'Thus says the LORD: "Look, what I have built I am about to tear down, and what I have planted I am about to pluck up, and all the land itself. 5 And you, you are seeking great things for yourself; do not seek them. For look, I am about to bring calamity on all flesh," declares the LORD, "and I will give you your life as plunder in all the places where you go."'"

Against Egypt

1 That which came as the word of the LORD to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet concerning the nations. 2 Of Egypt (Mitsrayim): concerning the army of Pharaoh Neco (Nekho) the king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates (Perat) at Carchemish (Karkemish), which Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) struck in the fourth year of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) the son of Josiah (Yoshiyahu) the king of Judah (Yehuda): 3 "Set in order shield and body shield, and draw near for battle! 4 Harness the horses, and mount the steeds; and take your stand with helmets; polish the spears; put on the armor! 5 Why have I seen them terrified, turned back backward? And their mighty men are crushed, and they have fled in flight, and they have not turned back; terror is from all around, declares the LORD. 6 Let not the swift flee, and let not the mighty man escape; to the north, beside the river Euphrates, they have stumbled and fallen. 7 Who is this that rises like the Nile (Ye'or), whose waters surge like the rivers? 8 Egypt rises like the Nile, and like the rivers its waters surge; and he has said, 'I will rise, I will cover the earth; I will destroy a city and the inhabitants in it.' 9 Go up, O horses, and drive madly, O chariotry, and let the mighty men go out: Cush (Kush) and Put, who handle the shield, and Ludim, who handle and bend the bow. 10 And that day is for the Lord GOD of armies, a day of vengeance, to avenge Himself on His adversaries; and the sword will devour and be satisfied, and it will drink its fill of their blood; for a sacrifice is for the Lord GOD of armies in the land of the north by the river Euphrates. 11 Go up to Gilead (Gilad) and take balm, O virgin, daughter of Egypt; in vain you have multiplied remedies; there is no healing for you. 12 Nations have heard your dishonor, and your outcry has filled the earth; for mighty man has stumbled against mighty man; together they have fallen, both of them."

46:12 Nah 3:8-10; Jer 14:2; Jer 46:6

45:2 concerning you, O Baruch The God of Israel had a word just for one faithful scribe. Baruch wrote the scroll, read it in the temple at risk to himself, wrote it again, kept Jeremiah's deed (32:12), and was slandered and taken to Egypt (43:3, 6). God sees the helpers whose names we barely know.

45:3 the LORD has added sorrow to my pain Writing out twenty-three years of warnings against his own people was heavy work, and standing with Jeremiah meant sharing his hatred. Baruch's words sound like Jeremiah's own laments (15:10; 20:18). God did not rebuke him for feeling it. He heard and answered.

45:4 what I have built I am about to tear down These are the words of Jeremiah's call (1:10), but now God speaks of tearing down what He Himself had planted (Exod 15:17). Baruch's sorrow was real, but God's was greater. He takes no pleasure in judgment (Ezek 33:11), and those who suffer with Him share something that grieves His own heart.

45:5 you are seeking great things for yourself; do not seek them Baruch came from a notable family, and his brother Seraiah later served King Zedekiah (51:59; see 32:12). He may have hoped for a high post at court. With calamity coming on all flesh, any name he built would soon be ash. Hard work is not wrong, but self-advancement as life's goal is building on sand. Seek first His kingdom (Matt 6:33).

45:5 I will give you your life as plunder Plunder is what a soldier carries off from battle. When everything else was lost, Baruch would carry away his life, through Jehoiakim's anger, the siege, Gedaliah's murder and Egypt. God made the same promise to Ebed-melech (39:18). He did not promise an easy life, but He kept him. In Christ He gives eternal life, which no calamity can touch (John 10:28).

46:1 concerning the nations This heads chapters 46-51. In the Hebrew text these oracles come near the end of the book; in the old Greek translation they follow 25:13. God is not a local god of one people but the Judge of all the earth (Gen 18:25). The nations answer to Him, and Judah learned that the powers it feared or trusted were in His hand.

46:2 at Carchemish A city on the upper Euphrates, on today's Turkey-Syria border. There in 605 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar, then crown prince and king later that year, defeated Egypt. Neco had killed good King Josiah at Megiddo four years earlier (2 Kgs 23:29). After Carchemish Egypt never again ruled north of its border (2 Kgs 24:7).

46:3 Set in order shield and body shield The poem opens with officers shouting orders: shields, horses, helmets, spears, armor. Egypt looked unbeatable. Then in one verse the scene turns to panic and flight.

46:5 terror is from all around One of Jeremiah's own sayings (6:25; 20:10), now turned on Egypt. The mighty men run without looking back.

46:6 Let not the swift flee, and let not the mighty man escape The fastest and strongest could not get away. Speed and strength mean nothing when God has decided the outcome (Eccl 9:11).

46:8 Egypt rises like the Nile Egypt's life depended on the yearly Nile flood. Its army surged north like the river in flood, boasting it would cover the earth. That flood was about to dry up.

46:9 Cush and Put Cush lay south of Egypt along the Nile (Ethiopia and Sudan today); Put was most likely in Libya; Ludim were also hired archers. Egypt's army was made up largely of soldiers from other nations.

46:10 that day is for the Lord GOD of armies, a day of vengeance Carchemish was not only Babylon against Egypt. It was the LORD's day, and Nebuchadnezzar won because God gave him the victory (27:6). Egypt had killed Josiah, deported Jehoahaz and set up Jehoiakim (2 Kgs 23:29-35). God's vengeance is not temper but justice. The prophets sometimes picture a battlefield as a sacrifice (Isa 34:6; Zeph 1:7).

46:11 Go up to Gilead and take balm Gilead was famous for its healing balm. Jeremiah had asked "Is there no balm in Gilead?" for Judah (8:22). Egypt was famous for its doctors and medicines, but no remedy heals a wound God has given.

46:12 mighty man has stumbled against mighty man The fleeing soldiers ran so hard they fell over each other. The whole world heard of Egypt's shame.

Babylon Will Strike Egypt

13 The word which the LORD spoke to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the coming of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt: 14 "Declare in Egypt, and proclaim in Migdol, and proclaim in Memphis (Nof) and in Tahpanhes (Tachpanches); say, 'Take your stand and prepare yourself, for the sword has devoured around you.' 15 Why has your mighty one been swept away? He has not stood, for the LORD has pushed him down. 16 He has multiplied the one who stumbles; also each man has fallen on his neighbor; and they said, 'Arise, and let us return to our people and to the land of our kindred, from before the sword of the oppressor.' 17 They called out there, 'Pharaoh the king of Egypt is a noise; he has let the appointed time pass by.' 18 As I live, declares the King, the LORD of armies is His name, surely like Tabor (Tavor) among the mountains, and like Carmel (Karmel) by the sea, he will come. 19 Make for yourself baggage for exile, O inhabitant, daughter of Egypt, for Memphis will become a horror, and it will be laid waste, without an inhabitant. 20 Egypt is a very beautiful heifer; a gadfly from the north is coming, is coming. 21 Also her hired soldiers in her midst are like calves of the stall, for they also have turned, they have fled together; they have not stood, for the day of their disaster has come on them, the time of their punishment. 22 Her sound goes like the serpent, for they go with an army, and with axes they come to her, like cutters of wood. 23 They have cut down her forest, declares the LORD, for it will not be searched; for they are more numerous than the locust, and there is no number to them. 24 The daughter of Egypt has been put to shame; she has been given into the hand of the people of the north. 25 The LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), says: Look, I am about to punish Amon of Thebes (No), and Pharaoh and Egypt and her gods and her kings, and Pharaoh and those who trust in him. 26 And I will give them into the hand of those who seek their life, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants; and afterward it will dwell as in the days of old, declares the LORD.

Do Not Fear, O Jacob

27 And you, do not fear, O My servant Jacob (Ya'aqov), and do not be dismayed, O Israel; for look, I am about to save you from afar, and your offspring from the land of their captivity; and Jacob will return and be undisturbed and be at ease, and there will be none who terrifies him. 28 You, do not fear, O My servant Jacob, declares the LORD, for I am with you; for I will make a full end of all the nations where I have driven you, and of you I will not make a full end; and I will discipline you in justice, and I will by no means leave you unpunished."

JEREMIAH 47

Against the Philistines

1 That which came as the word of the LORD to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck Gaza (Aza). 2 "Thus says the LORD: Look, waters are rising from the north, and they will become an overflowing torrent, and they will overflow a land and its fullness, a city and those who dwell in it; and the men will

46:13 the coming of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt Egypt had lost at Carchemish but still felt safe at home behind its deserts and river. Now Babylon would come to Egypt itself. A Babylonian text fragment tells of a campaign against Egypt about 568 B.C. (see 43:8-13).
46:14 proclaim in Migdol, and proclaim in Memphis and in Tahpanhes The very towns where the Jews fleeing after Gedaliah's murder settled (43:7; 44:1). They thought Egypt was the safe place. The sword was coming there too.
46:17 Pharaoh the king of Egypt is a noise All talk and no action. Egypt promised Judah help more than once, and its help never came when it mattered (37:5-7).
46:18 declares the King, the LORD of armies is His name Pharaoh claimed to be a god-king, but the true King is the LORD. Like Tabor rising alone over the plain and Carmel towering over the sea, the conqueror God sends would stand over Egypt.
46:20 Egypt is a very beautiful heifer A sleek, proud young cow, a pointed picture in a land that worshiped a sacred bull. A stinging gadfly from the north would send her running.
46:21 like calves of the stall Egypt's hired soldiers were fattened and soft. When the day came they turned and ran.
46:22 Her sound goes like the serpent Egypt would hiss and slither away as the invaders came with axes like woodcutters, cutting down her forest. They would be more numerous than locusts.
46:25 Amon of Thebes Amon was Egypt's chief god, and Thebes, far up the Nile, was the center of his worship. God judged Egypt's gods as He had at the exodus (Exod 12:12). He also names "those who trust in him", pointing straight at the Jews who had fled to Egypt.
46:26 afterward it will dwell as in the days of old After judgment Egypt would be lived in again. This is the first of several restoration promises in these chapters (48:47; 49:6, 39). God judges because He is just, yet takes no pleasure in destruction (Ezek 33:11). Egypt did recover, and I believe the fullest answer comes in Messiah's kingdom, when Egypt will worship the LORD (Isa 19:25; Zech 14:16).
46:27 do not fear, O My servant Jacob Nearly the same as 30:10-11. If God could bring down Egypt, Judah might fear He would wipe them out too. He would not.
46:28 of you I will not make a full end Assyria, Babylon and the other empires of Jeremiah's day are gone. Israel is still here after more than twenty-five hundred years. Yet God would discipline them justly. His love does not ignore sin; it disciplines so His people are not lost (Heb 12:6).
47:1 concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck Gaza The Philistines came from Caphtor, most likely Crete (Amos 9:7), and held five cities on the southern coast: Gaza, Ashkelon, Ashdod, Ekron and Gath. They fought Israel from the judges to David; Goliath was one of them. Scripture does not name this Pharaoh. It may have been Neco about 609 B.C. or a later king. The note dates the message to a time when Gaza still stood strong.
47:2 waters are rising from the north Babylon is the flood, the same picture used of Egypt (46:7-8), rising until it covers the land and every city in it.

cry out, and every inhabitant of the land will wail. 3 From the sound of the stamping of the hooves of his stallions, from the rattling of his chariotry, the din of his wheels, fathers have not turned back to their sons, from slackness of hands, 4 on account of the day that is coming to devastate all the Philistines, to cut off for Tyre (Tsor) and for Sidon (Tsidon) every survivor who helps; for the LORD is devastating the Philistines, the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor (Kaftor). 5 Baldness has come to Gaza; Ashkelon (Ashqelon) has been silenced, O remnant of their valley; until when will you cut yourself? 6 Alas, O sword of the LORD, until when will you not be quiet? Gather yourself into your sheath; rest and be still. 7 How can you be quiet, and the LORD has commanded it? Against Ashkelon and against the coast of the sea, there He has appointed it."

Against Moab

1 Of Moab (Mo'av). Thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel (Yisra'el): "Woe to Nebo (Nevo), for it has been devastated! Kiriathaim (Qiryatayim) has been put to shame; it has been captured; the stronghold has been put to shame, and it is shattered. 2 There is no longer praise of Moab; in Heshbon (Cheshbon) they have planned calamity against her: 'Come, and let us cut her off from being a nation.' Also, O Madmen, you will be silenced; the sword will go after you. 3 The sound of an outcry from Horonaim (Choronayim): devastation and great destruction! 4 Moab has been broken; her little ones have made an outcry heard. 5 For on the ascent of Luhith (Luchit) with weeping, weeping goes up; for on the descent of Horonaim they have heard the distresses of the outcry of destruction. 6 Flee, save your lives, and let them be like a juniper in the wilderness. 7 For because of your trusting in your works and in your treasures, you also will be captured; and Chemosh will go out into exile, his priests and his officials together. 8 And a destroyer will come to every city, and a city will not escape; and the valley will perish, and the plain will be destroyed, as the LORD has said. 9 Give a wing to Moab, for she will surely go out flying; and her cities will become a horror, without an inhabitant in them. 10 Cursed is he who does the work of the LORD with slackness, and cursed is he who withholds his sword from blood.

Moab Settled on His Lees

11 Moab has been at ease from his youth, and he has been undisturbed on his lees, and he has not been emptied from vessel to vessel, and into exile he has not gone; therefore his taste has remained in him, and his aroma has not been changed. 12 Therefore, look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and I will send to him tilters, and they will tilt him, and his vessels they will empty, and their jars they will smash. 13 And Moab will be ashamed of Chemosh, just as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel (Bet-El), their trust.

47:3 fathers have not turned back to their sons, from slackness of hands The noise of hooves and chariots would make men's hands go limp, and they would run without grabbing their children. This is not God's pleasure but what war's terror does. When a nation trusts its own strength and that strength fails, fear overwhelms even a father's love.
47:4 for the LORD is devastating the Philistines Babylon was the tool, but the LORD was acting. Tyre and Sidon, their Phoenician allies, would lose all help. The Babylonian records tell that Nebuchadnezzar took Ashkelon in 604 B.C., and after the exile the Philistines disappear from history as a people.
47:5 until when will you cut yourself Shaving the head and cutting the body were pagan signs of grief and worship (16:6; 1 Kgs 18:28), forbidden to Israel (Deut 14:1). The Philistines grieved with no one to hear them. Believers grieve too, but not as those who have no hope (1 Thess 4:13).
47:6 Alas, O sword of the LORD, until when will you not be quiet The speaker may be the Philistines begging for the killing to stop, or, as many think, Jeremiah himself. He took no joy in announcing judgment, even on Israel's enemies (48:31-32; 9:1). Neither should we.
47:7 there He has appointed it The sword cannot rest because God has given it a task, but it is aimed. It goes where He sends it and no further. His judgment is never out of control. For those in Christ, the sword of God's justice fell on Jesus (Isa 53:5), and there is no condemnation left for us (Rom 8:1).
48:1 Woe to Nebo, for it has been devastated Nebo here is a town near the mountain where Moses viewed the promised land before he died (Deut 34:1). Moab came from Lot's older daughter (Gen 19:37). Israel was told not to attack it (Deut 2:9), yet Moab hired Balaam to curse Israel (Num 22) and fought her for centuries.
48:2 There is no longer praise of Moab Moab had been admired; now its name would be a byword. In Heshbon on its northern edge the enemy plotted to end it as a nation. Yet Ruth, David's great-grandmother, was a Moabitess, named in Jesus' family line (Ruth 4:13-17; Matt 1:5). God's grace has always reached beyond Israel.
48:5 on the ascent of Luhith with weeping The poem moves from town to town like a runner carrying bad news. Refugees climb one road and descend another, crying all the way.
48:6 like a juniper in the wilderness A small, scraggly desert bush standing alone. That is how Moab's scattered refugees would look.
48:7 because of your trusting in your works and in your treasures Moab trusted what it had built and owned. Its national god Chemosh, for whom Solomon once built a high place (1 Kgs 11:7), would be carried into exile like luggage, as conquerors hauled off the idols of nations they beat. A god who must be carried cannot carry you (Isa 46:1-4).
48:9 Give a wing to Moab Moab would need wings to escape the destroyer coming to every town, valley and plain.
48:10 cursed is he who withholds his sword from blood Spoken to the army God was sending against Moab. In this one judgment they were His tools and must finish the work, the lesson Saul failed to learn (1 Sam 15). It is not a command for anyone today to take up the sword. The principle beneath it does apply: God's work is never to be done halfway (Col 3:23).
48:11 he has been undisturbed on his lees Wine was poured carefully from jar to jar to leave the dregs behind. Wine left on its lees grew thick and harsh. Moab had never been poured out by exile, so its pride stayed unchanged. Ease is not always a blessing, and God often changes us most through hard times (Zeph 1:12).
48:12 I will send to him tilters Men who tip the jars would empty Moab's vessels and smash them. Moab would finally be poured out.
48:13 just as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, their trust Bethel was where Jeroboam set up a golden calf (1 Kgs 12:28-29). It did not save Israel from Assyria, and Chemosh would fail Moab the same way.

14 How do you say, 'We are mighty men, and men of strength for battle'? 15 Moab has been devastated, and he has gone up into her cities, and the choicest of his young men have gone down to the slaughter, declares the King, the LORD of armies is His name. 16 The disaster of Moab is near to come, and his calamity has hastened exceedingly. 17 Show sympathy to him, all who are around him, and all who know his name; say, 'How the staff of strength is broken, the rod of splendor!' 18 Come down from glory and sit in thirst, O inhabitant, daughter of Dibon (Divon); for the destroyer of Moab has come up against you; he has ruined your strongholds. 19 Stand by the road and watch, O inhabitant of Aroer (Aro'er); ask him who flees and her who escapes; say, 'What has happened?' 20 Moab has been put to shame, for it has been shattered. Wail and cry out! Declare at the Arnon that Moab has been devastated. 21 And judgment has come to the land of the plain, to Holon (Cholon) and to Jahaz (Yahats) and upon Mephaath (Mefa'at), 22 and upon Dibon and upon Nebo and upon Beth-diblathaim (Bet-Divlatayim), 23 and upon Kiriathaim and upon Beth-gamul (Bet-Gamul) and upon Beth-meon (Bet-Meon), 24 and upon Kerioth (Qeriyot) and upon Bozrah (Botsra) and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, the far and the near. 25 The horn of Moab has been cut off, and his arm has been broken, declares the LORD. 26 Make him drunk, for he has magnified himself against the LORD; and Moab will wallow in his vomit, and he also will become a laughingstock. 27 And was not Israel a laughingstock to you? Or was he found among thieves, that as often as your words were about him you shook yourself? 28 Abandon cities and dwell in the rock, O inhabitants of Moab, and be like a dove that makes a nest in the sides of the mouth of a ravine.

The Pride of Moab

29 We have heard the pride of Moab, very proud: his haughtiness and his pride and his arrogance and the loftiness of his heart. 30 I, I know his fury, declares the LORD, and it is not right; his empty boasts, they have done what is not right. 31 Therefore over Moab I will wail, and for Moab, all of it, I will cry out; for the men of Kir-heres (Qir-Cheres) one will moan. 32 More than the weeping of Jazer (Yazer) I will weep for you, O vine of Sibmah (Sivma); your tendrils passed over the sea; they reached as far as the sea of Jazer; upon your summer fruit and upon your grape harvest a destroyer has fallen. 33 And joy and rejoicing have been removed from the garden land and from the land of Moab; and wine from wine-presses I have made to cease; no one will tread with shouting; the shouting is no shouting. 34 From the outcry of Heshbon as far as Elealeh (Elale), as far as Jahaz, they have given their voice, from Zoar (Tso'ar) as far as Horonaim, to Eglath-shelishiyah (Eglat-Shelishiya); for also the waters of Nimrim will become desolations. 35 And I will put an end for Moab, declares the LORD, to him who offers up on a high place and him who burns incense to his gods. 36 Therefore my heart moans for Moab like flutes, and my heart moans for the men of Kir-heres like flutes; therefore the abundance that he made has perished. 37 For every head is baldness, and every beard is clipped; on all hands are gashes, and on the loins sackcloth. 38 On all the roofs of Moab and in her open places, all of it is lamentation; for I have broken Moab like a vessel in which there is no pleasure, declares the LORD. 39 How it has been shattered! They have wailed! How Moab

48:15 declares the King, the LORD of armies is His name Moab's soldiers bragged of their strength (48:14), but its best young men would fall. The nations had their kings; there is one King over them all.
48:17 How the staff of strength is broken, the rod of splendor The staff and rod were signs of a ruler's power. Neighbors are told to mourn as Moab's power snaps like a stick.
48:18 Come down from glory and sit in thirst, O inhabitant, daughter of Dibon Dibon was one of Moab's chief cities. Its proud people would come down and sit in the dust.
48:19 Stand by the road and watch, O inhabitant of Aroer Aroer sat on the edge of the Arnon gorge, Moab's northern border. Its people would watch refugees stream past and ask what had happened.
48:24 all the cities of the land of Moab, the far and the near Jeremiah lists eleven towns (48:21-24) and then adds every other one. No town would be missed.
48:25 The horn of Moab has been cut off A horn, like a bull's, pictured strength; the arm was the power to fight. Both would be gone.
48:26 Make him drunk, for he has magnified himself against the LORD Drunkenness pictures the cup of God's wrath (25:15-17). Moab would stagger and become a laughingstock.
48:27 was not Israel a laughingstock to you Moab had mocked Israel and shaken its head at her troubles. That mockery would come back on Moab. God takes it personally when people laugh at His people's suffering (Zeph 2:8-10).
48:29 his haughtiness and his pride and his arrogance and the loftiness of his heart Four words for pride in a row. Isaiah said nearly the same (Isa 16:6). Pride was Moab's root sin, and it still goes before a fall (Prov 16:18). God opposes the proud and gives grace to the humble (Jas 4:6).
48:31 Therefore over Moab I will wail The LORD Himself speaks, and the prophet feels it with Him. God judges Moab, and He weeps over Moab. He is no cold judge who enjoys punishing. Jesus showed the same heart weeping over Jerusalem (Luke 19:41).
48:32 O vine of Sibmah Moab was famous for vineyards whose tendrils spread far. The destroyer would fall on the harvest, and the shouting of grape treaders would stop.
48:35 him who offers up on a high place A high place was a hilltop shrine, usually for idols. Moab's false worship would end.
48:36 my heart moans for Moab like flutes Flutes were played at funerals (Matt 9:23). The prophet's heart played a funeral song for Moab.
48:37 every head is baldness, and every beard is clipped Shaved heads, clipped beards, cuts and sackcloth, the rough goat's-hair cloth of grief, were the signs of mourning in that world.
48:38 like a vessel in which there is no pleasure The potter picture again (18:4; 19:10-11). Moab would be broken like a useless jar.

has turned his back, ashamed! And Moab will become a laughingstock and a terror to all around him. 40 For thus says the LORD: Look, like the eagle he will swoop, and he will spread his wings toward Moab. 41 Kerioth has been captured, and the strongholds have been seized; and the heart of the mighty men of Moab will be in that day like the heart of a woman in labor. 42 And Moab will be destroyed from being a people, for he has magnified himself against the LORD. 43 Terror and pit and snare are upon you, O inhabitant of Moab, declares the LORD. 44 He who flees from before the terror will fall into the pit, and he who climbs up from the pit will be caught in the snare; for I will bring upon her, upon Moab, the year of their punishment, declares the LORD. 45 In the shadow of Heshbon those who flee have stood without strength; for a fire has gone out from Heshbon, and a flame from the midst of Sihon (Sichon), and it has consumed the forehead of Moab and the scalp of the sons of uproar. 46 Woe to you, O Moab! The people of Chemosh has perished; for your sons have been taken into captivity, and your daughters into captivity. 47 And I will turn back the captivity of Moab at the end of the days, declares the LORD." Thus far is the judgment of Moab.

Against Ammon

1 Of the sons of Ammon (Amon). Thus says the LORD: "Has Israel (Yisra'el) no sons? Or has he no heir? Why has Milcom dispossessed Gad, and why has his people dwelt in its cities? 2 Therefore, look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and I will make a shout of battle heard against Rabbah (Raba) of the sons of Ammon; and it will become a mound of desolation, and her daughters will be burned with fire; and Israel will dispossess those who dispossessed him, says the LORD. 3 Wail, O Heshbon (Cheshbon), for Ai (Ay) has been devastated! Cry out, O daughters of Rabbah; gird on sackcloth; mourn and run to and fro among the walls; for Milcom will go into exile, his priests and his officials together. 4 Why do you boast in the valleys? Your valley is flowing, O backsliding daughter, who trusts in her treasures, saying, 'Who will come against me?' 5 Look, I am about to bring terror upon you, declares the Lord GOD of armies, from all who are around you; and you will be driven out, each man before him, and there will be none who gathers the fugitive. 6 And afterward I will turn back the captivity of the sons of Ammon, declares the LORD."

Against Edom

7 Of Edom. Thus says the LORD of armies: "Is there no longer wisdom in Teman? Has counsel perished from those who understand? Has their wisdom been corrupted? 8 Flee, turn back, go deep to dwell, O inhabitants of Dedan; for I have brought the disaster of Esau (Esav) upon him, the time that I punish him. 9 If grape gatherers came to you, would they not leave gleanings? If thieves came in the night, they would destroy only their sufficiency. 10 For I, I have stripped Esau bare; I have uncovered his hiding places, and he will not be able to hide himself; his seed has been devastated, and his 48:40 like the eagle he will swoop The eagle is Nebuchadnezzar, swift and strong (Ezek 17:3). The hearts of Moab's mighty men would be gripped with fear like a woman in labor.

48:42 Moab will be destroyed from being a people This came true. Babylon subdued Moab in the years after Jerusalem fell, often dated about 582 B.C., and in time the Moabites disappeared as a separate people.
48:43 Terror and pit and snare Isaiah used the same words (Isa 24:17-18). In Hebrew they sound alike: pachad, pachat, pach. Like a hunted animal, whoever escaped one trap fell into the next. Sin does that: it promises escape and closes every door. The only way out is to turn to God (1 Cor 10:13).
48:45 a fire has gone out from Heshbon, and a flame from the midst of Sihon Lines from an old song sung when Israel defeated Sihon, the Amorite king who had taken land from Moab (Num 21:28-29). The forehead of Moab echoes Balaam's star from Jacob who would crush Moab (Num 24:17), which many see as the Messiah.
48:47 I will turn back the captivity of Moab at the end of the days After all the woe, the last word is mercy. To turn back the captivity means to restore. The end of the days points to Messiah's kingdom, when people from Moab's land will worship the true God among every nation (Rev 5:9). If God had mercy for the nation that hired Balaam, there is mercy for anyone who comes to Him.
49:1 Why has Milcom dispossessed Gad The Ammonites also came from Lot (Gen 19:38) and lived around Rabbah, where Amman, Jordan, stands today. When Assyria carried off the northern tribes in 722 B.C., Ammon moved into Gad's land east of the Jordan. Did they think Israel had no heir? The land was Israel's by God's gift. Milcom, also called Molech, was Ammon's god (1 Kgs 11:7).
49:2 Israel will dispossess those who dispossessed him Rabbah would become a mound of ruins and its surrounding towns, her daughters, would burn. Ammon was a cruel nation (Amos 1:13), and what it took would be given back.
49:3 Milcom will go into exile, his priests and his officials together The same words used of Chemosh (48:7). The gods of the nations could not even save themselves.
49:4 Who will come against me Ammon's land was well watered and rich, and she trusted her treasures. That question is the voice of every proud heart. The answer was God Himself.
49:6 afterward I will turn back the captivity Mercy after judgment, as with Egypt and Moab (46:26; 48:47). Ammon disappeared as a separate people long ago, but God's word does not fail. I believe its fullest answer comes when the Messiah reigns and the nations come to worship Him.
49:7 Is there no longer wisdom in Teman Edom came from Esau, Jacob's twin (Gen 25:30), and lived in the mountains south and east of the Dead Sea. Close relatives, they were bitter enemies and cheered Jerusalem's fall (Ps 137:7; Obad 10-14). Teman was famous for wise men such as Eliphaz (Job 2:11), but worldly wisdom cannot protect a nation set against God (1 Cor 1:20).
49:8 O inhabitants of Dedan Dedan was a trading people to the southeast. They were warned to get away and hide, because disaster was coming on Esau.
49:9 If grape gatherers came to you, would they not leave gleanings Much of Edom's message is shared with Obadiah (Obad 1-9). Harvesters leave gleanings and thieves take only what they want, but God would strip Esau bare.

brothers and his neighbors, and he is no more. 11 Leave your fatherless; I, I will keep them alive; and your widows, let them trust in Me. 12 For thus says the LORD: Look, those whose judgment was not to drink the cup will certainly drink it; and are you the one who will be altogether exempt from punishment? You will not be exempt from punishment, for you will certainly drink it. 13 For by Myself I have sworn, declares the LORD, that Bozrah (Botsra) will become a horror, a reproach, a ruin, and a curse; and all her cities will become everlasting ruins. 14 I have heard a report from the LORD, and an envoy has been sent among the nations: 'Gather together and come against her, and rise up for battle!' 15 For look, I have made you small among the nations, despised among mankind. 16 Your terribleness has deceived you, the arrogance of your heart, O you who dwell in the clefts of the rock, who hold the height of the hill; though you make your nest high like the eagle, from there I will bring you down, declares the LORD. 17 And Edom will become a horror; everyone who passes by her will be appalled and will hiss at all her wounds. 18 Like the overthrow of Sodom (Sedom) and Gomorrah (Amora) and her neighbors, says the LORD, no man will dwell there, and no son of man will sojourn in her. 19 Look, like a lion he will go up from the thicket of the Jordan (Yarden) to the ever-flowing pasture; for in a moment I will make him run from her; and whoever is chosen, I will appoint over her. For who is like Me? And who will summon Me? And who is this shepherd who will stand before Me? 20 Therefore hear the counsel of the LORD which He has counseled against Edom, and His purposes which He has purposed against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the little ones of the flock will drag them away; surely he will make their pasture desolate over them. 21 From the sound of their fall the earth has shaken; there is an outcry; at the Red Sea its sound has been heard. 22 Look, like the eagle he will go up and swoop, and he will spread his wings over Bozrah; and the heart of the mighty men of Edom will be in that day like the heart of a woman in labor."

Against Damascus

23 Of Damascus (Dameseq). "Hamath (Chamat) has been put to shame, and Arpad, for they have heard a bad report; they have melted away; in the sea there is anxiety; it is not able to be quiet. 24 Damascus has grown slack; she has turned to flee, and panic has taken hold of her; distress and pains have seized her, like a woman giving birth. 25 How has the city of praise not been forsaken, the town of my joy! 26 Therefore her young men will fall in her open places, and all the men of war will be silenced in that day, declares the LORD of armies. 27 And I will kindle a fire on the wall of Damascus, and it will consume the fortresses of Ben-hadad."

Against Kedar and Hazor

28 Of Kedar (Qedar) and of the kingdoms of Hazor (Chatsor), which Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon (Bavel) struck. Thus says the LORD: "Arise, go up against Kedar, and devastate the sons of the east. 29 Their tents and their flocks they will take; their tent curtains and all their equipment and their camels they will carry off for themselves; and they will call out against them, 'Terror is from all around!' 30 Flee, wander far away, go deep to dwell, O inhabitants of Hazor, declares the LORD; for Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon has counseled counsel against you, and he has purposed a purpose against you. 31 Arise, go up against a nation at ease, which dwells in security, declares the LORD; it

49:31 Ezek 38:11; Isa 47:8; Num 23:9

49:11 Leave your fatherless; I, I will keep them alive In the middle of judgment God stops to speak of orphans and widows, those who could not help themselves. He is a Father to the fatherless (Ps 68:5). Even in judgment He sees the weak, and He invites the helpless to trust in Him.
49:12 those whose judgment was not to drink the cup will certainly drink it The cup is God's wrath (25:15-29). Most likely this means Judah, His own people. If He did not spare them, how could Edom expect to escape? Judgment begins with the house of God (1 Pet 4:17).
49:13 by Myself I have sworn There is no one greater to swear by. Bozrah, a chief city of Edom, would become everlasting ruins.
49:16 though you make your nest high like the eagle, from there I will bring you down Edom's cities sat high in the cliffs behind narrow passes, and they felt no army could reach them. Pride deceives us into thinking we are safe. Mountains can keep out armies, but not God. Feeling too high to need Him is the most dangerous place to be.
49:18 Like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah This came true. Edom was overrun after Jerusalem fell, and by Malachi's day, about 430 B.C., its mountains lay waste (Mal 1:3). Some Edomites moved into southern Judah and were later called Idumeans; Herod the Great came from them. After the Roman wars of the first century A.D. they vanish from history.
49:19 like a lion he will go up from the thicket of the Jordan The thick brush along the Jordan sheltered lions in those days (12:5). No shepherd of any nation can stand before God or summon Him to court.
49:20 the little ones of the flock will drag them away Even the weakest of the enemy would be enough to carry off Edom.
49:22 he will spread his wings over Bozrah The eagle again, as over Moab (48:40). Unlike Egypt, Moab, Ammon and Elam, Edom receives no promise of restoration here. Obadiah ends the same way, with Edom cut off and the kingdom the LORD's (Obad 10, 18, 21). Scripture does not give every reason for the difference, and I will not guess beyond it.
49:23 Of Damascus The capital of Aram, our Syria, with Hamath and Arpad to its north. At the bad news they melted with fear.
49:25 the town of my joy Possibly the voice of a citizen of Damascus mourning the city he loved.
49:27 it will consume the fortresses of Ben-hadad Amos used almost the same words (Amos 1:4). Ben-hadad was the name of several kings of Damascus who fought Israel (1 Kgs 20; 2 Kgs 6:24). Assyria took Damascus in 732 B.C. (2 Kgs 16:9), but it rose again; now Babylon would take it. Damascus still stands, and on its road the risen Jesus met Saul of Tarsus (Acts 9:3-6).
49:28 Of Kedar and of the kingdoms of Hazor Kedar was an Arab tribe from Ishmael (Gen 25:13), desert people with black goat-hair tents and camels (Song 1:5; Isa 21:16-17). This Hazor is not the Canaanite city in Galilee but most likely the unwalled Arab settlements of the desert. Babylonian records tell of a raid by Nebuchadnezzar against the Arabs about 599 B.C.
49:31 it has no doors and no bar; they dwell alone They had no walls because they thought no one would bother to attack them. Distance and poverty do not put anyone beyond God's reach.

has no doors and no bar; they dwell alone. 32 And their camels will become spoil, and the multitude of their livestock plunder; and I will scatter to every wind those who are clipped at the corner of the hair, and from all its sides I will bring their disaster, declares the LORD. 33 And Hazor will become a habitation of jackals, a desolation forever; no man will dwell there, and no son of man will sojourn in her."

Against Elam

34 That which came as the word of the LORD to Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet concerning Elam, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah (Tsidqiya) the king of Judah (Yehuda), saying, 35 "Thus says the LORD of armies: Look, I am about to break the bow of Elam, the chief of their might. 36 And I will bring upon Elam four winds from the four ends of the heavens, and I will scatter them to all these winds; and there will be no nation to which the outcasts of Elam will not come. 37 And I will shatter Elam before their enemies and before those who seek their life; and I will bring calamity upon them, the burning of My anger, declares the LORD; and I will send the sword after them until I have made an end of them. 38 And I will set My throne in Elam, and I will destroy from there king and officials, declares the LORD. 39 And it will be at the end of the days that I will turn back the captivity of Elam, declares the LORD."

Against Babylon

1 The word which the LORD spoke concerning Babylon (Bavel), concerning the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), by the hand of Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet: 2 Declare among the nations, and proclaim, and lift up a standard; proclaim, do not hide it; say, "Babylon has been captured; Bel has been put to shame; Marduk (Merodakh) has been shattered; her images have been put to shame; her idols have been shattered." 3 For a nation has come up against her from the north; it will make her land into a horror, and there will not be an inhabitant in it; from man even to beast they have wandered off, they have gone. 4 In those days and at that time, declares the LORD, the sons of Israel (Yisra'el) will come, they and the sons of Judah (Yehuda) together; going on and weeping they will go, and the LORD their God they will seek. 5 For Zion (Tsiyon) they will ask, with their faces toward the way hither: "Come!" And they will join themselves to the LORD in an everlasting covenant that will not be forgotten. 6 My people have been lost sheep; their shepherds have caused them to wander; on the mountains they have turned them away; from mountain to hill they have gone; they have forgotten their resting place. 7 All who found them have devoured them; and their adversaries have said, "We are not guilty, because they have sinned against the LORD, the habitation of righteousness, and the hope of their fathers, the LORD." 8 Wander away from the midst of Babylon, and from the land of the Chaldeans go out, and be like male goats before the flock. 9 For look, I am about to stir up and bring up against Babylon an assembly of great nations from a land of the north; and they will set themselves in array against her; from there she will be captured. Its arrows are like a skillful mighty man who does not return empty. 10 And the Chaldeans will become spoil; all who spoil her will 49:32 those who are clipped at the corner of the hair A custom of some desert tribes who trimmed the hair at the temples (9:26; 25:23). They would be scattered to every wind.

49:34 concerning Elam, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah About 597 B.C. Elam lay far east of Babylon in what is now southwest Iran. Its chief city Susa is where Daniel saw a vision and Nehemiah and Esther later lived (Dan 8:2; Neh 1:1; Esth 1:2).
49:35 I am about to break the bow of Elam, the chief of their might Elam was known for its archers (Isa 22:6). God would break the very thing they were best at.
49:38 I will set My throne in Elam God would show that He, not Elam's kings, rules there. Elam was later swallowed by Persia, and Susa became a Persian royal city. His throne is over every land.
49:39 at the end of the days that I will turn back the captivity of Elam The last restoration promise in these chapters, to a far-off nation, shows God's purposes reach the ends of the earth. Elamites heard the gospel at Pentecost (Acts 2:9), a first taste. I believe the full turning back points to Messiah's kingdom, when the nations come to Him.
50:1 concerning Babylon, concerning the land of the Chaldeans The longest oracle in the book (chapters 50-51) is saved for the empire that destroyed Jerusalem. The Chaldeans were the people ruling Babylon in Jeremiah's day. The tool of God's judgment would itself be judged.
50:2 Bel has been put to shame; Marduk has been shattered Marduk was Babylon's chief god, and Bel, meaning lord, was one of his titles. Babylon thought its god had made it great. The true God would shame him before the nations.
50:3 a nation has come up against her from the north All through Jeremiah the enemy from the north was Babylon (1:14; 4:6). Now Babylon would face its own. The Medes, from the mountains north and east, joined the Persians under Cyrus and took the city in 539 B.C. (Dan 5:30-31).
50:4 they and the sons of Judah together; going on and weeping they will go Israel and Judah, divided since about 930 B.C., return as one people (Ezek 37:15-22), and they come weeping in repentance, seeking God, not only going home.
50:5 an everlasting covenant that will not be forgotten The new covenant of 31:31-34 and 32:40. It was fulfilled in part when a remnant came home after Cyrus' decree in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1:1), but the nation did not turn with all its heart. I believe the full answer comes in the last days, when Israel looks on Him whom they pierced (Zech 12:10) and all Israel is saved (Rom 11:26).
50:6 their shepherds have caused them to wander Judah's kings, priests and false prophets (23:1-2) led the flock to the idol shrines on the hills, and the sheep forgot their true resting place, God Himself. Jesus is the good shepherd who leads His lost sheep home (John 10:11).
50:7 We are not guilty, because they have sinned against the LORD Judah had sinned, but Babylon did not destroy Judah to serve God. It acted from greed and cruelty and would answer for it. God can use a nation as His tool and still judge it for its own evil (Isa 10:5-12).
50:8 be like male goats before the flock The male goats walked out in front when a flock moved. God's people were to be first out of Babylon.

be satisfied, declares the LORD. 11 Because you rejoice, because you exult, O plunderers of My inheritance, because you skip about like a heifer threshing, and you neigh like the mighty horses, 12 your mother has been greatly ashamed; she who bore you has been abashed. Look, the last of the nations is a wilderness, a dry land, and a desert plain. 13 Because of the wrath of the LORD she will not be inhabited, and she will be a desolation, all of her; everyone who passes by Babylon will be appalled and will hiss because of all her wounds. 14 Set yourselves in array against Babylon all around, all you who bend a bow; shoot at her; do not spare an arrow, for she has sinned against the LORD. 15 Shout against her all around; she has given her hand; her towers have fallen; her walls have been torn down. For it is the vengeance of the LORD; take vengeance on her; just as she has done, do to her. 16 Cut off the sower from Babylon, and the one who wields a sickle at the time of harvest; from before the sword of the oppressor each one will turn to his people, and each one will flee to his land.

Israel Restored and Forgiven

17 Israel is a scattered sheep; lions have driven him away. The first, the king of Assyria (Ashur), devoured him; and this last, Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon, has gnawed his bones. 18 Therefore thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: "Look, I am about to punish the king of Babylon and his land, just as I punished the king of Assyria. 19 And I will bring Israel back to his pasture, and he will graze on the Carmel (Karmel) and the Bashan, and in the hill country of Ephraim (Efrayim) and the Gilead (Gilad) his soul will be satisfied. 20 In those days and at that time, declares the LORD, the iniquity of Israel will be sought, and there will be none, and the sins of Judah, and they will not be found; for I will forgive those whom I leave as a remnant." 21 Against the land of Merathaim (Meratayim), go up against it, and against the inhabitants of Pekod (Peqod); slay and devote them to destruction after them, declares the LORD, and do according to all that I have commanded you. 22 A sound of battle is in the land, and great destruction. 23 How the hammer of all the earth has been cut down and broken! How Babylon has become a horror among the nations! 24 I set a snare for you, and you were also captured, O Babylon, and you yourself did not know; you were found and also seized, because you engaged in strife against the LORD. 25 The LORD has opened His treasury, and He has brought out the weapons of His indignation; for it is a work for the Lord GOD of armies in the land of the Chaldeans. 26 Come against her from the end; open her granaries; pile her up like heaps, and devote her to destruction; let there not be a remnant for her. 27 Slay all her young bulls; let them go down to the slaughter. Woe on them! For their day has come, the time of their punishment. 28 The sound of fugitives and escapees from the land of Babylon, to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, the vengeance of His temple! 29 Summon archers against Babylon, all who bend a bow; encamp against her all around; let there not be an escape for her; repay her according to her deed; according to all that she has done, do to her; for she has acted proudly against the LORD, against the Holy One of Israel. 30 Therefore her young men will fall in her open places, and all her men of war will be silenced in that day, declares the LORD. 31 Look, I am against you, O arrogance, declares the Lord GOD of armies, for your day has come, the time when I will punish you. 32 And arrogance will stumble and fall, and there will be none to raise him up; and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it will devour all around him.

50:11 O plunderers of My inheritance Babylon plundered God's people and frisked over it like a threshing heifer, which ate as she worked and grew fat.
50:12 the last of the nations is a wilderness The mother is the land of Babylon itself. The greatest empire would become the last of the nations.
50:13 will hiss because of all her wounds The same words spoken over Jerusalem (19:8) now fall on Babylon.
50:15 just as she has done, do to her God repays nations in kind, a principle all through Scripture. Babylon's treatment of others would come back on her.
50:17 this last, Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, has gnawed his bones Assyria devoured the northern kingdom in 722 B.C.; Babylon finished Judah. First one lion, then another. Nineveh fell in 612 B.C., and Babylon's turn would come too. No lion is stronger than the Shepherd of Israel.
50:19 he will graze on the Carmel and the Bashan Carmel, Bashan, Ephraim and Gilead were Israel's richest grazing lands, west and east of the Jordan. God would bring His sheep back to all of it.
50:20 the iniquity of Israel will be sought, and there will be none Someone searches for Israel's sins and cannot find them, because God has forgiven them (31:34). Animal blood could not do that (Heb 10:4). Jesus poured out His blood for the new covenant (Luke 22:20). I believe this will be fulfilled for the nation of Israel in the last days (Rom 11:26-27), and the same forgiveness is offered now to anyone who comes to God through Christ. When God forgives, He does not keep a file.
50:21 Against the land of Merathaim Wordplays on real place names. Merathaim, a region of southern Babylonia, sounds like double rebellion; Pekod, a people of eastern Babylonia (Ezek 23:23), sounds like punishment. To devote to destruction was to hand something over to God completely in judgment.
50:23 How the hammer of all the earth has been cut down and broken Babylon smashed nations like a blacksmith's hammer. Now the hammer itself would break.
50:24 you yourself did not know Daniel 5 tells of that night. Belshazzar was feasting with the cups taken from God's temple when the city fell.
50:25 the weapons of His indignation This time God's weapons were the armies of the Medes and Persians (51:11).
50:28 the vengeance of His temple Babylon had burned God's house in Jerusalem (52:13). God had not forgotten it.
50:29 she has acted proudly against the LORD, against the Holy One of Israel Babylon's sin was pride against God Himself. Nebuchadnezzar learned that when God humbled him (Dan 4:30-37); Belshazzar did not (Dan 5:22-23).
50:31 I am against you, O arrogance God calls Babylon by the name of its sin. Arrogance will stumble with none to lift it up. Pride always falls in the end.

The Strong Redeemer

33 Thus says the LORD of armies: "The sons of Israel are oppressed, and the sons of Judah together; and all their captors have held fast to them; they have refused to let them go." 34 Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of armies is His name; He will surely plead their case, so as to give rest to the earth and to bring disquiet to the inhabitants of Babylon. 35 A sword against the Chaldeans, declares the LORD, and against the inhabitants of Babylon, and against her officials, and against her wise ones! 36 A sword against the empty talkers, and they will become fools! A sword against her mighty men, and they will be shattered! 37 A sword against his horses and against his chariotry, and against all the mixed people who are in her midst, and they will become women! A sword against her treasures, and they will be plundered! 38 A drought against her waters, and they will become dry! For it is a land of carved images, and in the terrors they act like madmen. 39 Therefore desert creatures will dwell with hyenas, and daughters of the ostrich will dwell in her; and she will not be inhabited again forever, and she will not be settled until generation and generation. 40 Like God's overthrow of Sodom (Sedom) and Gomorrah (Amora) and her neighbors, declares the LORD, no man will dwell there, and no son of man will sojourn in her. 41 Look, a people is coming from the north, and a great nation, and many kings will be stirred up from the remotest parts of the earth. 42 Bow and javelin they will grasp; they are cruel, and they will not have compassion; their sound is like the sea that roars, and on horses they will ride, set in array like a man for the battle against you, O daughter of Babylon. 43 The king of Babylon has heard the report of them, and his hands have gone limp; distress has seized him, anguish like the woman giving birth. 44 Look, like a lion he will go up from the thicket of the Jordan (Yarden) to the ever-flowing pasture; for in a moment I will make them run from her; and whoever is chosen, I will appoint over her. For who is like Me? And who will summon Me? And who is this shepherd who will stand before Me? 45 Therefore hear the counsel of the LORD which He has counseled against Babylon, and His purposes which He has purposed against the land of the Chaldeans: surely the little ones of the flock will drag them away; surely he will make their pasture desolate over them. 46 At the sound of "Babylon has been captured!" the earth has shaken, and an outcry among the nations has been heard.

The Fall of Babylon

1 Thus says the LORD: Look, I am about to stir up against Babylon (Bavel) and against the inhabitants of Leb-kamai (Lev-Qamay) a destroying wind. 2 And I will send strangers to Babylon, and they will winnow her, and they will empty her land; for they will be against her from all around in the day of calamity. 3 Let not the one who bends bend his bow, and let him not lift himself up in his armor; and do not spare her young men; devote all her army to destruction. 4 And the slain will fall in the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim), and those pierced through in her streets. 5 For Israel (Yisra'el) and Judah (Yehuda) are not forsaken by his God, by the LORD of armies; for their land is full of guilt against the Holy One of Israel. 6 Flee from the midst of Babylon, and save each one his life; do not be destroyed in her iniquity; for it is a time of vengeance for the LORD; He is about to repay a recompense

50:33 they have refused to let them go It sounds like Pharaoh (Exod 5:1-2). Babylon held God's people as Egypt once did.
50:34 Their Redeemer is strong The redeemer, go'el in Hebrew, was the close relative who bought back a family member sold into slavery or rescued him from trouble (Lev 25:47-49; Ruth 4). God is Israel's next of kin and would plead their case and win. Jesus redeemed us with His own precious blood, not with silver or gold (1 Pet 1:18-19).
50:36 A sword against the empty talkers The sword comes against every part of Babylon, even her fortune-tellers. Her famous wise men could not save her (Dan 2:2).
50:38 it is a land of carved images, and in the terrors they act like madmen Babylon depended on the Euphrates and its canals, and a drought would dry them. The root of it all was idols. A nation that worships the work of its hands ends up acting like a madman.
50:39 she will not be inhabited again forever Like Isaiah's words (Isa 13:19-20). In 539 B.C. Cyrus took Babylon with little fighting and left it standing. It declined slowly over centuries but was never overthrown suddenly like Sodom.
50:40 Like God's overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah So I believe these words reach beyond 539 B.C. to the Babylon of the last days. In Revelation 17 and 18 Babylon the Great rules the kings of the earth during the Tribulation, after Christ takes His church to Himself, and falls in one hour (Rev 18:10). Jeremiah was fulfilled in part with Cyrus and will be fulfilled fully then.
50:41 a people is coming from the north, and a great nation Almost line for line the words once spoken of Babylon against Jerusalem (6:22-24) now describe the nation coming against Babylon. She showed no mercy and would receive none.
50:43 his hands have gone limp Belshazzar's face went pale and his knees knocked when he saw the handwriting on the wall (Dan 5:6).
50:44 who is this shepherd who will stand before Me The words spoken against Edom (49:19-21) are now aimed at Babylon. Every empire set against God will fall, however strong it looks. Our hope is in the King whose kingdom will never be destroyed (Dan 2:44).
51:1 the inhabitants of Leb-kamai A code name meaning the heart of those who rise against Me. It is formed by an old Hebrew letter code that swaps the first letter of the alphabet for the last, and so on, which turns it into the word for Chaldea. Sheshach in 51:41 works the same way for Babel.
51:2 they will winnow her Winnowing tossed grain into the wind so the chaff blew away. Foreign armies would blow Babylon away like chaff.
51:5 Israel and Judah are not forsaken by his God Their land was full of guilt, yet God had not forsaken them. That is grace. He judged them, but He did not let them go.
51:6 Flee from the midst of Babylon God's people were not to be swept away in Babylon's judgment. Revelation gives the same call about the final Babylon (Rev 18:4). For us it means living in the world without sharing in its sins (John 17:15-16).

to her. 7 Babylon was a cup of gold in the hand of the LORD, making all the earth drunk; from her wine nations have drunk; therefore nations act like madmen. 8 Suddenly Babylon has fallen, and she has been broken; wail over her; take balm for her pain; perhaps she will be healed. 9 "We healed Babylon, and she was not healed; leave her, and let us go each one to his land; for her judgment has reached to the heavens, and it has been lifted up to the clouds. 10 The LORD has brought forth our righteousnesses; come, and let us recount in Zion (Tsiyon) the work of the LORD our God." 11 Sharpen the arrows; fill the shields; the LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of Media (Maday), for His purpose is against Babylon, to destroy her; for it is the vengeance of the LORD, the vengeance of His temple. 12 Against the walls of Babylon lift up a standard; strengthen the watch; station watchmen; prepare those lying in ambush; for the LORD has both purposed and done that which He spoke concerning the inhabitants of Babylon. 13 O you who dwell on many waters, great in treasures, your end has come, the cubit of your cutting off. 14 The LORD of armies has sworn by Himself: "Surely I will fill you with men like the locust, and they will sing a shout over you."

The Maker of All Things

15 He is the Maker of the earth by His power, the Establisher of the world by His wisdom, and by His understanding He stretched out the heavens. 16 At the sound of His giving forth, there is a roar of waters in the heavens; and He makes mists go up from the end of the earth; He makes lightnings for the rain, and He brings out wind from His storehouses. 17 Every man is stupid, without knowledge; every refiner has been put to shame by the carved image, for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them. 18 They are vanity, a work of mockeries; at the time of their punishment they will perish. 19 Not like these is the Portion of Jacob (Ya'aqov), for He is the Former of everything, and the tribe of His inheritance; the LORD of armies is His name. 20 You are My war club, weapons of war; and with you I smash nations, and with you I destroy kingdoms; 21 and with you I smash horse and its rider, and with you I smash chariot and its rider; 22 and with you I smash man and woman, and with you I smash old man and youth, and with you I smash young man and virgin; 23 and with you I smash shepherd and his flock, and with you I smash farmer and his team, and with you I smash governors and prefects. 24 And I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of the Chaldeans for all their evil which they have done in Zion before your eyes, declares the LORD. 25 Look, I am against you, O destroying mountain, declares the LORD, which destroys all the earth; and I will stretch out My hand against you, and I will roll you down from the crags, and I will make you a mountain of burning. 26 And they will not take from you a stone for a corner, and a stone for foundations, for you will be everlasting desolations, declares the LORD. 27 Lift up a standard in the land; blow a trumpet among the nations; consecrate nations against her; summon against her the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni (Mini), and Ashkenaz; appoint an official against her; bring up horses like bristly locusts. 28 Consecrate nations against her: the kings of Media, her governors and all her prefects, and all the land of his dominion. 29 And the land has quaked and writhed, for the plans of the LORD have stood against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon a horror without inhabitant. 30 The mighty men of Babylon have ceased to fight; they 51:7 Babylon was a cup of gold in the hand of the LORD Babylon was rich and beautiful like a golden cup, but the wine in it was God's judgment, and the nations staggered from it (25:15-17). Revelation pictures the final Babylon holding a golden cup full of abominations (Rev 17:4).

51:8 Suddenly Babylon has fallen, and she has been broken Revelation echoes this cry over the final Babylon (Rev 18:2). Balm is called for, but no one could heal her.
51:10 The LORD has brought forth our righteousnesses God's people speak. He would vindicate them before the nations, and they would go home to Zion and tell what He had done.
51:11 the LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of Media Jeremiah names the nation, as Isaiah named the Medes and even Cyrus himself (Isa 13:17; 45:1). Ezra uses the same words of Cyrus (Ezra 1:1). God moves the hearts of kings to do His will.
51:13 O you who dwell on many waters Babylon sat on the Euphrates and its canals. Revelation describes the final Babylon sitting on many waters and explains that the waters are peoples and nations (Rev 17:1, 15).
51:15 He is the Maker of the earth by His power These verses repeat 10:12-16 almost word for word. In the middle of a war prophecy they remind us who is doing all this. When the world shakes, we need to remember who made it.
51:17 there is no breath in them The idol maker is put to shame by his own work. An idol has no life and cannot help.
51:19 Not like these is the Portion of Jacob The LORD is Israel's portion, their share and inheritance, and Israel is the tribe of His inheritance. He belongs to them and they belong to Him.
51:20 You are My war club Bible teachers differ on who the war club is: Babylon, which smashed the nations (50:23), Cyrus, the next club God would use, or Israel, just named in 51:19. If it is Babylon, the point is sharp. God used Babylon as His tool, but that did not excuse its cruelty (51:24).
51:24 for all their evil which they have done in Zion before your eyes The exiles would see with their own eyes that God repays. What Babylon did to Zion would come back on her.
51:25 O destroying mountain A mountain can picture a kingdom (Dan 2:35). Babylon would be rolled down from the crags and left a burned-out mountain.
51:26 they will not take from you a stone for a corner Babylon would never be rebuilt as a great city. Daniel saw another stone, cut without hands, become a mountain filling the earth (Dan 2:34-35, 44). That is the Messiah's kingdom.
51:27 the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz Peoples in the mountains north of Babylon, in what is now eastern Turkey and Armenia, joined with the Medes against her.
51:30 The mighty men of Babylon have ceased to fight Babylon's soldiers would lose heart and hide in their strongholds.

have remained in the strongholds; their might has dried up; they have become women; they have set her dwellings on fire; her bars have been broken. 31 Runner runs to meet runner, and announcer to meet announcer, to announce to the king of Babylon that his city has been captured from the end, 32 and the fords have been seized, and the reed marshes they have burned with fire, and the men of war are terrified.

God Pleads Zion's Case

33 For thus says the LORD of armies, the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time when it is trodden; yet a little while, and the time of the harvest will come for her. 34 "Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon has devoured me; he has confused me; he has set me down as an empty vessel; he has swallowed me like the sea monster; he has filled his belly with my delicacies; he has rinsed me out." 35 "My violence and my flesh be upon Babylon," the inhabitant of Zion will say; and "My blood be upon the inhabitants of the Chaldeans," Jerusalem
(Yerushalayim) will say. 36 Therefore thus says the LORD: Look, I am about to plead your case, and I will avenge your vengeance; and I will dry up her sea, and I will make her spring dry. 37 And Babylon will become heaps, a habitation of jackals, a horror and a hissing, without inhabitant. 38 Together like young lions they will roar; they will growl like the cubs of lions. 39 When they are heated, I will make their feast, and I will make them drunk, so that they may exult, and they will sleep an everlasting sleep and not wake up, declares the LORD. 40 I will bring them down like lambs to slaughter, like rams with male goats. 41 How Sheshach (Sheshakh) has been captured, and the praise of all the earth has been seized! How Babylon has become a horror among the nations! 42 The sea has come up over Babylon; with the tumult of its waves she has been covered. 43 Her cities have become a horror, a dry land and a desert plain, a land where no man will dwell in them, and a son of man will not pass through them. 44 And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and I will bring out what he has swallowed from his mouth; and nations will not stream to him again; also the wall of Babylon has fallen.

Come Out of Her, My People

45 Come out from her midst, O My people, and save each one his life from the burning of the anger of the LORD. 46 And lest your heart grow faint and you fear at the report which is heard in the land: and the report will come in one year, and after it, in another year, the report, and violence will be in the land, ruler against ruler. 47 Therefore look, days are coming, and I will punish the carved images of Babylon; and all her land will be ashamed, and all her slain will fall in her midst. 48 And the heavens and the earth and all that is in them will shout for joy over Babylon; for from the north the devastators will come to her, declares the LORD. 49 Also Babylon is to fall, O slain of Israel; also for Babylon the slain of all the earth have fallen. 50 O escapees from the sword, go, do not stand still; remember the LORD from afar, and let Jerusalem come up on your heart. 51 "We are ashamed, for we have heard reproach; disgrace has covered our faces, for strangers have come into the sanctuaries of the house of the LORD." 52 Therefore look, days are coming, declares the LORD, and I will punish her carved images, and through all her land the fatally wounded will groan. 53 Though Babylon should go up to the heavens, and though she should fortify the height of her strength, from Me devastators will come to 51:31 Runner runs to meet runner Messengers race from every part of the city to tell the king it has been captured. Daniel 5 shows Belshazzar feasting that night, unaware until the hand wrote on the wall.

51:33 like a threshing floor at the time when it is trodden A threshing floor was packed hard just before harvest. Babylon's harvest of judgment was near.
51:34 he has swallowed me like the sea monster Jerusalem speaks. Nebuchadnezzar devoured her, filled himself with her good things, and rinsed her out like an empty jar.
51:35 My violence and my flesh be upon Babylon Jerusalem asks God to bring on Babylon the violence she suffered. It is a victim's cry for justice, and God answers it in the next verse.
51:36 I am about to plead your case, and I will avenge your vengeance The believer does not need to take revenge. We leave room for God's wrath, for vengeance belongs to Him (Rom 12:19). Babylon's river and canals, her life and defense, would fail.
51:39 they will sleep an everlasting sleep and not wake up God would make their feast their last. Belshazzar held a great feast for a thousand nobles, and that night he was killed (Dan 5:1, 30).
51:41 How Sheshach has been captured The same letter code as Leb-kamai (51:1), here a name for Babel. The praise of all the earth was taken.
51:42 The sea has come up over Babylon Armies flood over the city like waves of the sea.
51:44 I will bring out what he has swallowed from his mouth Babylon's god had swallowed the nations' treasures, including the holy articles of God's temple. Cyrus brought out those vessels and sent them home with the exiles (Ezra 1:7).
51:45 Come out from her midst, O My people When the way home opened, many exiles stayed where they had done well. God wanted their hearts in Zion.
51:46 lest your heart grow faint Rumors would come year after year, ruler against ruler. God told them ahead of time so they would not lose heart, as Jesus told His disciples of wars and rumors of wars (Matt 24:6).
51:48 the heavens and the earth and all that is in them will shout for joy over Babylon Heaven is told to rejoice over the final Babylon as well (Rev 18:20). Evil's fall is cause for joy.
51:50 remember the LORD from afar, and let Jerusalem come up on your heart Far away in Babylon the exiles were to keep the LORD and Jerusalem in their hearts, as Daniel prayed with his windows open toward Jerusalem (Dan 6:10). However far you feel from God, you can remember Him from afar. He has not forgotten you.
51:51 strangers have come into the sanctuaries of the house of the LORD The exiles were ashamed that foreigners had defiled God's house. God answers their shame with judgment on Babylon's idols.
51:53 Though Babylon should go up to the heavens This recalls the tower of Babel, built in the same land, reaching for the heavens (Gen 11:4). God always brings that pride down.

her, declares the LORD. 54 The sound of an outcry from Babylon, and great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans! 55 For the LORD is about to devastate Babylon, and He will destroy from her a great sound; and their waves will roar like many waters; the uproar of their voice is given forth. 56 For a devastator has come against her, against Babylon, and her mighty men will be captured; their bows have been shattered; for the LORD is a God of recompenses; He will surely repay. 57 And I will make drunk her officials and her wise ones, her governors and her prefects and her mighty men; and they will sleep an everlasting sleep and not wake up, declares the King, the LORD of armies is His name. 58 Thus says the LORD of armies: The walls of Babylon, the broad one, will be utterly laid bare, and her high gates will be burned with fire; and peoples will labor for emptiness, and nations for fire, and they will grow weary.

The Scroll in the Euphrates

59 The word which Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) the prophet commanded Seraiah (Seraya) the son of Neriah (Neriya), the son of Mahseiah (Machseya), when he went with Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) the king of Judah to Babylon in the fourth year of his reign; and Seraiah was an official of the resting place. 60 And Jeremiah wrote all the calamity which would come to Babylon in one scroll, all these words which are written concerning Babylon. 61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah, "When you come to Babylon, then you will see, and you will read aloud all these words, 62 and you will say, 'O LORD, You Yourself have spoken concerning this place, to cut it off, so that there will not be an inhabitant in it, from man even to beast, for it will be everlasting desolations.' 63 And it will be, when you finish reading aloud this scroll, you will tie a stone to it, and you will throw it into the midst of the Euphrates (Perat), 64 and you will say, 'Thus Babylon will sink, and she will not rise because of the calamity which I am about to bring upon her; and they will grow weary.'" Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

JEREMIAH 52

Jerusalem Falls

1 Zedekiah (Tsidqiyahu) was a son of twenty-one years when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); and the name of his mother was Hamutal (Chamutal) the daughter of Jeremiah (Yirmeyahu) from Libnah (Livna). 2 And he did the evil in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) had done. 3 For because of the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah (Yehuda), until He had cast them out from His face. And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon (Bavel). 4 And it was in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month, Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) the king of Babylon came, he and all his army, against Jerusalem, and they encamped against it, and they built a siege wall against it all around. 5 And the city came under siege until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 6 In the fourth month, on the ninth of the month, and the famine was severe in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land. 7 And the city was broken into, and all the men of war fled, and they went out from the city by night by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the garden of the king, and the Chaldeans (Kasdim) were against the city all around; and they went by the way of the Arabah (Arava). 8 And the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and they overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho 51:56 the LORD is a God of recompenses; He will surely repay He is patient, but He does not forget.

51:58 The walls of Babylon, the broad one, will be utterly laid bare Babylon's walls were famous, wide enough for chariots on top. They would not save her. All the labor poured into Babylon would end in smoke (Hab 2:13). Only what is built for God will stand (1 Cor 3:11-15).
51:59 Seraiah was an official of the resting place Seraiah, Baruch's brother (32:12), was the officer who arranged where the king's party stopped. Zedekiah's fourth year was about 594 or 593 B.C., seven years before Jerusalem fell. He may have gone to show loyalty to Babylon.
51:60 Jeremiah wrote all the calamity which would come to Babylon in one scroll At the very time Jeremiah told Judah to serve Babylon (chapters 27-28), he wrote down Babylon's doom. Both messages were true: Babylon would rule seventy years and then fall (25:11-12).
51:63 you will tie a stone to it, and you will throw it into the midst of the Euphrates An acted prophecy, like the linen sash and the broken flask (chapters 13, 19). In Revelation a mighty angel throws a great millstone into the sea over the final Babylon (Rev 18:21).
51:64 Thus far are the words of Jeremiah The end of Jeremiah's own words; chapter 52 was added by another hand. He was called over nations and kingdoms to pluck up and pull down (1:10), and his last words are about the fall of the greatest kingdom of his day. The God who tore down would build and plant again.
52:1 Zedekiah was a son of twenty-one years when he became king He reigned from about 597 to 586 B.C. His mother's father was a different Jeremiah, not the prophet. Zedekiah was a son of Josiah and full brother of Jehoahaz (2 Kgs 23:31). This chapter, added by another hand, closely follows 2 Kings 24:18-25:30.
52:2 he did the evil in the eyes of the LORD Zedekiah was weak more than wicked. He asked Jeremiah for God's word and even protected him (37:17-21; 38:14-16), but he feared his officials and never obeyed (38:5, 19). Knowing God's will and not doing it is still sin (Jas 4:17).
52:3 until He had cast them out from His face Behind Babylon's armies stood the LORD. Zedekiah had sworn loyalty to Nebuchadnezzar in God's name and broke that oath, hoping Egypt would help (2 Chr 36:13; Ezek 17:13-19), though God had told him to serve Babylon and live (27:12).
52:4 in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month The winter of 588 B.C. The day was remembered for generations, and after the exile the Jews fasted on it (Zech 8:19). The siege wall sealed the city so no one could get in or out.
52:6 there was no bread for the people of the land After about a year and a half, in the summer of 586 B.C., the famine was severe. Lamentations shows what that hunger was like (Lam 4:4-10).
52:7 by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the garden of the king When the wall was breached, the soldiers fled by night, most likely near the southeast corner of the city, toward the Arabah, the Jordan valley.

The Temple Burned

12 And in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, it was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan (Nevuzaradan) the chief of the bodyguards, who stood before the king of Babylon, came into Jerusalem. 13 And he burned the house of the LORD and the house of the king and all the houses of Jerusalem; and every house of the great one he burned with fire. 14 And all the walls of Jerusalem all around, all the army of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the bodyguards broke down. 15 And some of the poor of the people, and the rest of the people who remained in the city, and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the craftsmen, Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards carried into exile. 16 And some of the poor of the land Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards left as vinedressers and as plowmen. 17 And the pillars of bronze which belonged to the house of the LORD, and the stands, and the sea of bronze which was in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and they carried all their bronze to Babylon. 18 And the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the bowls and the dishes and all the articles of bronze with which they ministered, they took. 19 And the basins and the firepans and the bowls and the pots and the lampstands and the dishes and the cups, what was gold, gold, and what was silver, silver, the chief of the bodyguards took. 20 The two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve bronze bulls which were under the stands, which King Solomon (Shelomo) had made for the house of the LORD: there was no weight for their bronze, all these articles. 21 And the pillars: approximately 27 feet (eighteen cubits) was the height of the one pillar, and a line of approximately 18 feet (twelve cubits) would go around it; and its thickness was approximately 3 inches (four fingers); it was hollow. 22 And a capital on it was bronze; and the height of the one capital was approximately 7.5 feet (five cubits), and a network and pomegranates were on the capital all around, the whole was bronze; and like these belonged to the second pillar, and pomegranates. 23 And the pomegranates were ninety-six toward the side; all the pomegranates were one hundred on the network all around. 24 And the chief of the bodyguards took Seraiah (Seraya) the head priest and Zephaniah (Tsefanya) the second priest and the three keepers of the threshold. 25 And from the city he took one eunuch who was an overseer over the men of war, and seven men of those who saw the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribe of the commander of the army, who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the midst of the city. 26 And Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. 27 And the king of Babylon struck them down and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. And Judah went into exile from its ground.

52:9 he spoke judgments with him At Riblah in Syria, Nebuchadnezzar's headquarters, Zedekiah was put on trial for breaking his oath.
52:10 the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes One of the saddest verses in the Bible. The last thing Zedekiah saw was the death of his sons. I will not add to it. Jeremiah had pleaded that if he surrendered, he and his house would live (38:17).
52:11 he put him in the house of punishments until the day of his death Ezekiel said Zedekiah would be brought to Babylon yet not see it, and he was brought there blind (Ezek 12:13). Jeremiah alone adds that he died a prisoner. God had also said he would die in peace and be mourned (34:4-5); Scripture tells no more of his last years. Hearing God's word is not the same as obeying it (Jas 1:22).
52:12 in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month August 586 B.C., about a month after the wall fell. Kings gives the seventh (2 Kgs 25:8). Nebuzaradan may have arrived on the seventh and set the fire on the tenth, or a number may have changed in copying.
52:13 he burned the house of the LORD Solomon's temple had stood nearly four hundred years, from about 966 to 586 B.C. The people had trusted that the temple could never fall (7:4). It fell, and the Jews still remember the day with a fast.
52:14 all the walls of Jerusalem all around A city without walls had no protection. Nehemiah would rebuild them about 140 years later (Neh 6:15).
52:16 some of the poor of the land The poor, oppressed by the rich for years (5:28; 34:8-11), were left to care for the land. Chapters 39-41 tell what happened to them under Gedaliah.
52:17 the pillars of bronze which belonged to the house of the LORD The temple's glory was broken up and carried away. Jeremiah had told the false prophets these very articles would go to Babylon (27:19-22), and also that God would bring them back (27:22). He did (Ezra 1:7-11).
52:20 there was no weight for their bronze No one even tried to weigh it. The account of Solomon making these is in 1 Kings 7:15-47.
52:21 approximately 27 feet was the height of the one pillar The hollow pillars were about 18 feet around with walls about 3 inches thick, each topped by a bronze capital about 7.5 feet high with network and a hundred pomegranates. The detail shows the glory the people had trusted in.
52:24 Seraiah the head priest and Zephaniah the second priest This Seraiah is not Baruch's brother (51:59). He was the high priest and an ancestor of Ezra the scribe (Ezra 7:1). Zephaniah had carried messages between the king and Jeremiah (21:1; 37:3).
52:27 Judah went into exile from its ground These simple words close the history of the kingdom of Judah. Moses had warned that turning from the LORD would tear Israel from the land (Deut 28:63-64). It came true. The leaders who pushed the rebellion were executed at Riblah.

The Exiles Numbered

28 This is the people whom Nebuchadnezzar carried into exile: in the seventh year, three thousand and twenty-three Jews; 29 in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, from Jerusalem, eight hundred thirty-two souls; 30 in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the chief of the bodyguards carried into exile Jews, seven hundred forty-five souls; all the souls were four thousand and six hundred.

Jehoiachin Released

31 And it was in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin (Yehoyakhin) the king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth of the month, Evil-merodach (Evil-Merodakh) the king of Babylon, in the year of his kingship, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin the king of Judah, and he brought him out from the house of the prison. 32 And he spoke good things with him, and he set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 And he changed the clothes of his prison, and he ate bread before him continually all the days of his life. 34 And his allowance, a continual allowance, was given to him from the king of Babylon, the portion of a day in its day, until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

52:34 2 Sam 9:10; Matt 6:11; Luke 11:3

52:28 in the seventh year, three thousand and twenty-three Jews These verses are not in Kings. The seventh year is 597 B.C., when Jehoiachin was taken. Kings gives 10,000 then (2 Kgs 24:14) and calls it the eighth year (2 Kgs 24:12). Many think this list follows Babylonian year counting and comes from a different record, perhaps counting only adult men, family heads or one group. Scripture does not say which.
52:30 in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar About 582 B.C., perhaps after Gedaliah's murder (chapter 41). The exile came in waves, just as Jeremiah said.
52:31 lifted up the head of Jehoiachin the king of Judah About 560 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar had died, and his son Evil-merodach freed Jehoiachin at the start of his reign. Kings gives the twenty-seventh day (2 Kgs 25:27); the order may have been given one day and carried out another. To lift up the head meant to raise to honor (Gen 40:13).
52:32 he set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon Jehoiachin was taken at eighteen (2 Kgs 24:8) and was now about fifty-five. After all the fire and ashes, the book ends with a son of David alive and honored. David's line had not been wiped out.
52:33 he ate bread before him continually all the days of his life None of Jehoiachin's offspring would sit on David's throne (22:30), yet his grandson Zerubbabel led the exiles home (Ezra 3:2; Matt 1:12). Matthew traces Jesus' legal line through Joseph and Jehoiachin, while many believe Luke traces His physical line through Mary to David's son Nathan (Luke 3:31). Jesus is the rightful heir to David's throne (Luke 1:32; 33:17).
52:34 until the day of his death, all the days of his life The book that tore down ends with a hint of building up. A king of David's line ate at a table in Babylon by another king's kindness. One day the Son of David, the righteous Branch (23:5), will reign, and all who trust Him will be welcomed at His table (Rev 19:9).

LAMENTATIONS

Introduction

Title

The Hebrew title is the book's first word, Ekah, which means "How!" It is a cry of shock and grief. The English name comes from the old Greek and Latin titles, which mean laments or songs of mourning. In our English Bibles Lamentations comes right after Jeremiah. In the Hebrew Bible it is placed among the Writings.

Author and Date

The book does not name its writer. Jewish and Christian tradition have long held that it was Jeremiah, and there are good reasons for that view. Jeremiah saw Jerusalem fall with his own eyes (Jer 39). He was the prophet who wept for his people (Jer 9:1), and he wrote laments before: "Jeremiah lamented over Josiah" (2 Chr 35:25). Lamentations shares many words and pictures with the book of Jeremiah, such as eyes running down with tears and "the daughter of my people" (2:11; Jer 8:21). The old Greek translation begins the book with a line saying that Jeremiah sat weeping and spoke this lament over Jerusalem. Some scholars think the poems came from one or more other writers who lived through the fall, and some date parts of the book later. The book itself does not say, so we cannot be certain. These notes follow the long-held view, and nothing in the book stands against it.

It was written soon after Jerusalem fell in 586 B.C., while the memory was still raw. The poems speak as if the burning of the city were very recent, and they say nothing of the return from exile in 538 B.C. Most conservative scholars date the book between 586 B.C. and about 575 B.C.

Background and Setting

Jeremiah spent forty years warning that Jerusalem would fall. Lamentations is written in the ashes after it did. In 586 B.C. the Babylonians broke through the walls, burned the temple of the LORD, tore down the city and carried its people away. The siege had lasted about a year and a half, and famine had filled the city (2 Kgs 25:3; Jer 52:6). King Zedekiah was blinded and taken to Babylon (Jer 52:8-14). Those left behind were poor, hungry and ruled by foreigners (ch. 5). The book does not tell that story in order, the way Jeremiah 52 and 2 Kings 25 do. It shows what it felt like: the empty streets, the hungry children, the priests and elders dying, the enemy laughing, and the shame of knowing it was all deserved. The poems were written first for the survivors, in the ruined land and in Babylon, to give them words they could pray to God, and for every generation after them who would face loss, judgment, or a season when God seems far away.

The poems are carefully built. Chapters 1, 2 and 4 each have 22 verses, and each verse begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet, which has 22 letters. A poem built that way is called an acrostic. Chapter 3 is a triple acrostic: it has 66 verses, and each group of three verses begins with the same letter. Chapter 5 also has 22 verses, but it is not an acrostic. The form may have helped people learn the poems by heart. It may say the sorrow is poured out completely, from A to Z. And it may hold grief inside a frame, because grief without any shape can swallow a person whole. When the last poem breaks the pattern, it is as if the writer has nothing left but a raw prayer.

The Jews have long read Lamentations aloud on the fast that remembers the burning of the temple, the Ninth of Av, in the summer. Zechariah mentions fasts in the fourth and fifth months kept to mourn the fall of the city (Zech 7:3-5; 8:19).

Themes

Honest grief brought to God. The book never pretends that sin is small or that judgment is easy to bear. It pours out real sorrow, and it does so in prayer. Grief is not unbelief. We can bring our tears, our questions and even our complaints to God.

Judgment for sin, just as God warned. The book says plainly that the LORD did this, and that He was right to do it: "Righteous is He, the LORD, for I have rebelled against His mouth" (1:18). "The LORD has done what He purposed; He has fulfilled His word" (2:17), the warnings given through Moses and the prophets (Deut 28; Jer 7).

No comforter. Five times the first poem says Jerusalem had no comforter (1:2, 9, 16, 17, 21). The lovers she trusted, the nations and false gods, left her, and the false prophets never uncovered her sin (2:14).

Hope in the middle of suffering. At the very center of the book, in the middle of its darkest poem, the writer chooses to remember who God is: "The steadfast loves of the LORD, for we are not finished, for His compassions do not come to an end. They are new in the mornings; great is Your faithfulness" (3:22-23). God "has not afflicted from His heart" (3:33).

God's throne and the prayer for return. Everything on earth had fallen, but "You, O LORD, will sit forever" (5:19). The book does not end with everything fixed. It ends with a prayer: "Cause us to return, O LORD, to Yourself, and let us return" (5:21). That is where hope begins.

Christ in Lamentations

The New Testament does not quote Lamentations directly, so we should be careful. But the book helps us understand Jesus in several ways. Jesus wept over the same city as He came near it (Luke 19:41), and He warned that it would be destroyed again, as it was in A.D. 70. The man of chapter 3, who suffers under the rod of God's fury and gives his cheek to the one who strikes him (3:1, 30), is a picture of the Suffering Servant, "despised and rejected by men, a man of pains" (Isa 53:3), whose face was struck (Matt 26:67).

Many believers have also heard in Jerusalem's cry, "Look and see if there is pain like my pain" (1:12), a picture of Christ on the cross. The difference is important. Jerusalem suffered for her own sins. Jesus suffered for ours. King Zedekiah, "the anointed of the LORD," was captured and failed (4:20), but God promised a righteous Branch of David who will reign as King (Jer 23:5). Because Jesus bore God's anger for us, the hope of 3:22-23 is ours: the LORD's compassions never end. And the fear of 5:22, that God has utterly rejected His people, is answered in Christ, who cried out as one forsaken (Matt 27:46) so that all who trust in Him could be received.

Hard Passages

The suffering of children (2:11-12, 20; 4:4, 10). The poems tell of children fainting from hunger and of mothers driven by famine to things too awful to name, the very curse Moses warned of in a siege (Deut 28:53-57). The notes keep to the words of the text and add nothing. These verses are not given to shock us. They show how complete the ruin was and that God's warnings are not empty. The poet's response is grief, not a quick answer. God is not cold toward children (Mark 10:14), and I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).

The Lord like an enemy (2:4-5; 3:1-18). God was still their God, but in judgment He acted against them as an enemy would, as He had warned (Lev 26:23-24). The man of chapter 3 even says God has shut out his prayer (3:8). God kept these honest words in Scripture. Feeling forsaken is not the same as being forsaken, and the man in the pit goes on to say, "great is Your faithfulness" (3:23).

Evils from the mouth of the Most High (3:38). Nothing happens outside God's rule, but this does not mean God makes people sin, for He tempts no one (Jas 1:13). The word means calamities (Isa 45:7). And God "has not afflicted from His heart" (3:33).

Prayers against enemies (1:21-22; 3:64-66). These are not revenge. They hand evildoers over to God, the righteous Judge, who had promised to deal with Babylon and Edom (Jer 50:15, 29; 49:12). Jesus taught us to pray for our enemies (Matt 5:44), and vengeance belongs to God (Rom 12:19).

The abuse of women (5:11). The poem names it in a few words as a terrible evil that God saw. The women were not to blame, and the shame belongs to the one who did it.

The fathers' sins (5:7). The people say they bore their fathers' iniquities, but they also confess, "we have sinned!" (5:16). Sin's results pass down, but each person is responsible for his own sin (Ezek 18:20).

No more exile (4:22). The Babylonian exile ended in 538 B.C., yet Jerusalem fell again in A.D. 70. I believe the fullest meaning waits for the day God plants Israel in their land, never to be uprooted again (Amos 9:15), when they turn to the Messiah and He reigns in Zion.

LAMENTATIONS 1

The Lonely City

1 How she sits alone, the city great with people! She has become like a widow, great among the nations; a princess among the provinces, she has become forced labor!
2 Weeping, she weeps in the night, and her tears are on her cheek; there is no comforter for her from all her lovers; all her friends have dealt treacherously with her; they have become her enemies. 3 Judah (Yehuda) has gone into exile from affliction and from abundance of servitude; she dwells among the nations; she has not found a resting place; all her pursuers have overtaken her between the narrow places. 4 The roads of Zion (Tsiyon) are mourning, without those who come to the appointed feast; all her gates are desolate; her priests are groaning; her virgins are grieved; and she, it is bitter to her. 5 Her adversaries have become the head; her enemies are at ease; for the LORD has caused her grief because of the multitude of her transgressions; her little ones have gone into captivity before the adversary. 6 And all her splendor has gone out from the daughter of Zion; her officials have become like deer that have not found pasture, and they have gone without strength before a pursuer. 7 Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) has remembered, in the days of her affliction and her wanderings, all her precious things which were from days of antiquity, when her people fell into the hand of an adversary, and there was no helper for her; adversaries saw her; they laughed at her downfall.
8 Jerusalem has sinned a sin; therefore she has become a filthy thing; all who honored her despise her, for they have seen her nakedness; she herself also groans, and she has turned backward. 9 Her uncleanness was on her skirts; she did not remember her end; and she has come down astonishingly; there is no comforter for her. "See, O LORD, my affliction, for the enemy has magnified himself!" 10 The adversary has spread out his hand over all her precious things; for she has seen nations enter her sanctuary, those whom You commanded that they will not come into the assembly of Yours. 11 All her people are groaning, seeking bread; they have given their precious things for food to restore the soul. "See, O LORD, and look, for I have become despised."

Look and See My Pain

12 "Not to you, all who pass by on the road? Look and see if there is pain like my pain, which has been dealt to me, with which the LORD has caused grief in the day of the burning of His anger. 13 From on high He has sent fire into my bones, and He has mastered it; He has spread out a net for my feet; He has turned me backward; He has made me desolate, faint all the day. 14 The yoke of my transgressions has been bound on by His hand; they are woven together; they have come up

1:1 How she sits alone, the city great with people The word "how" is the Hebrew title of the book, Ekah, the cry of someone who cannot believe what he sees. Jerusalem had been full of people at the feasts. Now it was nearly empty, and the city that once ruled others now served.
1:1 She has become like a widow A widow in that world was one of the most helpless people, without husband, protector or income. Jerusalem was not truly a widow, because the LORD, her Husband, was still alive (Isa 54:5). But God had stepped back, and she felt alone.
1:2 there is no comforter for her from all her lovers Nights are often hardest for the grieving, and no one wipes her tears. Her lovers were the nations and false gods she trusted instead of the LORD, such as Egypt (Jer 2:36-37). They left her. The LORD is the only one who never deals treacherously with His people.
1:3 she has not found a resting place Moses had warned that among the nations they would find no rest (Deut 28:65). The people were taken away after long suffering.
1:4 The roads of Zion are mourning, without those who come to the appointed feast Three times a year the roads had been crowded with families going up to worship (Deut 16:16). Now even the roads are pictured as mourners. The priests had no temple to serve in, and the young women no weddings to look forward to (Jer 7:34).
1:5 for the LORD has caused her grief because of the multitude of her transgressions Moses had said the obedient would be the head and the disobedient the tail (Deut 28:13, 44), and it happened. This is the first time the poem names the cause. It was not bad luck or bad politics. It was sin, and the LORD brought the grief.
1:6 all her splendor has gone out from the daughter of Zion Daughter of Zion is a tender name for Jerusalem and its people. Her leaders were like starving deer, too weak to run from the hunter.
1:7 they laughed at her downfall In misery she remembers how good things used to be, and memory makes the loss feel deeper. Enemies like Edom watched and laughed (Ps 137:7). Being mocked while you suffer adds shame to pain.
1:8 Jerusalem has sinned a sin The Hebrew repeats the word for emphasis: she sinned greatly. The picture of nakedness means her sin and disgrace were laid open for all the nations to see, a picture the prophets used for Judah's unfaithfulness (Jer 13:22-26).
1:9 she did not remember her end She never stopped to think where her sin would lead. Sin does not let us think about the end (Deut 32:29). Then for the first time she cries out, "See, O LORD, my affliction." When we are in trouble because of our own sin, the place to turn is still to God.
1:10 she has seen nations enter her sanctuary The Babylonians took the temple treasures (Jer 52:17-23), and pagan soldiers walked into the holy place, where only priests could go. Moses had said Ammonites and Moabites could not even enter the assembly of the LORD (Deut 23:3).
1:11 they have given their precious things for food to restore the soul During the siege people traded jewelry and treasures for a little food just to stay alive. Again she turns to God.
1:12 Look and see if there is pain like my pain Jerusalem speaks to those walking past: does this mean nothing to you? Many believers have heard here a picture of Jesus on the cross, as people passed by and mocked Him (Matt 27:39). The first meaning is Jerusalem's own pain, but the picture fits. Jesus suffered not for His own sin but for ours.
1:14 The yoke of my transgressions has been bound on by His hand Her own sins were tied together like the straps of a yoke and laid on her neck. Sin is never as free as it looks. It ends as a heavy yoke. Jesus offers a yoke that is easy and light (Matt 11:29-30).

on my neck; He has made my strength stumble; the Lord has given me into the hands of those whom I am not able to rise against. 15 The Lord has rejected all my mighty ones in my midst; He has proclaimed an appointed time against me to break my young men; the Lord has trodden a winepress for the virgin daughter of Judah. 16 Over these things I am weeping; my eye, my eye is running down with water; for a comforter is far from me, one who restores my soul; my sons are desolate, for the enemy has prevailed." 17 Zion has spread out her hands; there is no comforter for her; the LORD has commanded concerning Jacob (Ya'aqov) that those around him be his adversaries; Jerusalem has become an impure thing among them. 18 "Righteous is He, the LORD, for I have rebelled against His mouth. Hear, please, all the peoples, and see my pain; my virgins and my young men have gone into captivity. 19 I called to my lovers; they themselves deceived me; my priests and my elders perished in the city, for they sought food for themselves, that they might restore their soul. 20 See, O LORD, for distress is mine; my inward parts are in turmoil; my heart is overturned within me, for I have surely rebelled; from outside the sword has bereaved; in the house it is like death. 21 They have heard that I am groaning; there is no comforter for me; all my enemies have heard of my calamity; they rejoice that You Yourself have done it; You have brought the day which You proclaimed, and let them be like me. 22 Let all their evil come before You, and deal with them just as You have dealt with me because of all my transgressions; for my groanings are many, and my heart is faint."

The Lord Has Become Like an Enemy

1 How the Lord covers the daughter of Zion (Tsiyon) with a cloud in His anger! He has thrown from heaven to earth the splendor of Israel (Yisra'el), and He has not remembered the footstool of His feet in the day of His anger. 2 The Lord has swallowed up, and He has not spared, all the settlements of Jacob (Ya'aqov); He has torn down in His wrath the fortifications of the daughter of Judah (Yehuda); He has made them touch the ground; He has profaned the kingdom and its princes. 3 He has cut off in the heat of anger every horn of Israel; He has turned His right hand backward from before the enemy; and He has burned in Jacob like a fire of flame that has consumed all around. 4 He has bent His bow like an enemy; His right hand has taken a stand like an opponent; and He has killed all the delights of the eye in the tent of the daughter of Zion; He has poured out His rage like fire. 5 The Lord has become like an enemy; He has swallowed up Israel; He has swallowed up all her palaces; He has ruined its fortifications; and He has multiplied in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation. 6 And He has treated His booth violently like a garden; He has ruined His appointed place; the LORD has caused appointed feast and Sabbath to be forgotten in Zion; and He has spurned in the indignation of His anger king and priest. 7 The Lord has rejected His altar; He has repudiated His sanctuary; He has delivered up into the hand of an enemy the walls of her palaces; they have given forth a voice in the house of the LORD as in the day of an appointed feast. 8 The LORD has planned to destroy the wall

2:8 2 Kgs 21:13; Isa 34:11; Isa 3:26

1:15 the Lord has trodden a winepress for the virgin daughter of Judah Grapes were trodden until the juice ran out, a picture of judgment (Isa 63:3; Rev 14:19-20).
1:16 my eye, my eye is running down with water The repeated words show how deep the grief was. A comforter is one who stays beside you in sorrow and helps your soul recover, and hers is far away.
1:17 Zion has spread out her hands; there is no comforter for her Spread hands are the gesture of one begging for help, and no one came. Five times this chapter says she had no comforter (1:2, 9, 16, 17, 21). God's answer comes later: "Comfort, comfort My people" (Isa 40:1; John 14:16; 2 Cor 1:3). If it feels as if no one comforts you, Jerusalem's cry is in the Bible for you, and so is God's answer (Ps 34:18).
1:18 Righteous is He, the LORD, for I have rebelled against His mouth Perhaps the most important verse in the chapter. Jerusalem does not accuse God. She says He was right. This is true confession, like David's (Ps 51:4). Real repentance does not make excuses. It agrees with God about our sin.
1:19 I called to my lovers; they themselves deceived me The allies she trusted did nothing, and even the priests and elders died of hunger.
1:20 from outside the sword has bereaved; in the house it is like death Outside the walls, the sword. Inside the houses, famine and disease. Nowhere was safe. Again she confesses that she rebelled.
1:22 deal with them just as You have dealt with me She is not taking revenge. She asks God, the righteous Judge, to deal with evildoers as He dealt with her, and He had promised to do so (Jer 50:15, 29). It is right to leave justice in God's hands (Rom 12:19). There is no tidy ending. But it is grief spoken to God, and that is the beginning of hope.
2:1 How the Lord covers the daughter of Zion with a cloud in His anger The same cry as chapter 1. A cloud had once been the sign of God's presence and glory (Exod 40:34). Now a cloud of anger covers the city. "The footstool of His feet" is the ark and the temple where it stood (1 Chr 28:2; Ps 132:7). Even His own footstool was not spared.
2:2 He has profaned the kingdom and its princes Every village in the land was destroyed. To profane is to treat something holy as common. David's kingdom, chosen by God, was brought low.
2:3 He has turned His right hand backward from before the enemy The horn was a picture of strength. God's right hand had fought for Israel in the past (Exod 15:6). Now He drew it back.
2:5 The Lord has become like an enemy The startling truth of this poem. Not their enemy in every way, but "like an enemy." He was still their God, but in judgment He acted against them as an enemy would. He had warned that if they rejected Him He would walk against them (Lev 26:23-24). Love that never disciplines is not love (Heb 12:6-8).
2:6 He has treated His booth violently like a garden The temple was torn down as easily as a farmer tears down a garden shed after harvest. The feasts and the Sabbath, God's gifts to His people, were no longer kept, and both king and priest were rejected.
2:7 The Lord has rejected His altar; He has repudiated His sanctuary The people believed the temple could never fall (Jer 7:4). Once it rang with songs at the feasts. Now it rang with the shouts of Babylonian soldiers. A building is not holy in itself. When His people made His house a den of robbers, He let it be torn down (Jer 7:11-14).
2:8 He has stretched out a measuring line A builder uses a measuring line to build. God uses it here to tear down, carefully and thoroughly. It was not an accident. It was planned.

of the daughter of Zion; He has stretched out a measuring line; He has not turned back His hand from swallowing up; and He has caused rampart and wall to mourn; together they have languished. 9 Her gates have sunk into the ground; He has destroyed and He has broken her bars; her king and her princes are among the nations; there is no law; also her prophets have not found a vision from the LORD. 10 The elders of the daughter of Zion sit on the ground; they are silent; they have made dust go up on their head; they have girded on sackcloth; the virgins of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) have brought down their head to the ground.

The Children Faint in the Streets

11 My eyes have failed with tears; my inward parts are in turmoil; my liver has been poured out to the ground over the brokenness of the daughter of my people, because child and nursing infant faint in the open places of a town. 12 To their mothers they say, "Where are grain and wine?" as they faint like the fatally wounded in the open places of a city, as their soul pours itself out into the bosom of their mothers. 13 What shall I testify for you? What shall I liken to you, O daughter of Jerusalem? What shall I make equal to you, that I may comfort you, O virgin daughter of Zion? For your brokenness is great like the sea; who will heal you? 14 Your prophets have seen for you worthlessness and insipid things; and they have not uncovered your iniquity to turn back your captivity; and they have seen for you oracles of worthlessness and enticements. 15 All who pass by the road have clapped their hands at you; they have hissed, and they have shaken their head at the daughter of Jerusalem: "Is this the city of which they said, 'The perfection of beauty, a joy to all the earth'?" 16 All your enemies have opened their mouth against you; they have hissed, and they have gnashed their teeth; they have said, "We have swallowed her up! Surely this is the day that we have waited for; we have found it; we have seen it!" 17 The LORD has done what He purposed; He has fulfilled His word which He commanded from days of old; He has torn down, and He has not spared; and He has caused an enemy to rejoice over you; He has lifted up the horn of your opponents.

Pour Out Your Heart Before the Lord

18 Their heart has cried out to the Lord. O wall of the daughter of Zion, send down tears like a torrent by day and night; do not give yourself rest; do not let the pupil of your eye be still. 19 Arise, cry out in the night, at the beginning of the night watches; pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord; lift up your hands to Him for the life of your children, who are faint from hunger at the head of all the streets. 20 See, O LORD, and look! To whom have You dealt severely like this? Shall women eat their fruit, the children of their tender care? Shall priest and prophet be killed in the sanctuary of the Lord? 21 Youth and old man have lain down on the ground in the streets; my virgins and my young men have fallen by the sword; You have killed them in the day of Your anger; You have slaughtered; You have not spared. 22 You have summoned, as in the day of an appointed feast, my terrors from all around; and there was not in the day of the anger of the LORD an escapee and a survivor; those whom I tended and I reared, my enemy has made an end of them.

2:9 also her prophets have not found a vision from the LORD Zedekiah was blind in Babylon, and there were no priests to teach God's law. Heaven seemed silent. That may be the hardest thing of all, when God seems to say nothing.
2:10 The elders of the daughter of Zion sit on the ground; they are silent Dust and sackcloth were signs of deep mourning (Job 2:12). Sometimes there are no words. Job's friends did best when they sat with him seven days and said nothing (Job 2:13). When someone is crushed by grief, sometimes we just need to sit with them.
2:11 because child and nursing infant faint in the open places of a town In Hebrew the inner organs stood for the deepest feelings, and the poet is undone. The children were starving. They had not chosen the sins of their parents and leaders, but they paid for them. He does not explain it away. He weeps. When children suffer, the right response is grief, not a quick answer.
2:12 To their mothers they say, "Where are grain and wine?" They asked for food and there was none. God is not cold toward children (Mark 10:14). I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23). If you have lost a child, these verses may be very hard to read. God sees such tears, and He will wipe away every tear (Rev 21:4).
2:13 For your brokenness is great like the sea; who will heal you The poet wants to comfort Zion but can find nothing to compare to her pain. The question hangs in the air. Only the LORD can heal what He has broken (Hos 6:1).
2:14 they have not uncovered your iniquity to turn back your captivity Insipid means tasteless, like whitewash. The false prophets said peace when there was no peace (Jer 6:14; 14:13). A true prophet and every faithful preacher uncovers sin so people can repent and be restored. Teaching that never names sin is not kindness. It is cruelty dressed up as comfort (2 Tim 4:3-4).
2:15 The perfection of beauty, a joy to all the earth Clapping, hissing and shaking the head were gestures of scorn. Those words come from the psalms about Zion (Ps 48:2; 50:2). The world mocked Jerusalem with her own praises.
2:16 Surely this is the day that we have waited for Edom and others had waited for this day, and they gloated over it.
2:17 The LORD has done what He purposed; He has fulfilled His word The key to the chapter. God had warned through Moses centuries earlier (Lev 26; Deut 28) and through prophet after prophet. This cuts both ways. God's warnings are real. But if He kept His word about judgment, He will keep His word about mercy, for He also said He would never reject His people completely (Lev 26:44).
2:19 pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord The turning point of the chapter. The poet does not tell Zion to stop crying or hold it together. He tells her to take her tears to God (Ps 62:8). Lift up your hands for the children. Parents and grandparents, keep praying for your children.
2:20 See, O LORD, and look! To whom have You dealt severely like this Hunger had driven mothers to things too awful to name, the very thing Moses warned of in a siege (Deut 28:53), and priests and prophets were killed in the sanctuary. These words are not given to shock us but to show how complete the ruin was, and how desperately Zion needed God to look.
2:22 those whom I tended and I reared, my enemy has made an end of them The poem ends with a mother's grief and no answer yet. Sometimes our prayers are raw and unfinished. But it is a prayer. Zion did not stop talking to God, and in the next chapter, out of the deepest darkness, hope will come.

LAMENTATIONS 3

The Man Who Has Seen Affliction

1 I am the man who has seen affliction by the rod of His fury.
2 He has driven me, and He has made me walk in darkness and not in light. 3 Surely against me He turns back; He turns His hand all the day. 4 He has made my flesh and my skin waste away; He has broken my bones. 5 He has built against me, and He has surrounded me with poison and hardship.
6 In dark places He has made me dwell, like the dead of antiquity. 7 He has walled up behind me, and I will not go out; He has made my bronze fetter heavy. 8 Also when I cry out and I cry for help, He has shut out my prayer. 9 He has walled up my ways with hewn stone; He has made my paths crooked. 10 He is to me a bear lying in wait, a lion in hiding places. 11 He has turned aside my ways, and He has torn me in pieces; He has made me desolate. 12 He has bent His bow, and He has set me up like the target for the arrow. 13 He has brought into my kidneys the sons of His quiver. 14 I have become a laughingstock to all my people, their taunt song all the day. 15 He has sated me with bitter things; He has made me drink wormwood. 16 And He has broken my teeth with gravel; He has made me cower in ashes. 17 And You have cast off my soul from peace; I have forgotten good. 18 And I said,
"My endurance has perished, and my hope from the LORD."

His Compassions Do Not Come to an End

19 Remember my affliction and my homelessness, the wormwood and the poison. 20 My soul surely remembers, and it bows down within me. 21 This I bring back to my heart; therefore I will wait. 22 The steadfast loves of the LORD, for we are not finished, for His compassions do not come to an end. 23 They are new in the mornings; great is Your faithfulness. 24 "The LORD is my portion," says my soul; "therefore I will wait for Him." 25 Good is the LORD to those who wait for Him, to the soul that seeks Him. 26 Good it is that one should wait, and silently, for the salvation of the LORD. 27 Good it is

3:27 Eccl 12:1; Ps 90:12; Ps 94:12

3:1 I am the man who has seen affliction by the rod of His fury Many think this is Jeremiah himself. Others think he speaks for the whole nation. Both may be true. In these first verses he does not name God. He only says He and His.
3:2 He has made me walk in darkness and not in light This is how deep grief and depression often feel. Not only do bad things happen. It feels as if God Himself is against you, and it goes on "all the day" (v. 3).
3:4 He has made my flesh and my skin waste away Grief takes a toll on the body. "He has built against me" is the language of siege walls.
3:6 like the dead of antiquity He feels as good as buried and forgotten.
3:7 He has walled up behind me, and I will not go out He feels trapped and chained.
3:8 He has shut out my prayer The hardest line. Have you ever felt your prayers hit the ceiling? This man felt it too, and his words are in the Bible. God did not edit them out.
3:10 He is to me a bear lying in wait, a lion in hiding places The God who had been his Shepherd now feels like a wild animal.
3:13 He has brought into my kidneys the sons of His quiver The arrows are "the sons of His quiver." In Hebrew thinking the kidneys stood for the deepest feelings.
3:14 I have become a laughingstock to all my people As Jeremiah was (Jer 20:7).
3:15 He has made me drink wormwood Wormwood is a very bitter plant.
3:17 And You have cast off my soul from peace; I have forgotten good For the first time he speaks to God as You. He cannot remember what good felt like.
3:18 My endurance has perished, and my hope from the LORD The bottom. These verses are in the Bible because God knew His people would go through times like this (Ps 13:1). Jesus cried on the cross, "My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?" (Matt 27:46). Feeling forsaken is not the same as being forsaken. Tell God exactly how you feel, and do not stop at verse 18. Do not carry it alone. If you are thinking about ending your life, reach out for help today, to someone near you or a crisis line. Your life matters to God.
3:20 My soul surely remembers, and it bows down within me He cannot stop going over his pain, and it crushes him. That is where most of us live when we suffer.
3:21 This I bring back to my heart; therefore I will wait The turning point of the whole book. Nothing outside has changed. Jerusalem is still in ruins and the man is still in pain. But now he chooses to remember something else. We cannot always choose our feelings, but we can choose what we bring back to our hearts.
3:22 The steadfast loves of the LORD The Hebrew is hesed, God's covenant love that keeps its promises and will not let go, the word God used of Himself to Moses (Exod 34:6). Here it is plural, "loves." His steadfast love comes again and again, in act after act.
3:22 for we are not finished Some translations read, we are not consumed. Jerusalem was burned, but a remnant still lived, not because they deserved it but because of His steadfast love. If God had given only what they deserved, no one would be left to write this poem.
3:22 for His compassions do not come to an end The word for compassions, rachamim, comes from the Hebrew word for a mother's womb, the tender love a mother has for the child she carried. We run out of patience. God does not run out of compassion.
3:23 They are new in the mornings; great is Your faithfulness Like manna, given new every morning (Exod 16:21), His compassion does not need to be stored up for tomorrow. Now he speaks to God directly. The same man who said "You have cast off my soul from peace" (3:17) now says "great is Your faithfulness." What changed was what he remembered. For those in Christ, every one of these mercies comes through the cross.
3:24 The LORD is my portion A portion was a share of the inheritance. The priests received no land, because the LORD was their portion (Num 18:20). He has lost home, city and peace, but if you still have God, you still have everything that matters (Ps 73:26). Hope in Scripture is not wishful thinking. It is waiting with confidence for God to keep His word.
3:26 Good it is that one should wait, and silently, for the salvation of the LORD Three verses in a row begin with the word good (3:25-27). Waiting silently does not mean never crying out, for this whole book cries out. It means we stop fighting God and trust Him to act in His time (Isa 40:31). Some of God's best work in us happens in the waiting.
3:27 Good it is for the man that he should bear a yoke in his youth A yoke was the wooden frame placed on an ox for work. Hardship learned young can shape a person for good.

for the man that he should bear a yoke in his youth. 28 Let him sit alone, and let him be silent, for He has laid it on him. 29 Let him put his mouth in the dust; perhaps there is hope. 30 Let him give his cheek to the one who strikes him; let him be sated with reproach. 31 For the Lord will not reject forever. 32 For though He has caused grief, then He will have compassion according to the greatness of His steadfast loves. 33 For He has not afflicted from His heart, and has not grieved the sons of man. 34 To crush under his feet all the prisoners of the earth, 35 to turn aside the justice of a man before the face of the Most High, 36 to subvert a man in his case at law, the Lord has not seen it. 37 Who is this who has said something, and it has come to be, when the Lord has not commanded it? 38 From the mouth of the Most High do not the evils and the good go forth? 39 Why should a living man complain, a man over his sins?

Let Us Return to the LORD

40 Let us search our ways, and let us examine them, and let us return to the LORD. 41 Let us lift up our heart with our palms to God in the heavens. 42 We have transgressed, and we have rebelled; You have not forgiven. 43 You have covered Yourself with anger, and You have pursued us; You have killed; You have not spared. 44 You have covered Yourself with a cloud, from prayer passing through. 45 Scouring and refuse You have made us in the midst of the peoples. 46 All our enemies have opened their mouth against us. 47 Terror and a pit have come to us, devastation and brokenness. 48 My eye runs down with streams of water over the brokenness of the daughter of my people. 49 My eye has poured out, and it will not cease, without stopping, 50 until the LORD looks down and sees from heaven. 51 My eye deals severely with my soul because of all the daughters of my city. 52 My enemies have surely hunted me like the bird, without cause. 53 They have silenced my life in the pit, and they have thrown a stone on me. 54 Waters have overflowed over my head; I said, "I have been cut off."

You Drew Near When I Called

55 I called on Your name, O LORD, from a pit of lowest parts. 56 You heard my voice; do not hide Your ear to my relief, to my cry for help. 57 You drew near on the day when I called on You; You said, "Do not fear." 58 You have conducted, O Lord, the cases of my soul; You have redeemed my life. 59 You have seen, O LORD, my oppression; judge my judgment. 60 You have seen all their vengeance, all their plans against me. 61 You have heard their reproach, O LORD, all their plans against me, 62 the lips of those who rise against me and their muttering against me all the day. 63 Their sit-

3:29 Let him put his mouth in the dust; perhaps there is hope To put the mouth in the dust was to bow all the way down. Notice the honest "perhaps." He does not pretend to know the outcome, but he humbles himself and hopes.
3:30 Let him give his cheek to the one who strikes him Jesus taught His followers to turn the other cheek (Matt 5:39), and He lived this verse when He was struck and did not strike back (1 Pet 2:23).
3:31 For the Lord will not reject forever The first of three reasons for hope, each beginning with "For." The rejection was real but not final. God's discipline has an end (Ps 30:5).
3:32 according to the greatness of His steadfast loves He does not deny that God caused the grief. But compassion comes after, and its measure is not the size of our sin or our pain. It is the greatness of His love.
3:33 For He has not afflicted from His heart One of the most comforting verses in the Old Testament. God does not bring suffering because He enjoys it (Ezek 33:11). Even when He sends hard things, His heart is not in the hurting but in the healing. He disciplines as a loving father, for our good (Heb 12:10-11; Ps 103:13). The cross shows His heart most clearly (Rom 8:32).
3:36 the Lord has not seen it This can be read as a question, does the Lord not see it, or as saying He does not approve of it. Either way, God sees every injustice.
3:38 From the mouth of the Most High do not the evils and the good go forth Nothing happens outside God's rule. "Evils" does not mean God makes people sin, for He tempts no one (Jas 1:13). It means calamities (Isa 45:7).
3:39 Why should a living man complain, a man over his sins If we are alive, we have received more mercy than we deserve. This is not a rule against honest lament. It warns against bitterness that blames God for what our sin has brought.
3:40 Let us search our ways, and let us examine them, and let us return to the LORD Now the poet speaks for all of them. Look at our lives honestly and turn back to God, lifting the heart with the hands (v. 41).
3:42 We have transgressed, and we have rebelled; You have not forgiven They confess, yet the ruin is still around them. Sometimes the results of sin go on after we repent. That does not mean God has not heard.
3:44 You have covered Yourself with a cloud, from prayer passing through Their prayers feel blocked again, and the nations treat them as refuse. Even after verses 22 to 33, grief returns. Hope does not erase grief in a moment. It holds us while the grief comes in waves.
3:48 My eye runs down with streams of water Words that sound just like Jeremiah (Jer 9:1). He will weep until the LORD looks down from heaven (v. 50). The tears themselves are a prayer aimed at heaven.
3:53 They have silenced my life in the pit This sounds very much like Jeremiah's own story, when his enemies threw him into a muddy cistern (Jer 38:6). He thought it was the end.
3:57 You drew near on the day when I called on You; You said, "Do not fear." God came near and told him not to fear. That memory gives him confidence now. Remembering what God has done before keeps hope alive (Jonah 2:2).
3:59 judge my judgment He asks God to take up his case, for God has heard all their plans and mocking.

ting and their rising, look! I am their mocking song. 64 You will repay to them recompense, O LORD, according to the work of their hands. 65 You will give to them a covering of heart; Your curse be on them. 66 You will pursue them in anger, and You will destroy them from under the heavens of the LORD.

LAMENTATIONS 4

The Gold Grown Dim

1 How the gold is dimmed, the fine gold is changed! The stones of holiness lie scattered at the head of all the streets. 2 The precious sons of Zion (Tsiyon), who were weighed with pure gold, how they are considered as jars of earthenware, the work of the hands of a potter! 3 Even jackals draw out a breast; they nurse their young; the daughter of my people has become cruel, like the ostriches in the wilderness. 4 The tongue of a nursing infant has cleaved to its palate in thirst; children have asked for bread; there is no one breaking it for them. 5 Those who ate delicacies are desolate in the streets; those brought up on crimson have embraced ash heaps. 6 And the iniquity of the daughter of my people has become greater than the sin of Sodom (Sedom), which was overthrown as in a moment, and hands did not twist on it. 7 Her nobles were brighter than snow; they were more dazzling than milk; they were redder in bone than corals; their polishing was sapphire. 8 Their appearance is darker than soot; they are not recognized in the streets; their skin has shriveled on their bone; it has become dry like wood. 9 Better were the slain of a sword than the slain of hunger, who flow away, pierced through, from lack of the produce of the field. 10 The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children; they have become food for them in the brokenness of the daughter of my people. 11 The LORD has completed His rage; He has poured out the burning of His anger; and He has kindled a fire in Zion, and it has consumed her foundations.

Failed Leaders and a Failed Hope

12 The kings of the earth did not believe, all the inhabitants of the world, that opponent and enemy would come into the gates of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 13 Because of the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests, who shed in her midst the blood of righteous ones, 14 they wandered as blind men in the streets; they were defiled with the blood, without anyone being able to touch their garments.
15 "Depart! Unclean!" they called out to them. "Depart! Depart! Do not touch!" For they fled; also they wandered; they said among the nations, "They will not again sojourn."
16 The face of the LORD has scattered them; He will not again regard them; they did not lift up the face of priests, and

3:64 You will repay to them recompense, O LORD Like many psalms, a prayer for God's justice. He does not take revenge. He hands his enemies to God. Jesus taught us to pray for our enemies (Matt 5:44), and we pray for their salvation first. But it is not wrong to ask God to deal with unrepented evil, for vengeance belongs to Him (Rom 12:19).
3:66 You will pursue them in anger The poem that began in affliction ends with confidence that God sees, hears and will judge rightly. The darkness is still there, but the man is no longer alone in it.
4:1 How the gold is dimmed, the fine gold is changed Gold does not easily rust or tarnish, so dimmed gold is a picture of something that should never happen. "The stones of holiness" may be the temple stones thrown into the streets, or the people themselves, as the next verse says.
4:2 how they are considered as jars of earthenware God's people were worth their weight in gold to Him. Now the nations treated them like cheap clay pots to be smashed and thrown away (Jer 19:10-11). Sin takes what God made precious and makes it look worthless. But even here God calls them "precious."
4:3 the daughter of my people has become cruel, like the ostriches in the wilderness Even jackals nurse their young. The ostrich was known for leaving its eggs in the sand (Job 39:13-16).
4:4 children have asked for bread; there is no one breaking it for them The point is not that every mother stopped loving her child. The famine was so terrible that even what is most natural became impossible, and the children suffered for the sins of the adults. God's heart is the opposite of this: "I, I will not forget you" (Isa 49:15). I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
4:5 those brought up on crimson have embraced ash heaps Crimson cloth was the clothing of the wealthy. The rich were now digging through garbage.
4:6 greater than the sin of Sodom Jerusalem had the law, the temple, the covenant and the prophets, and Sodom had none of that. Jesus said it would be more tolerable for Sodom than for towns that saw His miracles and did not repent (Matt 11:24; Luke 12:48). Sodom's end came "as in a moment," but Jerusalem's suffering dragged on through a year and a half of siege.
4:8 they are not recognized in the streets Her nobles had been healthy and handsome, their faces glowing. Hunger changed them so much that their own neighbors did not know them.
4:9 Better were the slain of a sword than the slain of hunger Those who died quickly by the sword were better off than those who wasted away slowly.
4:10 The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children The worst thing the book records, and I will not add to it. It is the curse Moses warned of in a siege (Deut 28:56-57; Jer 19:9). These were not monsters but loving mothers driven past all limits by starvation. The verse does not approve what it reports. It shows that God's warnings are not empty. If you carry guilt from something dark in your past, the blood of Jesus can wash it away (1 John 1:7).
4:11 The LORD has completed His rage The judgment was complete. The fire consumed the city down to her foundations.
4:12 The kings of the earth did not believe Jerusalem had stood for centuries, and God had saved it from Assyria in a single night (2 Kgs 19:35). No one thought it could fall.
4:13 Because of the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests The very men who should have led the people to God killed the righteous. They tried to kill Jeremiah (Jer 26:8), and a king killed the prophet Uriah (Jer 26:23). Jesus wept over the same city that killed the prophets (Matt 23:37). Those who claim to speak for God carry a heavier responsibility (Jas 3:1).
4:15 "Depart! Unclean!" they called out to them That was the cry the Law gave a leper, who had to warn others away (Lev 13:45). The holy men had become like lepers, and even the nations would not let them stay. They had not honored God, and now no one honored them.

elders they did not favor. 17 Still our eyes fail for our help, in futility; in our watchtower we have watched for a nation that will not save. 18 They hunted our steps from walking in our open places; our end drew near; our days were completed; for our end had come. 19 Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles of heaven; on the mountains they hotly pursued us; in the wilderness they lay in wait for us. 20 The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD, was captured in their pits, of whom we had said, "In his shadow we will live among the nations." 21 Exult and rejoice, O daughter of Edom, who dwells in the land of Uz (Uts); also to you the cup will pass; you will become drunk, and you will strip yourself naked. 22 Your iniquity is finished, O daughter of Zion; He will not again take you into exile; He will punish your iniquity, O daughter of Edom; He will uncover your sins.

Remember, O LORD

1 Remember, O LORD, what has happened to us; look, and see our reproach. 2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers, our houses to foreigners. 3 We have become fatherless ones, and there is no father; our mothers are like widows. 4 Our water we have drunk for money; our wood comes for a price. 5 On our neck we have been pursued; we have become weary, and no rest has been given to us. 6 To Egypt (Mitsrayim) we have given a hand, and to Assyria (Ashur), to be satisfied with bread. 7 Our fathers sinned, and they are no more; and we have borne their iniquities. 8 Slaves have ruled over us; there is no one rescuing us from their hand. 9 With our life we bring in our bread, because of the sword of the wilderness. 10 Our skin has grown hot like an oven because of the burning heat of hunger. 11 They have humiliated women in Zion (Tsiyon), virgins in the cities of Judah (Yehuda). 12 Princes have been hanged by their hand; the faces of elders have not been honored. 13 Young men have lifted a mill, and youths have staggered under the wood. 14 Old men have ceased from the gate, young men from their music. 15 The joy of our heart has ceased; our dancing has been changed into mourning. 16 The crown of 4:17 we have watched for a nation that will not save They kept watching for Egypt. An Egyptian army came once and the Babylonians pulled back briefly, but Egypt went home and the siege went on (Jer 37:5-8). Many of us put our hope in leaders, money, health or people, and they fail us (Ps 146:3).

4:19 Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles of heaven There was nowhere to hide, on the mountains or in the wilderness.
4:20 The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD, was captured in their pits King Zedekiah, anointed as David's heir. The people spoke as if their life depended on him, but he was captured as he fled (Jer 52:8-11). That hope failed. God had promised a different Anointed One, the righteous Branch who "will reign as king" (Jer 23:5). Jesus' shadow truly shelters His people, and He will never fail.
4:21 also to you the cup will pass Edom cheered when Jerusalem fell (Ps 137:7; Obad 12). Celebrate for now, the poet says. Edom would drink the cup of God's judgment too (Jer 49:12). The land of Uz was the region where Edom lived.
4:22 Your iniquity is finished, O daughter of Zion; He will not again take you into exile The first clear word of hope for the nation in this poem (Isa 40:2). The Babylonian exile did end, and the people came home in 538 B.C. Jerusalem was destroyed again in A.D. 70, and the Jews were scattered for centuries. I believe the fullest meaning waits for the day God plants Israel in their land never to be uprooted again (Amos 9:15), when they turn to the Messiah and He reigns in Zion.
5:1 Remember, O LORD, what has happened to us Three requests: remember, look and see. They do not doubt that God knows. They ask Him to act on what He knows. In Scripture, when God remembers, He acts. He remembered Noah and sent the wind (Gen 8:1), and He remembered His covenant and sent Moses (Exod 2:24).
5:2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers The land God gave Israel as an inheritance was now owned by others.
5:3 We have become fatherless ones, and there is no father So many men had died that the land was full of orphans and widows. It may also mean they felt like orphans, with no king and no protector.
5:4 Our water we have drunk for money They had to pay their conquerors for water from their own wells and wood from their own forests. Everyday life had become a burden.
5:6 To Egypt we have given a hand, and to Assyria To give the hand meant to make a pact. Judah had made deals with the great powers, hoping to survive (Jer 2:18, 36). It never worked. They looked for bread in the wrong places.
5:7 Our fathers sinned, and they are no more; and we have borne their iniquities There is truth in this. The sins of Manasseh and others had piled up (2 Kgs 24:3-4), and sin always hurts the next generation. But in verse 16 they say, "we have sinned!" Each person is responsible for his own sin (Ezek 18:20; Jer 31:29-30). We may carry real wounds from those before us, but we cannot hide behind them. When we own our sin and turn to God, the chain can be broken.
5:8 Slaves have ruled over us The officials governing them may have been servants of the Babylonian king, men of low rank given power over Judah.
5:9 because of the sword of the wilderness Going out to the fields for food was dangerous, because raiders roamed the countryside. Hunger burned in them like a fever (v. 10).
5:11 They have humiliated women in Zion, virgins in the cities of Judah The abuse of women by conquering soldiers, said in a few words, and so will I. It was a terrible evil. The women were not to blame, and God counted it a deep wrong. If you or someone you love has suffered this harm, it was not your fault, and the shame belongs to the one who did it (Ps 34:18). God sees and will set it right. Please talk with a pastor, a counselor or a friend.
5:12 Princes have been hanged by their hand The leaders were killed and their bodies hung up in shame, and the elders who should have been respected were treated with contempt.
5:13 Young men have lifted a mill Grinding grain was slaves' work, often done by women or prisoners (Judg 16:21). Boys staggered under loads of firewood.
5:14 Old men have ceased from the gate, young men from their music The gate was where the elders sat to judge and talk, and it was empty. All the ordinary joys of life were gone.
5:15 our dancing has been changed into mourning David sang, "You have turned my mourning into dancing for me" (Ps 30:11). Here it is the other way around.
5:16 The crown of our head has fallen; woe now to us, for we have sinned The crown is their glory: king, city and temple. Then comes the plain confession, the only place in the poem they say it, and the key to everything. They suffered not only for their fathers' sins but for their own. Restoration begins with confession (1 John 1:9).

our head has fallen; woe now to us, for we have sinned!
17 Because of this our heart has become faint; because of these things our eyes have grown dim, 18 because of the mountain of Zion, which is desolate; foxes have prowled on it.

Your Throne Is Forever

19 You, O LORD, will sit forever; Your throne is to generation and generation. 20 Why do You forget us perpetually, and abandon us for length of days? 21 Cause us to return, O LORD, to Yourself, and let us return; renew our days as of old.
22 Unless You have utterly rejected us; You have been angry against us exceedingly.

5:18 foxes have prowled on it Mount Zion was where God put His name, and the temple courts had been full of worshipers. Now foxes or jackals wandered over the ruins.
5:19 You, O LORD, will sit forever; Your throne is to generation and generation The turning point of the prayer. City, temple, king and people had fallen, and Babylon's throne would fall too, but the LORD's throne had not (Ps 102:12). Hope stands there when everything else is gone, not on circumstances, leaders or feelings. If your world has fallen apart, hold this verse (Heb 13:8).
5:20 Why do You forget us perpetually Right after praising His eternal throne, they ask the honest question. Faith and questions sit side by side (Ps 13:1). It is not unbelief to ask God why. God had not forgotten them. He had said the exile would last seventy years and He would bring them back (Jer 29:10). To people in the ruins it felt like forever.
5:21 Cause us to return, O LORD, to Yourself, and let us return The heart of the prayer. Notice the order. They cannot turn back to God on their own, so they ask God to turn them, and then they will turn. Repentance is a gift of grace (2 Tim 2:25; Jer 31:18). God answered: the exiles came home in 538 B.C., the temple was rebuilt by 516 B.C., and He promised a new heart in the new covenant (Jer 31:33). In Christ He turns us, and we return.
5:22 Unless You have utterly rejected us Some translate it as a question. Either way, it is the fear left after the prayer. Real prayer does not always end with a neat answer. For centuries readers in the synagogue have read verse 21 again after verse 22, so the last words heard are the prayer for return. God did not reject His people (Rom 11:1). Jesus cried out as one forsaken (Matt 27:46) so that all who trust Him could be received and brought home.

EZEKIEL

Introduction

Title

The book is named for the prophet whose messages it holds, Ezekiel the son of Buzi. His name means God strengthens, which fits the forehead God made hard for him (3:8-9). Ezekiel is one of the Major Prophets, after Jeremiah and Lamentations and before Daniel. They are called major because they are long, not because they matter more than the twelve shorter books. Ezekiel has 48 chapters and 1,273 verses.

Author and Date

The book names its author: "Ezekiel the son of Buzi, the priest" (1:3). Almost all of it is written in the first person, and its dated messages run in order. Jewish and Christian tradition have always held that Ezekiel wrote it. Some critical scholars have argued that later editors added or rearranged parts, especially chapters 40 to 48, but the book's unity of style and outlook supports one author. Ezekiel served about 593 to 571 B.C. among the exiles in Babylon. His first dated message is from the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's exile, about 593 B.C. (1:2), and his last from the twenty-seventh year, about 571 B.C. (29:17). He likely gathered the messages in their present order near the end of that time. The phrase "the thirtieth year" (1:1) is most likely his own age, the year a priest would begin to serve (Numbers 4:3).

Background and Setting

Solomon's kingdom split about 930 B.C. The northern kingdom fell to Assyria in 722 B.C. Judah lasted longer, but it too turned to idols. Babylon took its first captives from Jerusalem in 605 B.C. In 597 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar took King Jehoiachin and about ten thousand leading people to Babylon (2 Kings 24:10-16), and Ezekiel was among them. Dates here follow Edwin Thiele and those who built on his work. Zedekiah reigned in Jerusalem about 597 to 586 B.C. He broke his oath to Babylon, and the city and temple were destroyed in 586 B.C.

Ezekiel lived among the exiles at Tel-abib by the river Chebar, usually identified with a large canal near Nippur, southeast of Babylon (1:1; 3:15). The exiles were not chained slaves. They had houses and elders, and the elders came to Ezekiel's house to hear the word of the LORD (8:1; 14:1; 20:1). Ezekiel was a priest who expected to serve in the temple, yet God made him a prophet in a foreign land. That is why the temple, God's glory, holiness, clean and unclean, and the Sabbaths fill his book.

For the first half of the book Jerusalem is still standing, and the exiles were sure it could never fall while the temple stood. Ezekiel told them it would fall and why. He often acted out his messages: he built a model of the siege, lay on his side for months, shaved his head with a sword, dug through a wall, and did not mourn his wife in public. God called him a sign to the house of Israel (12:6). In chapter 33 an escapee arrives with the news, "The city has been struck" (33:21). From then on the message turns to hope.

Themes

The great theme of Ezekiel is that God will make Himself known. Some form of the words "you shall know that I am the LORD" (6:7) comes more than sixty times. God is known by His judgment on Judah's sin, by His judgment on the nations, and most of all by bringing Israel home and dwelling among them.

The glory of the LORD runs through the book. Ezekiel sees it by the Chebar (chapter 1), watches it leave the defiled temple and the city (chapters 10 and 11), and sees it return to a new temple (43:1-5). The book ends with a city whose name is "The LORD Is There" (48:35).

Ezekiel also teaches personal responsibility. Each person stands before God for his own life: "The soul that sins, it shall die" (18:4). Yet God says, "I do not take pleasure in the death of the one who dies" (18:32), and He calls everyone to turn and live. Ezekiel himself was a watchman who had to warn the wicked (3:17; 33:7).

After the fall, God promises a future for Israel that rests on His own name, not on Israel's merit. He will be their Shepherd and set over them one shepherd, "My servant David" (34:23). He will gather them from the nations and give them a new heart and His Spirit (36:24-27). He will raise the dry bones of the nation and join Judah and Israel into one kingdom (37). He will defeat the last invader, Gog (38-39), and dwell among them in a temple and land described in detail (40-48). These promises are for Israel and are not set aside in favor of the church, though believers now share the new covenant's blessings in Christ.

Christ in Ezekiel

God calls Ezekiel "Son of man" (2:1) over ninety times, a mere human being before the glory of God. Jesus took Son of Man as His favorite name for Himself, mostly from Daniel 7:13, where one like a son of man receives an everlasting kingdom. Ezekiel saw on the throne something like the appearance of a man (1:26), and John saw the risen Christ in the same glory (Revelation 1:13-16).

Ezekiel promises a tender shoot that God will plant on the high mountain of Israel (17:22-23), a ruler "to whom the judgment belongs" (21:27), and one Shepherd, "My servant David" (34:23; 37:24-25). Jesus is that Good Shepherd who seeks the lost (John 10:11; Luke 19:10). The new heart and Spirit of 36:25-27 stand behind Jesus' words about being born of water and the Spirit (John 3:5). The glory that left the temple came back in the Son, who tabernacled among us (John 1:14), and will return when He comes to reign. The river from the temple pictures the life He gives (47:1-12; John 7:38).

Hard Passages

Some scenes in Ezekiel are hard to read. Bread baked over dung (4:12-15) and parents and children turning on each other in famine (5:10) show the horror of the siege and the uncleanness of exile. The notes explain them plainly and briefly.

In chapter 9 the city's people are struck down in a vision, beginning at the sanctuary. This pictures Babylon's judgment in 586 B.C. after long warning. The notes affirm that the Judge of all the earth does right, and I believe little children who die are safe with God.

Chapters 16 and 23 picture Jerusalem and Samaria as unfaithful wives. The language is strong because their idolatry was shameful. The notes stay modest and show that these chapters end in grace (16:60-63).

Is the king of Tyre in 28:11-19 a man only, or does the lament look past him to Satan? The notes give both views.

Who is Gog, and when does he come (38-39)? The notes name the views on Rosh and the peoples of the north without naming modern nations as certain. They place the invasion in the last days after Israel is regathered, give the main pre-tribulation views of its timing, and distinguish it from Revelation 20:8.

Is the temple of chapters 40 to 48 a real future building? The notes take it as a real temple in Christ's millennial kingdom, and they name the other views: a plan for the returning exiles, a symbol of the church, heaven, or an ideal never meant to be built. Why would there be sacrifices after Christ's one sacrifice (Hebrews 10:10-14)? The notes explain them as memorials looking back to the cross and as ceremonial cleansing for people in natural bodies during the kingdom, never as taking away sin. The prince of these chapters is treated as a human ruler under Christ, since he offers a sin offering for himself (45:22).

The Vision by the Chebar

1 And it was in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, and I was in the midst of the exiles by the river Chebar (Kevar), that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. 2 On the fifth day of the month, it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin (Yoyakhin), 3 the word of the LORD surely came to Ezekiel (Yechezqel) the son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim) by the river Chebar; and the hand of the LORD was on him there. 4 And I saw, and look, a storm wind coming from the north, a great cloud and fire flashing, and brightness was all around it, and from its midst there was something like the appearance of the shining substance, from the midst of the fire. 5 And from its midst came the likeness of four living creatures; and this was their appearance: they had the likeness of a man. 6 And each one had four faces, and each one of them had four wings. 7 And their feet were a straight foot, and the sole of their feet was like the sole of the foot of a calf; and they were gleaming like the appearance of burnished bronze. 8 And the hands of a man were under their wings on their four sides; and the four of them had their faces and their wings. 9 Their wings were touching, each one to another; they did not turn when they went; each one went in the direction of its face. 10 And the likeness of their faces was the face of a man; and the four of them had the face of a lion on the right side; and the four of them had the face of an ox on the left side; and the four of them had the face of an eagle. 11 And their faces and their wings were spread out above; each one had two wings touching one another, and two wings covering their bodies. 12 And each one went in the direction of its face; wherever the spirit was about to go, they went; they did not turn when they went. 13 And as for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like coals of fire burning, like the appearance of the torches; it was moving about between the living creatures; and the fire had brightness, and from the fire lightning was going out. 14 And the living creatures were running and returning like the appearance of the flash.

The Wheels and the Throne

15 And I saw the living creatures, and look, one wheel was on the ground beside the living creatures, for each of its four faces. 16 The appearance of the wheels and their construction was like the appearance of chrysolite, and the four of them had one likeness; and their appearance and their construction were as it would be, the wheel in the midst of the wheel. 17 When they went, they went on their four sides; they did not turn when they went. 18 And as for their rims, they had height, and they had awesomeness; and their rims

1:1 in the thirtieth year Not explained, but many believe it was Ezekiel's age. A priest began full service at thirty (Num 4:3). The very year he should have put on the priest's robes in Jerusalem, God met him in Babylon instead.
1:1 by the river Chebar Most likely a large canal near the city of Nippur. By the waters of Babylon the exiles sat and wept (Ps 137:1). That is where the heavens opened. No place is too far for God to reach, and no exile is so deep that His word cannot come there.
1:2 the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin Jehoiachin was taken to Babylon in 597 B.C. with Ezekiel and about ten thousand others (2 Kgs 24:12-16). The fifth year is about 593 B.C. Jerusalem still stood, Zedekiah reigned there, and most exiles expected to be home soon.
1:3 the hand of the LORD was on him there Two phrases run through the book. The word of the LORD came, so this is not Ezekiel's opinion. And the hand of the LORD, God's power taking hold of a man to make him see and speak, was on him (3:14, 22; 8:1; 37:1; 40:1).
1:4 a storm wind coming from the north, a great cloud and fire flashing God often comes in storm, cloud and fire, as at Sinai (Exod 19:16-18; Ps 18:9-13). The north was also the direction Babylon's armies would come from (Jer 1:14). This is God Himself coming, and coming in judgment.
1:4 the shining substance The Hebrew word hashmal is uncertain. Some think of polished amber, others of glowing metal. Ezekiel uses it only for the brightness around God (1:27; 8:2), a light too bright to look at for long.
1:5 four living creatures Chapter 10 tells us they were cherubim (10:15, 20), a high order of angels always pictured near God's throne. Cherubim guarded the tree of life (Gen 3:24), and golden cherubim spread their wings over the ark's mercy seat (Exod 25:18-22). They are fearsome servants who guard God's holiness. Having the likeness of a man most likely means they stood upright.
1:9 they did not turn when they went; each one went in the direction of its face With a face looking every way, they never had to turn around. Wherever God sent them, they were already facing that way.
1:10 the face of a man Man in front, a lion, an ox and an eagle. Many see the best of creation here: the king of wild beasts, the strongest tame animal, the ruler of the sky, and man its crown, all serving God's throne. John saw similar creatures in heaven (Rev 4:7). Some since the early church have linked the faces to the four Gospels, but Scripture does not make that link.
1:11 two wings covering their bodies Even these mighty beings cover themselves in the presence of God.
1:12 wherever the spirit was about to go, they went The word for spirit can also mean wind or breath. Whether Ezekiel means the Holy Spirit or the will of the creatures moved by God's command, they did nothing on their own. They went where they were sent.
1:14 running and returning like the appearance of the flash They move like lightning. When God commands, it is done at once. When we pray for His will to be done on earth as in heaven (Matt 6:10), we ask to be that quick to obey.
1:16 the wheel in the midst of the wheel Most likely two wheels set crosswise inside each other, so they could roll in any of four directions without turning. Chrysolite was a yellow or green precious stone.
1:18 their rims were full of eyes all around Eyes picture God's knowledge (Prov 15:3). The wheels belong to His throne-chariot (1 Chr 28:18). Judah thought God lived only in the Jerusalem temple, and the nations thought each god ruled his own land. This throne has wheels and came to Babylon. God goes where He wills and sees everything.

were full of eyes all around the four of them. 19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures were lifted up from on the ground, the wheels were lifted up. 20 Wherever the spirit was about to go, they went, there the spirit was to go; and the wheels were lifted up close beside them, for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. 21 When they went, these went; and when they stood still, these stood still; and when they were lifted up from on the ground, the wheels were lifted up close beside them, for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. 22 And there was a likeness over the heads of the living creature, an expanse like the appearance of the awesome ice, spread out over their heads above. 23 And under the expanse their wings were straight, each one toward another; each one had two wings covering them, and each one had two wings covering them, their bodies. 24 And I heard the sound of their wings like the sound of many waters, like the sound of the Almighty, when they went, the sound of a tumult like the sound of an army; when they stood still, they let their wings drop. 25 And there was a voice from above the expanse which was over their head; when they stood still, they let their wings drop. 26 And above the expanse which was over their head, like the appearance of a sapphire stone, was the likeness of a throne; and on the likeness of the throne was a likeness like the appearance of a man on it, above. 27 And I saw something like the appearance of shining substance, like the appearance of fire with an enclosure for it all around, from the appearance of His hips and upward; and from the appearance of His hips and downward I saw something like the appearance of fire, and brightness was all around Him. 28 Like the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud on the day of the rain, so was the appearance of the brightness all around. That was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And I saw it, and I fell on my face, and I heard a voice speaking.

Sent to a Rebellious House

1 And He said to me, "Son of man, stand on your feet, and I will speak with you." 2 And a spirit came into me when He spoke to me, and it made me stand on my feet; and I heard Him speaking to me. 3 And He said to me, "Son of man, I am sending you to the sons of Israel (Yisra'el), to nations, the rebelling ones who have rebelled against Me; they and their fathers have transgressed against Me to this very day. 4 And the sons are stern of face and hard of heart; I am sending you to them, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.' 5 And they, whether they hear or whether they refrain, for they are a house of rebellion, they will know that a prophet has been in their midst. 6 And you, son of man, do not be afraid of them, and do not be afraid of their words, for briers and thorns are with you, and you are dwelling among scorpions; do not be afraid of their words, and do not be dismayed

1:20 the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels Creatures and wheels moved as one living thing under one direction. Ezekiel repeats it to drive the point home. Around God's throne there is perfect unity and order. His purposes do not get stuck or fall apart, and He is not shaken by what shakes us.
1:22 an expanse like the appearance of the awesome ice The word for expanse is the one used for the sky in Genesis 1:6-8. It was a platform, clear and shining like crystal, over the creatures' heads.
1:24 like the sound of many waters, like the sound of the Almighty A roar like a waterfall or a marching army. When the glory returns, God's voice is like many waters (43:2), and John heard the risen Jesus speak the same way (Rev 1:15).
1:25 there was a voice from above the expanse When the voice spoke, the creatures stood still and lowered their wings. All the motion and noise stopped because God was speaking. That is the right response to His voice: everything else goes quiet, and we listen.
1:26 a likeness like the appearance of a man on it, above Ezekiel words this with reverence: a likeness, an appearance. No one can see God in His full glory and live (Exod 33:20). Many teachers believe this was the Son of God appearing in the likeness of a man before He took on flesh. The Son is the radiance of God's glory and has made Him known (Heb 1:3; John 1:18), and John saw Christ much as Ezekiel did (Rev 1:13-15).
1:27 brightness was all around Him Ezekiel cannot describe a face. All he sees is glowing light and fire, from the waist up and from the waist down.
1:28 the bow that is in the cloud on the day of the rain A rainbow, as John also saw around the throne (Rev 4:3). After the flood God set His bow in the cloud as the sign of His covenant promise (Gen 9:12-17). At the center of a vision of fire and judgment stands a reminder of mercy.
1:28 That was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD The Hebrew word for glory, kabod, carries the idea of weight: the shining out of who God is. Ezekiel fell on his face, as all who truly see God do (Isa 6:5; Rev 1:17). We now see that glory in the face of Jesus Christ (2 Cor 4:6), and one day we will see Him as He is (1 John 3:2).
2:1 Son of man, stand on your feet The first of more than ninety times God calls Ezekiel son of man, meaning simply a human being, a mortal. After the blazing vision it reminds him how small he is. Jesus took the Son of Man as His favorite title mainly from Daniel 7:13. Ezekiel is a son of man because he is only human; Jesus is the Son of Man because He is truly human and also the King from heaven.
2:2 a spirit came into me when He spoke to me, and it made me stand on my feet Most teachers take this as the Spirit of God, who fills and moves the prophet elsewhere (3:24; 11:5). God never gives a command without giving the power to keep it.
2:3 to nations, the rebelling ones Nations was the usual word for Gentile peoples. God's own people had become like the pagans around them, and their rebellion went back generations.
2:4 stern of face and hard of heart Stubborn outside and inside. They had the law, the temple and the prophets. Their problem was not lack of knowledge but a hard heart.
2:4 Thus says the Lord GOD This phrase gave Ezekiel his authority and kept him humble. A prophet was God's mouthpiece, not the author of his own message.
2:5 they will know that a prophet has been in their midst Success was not counted by how many listened but by whether Ezekiel was faithful. No one could say God never warned them. We are responsible to speak the truth in love and leave the results to God (1 Cor 3:6). House of rebellion becomes one of Ezekiel's common names for Israel (2:6, 8; 3:9, 26-27).
2:6 you are dwelling among scorpions Three times God says do not be afraid. Briers scratch and scorpions sting; his own people would hurt him. A man who expects opposition is not knocked down when it comes (John 15:18). God does not promise an easy road, but He promises to be with us on the hard one.

Eat This Scroll

8 And you, son of man, hear what I am speaking to you: do not be rebellious like the house of rebellion; open your mouth and eat what I am giving to you." 9 And I looked, and look, a hand was stretched out to me, and look, in it was a scroll of a book. 10 And He spread it out before me, and it was written front and back, and written on it were lamentations and moaning and woe.

EZEKIEL 3

1 And He said to me, "Son of man, what you find, eat; eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel (Yisra'el)." 2 And I opened my mouth, and He made me eat this scroll. 3 And He said to me, "Son of man, make your belly eat, and fill your inward parts with this scroll which I am giving to you." And I ate it, and it was in my mouth like honey for sweetness.

A Forehead Like Diamond

4 And He said to me, "Son of man, go, come to the house of Israel, and you shall speak with My words to them. 5 For not to a people deep of lip and heavy of tongue are you sent, but to the house of Israel; 6 not to many peoples deep of lip and heavy of tongue, whose words you cannot understand. Surely if I had sent you to them, they would listen to you. 7 And the house of Israel will not be willing to listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to Me; for all the house of Israel are hard of forehead and stern of heart. 8 Look, I have made your face hard against their faces, and your forehead hard against their forehead. 9 Like diamond, harder than flint, I have made your forehead. You shall not fear them, and you shall not be dismayed at their faces, for they are a house of rebellion." 10 And He said to me, "Son of man, all My words which I will speak to you, take into your heart, and hear with your ears. 11 And go, come to the exiles, to the sons of your people, and you shall speak to them and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' whether they hear or whether they refrain." 12 And a spirit lifted me up, and I heard behind me a sound of a great rumbling: "Blessed be the glory of the LORD from His place!" 13 And there was the sound of the wings of the living creatures touching each one to another, and the sound of the wheels close beside them, and a sound of a great rumbling. 14 And a spirit lifted me up and took me, and I went bitter in the heat of my spirit, and the hand of the LORD was strong on me. 15 And I came to the exiles at Tel-abib (Tel-Aviv), who were dwelling by the river Chebar (Kevar), and I sat where they were dwelling, and I sat there seven days, appalled, in their midst.

The Watchman for Israel

16 And it was at the end of seven days, and the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 17 "Son of man, I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel; and you shall hear a word from My mouth, and you shall warn them from Me.

2:7 you shall speak My words to them Not Ezekiel's words, and not softer words to make people like him. The pressure on any teacher is to soften the message. God says to speak what He says and leave it there.
2:8 do not be rebellious like the house of rebellion The same hard heart could take root in the prophet. Before he could call anyone to obey, Ezekiel had to obey, and he had to agree to eat before he saw what God would give him. That is real obedience. Before I warn anyone else, am I doing what God has told me?
2:10 it was written front and back Scrolls were usually written on one side. This one was full on both, with no room to add anything. Its message was lamentation, moaning and woe. The good news would come after Jerusalem fell (chapters 33-48), but people must see their sin before they welcome a Savior. John was given a scroll to eat as well (Rev 10:8-11).
3:1 eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel First eat, then go, then speak. This happened in a vision (1:1), so most teachers take it as something seen in the vision, not a literal meal. God's word was not to stay outside Ezekiel like a script. It was to become part of him.
3:3 it was in my mouth like honey for sweetness A message of lamentation (2:10) tasted sweet because it was God's word. There is sweetness in knowing and doing His will even when the message is hard (Ps 19:10; Jer 15:16). Do we only read the Word, or let it fill us until it shapes how we think and speak?
3:6 Surely if I had sent you to them, they would listen to you Pagan nations would have listened, as Nineveh did to Jonah (Jonah 3:5; Matt 12:41). Israel spoke Ezekiel's language and still would not hear.
3:7 they are not willing to listen to Me Ezekiel was not to take their rejection personally. They were rejecting God (Luke 10:16). The more light people have, the harder their hearts can grow if they refuse it, a warning for those who grew up around the Bible.
3:9 Like diamond, harder than flint, I have made your forehead Ezekiel's name means God strengthens or God makes hard. This is not a call to be harsh but to be steady. A forehead of diamond does not crack when people push. If God calls you to stand firm in a hard place, He will give you the backbone to do it.
3:10 take into your heart, and hear with your ears The heart comes before the ears. God wants His words received deeply, not just heard.
3:11 to the exiles, to the sons of your people Ezekiel was sent to his neighbors. Sometimes the hardest place to speak for God is at home, among people who know us best.
3:12 Blessed be the glory of the LORD from His place As the vision moved off, Ezekiel heard a great rumbling and a cry of praise. His ministry would be full of judgment, but it began and ended with the glory of God.
3:14 I went bitter in the heat of my spirit The scroll was sweet in his mouth, but now he felt the bitterness of the message. He felt what God felt about Israel's sin.
3:15 I sat there seven days, appalled, in their midst Tel-abib means something like mound of green grain, a hopeful name for a refugee camp. Seven days was the time of mourning for the dead (Gen 50:10; Job 2:13). A good teacher feels the weight of the message before he speaks it.
3:17 I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel A watchman stood on the wall day and night and blew the trumpet when he saw an army coming. Ezekiel's warning was not his own; he heard it from God's mouth. God repeats this charge at the turning point of the book (33:1-9).

18 When I say to the wicked man, 'You shall surely die,' and you do not warn him, and do not speak to warn the wicked man from his wicked way to keep him alive, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, and his blood I will require from your hand. 19 And you, if you warn the wicked man, and he does not turn from his wickedness and from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; and you have delivered your soul. 20 And when a righteous man turns from his righteousness and does injustice, and I put a stumbling block before him, he shall die; because you did not warn him, he shall die in his sin, and his acts of righteousness which he did shall not be remembered; and his blood I will require from your hand. 21 And you, if you warn him, the righteous man, that the righteous man should not sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live, because he was warned; and you have delivered your soul."

Bound and Silent

22 And the hand of the LORD was on me there, and He said to me, "Arise, go out to the plain, and there I will speak with you." 23 And I arose and went out to the plain, and look, there was the glory of the LORD standing, like the glory which I had seen by the river Chebar; and I fell on my face. 24 And a spirit came into me and made me stand on my feet, and He spoke with me and said to me, "Go, shut yourself in the midst of your house. 25 And you, son of man, look, they will put ropes on you and bind you with them, and you shall not go out in their midst. 26 And I will make your tongue cling to your palate, and you shall be mute, and you shall not be to them a reproving man, for they are a house of rebellion. 27 And when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.' The one hearing, let him hear; and the one refraining, let him refrain; for they are a house of rebellion."

EZEKIEL 4

The Siege Acted Out

1 "And you, son of man, take for yourself a brick, and set it before you, and engrave on it a city, Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 2 And put a siege against it, and build a siege wall against it, and pour out a mound against it, and set camps against it, and set battering rams against it all around. 3 And you, take for yourself a griddle of iron, and make it a wall of iron between you and the city; and set your face toward it, and it shall be in siege, and you shall lay siege against it. 3:18 his blood I will require from your hand The wicked man is still guilty and dies for his own sin. But a silent watchman shares the guilt. In Ezekiel's setting the death first in view was the coming judgment on Jerusalem by sword, famine and plague (5:12; Deut 30:15-20). A man who dies unrepentant also faces something worse than a sword.
3:19 you have delivered your soul If the watchman warns and the man refuses, the watchman is clear. He did his job. Paul seems to echo this when he says he was clean from the blood of all because he declared the whole counsel of God (Acts 20:26-27).
3:20 I put a stumbling block before him Not God tempting anyone (Jas 1:13). God brings a test or judgment into the path of a man who has already turned away, and he falls over it.
3:20 his acts of righteousness which he did shall not be remembered This explains Ezekiel's office under the old covenant, when a man who had lived rightly by the law turned to injustice before Jerusalem fell (18:24). I do not believe it teaches that a believer in Christ can lose salvation. Jesus' sheep will never perish (John 10:28), and believers are sealed by the Spirit (Eph 1:13-14). Some read it otherwise.
3:23 there was the glory of the LORD standing Before Ezekiel began a hard and lonely job, God showed His glory a second time. Before a hard season He often reminds us who He is.
3:25 they will put ropes on you and bind you with them It may mean the exiles would tie him up to silence him, or it may picture God's own restraint (4:8). Either way his freedom was taken, and his life became a sign.
3:26 you shall be mute Ezekiel would not argue with the people on his own. This lasted until news of Jerusalem's fall arrived (24:27; 33:22).
3:27 when I speak with you, I will open your mouth Chapters 4-24 are full of messages, so he was not wholly silent. He spoke only when God gave him a word, so no one could dismiss it as his opinion. Each person must choose what to do with what he hears (Mark 4:9).
4:1 take for yourself a brick Babylonian bricks were large, flat blocks of clay, often drawn or written on while soft. Ezekiel drew Jerusalem on one, then built a model siege around it: siege wall, ramps, camps and battering rams. This is the first of many acted signs in the book.
4:3 make it a wall of iron between you and the city Ezekiel plays the part of God. The iron griddle pictures the barrier their sin had raised between God and Jerusalem, so their prayers would not get through (Isa 59:2). The exiles thought Jerusalem was safe because the temple was there. The brick said otherwise.
4:4 you shall bear their iniquity To bear iniquity is to carry the guilt or punishment of sin. Ezekiel was acting out the punishment, not taking sin away. Only one Person has truly borne others' sins to remove them (Isa 53:11; 1 Pet 2:24). Facing east, north is on the left and south on the right, so Israel lay on his left side and Judah on his right.
4:5 three hundred and ninety days Each day stood for a year (4:6). Scripture does not explain the numbers, and good teachers differ. Many count 390 years of Israel's sin from the division of the kingdom about 930 B.C. to the fall; others see years of punishment still to come. The 40 for Judah may echo the wilderness years, a full generation under judgment.
4:7 your arm shall be bared A soldier bared his arm for battle. It meant God was ready to act (Isa 52:10). Ezekiel's silent posture preached that God was coming against the city.
4:8 I will put ropes on you He prepared his food during these days (4:9-15), so most think he lay on his side for part of each day as a public sign. God's ropes held him there, a picture of the siege: once it began, no one could leave until it was over.

shall not turn yourself from your side to your side until you complete the days of your siege.

The Bread of the Siege

9 And you, take for yourself wheat and barley and beans and lentils and millet and spelt, and put them in one vessel, and make them into bread for yourself; according to the number of the days that you are lying on your side, three hundred and ninety days, you shall eat it. 10 And your food which you eat shall be by weight, approximately 8 ounces (twenty shekels) a day; from time to time you shall eat it. 11 And you shall drink water by measure, approximately 2/3 quart (a sixth of the hin); from time to time you shall drink it. 12 And you shall eat it as a cake of barley, and you shall bake it on dung of the excrement of man before their eyes." 13 And the LORD said, "Thus the sons of Israel shall eat their bread unclean among the nations where I will drive them." 14 And I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Look, my soul has not been made unclean; and a carcass and a torn animal I have not eaten from my youth until now, and foul flesh has not come into my mouth." 15 And He said to me, "See, I have given to you the dung of the cattle in place of the dung of man, and you shall make your bread on it." 16 And He said to me, "Son of man, look, I am breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem, and they shall eat bread by weight and in anxiety, and they shall drink water by measure and in horror, 17 so that they may lack bread and water, and they shall be appalled, a man and his brother, and they shall waste away in their iniquity."

EZEKIEL 5

The Razor and the Hair

1 "And you, son of man, take for yourself a sharp sword; as a barbers' razor you shall take it for yourself, and make it pass over your head and over your beard; and take for yourself scales of weight and divide them. 2 A third you shall burn with fire in the midst of the city when the days of the siege are completed; and you shall take a third and strike it with the sword all around it; and a third you shall scatter to the wind, and I will draw out a sword after them. 3 And you shall take from there a few in number and bind them in your skirts. 4 And from them again you shall take and throw them into the midst of the fire and burn them in the fire; from it a fire will go out to all the house of Israel (Yisra'el).

Jerusalem Among the Nations

5 Thus says the Lord GOD: 'This is Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); I have set it in the midst of the nations, and lands are around it. 6 And it has rebelled against My judgments in wickedness more than the nations, and against My statutes more than the lands that are around it; for they have rejected My judgments, and My statutes, they have not walked in them. 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because your turmoil is more than the nations that are around you, and you have not walked in My statutes, and you have not done My judgments, and you have not even done according to the judgments of the nations that are around you, 8 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am against you, even I, and I will execute judgments in your midst before the eyes of the nations.

5:8 Ezek 15:7; Ezek 21:3; Jer 21:5,13

4:9 wheat and barley and beans and lentils and millet and spelt No one baked bread from such a mix in good times. This was siege bread, made from whatever scraps were left in the jars.
4:10 approximately 8 ounces a day About half a pound of bread and about two and a half cups of water a day (4:11), eaten at set times. Enough to stay alive, barely. This is what Jerusalem would face when the bread ran out (Jer 52:6).
4:12 you shall bake it on dung of the excrement of man before their eyes Dried animal dung was a common cooking fuel, but the law required human waste to be buried outside the camp because the LORD walked among His people (Deut 23:12-14). The shocking sign showed that in exile they could not keep the food laws or stay set apart as God's holy people (4:13).
4:14 Ah, Lord GOD! Look, my soul has not been made unclean Ezekiel was a priest who had kept the law all his life (Lev 22:8; 7:18). He objected honestly, and God allowed cattle dung instead (4:15). The sign remained, but God heard His servant. He does not want us to pretend.
4:16 I am breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem Bread was the staff people leaned on. When God breaks it, people fall, just as the law warned (Lev 26:26).
4:17 they shall waste away in their iniquity The famine was not bad luck but the result of sin. That is hard, yet hopeful: if judgment came because of sin, turning from sin was the way back. Sin always costs more than it promises. The only lasting bread is Christ (John 6:35).
5:1 as a barbers' razor you shall take it for yourself Priests were forbidden to shave their heads or beards (Lev 21:5). Shaving was a sign of mourning or disgrace (Isa 15:2; Jer 41:5). The razor is a sword: Babylon's army would pass over Jerusalem and leave it bare. The hair was weighed out, because God's judgment is measured and exact.
5:2 A third you shall burn with fire in the midst of the city One third burned, likely on the clay model of chapter 4, one third struck with the sword, one third scattered to the wind. Verse 12 explains each.
5:3 bind them in your skirts The hem or fold of a robe was where a person tucked away something valuable. These few hairs picture a remnant, the part God keeps after judgment so His promises will not fail.
5:4 from them again you shall take and throw them into the midst of the fire Even some survivors would face more judgment. After the fall some murdered Gedaliah, fled to Egypt against God's word and died there (2 Kgs 25:25-26; Jer 42-44). Being spared once is not the same as being safe forever.
5:5 I have set it in the midst of the nations Jerusalem stood at the crossroads of the ancient world. Israel was placed there to be a kingdom of priests and a light to the nations (Exod 19:5-6; Deut 4:6-8). God puts His people where they are on purpose (Matt 5:14-16).
5:6 it has rebelled against My judgments in wickedness more than the nations Jerusalem had not just failed to shine. She had grown darker than the darkness around her.
5:7 you have not even done according to the judgments of the nations The pagans were at least loyal to their false gods. Israel was not loyal to the true God (Jer 2:10-11).
5:8 Look, I am against you, even I Some of the most frightening words in the Bible. The God who fought for Israel at the Red Sea now declared Himself her opponent.

9 And I will do in you that which I have not done, and that which I will not do like it again, because of all your abominations. 10 Therefore fathers shall eat sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers; and I will execute judgments on you, and I will scatter all your remnant to every wind. 11 Therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely because you have made My sanctuary unclean with all your detestable things and with all your abominations, I also will diminish you, and My eye shall not pity, and I also will not spare. 12 A third of you shall die by the pestilence and be consumed by the famine in your midst; and a third shall fall by the sword all around you; and a third I will scatter to every wind, and I will draw out a sword after them. 13 And My anger shall be spent, and I will cause My rage to rest on them, and I will comfort Myself; and they shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken in My jealousy, when I have spent My rage on them. 14 And I will make you a ruin and a reproach among the nations that are around you, before the eyes of everyone who passes by. 15 And it shall be a reproach and a taunt, a warning and a horror to the nations that are around you, when I execute judgments on you in anger and in rage and with rebukes of rage. I, the LORD, have spoken. 16 When I send against them the evil arrows of the famine, which shall be for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, then I will add famine on you and break the staff of bread for you; 17 and I will send on you famine and evil beasts, and they will bereave you; and pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I will bring a sword on you. I, the LORD, have spoken.'"

Against the Mountains of Israel

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel (Yisra'el), and prophesy against them, 3 and say, 'Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and to the hills, to the ravines and to the valleys: Look, I, even I, am bringing a sword on you, and I will destroy your high places. 4 And your altars shall be made desolate, and your incense altars shall be broken, and I will make your slain fall before your idols. 5 And I will put the corpses of the sons of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones around your altars. 6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall be laid waste, and the high places shall be desolate, so that your altars may be laid waste and be held guilty, and your idols shall be broken and cease, and your incense altars shall be cut down, and your works shall be wiped out. 7 And the slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the LORD.

A Remnant Will Remember

8 And I will leave a remnant, in that you will have escapees of the sword among the nations, when you are scattered among the lands. 9 And your escapees shall remember Me among the nations where they have been taken captive, how I have been broken by their heart that plays the prostitute, which has turned aside from Me, and by their eyes that play the prostitute after their idols; and they shall loathe themselves

6:9 Ezek 20:43; Ps 78:40; Isa 7:13

5:9 that which I will not do like it again The fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. was the worst disaster in Israel's history to that point. An abomination is something God finds disgusting, especially idol worship and the evil that comes with it. Jesus spoke of a coming tribulation in the same terms (Matt 24:21).
5:10 fathers shall eat sons in your midst One of the darkest verses in the Bible, and I will not dwell on it. In long sieges the starving were driven to unthinkable things, just as the law warned (Lev 26:29; Deut 28:53-57) and as happened in Samaria and Jerusalem (2 Kgs 6:28-29; Lam 4:10). God takes no pleasure in it (18:23). It shows where sin leads, and what it cost God to save us (Rom 8:32).
5:11 because you have made My sanctuary unclean The worst sin was bringing idols into God's house, as chapter 8 will show. My eye shall not pity recurs in Ezekiel (7:4, 9; 8:18; 9:10). For years God had spared them; the time for mercy was ending.
5:12 a third I will scatter to every wind Some would die inside the walls by plague and famine, some by the sword trying to escape, and some would be scattered among the nations with the sword still following.
5:13 I, the LORD, have spoken in My jealousy God's anger is not a loss of temper but His settled opposition to evil. When it is spent, justice is fully done. His jealousy is the right love of a husband who will not share his wife with another (Exod 20:5; 34:14).
5:15 a warning and a horror to the nations The city meant to be a light became a warning sign. The nations would see the ruins and know what happens to a people who forsake their God (Deut 29:24-28).
5:17 famine and evil beasts Famine, beasts, plague and sword were the judgments the law had warned of (Lev 26:22-26; Deut 32:23-25). God was doing exactly what He said He would, after more than eight hundred years of warnings. He is patient, not wishing any to perish (2 Pet 3:9), but patience is not approval.
6:2 set your face toward the mountains of Israel Ezekiel was hundreds of miles away and could not see them. To set his face meant to turn toward them with fixed purpose as God's spokesman.
6:3 I will destroy your high places A high place was a hilltop shrine with an altar, a sacred pole or standing stone. God had told Israel to tear them down (Num 33:52). Is there a high place in your life, something you turn to instead of God when afraid?
6:4 your incense altars shall be broken Small stands where incense was burned to the sun god or other gods (2 Chr 34:4).
6:5 I will scatter your bones around your altars A corpse was the most unclean thing for an Israelite (Num 19:11-16). Josiah burned bones on Bethel's altar to defile it forever (2 Kgs 23:16). The worshipers who came to idols for life would lie dead before them, and the gods they trusted could not save.
6:7 you shall know that I am the LORD The great refrain of the book, already heard in 5:13. When the idols fell, Israel would learn who the true God is. God would rather teach it through blessing, but He will teach it one way or another.
6:8 I will leave a remnant Even in judgment God keeps some alive among the nations.
6:9 how I have been broken by their heart that plays the prostitute The language of a husband betrayed, developed in chapter 16. Idolatry was not only breaking a rule but betraying a love, and it broke God's heart (Eph 4:30). In exile, stripped of everything, they would remember Him.
6:9 they shall loathe themselves for the evils which they have done True repentance is not being sorry we got caught. It is seeing sin as God sees it and hating it, the grief that leads to real change (2 Cor 7:10).

for the evils which they have done, for all their abominations. 10 And they shall know that I am the LORD; not in vain did I speak of doing this evil to them. 11 Thus says the Lord GOD: Strike with your palm and stamp with your foot, and say, "Alas, because of all the evil abominations of the house of Israel, who shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence!" 12 The one far off shall die by the pestilence, and the one near shall fall by the sword, and the one who remains and the one who is preserved shall die by the famine; and I will spend My rage on them. 13 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain are in the midst of their idols around their altars, on every high hill, on all the tops of the mountains, and under every luxuriant tree, and under every leafy terebinth, the place where they gave a soothing aroma to all their idols. 14 And I will stretch out My hand against them and make the land a desolation and a horror, more than the wilderness toward Diblah (Divla), in all their dwelling places; and they shall know that I am the LORD.'"

The End Has Come

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "And you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD to the soil of Israel (Yisra'el): An end! The end has come on the four corners of the land. 3 Now the end is on you, and I will send My anger against you, and I will judge you according to your ways, and I will put on you all your abominations. 4 And My eye shall not pity you, and I will not spare; for I will put your ways on you, and your abominations shall be in your midst; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 5 Thus says the Lord GOD: Evil, one evil! Look, an evil is coming! 6 An end has come; the end has come; it has awakened against you; look, it is coming! 7 The doom has come to you, O inhabitant of the land; the time has come; the day is near, tumult, and not the joyful shout of the mountains. 8 Now shortly I will pour out My rage on you and spend My anger on you, and I will judge you according to your ways, and I will put on you all your abominations. 9 And My eye shall not pity, and I will not spare; according to your ways I will put on you, and your abominations shall be in your midst; and you shall know that I, the LORD, am striking. 10 Look, the day! Look, it is coming! The doom has gone out; the rod has blossomed; arrogance has budded. 11 Violence has risen up into a rod of wickedness; not of them, and not of their multitude, and not of their wealth, and no eminence is among them. 12 The time has come; the day has arrived. Let not the buyer rejoice, and let not the seller mourn, for burning anger is against all its multitude. 13 For the seller shall not return to what was sold, though their life is still among the living; for the vision concerning all its multitude shall not turn back; and no man shall strengthen himself in his iniquity for his life.

6:10 not in vain did I speak of doing this evil to them God's warnings were not empty threats. And because His warnings came true, His promises of restoration are sure as well.
6:11 Strike with your palm and stamp with your foot Not joy here but strong feeling, grief or the anger of a verdict (21:14, 17). Ezekiel preached with his body as well as his voice.
6:12 The one far off shall die by the pestilence Far away, nearby or hiding in the city, judgment would find them. No one can outrun God (Ps 139:7-12; Amos 9:1-4). The only safe place is under His mercy.
6:13 the place where they gave a soothing aroma to all their idols Hilltops and shady trees were favorite Canaanite worship sites. A soothing aroma is the law's phrase for offerings that pleased the LORD (Lev 1:9). Israel gave the language of true worship to idols.
6:14 more than the wilderness toward Diblah Diblah is unknown elsewhere. Many think it is a form of Riblah in the far north, since d and r look alike in Hebrew, where Zedekiah was later judged (2 Kgs 25:6-7). If so, the whole land from south to north would be desolate. God's judgments are meant to bring us back to Him (Heb 12:10).
7:2 The end has come on the four corners of the land The four corners means every part of the land. Amos had announced the end for the northern kingdom more than a century before (Amos 8:2), and Samaria fell in 722 B.C. Now the end had come for Judah.
7:3 I will judge you according to your ways The key to the chapter. Judgment fit what they had done. Whatever a man sows he will reap (Gal 6:7).
7:5 Evil, one evil The words come quick, as if Ezekiel were out of breath. Evil here means disaster, not sin. A calamity like no other was coming.
7:6 it has awakened against you The people thought judgment was asleep, that God had forgotten. Now it was wide awake.
7:7 not the joyful shout of the mountains The happy shouts of feasts at the hilltop shrines would be replaced by the noise of war.
7:9 you shall know that I, the LORD, am striking Verses 8-9 repeat 3-4 to make the point stick, with one change. They could not blame Babylon or bad luck. They would know who was behind it.
7:10 Look, the day The day of the LORD is when God steps into history to judge sin and set things right. The prophets used it of near judgments like 586 B.C. and of the great day at the end of this age (Joel 2:31). A blossoming rod may picture Nebuchadnezzar as God's rod, or Judah's own pride grown full.
7:11 Violence has risen up into a rod of wickedness The violence in Jerusalem grew into the rod that would punish the city. Sin carries its own punishment inside it.
7:12 Let not the buyer rejoice, and let not the seller mourn When the city falls, land deals will not matter. The buyer will lose what he bought, and the seller will have nothing left to lose.
7:13 the seller shall not return to what was sold In the jubilee every fiftieth year, sold land went back to the family (Lev 25:10-13, 23-28). Exile would make that impossible. What does a man gain if he gains the whole world and loses his life (Matt 16:26)?
7:14 there is none going to the battle The trumpet sounded, but no one went. The army was ready on paper, but no army stands against God's anger.
7:15 The sword is outside, and the pestilence and the famine within Babylon waited outside the walls while disease and hunger worked inside. There was no safe place.

pestilence and the famine within; he who is in the field shall die by the sword, and he who is in the city, famine and pestilence shall devour him. 16 And their escapees shall escape, and they shall be on the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them moaning, each man for his iniquity. 17 All the hands shall go limp, and all knees shall run with water. 18 And they shall gird themselves with sackcloth, and shuddering shall cover them; and on all faces shall be shame, and on all their heads baldness. 19 Their silver they shall throw into the streets, and their gold shall become an unclean thing; their silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the fury of the LORD; their soul they shall not satisfy, and their inward parts they shall not fill; for it has become the stumbling block of their iniquity. 20 And the beauty of its ornament he set for pride, and they made the images of their abominations, their detestable things, with it; therefore I will make it an unclean thing to them. 21 And I will give it into the hand of the strangers for spoil, and to the wicked of the earth for plunder, and they shall profane it. 22 And I will turn My face from them, and they shall profane My treasured place; and robbers shall enter it and profane it. 23 Make the chain, for the land is full of judgment of bloodshed, and the city is full of violence. 24 And I will bring the evil ones of the nations, and they shall possess their houses; and I will make the pride of the strong cease, and their sanctuaries shall be profaned. 25 Anguish has come, and they shall seek peace, and there shall be none. 26 Disaster on disaster shall come, and report shall be on report; and they shall seek a vision from a prophet, and the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the elders. 27 The king shall mourn, and the prince shall be clothed with desolation, and the hands of the people of the land shall be terrified. According to their way I will do to them, and by their judgments I will judge them; and they shall know that I am the LORD."

Abominations in the Temple

7:16 all of them moaning, each man for his iniquity Doves make a low, sad sound. At last the survivors would grieve for their own sin, not only their losses.
7:17 all knees shall run with water Fear so strong that the body fails. Hands cannot hold a weapon, and legs give way.
7:18 on all faces shall be shame There is a shame that comes too late. Better to be ashamed of sin while there is still time to turn (Isa 55:6-7; 2 Cor 6:2).
7:19 their silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the fury of the LORD In a siege money loses its value; you cannot eat gold. Zephaniah said nearly the same (Zeph 1:18). Their wealth had become their stumbling block.
7:20 they made the images of their abominations, their detestable things, with it They took the silver and gold God gave them and made idols of it (Hos 2:8). Money itself is not evil, but the love of it is a root of evils (1 Tim 6:10).
7:22 they shall profane My treasured place The temple, God's own house. The people thought He would never let it be touched, but He would turn His face away. A building, even a holy one, cannot protect people who have turned from God (Jer 7:4).
7:23 Make the chain Chains for prisoners led into exile. They filled the land with bloodshed, and now they would be led away bound.
7:24 I will bring the evil ones of the nations God was not approving Babylon. He used a wicked nation to judge His people and would later judge Babylon too (Jer 25:12; Hab 1-2). He can use evil people for His purposes without being the author of their evil.
7:26 they shall seek a vision from a prophet, and the law shall perish from the priest In crisis people turn to spiritual leaders, but there would be no vision, no instruction and no counsel. The false prophets had promised peace (13:10).
7:27 by their judgments I will judge them God judged them by the standards they used on others (Matt 7:2). A greater end is coming when Christ returns. For believers that day is not terror but hope (Titus 2:13), and it should send us to those who do not know Him.
8:1 in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month About 592 B.C., a little over a year after Ezekiel's call (1:2), likely during the days of lying on his side (chapter 4). The elders of the exiles came hoping for a word about going home. They got a word, but not the one they wanted.
8:2 a likeness like the appearance of fire The same figure Ezekiel saw on the throne (1:26-27). The One enthroned by the Chebar now comes to Ezekiel in his own house.
8:3 brought me to Jerusalem in visions of God Ezekiel's body most likely stayed in his house with the elders, for afterward he tells them what he saw (11:24-25). He was carried in vision, the way Paul was caught up (2 Cor 12:2-4).
8:4 the glory of the God of Israel was there God's glory was still in His house. In chapters 9-11 we will watch it leave, step by step.
8:5 this image of jealousy Ezekiel does not name the idol. Many think it was an image of Asherah, the Canaanite mother goddess. Manasseh had set one in the temple (2 Kgs 21:7), and Josiah removed it (2 Kgs 23:6). An idol in God's house was like another lover brought into the marriage home (Exod 20:4-5).
8:6 to be far from My sanctuary Their sin was driving God away from His own house. And this was only the beginning.

And yet you will again see great abominations." 7 And He brought me to the entrance of the court, and I looked, and look, one hole in the wall. 8 And He said to me, "Son of man, dig, please, in the wall." And I dug in the wall, and look, one entrance. 9 And He said to me, "Go in and see the evil abominations which they are doing here." 10 And I went in and looked, and look, every form of moving thing and beast, a detestable thing, and all the idols of the house of Israel, carved on the wall all around, all around. 11 And seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, and Jaazaniah (Ya'azanyahu) the son of Shaphan (Shafan) standing in their midst, were standing before them, each man with his censer in his hand, and the fragrance of the cloud of the incense was going up. 12 And He said to me, "Have you seen, son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the darkness, each man in the rooms of his carved image? For they are saying, 'The LORD does not see us; the LORD has forsaken the land.'" 13 And He said to me, "You will again see great abominations which they are doing."

Weeping for Tammuz and Bowing to the Sun

14 And He brought me to the entrance of the gate of the house of the LORD which was toward the north; and look, there the women were sitting, weeping for the Tammuz. 15 And He said to me, "Have you seen, son of man? You will again see great abominations, more than these." 16 And He brought me to the inner court of the house of the LORD, and look, at the entrance of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, their backs toward the temple of the LORD and their faces eastward; and they were bowing down eastward to the sun. 17 And He said to me, "Have you seen, son of man? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah to do the abominations which they have done here, that they have filled the land with violence and have turned back to provoke Me to anger? And look, they are putting the branch to their nose. 18 And I also will act in rage; My eye shall not pity, and I will not spare; and they shall call in My ears with a loud voice, and I will not hear them."

The Mark on the Foreheads

1 And He called in my ears with a loud voice, saying, "Draw near, O punishments of the city, each man with his weapon of destruction in his hand." 2 And look, six men were coming from the direction of the upper gate which faces north, each man with his weapon of shattering in his hand; and one man in their midst was clothed in linen, and the writing case of the scribe was at his hips. And they came and stood beside the bronze altar. 3 And the glory of the God of Israel (Yisra'el) was taken up from the cherub on which it had been, to the threshold of the house; and He called to the man clothed in linen, at whose hips was the writing case of the scribe. 4 And the LORD said to him, "Pass through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and mark a mark on the foreheads of the men who sigh and who groan over all the abominations which are done in its

8:8 dig, please, in the wall Some sin is hidden behind walls where people think no one is watching. Nothing is hidden from God (Heb 4:13). He shows us our hidden sin, not to shame us, but so we can bring it into the light and be forgiven (1 John 1:7-9).
8:10 every form of moving thing and beast Animal forms on the walls sound much like the gods of Egypt, and Judah's leaders were looking to Egypt for help against Babylon.
8:11 seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel Seventy elders once went up Sinai with Moses and saw the God of Israel (Exod 24:9-11). Now seventy burned incense to carvings. Jaazaniah may be a son of Shaphan, the scribe who read the found book of the law to Josiah (2 Kgs 22:8-10), whose family protected Jeremiah (Jer 26:24). A godly father does not guarantee a godly son.
8:12 The LORD does not see us; the LORD has forsaken the land Two lies people still tell: God does not see what I do in private, and God has let me down, so I will look elsewhere. He who formed the eye sees (Ps 94:9). God had not forsaken them; they had forsaken Him.
8:14 the women were sitting, weeping for the Tammuz Tammuz was a Mesopotamian god of crops and spring growth who in the myths died each year, and his worshipers wept for him in the dry summer. They mourned a god who could not keep himself alive at the gate of the God who gives rain and harvest (Deut 11:13-15).
8:16 their backs toward the temple of the LORD and their faces eastward The worst of all. Between the porch and the altar was where priests wept and prayed for the people (Joel 2:17). The temple faced east, so to worship the sun they turned their backs on God's presence. Many think these men were priests; twenty-four courses plus the high priest makes twenty-five (1 Chr 24).
8:17 they have filled the land with violence Idolatry and violence go together. When people turn from God, they soon turn on each other. No one is sure what putting the branch to the nose meant, perhaps a pagan rite or an insulting gesture toward God. Either way it was the final insult.
8:18 they shall call in My ears with a loud voice, and I will not hear them A time comes when God stops listening to those who refused to listen to Him (Prov 1:24-28; Jer 11:11). Not because He is cruel, but because they waited until judgment had come. Today is the time to call on Him.
9:1 Draw near, O punishments of the city God called with a loud voice, the same loud voice the people would cry with and not be heard (8:18).
9:2 six men were coming from the direction of the upper gate Heavenly beings often look like men in Ezekiel's visions (40:3). These are best taken as angels carrying out judgment, like the destroyer at the Passover (Exod 12:23). In history the judgment came through Babylon. They stood by the bronze altar, so the place of sacrifice became the place where judgment began.
9:2 one man in their midst was clothed in linen Linen was priestly clothing (Lev 16:4), and the writing case held pen and ink. He came to record and mark, not destroy. Many see a high angel like the one Daniel saw (Dan 10:5-6); some believe he is the Son of God before His incarnation.
9:3 the glory of the God of Israel was taken up from the cherub The first step in the glory's departure. It had rested above the cherubim over the ark (Exod 25:22). Now it moves to the threshold. God is getting ready to leave.
9:4 the men who sigh and who groan over all the abominations The mark is taw, the last Hebrew letter, written like an X or small cross in the old script, a striking picture though we build no doctrine on it. Not those who said the right words, but those grieved by sin were marked, as at the Passover (Exod 12:13) and in Revelation (Rev 7:3). Have we grown used to what is wrong around us?

midst." 5 And to these He said in my ears, "Pass through the city after him, and strike; let not your eye pity, and do not spare. 6 Old man, young man and virgin, and little ones and women, kill to destruction; and do not come near any man on whom is the mark; and begin at My sanctuary." And they went out and struck in the city. 8 And it was, as they were striking, and I was left, that I fell on my face and cried out and said, "Ah, Lord GOD! EZEKIEL 10

The Glory Over the Threshold

1 And I looked, and look, in the expanse which was over the head of the cherubim, like a sapphire stone, like the appearance of the likeness of a throne, it appeared above them. 2 And He spoke to the man clothed in the linen, and He said, "Go in between the whirling wheels, under the cherub, and fill the hollows of your hands with coals of fire from between the cherubim, and scatter them over the city." And he went in before my eyes. 3 And the cherubim were standing on the south of the house when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court. 4 And the glory of the LORD rose from on the cherub to the threshold of the house; and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the glory of the LORD. 5 And the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when He speaks. 6 And it was, when He commanded the man clothed in the linen, saying, "Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim," that he went in and stood beside the wheel. 7 And the cherub stretched out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire which was between the cherubim, and lifted some and put it into the hollows of the hands of the one clothed in the linen; and he took it and went out. 8 And there appeared on the cherubim the form of the hand of a man under their wings.

The Wheels and the Cherubim

9 And I looked, and look, four wheels beside the cherubim, one wheel beside one cherub, and one wheel beside one cherub; and the appearance of the wheels was like the appearance of a chrysolite stone. 10 And as for their appearance, the four of them had one likeness, as it would be, the wheel in the midst of the wheel. 11 When they went, they went on their four sides; they did not turn when they went; for to the place where the head turned, they went after it; they did not turn when they went. 12 And all their flesh, and their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels were full of eyes all around; the four of them had their

9:6 Old man, young man and virgin, and little ones and women This is a vision of what Babylon would do in 586 B.C. (2 Chr 36:17), after centuries of warning (Jer 7:1-15). The Judge of all the earth does right (Gen 18:25). No one marked was touched. I believe little children who die are safe with God, as David believed of his child (2 Sam 12:23).
9:6 begin at My sanctuary Judgment began where the worst sins were done and with the elders who had the most light (8:11-16). Judgment begins at the house of God (1 Pet 4:17), and those who lead will give an account (Jas 3:1).
9:7 Make the house unclean, and fill the courts with slain A corpse made anything unclean (Num 19:11-16). The people had already defiled the temple with idols. The house they trusted would not protect them.
9:8 Are You destroying all the remnant of Israel Ezekiel fell on his face and pleaded, as Moses did after the golden calf and Abraham did for Sodom (Exod 32:11-14; Gen 18:22-33). A true prophet hates the sin and loves the sinner. Anyone who speaks of judgment without tears has not understood it (Luke 19:41).
9:9 The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is very, very great God names bloodshed and perversity, sins of people against people, alongside idolatry (22:6-12). Their excuse is the same lie as 8:12: God is gone and blind.
9:10 their way I will put on their head They said God did not see; now they would learn He saw everything. Ezekiel's prayer was not wasted. A marked remnant was spared, and God would gather and restore them (11:16-20).
9:11 I have done according to all that You commanded me The man in linen did not miss one of God's people. In Israel's worst day God did not lose track of a single one of His own (2 Tim 2:19; John 10:28). If you belong to Christ, you are sealed with His Spirit, and He will not lose you.
10:1 like the appearance of the likeness of a throne Ezekiel sees again the platform and sapphire throne of 1:22-26, and now he calls the living creatures by their right name, cherubim.
10:2 fill the hollows of your hands with coals of fire from between the cherubim The hands that marked the faithful now scatter fire on the city. Altar fire can purify, as with Isaiah's lips (Isa 6:6-7), or consume. This pictured the burning of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. (2 Kgs 25:9). The fire came first from God's presence.
10:3 the cherubim were standing on the south of the house The idols and sun worshipers were on the north and east (8:3-16). God's presence stood apart from them.
10:4 the house was filled with the cloud At Solomon's dedication the cloud filled the house so that priests could not minister (1 Kgs 8:10-11). Ezekiel sees the glory fill the house once more, but now it is getting ready to go.
10:5 like the voice of God Almighty when He speaks The roar of the wings (1:24) was like God's own voice. Heaven was moving.
10:7 the cherub stretched out his hand The cherub handed the fire to the man. Judgment was not random violence. It came from God's holy presence, in His time, by His command. The cherubim's hands (10:8) show they are workers who carry out His will.
10:12 the wheels were full of eyes all around Now their whole bodies are covered with eyes. The leaders said the LORD does not see (8:12). His throne sees everything.

wheels. 13 As for the wheels, it was called to them in my ears, "The whirling wheel." 14 And each one had four faces: the face of the one was the face of the cherub, and the face of the second was the face of a man, and the third was the face of a lion, and the fourth was the face of an eagle. 15 And the cherubim rose up. That was the living creature which I had seen by the river Chebar (Kevar). 16 And when the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them; and when the cherubim lifted up their wings to rise from on the earth, the wheels also did not turn from beside them. 17 When they stood still, they stood still; and when they rose up, they rose up with them; for the spirit of the living creature was in them. 18 And the glory of the LORD went out from on the threshold of the house and stood over the cherubim. 19 And the cherubim lifted up their wings and rose from the earth before my eyes when they went out, and the wheels were close beside them; and it stood at the entrance of the east gate of the house of the LORD, and the glory of the God of Israel (Yisra'el) was over them, above. 20 That was the living creature which I had seen under the God of Israel by the river Chebar; and I knew that they were cherubim. 21 Each one had four faces apiece, and each one had four wings, and the likeness of the hands of a man was under their wings. 22 And as for the likeness of their faces, they were the faces which I had seen by the river Chebar, their appearance and themselves; each one went in the direction of its face.

Judgment on the Leaders

1 And a spirit lifted me up and brought me to the east gate of the house of the LORD, which faces eastward; and look, at the entrance of the gate were twenty-five men; and I saw in their midst Jaazaniah (Ya'azanya) the son of Azzur (Azur) and Pelatiah (Pelatyahu) the son of Benaiah (Benayahu), officials of the people. 2 And He said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who devise mischief and who counsel evil counsel in this city, 3 who say, 'It is not near, to build houses. It is the pot, and we are the flesh.' 4 Therefore prophesy against them; prophesy, son of man." 5 And the Spirit of the LORD fell on me, and He said to me, "Say, 'Thus says the LORD: So you have said, O house of Israel (Yisra'el); and the things that come up in your spirit, I know them. 6 You have multiplied your slain in this city, and you have filled its streets with slain. 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Your slain whom you have put in its midst, they are the flesh, and it is the pot; and you, I will bring out from its midst. 8 You have feared a sword, and a sword I will bring on you, declares the Lord GOD. 9 And I will bring you out from its midst and give you into the hand of strangers, and I will execute judgments on you. 10 By the sword you shall fall; at the border of Israel I will judge you; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 11 It shall not be a pot for you, and you shall not be flesh in its midst; at the border of Israel I will judge you. 12 And you shall know that I am the LORD, in whose statutes you have not walked, and whose judgments you have not done; and according to the judgments of the nations that are around

10:13 The whirling wheel The word can mean a whirlwind or something rolling swiftly, the speed and power of God's throne in motion. The throne leaving Jerusalem is the same one that came to Ezekiel in Babylon. God went to be with His people in exile (11:16).
10:14 the face of the one was the face of the cherub In 1:10 the faces were man, lion, ox and eagle. Most think the ox face is what Ezekiel here calls the cherub's face, though Scripture does not explain the change.
10:15 That was the living creature which I had seen by the river Chebar The moment of recognition. Beside the place where golden cherubim stood over the ark, Ezekiel understood what he had seen.
10:18 the glory of the LORD went out from on the threshold of the house Step by step the glory left: from the Most Holy Place to the threshold (9:3; 10:4), to the cherubim, to the east gate (10:19), and then to the mountain east of the city (11:23). It is as if God left slowly, looking back. Israel pushed God out of His house with idols, and He let them have what they wanted.
10:19 it stood at the entrance of the east gate of the house of the LORD The glory left by the east gate, and in chapter 43 it returns from the east by the same gate (43:2-5). Between leaving and returning, the glory came in Jesus (John 1:14). Rejected, He too left the temple for the Mount of Olives (Matt 23:38; 24:1-3), and He will return there (Acts 1:11-12; Zech 14:4).
10:20 I knew that they were cherubim One God and one throne. The God who met Ezekiel in exile was the God of the temple. It is possible to go on with religious activity long after God's presence has left (Rev 2:5). The temple still stood, but the house was empty.
11:1 Jaazaniah the son of Azzur and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, officials of the people At the east gate, where the glory had stopped (10:19), stood twenty-five leaders. This Jaazaniah is a different man from the son of Shaphan (8:11).
11:2 the men who devise mischief and who counsel evil counsel in this city While Jeremiah urged the king to submit to Babylon as God said (Jer 27:12-15), these men gave the opposite advice.
11:3 It is the pot, and we are the flesh The first half is read two ways: no danger is near, so no hurry to build; or a mocking reply to Jeremiah's letter telling the exiles to build houses (Jer 29:5). The pot is clearer. Jerusalem's walls would protect them, the choice meat, while the exiles were the scraps thrown out.
11:5 the things that come up in your spirit, I know them God knew not only their public words but their private thoughts (Ps 139:1-4).
11:6 You have multiplied your slain in this city These leaders were killers, likely through corrupt courts, oppression of the poor and silencing opponents, as Jehoiakim killed the prophet Uriah (Jer 26:20-23).
11:7 they are the flesh, and it is the pot God turns their saying around. The only meat staying in the pot would be the bodies of their victims. The leaders themselves would be dragged out.
11:8 You have feared a sword, and a sword I will bring on you What they feared most came. Hiding behind the walls would not save them.
11:10 at the border of Israel I will judge you Fulfilled exactly. Zedekiah, his sons and many leaders were taken to Riblah at Israel's far northern border and killed there (2 Kgs 25:6-7, 18-21).
11:12 according to the judgments of the nations that are around you, you have done Their problem was not just bad politics. They threw away God's law and copied the pagans.

14 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 15 "Son of man, your brothers, your brothers, the men of your redemption, and all the house of Israel, all of it, are those to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) have said, 'Be far from the LORD; to us it has been given, the land, for a possession.' 16 Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

The Exile Acted Out

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, you are dwelling in the midst of the house of rebellion, who have eyes to see and do not see, ears to hear and do not hear; for they are a house of rebellion. 3 And you, son of man, make for yourself baggage of exile, and go into exile by day before their eyes; and you shall go into exile from your place to another place before their eyes. 11:13 Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died He seems to have died in Jerusalem at that very moment, and the exiles would later hear and know Ezekiel's word was true. His name means something like the LORD delivers. Ezekiel may have feared it meant no remnant at all, so he fell on his face and cried out. God's answer is no; there will be a remnant, but not where they expected.
11:15 the men of your redemption Ezekiel's true family were the exiles, the ones a kinsman-redeemer would buy back. Those left in Jerusalem said the exiles were far from God and the land was theirs. It is dangerous to look at others' suffering and decide God has rejected them and blessed us (Luke 13:1-5).
11:16 I have become to them a sanctuary for a little while One of the most tender verses in Ezekiel. The exiles lost the temple, but God Himself became their sanctuary. The phrase can also mean in a small measure, real but not yet complete. Believers are now God's temple, and His Spirit dwells in us (John 4:21-24; 1 Cor 3:16).
11:17 I will give you the soil of Israel Fulfilled in part in 538 B.C. under Cyrus (Ezra 1:1-4), after which Israel never returned to idolatry as before. But that return was small. I believe the full gathering is still ahead, when God brings Israel home at Christ's return (36:24; 37:21-28; Rom 11:26-29).
11:19 I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh Israel's problem was never a lack of laws or temples but hard hearts (2:4; 3:7). God does not say try harder. He says I will give, I will put, I will remove (36:26-27). One heart means undivided, not split between God and idols.
11:20 so that they may walk in My statutes Obedience follows the new heart; it does not produce it. They shall be My people is the covenant promise (Exod 6:7; Jer 31:33). The new covenant was made with Israel and Judah and will be kept with the nation, while all who come to Christ share its blessings now (Luke 22:20). Have you been given a new heart?
11:21 their way I will put on their head The new heart is offered but not forced on those who keep running after idols. The invitation is real, and so is the warning.
11:23 stood over the mountain which is on the east of the city The Mount of Olives. The glory left the temple, then the city, and paused looking back. There Jesus later wept over Jerusalem, taught of His return and ascended (Luke 19:37-41; Matt 24:3; Acts 1:9-12), and there His feet will stand when He returns (Zech 14:4).
11:25 I spoke to the exiles all the words of the LORD Ezekiel told the elders everything. That is still the shape of the gospel: bad news first, then good news. Sin and judgment are real, and God gives a new heart to all who turn to Him.
12:2 who have eyes to see and do not see, ears to hear and do not hear Blind and deaf in heart, not body (Deut 29:4). The message was not unclear; they did not want to obey it. People often say they do not understand the Bible when they understand it well enough and dislike what it says.
12:3 Perhaps they will see God had just said they would not see, yet He still says perhaps. He never stops reaching out to rebels (2 Pet 3:9). Baggage of exile was the small bundle a captive could carry: a bowl, a blanket, a bit of food.
12:5 dig for yourself in the wall Babylonian houses were mud brick, so a man could dig through by hand.
12:6 I have made you a portent to the house of Israel A portent is a sign pointing ahead to what will happen. Ezekiel's own actions were the message.

Israel (Yisra'el)." 7 And I did so, as I was commanded: my baggage I brought out like baggage of exile by day, and in the evening I dug for myself in the wall with my hand; in the dark I brought it out; on my shoulder I lifted it up before their eyes. 8 And the word of the LORD came to me in the morning, saying, 9 "Son of man, have not the house of Israel, the house of rebellion, said to you, 'What are you doing?' 10 Say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: The prince is this burden in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and all the house of Israel who are in their midst.' 11 Say, 'I am your portent; as I have done, so it shall be done to them; into exile, into captivity they shall go.' 12 And the prince who is in their midst shall lift it up on his shoulder in the dark and go out; they shall dig in the wall to bring him out through it; he shall cover his face, because he shall not see the land with his eye, he himself. 13 And I will spread My net over him, and he shall be caught in My snare; and I will bring him to Babylon (Bavel), the land of the Chaldeans (Kasdim); and he shall not see it, and he shall die there. 14 And all who are around him, his help, and all his troops, I will scatter to every wind, and I will draw out a sword after them. 15 And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the lands. 16 And I will leave of them men few in number from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, so that they may recount all their abominations among the nations where they go; and they shall know that I am the LORD."

Bread With Trembling

17 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, you shall eat your bread in quaking, and you shall drink your water in trembling and in anxiety. 19 And you shall say to the people of the land, 'Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem on the soil of Israel: They shall eat their bread in anxiety and drink their water in horror, so that its land may be desolate from its fullness, because of the violence of all those dwelling in it. 20 And the inhabited cities shall be laid waste, and the land shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD.'"

No More Delay

21 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 22 "Son of man, what is this proverb that you have about the soil of Israel, saying, 'The days are prolonged, and every vision perishes'? 23 Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: I will make this proverb cease, and they shall not use it as a proverb again in Israel.' But speak to them, 'The days have drawn near, and the word of every vision.' 24 For there shall no longer be any vision of worthlessness and divination of flattery in the midst of the house of Israel. 25 For I, the LORD, will speak what I will speak, a word, and it shall be done; it shall not be delayed again; for in your days, O house of rebellion, I will speak a word and do it, declares the Lord GOD." 26 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 27 "Son of man, look, the house of Israel are saying, 'The vision that he sees is for many days, and for distant times he is prophesying.' 28 Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: None of My words shall be delayed again; what I speak, a word, it shall be done, declares the Lord GOD.'"

EZEKIEL 13

Against the False Prophets

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel (Yisra'el) who are prophesying, and say to the prophets from their heart,

12:7 Ezek 24:18; Ezek 37:7,10; Ezek 2:8

13:2 Jer 37:19; Ezek 22:25,28; Isa 9:15

12:7 I did so, as I was commanded A respected priest digging through his own wall and sneaking out at night must have looked mad. Obedience sometimes makes us look foolish (1 Cor 1:18). Are we willing to look foolish for God?
12:10 The prince is this burden in Jerusalem The word burden also means an oracle, a weighty message: a play on words. The prince was Zedekiah, called prince perhaps because the exiles still counted Jehoiachin as king (1:2).
12:12 he shall cover his face, because he shall not see the land with his eye Fulfilled in detail. In 586 B.C. Zedekiah fled by night through a gate between the walls (2 Kgs 25:4; Jer 39:4), was caught near Jericho, and at Riblah his sons were killed before him and his eyes put out (2 Kgs 25:5-7).
12:13 he shall not see it, and he shall die there It sounded like a riddle until 586 B.C. Zedekiah went to Babylon blind. The net was God's, not only Babylon's. Zedekiah had broken an oath sworn in God's name (17:13-19; 2 Chr 36:13), and he could not outrun God.
12:14 I will scatter to every wind When Zedekiah fled, his army scattered (2 Kgs 25:5).
12:16 so that they may recount all their abominations among the nations God spared a few so they could tell the nations why this happened: we sinned and God judged us. Even judgment made Him known.
12:18 you shall eat your bread in quaking Ezekiel ate with shaking hands, as people would in the besieged city when every meal might be the last.
12:19 because of the violence of all those dwelling in it The land would be stripped because the people filled it with injustice. Fear is a fruit of sin (Gen 3:10). Those at peace with God through Christ need not live in terror (1 John 4:18).
12:22 The days are prolonged, and every vision perishes The prophets had warned for years, and Jerusalem still stood. The delay made people careless.
12:24 divination of flattery Divination was seeking the future by omens such as animal livers or the flight of birds, which the law forbade (Deut 18:10-12). The false prophets told people what they wanted to hear.
12:25 in your days, O house of rebellion, I will speak a word and do it Not in some distant generation, but in their lifetime. People say the same of Christ's return (2 Pet 3:3-4), and the answer is the same: God is not slow but patient, and the day will come (2 Pet 3:9-10).
12:27 for distant times he is prophesying A second excuse: it may happen someday, but not to me. Within about five years Jerusalem fell, and these very exiles heard the news (33:21). Both sayings lead to doing nothing. Now is the time to respond (2 Cor 6:2).
13:2 the prophets from their heart Many prophets spoke in Jerusalem and among the exiles; Jeremiah named some who prophesied lies in God's name (Jer 29:21-23, 31). Their messages came from their own minds, not from God.

'Hear the word of the LORD! 3 Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the foolish prophets who walk after their spirit and have not seen! 4 Like foxes among ruins your prophets have been, O Israel. 5 You have not gone up into the breaches, and have not built up a wall around the house of Israel, to stand in the battle in the day of the LORD. 6 They have seen worthlessness and divination of a lie, who say, "Declares the LORD," and the LORD has not sent them; and they have hoped to confirm a word. 7 Have you not seen a vision of worthlessness, and spoken a divination of a lie, and you are saying, "Declares the LORD," and I have not spoken? 8 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have spoken worthlessness and seen a lie, therefore, look, I am against you, declares the Lord GOD. 9 And My hand shall be against the prophets who see worthlessness and who divine a lie; they shall not be in the council of My people, and in the register of the house of Israel they shall not be written, and into the soil of Israel they shall not enter; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD. 10 Because, even because they have led My people astray, saying, "Peace," and there is no peace; and he is building a wall, and look, they are plastering it with whitewash; 11 say to those who plaster with whitewash that it shall fall: a flooding rain will come, and you, O stones of hail, shall fall, and a wind of tempests shall burst it. 12 And look, the wall has fallen; will it not be said to you, "Where is the coating with which you plastered it?" 13 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I will cause a wind of tempests to burst forth in My rage, and there shall be a flooding rain in My anger, and stones of hail in rage for a complete end. 14 And I will tear down the wall which you plastered with whitewash, and bring it down to the ground, and its foundation shall be laid bare; and it shall fall, and you shall be consumed in its midst; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 15 And I will spend My rage on the wall and on those who plastered it with whitewash; and I will say to you, "The wall is no more, and those who plastered it are no more, 16 the prophets of Israel who prophesy concerning Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and who see for it a vision of peace, and there is no peace," declares the Lord GOD.'

Against the False Prophetesses

17 And you, son of man, set your face against the daughters of your people who prophesy from their heart, and prophesy against them, 18 and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the women who sew bands on all the joints of the hands, and who make the veils on the head of every stature, to hunt souls! 13:22 Jer 23:14; Ezek 9:4; Jer 4:10

13:3 Woe to the foolish prophets who walk after their spirit and have not seen Foolish in Scripture does not mean unintelligent. It means living as if God does not matter (Ps 14:1). They may have been clever and persuasive, but they spoke without God.
13:4 Like foxes among ruins Foxes or jackals live in rubble. They build nothing and make the damage worse. The false prophets lived off Israel's ruins instead of helping rebuild.
13:5 You have not gone up into the breaches When an enemy broke a wall, brave men rushed into the gap to hold it. A true prophet stands in the gap by calling for repentance and praying (22:30). These men left the walls broken and said the city was safe.
13:6 they have hoped to confirm a word They used God's name to sound official, and some may have believed their own lies. A person can be sincere and sincerely wrong. The law's tests were plain (Deut 18:21-22; 13:1-5), and they failed both.
13:9 in the register of the house of Israel they shall not be written Three penalties: no seat in the council, no name in the family records (Ezra 2:59-62), and no return to the land. They promised others a quick return and would never return themselves.
13:10 saying, "Peace," and there is no peace The heart of the charge. No need to repent or fear Babylon, they said. Jeremiah faced the same men (Jer 6:14). Someone built a flimsy wall, and the prophets painted it white so it looked solid.
13:11 a flooding rain will come God's storm would bring the wall down, and people would ask what happened to all the promises. Jesus told of houses built on rock and sand (Matt 7:24-27). The difference is hearing His words and doing them.
13:14 you shall be consumed in its midst The wall would fall on the men who painted it.
13:16 who see for it a vision of peace, and there is no peace A warning for teachers today. People gather teachers who tell them what itching ears want (2 Tim 4:3-4). Listeners must test the spirits (1 John 4:1) and check teaching against Scripture (Acts 17:11). If someone tells you what you want to hear, check it twice.
13:17 the daughters of your people who prophesy from their heart God does not condemn them for being women. Scripture names faithful prophetesses such as Miriam, Deborah and Huldah (Exod 15:20; Judg 4:4; 2 Kgs 22:14). These were condemned, like the men, for being false.
13:18 who sew bands on all the joints of the hands The exact items are uncertain. Most think the bands and veils were magic charms used in fortune telling or spells, to trap people.
13:19 for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread They sold out God's people for a meal. Their words frightened those right with God and promised safety to those who were not.
13:20 I will set free the souls God speaks as the rescuer of trapped birds and still calls them My people. In Christ we are free (John 8:36; Gal 5:1). No charm, curse or spell has power over those who belong to Him.
13:22 you have disheartened the heart of the righteous with falsehood They discouraged the righteous and encouraged the wicked, exactly backwards. True teaching comforts the repentant and warns the unrepentant. A message that says you can keep sinning and be safe, or that the repentant can never be forgiven, is not from God.

hands of the wicked, so that he does not turn back from his evil way, to keep him alive, 23 therefore you shall not see worthlessness, and you shall not divine divination again; and I will deliver My people from your hand; and you shall know that I am the LORD.'"

Idols in the Heart

1 And men from the elders of Israel (Yisra'el) came to me, and they sat before me. 2 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 3 "Son of man, these men have brought up their idols on their heart, and the stumbling block of their iniquity they have put before their faces. Should I indeed let Myself be consulted by them? 4 Therefore speak with them, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Any man of the house of Israel who brings up his idols to his heart, and puts the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and comes to the prophet, I, the LORD, will let Myself answer him, as he comes with the multitude of his idols, 5 so as to seize the house of Israel by their heart, who have become estranged from Me by their idols, all of them.' 6 Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Turn back, and turn yourselves away from your idols, and from all your abominations turn away your faces. 7 For any man of the house of Israel and of the sojourner who sojourns in Israel, who separates himself from after Me and brings up his idols to his heart, and puts the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and comes to the prophet to consult him about Me, I, the LORD, will let Myself answer him by Myself. 8 And I will set My face against that man, and I will make him a sign and bywords, and I will cut him off from the midst of My people; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 9 And the prophet, if he is deceived and speaks a word, I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet; and I will stretch out My hand against him and destroy him from the midst of My people Israel. 10 And they shall bear their iniquity; like the iniquity of the one consulting, like the iniquity of the prophet it shall be, 11 so that the house of Israel may no longer wander from after Me, and may no longer make themselves unclean with all their transgressions; and they shall be a people to Me, and I will be God to them, declares the Lord GOD.'"

Noah, Daniel and Job

12 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 13 "Son of man, a land, if it sins against Me by acting unfaithfully with unfaithfulness, and I stretch out My hand against it, and I break the staff of bread for it, and I send famine on it, and I cut off from it man and animal, 14 and these three men are in its midst, Noah (Noach), Daniel (Daniyel), and Job (Iyov), they by their righteousness will deliver their own life, declares the Lord GOD. 15 If I cause evil beasts to pass through the land, and they bereave it, and it becomes a desolation, without anyone passing through because of the beasts, 16 and these three men are in its midst, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they will deliver neither sons nor daughters; they alone will be delivered, and the land will be a desolation. 17 Or if I bring a sword on that land, and I say, 'Let a sword pass through the land,' and I cut off from it man and animal, 18 and these three men are in its midst, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they will not deliver sons and daughters, for they alone will be delivered. 19 Or if I send pestilence into that land, and I pour out My rage on it in blood, to cut off from it man and animal, 20 and Noah, Daniel, and Job are in its midst, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they will deliver neither son nor daughter; they by their righteousness will

14:1 men from the elders of Israel came to me, and they sat before me Leaders of the exiles came to hear from God. On the outside it looked good, but God saw what Ezekiel could not.
14:3 these men have brought up their idols on their heart They may have had no idol on a shelf, but they had one in the heart. An idol of the heart is anything we love, trust or serve more than God. One can attend worship and ask for prayer while something else holds first place (1 John 5:21). A stumbling block is something we keep looking at and tripping over.
14:5 so as to seize the house of Israel by their heart God would answer, but not with the comfort they wanted. His goal was to grab hold of their hearts and bring them home. Even His hard answers are meant to win back hearts.
14:6 Turn back, and turn yourselves away from your idols The Hebrew word for repent means to turn. You cannot face two directions at once. To turn to God is to turn your face away from idols.
14:8 I will make him a sign and bywords The same rule applied to Israelites and foreigners living among them. Such a man's judgment would be so plain that people would point to him as a warning.
14:9 I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet God cannot lie (Titus 1:2) and tempts no one (Jas 1:13). A prophet willing to give a pleasing word to a man with idols has already chosen the lie, and God gives him over to it (1 Kgs 22:19-23; 2 Thess 2:10-11; Rom 1:24-28).
14:10 like the iniquity of the one consulting, like the iniquity of the prophet it shall be Both would be judged alike. The one asking could not blame the prophet, and the prophet could not blame the one who asked.
14:11 they shall be a people to Me, and I will be God to them The judgment had a purpose: to bring His people back and restore the covenant.
14:14 Noah, Daniel, and Job Each stood firm in a hard time, and each one's righteousness touched others. Noah saved his family (Gen 6:9), Job prayed for his children and friends (Job 1:5; 42:8-10), and Daniel, Ezekiel's contemporary taken to Babylon in 605 B.C., was already famous for faithfulness (Dan 1:8-20; 28:3). Yet in a land as far gone as Judah they could save only themselves.
14:16 they will deliver neither sons nor daughters God would have spared Sodom for ten (Gen 18:32), but Jerusalem was past that point (Jer 15:1). Parents should pray for, teach and live before their children (Deut 6:6-7; Eph 6:4), but our children cannot be saved by our faith. They need their own.
14:20 they by their righteousness will deliver their own life Four judgments in all, the ones the law warned of (Lev 26:22-26). Their righteousness here means faithful lives before God, not earning salvation. Noah found favor with the LORD and was an heir of the righteousness that comes by faith (Gen 6:8; Heb 11:7).

The Useless Vine

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, what is the wood of the vine more than any tree, the vine branch which is among the trees of the forest? 3 Is wood taken from it to make anything for work? Or do they take from it a peg to hang any vessel on it? 4 Look, it is given to the fire for fuel; the fire consumes its two ends, and its middle is charred. Is it useful for work? 5 Look, when it was whole, it was not made for work; how much less, when fire has consumed it and it is charred, will it still be made for work! 6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'As the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so I have given the inhabitants of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 7 And I will set My face against them; from the fire they have come out, and the fire shall consume them; and you shall know that I am the LORD, when I set My face against them. 8 And I will make the land a desolation, because they have acted unfaithfully with unfaithfulness, declares the Lord GOD.'"

14:21 How much more when I send My four evil judgments If one judgment showed that the righteous could save only themselves, how much worse would all four be on Jerusalem.
14:22 look, they are coming out to you Some sons and daughters would survive and be brought to Babylon. When the exiles saw their wicked ways, they would understand why God judged the city, and their grief would be eased.
14:23 not without cause have I done all that I have done in it God never acts without a reason. We may not understand His judgments at first, but one day we will see that He was right in all He did (Rev 16:7).
15:2 what is the wood of the vine more than any tree Israel as God's vine runs through the Old Testament (Ps 80:8-11; Isa 5:1-7). But God asks Ezekiel to think of the vine as wood. Next to oak or cedar, a grapevine's wood is worth nothing.
15:3 do they take from it a peg to hang any vessel on it Vine wood is twisted, soft and thin, too weak even for a peg. A vine has one purpose, to bear fruit. God did not choose Israel for greatness (Deut 7:7) but to bear fruit for Him before the nations.
15:4 the fire consumes its two ends, and its middle is charred If useless before, it is more useless burned. Many see the two burned ends as earlier judgments, the north in 722 B.C. and Judah's deportations in 605 and 597 B.C., leaving a charred Jerusalem.
15:6 so I have given the inhabitants of Jerusalem God's own explanation. Jerusalem is the vine wood, and He has given it to the fire.
15:7 from the fire they have come out, and the fire shall consume them They came through the fire of 597 B.C. and thought they were safe, but the fire of 586 B.C. would finish the work. Jesus is the true vine who never failed (John 15:1, 5), and we bear fruit only by staying joined to Him.
15:8 they have acted unfaithfully with unfaithfulness The doubled word shows how deep it went, the language of betrayed trust in a marriage, painted in full in chapter 16. God asks not that we be impressive but faithful and fruitful (Gal 5:22-23; John 15:16). If there is little fruit, the answer is not to try harder alone but to come back to the vine.
16:2 make Jerusalem know her abominations This long chapter tells Jerusalem's history as a parable: an abandoned baby, a royal bride, an unfaithful wife. It is meant to make the people see their sin as God sees it. The language is strong on purpose, and I will keep these notes plain.
16:3 your father was the Amorite, and your mother a Hittite Israel was proud to be Abraham's children, but Jerusalem was a Canaanite city long before David took it (2 Sam 5:6-9), and its people had come to act like their pagan neighbors. This is about spiritual family, not race (John 8:39-44).
16:4 on the day you were born your navel cord was not cut A newborn was normally washed, rubbed with salt and wrapped in cloths. This baby received none of that care.
16:5 you were thrown out on the face of the field In the ancient world unwanted babies were sometimes left in the open to die. Jerusalem had nothing to offer and did not earn God's love. She was helpless and dying when He found her.
16:6 Live God says it twice. No one else cared, and God gave life with a word. That is how He saves every one of us. We were dead in sins, and God, rich in mercy, made us alive (Eph 2:1-5). We did not find God; He found us.
16:8 I spread My skirt over you When she was grown, God took her as His bride. Spreading a garment's corner over someone was a sign of marriage and protection (Ruth 3:9). Marriage is a covenant (Mal 2:14), and this points to the covenant at Sinai (Exod 19:5; 24:7-8). God's people are often pictured as His bride (Isa 54:5; Eph 5:25-27).

ered your nakedness; and I swore to you and entered into a covenant with you, declares the Lord GOD, and you became Mine. 9 And I washed you with water, and washed off your blood from you, and anointed you with oil. 10 And I clothed you with embroidered cloth, and shod you with leather, and wrapped you with fine linen, and covered you with silk. 11 And I adorned you with ornaments, and I put bracelets on your hands and a chain on your neck. 12 And I put a ring on your nose, and earrings on your ears, and a crown of splendor on your head. 13 And you adorned yourself with gold and silver, and your clothing was fine linen and silk and embroidered cloth; fine flour and honey and oil you ate. And you were exceedingly, exceedingly beautiful, and you prospered into kingship. 14 And your name went out among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect because of My majesty which I had put on you, declares the Lord GOD.

Jerusalem's Unfaithfulness

15 And you trusted in your beauty, and you acted as a prostitute because of your name, and you poured out your prostitutions on everyone who passed by; let it be his. 16 And you took some of your clothes and made for yourself high places of many colors, and you acted as a prostitute on them; such things have not come, and it shall not be. 17 And you took the articles of your splendor, from My gold and from My silver which I had given you, and made for yourself images of a male, and you acted as a prostitute with them. 18 And you took your embroidered clothes and covered them, and My oil and My incense you set before them. 19 And My food which I had given you, fine flour and oil and honey with which I fed you, you set it before them for a soothing aroma; and it happened, declares the Lord GOD. 20 And you took your sons and your daughters whom you had borne to Me, and you sacrificed them to them to be devoured. Were your prostitutions too little? 21 And you slaughtered My sons, and gave them, by making them pass over to them. 22 And in all your abominations and your prostitutions you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare; kicking about in your blood you were. 23 And it came about after all your wickedness, woe, woe to you, declares the Lord GOD, 24 that you built for yourself a mound, and made for yourself a lofty place in every square. 25 At every head of a road you built your lofty place, and you made your beauty abominable, and you spread your feet to everyone who passed by, and you multiplied your prostitutions. 26 And you acted as a prostitute with the sons of Egypt (Mitsrayim), your neighbors, great of flesh; and you multiplied your prostitution to provoke Me to anger. 27 And look, I stretched out My hand against you, and I diminished your allotted portion, and I gave you to the desire of those who hate you, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd way. 28 And you acted as a prostitute with the sons of Assyria (Ashur), because you were not satisfied; and you acted as a prostitute with them, and still you were not satisfied. 29 And you multiplied your prostitution to the land of merchants, to the Chaldeans (Kasdim), and even with this you were not satisfied. 30 How weak is your heart, declares the Lord GOD, when you do all these, the deeds of a woman, an imperious prostitute, 31 when you built your mound at the head of every road, and made your lofty place in every square! And you were not like the prostitute, in scorning hire. 32 O wife who commits adultery, who instead of her husband takes strangers! 33 To all prostitutes they give a gift, and you, you have given your gifts to all your lovers, and you have bribed them to come to you from all around in your prostitutions. 34 And in you there was the opposite from the women in your prostitutions, in that after you there was no prostituting, and in your giving hire, while hire was not given to you; and you became the opposite.

Judgment on the Unfaithful Wife

16:13 you prospered into kingship Washed, clothed in fine linen and silk and adorned with jewelry, she grew into royal splendor, a picture of Israel under David and Solomon (1 Kgs 10:14-27).
16:14 it was perfect because of My majesty which I had put on you The Queen of Sheba came to see it (1 Kgs 10:1-9). But all Jerusalem's beauty came from God. She had nothing that was not given.
16:15 you trusted in your beauty Jerusalem began to trust the gifts instead of the Giver. Pride came first, then unfaithfulness. Scripture pictures idolatry as adultery because giving worship to another god is like a wife giving herself to another man.
16:17 from My gold and from My silver which I had given you Notice the repeated My. Everything she used for idols belonged to God. Our time, money, talents and bodies are His gifts. Using them to serve something else is doing what Jerusalem did.
16:20 you took your sons and your daughters whom you had borne to Me The worst of all was child sacrifice, especially to Molech, which God strictly forbade (Lev 18:21; Deut 18:10), yet Ahaz and Manasseh did it (2 Kgs 16:3; 21:6). When people turn from God the weakest suffer most. I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
16:22 you did not remember the days of your youth She forgot she had been a dying baby whom God saved. Forgetting God's grace is often where unfaithfulness begins.
16:24 a lofty place in every square Idolatry was no longer hidden. It stood on every street corner.
16:26 the sons of Egypt, your neighbors The unfaithfulness also means political alliances. Judah's kings kept running to Egypt, Assyria and Babylon for help (Isa 30:1-3; 31:1), trusting their armies and taking on their gods instead of trusting the LORD.
16:28 because you were not satisfied Three times God says she was not satisfied. Sin always promises satisfaction and never gives it. Only God satisfies the soul (Ps 107:9; John 4:13-14).
16:30 How weak is your heart Her sin was not strength but weakness, a heart that could not stay faithful.
16:31 you were not like the prostitute, in scorning hire A prostitute is paid, but Jerusalem paid her lovers, sending tribute to foreign kings. We pay a high price to serve things that give us nothing back (Isa 55:2).

36 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness was uncovered in your prostitutions with your lovers, and because of all the idols of your abominations, and according to the blood of your sons whom you gave to them, 37 therefore look, I am gathering all your lovers to whom you were pleasing, and all whom you loved, along with all whom you hated; and I will gather them against you from all around, and I will uncover your nakedness to them, and they shall see all your nakedness. 38 And I will judge you with the judgments of adulteresses and of those who shed blood, and I will make you blood of rage and jealousy. 39 And I will give you into their hand, and they shall tear down your mound, and your lofty places shall be broken down, and they shall strip you of your clothes, and they shall take the articles of your splendor, and they shall leave you naked and bare. 40 And they shall bring up an assembly against you, and they shall stone you with stones, and they shall cut you to pieces with their swords. 41 And they shall burn your houses with fire, and they shall execute judgments on you before the eyes of many women; and I will make you cease from being a prostitute, and also you shall no longer give hire. 42 And I will cause My rage to rest on you, and My jealousy shall turn away from you, and I will be quiet and will no longer be angry. 43 Because you did not remember the days of your youth, and you raged against Me in all these things, so also I, look, I have put your way on your head, declares the Lord GOD; and did you not do the lewdness on top of all your abominations?

Worse Than Sodom and Samaria

44 Look, everyone who speaks a proverb shall speak a proverb about you, saying, "Like her mother, her daughter." 45 You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her sons; and you are the sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their sons. Your mother was a Hittite, and your father an Amorite. 46 And your older sister is Samaria (Shomron), she and her daughters, who dwell at your left; and your sister who is younger than you, who dwells at your right, is Sodom (Sedom) and her daughters. 47 And you did not walk in their ways, and not according to their abominations did you do, as if that were a very little thing; and you acted more corruptly than they in all your ways. 48 As I live, declares the Lord GOD, Sodom your sister, she and her daughters, has not done as you have done, you and your daughters. 49 Look, this was the iniquity of Sodom your sister: pride, fullness of bread, and the ease of quietness were hers and her daughters'; and the hand of the poor and the needy she did not strengthen. 50 And they were haughty, and they did abomination before Me; and I removed them when I saw it. 51 And Samaria has not sinned half of your sins; and you have multiplied your abominations more than they, and you have justified your sisters by all your abominations which you have done. 52 You also, bear your disgrace, you who have mediated for your sisters by your sins in which you have acted more abominably than they; they are more righteous than you. And you also, be ashamed and bear your disgrace, in your justifying your sisters. 53 And I will turn back their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, and the captivity of your captivities in their midst, 54 so that you may bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all that you have done, in your comforting them. 55 And your sisters, Sodom and her daughters, shall return to their former state, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former state, and you and your daughters shall return to your former state. 56 And Sodom your sister was not a report in your mouth in the day of your pride, 57 before your wickedness was uncovered, as at the time of the reproach of the daughters of Syria (Aram) and all those 16:38 I will judge you with the judgments of adulteresses and of those who shed blood Under the law both adultery and murder carried death (Lev 20:10; Num 35:16-21). Jerusalem was guilty of both, spiritual adultery through idols and bloodshed through child sacrifice. God's jealousy is the holy love of a betrayed husband (Exod 34:14).

16:39 I will give you into their hand The nations she courted would turn on her. Babylon would tear down the shrines and strip the city bare. This is a picture of the fall of a city. It is not a pattern for how any man may treat his wife and gives no excuse for abuse (Eph 5:25; 1 Pet 3:7).
16:41 I will make you cease from being a prostitute Stoning came from the law's penalty for adultery, and the fire was the burning of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. The judgment would end her idolatry, and after the exile the Jews never again fell into idol worship as before.
16:42 I will be quiet and will no longer be angry God's anger has an end. When justice is done, His anger is satisfied.
16:44 Like her mother, her daughter Jerusalem had become just like the pagan family she came from.
16:46 your older sister is Samaria Facing east, left is north and right is south. Samaria, capital of the north, was the bigger sister; Sodom, south by the Dead Sea, the smaller. Both stood for wickedness.
16:47 you acted more corruptly than they in all your ways Jerusalem was worse than Samaria, whom Judah despised, and worse than Sodom itself. A stunning charge.
16:49 pride, fullness of bread, and the ease of quietness Many think of only one sin when they think of Sodom. Ezekiel names pride, excess, ease, and neglect of the poor. These do not seem great sins to many of us, but God names them with Sodom's (Jas 5:1-5; 1 John 3:17).
16:50 they did abomination before Me This points back to the sins Genesis 19 describes, which Jude calls sexual immorality (Jude 7). Pride and neglect of the poor stand together with that abomination; Scripture keeps both in view.
16:51 you have justified your sisters Jerusalem had more light: the temple, priests, prophets and law. To whom much is given, much is required (Luke 12:48). Her sin made her sisters look righteous by comparison.
16:53 I will turn back their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters Sodom was never rebuilt, so teachers read this two ways. Some take it as a humbling comparison: Jerusalem's restoration would be as much pure grace as Sodom's. Others see the future kingdom, when even the Dead Sea region is healed (47:8-11).

An Everlasting Covenant

59 For thus says the Lord GOD: And I will do with you as you have done, you who have despised an oath by breaking a covenant. 60 And I Myself will remember My covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish for you an everlasting covenant. 61 And you shall remember your ways and be ashamed, when you receive your sisters, those older than you along with those younger than you; and I will give them to you for daughters, and not by your covenant. 62 And I Myself will establish My covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the LORD, 63 so that you may remember and be ashamed, and there may no longer be to you an opening of the mouth because of your disgrace, when I make atonement for you for all that you have done, declares the Lord GOD.'"

The Two Eagles and the Vine

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, pose a riddle and speak a parable to the house of Israel (Yisra'el), 3 and you shall say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: The great eagle, great of wings, long of pinion, full of plumage, which had many colors, came to Lebanon (Levanon) and took the top of the cedar. 4 It plucked off the top of its young shoots and brought it to a land of merchants; in a city of traders it set it. 5 And it took some of the seed of the land and put it in a field of seed; it took it beside many waters; as a willow it set it. 6 And it sprouted and became a spreading vine, low of stature, its branches turning toward it, and its roots were under it; and it became a vine, and produced shoots, and sent out boughs. 7 And there was one great eagle, great of wings and abundant of plumage; and look, this vine bent its roots toward it, and sent out its branches toward it, for it to water it, from the beds of its planting. 8 In a good field, by many waters, it was planted, to produce limbs and to bear fruit, to become a majestic vine.' 9 Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Will it prosper? Will he not pull up its roots and strip off its fruit, and it withers? All the fresh leaves of its sprouting will wither; and not by a great arm and by many people, to lift it up from its roots. 10 And look, it is planted; will it prosper? 16:59 you who have despised an oath by breaking a covenant Jerusalem broke the Sinai covenant and would bear the penalty.

16:60 I Myself will remember My covenant with you in the days of your youth After sixty verses of sin comes one of Scripture's most beautiful turns. She did not remember (16:22, 43), but God remembers. If we are faithless, He remains faithful (2 Tim 2:13). The everlasting covenant is the new covenant (Jer 31:31-34; 37:26), promised to Israel and to be fulfilled for the nation (Rom 11:26-27), whose blessings believers share now (Luke 22:20).

16:61 not by your covenant Not on the basis of the Sinai covenant she broke, but by God's grace. Samaria and Sodom will be given to her as daughters.

16:63 when I make atonement for you for all that you have done Atonement is the covering of sin so a sinner can be brought back to God (Lev 17:11). God Himself will do it, for all she has done. Her shame is the shame of a forgiven sinner overwhelmed by grace, who stops making excuses. The chapter that began with an abandoned baby ends with a forgiven bride.

17:2 pose a riddle and speak a parable to the house of Israel A riddle has a hidden meaning that makes the hearer think; a parable is a picture standing for something else. Jesus taught the same way and explained His parables to His disciples (Matt 13:10-17). The best explanation is the one God gives, here in 17:11-21.

17:3 The great eagle The king of birds, strong and proud, with wide wings picturing a wide empire. This is Nebuchadnezzar (17:12). Lebanon's cedars were the wood of palaces (1 Kgs 7:2), and here they stand for David's royal house in Jerusalem.

17:4 It plucked off the top of its young shoots and brought it to a land of merchants King Jehoiachin, who reigned three months before being taken to Babylon in 597 B.C. (2 Kgs 24:8-15). Babylon was a great trading city.

17:5 it took some of the seed of the land Not a foreign tree but a man of the royal family: Zedekiah, Jehoiachin's uncle, whom Nebuchadnezzar made king (2 Kgs 24:17).

17:6 a spreading vine, low of stature The cedar became a low vine. Judah would live and even prosper, but as a humble vassal turned toward Babylon.

17:7 this vine bent its roots toward it The second eagle is Egypt under Pharaoh (17:15). Planted in good soil with all it needed, the vine stretched toward another eagle. We do the same when we stretch our roots toward something else we think will make us stronger (Phil 4:11).

17:9 Will it prosper The exiles hoped Egypt would save Jerusalem. God's answer is no. Babylon would pull up the vine by the roots.

17:10 when the east wind touches it The hot, dry desert wind could wither crops in a day. Babylon, the power of the east, would blow over Judah like that wind.

17:13 made a covenant with him, and brought him into an oath Zedekiah swore loyalty to Nebuchadnezzar in the LORD's name (2 Chr 36:13). Taking away the strong leaders kept Judah weak but alive. Had Zedekiah kept his oath, the kingdom would have stood (17:14).

17:15 sending his messengers to Egypt, to give him horses and many people Egypt was famous for horses, and God had long warned Israel's kings not to go back there for them (Deut 17:16). Three questions follow, and the answer to each is no.

The Soul Who Sins Shall Die

17:16 with him in the midst of Babylon he shall die Fulfilled exactly. Zedekiah was blinded and taken to Babylon, where he died a prisoner (2 Kgs 25:7; Jer 52:11).
17:17 not with a great army and with a large assembly will Pharaoh deal with him Pharaoh's army did march out during the siege, and Babylon lifted the siege briefly, but Egypt went home and the siege resumed (Jer 37:5-8).
17:18 he had given his hand To give the hand was to pledge oneself. God praises the one who keeps his oath even when it hurts (Ps 15:4). A believer's yes should mean yes (Matt 5:37).
17:19 My oath which he despised and My covenant which he broke Zedekiah thought he was breaking a treaty with a pagan king. Because he swore by God's name, God counted it as breaking an oath to Him.
17:20 I will spread My net over him Babylon's army caught Zedekiah, but it was God's net (12:13).
17:22 I Myself will take from the top of the high cedar and set it Now God does the planting. From David's royal line He will take a tender shoot. I believe this is the Messiah, Jesus, the shoot from Jesse's stump and the Branch (Isa 11:1; 53:2; Jer 23:5; Zech 6:12).
17:23 On the mountain of the height of Israel I will plant it Mount Zion (20:40). The low, withered vine of Zedekiah is replaced by a majestic cedar sheltering every bird, the nations finding rest under Messiah's rule (Matt 13:32). I believe its fullest fulfillment is Christ's reign from Jerusalem in the millennial kingdom.
17:24 bring low a high tree, raise up a low tree The trees of the field are the kings and nations. God brings down the proud and lifts the humble (Luke 1:52). The kings of Judah failed, but God's promise to David cannot be broken (2 Sam 7:16; Ps 89:34-37; Luke 1:32).
18:2 Fathers eat sour grapes, and the teeth of the sons are blunted Unripe grapes set the teeth on edge. The saying meant: our fathers sinned and we are paying for it. Jeremiah heard it too (Jer 31:29-30). There was some truth in it, for judgment came partly for Manasseh's sins (2 Kgs 24:3-4), but the people used that truth to hide behind.
18:3 you shall no longer have occasion to speak this proverb in Israel God swears by His own life to end this excuse.
18:4 all the souls are Mine Every person belongs to God, father and son alike, and He deals with each one. Soul, nephesh, means the whole living person. The death first in view was death in the coming judgment. Since all have sinned (Rom 3:23), every soul is in trouble, but the chapter, like the gospel, does not stop there.
18:6 he has not eaten on the mountains He did not join the feasts at hill shrines (6:13) or look to idols. The righteous life covers worship, sexual purity and the treatment of neighbors.
18:7 returns his pledge for a debt A poor man's pledge might be his only cloak, which the law said must be returned by sundown (Exod 22:26-27). The righteous man also feeds the hungry and clothes the naked (Matt 25:35-36).
18:8 does not lend at interest Israelites were not to charge interest to a poor brother (Lev 25:35-37). Taking advantage of another's need is not righteousness.
18:9 he is righteous; he shall surely live Not life earned by works. The list begins with turning from idols to the LORD, a heart turned to Him in faith (Gen 15:6; Hab 2:4), and the rest shows what that faith looks like (Jas 2:21-23). We are saved by grace through faith, not from works, yet created for good works (Eph 2:8-10).

return a pledge, and has lifted up his eyes to the idols, has done abomination, 13 has lent at interest, and has taken increase; shall he then live? He shall not live. He has done all these abominations; he shall surely be put to death; his blood shall be on him. 14 And look, if he fathers a son, and he sees all the sins of his father which he did, and he sees and does not do like them, 15 he has not eaten on the mountains, and has not lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, has not defiled the wife of his neighbor, 16 and has not oppressed anyone, has not taken a pledge, and has not committed robbery, has given his bread to the hungry, and has covered the naked with clothing, 17 has turned his hand back from the poor, has not taken interest and increase, has done My judgments, has walked in My statutes, he shall not die for the iniquity of his father; he shall surely live. 18 His father, because he practiced extortion, committed robbery against a brother, and did what is not good among his people, look, he shall die for his iniquity. 19 And you say, 'Why does the son not bear the iniquity of the father?' And the son has done justice and righteousness, has kept all My statutes and done them; he shall surely live. 20 The soul that sins, it shall die. A son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, and a father shall not bear the iniquity of the son; the righteousness of the righteous shall be on him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be on him.

Turn and Live

21 And the wicked, if he turns away from all his sins which he has done, and keeps all My statutes, and does justice and righteousness, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 22 All his transgressions which he has done shall not be remembered against him; by his righteousness which he has done he shall live. 23 Do I indeed take pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord GOD? Is it not in his turning back from his ways, that he may live? 24 And when a righteous one turns away from his righteousness and does injustice, according to all the abominations which the wicked one does, he does, shall he live? All his acts of righteousness which he has done shall not be remembered; for his unfaithfulness with which he has acted unfaithfully, and for his sin which he has sinned, for them he shall die. 25 And you say, 'The way of the Lord is not right.' Hear now, O house of Israel: Is My way not right? Is it not your ways that are not right? 26 When a righteous one turns away from his righteousness and does injustice, and dies for them, for his injustice which he has done he shall die. 27 And when a wicked one turns away from his wickedness which he has done, and does justice and righteousness, he shall keep his soul alive. 28 And he sees and turns away from all his transgressions which he has done; he shall surely live; he shall not die. 29 And the house of Israel says, 'The way of the Lord is not right.' Are My ways not right, O house of Israel? Is it not your ways that are not right? 30 Therefore, each man according to his ways, I will judge you, O house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD. Turn back, and turn yourselves away from all your transgressions, and it shall not be a stumbling block of iniquity to you. 31 Throw away from you all your transgressions by which you have transgressed, and make for yourselves a new heart and a new spirit; and why will you die, O house of Israel? 32 For I do not take pleasure in the death of the one who dies, declares the Lord GOD; and turn yourselves away, and live!"

18:13 his blood shall be on him The violent son of a righteous father bears his own guilt. Hezekiah was followed by Manasseh, and Josiah by evil sons (2 Kgs 23:32, 37). A godly father does not make a godly son.
18:14 he sees all the sins of his father which he did, and he sees and does not do like them Good news for anyone raised in a home marked by sin. Your father's sins need not become yours. Josiah was Manasseh's grandson and became one of Judah's best kings.
18:19 Why does the son not bear the iniquity of the father A strange question. They had built their complaint on suffering for their fathers, and God says each person answers for himself.
18:20 A son shall not bear the iniquity of the father Moses taught the same for human courts (Deut 24:16). God's visiting the fathers' sin on later generations is said of those who hate Him (Exod 20:5): when sons follow fathers' sins, judgment grows. His mercy reaches thousands (Exod 20:6). Only once did the Righteous One bear others' sins, by His own will (Isa 53:6; 2 Cor 5:21).
18:21 the wicked, if he turns away from all his sins which he has done The door of hope. The wicked man is not trapped by his past.
18:22 All his transgressions which he has done shall not be remembered against him God does not keep a file of old sins to pull out later (Jer 31:34). Turning to God is repentance, and the new life that follows is its proof.
18:23 Do I indeed take pleasure in the death of the wicked Some picture God waiting for us to slip so He can strike. He takes no pleasure in anyone's death (1 Tim 2:4; 2 Pet 3:9). If you have been away from God, He is not waiting to crush you. He is waiting for you to come home.
18:24 All his acts of righteousness which he has done shall not be remembered Many in Judah counted on their past, the temple and their descent from Abraham. A past record will not shield one living in sin now. As at 3:20, this speaks of Israel under the old covenant and the coming judgment, not of a believer losing salvation (John 10:28). One who walks away entirely shows he never truly belonged (1 John 2:19).
18:25 The way of the Lord is not right First they said God punished sons for fathers; now they call it unfair that He judges each by his own path. God turns the charge back: their ways were the crooked ones. When we call God unfair, the problem is usually our own way.
18:28 he sees and turns away from all his transgressions Repentance begins when we see our sin for what it is, as the grandson saw his father's (18:14).
18:30 each man according to his ways, I will judge you Not only as a nation or family, but each one. The Hebrew word for turn, shub, is the great Old Testament word for repentance: a full turn from sin to God.
18:31 make for yourselves a new heart and a new spirit How can a man make himself a new heart? Ezekiel answers later: God gives it (11:19; 36:26). God commands, and God gives the power to obey (Phil 2:12-13). Why will you die is not a cold verdict but a plea.
18:32 turn yourselves away, and live The chapter began with a proverb of blame and ends with an invitation, repeated with an oath in 33:11. The exiles thought they were victims and nothing they did mattered. God says your turning matters, and His door is open.

A Lament for the Princes of Israel

1 "And you, take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel (Yisra'el), 2 and you shall say, 'What was your mother? A lioness! Among lions she lay down; in the midst of young lions she reared her cubs. 3 And she brought up one of her cubs; he became a young lion, and he learned to tear prey; he devoured men. 4 And nations heard about him; he was caught in their pit, and they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim). 5 And she saw that she had waited, that her hope was lost, and she took one of her cubs; she made him a young lion. 6 And he went about among lions; he became a young lion, and he learned to tear prey; he devoured men. 7 And he knew his widows, and laid waste their cities; and the land and its fullness was desolate from the sound of his roaring. 8 And nations set themselves against him all around from the provinces, and they spread their net over him; he was caught in their pit. 9 And they put him in the cage with hooks, and brought him to the king of Babylon (Bavel); they brought him into strongholds, so that his voice would no longer be heard on the mountains of Israel. 10 Your mother was like the vine in your blood, planted by waters; fruitful and full of boughs she was, because of many waters. 11 And it had rods of strength for scepters of rulers, and its stature was lofty among the thick foliage, and it was seen in its height with the abundance of its branches. 12 And it was plucked up in rage; it was thrown down to the ground, and the east wind dried up its fruit; they were torn off and dried up, its rod of strength; fire consumed it. 13 And now it is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty land. 14 And fire has gone out from the rod of its shoots; it has consumed its fruit, and there is not in it a rod of strength, a scepter to rule.' It is a lamentation, and it has become a lamentation."

Israel's History of Rebellion

1 And it came about in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, that men from the elders of Israel (Yisra'el) came to consult the LORD, and they sat before me. 2 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 3 "Son of man, speak with the elders of Israel, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you coming to consult Me? As I live, I will not let Myself be consulted by you, declares the Lord GOD.' 4 Will you judge them? Will you judge, son of man? 20:7 Acts 7:39; Lev 18:3; Deut 29:16-18

19:1 take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel A funeral song for the last kings of David's line in Jerusalem. Ezekiel usually calls them princes (12:10). God's judgment is never cold. These were David's sons, given the throne God promised David, and they threw it away.
19:2 What was your mother? A lioness Most see the mother as Judah or the royal house; some think of Hamutal, mother of Jehoahaz and Zedekiah (2 Kgs 23:31; 24:18). The lion was the emblem of Judah (Gen 49:9). Living among the nations, she raised her cubs to rule like them.
19:3 he learned to tear prey; he devoured men The first cub is Jehoahaz, made king when Josiah was killed in 609 B.C. (2 Kgs 23:30-32).
19:4 they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt After three months Pharaoh Neco took Jehoahaz captive to Egypt, where he died (2 Kgs 23:33-34; Jer 22:10-12).
19:5 she took one of her cubs; she made him a young lion Many believe the second cub is Jehoiachin, carried to Babylon in 597 B.C. (2 Kgs 24:8-15). Others think of Jehoiakim, whose long violent reign fits the roaring (2 Chr 36:6).
19:7 he knew his widows, and laid waste their cities A hard phrase. It may mean he made widows by killing their husbands, or seized what belonged to others.
19:9 they put him in the cage with hooks, and brought him to the king of Babylon Babylonian carvings show captive kings led by hooks and kept in cages. These heirs of David had every advantage but learned to tear prey like the nations and ended in a cage. Power without God always ends badly.
19:10 Your mother was like the vine in your blood, planted by waters The picture changes to the vine of chapters 15 and 17, fruitful with strong branches.
19:11 it had rods of strength for scepters of rulers The strong branches were kings, lofty among the nations.
19:12 the east wind dried up its fruit The rage is God's anger and the east wind is Babylon (17:10). The vine was torn up and burned.
19:13 now it is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty land Ezekiel's hearers were already there. Babylon was the wilderness, far from the many waters of home.
19:14 fire has gone out from the rod of its shoots The fire came from one of its own branches, most likely Zedekiah, whose rebellion brought Babylon down on the city. After him no son of David sat on the throne in Jerusalem for nearly six hundred years. But God had not forgotten David. The throne waits for the One whose right it is (21:27; Luke 1:32).
20:1 in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month About 591 B.C., five years before Jerusalem fell. The elders came to consult the LORD again, as in 14:1.
20:3 I will not let Myself be consulted by you They wanted a word from God while keeping idols in their hearts (14:1-5). So God answers with their history instead.
20:4 Make them know the abominations of their fathers Ezekiel is to act as a judge and bring the charges. The elders had to see that they were part of a long pattern of rebellion.
20:5 I lifted up My hand to the seed of the house of Jacob To lift up the hand was to swear an oath. The chapter traces four stages: Egypt, the wilderness, the second generation and the land.
20:7 do not make yourselves unclean with the idols of Egypt Exodus says little of Israel's idolatry in Egypt, but the golden calf shows how deep it went (Exod 32:4; Josh 24:14).

detestable things of his eyes, and do not make yourselves unclean with the idols of Egypt; I am the LORD your God." 8 And they rebelled against Me, and they were not willing to listen to Me; each man did not throw away the detestable things of their eyes, and the idols of Egypt they did not forsake. And I said I would pour out My rage on them, to complete My anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. 9 And I acted for the sake of My name, so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations in whose midst they were, before whose eyes I had made Myself known to them, in bringing them out from the land of Egypt. 10 And I brought them out from the land of Egypt, and I brought them into the wilderness. 11 And I gave them My statutes, and My judgments I made known to them, which the man shall do, and he shall live by them. 12 And also My Sabbaths I gave to them, to be a sign between Me and them, to know that I am the LORD who sanctifies them. 13 And the house of Israel rebelled against Me in the wilderness; in My statutes they did not walk, and My judgments they rejected, which the man shall do, and he shall live by them; and My Sabbaths they greatly profaned. And I said I would pour out My rage on them in the wilderness, to make an end of them. 14 And I acted for the sake of My name, so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations before whose eyes I had brought them out. 15 And also I lifted up My hand to them in the wilderness, not to bring them into the land which I had given, flowing with milk and honey; it is a beauty to all the lands, 16 because they rejected My judgments, and My statutes, they did not walk in them, and My Sabbaths they profaned; for their heart was walking after their idols. 17 And My eye looked with pity on them, from destroying them, and I did not make an end of them in the wilderness. 18 And I said to their sons in the wilderness, "Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers, and do not keep their judgments, and do not make yourselves unclean with their idols. 19 I am the LORD your God; walk in My statutes, and keep My judgments, and do them, 20 and keep My Sabbaths holy, and they shall be a sign between Me and you, to know that I am the LORD your God." 21 And the sons rebelled against Me; in My statutes they did not walk, and My judgments they did not keep, to do them, which the man shall do, and he shall live by them; My Sabbaths they profaned. And I said I would pour out My rage on them, to complete My anger against them in the wilderness. 22 And I turned back My hand, and I acted for the sake of My name, so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations before whose eyes I had brought them out. 23 Also I lifted up My hand to them in the wilderness, to disperse them among the nations and to scatter them among the lands, 24 because they had not done My judgments, and they had rejected My statutes, and they had profaned My Sabbaths, and their eyes were after the idols of their fathers. 25 And also I gave them statutes that were not good, and judgments by which they shall not live. 26 And I made them unclean by their gifts, in their making everything that opens the womb pass through, so that I might make them desolate, so that they might know that I am the LORD.'

Rebellion in the Land

27 Therefore speak to the house of Israel, son of man, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Yet in this your fathers blasphemed Me, in their acting unfaithfully against Me with unfaithfulness. 28 And I brought them into the land which I had lifted up My hand to give to them, and they saw every high hill and every leafy tree, and they sacrificed there their sacrifices, and they presented there the provocation of their offering, and they made there their soothing aroma, and they poured out there their drink offerings. 29 And I said to them, "What is the high place to which

20:29 Ezek 16:24,25,31

20:9 I acted for the sake of My name The key to the chapter. God spared Israel not because they deserved it but because of who He is, so His name would not be dishonored among the nations. That is the only reason any of us are spared (Titus 3:5).
20:11 which the man shall do, and he shall live by them God's law was good and pointed to life. Paul quotes this to show the difference between law and faith (Gal 3:12; Rom 10:5). No sinner could keep it perfectly, so it drives us to grace.
20:12 My sabbaths I gave to them, to be a sign between Me and them The Sabbath was the sign of God's covenant with Israel (Exod 31:13). Believers differ on how it applies today; Christ is our rest (Col 2:16-17; Heb 4:9-10).
20:13 the house of Israel rebelled against Me in the wilderness The wilderness generation refused His statutes, and God barred them from the land (Num 14:28-35).
20:17 My eye looked with pity on them Even in judgment there was pity. He fed them with manna and raised up their children.
20:18 Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers God gave the children a chance to be different, but at Baal-peor they fell into the same sins (Num 25:1-3). Three times God held back His wrath for His name's sake. That is long-suffering love.
20:23 to disperse them among the nations Even before Israel entered the land, God warned that idolatry would lead to exile (Lev 26:33; Deut 28:64). The exile was not a surprise. It was the end of a long road.
20:25 I gave them statutes that were not good One of the hardest verses in Ezekiel. God never commanded child sacrifice; He forbade it in the strongest terms (Lev 18:21; Deut 12:31). Most read it as God giving them over to the pagan customs they chose (Ps 81:12; Acts 7:42; Rom 1:24-28). Others see His good law twisted by sin into a snare (Rom 7:10), or His sentences of judgment.
20:26 in their making everything that opens the womb pass through These are the words of God's law of the firstborn (Exod 13:12), which Israel twisted into child sacrifice. All readings agree this is judgment: God handed a rebellious people over to their own choices. The worst thing He can do to one who keeps pushing Him away is to let him have his way.
20:28 they saw every high hill and every leafy tree Instead of worshiping at the place God chose, they sacrificed wherever the pagans did.
20:29 its name has been called Bamah to this day A bamah was a hilltop shrine or raised platform. God's question may hold a wordplay: what is this high place you go to? The name stuck, and so did the sin.

you are going?" And its name has been called Bamah to this day.' 30 Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you making yourselves unclean in the way of your fathers? And are you acting as prostitutes after their detestable things? 31 And in lifting up your gifts, in making your sons pass through the fire, you are making yourselves unclean with all your idols to this day. And shall I let Myself be consulted by you, O house of Israel? As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not let Myself be consulted by you. 32 And what comes up on your spirit shall surely not happen, that which you are saying, "We will be like the nations, like the clans of the lands, to serve wood and stone."

A New Exodus

33 As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely with a strong hand and with an outstretched arm and with poured-out rage I will reign over you. 34 And I will bring you out from the peoples, and I will gather you from the lands in which you have been scattered, with a strong hand and with an outstretched arm and with poured-out rage. 35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and I will enter into judgment with you there face to face. 36 As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, declares the Lord GOD. 37 And I will make you pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant. 38 And I will purge from you the rebels and those who transgress against Me; from the land of their sojournings I will bring them out, and into the soil of Israel he shall not enter; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 39 And you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: Go, serve each man his idols; and afterward, if you are not listening to Me, and My holy name you shall no longer profane with your gifts and with your idols. 40 For on My holy mountain, on the mountain of the height of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, there all the house of Israel, all of it, shall serve Me in the land; there I will accept them, and there I will seek your contributions and the first of your offerings, with all your holy things. 41 As a soothing aroma I will accept you, when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the lands in which you have been scattered; and I will be sanctified in you before the eyes of the nations. 42 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the soil of Israel, into the land which I lifted up My hand to give to your fathers. 43 And you shall remember there your ways and all your deeds by which you have made yourselves unclean, and you shall loathe yourselves in your own faces for all your evils which you have done. 44 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I deal with you for the sake of My name, not according to your evil ways and according to your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD.'"

Fire in the South

45 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 46 "Son of man, set your face the way southward, and drip words toward the south, and prophesy against the forest of the field of the Negeb (Negev). 47 And you shall say to the forest of the Negeb, 'Hear the word of the LORD. Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am about to kindle a fire in you, and it shall consume in you every moist tree and every dry tree; the flaming flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. 48 And all flesh shall see that I, the LORD, have kindled it; it shall not be quenched.'" 49 And I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! They are saying of me, 'Is he not speaking parables?'"

20:31 in making your sons pass through the fire The elders sitting in Ezekiel's house were doing the same as their fathers. That is why God would not answer them.
20:32 We will be like the nations In exile some were ready to stop being Israel and blend in. God says it will not happen. He would not let them go.
20:33 with a strong hand and with an outstretched arm and with poured-out rage I will reign over you The words of the exodus (Deut 4:34), now joined with rage. God will be King over Israel whether they like it or not.
20:34 I will gather you from the lands in which you have been scattered The peoples and lands are plural. This reaches beyond the return from Babylon to a worldwide gathering. I believe it will happen at Christ's return, after the Tribulation (Jer 30:7; Matt 24:29-31).
20:35 the wilderness of the peoples As God judged their fathers in the wilderness of Egypt (20:36), He will judge Israel personally, face to face, as the nation is gathered (Zech 13:9; Mal 3:3).
20:37 I will make you pass under the rod A shepherd counted his sheep one by one under his staff, as with the tithe of the flock (Lev 27:32). God will examine each one. The bond of the covenant is the new covenant (Jer 31:31-34).
20:38 I will purge from you the rebels Not every Israelite will enter the kingdom. The rebels will be removed, and the rest brought into the land as a people who know the LORD (Rom 11:26). Some read these verses as fulfilled at the return from Babylon or in the church; I take the plain words as still ahead.
20:39 Go, serve each man his idols Bitter irony: if you will not listen, go ahead. But a day is coming when God's name will no longer be profaned.
20:40 on the mountain of the height of Israel The mountain where God plants the tender shoot (17:23). There all Israel will serve Him in the land.
20:41 As a soothing aroma I will accept you The law's phrase for offerings that pleased God (Lev 1:9). Here He accepts the people themselves. God will show Himself holy through them before the nations.
20:43 you shall loathe yourselves in your own faces When God restores them, they will see their sin clearly for the first time. Grace does not make us proud; it humbles us.
20:44 not according to your evil ways and according to your corrupt deeds The heart of the gospel in Ezekiel. God deals with us for His name's sake, not as our sins deserve (Ps 103:10).
20:46 prophesy against the forest of the field of the Negeb In the Hebrew Bible these verses begin chapter 21. From Babylon, south meant Judah and Jerusalem, as 21:2 explains.
20:47 every moist tree and every dry tree Green and dry mean everyone, righteous and wicked alike, caught in the coming fire (21:3-4). Jesus used a similar picture on the way to the cross (Luke 23:31).
20:49 Is he not speaking parables People brushed off Ezekiel's messages as stories. People still call God's Word myth so they need not obey it. Ezekiel's parables were not fairy tales. Every one came true.

EZEKIEL 21

The Sword of the LORD

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and drip words against the sanctuaries, and prophesy against the soil of Israel (Yisra'el), 3 and you shall say to the soil of Israel, 'Thus says the LORD: Look, I am against you, and I will bring out My sword from its sheath, and I will cut off from you the righteous and the wicked. 4 Because I have cut off from you the righteous and the wicked, therefore My sword shall go out from its sheath against all flesh from south to north. 5 And all flesh shall know that I, the LORD, have brought out My sword from its sheath; it shall not return again.' 6 And you, son of man, groan with the breaking of your loins, and with bitterness you shall groan before their eyes. 7 And it shall be, when they say to you, 'For what are you groaning?' that you shall say, 'Because of the report, for it is coming; and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall hang limp, and every spirit shall grow faint, and all knees shall go as water. Look, it is coming, and it shall happen, declares the Lord GOD.'" 8 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 9 "Son of man, prophesy, and you shall say, 'Thus says the Lord: Say, "A sword, a sword has been sharpened, and also polished; 10 in order to slaughter a slaughter it has been sharpened; in order that it may have lightning it has been polished. Or shall we rejoice? The scepter of my son despises every tree. 11 And he gave it to be polished, to be grasped in the palm; it has been sharpened, the sword, and it has been polished, to give it into the hand of the slayer."' 12 Cry out and wail, son of man, for it is against My people; it is against all the princes of Israel; thrown to the sword they are with My people; therefore strike your thigh. 13 For it has been tested; and what if even the scepter that despises shall not be? declares the Lord GOD. 14 And you, son of man, prophesy, and strike palm to palm, and let the sword be doubled, the third time, the sword of the slain; it is the sword of the great slain one, which surrounds them, 15 so that the heart may melt and the stumblings be multiplied; at all their gates I have set the slaughter of the sword. Ah! It is made for lightning, wrapped for slaughter. 16 Be sharp, go to the right; set yourself, go to the left, wherever your face is appointed. 17 And I also, I will strike My palm to My palm, and I will cause My rage to rest; I, the LORD, have spoken."

The King of Babylon at the Crossroads

18 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 19 "And you, son of man, make for yourself two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon (Bavel) to come; from one land both of them shall go out. And carve a marker; at the head of the way to a city carve it. 20 A way you shall make for the sword to come to Rabbah (Raba) of the sons of Ammon (Amon), and to Judah (Yehuda), into fortified Jerusalem. 21 For the king of Babylon has stood at the mother of the way, at the head of the two ways, to divine by divination; he has shaken the arrows, he has inquired of the teraphim, he has looked at the liver. 22 In his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem: to set battering rams, to open the mouth in killing, to raise the voice with a war cry, to set battering rams against the gates, to pour out a mound, to build a siege wall. 23 And it shall be to them like divining falsehood in their eyes; oaths of 21:2 set your face toward Jerusalem, and drip words against the sanctuaries This explains 20:46-48. The south was Jerusalem, the forest was the land of Israel, and the fire becomes a sword.

21:3 I will cut off from you the righteous and the wicked This seems to clash with chapter 18, but it does not. When war falls on a nation, it falls on all, as Daniel and Ezekiel themselves went into exile. Chapter 18 speaks of each person's standing before God. The righteous who died in the judgment were not condemned.
21:5 it shall not return again Once drawn, God's sword would sweep the land from south to north and not go back until its work was done.
21:6 groan with the breaking of your loins Ezekiel was to groan like a man doubled over in pain, so the people would ask why. A preacher of judgment should groan, not gloat.
21:7 every heart shall melt, and all hands shall hang limp When the news of Jerusalem's fall came, courage would fail completely.
21:9 A sword, a sword has been sharpened, and also polished The song of the sword, with short, sharp lines like blows. God prepared the sword and placed it in the slayer's hand, Nebuchadnezzar's.
21:10 The scepter of my son despises every tree Obscure, and translations differ. Most take it as the people's false hope: Shall we rejoice, since Judah's scepter (Gen 49:10) is greater than any rod? The sword treats it like any other stick. Others see God's rod of discipline despising every lesser rod.
21:12 it is against all the princes of Israel This time the sword was aimed not at Israel's enemies but at God's own people and leaders. Striking the thigh was a sign of grief (Jer 31:19).
21:14 strike palm to palm Not applause but a gesture of anger, a signal to attack. The doubled and tripled sword shows its relentless force.
21:16 wherever your face is appointed God speaks to the sword itself, sending it wherever He directs.
21:17 I also, I will strike My palm to My palm God Himself gives the signal. Judah heard gentle warnings for years and would not listen. Sometimes God speaks loudly because we would not hear Him softly.
21:19 make for yourself two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon to come Ezekiel drew a map with a fork in the road and a signpost. One way led to Rabbah of Ammon, the other to Jerusalem.
21:20 Rabbah of the sons of Ammon Rabbah was Ammon's capital east of the Jordan, where Amman, Jordan, stands today. Ammon and Judah had both plotted against Babylon (Jer 27:3).
21:21 he has shaken the arrows, he has inquired of the teraphim, he has looked at the liver Nebuchadnezzar sought omens at the fork. Marked arrows were shaken and one drawn; teraphim were household idols; Babylonian priests read the livers of sacrificed animals, and clay liver models have been found in Mesopotamia.
21:22 In his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem The favorable lot fell on Jerusalem. God condemns divination (Deut 18:10-12), but He rules even the lots of pagan kings (Prov 16:33).
21:23 it shall be to them like divining falsehood in their eyes Jerusalem would not believe the omen. They trusted their treaties and oaths, the very oaths Zedekiah had broken.

oaths are theirs; and he brings iniquity to remembrance, that they may be seized. 24 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have brought your iniquity to remembrance, in your transgressions being uncovered, so that your sins are seen in all your deeds, because you have been remembered, you shall be seized by the palm. 25 And you, O profane, wicked one, prince of Israel, whose day has come, in the time of the iniquity of the end, 26 thus says the Lord GOD: Remove the turban, and take off the crown; this shall not be this; exalt the low one, and bring low the exalted one. 27 A ruin, a ruin, a ruin I will make it; this also has not been, until he comes to whom the judgment belongs, and I will give it.

Against the Ammonites

28 And you, son of man, prophesy, and you shall say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the sons of Ammon and concerning their reproach,' and you shall say, 'A sword, a sword is drawn; for slaughter it is polished, to contain it, because of its lightning, 29 while they see worthlessness for you, while they divine a lie for you, to put you on the necks of the profane of the wicked, whose day has come, in the time of the iniquity of the end. 30 Put it back into its sheath! In the place where you were created, in the land of your origins, I will judge you. 31 And I will pour out My indignation on you; with the fire of My wrath I will blow on you, and I will give you into the hand of brutish men, craftsmen of destruction. 32 For the fire you shall be fuel; your blood shall be in the midst of the land; you shall not be remembered, for I, the LORD, have spoken.'"

The City of Bloodshed

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "And you, son of man, will you judge, will you judge the city of bloodshed? Then you shall make known to it all its abominations. 3 And you shall say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: A city shedding blood in its midst, so that its time comes, and it has made idols on itself to become unclean! 4 By your blood which you have shed you have become guilty, and by your idols which you have made you have become unclean; and you have brought your days near, and you have come to your years. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations and a derision to all the lands. 5 The ones near and the ones far from you shall deride you, unclean of name, great in turmoil. 6 Look, the princes of Israel (Yisra'el), each according to his arm, have been in you in order to shed blood. 7 Father and mother they have treated with contempt in you; toward the sojourner they have acted with oppression in your midst; fatherless and widow they have mistreated in you. 8 My holy things you have despised, and My Sabbaths you have profaned. 9 Men of slander have been in you in order to shed blood; and on the mountains they have eaten in you; lewdness they have done in your midst. 10 The nakedness of a father one has uncovered in you; the woman unclean in menstruation they have humiliated in you. 11 And a man has done abomination with the wife of his neighbor, and a man has made his daughter-in-law unclean with lewdness, and a man has humiliated his sister, the daughter of his father, in you. 12 A bribe they have taken in you in order to shed blood; interest and increase you have taken, and you have gained unjustly from your neighbors by oppression, and Me

21:24 your sins are seen in all your deeds Sin is never truly hidden; it will find us out (Num 32:23). The only safe place for sin is under the blood of Christ, where God covers it.
21:25 O profane, wicked one, prince of Israel Zedekiah, the last king of Judah, profane because he treated holy things, even his oath in God's name, as common.
21:26 Remove the turban, and take off the crown The word for turban is used of the high priest's turban (Exod 28:4), so some see both royal and priestly honor removed. Things would not stay as they are. God exalts the low and brings down the exalted (Luke 1:52).
21:27 until he comes to whom the judgment belongs, and I will give it A ruin three times over, the strongest way Hebrew can say it. The throne would stay overturned until One comes to whom it belongs. These words echo Jacob's blessing on Judah (Gen 49:10). I believe He is Jesus, the Son of David (Rom 1:3; Luke 1:32-33), the Lion of Judah who will reign as King of kings (Rev 5:5; 19:16).
21:28 concerning the sons of Ammon and concerning their reproach Ammon may have thought it escaped when Nebuchadnezzar chose Jerusalem first, and it mocked Judah's fall (25:3, 6). Its turn was coming.
21:29 while they divine a lie for you Ammon's own diviners told them they were safe. Their lies would not save them.
21:30 In the place where you were created, in the land of your origins, I will judge you Some read put it back into its sheath as a command to Ammon to stop resisting; others as Babylon's sword sheathed after its work. Israel went into exile and came back; Ammon would be judged in its own land.
21:32 you shall not be remembered Ammon was conquered and later absorbed by other peoples. The name survives in the city of Amman. Israel endures not because she was better but because God keeps His covenant with Abraham.
22:2 will you judge the city of bloodshed As in 20:4, Ezekiel brings the charges. Two sins run through the chapter: bloodshed, sin against people, and idols, sin against God.
22:4 you have brought your days near, and you have come to your years By her sins Jerusalem was hurrying her own judgment.
22:6 the princes of Israel, each according to his arm The kings used their power to kill. Manasseh filled Jerusalem with innocent blood (2 Kgs 21:16), and Jehoiakim killed the prophet Uriah (Jer 26:23).
22:7 Father and mother they have treated with contempt in you Many charges come straight from the law (Exod 20:12; 22:21-24). The sojourner, fatherless and widow were the people God told Israel to protect.
22:9 Men of slander have been in you in order to shed blood Lies and false witness were used to get people killed, as Jezebel did to Naboth (1 Kgs 21:10-13).
22:11 in you Verses 10-11 list sexual sins the law forbade (Lev 18:6-20; 20:10-21). Jerusalem had broken the very commands meant to keep families pure.
22:12 Me you have forgotten Bribes to condemn the innocent (Exod 23:8) and interest charged to the poor grew from this root. They had not forgotten that God existed; they still had the temple. They forgot Him in daily life. Forgetting God is where every other sin begins.

you have forgotten, declares the Lord GOD. 13 And look, I have struck My palm at your unjust gain which you have made, and at your blood which has been in your midst. 14 Will your heart endure, or will your hands be strong, in the days when I am dealing with you? I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will act. 15 And I will disperse you among the nations and scatter you among the lands, and I will make an end of your uncleanness from you. 16 And you shall be profaned through yourself in the eyes of the nations, and you shall know that I am the LORD.'"

Dross in the Furnace

17 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, the house of Israel has become dross to Me; all of them are bronze and tin and iron and lead in the midst of a furnace; dross of silver they have become. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because all of you have become dross, therefore look, I am gathering you into the midst of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim). 20 As the gathering of silver and bronze and iron and lead and tin into the midst of a furnace, to blow fire on it to melt it, so I will gather you in My anger and in My rage, and I will set you down and melt you. 21 And I will collect you and blow on you with the fire of My wrath, and you shall be melted in its midst. 22 Like the melting of silver in the midst of a furnace, so you shall be melted in its midst; and you shall know that I, the LORD, have poured out My rage on you."

No One in the Breach

23 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 24 "Son of man, say to it, 'You are a land that is not cleansed, not rained on in a day of indignation.' 25 A conspiracy of its prophets is in its midst, like a roaring lion tearing prey; they have devoured souls; treasure and precious things they take; its widows they have multiplied in its midst. 26 Its priests have done violence to My law and have profaned My holy things; between the holy and the common they have not made a distinction, and between the unclean and the clean they have not made it known; and from My Sabbaths they have hidden their eyes, and I am profaned in their midst. 27 Its officials in its midst are like wolves tearing prey, to shed blood, to destroy souls, in order to gain unjust gain. 28 And its prophets have plastered with whitewash for them, seeing worthlessness and divining a lie for them, saying, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' and the LORD has not spoken. 29 The people of the land have oppressed with oppression and robbed with robbery; and the poor and the needy they have mistreated, and the sojourner they have oppressed without justice. 30 And I sought from among them a man building a wall and standing in the breach before Me for the land, so that I would not destroy it; and I did not find one. 31 And I have poured out My indignation on them; with the fire of My wrath I have consumed them; their way I have put on their head, declares the Lord GOD."

22:13 I have struck My palm at your unjust gain God claps His hands in anger, as in 21:17.
22:14 Will your heart endure, or will your hands be strong They felt strong and secure. God asks whether their courage would hold when He dealt with them.
22:15 I will make an end of your uncleanness from you The exile would scatter them and also burn out their idolatry.
22:18 the house of Israel has become dross to Me Dross is the scum skimmed off when metal is melted. Israel was meant to be silver, precious to God, but had become waste metal.
22:19 I am gathering you into the midst of Jerusalem When Babylon came, people from all Judah fled into Jerusalem for safety. God says the city would be a furnace, not a refuge.
22:22 Like the melting of silver in the midst of a furnace Here the furnace shows there was no silver left, only dross. Elsewhere God uses refining fire to purify a remnant (Zech 13:9; Mal 3:3; 1 Pet 1:7).
22:24 not rained on in a day of indignation In a dry land rain was a sign of God's blessing (Deut 11:13-17). Now God goes through every class of leaders and people, and every group is guilty.
22:25 A conspiracy of its prophets The prophets should have been the nation's conscience. Instead they banded together to devour people for gain. The Greek Old Testament reads princes, but the SLB follows the Hebrew.
22:26 between the holy and the common they have not made a distinction The priests' job was to teach God's law and guard what was holy (Lev 10:10-11). When leaders stop teaching the difference, people stop seeing it.
22:27 Its officials in its midst are like wolves tearing prey The rulers were wolves. Jesus warned of wolves in sheep's clothing (Matt 7:15).
22:28 its prophets have plastered with whitewash for them The false prophets covered the officials' sins like whitewash over a cracked wall (13:10-16).
22:29 The people of the land have oppressed with oppression The common people followed their leaders. From top to bottom the nation was corrupt (Jer 5:1).
22:30 a man building a wall and standing in the breach before Me for the land Often called standing in the gap. Such a man would rebuild what sin broke down and pray for the people, as Moses stood in the breach after the golden calf (Ps 106:23; Exod 32:11-14). God still looks for people who will pray for their families and nations (Jas 5:16). Above all this points to Christ, who stood in the breach for us (Isa 59:16).
22:31 their way I have put on their head God speaks as if the judgment has already happened, so certain was it. Jerusalem fell because no one stood in the breach. We are saved because Someone did.
23:2 there were two women, the daughters of one mother The mother is the one nation of Israel, from which both kingdoms came when it divided about 930 B.C. Like chapter 16, this is a parable of unfaithfulness. Its language is strong, and I will keep these notes plain.

virginity. 4 And their names were Oholah (Ohola) the elder and Oholibah (Oholiva) her sister; and they became Mine, and they bore sons and daughters. And as for their names: Samaria (Shomron) is Oholah, and Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) is Oholibah. 5 And Oholah played the prostitute while under Me, and she lusted after her lovers, after Assyria (Ashur), those near, 6 clothed in blue, governors and prefects, desirable young men all of them, horsemen riding horses. 7 And she bestowed her prostitutions on them, the choicest of the sons of Assyria, all of them; and with all after whom she lusted, with all their idols, she made herself unclean. 8 And her prostitutions from Egypt she did not forsake, for they had lain with her in her youth, and they had squeezed the nipples of her virginity and poured out their prostitution on her. 9 Therefore I gave her into the hand of her lovers, into the hand of the sons of Assyria, after whom she had lusted. 10 They uncovered her nakedness; her sons and her daughters they took, and her they killed with the sword; and she became a name among women, and they executed judgments on her. 11 And her sister Oholibah saw it, and she made her lust more corrupt than she, and her prostitutions more than the harlotries of her sister. 12 After the sons of Assyria she lusted, governors and prefects, those near, clothed in perfection, horsemen riding horses, desirable young men all of them. 13 And I saw that she had made herself unclean; one way was for both of them. 14 And she added to her prostitutions; and she saw men carved on the wall, images of the Chaldeans (Kasdim) engraved in vermilion, 15 girded with a belt on their hips, with overhanging turbans on their heads, the appearance of officers, all of them, the likeness of the sons of Babylon (Bavel), Chaldeans being the land of their birth. 16 And she lusted after them at the sight of her eyes, and she sent messengers to them, to the Chaldeans. 17 And the sons of Babylon came to her, to the bed of love, and they made her unclean with their prostitution; and she became unclean with them, and her soul was wrenched away from them. 18 And she uncovered her prostitutions and uncovered her nakedness; and My soul was wrenched away from her, just as My soul had been alienated from her sister. 19 And she multiplied her prostitutions, remembering the days of her youth, when she played the prostitute in the land of Egypt. 20 And she lusted after their paramours, whose flesh is the flesh of donkeys, and whose emission is the emission of horses. 21 And you sought the lewdness of your youth, when those from Egypt squeezed your nipples on account of the breasts of your youth.

Judgment on Oholibah

22 Therefore, Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am rousing your lovers against you, those from whom your soul was alienated, and I will bring them against you from all around: 23 the sons of Babylon and all the Chaldeans, Pekod (Peqod) and Shoa and Koa (Qoa), all the sons of Assyria with them, desirable young men, governors and prefects all of them, officers and called ones, riding horses all of them. 24 And they shall come against you with weapons, chariots and wheels, and with an assembly of peoples; large shield and shield and helmet they shall set against you all around; and I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge you according to their judgments. 25 And I will set My jealousy against you, and they shall deal with you in rage; your nose and your ears they shall remove, and the rest of you shall fall by the sword; they shall take your sons and your daughters, and the rest of you shall be devoured by the fire. 26 And they shall strip you of your clothes and take away the articles of your beauty. 27 And I will make your lewdness cease from

23:4 Samaria is Oholah, and Jerusalem is Oholibah The names come from ohel, tent: Oholah, her tent, and Oholibah, my tent is in her. Many see Samaria's own man-made shrines in the first and God's temple in Jerusalem in the second. Their unfaithfulness began early, in Egypt (23:3; Josh 24:14). God explains the picture Himself.

23:5 Oholah played the prostitute while under Me While bound to God in covenant, Samaria courted Assyria. The unfaithfulness means idolatry and foreign alliances that brought foreign gods. Jehu paid tribute to Assyria, Menahem bought its favor, and Hoshea turned to Egypt (2 Kgs 15:19-20; 17:4).

23:6 clothed in blue, governors and prefects, desirable young men all of them Assyria looked impressive: splendid uniforms, officials and cavalry. Samaria was dazzled by worldly power.

23:9 I gave her into the hand of her lovers The nation Samaria courted destroyed her in 722 B.C. (2 Kgs 17:5-6). The thing we run to instead of God becomes the thing that ruins us.

23:11 her sister Oholibah saw it, and she made her lust more corrupt than she Jerusalem watched Samaria fall, had every warning she needed, and did worse.

23:12 After the sons of Assyria she lusted Ahaz sent silver and gold to Assyria's king and copied an Assyrian altar for the temple (2 Kgs 16:7-18).

23:14 images of the Chaldeans engraved in vermilion Vermilion is bright red paint. Babylonian palaces were decorated with painted reliefs of soldiers and officials. Judah saw and was drawn in, as Hezekiah showed his treasures to Babylon's envoys (2 Kgs 20:12-19). Sin often begins with the eyes (Gen 3:6; Josh 7:21; 2 Sam 11:2).

23:17 her soul was wrenched away from them Judah became Babylon's vassal and then turned against her. Jehoiakim and Zedekiah both rebelled (2 Kgs 24:1, 20).

23:18 My soul was wrenched away from her The saddest line here. God turned away from her in grief, as He had from Samaria.

23:22 I am rousing your lovers against you The nations Jerusalem courted would become her destroyers.

23:24 with an assembly of peoples Babylon's army was made up of many nations. God would let them judge Jerusalem by their own harsh standards.

23:25 I will set My jealousy against you Ancient armies mutilated captives, cutting off noses and ears. God was not inventing new cruelty but giving Jerusalem over to the people she had trusted.

23:26 they shall strip you of your clothes and take away the articles of your beauty As in 16:39, the city stripped of its wealth and glory.

23:27 Egypt you shall not remember again The exile would end the long habit of running to Egypt and its gods.

you, and your harlotry from the land of Egypt; and you shall not lift up your eyes to them, and Egypt you shall not remember again. 28 For thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am giving you into the hand of those whom you hate, into the hand of those from whom your soul was alienated. 29 And they shall deal with you in hatred and take all your labor and leave you naked and bare; and the nakedness of your harlotries shall be uncovered, and your lewdness and your prostitutions. 30 They will do these things to you because you played the prostitute after the nations, because you made yourself unclean with their idols. 31 In the way of your sister you have walked; and I will put her cup into your hand. 32 Thus says the Lord GOD: The cup of your sister you shall drink, the deep and the wide; it shall be for laughter and for derision, much to contain. 33 With drunkenness and sorrow you shall be filled; a cup of horror and desolation is the cup of your sister Samaria. 34 And you shall drink it and drain it, and its shards you shall gnaw, and your breasts you shall tear out; for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. 35 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have forgotten Me and cast Me behind your back, so you also, bear your lewdness and your prostitutions."

Both Sisters Judged

36 And the LORD said to me, "Son of man, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then declare to them their abominations. 37 For they have committed adultery, and blood is on their hands; and with their idols they have committed adultery; and also their sons whom they bore to Me they have made pass through to them for food. 38 Moreover, this they have done to Me: they have made My sanctuary unclean on that day, and My Sabbaths they have profaned. 39 And when they had slaughtered their sons to their idols, they came into My sanctuary on that day to profane it; and look, thus they have done in the midst of My house. 40 And moreover, they sent for men coming from afar, to whom a messenger was sent; and look, they came, for whom you bathed, painted your eyes, and adorned yourself with ornaments. 41 And you sat on a glorious couch, and a table was arranged before it, and My incense and My oil you set on it. 42 And the sound of a multitude at ease was in her; and to men from the multitude of mankind Sabeans were brought from the wilderness; and they put bracelets on their hands and a crown of beauty on their heads. 43 And I said of the one worn out with adulteries, 'Now they will play the prostitute with her prostitutions, and she too.' 44 And one went in to her as one goes in to a woman, a prostitute; so they went in to Oholah and to Oholibah, the women of lewdness. 45 And righteous men, they shall judge them with the judgment of adulteresses and the judgment of women who shed blood; for they are adulteresses, and blood is on their hands. 46 For thus says the Lord GOD: Bring up an assembly against them, and give them over to terror and to plunder. 47 And the assembly shall stone them with stones and cut them down with their swords; their sons and their daughters they shall kill, and their houses they shall burn with fire. 48 And I will make lewdness cease from the land, and all the women shall be warned and shall not do according to your lewdness. 49 And they shall put your lewdness on you, and the sins of your idols you shall bear; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD."

23:28 into the hand of those whom you hate She turned against Babylon but would fall into Babylon's hand.
23:30 because you made yourself unclean with their idols God names the sin plainly so no one misses the meaning of the picture.
23:31 I will put her cup into your hand A cup is often a picture of God's judgment (Jer 25:15). In Gethsemane Jesus asked that the cup pass from Him (Matt 26:39). It was the cup of wrath we deserved, and He drank it so we would not have to.
23:32 The cup of your sister you shall drink, the deep and the wide Jerusalem would drink Samaria's cup in full measure and become a laughingstock.
23:35 you have forgotten Me and cast Me behind your back The root again (22:12). They did not just drift; they threw God behind them.
23:37 blood is on their hands God says plainly that the adultery is idolatry, and it led to child sacrifice. I believe little children who die are safe with God (2 Sam 12:23).
23:39 they came into My sanctuary on that day to profane it They sacrificed their children to idols and then came to God's house the same day. A person can sit in worship on Sunday and serve other gods all week. No one can serve two masters (Matt 6:24).
23:43 the one worn out with adulteries Jerusalem was worn out by her sin and still kept going. Sin wears us out, and still we go back to it, until God sets us free.
23:45 righteous men, they shall judge them Most take these as the nations God used to carry out His righteous sentence; some see righteous judges who rightly condemn by the law. Adultery and murder carried death under the law (Lev 20:10).
23:46 Bring up an assembly against them As in chapter 16, stoning is the law's penalty used to picture the cities' fall. This is a picture of two cities' judgment, not a pattern for how anyone may treat a wife (Eph 5:25).
23:48 all the women shall be warned The other nations, pictured as women, would learn from Jerusalem's fall.
23:49 the sins of your idols you shall bear This chapter ends without a promise, but 16:60-63 has already told how the story ends. God will remember His covenant, and through Christ He makes atonement for His unfaithful people.
24:1 in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month About 588 B.C., the day the siege of Jerusalem began (2 Kgs 25:1; Jer 52:4). The Jews later kept a fast on this day (Zech 8:19).
24:2 write for yourself the name of the day, this very day Ezekiel was hundreds of miles away, yet God told him the very day the siege began. When the news came months later, the exiles would know his word was true. Nothing that happens to God's people is hidden from Him (Ps 139:1-12).

of man, write for yourself the name of the day, this very day. The king of Babylon (Bavel) has leaned against Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) on this very day. 3 And speak a parable to the house of rebellion, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Set on the pot, set it on, and also pour water into it. 4 Gather its pieces into it, every good piece, thigh and shoulder; fill it with the choicest of the bones. 5 Take the choicest of the flock, and also pile the bones under it; make its boiling boil; also its bones have boiled in its midst. 6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the city of bloodshed, the pot whose rust is in it, and whose rust has not gone out of it! By its pieces, by its pieces bring it out; no lot has fallen on it. 7 For its blood has been in its midst; on a bare rock it put it; it did not pour it out on the ground to cover it over with dust. 8 To stir up rage, to avenge vengeance, I have put its blood on a bare rock, so that it is not covered. 9 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the city of bloodshed! I also will make the pile great. 10 Multiply the wood, kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and mix the seasoning, and let the bones be burned. 11 And set it empty on its coals, so that it may grow hot, and its bronze may burn, and its uncleanness be melted in its midst, its rust be consumed. 12 It has wearied itself with toils, and its great rust does not go out of it; in fire is its rust. 13 In your uncleanness is lewdness. I will not let it go, and I will not pity, and I will not relent; according to your ways and according to your deeds they have judged you, declares the Lord GOD.'"

The Death of Ezekiel's Wife

15 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 16 "Son of man, look, I am taking from you the desire of your eyes with a stroke; and you shall not lament, and you shall not weep, and your tears shall not come. 17 Groan, be silent; mourning for the dead you shall not make; bind your turban on yourself, and your sandals you shall put on your feet, and you shall not cover over your mustache, and the bread of men you shall not eat." 18 And I spoke to the people in the morning, and my wife died in the evening; and I did in the morning as I had been commanded. 19 And the people said to me, "Will you not tell us what these things are to us, that you are doing them?" 20 And I said to them, "The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 21 'Say to the house of Israel (Yisra'el), "Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am profaning My sanctuary, the pride of your strength, the desire of your eyes, and the compassion of your soul; and your sons and your daughters whom you have left behind shall fall by the sword. 22 And you shall do just as I have done: you shall not cover over your mustache, and the bread of men you shall not eat. 23 And your turbans shall be on your heads, and your sandals on your feet; you shall not lament, and you shall not weep; and you shall waste away in your iniquities and groan, each to his brother. 24 And Ezekiel (Yechezqel) shall be a portent for you; according to all that he has done you shall do; when it

24:24 John 13:19; John 16:4; Ezek 4:3

24:3 Set on the pot, set it on The leaders had boasted that Jerusalem was the pot and they the choice meat (11:3). God takes their saying and turns it into a picture of judgment.
24:4 every good piece, thigh and shoulder The choice pieces are the leading people of Jerusalem and those who fled into the city. The pot would not protect them; it would cook them.
24:6 the pot whose rust is in it The picture shifts. The pot itself is crusted with corrosion, the city's guilt. The pieces would be taken out one by one with no lot cast to spare any.
24:7 on a bare rock it put it The law said blood must be covered with dust (Lev 17:13). Jerusalem shed innocent blood openly and did not even try to hide it.
24:8 I have put its blood on a bare rock, so that it is not covered Because Jerusalem did not cover the blood, God would not cover it either. It would cry out for justice like Abel's (Gen 4:10).
24:9 I also will make the pile great God Himself piles on the wood.
24:11 set it empty on its coals After the meat is gone, the empty pot is heated until the rust burns off. The fire was meant to purge the city, but even that would not remove the deep rust.
24:13 Because I cleansed you, and you were not clean God had tried to cleanse them through prophets and discipline, and nothing worked.
24:14 I will not let it go, and I will not pity, and I will not relent Some of the strongest words of final judgment in the book. God is patient for a long time to lead us to repentance (Rom 2:4), but a heart that keeps refusing can reach a point where judgment is fixed.
24:16 I am taking from you the desire of your eyes with a stroke The book becomes very personal. The desire of his eyes was Ezekiel's wife. We do not know her name, but we know what she was to him. With a stroke means a sudden death.
24:17 Groan, be silent In Israel mourning was loud and public: weeping, uncovering the head, removing sandals, covering the lip and eating funeral bread from neighbors. God forbade the public rites, not the grief. That He told Ezekiel to groan shows the grief was real.
24:18 my wife died in the evening; and I did in the morning as I had been commanded One of the shortest and saddest verses in the Bible. Scripture does not say she died for any sin. If you have lost a husband or wife, God does not ask you to hold back tears. Ezekiel's silence was a one-time sign. Jesus wept at a friend's grave (John 11:35), and we grieve, but with hope (1 Thess 4:13).
24:19 Will you not tell us what these things are to us When they saw him go out without mourning, they knew something was wrong and asked. The sign got their attention.
24:21 the desire of your eyes, and the compassion of your soul The same words used of Ezekiel's wife are used of the temple. It was the people's pride and delight, and God would let it be destroyed, along with sons and daughters left behind.
24:23 you shall waste away in your iniquities and groan, each to his brother When the news came they would not mourn in the usual way either. Some think the grief would be too deep for the usual rites; others that captives were not free to mourn openly.
24:24 Ezekiel shall be a portent for you One of only two places the prophet's name appears in the book (1:3). God does not stand far off from the grief He asks His servants to bear. Ezekiel's loss pictured God's own loss over His house and people.

Against Ammon and Moab

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, set your face toward the sons of Ammon (Amon), and prophesy against them. 3 And you shall say to the sons of Ammon, 'Hear the word of the Lord GOD. Thus says the Lord GOD: Because you said, "Aha!" over My sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the soil of Israel (Yisra'el) when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah (Yehuda) when they went into exile, 4 therefore look, I am giving you to the sons of the east for a possession, and they shall set up their encampments in you and make their dwellings in you; they shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. 5 And I will make Rabbah (Raba) a pasture of camels, and the sons of Ammon a resting place of flocks; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 6 For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you clapped your hand and stamped with your foot, and rejoiced with all your scorn in your soul over the soil of Israel, 7 therefore look, I have stretched out My hand against you, and I will give you as plunder to the nations, and I will cut you off from the peoples and make you perish from the lands; I will destroy you, and you shall know that I am the LORD.' 8 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Moab (Mo'av) and Seir (Se'ir) said, 'Look, the house of Judah is like all the nations,' 9 therefore look, I am opening the shoulder of Moab from the cities, from its cities, from its frontier, the beauty of the land, Beth-jeshimoth (Bet-Hayshimot), Baal-meon (Ba'al-Meon), and to Kiriathaim (Qiryatayim), 10 to the sons of the east, along with the sons of Ammon; and I will give it for a possession, so that the sons of Ammon shall not be remembered among the nations. 11 And on Moab I will execute judgments, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

Against Edom and Philistia

12 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Edom acted by avenging vengeance on the house of Judah, and they have surely become guilty and have avenged themselves on them,
13 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: And I will stretch out My hand against Edom and cut off from it man and animal, and I will make it a desolation; from Teman and to Dedan they shall fall by the sword. 14 And I will put My vengeance on Edom by the hand of My people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to My anger and according to My rage; and they shall know My vengeance, declares the Lord GOD.
15 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the Philistines acted in vengeance and avenged themselves with vengeance with scorn in the soul, to destroy with everlasting enmity,
16 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am stretching out My hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off the Kerethites and make the remnant of the coast of the sea per-

25:16 1 Sam 30:14; Ezek 25:7,13; 2 Sam 15:18

24:26 the escapee shall come to you A survivor would bring the news to Babylon, as 33:21 records.
24:27 your mouth shall be opened with the escapee, and you shall speak and be mute no more His silence, except when God gave a word (3:26-27), would end with the news (33:22). The first half of Ezekiel ends here. Chapters 25-32 speak to the nations, and in chapter 33 the news arrives and the message turns to hope.
25:2 set your face toward the sons of Ammon Chapters 25-32 turn to the nations around Israel, while Jerusalem's fall is pending. The Ammonites lived east of the Jordan around Rabbah, today's Amman. God judges all nations, not only Israel.
25:3 Because you said, "Aha!" over My sanctuary when it was profaned Ammon's sin was gloating over the temple's ruin, the land's desolation and Judah's exile.
25:4 I am giving you to the sons of the east for a possession The desert tribes beyond Ammon would move in and eat its fruit and milk.
25:5 I will make Rabbah a pasture of camels The proud capital would become a grazing ground. Ammon was conquered by Babylon a few years after Jerusalem fell, and Arab tribes later moved into its land. The Ammonites faded from history.
25:6 Because you clapped your hand and stamped with your foot They did not just say Aha; they celebrated. Gloating takes pleasure in another's pain (Prov 24:17-18). Even a quiet satisfaction when someone we dislike falls is the same sin in seed form.
25:8 Look, the house of Judah is like all the nations Moab lived east of the Dead Sea, and Seir is Edom's mountain country. Their contempt said Israel's God was no different from any other. Judah had become like the nations in sin (5:7; 20:32), but God's people were disciplined, not destroyed.
25:9 I am opening the shoulder of Moab from the cities The shoulder is Moab's frontier with its strong cities on the high ground. God would leave it open to invaders. Isaiah and Jeremiah also spoke against Moab (Isa 15-16; Jer 48).
25:10 so that the sons of Ammon shall not be remembered among the nations Ammon and Moab would both be absorbed by the peoples from the east.
25:12 Because Edom acted by avenging vengeance on the house of Judah Edom, descended from Esau, lived south of the Dead Sea. When Jerusalem fell, Edom cheered and took revenge (Ps 137:7; Obad 10-14). An ancient grudge became open cruelty.
25:13 from Teman and to Dedan they shall fall by the sword From one end of Edom to the other. Teman was in its heart; Dedan lay to the southeast.
25:14 by the hand of My people Israel Unlike the others, Edom would be judged by Israel. In part this came when the Jewish ruler John Hyrcanus conquered the Idumeans about 125 B.C. Some see a further fulfillment still ahead (Obad 18; Isa 11:14). Vengeance belongs to God (Rom 12:19).
25:15 to destroy with everlasting enmity The Philistines on the coast had been Israel's enemies since the judges. Their hatred was long and deep.
25:16 I will cut off the Kerethites A people related to the Philistines, probably from Crete (1 Sam 30:14; Zeph 2:5). In Hebrew there is a wordplay: I will cut off, hikrati, the Kerethites, keretim.

ish. 17 And I will execute great vengeance on them with rebukes of rage; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put My vengeance on them."

EZEKIEL 26

Against Tyre

1 And it came about in the eleventh year, on the first of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, because Tyre (Tsor) has said against Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), 'Aha! It is broken, the doors of the peoples; it has turned to me; I shall be filled; it has been laid waste,' 3 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am against you, Tyre, and I will bring up many nations against you, as the sea brings up its waves. 4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre and tear down its towers; and I will scrape its dust from it and make it a bare rock. 5 It shall be a spreading place of nets in the midst of the sea, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD; and it shall become plunder for the nations. 6 And its daughters which are in the field shall be killed by the sword; and they shall know that I am the LORD. 7 For thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am bringing against Tyre Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) king of Babylon (Bavel) from the north, a king of kings, with horses and with chariots and with horsemen, and an assembly and a great people. 8 Your daughters in the field he shall kill with the sword; and he shall set a siege wall against you, and pour out a mound against you, and raise up a large shield against you. 9 And the blow of his battering ram he shall set against your walls, and your towers he shall break down with his swords. 10 From the abundance of his horses their dust shall cover you; from the sound of horseman and wheel and chariot your walls shall shake, when he enters your gates like the entering of a city broken into. 11 With the hooves of his horses he shall trample all your streets; your people he shall kill with the sword, and the pillars of your strength shall come down to the ground. 12 And they shall plunder your wealth and take your merchandise as spoil, and tear down your walls; and the houses of your desire they shall pull down; and your stones and your wood and your dust they shall put in the midst of the waters. 13 And I will put an end to the noise of your songs, and the sound of your lyres shall not be heard again. 14 And I will make you a bare rock; a spreading place of nets you shall be; you shall not be built again; for I, the LORD, have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.

The Coastlands Tremble

15 Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: Will not the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan, when slaughter is done in your midst? 16 And all the princes of the sea shall go down from their thrones and remove their robes and strip off their embroidered garments; tremblings they shall put on; on the ground they shall sit, and they shall tremble every moment and be appalled at you. 17 And they shall take up a lamentation over you and say to you, 'How you have perished, you who were inhabited from the seas, the city that was praised, which was mighty in the sea, it and its inhabitants, who gave their terror to all its inhabitants! 18 Now the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall, and the coastlands that are in the sea are terrified at your going out.' 19 For thus says the Lord GOD: When I make you a desolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited, when I bring

26:18 Mark 3:8; Ezek 26:15; Isa 23:5-7,10-12
26:19 Mark 3:8; Ezek 26:3; Isa 8:7,8

25:17 when I put My vengeance on them The Philistines were conquered and later disappeared as a people. God sees how people treat His people and takes it personally, and He is Judge of all nations.
26:1 in the eleventh year, on the first of the month About 587 or 586 B.C., the year Jerusalem fell. The month is not given. Chapters 26-28 are the longest of the messages to the nations, all against Tyre and Sidon.
26:2 Aha! It is broken, the doors of the peoples Tyre was the great Phoenician trading city on the coast north of Israel, with a mainland town and an island fortress. Jerusalem sat on the trade routes, a gate between nations. With it gone, Tyre expected the trade to flow her way. Greed looks at another's disaster and asks what is in it for me.
26:3 as the sea brings up its waves A fitting picture for a city in the sea. Nation after nation would come against Tyre, wave upon wave.
26:4 make it a bare rock Tyre, Tsor in Hebrew, means rock. God would scrape the city down to the bare rock it was named for.
26:6 its daughters which are in the field The towns and villages on the mainland that belonged to Tyre.
26:7 Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the north, a king of kings God names the first wave. Babylonian kings called themselves king of kings, but only God truly is (Rev 19:16).
26:8 he shall set a siege wall against you Notice he in verses 7-11. Nebuchadnezzar besieged Tyre about thirteen years, from about 586 to 573 B.C., and destroyed the mainland city, while the island fortress held out and finally submitted (29:18).
26:12 your stones and your wood and your dust they shall put in the midst of the waters Notice the change from he to they, the many nations of 26:3. In 332 B.C. Alexander the Great, unable to take the island by sea, built a causeway from the ruins of the old mainland city, throwing its stones and timbers into the water, and took the island after about seven months.
26:13 the sound of your lyres shall not be heard again Tyre was a city of feasting and music (Isa 23:16). The songs would stop.
26:14 you shall not be built again A town called Sur stands near the site today, but the great island city of Tyre's glory never returned as it was, and much of the ancient city lies under the sand and sea, a place where fishermen spread nets. Fulfilled prophecy like this is strong evidence that the Bible is God's Word.
26:16 all the princes of the sea shall go down from their thrones The rulers of the trading cities would mourn like men at a funeral.
26:17 How you have perished, you who were inhabited from the seas Notice what they mourned: not the people who died but the loss of their trading partner. When the world's systems of wealth fall, the mourning is over lost profit (Rev 18:9-19).
26:19 when I bring up the deep over you and the many waters cover you The sea that made Tyre great would cover it.

up the deep over you and the many waters cover you, 20 and I will bring you down with those who go down to the pit, to the people of long ago, and I will make you dwell in the land of the lowest parts, like the ruins from long ago, with those who go down to the pit, so that you shall not be inhabited; and I will set beauty in the land of the living. 21 Terrors I will make you, and you shall be no more; and you shall be sought, and you shall not be found again forever, declares the Lord GOD."

EZEKIEL 27

A Lament Over Tyre the Ship

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "And you, son of man, take up a lamentation over Tyre (Tsor), 3 and say to Tyre, who dwells at the entrances of the sea, the trader of the peoples to many coastlands, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Tyre, you have said, "I am perfect of beauty." 4 Your borders are in the heart of the seas; your builders have perfected your beauty. 5 Of cypresses from Senir they have built for you all the planks; a cedar from Lebanon (Levanon) they have taken to make a mast on you. 6 Of oaks from Bashan they have made your oars; your deck they have made of ivory inlaid in pine from the coastlands of Cyprus (Kiti). 7 Fine linen with embroidery from Egypt (Mitsrayim) was your sail, to be a banner for you; blue and purple from the coastlands of Elishah (Elisha) was your covering. 8 The inhabitants of Sidon (Tsidon) and Arvad were your rowers; your wise men, Tyre, were in you; they were your sailors. 9 The elders of Gebal (Geval) and its wise men were in you, repairing your breaches; all the ships of the sea and their mariners were in you to trade your merchandise. 10 Persia (Paras) and Lud and Put were in your army, your men of war; shield and helmet they hung in you; they gave your splendor. 11 The sons of Arvad and Helech (Cheilekh) were on your walls all around, and the Gamad (Gamadim) were in your towers; their shields they hung on your walls all around; they perfected your beauty. 12 Tarshish was your merchant because of the abundance of all wealth; with silver, iron, tin, and lead they gave for your wares. 13 Greece (Yavan), Tubal (Tuval), and Meshech (Meshekh), they were your traders; with the souls of men and vessels of bronze they gave for your merchandise. 14 From the house of Togarmah (Togarma) they gave for your wares horses and steeds and mules. 15 The sons of Dedan were your traders; many coastlands were the market of your hand; horns of ivory and ebony they brought back as your tribute. 16 Syria (Aram) was your merchant because of the abundance of your products; with turquoise, purple, and embroidery, and fine linen, and coral, and ruby they gave for your wares. 17 Judah (Yehuda) and the land of Israel (Yisra'el), they were your traders; with wheat of Minnith (Minit), and cake, and honey, and oil, and balm they gave for your merchandise. 18 Damascus (Dameseq) was your merchant in the abundance of your products, because of the abundance of all wealth, in wine of Helbon (Chelbon) and wool of Sahar (Tsachar). 19 Vedan and Greece from Uzal gave wrought iron for your wares; cassia and calamus were in your merchandise. 20 Dedan was your trader in garments of spreading for riding. 21 Arabia (Arav) and all the princes of Kedar (Qedar), they were the merchants of your hand; in lambs and rams and goats, in these they were your merchants. 22 The traders of Sheba (Sheva) and Raamah (Rama), they were your traders; with the best of every spice, and with every precious stone and gold they gave for your wares. 23 Haran (Charan) and Canneh (Kane) and Eden, the traders of Sheba, Assyria (Ashur) and Chilmad (Kilmad) were your trader. 24 They were your traders in choice garments, in 26:20 with those who go down to the pit, to the people of long ago The pit is the grave, Sheol, the world of the dead. Tyre would join the ancient ruined cities. Many teachers read the next words as God setting beauty in the land of Israel instead, in contrast to Tyre.

26:21 you shall be sought, and you shall not be found again forever Tyre trusted its walls, ships, wealth and island. None of it could stand against God's word. Heaven and earth will pass away, but His words will not (Matt 24:35).
27:2 take up a lamentation over Tyre A funeral song sung before the funeral. The whole chapter pictures Tyre as a magnificent merchant ship that sinks at sea.
27:3 I am perfect of beauty Tyre's harbors opened onto the Mediterranean, and its ships traded with many coastlands. The root of its sin was pride. Tyre admired itself.
27:5 Of cypresses from Senir they have built for you all the planks Senir is Mount Hermon (Deut 3:9). Every part of the ship came from the best source in the world: cedar from Lebanon, oak from Bashan, ivory and pine from Cyprus.
27:7 Fine linen with embroidery from Egypt was your sail Egypt was famous for linen, and the sail was also the ship's banner. Blue and purple came from Elishah, perhaps Cyprus or a western coast.
27:8 The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad were your rowers Other Phoenician cities supplied the crew, and Gebal, Byblos, its skilled repairmen (27:9). Tyre had everything the world could offer.
27:10 Persia and Lud and Put were in your army Tyre hired soldiers from far away: Persia to the east, Lud probably Lydia in Asia Minor, Put probably Libya.
27:12 Tarshish was your merchant because of the abundance of all wealth The trade list runs roughly west to east around the known world. Tarshish, probably in Spain, was where Jonah tried to flee (Jonah 1:3), at the far edge of the known world.
27:13 with the souls of men and vessels of bronze Slaves were traded alongside bronze, a sad sign of a world where people were goods (Joel 3:6; Rev 18:13).
27:17 Judah and the land of Israel, they were your traders Israel sent wheat, honey, oil and balm, as in Solomon's day (1 Kgs 5:11). Trade itself was not the sin.
27:22 The traders of Sheba and Raamah From Arabia came spices, precious stones and gold. The whole world came to Tyre's door, and when it fell the whole world would feel it.

cloaks of blue and embroidery, and in chests of variegated cloth, with cords bound and made firm, in your marketplace. 25 The ships of Tarshish were your carriers for your merchandise; and you were filled and became very heavy in the heart of the seas.

The Ship Is Wrecked

26 Into many waters your rowers have brought you; the east wind has broken you in the heart of the seas. 27 Your wealth and your wares, your merchandise, your mariners and your sailors, the repairers of your breaches and the traders of your merchandise, and all your men of war who are in you, and with all your assembly which is in your midst, shall fall in the heart of the seas on the day of your fall. 28 At the sound of the outcry of your sailors the pasturelands shall shake. 29 And all who handle the oar, the mariners, all the sailors of the sea, shall come down from their ships; they shall stand on the land. 30 And they shall make their voice heard over you and cry out bitterly, and they shall bring up dust on their heads; they shall roll in the ashes. 31 And they shall make themselves bald for you with baldness and gird themselves with sackcloth, and they shall weep for you in bitterness of soul, with bitter wailing. 32 And in their wailing they shall take up a lamentation for you and lament over you: "Who is like Tyre, like the one silenced in the midst of the sea? 33 When your wares went out from the seas, you satisfied many peoples; with the abundance of your wealth and your merchandise you made rich the kings of the earth. 34 Now, at the time you are broken by the seas, in the depths of the waters, your merchandise and all your assembly in your midst have fallen. 35 All the inhabitants of the coastlands are appalled at you, and their kings shudder with shuddering; their faces are troubled. 36 The merchants among the peoples hiss at you; you have become terrors, and you shall be no more forever."'"

The Pride of the Prince of Tyre

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, say to the ruler of Tyre (Tsor), 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Because your heart has been haughty, and you have said, "I am a god; I sit in the seat of gods in the heart of the seas," and you are a man and not a god, and you have made your heart like the heart of God, 3 look, you are wiser than Daniel (Daniyel); no hidden thing have they kept dark from you. 4 By your wisdom and by your understanding you have made wealth for yourself, and you have made gold and silver in your treasuries. 5 By the abundance of your wisdom, by your trade, you have multiplied your wealth, and your heart has been haughty in your wealth. 6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have made your heart like the heart of God, 7 therefore look, I am bringing strangers against you, the ruthless of the nations; and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom and profane your splendor. 8 To the pit they shall bring you down, and you shall die the deaths of the slain in the heart of the seas. 9 Will you really say, "I am a god," before him who kills you? And you are a man and not a god in the hand of those who pierce you. 10 The deaths of the uncircumcised you shall die by the hand of strangers; for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.'"

27:25 The ships of Tarshish were your carriers Large ocean-going trading ships. Tyre was filled and heavy, like a ship loaded too deep.
27:26 the east wind has broken you in the heart of the seas The rowers took the proud, heavy ship into deep water, and the east wind, Babylon, broke it. Everything she carried went down with her (27:27).
27:29 all who handle the oar, the mariners, all the sailors of the sea, shall come down from their ships Sailors of other ships came ashore to mourn with dust, ashes, shaved heads and sackcloth.
27:32 Who is like Tyre, like the one silenced in the midst of the sea The busiest port in the world fell silent.
27:33 you made rich the kings of the earth Tyre's trade enriched the world's rulers, and its fall impoverished them.
27:36 you have become terrors, and you shall be no more forever Revelation 18 tells of Babylon the great's fall at the end of the age in words that echo this chapter: kings, merchants and sea captains mourning (Rev 18:9-19). Business is not evil, but a life built on wealth and pride will sink. Only what is built on God will last.
28:2 I am a god; I sit in the seat of gods in the heart of the seas The ruler of Tyre at this time was most likely Ethbaal (Ittobaal III), who reigned during Nebuchadnezzar's siege. His island city rising from the sea was like a throne, and many ancient kings claimed to be divine. God cuts him down in one line: you are a man and not a god.
28:3 you are wiser than Daniel Sarcasm. Daniel, Ezekiel's fellow exile, was already known for God-given wisdom (Dan 1:20; 2:48; 14:14). The king thought himself wiser still.
28:5 your heart has been haughty in your wealth Wisdom and wealth are God's gifts, but when we take credit for them they become a trap (Deut 8:17-18).
28:7 the ruthless of the nations The Babylonians (30:11; 31:12). They would profane the splendor he was so proud of.
28:9 Will you really say, "I am a god," before him who kills you With a sword at his throat he would not feel like a god. Death shows every man what he is.
28:10 The deaths of the uncircumcised you shall die Circumcision was the sign of God's covenant (Gen 17:10-11). To die as the uncircumcised was to die in shame, outside God's people. God opposes the proud (Jas 4:6).
28:12 take up a lamentation over the king of Tyre The title shifts from ruler to king, and the language rises far above any earthly ruler. Teachers read 28:11-19 two main ways. Many see Satan, the power behind the king, described here. Others read it as the human king in exalted poetry, compared with Adam in Eden or mocked through his own claims. Both views teach the danger of pride.
28:12 You were a sealer of a pattern, full of wisdom and perfect of beauty A seal stamped a pattern into clay. He was the model of perfection, the finished work.

28:13 In Eden, the garden of God, you were On the first view, Satan in Eden, the ancient serpent (Gen 3; Rev 12:9). On the second, the king compared to Adam or boasting of his paradise. The nine stones are among the twelve on the high priest's breastplate (Exod 28:17-20). The words for tambourines and settings are uncertain.
28:14 You were an outstretched cherub that covers Cherubim stand closest to God's throne (1:5; 10:20), and covering cherubim spread their wings over the ark (Exod 25:20). On the first view, Satan's place before his fall as a guardian cherub in God's presence. On the second, the king's proud self-image.
28:15 You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created, until unrighteousness was found in you God did not make him evil. Everything God made was good (Gen 1:31). Jesus said the devil did not stand in the truth (John 8:44), which suggests he once did. Scripture tells us little about Satan's origin, and we should not say more than it does (Isa 14:12-15; 1 Tim 3:6).
28:16 By the abundance of your trade they filled your midst with violence This fits the merchant king of Tyre. Some who see Satan here think the word for trade, from a root meaning to go about, points to slander and scheming.
28:17 Your heart was haughty because of your beauty The root again: pride. Pride takes God's gifts and turns them into reasons to admire ourselves. Pride was the first sin and remains the root of many others (Jas 4:6).
28:18 I brought out fire from your midst The fire came from within, as sin destroys from the inside. Satan still deceives the world (Rev 12:9), but his doom is certain. Christ came to render him powerless through His death (Heb 2:14), and he will be cast into the lake of fire (Rev 20:10).
28:19 you shall be no more forever The covering cherub, created blameless, reached for God's place and was cast down. Jesus, existing in the form of God, humbled Himself to the cross and was exalted (Phil 2:6-11). The way up is down.
28:21 set your face toward Sidon Sidon, Tyre's older sister city about twenty miles north, was home to Jezebel (1 Kgs 16:31). Sidon later revolted against Persia and was destroyed in the middle of the 300s B.C.
28:22 I will be glorified in your midst Sidon completes six neighbors in chapters 25-28: Ammon, Moab, Edom, Philistia, Tyre and Sidon. With Egypt in chapters 29-32 they make seven nations, a picture of completeness.
28:24 a brier that pricks and a thorn that pains The nations around Israel had been thorns in her side, as Moses warned (Num 33:55). That would end.
28:25 When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples After judging the nations, God turns to Israel's future. The land was given to Jacob, His servant, and God has not taken it back (Rom 11:29).
28:26 they shall build houses and plant vineyards; and they shall dwell in security Pictures of settled peace (Isa 65:21). The return in 538 B.C. was a foretaste, but Israel did not live securely afterward. I believe this will be fully true when Christ returns and reigns (34:25-28; 37:21-28).
29:1 In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth of the month About 587 B.C., in winter, during the siege of Jerusalem, likely when Pharaoh's army briefly drew Babylon away (Jer 37:5-7). Chapters 29-32 hold seven messages against Egypt.
29:2 set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt The Pharaoh was Hophra, also called Apries, who reigned about 589 to 570 B.C. (Jer 44:30). Zedekiah was trusting him for help.
29:3 the great monster lying in the midst of his streams The word tannin can mean a great sea creature or dragon; here it most likely pictures the Nile crocodile. Pharaoh's sin was claiming the Nile as his own creation. Every crop and city depended on a river God made.

Because he said, "Nile is mine, and I made it," 10 therefore look, I am against you and against your streams, and I will make the land of Egypt ruins of waste, a desolation, from Migdol to Syene (Sevene), and to the border of Cush (Kush). 11 The foot of man shall not pass through it, and the foot of animal shall not pass through it, and it shall not be inhabited forty years. 12 And I will make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of lands made desolate, and its cities in the midst of cities laid waste shall be a desolation forty years; and I will disperse Egypt among the nations and scatter them among the lands. 13 For thus says the Lord GOD: At the end of forty years I will gather Egypt from the peoples where they were dispersed. 14 And I will turn back the captivity of Egypt and bring them back to the land of Pathros (Patros), to the land of their origin; and they shall be there a lowly kingdom. 15 It shall be lowlier than the kingdoms, and it shall not exalt itself again over the nations; and I will make them few, so that they shall not have dominion over the nations. 16 And it shall no longer be a confidence for the house of Israel, bringing iniquity to remembrance when they turn after them; and they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.'"

Egypt Given to Nebuchadnezzar

17 And it came about in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadretsar) king of Babylon (Bavel) made his army labor a great labor against Tyre (Tsor); every head was made bald, and every shoulder was rubbed bare; and there were no wages for him and for his army from Tyre for the labor which he labored against it. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am giving to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon the land of Egypt, and he shall carry off its multitude and plunder its spoil and take its plunder as spoil; and it shall be wages for his army. 20 As his recompense for which he labored, I have given him the land of Egypt, since they acted for Me, declares the Lord GOD. 21 On that day I will make a horn sprout for the house of Israel, and to you I will give an opening of the mouth in their midst; and they shall know that I am the LORD."

29:21 Ps 132:17; Ezek 24:27; Ezek 33:22

29:4 I will put hooks in your jaws Crocodiles were caught with hooks. The fish clinging to its scales are Egypt's people, dragged out with their king.
29:5 I will abandon you to the wilderness To lie unburied was the worst disgrace. Hophra's own army revolted, Amasis took the throne, and Hophra was later killed, as Jeremiah foretold (Jer 44:30).
29:6 they have been a staff of reed to the house of Israel A Nile reed looks like a walking stick, but lean on it and it snaps (Isa 36:6). Egypt promised help and failed.
29:7 when they leaned on you, you were broken The splintered reed tore the hand and left the leaner falling. When we put the full weight of life on anything but God, it breaks.
29:9 Because he said, "Nile is mine, and I made it," God repeats the boast because it is the reason for the judgment.
29:10 from Migdol to Syene, and to the border of Cush From the northern border to Aswan in the far south, the whole length of Egypt.
29:12 shall be a desolation forty years Hard to match fully with history. Nebuchadnezzar invaded Egypt about 568 B.C. (29:19), and some count the years of Babylonian domination until Persia rose. Others take forty as a round number for a generation of judgment (4:6; Num 14:34), and some see a future fulfillment (Dan 11:42-43).
29:14 they shall be there a lowly kingdom Pathros is Upper Egypt, the land of their origin. For two thousand years Egypt had been a great power. After this it never again ruled an empire, governed in turn by Persia, Greece and Rome.
29:16 it shall no longer be a confidence for the house of Israel The real point for Israel: Egypt would no longer tempt them to trust it instead of God. Yet God's plan for Egypt is not only judgment. One day He will say, Blessed be My people Egypt (Isa 19:25), which I believe will come in Messiah's kingdom.
29:17 in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month About 571 B.C., sixteen years later and the latest dated message in the book.
29:18 there were no wages for him and for his army from Tyre The thirteen-year siege rubbed heads bald and shoulders raw. Nebuchadnezzar destroyed the mainland city, but the island submitted after its wealth was largely moved by sea, so there was little plunder. This is no failed prophecy. Chapter 26 said many nations would come in waves, and Alexander completed the work in 332 B.C.
29:19 I am giving to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon the land of Egypt A broken Babylonian tablet tells of a campaign against Egypt about 568 B.C. (Jer 43:10-13).
29:20 since they acted for Me Nebuchadnezzar was a pagan king, yet God paid him for serving His purpose. God used Assyria as His rod (Isa 10:5) and Cyrus as His shepherd (Isa 44:28). That does not excuse their sins, but shows that God rules the kings of the earth.
29:21 I will make a horn sprout for the house of Israel A horn pictures strength. God would renew Israel's strength, and many see a hint of the Messiah, the horn of salvation from David's house (Ps 132:17; Luke 1:69). Ezekiel's opening of the mouth means confident speech after his words came true.

30:2 Wail, "Alas for the day!" The message to Egypt begins with a cry of grief.
30:3 a day of the LORD is near; a day of clouds, a time of nations it shall be The day of the LORD is when God acts openly in judgment. Here it is His judgment on Egypt, and also a preview of the final day of the LORD at the end of the age (Joel 2:31; Zeph 1:14-18; 1 Thess 5:2). A day of clouds pictures a storm about to break.
30:5 the sons of the land of the covenant with them shall fall by the sword Egypt's allies and hired troops from Africa and beyond would fall with her. The sons of the land of the covenant may be treaty allies, or the Jews who fled to Egypt against God's word (Jer 42-44).
30:6 those who support Egypt shall fall Egypt was the helper Judah wanted, and Egypt's own helpers would fall. From Migdol to Syene means the whole land, north to south (29:10).
30:9 messengers shall go out from before Me in ships to make secure Cush tremble Cush felt safe far up the Nile, but news of Egypt's fall would come by boat.
30:10 by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon God names His instrument for this day of the LORD.
30:12 I will make the streams dry ground Pharaoh claimed the Nile as his own (29:3). God can dry it up (Isa 19:5-6). God sells the land to strangers, as a master sells off what is his.
30:13 I will destroy idols and make worthless idols cease from Memphis Memphis was the ancient capital of Lower Egypt, full of temples. Egypt's gods were judged as at the exodus (Exod 12:12). No prince from Egypt would rule an empire again.
30:14 I will make Pathros desolate, and set fire in Zoan, and execute judgments in Thebes A roll call of Egypt's great cities. Pathros is Upper Egypt; Zoan, or Tanis, an important city in the delta; Thebes the great southern capital and center of the god Amon.
30:15 Pelusium, the stronghold of Egypt A fortress on the eastern border that guarded the way into Egypt from the north. Aven is On, or Heliopolis, center of sun worship (30:17).
30:18 in Tahpanhes the day shall withhold its light Tahpanhes was a border city where the Jewish refugees went (Jer 43:7). The yoke bars of Egypt are its power over other nations. Every city was a center of Egypt's pride and worship, and not one would escape.
30:20 in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh of the month About 587 B.C., in spring, three months after 29:1.
30:21 the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt I have broken The arm stands for strength in battle. This most likely points to Hophra's army being driven back when it tried to relieve Jerusalem (Jer 37:5-7). It would not be bandaged and healed.
30:22 I will break his arms, the strong and the broken One arm was already broken, and the other would be too. Egypt would never again be a great military power.

nations and scatter them among the lands. 24 And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put My sword in his hand; and I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he shall groan the groans of a wounded man before him. 25 And I will make strong the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put My sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. 26 And I will disperse Egypt among the nations and scatter them among the lands; and they shall know that I am the LORD."

Pharaoh the Fallen Cedar

1 And it came about in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt (Mitsrayim) and to his multitude: Whom are you like in your greatness? 3 Look, Assyria (Ashur) was a cedar in Lebanon (Levanon), beautiful of branches, and a forest giving shade, and tall of height; and its treetop was among the thick foliage. 4 The waters made it grow; the deep raised it up, with its rivers going around its planting place, and it sent out its channels to all the trees of the field. 5 Therefore its height was taller than all the trees of the field, and its boughs became great, and its limbs became long, from many waters when it sent them out. 6 In its boughs every bird of the heavens made nests, and under its limbs every animal of the field gave birth, and in its shade all great nations dwelt. 7 And it was beautiful in its greatness, in the length of its shoots, for its root was by many waters. 8 Cedars in the garden of God did not eclipse it; cypresses were not like its boughs, and plane trees were not like its limbs; no tree in the garden of God was like it in its beauty. 9 I made it beautiful in the abundance of its shoots, and all the trees of Eden which were in the garden of God envied it. 10 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you were tall in height, and it set its treetop among the thick foliage, and its heart was lifted up in its height, 11 I will give it into the hand of a mighty one of nations; he shall surely deal with it; according to its wickedness I have driven it out. 12 And strangers, the ruthless ones of nations, cut it down and abandoned it; on the mountains and in all the valleys its shoots have fallen, and its limbs were broken in all the ravines of the land; and all the peoples of the earth went down from its shade and abandoned it. 13 On its fallen trunk every bird of the heavens dwells, and on its limbs every animal of the field is, 14 so that no trees of the water may be lifted up in their height, and may not set their treetop among the thick foliage, and their mighty ones may not stand in their height, all drinkers of water; for all of them have been given to death, to the lowest earth, in the midst of the sons of man, with those who go down to the pit. 15 Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day it went down to Sheol I caused mourning; I covered the deep over it, and I withheld its rivers, and many waters were restrained; and I made Lebanon mourn for it, and all the trees of the field were faint over it. 16 At the sound of its downfall I made nations tremble, when I brought it down to Sheol with those who go down to the pit; and they were comforted in the lowest earth, all the trees of Eden, the choicest and the best of Lebanon, all drinkers of water. 17 They also went down with it to Sheol, to the slain of the sword; and its arm, they dwelt in its shade

30:24 I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put My sword in his hand The heart of the message. Babylon was strong because God made it strong, and it carried God's sword.
30:26 I will disperse Egypt among the nations Nations rise and fall by God's hand. He removes kings and sets up kings (Dan 2:21). Empires that seem unbeatable are broken in a generation. Our hope is not in any nation but in the kingdom that cannot be shaken (Heb 12:28).
31:1 in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month About 587 B.C., in early summer, about two months before Jerusalem fell.
31:2 Whom are you like in your greatness Egypt thought itself unmatched. God answers with a picture from recent history.
31:3 Assyria was a cedar in Lebanon Lebanon's cedar was the tallest, grandest tree Israel knew. Assyria had been the greatest empire of its day. Some scholars read the word as a kind of tree, so that the cedar is Egypt itself; either way the point is the same.
31:4 The waters made it grow Assyria lay along the Tigris and Euphrates, and its wealth came from those rivers, as Egypt's came from the Nile.
31:6 in its shade all great nations dwelt Like the tree in Nebuchadnezzar's dream (Dan 4:10-12), the empire gave shelter to many peoples.
31:8 Cedars in the garden of God did not eclipse it Ezekiel uses the language of Eden: no tree in God's garden matched it.
31:9 I made it beautiful in the abundance of its shoots God made Assyria great. Its power did not come from itself. There is no authority except from God (Rom 13:1).
31:10 its heart was lifted up in its height The same sin as Tyre (28:2, 17) and Pharaoh (29:3). Isaiah records Assyria's boast of its own strength and wisdom (Isa 10:12-14).
31:11 I will give it into the hand of a mighty one of nations Babylon. In 612 B.C. the Babylonians and Medes destroyed Nineveh, and Assyria ended about 609 B.C., even as Pharaoh Neco marched to help it (2 Kgs 23:29).
31:12 strangers, the ruthless ones of nations, cut it down and abandoned it The great tree lay broken across the mountains and valleys.
31:13 On its fallen trunk every bird of the heavens dwells The birds that once nested in it now perch on its fallen trunk. Nations that sheltered under Assyria now picked over its remains.
31:14 so that no trees of the water may be lifted up in their height God brought Assyria down as a lesson for every proud nation. No tree should think itself too tall to fall.
31:15 On the day it went down to Sheol I caused mourning Sheol is the place of the dead. The New Testament shows different conditions there for the righteous and the wicked (Luke 16:22-26). The picture of nations in Sheol is poetry for fallen empires.
31:16 they were comforted in the lowest earth The fallen trees below found grim comfort that even the greatest had joined them. If Assyria could fall, who was safe?
31:17 its arm, they dwelt in its shade Assyria's allies who lived in its shade went down with it.

in the midst of the nations. 18 Whom are you like thus in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? And you shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the lowest earth; in the midst of the uncircumcised you shall lie, with the slain of the sword. That is Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord GOD."

EZEKIEL 32

A Lament Over Pharaoh

1 And it came about in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, take up a lamentation over Pharaoh king of Egypt (Mitsrayim), and you shall say to him: You have been likened to a young lion of nations, and you were like the sea monster in the seas; and you burst forth in your rivers, and you made the waters turbid with your feet, and you fouled their rivers. 3 Thus says the Lord GOD: And I will spread My net over you with a company of many peoples, and they shall bring you up in My net. 4 And I will abandon you on the land; on the surface of the field I will throw you; and I will cause every bird of the heavens to settle on you, and I will satisfy the animals of all the earth from you. 5 And I will put your flesh on the mountains, and I will fill the valleys with your height. 6 And I will make the land drink your outflow, from your blood, to the mountains; and the ravines shall be filled from you. 7 And when I extinguish you, I will cover the heavens and darken their stars; the sun I will cover with the cloud, and the moon shall not make its light shine. 8 All the luminaries of light in the heavens I will darken over you, and I will put darkness over your land, declares the Lord GOD. 9 And I will disturb the heart of many peoples, when I bring your breaking among the nations, to lands which you have not known. 10 And I will make many peoples appalled over you, and their kings shall shudder with shuddering over you, when I brandish My sword before their faces; and they shall tremble at every moment, each man for his life, on the day of your downfall. 11 For thus says the Lord GOD: The sword of the king of Babylon (Bavel) shall come upon you. 12 By the swords of mighty men I will make your multitude fall, the ruthless ones of nations, all of them; and they shall devastate the pride of Egypt, and all its multitude shall be destroyed. 13 And I will destroy all its livestock from beside many waters; and the foot of man shall not make them turbid again, and the hooves of livestock shall not make them turbid. 14 Then I will make their waters settle, and I will make their rivers go like oil, declares the Lord GOD. 15 When I make the land of Egypt a desolation, and the land is made desolate of its fullness, when I strike down all who dwell in it, and they shall know that I am the LORD. 16 It is a lamentation, and they shall chant it; the daughters of the nations shall chant it; over Egypt and over all its multitude they shall chant it, declares the Lord GOD."

Egypt Goes Down to the Pit

17 And it came about in the twelfth year, on the fifteenth of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, wail over the multitude of Egypt, and bring it down, it and the daughters of majestic nations, to the earth of the lowest parts, with those who go down to the pit. 19 Than whom are you more lovely? Go down, and be laid with the uncircumcised. 20 In the midst of the slain of the sword they shall fall; a sword has been given; draw it down, and all its multitudes. 21 The mighty ones of the mighty men shall speak to him from the midst of Sheol with his helpers: they have gone down, they lie, the uncircumcised, the slain

31:18 Whom are you like thus in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden Now Pharaoh knows the answer: he is like Assyria and will fall the same way. Every earthly power is temporary, and pride goes before a fall (Prov 16:18). Compare God's tender shoot planted on His mountain, which becomes a cedar that will stand forever (17:22-24).
32:1 in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month About 585 B.C., in early spring, more than a year after Jerusalem fell. This funeral song was sung over Pharaoh while he still lived.
32:2 You have been likened to a young lion of nations Pharaoh liked to see himself as a lion among nations. God says he was really a sea monster thrashing in the waters, muddying the streams.
32:3 I will spread My net over you with a company of many peoples Hunters caught great river creatures with nets. God's net is Babylon and its allies (32:11).
32:4 I will abandon you on the land As in 29:5, the monster dragged from the water and left for birds and beasts.
32:7 the sun I will cover with the cloud, and the moon shall not make its light shine The prophets' language for the day of the LORD (Isa 13:10; Joel 2:31), used by Jesus of the final day (Matt 24:29). For Egypt it struck home: their chief god was Ra, the sun, and Pharaoh was called his son. It recalls the ninth plague (Exod 10:22).
32:9 I will disturb the heart of many peoples News of Egypt's fall would reach lands Egypt had never known, and kings would shudder.
32:11 The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you God names the net plainly.
32:13 the foot of man shall not make them turbid again With people and cattle gone, the muddied waters would lie still.
32:14 I will make their rivers go like oil Smooth, silent, lifeless rivers, a picture of a land emptied.
32:16 the daughters of the nations shall chant it Women were often the professional mourners (Jer 9:17). The nations would sing Egypt's funeral song.
32:17 in the twelfth year, on the fifteenth of the month The month is not given, probably two weeks after 32:1. The last message against Egypt follows it down to the grave.
32:18 bring it down Ezekiel's word was to send Egypt down, so sure was the judgment, to the lowest parts with those who go to the pit.
32:19 Than whom are you more lovely Egypt thought itself more beautiful than all. God says go down and lie with the uncircumcised, the shamed and unclean.
32:21 The mighty ones of the mighty men shall speak to him from the midst of Sheol The great warriors already there greet Pharaoh, as in Isaiah's song over Babylon's king (Isa 14:9-11). This is a funeral song in poetry, not a map of the afterlife, but death and judgment are real (Heb 9:27).

EZEKIEL 33

The Watchman Again

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, speak to the sons of your people, and you shall say to them: A land, when I bring a sword upon it, and the people of the land take a man, one from their borders, and set him for themselves as a watchman, 3 and he sees the sword coming upon the land, and he blows on the trumpet and warns the people, 4 and the one who hears hears the sound of the trumpet and does not take warning, and the sword comes and takes him away, his blood shall be on his head. 5 He heard the sound of the trumpet and did not take warning; his blood shall be on him. And he who took warning delivered his soul. 6 And the watchman, if he sees the sword coming and does not blow on the trumpet, and the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes away a soul from them, he is taken away in his iniquity, and his blood I will require from the hand of the watchman. 7 And you, son of man, I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel (Yisra'el); and you shall hear a word from My mouth, and you shall warn them from Me. 8 When I say to the wicked man, 'O wicked man, you shall surely die,' and you do not speak to warn the wicked man from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, and his blood I will require from your hand. 9 And you, if you warn the wicked man from his way to turn back from it, and he does not turn back from his way, he shall die in his iniquity, and you have delivered your soul.

32:22 Assyria is there and all its company The great tree of chapter 31, fallen by the sword. Each nation is named with the same grim refrain.
32:24 Elam is there and all its multitude around its grave Elam lay east of Babylon in what is now western Iran, famous for its archers (Jer 49:35).
32:26 Meshech, Tubal, and all its multitude are there Fierce peoples of the north, in what is now Turkey (27:13). Again and again: they put terror in the land of the living. Those who ruled by fear ended in the pit.
32:27 they put their swords under their heads Warriors of old were buried with honor and their weapons. These lay in disgrace. Some translations read it as a question; either way their might could not save them.
32:29 Edom is there, its kings and all its princes Edom, which gloated over Judah's fall (25:12-14), lay there too.
32:30 The chiefs of the north are there, all of them, and every Sidonian Assyria and Elam to the east, Meshech and Tubal to the north, Edom to the south, Sidon to the northwest. Egypt would join them all.
32:31 Pharaoh shall see them, and he shall be comforted Only the bitter comfort of knowing he was not alone in ruin.
32:32 I have put My terror in the land of the living The last word. These nations spread their terror, but the final terror was God's. So ends chapters 25-32: God is Lord of all nations, and pride is the root sin. Chapter 33 brings the news of Jerusalem's fall, and the message turns to hope.
33:2 when I bring a sword upon it The second half of Ezekiel opens by renewing his watchman charge. A city chose a man to watch the borders and blow the trumpet. Babylon was only the instrument; the judgment was the LORD's.
33:4 his blood shall be on his head If a man hears the trumpet and ignores it, his death is his own fault.
33:5 he who took warning delivered his soul The warning was given so people could escape. God warns because He wants people to live.
33:6 he is taken away in his iniquity If the watchman keeps quiet, those who die are still sinners justly judged, but the watchman shares the guilt.
33:7 I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel Repeated from 3:17 because the message was about to turn from judgment to hope, but the office stays the same. As there, this is about Ezekiel's accountability as a prophet to Israel, not a teaching that believers can lose salvation (John 10:28).

Why Will You Die?

10 And you, son of man, say to the house of Israel: Thus you have spoken, saying, 'Surely our transgressions and our sins are on us, and in them we are wasting away; and how shall we live?' 11 Say to them, 'As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked man, but in a wicked man turning back from his way, and that he live. Turn back, turn back from your evil ways! And why will you die, O house of Israel?' 12 And you, son of man, say to the sons of your people: The righteousness of the righteous man shall not deliver him on the day of his transgression; and as for the wickedness of the wicked man, he shall not stumble by it on the day he turns back from his wickedness; and a righteous man shall not be able to live by it on the day he sins. 13 When I say to the righteous man, 'He shall surely live,' and he trusts in his righteousness and does injustice, all his acts of righteousness shall not be remembered; and in his injustice which he has done, in it he shall die. 14 And when I say to the wicked man, 'You shall surely die,' and he turns back from his sin and does justice and righteousness, 15 if a wicked man returns a pledge, repays robbery, walks in the statutes of life so as not to do injustice, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 16 All his sins which he has sinned shall not be remembered against him; he has done justice and righteousness; he shall surely live. 17 And the sons of your people say, 'The way of the Lord is not right'; and as for them, their way is not right. 18 When a righteous man turns back from his righteousness and does injustice, and he shall die in them. 19 And when a wicked man turns back from his wickedness and does justice and righteousness, by them he shall live. 20 And you say, 'The way of the Lord is not right.' Each man according to his ways I will judge you, O house of Israel."

The City Has Been Struck

21 And it came about in the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month, that the escapee from Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) came to me, saying, "The city has been struck." 22 And the hand of the LORD had been upon me in the evening, before the escapee came; and He opened my mouth by the time he came to me in the morning; and my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute. 23 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 24 "Son of man, those who dwell in these waste places on the soil of Israel are saying, 'Abraham (Avraham) was one, and he possessed the land; and we are many; to us the land has been given for a possession.' 25 Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat with the blood, and you lift up your eyes to your idols, and you shed blood; and shall you possess the land? 26 You have stood on your sword; you have done abomination, and each man has defiled the wife of his neighbor; and shall you possess the land?' 27 Thus you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword, and him who is on the surface of the field I will give to the animals to eat him, and those who are in the strongholds and in the caves shall die by pestilence. 28 And I will make the land a desolation and a waste, and the pride of its strength shall cease, and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, with no one passing through. 29 And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I make the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations which they have done.' 30 And you, son of man, the sons of your people who are speaking together

33:10 in them we are wasting away; and how shall we live Something new. For years the exiles blamed their fathers (18:2) and called God unfair (18:25). Now they admit their sin, but they are close to despair. Conviction of sin is a step toward God; despair is a step away from Him.
33:11 I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked man God swears by His own life, since there is none greater (Heb 6:13). He will judge sin, but His heart is for the sinner to turn and live. The Hebrew shuv means to turn around and go back. Why will you die is a Father's cry. The Lord is patient, not wishing any to perish (2 Pet 3:9; 1 Tim 2:4).
33:12 The righteousness of the righteous man shall not deliver him on the day of his transgression A past record will not save one who turns to sin now, and a past record of sin need not condemn one who turns to God.
33:13 he trusts in his righteousness and does injustice The trap: thinking a good record has earned the right to sin. The same teaching as 3:20 and 18:24. Trusting our own righteousness is always a mistake.
33:15 if a wicked man returns a pledge, repays robbery Turning is practical. He gives back what he took and walks in God's statutes, as Zacchaeus did (Luke 19:8).
33:16 All his sins which he has sinned shall not be remembered against him God does not keep the old record on file to pull out later.
33:17 as for them, their way is not right We sometimes want God to grade us on our past or on how we compare to others. He looks at where each of us stands with Him now. That is not unfair; it is merciful.
33:21 the escapee from Jerusalem came to me, saying, "The city has been struck." About 585 B.C. Jerusalem fell in 586 B.C. and was burned (2 Kgs 25:8-10), and the journey of about nine hundred miles took months. The whole first half of the book builds to this moment. The false prophets said Jerusalem would stand; Ezekiel's word came true.
33:22 He opened my mouth by the time he came to me in the morning The silence of 3:26 and 24:27 ended. On the morning the exiles learned their city and temple were gone, God opened His prophet's mouth to begin speaking hope.
33:24 Abraham was one, and he possessed the land Those left in Judah's ruins reasoned that if one man got the land, many would surely keep it. It sounded like faith, but Abraham received the land by promise and believed God (Gen 15:6-7). They wanted the promise without the God of the promise.
33:25 You eat with the blood, and you lift up your eyes to your idols, and you shed blood They broke the law (Lev 17:10-14), worshiped idols and committed murder. Jeremiah shows what followed: Gedaliah was murdered, and they fled to Egypt (Jer 40-44). It is possible to quote God's promises while living in open rebellion (Matt 3:9).
33:27 those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword An oath of judgment. The fall of the city had not changed their hearts.
33:30 the sons of your people who are speaking together about you beside the walls With his words proven true, Ezekiel became popular. People invited one another to come hear him.

about you beside the walls and in the doorways of the houses, and one speaks with one, each man with his brother, saying, 'Come now, and hear what the word is that comes out from the LORD.' 31 And they come to you as a people comes, and they sit before you as My people, and they hear your words, and they do not do them; for with lustful desires in their mouth they are doing, and their heart is going after their unjust gain. 32 And look, you are to them like a song of lustful desires, beautiful of voice and doing well at playing; and they hear your words, and they are not doing them. 33 And when it comes, look, it is coming, and they shall know that a prophet has been in their midst."

EZEKIEL 34

Woe to the Shepherds of Israel

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel (Yisra'el); prophesy, and you shall say to them, to the shepherds, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the shepherds of Israel who have been shepherding themselves! Should not the shepherds shepherd the flock? 3 You eat the fat, and you clothe yourselves with the wool; you slaughter the fat ones; the flock you do not shepherd. 4 The weak you have not strengthened, and the sick you have not healed, and the broken you have not bound up, and the strayed you have not brought back, and the lost you have not sought; and with force you have ruled them, and with harshness. 5 And they have been scattered because there was no shepherd, and they have become food for every animal of the field, and they have been scattered. 6 My flock wanders over all the mountains and on every high hill; and over all the surface of the earth My flock has been scattered, and there is no one searching and no one seeking. 7 Therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: 8 As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely because My flock has become prey, and My flock has become food for every animal of the field, because there is no shepherd, and My shepherds have not searched for My flock, and the shepherds have shepherded themselves, and My flock they have not shepherded, 9 therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: 10 Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am against the shepherds, and I will require My flock from their hand, and I will make them cease from shepherding the flock, and the shepherds shall not shepherd themselves again; and I will deliver My flock from their mouth, and they shall not be food for them.

God Seeks His Sheep

11 For thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I, I Myself, will search for My flock and seek them out. 12 As a shepherd seeks out his flock on the day he is in the midst of his scattered sheep, so I will seek out My flock, and I will deliver them from all the places where they were scattered there on a day of cloud and thick darkness. 13 And I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the lands, and I will bring them to their own ground; and I will shepherd them on the mountains of Israel, by the ravines, and in all the habitable places of the land. 14 In good pasture I will shepherd them, and on the mountains of the height of Israel shall be their pastureland; there they shall lie down in good pastureland, and in rich pasture they shall graze on the mountains of Israel. 15 I Myself will shepherd My flock, and I Myself will make them lie down, declares the Lord GOD. 16 The lost I will seek, and the strayed I will bring back, and the broken I will bind up, and the sick I will strengthen; and the fat and the strong I will destroy; I will shepherd it with justice.

34:16 Luke 19:10; Luke 15:4; Isa 49:26

33:31 they hear your words, and they do not do them They sat before him like God's people, but their hearts went after gain. Their mouths spoke of love.
33:32 you are to them like a song of lustful desires, beautiful of voice and doing well at playing To them Ezekiel was entertainment, a pleasant singer. It is possible to love good preaching and still not obey. Be doers of the word and not hearers only (Jas 1:22).
33:33 they shall know that a prophet has been in their midst When the rest of his words came true, they would know he was no mere singer but God's messenger (2:5).
34:2 prophesy against the shepherds of Israel The shepherds were the kings, princes and leaders of the nation (Jer 23:1-4). One question sums up the charge: should not the shepherds shepherd the flock? They fed themselves instead.
34:3 You eat the fat, and you clothe yourselves with the wool A shepherd may live from his flock, but these took everything and gave nothing.
34:4 The weak you have not strengthened, and the sick you have not healed Five failures: the weak, the sick, the broken, the strayed and the lost. The word for harshness describes Pharaoh's taskmasters (Exod 1:13-14). Peter, told by Jesus to feed His sheep (John 21:15-17), told elders to shepherd willingly, not for gain, as examples (1 Pet 5:2-3).
34:5 they have been scattered because there was no shepherd The exile was the result. Without real leaders the people fell apart and became prey for the nations.
34:6 My flock wanders over all the mountains and on every high hill The hills were where Israel worshiped idols (6:13). The sheep were lost spiritually as well. God keeps saying My flock. The kings acted as if the people were theirs.
34:10 I will require My flock from their hand God will hold leaders accountable for every sheep (Heb 13:17).
34:11 Look, I, I Myself, will search for My flock and seek them out God would not just hire better shepherds; He would come Himself (Ps 80:1; Isa 40:11). Jesus told of the shepherd who left the ninety-nine (Luke 15:4-7) and came to seek and save the lost (Luke 19:10).
34:12 a day of cloud and thick darkness Phrases from the day of the LORD (Joel 2:2). God would gather them from the dark day of their scattering.
34:13 I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the lands A real people and a real land. Fulfilled in part under Cyrus in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1), but the promise reaches to a gathering from all lands. I believe it will be fully kept in Israel's future restoration in the kingdom.
34:15 I Myself will make them lie down Sheep lie down only when fed and safe (Ps 23:2). God promises both.
34:16 The lost I will seek, and the strayed I will bring back, and the broken I will bind up Point for point God does what the false shepherds failed to do (34:4). The fat and strong, who grew rich by crushing others, He will judge. If you are broken or strayed, He does not wait for you to fix yourself. He comes looking.

Judgment Between Sheep and Sheep

17 And you, O My flock, thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am judging between sheep and sheep, between the rams and the male goats. 18 Is it too little for you that you graze the good pasture, and the rest of your pastures you trample with your feet, and that you drink the clear waters, and the rest you foul with your feet? 19 And My flock grazes on what your feet have trampled, and drinks what your feet have fouled. 20 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD to them: Look, I, I Myself, will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. 21 Because you push with side and with shoulder, and thrust at all the weak with your horns, until you have scattered them abroad, 22 I will save My flock, and they shall no longer be prey; and I will judge between sheep and sheep.

My Servant David and the Covenant of Peace

23 And I will raise up over them one shepherd, and he shall shepherd them, My servant David; he shall shepherd them, and he shall be a shepherd for them. 24 And I, the LORD, will be God to them, and My servant David will be prince in their midst; I, the LORD, have spoken. 25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and I will make evil animals cease from the land; and they shall dwell in the wilderness in security, and sleep in the forests. 26 And I will make them and the places around My hill a blessing; and I will bring down the rain in its season; they shall be rains of blessing. 27 And the tree of the field shall give its fruit, and the land shall give its produce, and they shall be on their own ground in security; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I break the bars of their yoke and deliver them from the hand of those who made them serve. 28 And they shall no longer be plunder for the nations, and the animal of the land shall not devour them; and they shall dwell in security, and no one shall make them afraid. 29 And I will raise up for them a planting place of renown, and they shall no longer be taken away by famine in the land, and they shall no longer bear the disgrace of the nations. 30 And they shall know that I, the LORD their God, am with them, and they, the house of Israel, are My people, declares the Lord GOD. 31 And you are My flock, the flock of My pasture; you are men; I am your God, declares the Lord GOD.'"

Against Mount Seir

1 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, set your face against Mount Seir (Se'ir), and prophesy against it, 3 and you shall say to it, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am against you, O Mount Seir, and I will stretch out My hand against you, and I will make you a desolation and a waste. 4 Your cities I will make a ruin, and you shall be a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 5 Because you have had a perpetual enmity, and you gave over the sons of Israel (Yisra'el) to the hands of the sword at the time of their disaster, at the time of the iniquity of the end, 6 therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely I will make you into blood, and blood shall pursue you; since you have not hated blood, blood shall pursue you. 7 And I will make Mount Seir into a devastation and a desolation, and I will cut off from it the one who passes through and the one

34:17 I am judging between sheep and sheep Not all the trouble came from the kings. Some of the people did the same on a smaller scale.
34:18 the rest of your pastures you trample with your feet Some are not content to take the best; they ruin what is left. God sees how the strong treat the weak among His people.
34:21 you push with side and with shoulder The strong shoved the weak away. Jesus spoke of separating sheep and goats when He comes in glory (Matt 25:31-33).
34:23 I will raise up over them one shepherd, and he shall shepherd them, My servant David David had been dead about four hundred years. I believe this is the Messiah, the Son of David (Jer 30:9; Hos 3:5), Jesus, to whom God gives David's throne (Luke 1:32-33). He called Himself the good Shepherd (John 10:11). One shepherd means divided Israel united under one King (37:22-24).
34:24 My servant David will be prince in their midst Prince, nasi, is a ruler lifted up among the people. Jesus is the good Shepherd of all believers now, but this promise is made to Israel as a nation, and I believe it will be fulfilled when Christ reigns over restored Israel. Some think David himself will be raised to rule under Christ.
34:25 I will make with them a covenant of peace Shalom means wholeness, well-being and safety, not just no war. These are the law's blessings for obedience (Lev 26:4-6), which Israel never fully enjoyed. Now God Himself will give them (37:26).
34:26 rains of blessing His hill is Zion. Rain in its season was the sign of God's favor in a dry land.
34:27 when I break the bars of their yoke A yoke was the wooden bar on an ox's neck. God would free Israel as He did from Egypt (Lev 26:13).
34:28 they shall no longer be plunder for the nations Israel has been plundered many times. God says a day is coming when no one will make them afraid.
34:29 a planting place of renown A fruitful land known among the nations, with no more famine or disgrace.
34:31 you are My flock, the flock of My pasture; you are men; I am your God God explains His own picture: the sheep are people, and He is their God. We were like sheep going astray, but have returned to the Shepherd of our souls (1 Pet 2:25).
35:2 set your face against Mount Seir Seir is Edom's mountain country south and east of the Dead Sea. Edom was already judged in 25:12-14, but it appears again here because chapter 36 will speak to the mountains of Israel. Edom wanted Israel's land, and God answers before He promises to restore it.
35:3 I will make you a desolation and a waste Edom came from Esau, who sold his birthright (Gen 25:29-34) and hated Jacob for taking the blessing (Gen 27:41).
35:5 Because you have had a perpetual enmity Edom's hatred was old and never let go. At Judah's worst moment, Edom handed fleeing people over to the sword (Obad 10-14; Ps 137:7).
35:6 I will make you into blood, and blood shall pursue you In Hebrew Edom (adom, red) sounds like dam, blood. Edom loved bloodshed, and blood would pursue it. Holding a grudge for generations poisoned Edom's whole history. Jesus calls us to forgive from the heart (Matt 18:35).

Hope for the Mountains of Israel

1 "And you, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel (Yisra'el), and you shall say, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. 2 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the enemy has said against you, 'Aha!' and, 'The ancient high places have become a possession for us,' 3 therefore prophesy, and you shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Because, yes, because they made you desolate and crushed you from all around, so that you became a possession for the rest of the nations, and you have been taken up on the lip of the tongue and in the slander of the people, 4 therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and to the hills, to the ravines and to the valleys, and to the desolate waste places and to the forsaken cities, which have become plunder and a mockery to the rest of the nations which are all around; 5 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Surely in the fire of My jealousy I have spoken against the rest of the nations and against Edom, all of it, who gave My land to themselves as a possession with the joy of all their heart, with scorn of soul, so that its pastureland should be for plunder. 6 Therefore prophesy concerning the soil of Israel, and you shall say to the mountains and to the hills, to the ravines and to the valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I have spoken in My jealousy and in My rage, because you have borne the disgrace of the nations. 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I Myself have lifted up My hand: surely the nations which are all around you, they shall bear their disgrace. 8 And you, O mountains of Israel, you shall put forth your branches and bear your fruit for My people Israel, for they have drawn near to come. 9 For look, I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown. 10 And I will multiply man on you, all the house of Israel, all of it; and the cities shall be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt. 11 And I will multiply on you man and livestock, and they shall multiply and be fruitful; and I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former times, and I will do more good to you than at your beginnings; and you shall know that I am the LORD. 12 And I will cause man to walk on you, My people Israel; and they shall possess you, and you shall be an inheritance for them, and you shall not

35:9 Perpetual desolations I will make you Perpetual enmity answered by perpetual desolation. After the exile Arab peoples, the Nabateans, pushed Edom out, and its remnant moved into southern Judah as the Idumeans. Herod the Great came from them. After A.D. 70 they vanish from history.
35:10 The two nations and the two lands shall be mine Israel and Judah. With both carried away, Edom thought it could take the land. Then four words change everything: and the LORD was there. The people were gone, but God had not given up His claim. The book ends with the city named The LORD Is There (48:35).
35:11 I will act according to your anger and according to your jealousy God would treat Edom as Edom treated Israel.
35:12 They are desolate; they have been given to us for devouring Edom mocked Israel's ruin as a meal laid out for it.
35:13 you magnified yourselves against Me with your mouth When Edom insulted Israel, it insulted Israel's God. God hears every word. That should make us careful with our own (Matt 12:36).
35:14 When all the earth rejoices, I will make you a desolation When the whole earth rejoices in God's reign, Edom will have no part in it. Some read it as the nations rejoicing at Edom's fall.
35:15 As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel because it was desolate, so I will do to you Edom rejoiced at Israel's ruin and would be ruined, a warning against gloating (Prov 24:17-18). In the prophets Edom also stands for the nations who hate God's people in the last days (Isa 34:5-6; 63:1-6). God still curses those who curse Israel (Gen 12:3).
36:1 prophesy to the mountains of Israel In chapter 6 Ezekiel prophesied against these mountains for their idol shrines. Now he speaks hope to them. The mountains stand for the whole land.
36:2 The ancient high places have become a possession for us Edom's boast from chapter 35. The nations thought Israel's land was theirs for the taking.
36:5 in the fire of My jealousy I have spoken against the rest of the nations and against Edom God's jealousy is the zeal of love for what belongs to Him. The land is His (Lev 25:23), and He calls it My land.
36:7 I Myself have lifted up My hand Lifting the hand was the sign of an oath. The nations that mocked Israel would bear their own disgrace.
36:8 you shall put forth your branches and bear your fruit for My people Israel The land itself would get ready for its people, as if waiting for them to come home.
36:9 look, I am for you To Mount Seir God said I am against you (35:3). To the mountains of Israel He says I am for you.
36:10 all the house of Israel, all of it The land would be tilled, sown, inhabited and rebuilt. Partly kept when exiles returned under Cyrus in 538 B.C., but all the house of Israel points to a fuller restoration still to come.
36:11 I will do more good to you than at your beginnings The latter days of the land will be better than its first days.
36:12 you shall not again bereave them anymore To bereave is to lose children. The land had been a place where its people died by famine, sword and exile. That would end.

again bereave them anymore. 13 Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they are saying to you, 'You are a devourer of man, and you have been a bereaver of your nations,' 14 therefore you shall not devour man anymore, and you shall not bereave your nations anymore, declares the Lord GOD. 15 And I will not let you hear the disgrace of the nations anymore, and you shall not bear the reproach of the peoples anymore, and you shall not make your nations stumble anymore, declares the Lord GOD."

For My Holy Name

16 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 17 "Son of man, the house of Israel was dwelling on their own ground, and they made it unclean by their way and by their doings; like the uncleanness of menstruation their way was before Me. 18 And I poured out My rage on them for the blood which they had poured out on the land, and with their idols they had made it unclean. 19 And I dispersed them among the nations, and they were scattered among the lands; according to their way and according to their doings I judged them. 20 And they came to the nations where they went, and they profaned My holy name, when it was said of them, 'These are the people of the LORD, and they have come out of His land.' 21 And I had pity on My holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations where they went.

A New Heart and a New Spirit

22 Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Not for your sake am I acting, O house of Israel, but for My holy name, which you have profaned among the nations where you went. 23 And I will sanctify My great name, which has been profaned among the nations, which you have profaned in their midst; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD, declares the Lord GOD, when I am sanctified through you before their eyes. 24 And I will take you from the nations, and gather you from all the lands, and bring you into your own ground. 25 And I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean; from all your uncleannesses and from all your idols I will cleanse you. 26 And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you; and I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh, and I will give you a heart of flesh. 27 And My Spirit I will put within you, and I will bring about that you walk in My statutes, and you shall keep My judgments and do them. 28 And you shall dwell in the land which I gave to your fathers; and you shall be a people to Me, and I will be God to you. 29 And I will save you from all your uncleannesses; and I will call for the grain and multiply it, and I will not put famine on you. 30 And I will multiply the fruit of the tree and the produce of the field, so that you shall no longer receive the reproach of famine among the nations. 31 And you shall remember your evil ways and your deeds which were not good, and you shall loathe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations. 32 Not for your sake am I acting, declares the Lord GOD; let it be known to you. Be ashamed and be humiliated for your ways, O house of Israel.

The Land Like the Garden of Eden

36:13 You are a devourer of man The spies said something similar long ago (Num 13:32). The nations called the land cursed. God says that reputation is over.
36:17 like the uncleanness of menstruation their way was before Me A picture from the law of ceremonial uncleanness (Lev 15:19-24). Their bloodshed and idols made the land unfit for God's presence.
36:19 according to their way and according to their doings I judged them The exile was not cruelty but justice.
36:20 These are the people of the LORD, and they have come out of His land Israel's presence in exile made the nations mock: their God must be weak, since He could not keep His people. When those who bear God's name live badly, the world blames God (Rom 2:24).
36:21 I had pity on My holy name God cared about His name, not from vanity, but because the nations' knowledge of the true God was at stake.
36:22 Not for your sake am I acting, O house of Israel, but for My holy name One of the most humbling verses in the Bible. God would restore Israel not because they deserved it but because of who He is. That is how grace works for all of us (Titus 3:5).
36:23 I will sanctify My great name To sanctify is to show as holy. When God restores Israel, the nations will know He is the LORD.
36:24 gather you from all the lands, and bring you into your own ground The order matters: first the return to the land, then cleansing and a new heart. All the lands is wider than the return from Babylon. Many teachers see the modern return of Jews to the land, and Israel's founding in 1948, as the start of this gathering in unbelief, with spiritual rebirth to follow (37:7-10). I hold that with caution and set no timetable.
36:25 I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean A priest's picture. Under the law sprinkled water cleansed the unclean (Num 19:9-19). But God Himself will do it, washing the heart. This is not water baptism directly but the inner cleansing the law pictured (Titus 3:5; Heb 10:22).
36:26 I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you The heart is the center of the whole person: mind, will and desires. A heart of stone does not soak in God's word, however much is poured on it. God does not soften the old heart; He removes it and gives a living one (11:19). The command of 18:31 shows our need; this verse shows God's gift.
36:27 My Spirit I will put within you The high point of the chapter. God puts His own Spirit within, and obedience grows from inside. Jesus likely had this passage in mind when He spoke of being born of water and the Spirit (John 3:5). It is part of the new covenant made with Israel (Jer 31:31-34), to be fulfilled for the nation when Christ returns (Rom 11:26-27). Believers share its blessings now.
36:28 you shall be a people to Me, and I will be God to you The covenant promise repeated in the land God gave their fathers.
36:30 you shall no longer receive the reproach of famine among the nations God will bless the land as well as the people.
36:31 you shall loathe yourselves in your own sight Notice when this happens: after God has blessed them. Kindness, not punishment, finally breaks their hearts (Rom 2:4).
36:32 Not for your sake am I acting Repeated so they will not miss it. Grace leaves no room for boasting.

everyone who passes by. 35 And they shall say, 'This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden; and the wasted and desolate and broken-down cities are fortified and inhabited.' 36 And the nations which are left all around you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt the broken-down places, I have planted the desolate land; I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it. 37 Thus says the Lord GOD: This also I will let Myself be sought by the house of Israel to do for them: I will multiply them like the flock with men. 38 Like the flock of holy offerings, like the flock of Jerusalem (Yerushalayim) at its appointed times, so the wasted cities shall be full of flocks of men; and they shall know that I am the LORD."

The Valley of Dry Bones

1 The hand of the LORD was upon me, and He brought me out by the Spirit of the LORD and set me down in the midst of the valley; and it was full of bones. 2 And He made me pass by them all around, all around; and look, they were very many on the surface of the valley; and look, they were very dry. 3 And He said to me, "Son of man, shall these bones live?" And I said, "O Lord GOD, You, You know." 4 And He said to me, "Prophesy over these bones, and you shall say to them, 'O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. 5 Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: Look, I am bringing breath into you, and you shall live. 6 And I will put sinews on you, and I will bring up flesh over you, and I will cover you over with skin, and I will put breath in you, and you shall live; and you shall know that I am the LORD.'" 7 And I prophesied as I was commanded; and there was a sound as I prophesied, and look, a rattling, and the bones drew near, bone to its bone. 8 And I looked, and look, sinews were on them, and flesh came up, and skin covered them over from above; and breath, there was none in them. 9 And He said to me, "Prophesy to the breath; prophesy, son of man, and you shall say to the breath, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these killed ones, that they may live.'" 10 And I prophesied as He commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived and stood on their feet, a very, very great army. 11 And He said to me, "Son of man, these bones are all the house of Israel (Yisra'el). Look, they are saying, 'Our bones have dried up, and our hope has perished; we have been cut off, as for us.'

36:35 This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden Isaiah says the same (Isa 51:3). The cleansing of the people and the renewal of the land go together.
36:36 I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it The nations left around Israel will know who rebuilt it.
36:37 This also I will let Myself be sought by the house of Israel Earlier God refused to be consulted (14:3; 20:3). Now He invites their prayers. Restored people pray.
36:38 Like the flock of holy offerings, like the flock of Jerusalem at its appointed times Ezekiel remembered Jerusalem at the great feasts, crowded with sheep for the sacrifices. The empty cities will be that full of people.
37:1 it was full of bones This is a vision, for Ezekiel was carried "by the Spirit of the LORD." For a priest, a valley of human bones was the most unclean place imaginable (Num 19:16). God brought His priest into the place of death to show what He would do with it.
37:2 they were very dry The bones were "very many" and "very dry." These were not the newly dead but people long gone, beyond any human hope of recovery. The point is that Israel's condition was past fixing by ordinary means.
37:3 shall these bones live Ezekiel answered, "O Lord GOD, You, You know." He did not claim faith he lacked or doubt God's power. He left the answer with the only One who could give life.
37:4 O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD Preaching to bones looks foolish, yet God's word does its work whether or not the hearers seem able to respond. Life would come through the spoken word of God, as it does in every true conversion (Rom 10:17).
37:5 I am bringing breath into you, and you shall live The Hebrew ruach means breath, wind, and spirit, and all three meanings run through this chapter. As at creation, the body comes first and then God's breath makes it a living being (Gen 2:7).
37:6 you shall know that I am the LORD The goal of Israel's revival is the same as the goal of her judgment: that she would know the LORD. God restores His people so that His name is honored.
37:7 a rattling, and the bones drew near, bone to its bone The restoration came in stages. First there was a noise and movement as scattered bones found their places, an orderly rebuilding by God's word.
37:8 breath, there was none in them The bodies were whole but still dead. Many see here a picture of Israel regathered to her land in unbelief before her spiritual rebirth. That reading fits the order of the vision, though it should be held with care and no dates set.
37:9 breathe on these killed ones The bones were people who had been slain, victims of judgment. The breath comes "from the four winds," from God Himself. Jesus used wind as a picture of the Spirit's new birth (John 3:8), and He breathed on His disciples (John 20:22).
37:10 a very, very great army The breath came and they stood. A valley of the dead became a host ready to serve. God does not merely revive a few; He raises a nation.
37:11 these bones are all the house of Israel God interpreted the vision Himself. The bones are not the church or mankind in general but "all the house of Israel," both kingdoms, as verses 15-22 make plain.
37:11 Our bones have dried up, and our hope has perished This was what the exiles were saying. They felt as good as dead and cut off. God answered their despair with a promise that does not depend on how they felt.
37:12 I am opening your graves The graves picture the nations where Israel lay buried in exile. Bodily resurrection is taught elsewhere (Dan 12:2; John 5:28-29) and stands behind the image, but the main point here is national return to "the soil of Israel." Note the tender "O My people."
37:14 I will put My Spirit in you, and you shall live This joins the vision to 36:27. The return from Babylon in 538 B.C. was a partial fulfillment, but Israel did not then receive the Spirit as a nation. I take the full fulfillment as future, when Israel is regathered and born again at Christ's return. Some see only the return from exile, and others see a spiritual fulfillment in the church. No one is too dead for God to raise.

37:16 take for yourself one stick A new sign act. One stick was for Judah, the southern kingdom, and one for Joseph and Ephraim, the northern kingdom. The kingdom had split about 930 B.C. after Solomon's death (1 Kgs 12).
37:17 they shall become one in your hand Ezekiel held the two sticks so they looked like one. The people saw a picture of a divided nation made whole.
37:18 Will you not tell us what these are to you Ezekiel's signs drew questions, as earlier (12:9; 24:19). God used the people's curiosity to deliver His message.
37:19 I am taking the stick of Joseph Ezekiel's hand held the sticks, but God says they will be "one in My hand." Only God can heal this old split. The northern tribes were never truly lost; many joined Judah over the years (2 Chr 11:16), and Anna was of Asher (Luke 2:36).
37:21 I will gather them from all around The promise is a gathering from "the nations where they have gone," worldwide, and back to "their own ground." The scope is wider than the return from Babylon alone.
37:22 I will make them one nation in the land One nation under one king, never again two kingdoms. This has not happened since 930 B.C. It awaits the reign of the Messiah.
37:23 they shall no longer make themselves unclean with their idols God will save them from their sins and cleanse them. Then the old covenant words come true at last: they will be His people and He will be their God.
37:24 there shall be one shepherd for all of them "My servant David" is the Messiah, David's greater Son, as at 34:23-24. Under Him Israel will finally keep God's law from the heart (36:27). Jesus called Himself the good shepherd (John 10:11).
37:25 they and their sons and their sons' sons, forever The land promise to Jacob is renewed and made permanent. David My servant will be prince "forever," which only the risen Christ can be. This is a future for national Israel, not a promise transferred to someone else.
37:26 I will put My sanctuary in their midst forever The covenant of peace is "everlasting." In chapters 8-11 the glory left a defiled temple. Here God promises to dwell among His people forever, which chapters 40-48 describe.
37:27 My tabernacle shall be over them God's dwelling will cover them like a shelter. John wrote that the Word tabernacled among us (John 1:14), and Revelation ends with God dwelling with His people (Rev 21:3).
37:28 the nations shall know that I, the LORD, sanctify Israel Israel's restoration will be a witness to the whole world. God's gifts and calling to Israel are not withdrawn (Rom 11:29).
38:2 set your face toward Gog, of the land of Magog Gog is a ruler, a real person addressed directly, known in Scripture only here and in Revelation 20:8. Magog is his land. Magog, Meshech, and Tubal were sons of Japheth (Gen 10:2), peoples of Asia Minor and the far north.
38:2 the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal The Hebrew ro'sh usually means head or chief, and the SLB reads it as a title. Others read prince of Rosh, taking Rosh as a place. The popular link of Rosh with Russia and Meshech with Moscow rests on sound alone and is not proven. We should not name any modern nation as certain.
38:4 put hooks in your jaws, and I will bring you out Gog thinks he is choosing to invade, but God drags him out like a captured beast, as He said of Pharaoh (29:4). The nations move only within God's control.
38:4 all of them clothed in perfection Gog's army is splendidly equipped, described in the weapons of Ezekiel's own day: horses, shields, and swords. The prophet used the terms his hearers knew to describe a vast, well-armed host.

Gog's Evil Plan

10 Thus says the Lord GOD: And it shall come about on that day that things shall come up on your heart, and you shall devise an evil plan, 11 and you shall say, "I will go up against a land of open villages; I will come to those who are at rest, who dwell in security, all of them dwelling without a wall, and they have no bars and gates," 12 to seize spoil and to take plunder, to turn your hand against the inhabited waste places, and against a people gathered from nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, who dwell at the navel of the earth. 13 Sheba (Sheva) and Dedan and the traders of Tarshish and all its young lions shall say to you, "Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your company to take plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take livestock and goods, to seize great spoil?"' 14 Therefore prophesy, son of man, and you shall say to Gog, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day, when My people Israel dwell in security, will you not know it? 15 And you shall come from your place, from the remotest parts of the north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding horses, a great company and a numerous army. 16 And you shall come up against My people Israel like the cloud to cover the land; at the end of the days it shall be, and I will bring you against My land, so that the nations may know Me, when I am sanctified through you before their eyes, O Gog.

God's Fury Against Gog

17 Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you he of whom I spoke in former days by the hand of My servants the prophets of Israel, who prophesied in those days for years that I would bring you against them? 18 And it shall come about on that day, on the day Gog comes against the soil of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, that My rage shall come up in My anger. 19 And in My jealousy, in the fire of My wrath, I have spoken: Surely on that day there shall be a great quaking on the soil of Israel. 20 And the fish of the sea and the birds of the heavens and the animals of the field and every moving thing that moves on the ground, and all mankind who are on the surface of the ground, shall quake before Me; and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the earth. 21 And I will call for a sword against him on all My mountains, declares the Lord GOD; the 38:5 Persia, Cush, and Put with them Persia lay east, in what is now Iran. Cush was south of Egypt on the upper Nile, and Put was in North Africa. With the northern peoples of verse 6, Israel is surrounded on every side.

38:6 Gomer and all its troops, the house of Togarmah Gomer and Togarmah also come from Genesis 10:2-3, peoples of the far north of Ezekiel's world. "The remotest parts of the north" was the direction from which Israel's great invaders usually came.
38:7 Be prepared, and prepare yourself God almost mocks Gog. Let him gather and arm his allies; no preparation will help against the LORD.
38:8 in the latter part of the years This verse sets the time. The attack comes after Israel has been "gathered from many peoples" to mountains that had been "a continual waste." That cannot be the Babylonian invasion, which came before the exile, and nothing in later history matches it. I take it as future, in the last days.
38:8 they shall dwell in security, all of them Pre-tribulation premillennial teachers agree the invasion is future but differ on when. Some place it before the seven-year Tribulation, some early or near its midpoint under the covenant of Daniel 9:27, and some at its end with Armageddon. Israel's apparent security favors an earlier time, but we should not be dogmatic.
38:9 like the cloud to cover the land you shall be The army is so large it covers the whole land like a storm cloud. To human eyes Israel has no chance.
38:10 you shall devise an evil plan God brings Gog out, yet the wicked plan is Gog's own. God uses the evil already in men's hearts without being its author (Jas 1:13).
38:11 a land of open villages Israel will be living without walls, bars, or gates, apparently at peace. Gog sees an easy target. What looks like weakness will become the stage for God's power.
38:12 who dwell at the navel of the earth Israel is at the center of the earth in God's plan, the land bridge between continents and the place where He set His name (5:5). Gog's motive is plunder: livestock, goods, and wealth.
38:13 Sheba and Dedan and the traders of Tarshish Trading nations of Arabia and the far west watch and question Gog, but they do nothing to stop him. Their interest is commerce, not justice.
38:14 when My people Israel dwell in security God calls them "My people Israel." Gog will notice their unguarded state, but he forgets whose people they are.
38:16 so that the nations may know Me Here is God's real purpose. He brings Gog against "My land" so that He will be "sanctified" before the nations. The invasion will end in a display of God's holiness to the world.
38:17 Are you he of whom I spoke in former days No earlier prophet names Gog, but many foretold a final enemy and a gathering of nations against Jerusalem that God would defeat (Joel 3:1-2; Zeph 3:8; Zech 14:2-3). Gog fulfills that whole line of prophecy.
38:18 My rage shall come up in My anger Israel does not win this battle; God Himself goes to war for His people. The language is strong because the attack is on what belongs to Him.
38:19 there shall be a great quaking on the soil of Israel A great earthquake is part of God's intervention. Scripture links such shaking with the day of the LORD (Joel 3:16; Zech 14:4-5; Rev 16:18).
38:20 all mankind who are on the surface of the ground, shall quake before Me Creatures, people, and mountains all tremble. The whole creation responds when God steps in to judge.
38:21 the sword of each man shall be against his brother Gog's army will turn on itself in confusion, as Gideon's enemies did (Judg 7:22) and as the armies that came against Jehoshaphat did (2 Chr 20:23).

sword of each man shall be against his brother. 22 And I will enter into judgment with him with pestilence and with blood; and an overflowing rain and hailstones, fire and sulfur I will rain on him and on his troops and on the many peoples who are with him. 23 And I will magnify Myself and sanctify Myself, and I will make Myself known in the eyes of many nations; and they shall know that I am the LORD.'"

EZEKIEL 39

The Defeat of Gog

1 "And you, son of man, prophesy against Gog, and you shall say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Look, I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech (Meshekh) and Tubal (Tuval). 2 And I will turn you around and lead you on, and I will bring you up from the remotest parts of the north, and I will bring you against the mountains of Israel (Yisra'el). 3 And I will strike your bow from your left hand, and I will make your arrows fall from your right hand. 4 On the mountains of Israel you shall fall, you and all your troops and the peoples who are with you; to birds of prey, birds of every wing, and to the animals of the field I have given you for food. 5 On the surface of the field you shall fall, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. 6 And I will send fire on Magog and on those who dwell in the coastlands in security; and they shall know that I am the LORD. 7 And My holy name I will make known in the midst of My people Israel, and I will not let My holy name be profaned anymore; and the nations shall know that I, the LORD, am holy in Israel. 8 Look, it is coming, and it shall be done, declares the Lord GOD; that is the day of which I have spoken. 9 And those who dwell in the cities of Israel shall go out and burn and kindle fires with weapons, shield and large shield, with bow and with arrows, and with hand-staff and with spear; and they shall kindle fire with them seven years. 10 And they shall not carry wood from the field, and shall not cut it from the forests, for with the weapons they shall kindle fire; and they shall despoil those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, declares the Lord GOD.

Burying Gog's Army

11 And it shall come about on that day that I will give to Gog a place there, a grave in Israel, the valley of those who pass through, east of the sea; and it shall block those who pass through; and they shall bury Gog and all his multitude there, and they shall call it the valley of Hamon-gog. 12 And the house of Israel shall bury them, in order to cleanse the land, seven months. 13 And all the people of the land shall bury them, and it shall become a name for them, the day I am glorified, declares the Lord GOD. 14 And they shall set apart men of continual duty, passing through the land, burying those who pass through, those who remain on the surface of the land, to cleanse it; at the end of seven months they shall search. 15 And those who pass through shall pass through the land, and one shall see a bone of man, and he shall build a marker beside it, until the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-gog. 16 And also the name of the city is Hamonah. And they shall cleanse the land.'

38:22 an overflowing rain and hailstones, fire and sulfur God judges from heaven, as with the hail on Egypt (Exod 9:23-24) and the fire and sulfur on Sodom (Gen 19:24). No army can stand against weapons like these.
38:23 I will magnify Myself and sanctify Myself This is the heart of chapters 38-39. They are not mainly a puzzle about modern politics but a revelation that God is holy, keeps His promises to Israel, and rules the nations.
39:1 Look, I am against you, O Gog God repeats the opening words of 38:3. Chapter 39 retells the invasion with more attention to its outcome and its meaning for Israel and the nations.
39:2 I will turn you around and lead you on God leads Gog to the very place of his defeat. Some see in this passage the same event as Revelation 20:8, at the end of the thousand years; most premillennial teachers see a separate, earlier invasion, since Gog's dead are buried for months afterward. Amillennial teachers take both as one symbolic last battle.
39:3 I will strike your bow from your left hand An archer held the bow in his left hand and drew with his right. God disarms Gog's army before it can fight.
39:4 On the mountains of Israel you shall fall The land Gog came to plunder becomes his grave. The defeat is total, and the bodies are left to the birds and beasts, a mark of utter disgrace in the ancient world.
39:6 I will send fire on Magog and on those who dwell in the coastlands in security Judgment reaches past the battlefield to Gog's homeland and distant allies who thought themselves safe. Those who attacked Israel's "security" lose their own.
39:7 I will not let My holy name be profaned anymore Israel's exile had profaned God's name among the nations (36:20-23). Gog's defeat will show the world that the LORD is holy and is Israel's God.
39:8 it is coming, and it shall be done God speaks of the future as already settled. What He has spoken is as certain as what has already happened.
39:9 they shall kindle fire with them seven years The weapons are so many that they serve as fuel for seven years. Ezekiel named the weapons of his own day, made of wood and leather. Some think future weapons will also be burnable; others take the words as standing for war material in general. The seven years also bear on the timing views at 38:8.
39:10 plunder those who plundered them Gog came to take plunder (38:12), but Israel takes his instead. God turns the tables on those who attack His people.
39:11 a grave in Israel, the valley of those who pass through, east of the sea The sea is likely the Dead Sea. The valley will be renamed Hamon-gog, meaning multitude of Gog. Gog wanted a name and a prize; he gets only a burial place.
39:12 in order to cleanse the land, seven months Dead bodies made the land unclean (Num 19:11-16; Deut 21:22-23). Israel's long work of burial shows both the size of the slaughter and God's concern that His land be pure.
39:13 the day I am glorified Burying the enemy will become a memorial for Israel. The day of victory is the day God is glorified.
39:14 they shall set apart men of continual duty Even after seven months, men will search the land for remaining bones. The care given to cleanliness prepares for the holy land and temple of chapters 40-48.
39:16 the name of the city is Hamonah Hamonah also means multitude. A town nearby will bear a name that recalls God's victory.

The Great Sacrifice

17 And you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: Say to the birds of every wing and to every animal of the field, 'Assemble and come; gather yourselves from all around to My sacrifice which I am sacrificing for you, a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel; and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. 18 The flesh of mighty men you shall eat, and the blood of the princes of the earth you shall drink, of rams, lambs, and male goats, bulls, fatlings of Bashan, all of them. 19 And you shall eat fat to satiety and drink blood to drunkenness from My sacrifice which I have sacrificed for you. 20 And you shall be satisfied at My table with horse and charioteer, mighty man and every man of war, declares the Lord GOD.'

Israel Restored and the Spirit Poured Out

21 And I will set My glory among the nations, and all the nations shall see My judgment which I have executed and My hand which I have laid on them. 22 And the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God from that day and onward. 23 And the nations shall know that for their iniquity the house of Israel went into exile, because they acted unfaithfully against Me, and I hid My face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they fell by the sword, all of them. 24 According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions I have dealt with them, and I hid My face from them. 25 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Now I will turn back the captivity of Jacob (Ya'aqov), and I will have compassion on all the house of Israel, and I will be jealous for My holy name. 26 And they shall bear their disgrace and all their unfaithfulness with which they acted unfaithfully against Me, when they dwell on their own ground in security, and no one makes them afraid, 27 when I bring them back from the peoples and gather them from the lands of their enemies, and I am sanctified through them in the eyes of the many nations. 28 And they shall know that I am the LORD their God, in that I sent them into exile to the nations, and I will gather them to their own ground, and I will not leave any of them there anymore. 29 And I will not hide My face from them anymore, for I have poured out My Spirit on the house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD."

The Vision of the New Temple

1 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on this very day the hand of the LORD was on me, and He brought me there. 2 In visions of God He brought me to the land of Israel (Yisra'el), and He set me down on a very high mountain, and on it was something like the structure of a city on the south. 3 And He brought me there, and look, a man, his appearance was like the appearance of bronze, and a cord of linen was in his hand, and the reed of measurement; and he was standing in the gate. 4 And the man spoke to me, "Son of man, see with your

39:17 My sacrifice which I am sacrificing for you This is a hard picture, and it is meant to shock. God calls the slain army a sacrifice and invites the birds and beasts to it. It is the language of complete judgment, not something to dwell on in detail.
39:18 The flesh of mighty men you shall eat The mighty and the princes who came against Israel are brought low. Revelation 19:17-18 uses the same picture at Christ's return. Whether that is the same event or a parallel one is not certain.
39:20 you shall be satisfied at My table The warriors who came to feast on Israel's goods become food themselves. It shows how serious it is to fight against God.
39:21 I will set My glory among the nations The battle now turns to its meaning. The nations will see both God's judgment and His hand, and they will know that He is the true God.
39:22 from that day and onward From that day on Israel will never again doubt who her God is. This points to a lasting change, not a passing revival.
39:23 for their iniquity the house of Israel went into exile The nations will understand that Israel's exile was not the LORD's weakness but His judgment on her sin. He "hid My face," turning away His favor, as Moses warned (Deut 31:17-18).
39:25 Now I will turn back the captivity of Jacob These closing verses look past Gog to the whole restoration. God will bring His people home, have compassion on them, and be "jealous for My holy name."
39:26 they shall bear their disgrace Living in safety, Israel will remember her sin with shame, as at 36:31. Grace does not make sin seem small; it humbles those who receive it.
39:28 I will not leave any of them there anymore No return in history has gathered every Jew to the land. This full gathering awaits the future, when the Messiah returns.
39:29 I have poured out My Spirit on the house of Israel God hid His face because of sin; He will never hide it again, because His Spirit will be on His people (36:27; 37:14). Pentecost was a first fulfillment of the parallel promise in Joel 2:28 (Acts 2:16-17), but the full outpouring on the nation is still ahead. Believers today already have the Spirit and are never forsaken (Rom 8:38-39).
40:1 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile This is about 573 B.C., fourteen years after Jerusalem fell. "The beginning of the year" may mean the first month, when the Passover lamb was chosen on the tenth day (Exod 12:3), or the seventh month, when the Day of Atonement fell on the tenth day and the jubilee was announced (Lev 25:9). Twenty-five years is half a jubilee.
40:2 In visions of God He brought me to the land of Israel Ezekiel's last great vision (chapters 40-48) answers his vision of the defiled temple (chapters 8-11). There he saw the glory leave; here he will see it return. I take this as a real future temple in Christ's millennial kingdom. Others see Zerubbabel's temple, a symbol of the church, heaven, or an ideal never meant to be built.
40:2 a very high mountain This fits prophecies that in the last days the mountain of the LORD's house will be raised above the hills (Isa 2:2; Mic 4:1), and that the land around Jerusalem will be changed (Zech 14:10).
40:3 his appearance was like the appearance of bronze The guide is a heavenly messenger, perhaps an angel, holding a linen cord for long distances and a measuring reed for shorter ones. Measuring in Scripture marks what God claims and protects (Zech 2:1-5; Rev 11:1; 21:15).
40:4 Tell all that you are seeing to the house of Israel Ezekiel was to look closely and report it all. The detail was meant for Israel to study (43:10-11), which is one reason I take the temple as real and not merely symbolic.

eyes, and with your ears hear, and set your heart on all that I am showing you, for in order to show you, you have been brought here. Tell all that you are seeing to the house of Israel."

The Outer Wall and the East Gate

5 And look, a wall was on the outside of the house, all around, all around; and in the hand of the man was the reed of measurement, approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits) by the cubit and a handbreadth. And he measured the breadth of the structure, approximately 10.5 feet (one reed), and the height, approximately 10.5 feet (one reed). 6 And he went to the gate whose face was in the direction toward the east, and he went up on its steps, and he measured the threshold of the gate, approximately 10.5 feet (one reed) in breadth, and the one threshold, approximately 10.5 feet (one reed) in breadth. 7 And the chamber was approximately 10.5 feet (one reed) in length and approximately 10.5 feet (one reed) in breadth; and between the chambers were approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits); and the threshold of the gate beside the porch of the gate from the inside was approximately 10.5 feet (one reed). 8 And he measured the porch of the gate from the inside, approximately 10.5 feet (one reed). 9 And he measured the porch of the gate, approximately 14 feet (eight cubits), and its pillars, approximately 3.5 feet (two cubits); and the porch of the gate was from the inside. 10 And the chambers of the gate in the direction of the east were three on this side and three on this side; one measurement belonged to the three of them, and one measurement belonged to the pillars on this side and on this side. 11 And he measured the breadth of the entrance of the gate, approximately 17.5 feet (ten cubits), and the length of the gate, approximately 23 feet (thirteen cubits). 12 And a barrier before the chambers was approximately 1.75 feet (one cubit), and approximately 1.75 feet (one cubit) was the barrier on this side; and the chamber was approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits) on this side and approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits) on this side. 13 And he measured the gate from the roof of the chamber to its roof, a breadth of approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits), entrance opposite entrance. 14 And he made pillars, approximately 105 feet (sixty cubits), and to the pillar of the courtyard was the gate, all around, all around. 15 And at the face of the gate of the entrance, to the front of the porch of the inner gate, was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits). 16 And closed windows were toward the chambers and toward their pillars within the gate all around, all around, and so for the vestibules; and windows were all around, all around within; and on the pillar were palm trees.

The Outer Court and Its Gates

17 And he brought me into the outer courtyard, and look, rooms and a pavement made for the courtyard all around, all around; thirty rooms were on the pavement. 18 And the pavement was by the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates, the lower pavement. 19 And he measured the breadth from before the lower gate to the front of the inner courtyard on the outside, approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits), on the east and on the north. 20 And the gate whose face was in the direction of the north, belonging to the outer courtyard, he measured its length and its breadth. 21 And its chambers, three on this side and three on this side, and its pillars and its vestibules were according to the measurement of the first gate: its length approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and the breadth approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits) by the cubit. 22 And its windows and its vestibules and its palm trees were according to the measurement of the gate whose face was in the direction of the east; and by seven steps they go up into it, and its vestibules were before them. 23 And a gate to the inner courtyard was opposite the gate to the north and to the east; and he measured from gate to gate, approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits). 24 And he led me in the direction of the south, and look, a gate in the direction of the south; and he measured its pillars and its vestibules according to these measurements. 25 And windows belonged to it and to its vestibules all around, all around, like these windows; the length was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and the breadth approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits). 26 And seven steps were its stairways, and its vestibules were before them; and palm trees belonged to it, one on this side and one on this side, on its pillars. 27 And a gate belonged to the inner courtyard in the direction of the south; and he measured from gate to the gate in the direction of the south, approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits).

40:5 a wall was on the outside of the house, all around The first thing Ezekiel sees is a wall around the whole area. Its purpose is stated at 42:20: to separate the holy from the common. The SLB gives the long cubit, a cubit and a handbreadth, as about 1.75 feet, so the reed is about 10.5 feet.

40:6 he went to the gate whose face was in the direction toward the east The tour begins at the east gate, facing the way the glory departed (10:19; 11:23) and the way it will return (43:1-2).

40:10 three on this side and three on this side Each gate is a large building with three guardrooms on each side of its passage. Gates of this shape from Solomon's era have been found at Megiddo, Hazor, and Gezer. Here they guard the holiness of God's house.

40:16 on the pillar were palm trees Palms recall the carvings of Solomon's temple (1 Kgs 6:29). They stood for life, fruitfulness, and victory (Ps 92:12; John 12:13).

40:17 thirty rooms were on the pavement These rooms in the outer court were probably for worshipers, perhaps for eating the meals of the peace offerings. The outer court is the people's place.

40:21 according to the measurement of the first gate The north gate matches the east gate exactly, and so does the south (40:24-25). No gate is better than another; all who come to God come by the same measure. There is no west gate.

40:22 by seven steps they go up into it The outer gates are reached by seven steps. The temple rises as one moves inward, picturing a climb toward the presence of God.

the south, and he measured the gate of the south according to these measurements. 29 And its chambers and its pillars and its vestibules were according to these measurements; and windows belonged to it and to its vestibules all around, all around; the length was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and the breadth approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits). 30 And vestibules were all around, all around; the length was approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits), and the breadth approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits). 31 And its vestibules were toward the outer courtyard, and palm trees were on its pillars, and eight steps were its ascents. 32 And he brought me into the inner courtyard in the direction of the east, and he measured the gate according to these measurements. 33 And its chambers and its pillars and its vestibules were according to these measurements; and windows belonged to it and to its vestibules all around, all around; the length was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and the breadth approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits). 34 And its vestibules were toward the outer courtyard, and palm trees were on its pillars on this side and on this side, and eight steps were its ascents. 35 And he brought me to the gate of the north, and he measured it according to these measurements: 36 its chambers, its pillars and its vestibules; and windows belonged to it all around, all around; the length was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and the breadth approximately 44 feet (twenty-five cubits). 37 And its pillars were toward the outer courtyard, and palm trees were on its pillars on this side and on this side, and eight steps were its ascents.

Tables for the Offerings

38 And a room and its entrance were by the pillars of the gates; there they rinse the burnt offering. 39 And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side and two tables on this side, to slaughter on them the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering. 40 And at the side outside, for the one going up to the entrance of the gate toward the north, were two tables; and at the other side, which belonged to the porch of the gate, were two tables. 41 Four tables were on this side and four tables on this side, at the side of the gate: eight tables on which they slaughter. 42 And four tables for the burnt offering were hewn stones: the length approximately 2.6 feet (one cubit and a half), and the breadth approximately 2.6 feet (one cubit and a half), and the height approximately 1.75 feet (one cubit). On them they set down the instruments with which they slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice. 43 And the hooks, approximately 3 inches (one handbreadth), were fixed on the inside all around, all around; and on the tables was the flesh of the offering.

Rooms for the Singers and Priests

44 And outside the inner gate were rooms of singers in the inner courtyard, which was at the side of the gate of the north, and their faces were in the direction of the south; one was at the side of the gate of the east, its face in the direction of the north. 45 And he spoke to me, "This room whose face is in the direction of the south is for the priests, the keepers of the charge of the house. 46 And the room whose face is in the direction of the north is for the priests, the keepers of the charge of the altar. They are the sons of Zadok (Tsadoq), the ones drawing near from the sons of Levi to the LORD to minister to Him." 47 And he measured the courtyard, the length approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits) and the breadth approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits), squared; and the altar was before the house. 48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and he measured the pillar of the porch, approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) on this side and approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) on this side; and the breadth of the gate was approximately 5.25 feet (three cubits) on this side and approximately 5.25 feet (three cubits) on this side. 49 The length of the porch was approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits), and the breadth approximately 19 feet (eleven cubits), and it was by the steps by which they go up to it; and columns were by the pillars, one on this side and one on this side.

40:31 eight steps were its ascents The inner gates have eight steps, so the inner court stands higher still. Some see eight as the number of a new beginning, but Scripture does not explain the numbers, so this is only a thought.
40:34 its vestibules were toward the outer courtyard The inner gates face outward, mirroring the outer gates. Every part of the plan draws the worshiper inward and upward toward God's house.
40:39 the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering At the inner gates are tables for the offerings. A burnt offering was wholly burned in full dedication (Lev 1). Sin and guilt offerings dealt with sin and wrongs done. Their meaning in the coming kingdom is discussed at 43:18-27.
40:41 eight tables on which they slaughter Four tables stand on each side of the gate. The temple is a place of real worship, with the kinds of offerings Israel knew.
40:44 rooms of singers in the inner courtyard Song will fill this temple as it did in David's time (1 Chr 25). Worship in the kingdom will be joyful and ordered.
40:46 They are the sons of Zadok Zadok was the priest who stayed loyal to David and anointed Solomon (1 Kgs 1:32-39). His line alone will serve at the altar, a reward for faithfulness explained at 44:15.
40:47 squared; and the altar was before the house The inner court is a perfect square, and the altar stands at its center, before the temple building. Everything in the plan is arranged around the place of sacrifice.
40:49 it was by the steps by which they go up to it Steps lead up to the porch of the temple itself, higher again. God is holy, yet He has made a way to come near. For us that way is Christ (Heb 10:19-22).

The Temple Building

1 And he brought me to the temple, and he measured the pillars, approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits) in breadth on this side and approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits) in breadth on this side, the breadth of the tent. 2 And the breadth of the entrance was approximately 17.5 feet (ten cubits), and the sides of the entrance were approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) on this side and approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) on this side; and he measured its length, approximately 70 feet (forty cubits), and the breadth, approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits). 3 And he went inward, and he measured the pillar of the entrance, approximately 3.5 feet (two cubits), and the entrance, approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits), and the breadth of the entrance, approximately 12 feet (seven cubits). 4 And he measured its length, approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits), and the breadth, approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits), before the face of the temple; and he said to me, "This is the holy of holies."

The Side Chambers

5 And he measured the wall of the house, approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits), and the breadth of the side chamber, approximately 7 feet (four cubits), all around, all around the house, all around. 6 And the side chambers were side chamber upon side chamber, thirty-three times; and they were entering into the wall which belonged to the house for the side chambers all around, all around, to be held, but they would not be held in the wall of the house. 7 And it became broad and it wound around higher and higher for the side chambers, for the winding around of the house went higher and higher all around, all around the house; therefore the breadth of the house increased upward, and so from the lowest story one goes up to the highest by the middle story. 8 And I saw a height belonging to the house all around, all around: the foundations of the side chambers were the fullness of the reed, approximately 10.5 feet (six cubits), to the joint. 9 The breadth of the wall which belonged to the side chamber toward the outside was approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits); and that which was left free was between the side chambers which belonged to the house. 10 And between the rooms was a breadth of approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits) around the house, all around, all around. 11 And the entrance of the side chamber was toward the free space, one entrance in the direction of the north and one entrance toward the south; and the breadth of the place of the free space was approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) all around, all around. 12 And the structure which was before the face of the separate area, at the side in the direction of the west, was approximately 122.5 feet (seventy cubits) in breadth, and the wall of the structure was approximately 8.75 feet (five cubits) in breadth all around, all around, and its length approximately 157.5 feet (ninety cubits). 13 And he measured the house, the length approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits); and the separate area and the structure and its walls, the length approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits); 14 and the breadth of the face of the house and the separate area toward the east, approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits).

Carvings and Doors

15 And he measured the length of the structure before the face of the separate area which was behind it, and its galleries on this side and on this side, approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits); and the inner temple and the porches of the courtyard, 16 the thresholds and the closed windows and the galleries all around the three of them opposite the threshold were paneling of wood all around, all around, and from the ground to the windows, and the windows were covered, 17 to the space above the entrance, and to the inner house, and to the outside, and on all the wall all around, all around, in the inner part and in the outer part, by measurements. 18 And it was made with cherubim and palm trees, and a palm tree was between cherub and cherub; and two faces belonged to the cherub: 19 and the face of a man was toward the palm tree on this side, and the face of a young lion was toward the palm tree on this side; it was made on all the house all around, all around. 20 From the ground to above the entrance the cherubim and the palm trees were made, and on

41:1 he brought me to the temple The word here means the main hall, the holy place. As Ezekiel moves inward, the doorways grow narrower: the way into God's presence narrows the deeper one goes.
41:3 he went inward The guide entered the inner room alone. Ezekiel was a priest but not the high priest, and only the high priest could enter the most holy place, once a year (Lev 16:2, 34).
41:4 This is the holy of holies The inner room is a perfect square. Ezekiel mentions no ark. Jeremiah said that in days to come no one would miss the ark, for Jerusalem itself would be called the throne of the LORD (Jer 3:16-17). Ezekiel also names no high priest, lampstand, or veil.
41:6 side chamber upon side chamber, thirty-three times Side rooms surround the building on three stories, usually taken as thirty rooms on each level. Some details of verses 7-9 are hard in the Hebrew, but the picture is clear: an ordered house surrounded by rooms for those who serve.
41:8 the foundations of the side chambers were the fullness of the reed The whole building stands on a raised platform about 10.5 feet high. God's house is lifted above its surroundings.
41:12 the structure which was before the face of the separate area A large building stands west of the temple. Ezekiel does not say what it was for. Some compare it with the Parbar of 1 Chronicles 26:18, but that is only a guess.
41:13 he measured the house, the length approximately 175 feet The temple area is a perfect square. Squares run through this vision, and the holy city of Revelation is also foursquare (Rev 21:16).
41:18 a palm tree was between cherub and cherub The walls are carved with cherubim and palm trees. Cherubim guarded the way to the tree of life after the fall (Gen 3:24), and palms speak of life. Some see a picture of paradise restored, with access to God opened again.
41:19 the face of a man was toward the palm tree on this side, and the face of a young lion The cherubim of chapter 1 had four faces, but carved on a flat wall only two are shown, a man and a young lion, each turned toward a palm.

And he spoke to me, "This is the table which is before the LORD." 23 And two doors belonged to the temple and to the holy place. 24 And two leaves belonged to the doors, two turning leaves: two leaves belonged to one door, and two leaves to the other. 25 And there were made on them, on the doors of the temple, cherubim and palm trees, just as they were made on the walls; and a threshold of wood was on the face of the porch from the outside. 26 And closed windows and palm trees were on this side and on this side, on the sides of the porch, and the side chambers of the house, and the thresholds.

The Priests' Rooms

1 And he brought me out into the outer courtyard, by the way in the direction of the north; and he brought me to the room which was opposite the separate area and which was opposite the structure toward the north. 2 Before the face of the length of approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits) was the entrance of the north, and the breadth was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits). 3 Opposite the approximately 35 feet (twenty cubits) which belonged to the inner courtyard, and opposite the pavement which belonged to the outer courtyard, was gallery before the face of gallery in three stories. 4 And before the rooms was a walkway of approximately 17.5 feet (ten cubits) in breadth toward the inner part, a way of approximately 1.75 feet (one cubit); and their entrances were toward the north. 5 And the upper rooms were short, for galleries consumed from them, more than from the lower and from the middle rooms of the structure. 6 For they were threefold, and there were no columns belonging to them like the columns of the courtyards; therefore it was reduced more than the lower and more than the middle from the ground. 7 And the wall which was outside, corresponding to the rooms, in the direction of the outer courtyard before the face of the rooms, its length was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits). 8 For the length of the rooms which belonged to the outer courtyard was approximately 87.5 feet (fifty cubits), and look, on the face of the temple was approximately 175 feet (a hundred cubits). 9 And below these rooms was the way leading in from the east, when one comes to them from the outer courtyard. 10 In the breadth of the wall of the courtyard in the direction of the east, before the face of the separate area and before the face of the structure, were rooms. 11 And a way was before them, like the appearance of the rooms which were in the direction of the north; like their length, so was their breadth, and all their exits, and like their arrangements, and like their entrances. 12 And like the entrances of the rooms which were in the direction of the south was an entrance at the head of the way, the way in front of the corresponding wall in the direction of the east, when one comes to them. 13 And he said to me, "The rooms of the north and the rooms of the south which are before the face of the separate area, they are the rooms of holiness where the priests who are near to the LORD shall eat the most holy things. There they shall set down the most holy things, and the grain offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering, for the place is holy. 14 When the priests go in, then they shall not go out from the holy place into the outer courtyard, and there they shall set down their garments in which they minister, for they are holiness; and they shall put on other garments, and they shall draw near to that which is for the people."

The Wall Around the Temple

15 And he finished the measurements of the inner house, and he brought me out by the way of the gate whose face is in the direction of the east, and he measured it all around, all around. 16 He measured the side of the east with the reed of measurement, approximately 5,250 feet (five hundred reeds), by the reed of measurement all around. 17 He measured the side of the north, approximately 5,250 feet (five hundred reeds), by the reed of measurement all around. 18 The side of the south he measured, approximately 5,250 feet (five hun-

42:16 Ezek 40:3; Zech 2:1; Rev 11:1,2

41:22 The altar was wood This wooden piece is called "the table which is before the LORD." Most take it as the table of showbread, where loaves were set before God each Sabbath (Exod 25:23-30; Lev 24:5-9). Some take it as the altar of incense. Jesus is the bread of life (John 6:35).
41:24 two turning leaves The doors of the holy place and the inner room each had two folding leaves, as in Solomon's temple (1 Kgs 6:31-35).
41:25 cherubim and palm trees, just as they were made on the walls The doors carry the same carvings, but no gold overlay is mentioned. This temple's glory is not in its gold but in the presence of the LORD who will fill it (43:5). For believers today, the way into the holiest is already open through Christ (Heb 10:19-20).
42:1 he brought me out into the outer courtyard Ezekiel is shown long buildings of rooms north and south of the temple. The Hebrew of verses 3-12 is hard in places, and scholars draw the plan in slightly different ways, but the purpose of the rooms is made plain in verse 13.
42:5 the upper rooms were short The rooms stood in three stories, with the upper ones narrower because they had no columns and galleries took up space. The building was carefully made for its use.
42:13 they are the rooms of holiness These rooms are where the priests eat the most holy offerings and store them. Under the law, parts of the grain, sin, and guilt offerings belonged to the priests and were eaten in a holy place (Lev 6:16, 26; 7:6).
42:14 they shall set down their garments in which they minister, for they are holiness The priests must change clothes before going out to the people. God was teaching the difference between holy and common (44:23). We are not under these rules, but we are still called to be holy as God is holy (1 Pet 1:15-16).
42:16 He measured the side of the east with the reed of measurement Each side measures about 5,250 feet in the SLB, which follows the Hebrew reeds. Some scholars, following the Greek in places, read cubits, about 875 feet a side. The larger figure fits the size of the holy portion in chapter 45, though others think it too big for the temple area alone.

The Glory Returns

1 And he led me to the gate, the gate which was facing the direction of the east. 2 And look, the glory of the God of Israel (Yisra'el) came from the direction of the east; and His sound was like the sound of many waters, and the earth shone from His glory. 3 And it was like the appearance of the vision which I saw, like the vision which I saw when I came to destroy the city; and visions were like the vision which I saw by the river Chebar (Kevar); and I fell on my face. 4 And the glory of the LORD came into the house by the way of the gate whose face was in the direction of the east. 5 And a spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner courtyard; and look, the glory of the LORD filled the house. 6 And I heard One speaking to me from the house, and a man was standing beside me. 7 And He said to me, "Son of man, this is the place of My throne and the place of the soles of My feet, where I will dwell there in the midst of the sons of Israel forever. And the house of Israel shall not again defile My holy name, they and their kings, by their prostitution and by the corpses of their kings, their high places, 8 in their setting their threshold with My threshold and their doorpost beside My doorpost, and the wall was between Me and them; and they defiled My holy name by their abominations which they did, and I consumed them in My anger. 9 Now let them put far away their prostitution and the corpses of their kings from Me, and I will dwell in their midst forever.

The Law of the House

10 You, son of man, declare the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and let them measure the pattern. 11 And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, the design of the house and its arrangement and its exits and its entrances, and all its designs and all its statutes, and all its designs and all its laws, make known to them; and write it before their eyes, so that they may keep all its design and all its statutes, and do them. 12 This is the law of the house: on the top of the mountain all its territory all around, all around shall be a holy of holies. Look, this is the law of the house.

The Altar and Its Cleansing

42:20 to separate between the holy and the common This line sums up the whole tour. The wall does not shut people out of God's love; it marks what belongs to God. In chapters 8-11 that line had been erased, and the glory left. Now it is drawn clearly again, so the glory can return.
43:2 the glory of the God of Israel came from the direction of the east This is the moment the whole book has waited for. The glory left by the east gate and paused over the mount east of the city (10:18-19; 11:23). Now it returns the same way. Premillennial teachers connect this with Christ's return to the Mount of Olives (Zech 14:4; Acts 1:11-12), though the New Testament does not cite Ezekiel 43 for it.
43:2 His sound was like the sound of many waters The sound matches the vision of 1:24, and John heard the risen Christ speak with a voice like many waters (Rev 1:15). The earth itself shines with His glory.
43:3 when I came to destroy the city Ezekiel saw the same glory he had seen at the Chebar (chapter 1) and when he prophesied Jerusalem's fall (chapters 8-11). The God who judged is the God who returns, and Ezekiel falls on his face again.
43:5 the glory of the LORD filled the house As when the tabernacle and Solomon's temple were dedicated (Exod 40:34-35; 1 Kgs 8:10-11), the glory fills the house. No record says this happened at the second temple. The glory did come there in the Son (John 1:14), but He was rejected.
43:7 this is the place of My throne and the place of the soles of My feet The voice from the house is the LORD Himself. The ark had been called His footstool (1 Chr 28:2; Ps 132:7); now He needs no ark, for He is present. He promises to dwell among Israel "forever."
43:8 their setting their threshold with My threshold Solomon's palace stood right beside the temple, with only a wall between. Kings had treated God's house as their own chapel and brought in idols. In the new plan the temple stands apart in the holy portion.
43:9 the corpses of their kings This may mean dead idols, called corpses in contempt, or royal tombs and memorials placed too close to the temple. Either way, nothing dead or unclean will stand beside God's dwelling again.
43:10 that they may be ashamed of their iniquities A clear picture of God's holiness exposes sin. The vision was meant to humble Israel and lead to repentance, not to satisfy curiosity.
43:11 write it before their eyes Ezekiel was to record the plan and its laws so that Israel would keep them. That command fits a real temple meant to be built and used.
43:12 shall be a holy of holies In the old temple only one small room was most holy. Here the whole mountain top is holy. Holiness spreads outward from God's presence (Zech 14:20-21).
43:13 these are the measurements of the altar by cubits The altar of burnt offering rises in stages from a base with a gutter, through two ledges, to a hearth about 21 feet square with four horns. Its total height before the horns is about 17 to 19 feet, depending on how the base is counted.
43:17 its steps are facing east Moses forbade steps up to an altar so the priest would not be exposed (Exod 20:26), but later the priests wore linen undergarments (Exod 28:42-43). The great size of this altar needs steps.

24.5 feet (fourteen cubits) in length by approximately 24.5 feet (fourteen cubits) in breadth on its four sides; and the border around it is approximately 10.5 inches (half of the cubit), and its gutter is approximately 1.75 feet (a cubit) all around; and its steps are facing east." 18 And He said to me, "Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the statutes of the altar on the day it is made, to offer up on it a burnt offering and to sprinkle on it blood. 19 And you shall give to the priests, the Levites, who are of the seed of Zadok (Tsadoq), the ones near to Me, declares the Lord GOD, to minister to Me, a young bull, a son of the herd, for a sin offering. 20 And you shall take some of its blood and put it on its four horns and on the four corners of the ledge and on the border all around; and you shall cleanse it from sin and make atonement for it. 21 And you shall take the bull of the sin offering, and one shall burn it in the appointed place of the house, outside the sanctuary. 22 And on the second day you shall bring near a male goat of the goats without blemish for a sin offering; and they shall cleanse the altar from sin, just as they cleansed it from sin with the bull. 23 When you finish cleansing it from sin, you shall bring near a young bull, a son of the herd, without blemish, and a ram from the flock without blemish. 24 And you shall bring them near before the LORD, and the priests shall throw salt on them, and they shall offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. 25 Seven days you shall offer a male goat of sin offering for each day; and a young bull, a son of the herd, and a ram from the flock, without blemish, they shall offer. 26 Seven days they shall make atonement for the altar and purify it, and they shall fill its hands. 27 And they shall complete the days; and it shall be on the eighth day and onward that the priests shall offer your burnt offerings and your peace offerings on the altar; and I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD."

The Shut East Gate

1 And he brought me back by the way of the outer gate of the sanctuary which faces east; and it was shut. 2 And the LORD said to me, "This gate shall be shut; it shall not be opened, and no man shall enter by it, for the LORD, the God of Israel (Yisra'el), has entered by it; and it shall be shut. 3 As for the prince, a prince he is; he shall sit in it to eat bread before the LORD. 43:18 These are the statutes of the altar on the day it is made Like Moses' altar (Exod 29:36-37), this one must be cleansed and set apart before use. This raises the hard question of why there would be sacrifices after Christ died once for all (Heb 10:10-14).
43:20 you shall cleanse it from sin and make atonement for it These offerings do not take away sin. Animal blood never did (Heb 10:4). Premillennial teachers see them as a memorial looking back to the cross, as the Lord's Supper does now (1 Cor 11:24-26), and as ceremonial cleansing for people in natural bodies during the kingdom (Isa 65:20). The Hebrew kipper here means to cleanse or purge.
43:21 outside the sanctuary The sin offering is burned outside, as under the law (Lev 4:12). Jesus suffered outside the gate (Heb 13:11-12). Other teachers take the sacrifices as Ezekiel's own terms for future worship, not literal animals, and many amillennial teachers see them as proof the temple is symbolic.
43:22 a male goat of the goats without blemish Every offering had to be without defect, pointing to Christ, the Lamb without blemish (1 Pet 1:19). I hold the memorial and cleansing views, with humility about details, but I am sure the cross is enough.
43:24 the priests shall throw salt on them Salt was added to every offering (Lev 2:13) and stood for the lasting covenant between God and His people.
43:26 Seven days they shall make atonement for the altar Seven days of preparation match Aaron's ordination (Exod 29:35-37) and the dedication of Solomon's temple (2 Chr 7:9). "Fill its hands" means to consecrate it for service.
43:27 I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD This is the goal of everything. The glory has returned, the altar is ready, and God accepts His people. Believers already have that acceptance in Christ (Eph 1:6).
44:2 This gate shall be shut The LORD's glory entered by this gate (43:1-4), so no one else may use it. The shut gate honors Him and signals that He will not leave again. Many link it with the sealed Golden Gate of Jerusalem's Old City today, but that gate is in a later wall and is not the fulfillment. The old reading of the gate as a picture of Mary is not in the text.
44:3 As for the prince, a prince he is The prince of chapters 44-48 is best seen as a human ruler under Christ, probably of David's line. He cannot be Christ Himself, because he offers a sin offering for himself (45:22), has sons (46:16), and is warned against oppression (45:8-9). Some think he is David raised from the dead, and others a line of Davidic princes.
44:4 I fell on my face Every time Ezekiel saw the glory he fell down. He never grew used to it, and neither should we become casual in God's presence.
44:6 you shall say to Rebellion God gives Israel a name that sums up her past: Rebellion, the word He used from the start (2:5-8). The new order begins by naming the old sin.
44:7 uncircumcised of heart and uncircumcised of flesh Israel had let unbelieving foreigners serve in the sanctuary. The ban is not about race but about the heart. Foreigners who join themselves to the LORD are welcome (Isa 56:6-7), and settled foreigners will even share the land (47:22-23).

of My holy things, but you set them as keepers of My charge in My sanctuary for yourselves. 9 Thus says the Lord GOD: No son of a foreign land, uncircumcised of heart and uncircumcised of flesh, shall enter My sanctuary, of any son of a foreign land who is in the midst of the sons of Israel. 10 But the Levites who went far from Me when Israel went astray, who went astray from Me after their idols, and they shall bear their iniquity. 11 And they shall be in My sanctuary ministering, as overseers at the gates of the house, and ministering to the house; they shall slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before them to minister to them. 12 Because they ministered to them before their idols, and they became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I have lifted up My hand against them, declares the Lord GOD, and they shall bear their iniquity. 13 And they shall not draw near to Me to serve as priest to Me, and to draw near to any of My holy things, to the most holy things; and they shall bear their disgrace and their abominations which they have done. 14 And I will make them keepers of the charge of the house, for all its service and for all that is done in it.

The Sons of Zadok

15 And the priests, the Levites, the sons of Zadok (Tsadoq), who kept the charge of My sanctuary when the sons of Israel went astray from Me, they shall come near to Me to minister to Me, and they shall stand before Me to bring near to Me fat and blood, declares the Lord GOD. 16 They shall enter My sanctuary, and they shall come near to My table to minister to Me, and they shall keep My charge. 17 And it shall be, when they enter the gates of the inner courtyard, they shall be clothed with linen garments; and wool shall not come up on them while they minister in the gates of the inner courtyard and inward. 18 Linen headdresses shall be on their head, and linen undergarments shall be on their loins; they shall not gird themselves with sweat. 19 And when they go out into the outer courtyard, into the outer courtyard to the people, they shall take off their garments in which they were ministering and set them down in the rooms of holiness, and they shall put on other garments; and they shall not sanctify the people with their garments. 20 And their head they shall not shave, and their hair they shall not let grow loose; they shall surely trim their heads. 21 And no priest shall drink wine when they enter the inner courtyard. 22 And a widow and a divorced woman they shall not take for themselves for wives; but virgins of the seed of the house of Israel, and the widow who is a widow from a priest, they shall take. 23 And they shall teach My people the difference between the holy and the common, and between the unclean and the clean they shall make them know. 24 And in a dispute they shall stand for judgment; by My judgments they shall judge it; and My laws and My statutes in all My appointed times they shall keep, and My Sabbaths they shall sanctify. 25 And to a dead man he shall not go to become unclean; but for father, and for mother, and for son, and for daughter, for brother, and for sister who has not belonged to a husband, they may make themselves unclean. 26 And after his cleansing, they shall count seven days for him. 27 And on the day he goes into the holy place, into the inner courtyard, to minister in the holy place, he shall bring near his sin offering, declares the Lord GOD. 28 And it shall be for them an inheritance: I am their inheritance; and a possession you shall not give them in Israel: I am their possession. 29 The grain offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering, they shall eat them; and every devoted thing in Israel shall belong to them. 30 And the first of all the firstfruits of everything, and every contribution of everything from all your contributions, shall 44:10 the Levites who went far from Me These Levites had served at idol shrines and high places. They will still serve in the house, but in a lower role.

44:13 they shall not draw near to Me to serve as priest to Me Forgiveness is real, yet sin can have lasting consequences. A person fully forgiven may not be restored to every place of trust he once held.
44:15 the sons of Zadok, who kept the charge of My sanctuary Zadok stayed loyal to David in Absalom's revolt (2 Sam 15:24-29) and anointed Solomon (1 Kgs 1:32-39). His sons remained faithful when others strayed. Faithfulness in hard times is remembered by God.
44:17 they shall be clothed with linen garments Priests wore linen, as the law required (Exod 28:39-43). Wool causes sweat, and nothing of human effort or uncleanness was to mark their service.
44:19 they shall take off their garments in which they were ministering Holy garments were not to be carried among the people. The line between holy and common is kept at every point.
44:20 their head they shall not shave Shaved heads and loose hair were signs of mourning or pagan practice (Lev 21:5). The priests must keep a modest, ordered appearance.
44:21 no priest shall drink wine This is the law given after Nadab and Abihu died (Lev 10:9). A priest needed a clear head to teach the difference between holy and common.
44:22 virgins of the seed of the house of Israel Marriage rules for priests follow Leviticus 21:7, 13-14. These laws assume people in natural bodies who marry and have children, which fits the millennial reign before the eternal state.
44:23 they shall teach My people the difference between the holy and the common This was the very failure of the priests of Ezekiel's day (22:26). In the kingdom the priests will teach it faithfully.
44:24 My Sabbaths they shall sanctify The priests will judge disputes by God's judgments and keep His feasts and Sabbaths, which were given to Israel. Believers today differ on how the Sabbath applies to the church (Col 2:16-17).
44:25 to a dead man he shall not go to become unclean Priests could touch the dead only for close family (Lev 21:1-3). Death came through sin, and God is life. One day death itself will be swallowed up (1 Cor 15:54).
44:28 I am their inheritance The priests would own no farmland. They lived on the people's gifts, and God Himself was their portion. Every believer can say the LORD is my portion (Ps 16:5).
44:30 to cause a blessing to rest on your house Giving to God's work brings blessing to the giver. It is never a loss.

Honest Rulers and Honest Measures

9 Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough for you, O princes of Israel! Remove violence and plunder, and do justice and righteousness; lift off your evictions from My people, declares the Lord GOD. 10 Let balances of righteousness and an ephah of righteousness and a bath of righteousness be for you. 11 The ephah and the bath shall be one measure, so that the bath carries a tenth of the homer, and the ephah a tenth of the homer; according to the homer shall be its measurement. 12 And the shekel shall be approximately 2/5 ounce (twenty gerahs); twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels, and fifteen shekels shall be the mina for you.

44:31 the priests shall not eat Even in food, the priests were to be clean (Lev 22:8).
45:1 you shall offer up a contribution to the LORD, a holy portion from the land The word contribution means something lifted up and set apart for God. The unit for twenty-five thousand by ten thousand is not given. Most take it as long cubits, a strip about 8 by 3 miles; some read reeds, which would be far larger.
45:2 five hundred by five hundred, squared all around The sanctuary area of 42:16-20 sits in the middle of the holy portion, with open land around it. God's dwelling is at the center of the land.
45:4 it shall belong to the priests, the ministers of the sanctuary The priests live nearest the sanctuary, and the Levites have the strip beside them. Those who serve God live closest to Him, and the rest of the land is arranged around that center.
45:5 twenty rooms The SLB follows the Hebrew here. The ancient Greek reads cities to dwell in, a small difference in letters, and many prefer it. Either way, the Levites receive a place to live.
45:6 it shall belong to all the house of Israel The city's strip belongs to the whole nation, not to one tribe. Jerusalem will be shared by all Israel.
45:8 My princes shall no longer oppress My people The prince receives his own land so he will not seize others'. Israel's kings had taken fields (1 Sam 8:14), and Ahab had Naboth killed for his vineyard (1 Kgs 21). That will end.
45:9 Enough for you, O princes of Israel This is a word for Ezekiel's own day too. The princes had used violence and driven families from their land (22:6, 27). God calls them to justice now, not only in the future.
45:10 Let balances of righteousness God cares about honest weights and measures. Cheating in business is cheating one's neighbor (Prov 11:1; Amos 8:5). Faith shows up in the marketplace.
45:13 This is the contribution which you shall offer up The people's offering is a small share of their produce, about one sixtieth of grain and one hundredth of oil. God asks for a portion, not a crushing burden.
45:16 All the people of the land shall be bound to this contribution for the prince The people give to the prince, and he provides the offerings for the nation at the feasts, new moons, and Sabbaths. He leads Israel in worship.
45:17 he shall offer the sin offering The offerings "make atonement," a word for cleansing. As at 43:18-27, I take them as memorial and ceremonial cleansing, not removing the guilt of sin, which Christ took away once for all (Heb 10:10-14).
45:18 you shall cleanse the sanctuary from sin The year begins with cleansing. Blood on the doorpost recalls the first Passover in Egypt (Exod 12:7).

month, on the first day of the month, you shall take a young bull, a son of the herd, without blemish, and you shall cleanse the sanctuary from sin. 19 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorpost of the house and on the four corners of the ledge of the altar and on the doorpost of the gate of the inner courtyard. 20 And so you shall do on the seventh day in the month for each man who errs and for the simple one; and you shall make atonement for the house. 21 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, the Passover shall be for you, a feast of weeks of days; unleavened bread shall be eaten. 22 And the prince shall offer on that day, for himself and for all the people of the land, a young bull as a sin offering. 23 And during the seven days of the feast he shall offer a burnt offering to the LORD, seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, daily, the seven days; and a sin offering, a male goat of the goats, daily. 24 And as a grain offering he shall offer approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the young bull and approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the ram, and oil, approximately 1 gallon (a hin) for the ephah. 25 In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, at the feast, he shall offer like these for the seven days, like the sin offering, like the burnt offering, and like the grain offering, and like the oil."

Worship on Sabbaths and New Moons

1 "Thus says the Lord GOD: The gate of the inner courtyard which faces east shall be shut the six days of work, and on the day of the Sabbath it shall be opened, and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. 2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of the gate from outside, and he shall stand by the doorpost of the gate; and the priests shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall bow down at the threshold of the gate; and he shall go out, and the gate shall not be shut until the evening. 3 And the people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate on the Sabbaths and on the new moons before the LORD. 4 And the burnt offering which the prince shall bring near to the LORD on the day of the Sabbath shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish; 5 and the grain offering shall be approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the ram, and for the lambs the grain offering shall be the gift of his hand, and oil, approximately 1 gallon (a hin) for the ephah. 6 And on the day of the new moon, a young bull, a son of the herd, without blemish, and six lambs and a ram; they shall be without blemish. 7 And approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the young bull and approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the ram he shall offer as a grain offering, and for the lambs as much as his hand can reach, and oil, approximately 1 gallon (a hin) for the ephah. 8 And when the prince enters, he shall enter by the way of the porch of the gate, and by its way he shall go out. 9 And when the people of the land come before the LORD at the appointed times, the one who enters by the way of the gate of the north to bow down shall go out by the way of the gate of the south, and the one who enters by the way of the gate of the south shall go out by the way of the gate toward the north; he shall not return by the way of the gate by which he entered, for he shall go out opposite it. 10 And the prince shall be in their midst; when they enter, he shall enter, and when they go out, they shall go out. 11 And at the feasts and at the appointed times the grain offering shall be approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the young bull and approximately 3/5 bushel (an ephah) for the ram, and for the lambs the gift of his hand, and oil, approximately 1 gallon (a hin) for the ephah. 12 And when the prince offers a freewill offering, a burnt offering or peace offerings, as a freewill offering to the LORD, then one shall open for him the gate which faces east, and he shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings just as he offers on the day of the Sabbath; and he shall go out, and one shall shut the gate after 45:20 for each man who errs and for the simple one This offering covers those who sin without intent or from ignorance. Some read the seventh month with the Greek, giving two cleansings a year. Ezekiel never mentions the Day of Atonement or a high priest. One suggestion is that Christ, our High Priest, has entered once for all (Heb 9:11-12), but the text does not say.

45:21 the Passover shall be for you, a feast of weeks of days The Passover is joined with the seven days of Unleavened Bread (Exod 12:15-18). It remembered the rescue from Egypt and pointed to Christ, our Passover (1 Cor 5:7).
45:22 for himself and for all the people of the land The prince offers a sin offering for himself as well as for the people. This is one of the clearest signs he is not Christ, who had no sin (Heb 4:15).
45:25 In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, at the feast This is the Feast of Booths. Zechariah says the nations will go up yearly to keep it in the kingdom (Zech 14:16). Ezekiel does not name the Feast of Weeks; some suggest it was fulfilled at Pentecost, but that is only a suggestion.
46:1 on the day of the Sabbath it shall be opened This is the inner east gate, not the outer one shut forever (44:1-2). It opens on the Sabbath and new moon, days set apart for God in Israel's calendar. Believers today differ on how the Sabbath applies now (Col 2:16-17).
46:2 he shall stand by the doorpost of the gate The prince comes to the threshold, watches the priests offer for him, and bows down. He is the highest ruler under Christ, yet he does not act as priest. King Uzziah was struck with leprosy for trying (2 Chr 26:16-21).
46:3 the people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate With the gate open, the people can look toward the altar and worship. Ruler and people bow together before the LORD.
46:4 six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish These amounts differ from the law of Moses (Num 28:9-15). Premillennial teachers see a new order of worship in the kingdom, not the Mosaic system restored. Others use such differences to argue the vision is symbolic.
46:9 shall go out by the way of the gate of the south Worshipers leave by the opposite gate. At crowded feasts this kept order, and many see a lesson as well: no one should leave God's presence the same way he came in.
46:10 the prince shall be in their midst At the feasts the prince does not stand apart. He enters and leaves with the people, a ruler who worships among those he leads.
46:12 when the prince offers a freewill offering A freewill offering is given gladly, not because it is required. The inner east gate opens for it, for God welcomes willing worship (2 Cor 9:7).

his going out. 13 And a lamb, a son of its year, without blemish, you shall offer as a burnt offering daily to the LORD; morning by morning you shall offer it. 14 And a grain offering you shall offer with it morning by morning, approximately 3 quarts (a sixth of the ephah), and oil, approximately 1/3 gallon (a third of the hin), to moisten the fine flour, a grain offering to the LORD, statutes forever, continually. 15 They shall offer the lamb and the grain offering and the oil morning by morning, a continual burnt offering.

The Prince's Inheritance

16 Thus says the Lord GOD: When the prince gives a gift to any man from his sons, it is his inheritance; it shall belong to his sons; it is their possession by inheritance. 17 And when he gives a gift from his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall belong to him until the year of liberty, and it shall return to the prince; only his inheritance, as for his sons, it shall belong to them. 18 And the prince shall not take from the inheritance of the people, to oppress them out of their possession; from his own possession he shall cause his sons to inherit, so that My people shall not be scattered, each man from his possession."

The River From the Temple

1 And he brought me back to the entrance of the house; and look, waters were going out from under the threshold of the house eastward, for the face of the house was east; and the waters were going down from under, from the south side of the house, from the south of the altar. 2 And he brought me out by the way of the gate toward the north, and he led me around by the way outside to the gate of the outside, by the way which faces east; and look, waters were trickling from the south side. 3 When the man went out eastward, and a line was in his hand, he measured approximately 1,750 feet (a thousand by the cubit), and he made me pass through the waters, waters up to the ankles. 4 And he measured approximately 1,750 feet (a thousand cubits), and he made me pass through the waters, waters up to the knees; and he measured approximately 1,750 feet (a thousand cubits), and he made me pass through, waters up to the loins. 5 And he measured approximately 1,750 feet (a thousand cubits), a river which I was not able to pass through, for the waters had risen, waters of swimming, a river which could not be passed through. 6 And he said to me, "Have you seen, son of man?" And he led me and brought me back to the bank of the river. 7 When I returned, look, on the bank of the river were very many trees on this side and on this side. 8 And he said to me, "These waters are going out to the eastern region, and they shall go down to the Arabah (Arava), and they shall go toward the sea; into the sea they go, the waters brought out,

46:13 morning by morning you shall offer it Moses' law required a lamb in the morning and another in the evening (Exod 29:38-42; Num 28:3-8). Here only the morning lamb is named, another difference in the new order. Every believer can start the day with the Lord (Ps 5:3).
46:16 it shall belong to his sons The prince has sons who inherit his land, another reason I take him as a human ruler and not Christ (44:3).
46:17 until the year of liberty Land given to a servant returns to the prince in the jubilee year (Lev 25:10-13). Royal land stays in the royal family.
46:18 so that My people shall not be scattered, each man from his possession The prince may not seize the people's land. Each family's land was its share in the promise to Abraham, and God protects it.
46:20 This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt offering The priests cook the holy offerings in their own rooms, so holy things are not carried among the people.
46:24 where the ministers of the house shall boil the sacrifice of the people Kitchens in the four corners of the outer court are for the peace offerings, which worshipers shared as a meal with family. After all the gates and rules, the chapter ends with families eating together in the courts of the LORD. Worship is joyful fellowship with God.
47:1 waters were going out from under the threshold of the house eastward Jerusalem's old temple had no river; the city drew water from springs and cisterns. Here water flows from God's house itself. The glory returned in chapter 43, and now life flows out from where God dwells.
47:2 waters were trickling from the south side Ezekiel goes out by the north gate, since the outer east gate is shut (44:2). The river begins as a mere trickle.
47:3 waters up to the ankles The guide measures about a third of a mile at a time. Ankle-deep, then knee-deep, then waist-deep, the water rises as Ezekiel goes on.
47:5 a river which I was not able to pass through No streams join it and no rain falls, yet it grows into a river too deep to cross. God's work often starts small and grows by His power, like the mustard seed (Matt 13:31-32).
47:7 on the bank of the river were very many trees The valley from Jerusalem to the Dead Sea runs through the wilderness of Judea, one of the driest places in the land. Now its banks are lined with trees.
47:8 the waters shall be healed The Arabah is the deep Jordan valley. The sea is the Dead Sea, about 1,400 feet below sea level and so salty that fish cannot live in it. The river turns its salt water fresh.

and the waters shall be healed. 9 And it shall be that every living being which swarms, wherever the two rivers go, shall live; and the fish shall be very many, for these waters have gone there, and they shall be healed; and everything shall live wherever the river goes. 10 And it shall be that fishermen shall stand beside it; from Engedi as far as Eneglaim (En-Eglayim) there shall be a spreading place for nets; their fish shall be according to its kind, like the fish of the Great Sea, very many. 11 Its swamps and its marshes, and they shall not be healed; to salt they are given. 12 And by the river, on its bank on this side and on this side, every tree for food shall grow up; its leaf shall not wither, and its fruit shall not come to an end; according to its months it shall bear new fruit, because its waters, they are going out from the sanctuary; and its fruit shall be for food, and its leaf for healing."

The Borders of the Land

13 Thus says the Lord GOD: "This is the border by which you shall inherit the land for the twelve tribes of Israel (Yisra'el): Joseph (Yosef) shall have portions. 14 And you shall inherit it, each man like his brother, concerning which I lifted up My hand to give it to your fathers; and this land shall fall to you as an inheritance. 15 And this is the border of the land: on the north side, from the Great Sea by the way of Hethlon (Chetlon), to the entrance of Zedad (Tsedad), 16 Hamath (Chamat), Berothah (Berota), Sibraim (Sivrayim), which is between the border of Damascus (Dameseq) and the border of Hamath; Hazer-hatticon (Chatser-Hatikhon), which is on the border of Hauran (Chavran). 17 And the border shall be from the sea to Hazar-enan (Chatsar-Enon), the border of Damascus, and north northward, and the border of Hamath; and this is the north side. 18 And the east side: from between Hauran and from between Damascus and from between Gilead (Gilad) and from between the land of Israel, the Jordan (Yarden); from the border to the eastern sea you shall measure; and this is the east side. 19 And the south side southward: from Tamar as far as the waters of Meribah of Kadesh (Qadesh), to the wadi, to the Great Sea; and this is the south side southward. 20 And the west side is the Great Sea, from the border as far as opposite the entrance of Hamath; this is the west side. 21 And you shall divide this land for yourselves according to the tribes of Israel. 22 And it shall be that you shall allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the sojourners who sojourn in your midst, who have fathered sons in your midst; and they shall be to you like the native-born among the sons of Israel; with you they shall be allotted an inheritance in the midst of the tribes of Israel. 23 And it shall be that in the tribe with which the sojourner sojourns, there you shall give him his inheritance, declares the Lord GOD."

47:9 wherever the two rivers go The Hebrew is a dual form. It may mean the river divides, as Zechariah says living waters will flow east and west from Jerusalem (Zech 14:8), or it may simply intensify the word. Wherever the river goes, everything lives.
47:10 from Engedi as far as Eneglaim there shall be a spreading place for nets En-gedi is an oasis on the western shore of the Dead Sea (1 Sam 24:1). En-eglaim's location is uncertain, likely also on the shore. Fishermen will work a sea that was dead.
47:11 to salt they are given Some marshes stay salty. Salt was needed for the offerings (43:24) and for daily life, so God leaves a supply.
47:12 its leaf shall not wither, and its fruit shall not come to an end The trees bear new fruit every month, and their leaves bring healing. This reaches back to Eden's river and tree of life (Gen 2:9-10) and forward to the river of life in the new Jerusalem (Rev 22:1-2).
47:12 because its waters, they are going out from the sanctuary I take this as a real river flowing from the millennial temple after the land is changed at Christ's return (Zech 14:4, 8), a foretaste of Revelation 22. Some read it only as a picture of the Spirit and the gospel (John 7:38-39); amillennial teachers see it fulfilled in Revelation 22 or in the church. The spiritual lesson is true either way: where the Spirit goes, dead hearts live.
47:13 Joseph shall have portions The land is divided among the twelve tribes. Levi has no tribal share (44:28), so Joseph receives two portions through Ephraim and Manasseh, keeping the number at twelve.
47:14 each man like his brother Unlike in Joshua's day, each tribe receives an equal share. God keeps the oath He swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen 15:18; 26:3; 28:13).
47:15 this is the border of the land The borders closely match Numbers 34:1-12. Several place names, such as Hethlon, Zedad, Berothah, and Sibraim, cannot be located with certainty. The north border reaches into what is now Lebanon and Syria. These notes make no claim about modern politics.
47:18 the Jordan The east border is the Jordan, so the land east of it, settled by Reuben, Gad, and half of Manasseh in Moses' day, is not included. Israel has never held all of this land as described. I believe it will be fulfilled in the kingdom.
47:22 they shall be to you like the native-born among the sons of Israel Sojourners who have raised families in Israel will receive an inheritance among the tribes. This is grace to Gentiles, as with Rahab and Ruth, and as Paul says Gentiles once far off have been brought near (Eph 2:12-19). The land still belongs to Israel by tribes.
48:1 these are the names of the tribes The tribes are listed from north to south, each receiving an equal strip from east to west. Unlike Joshua's day, no tribe lives east of the Jordan. Dan, the first tribe to fall into open idolatry (Judg 18:30-31), still receives its place. Dan is missing from the list in Revelation 7:5-8, but here it is restored.

The Holy Portion and the City

48:7 Judah, one portion The sons of Jacob's servant wives (Dan, Asher, Naphtali, Gad) are placed toward the ends, and Judah and Benjamin lie next to the holy portion, as is commonly noted. Judah, the royal tribe, borders the holy land on the north.
48:8 shall be the contribution which you shall offer up The holy portion of 45:1-8 lies between Judah and Benjamin. God's dwelling is at the heart of the nation, not at its edge.
48:11 who did not go astray when the sons of Israel went astray The Zadokite priests are honored again for their faithfulness (44:15). God remembers those who stayed true when others did not.
48:14 they shall not sell any of it The Levites' land cannot be sold or traded, for it is holy to the LORD. All we have is held in trust from God (1 Cor 4:7; 1 Pet 4:10).
48:15 the city shall be in its midst The city stands in its own strip of common land, south of the priests' and Levites' portions, with the sanctuary in the priests' strip. Temple and city are near but distinct.
48:16 four thousand five hundred The city is a square. The unit is not stated; if long cubits, it is about 1.5 miles on each side, with pasture land around it.
48:19 the worker of the city, they shall work it, from all the tribes of Israel Workers from every tribe farm the city's land. The capital belongs to the whole nation, a sign that the old divisions are healed (37:22).
48:20 foursquare you shall offer up the holy contribution The whole holy portion is a perfect square. Squares mark the vision's holy places, as the new Jerusalem is foursquare (Rev 21:16).
48:22 between the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin The prince's land lies on both sides of the holy portion, between these two tribes. Benjamin had stayed with Judah when the kingdom divided (1 Kgs 12:21).
48:23 the rest of the tribes South of the holy portion are Benjamin, Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, and Gad. Every tribe is named and given its share.
48:29 This is the land which you shall allot by inheritance to the tribes of Israel God promised this land to Abraham (Gen 13:14-17; 15:18), and here He assigns it tribe by tribe. Not one is forgotten. God keeps His promises in detail.

48:31 Rev 21:12-13; Isa 26:1,2; Isa 54:12

48:35 Rev 3:12; Jer 33:16; Jer 3:17

48:31 the gates of the city shall be by the names of the tribes of Israel Twelve gates, three on each side, bear the tribes' names. Here Levi has a gate and Joseph one, following the twelve sons of Jacob (Gen 35:23-26), since in the city there is no land division to balance.

48:32 the gate of Joseph, one; the gate of Benjamin, one; the gate of Dan, one The new Jerusalem also has twelve gates with the names of the tribes (Rev 21:12-13). I take Ezekiel's city as the millennial city and John's as the eternal city, sharing the same pattern. Some teachers identify the two.

48:35 the name of the city from that day shall be 'The LORD Is There.' In Hebrew, Yahweh Shammah. The book began with the glory appearing by the Chebar (chapter 1), then leaving the temple (10:18-19; 11:23), then returning (43:1-5). It ends with the LORD dwelling among His people. Most take the city as Jerusalem renamed (Jer 3:17; Zech 8:3); some see a separate city in the holy portion.

48:35 All around shall be eighteen thousand The wall is about six miles around if the unit is the long cubit. More important than its size is who lives there. Heaven is where God is, and every believer will be with Him forever (Rev 21:3).

DANIEL

Introduction

Title

The book is named for Daniel, its main character and its writer. His name means God is my judge. In our English Bibles Daniel sits with the Major Prophets, after Ezekiel. In the Hebrew Bible it is placed among the Writings, but Jesus called him "Daniel the prophet" (Matt 24:15) and told His disciples to understand what Daniel wrote. You cannot fully understand Revelation without Daniel, and you cannot fully understand Daniel without Revelation. Daniel was told to seal up his book until the time of the end (12:4), and John was told not to seal his (Rev 22:10). The two fit together like two halves of one message.

Author and Date

Daniel wrote the book. Chapters 1-6 speak of him in the third person, and chapters 7-12 in the first person, "I, Daniel" (7:15; 8:1; 9:2; 10:2). He came from the royal family or the nobles of Judah (1:3), and Ezekiel, who lived at the same time, names him with Noah and Job as a model of righteousness (Ezek 14:14, 20). Daniel lived from about 620 B.C. to some time after 536 B.C. The events run from 605 B.C. (1:1) to the third year of Cyrus, about 536 B.C. (10:1), and he most likely finished the book near the end of his life, about 530 B.C.

Some critics date the book to about 165 B.C., in the days of the Maccabees, mainly because its predictions in chapter 11 match history so closely that they believe it was written after the events. I reject that view. Jesus called him a prophet, and a God who knows the end from the beginning (Isa 46:10) has no trouble telling Daniel what is coming. Even a late date could not explain the fourth kingdom, Rome, which did not take Jerusalem until 63 B.C. The accuracy of Daniel is not a problem to explain away. It is evidence that God is real.

Background and Setting

Daniel was taken from Jerusalem to Babylon as a teenager in 605 B.C., the first of three deportations (597 and 586 B.C. followed). He served the kings of Babylon and then of Persia for about seventy years, through the whole exile, and lived to see Cyrus let the Jews go home in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1:1-4). The book was written in Babylon, in what is now Iraq.

The book is written in two languages. From 1:1 to the middle of 2:4, and again in chapters 8-12, it is in Hebrew, the language of God's people. From 2:4 through 7:28 it is in Aramaic, the common language of the Babylonian and Persian empires. That middle section is mainly about the Gentile world powers, so God gave it in the world's language.

The chapters are not all in time order. The stories come first (chapters 1-6) and the dated visions second (chapters 7-12). In order of events: chapter 1 (605 B.C.), chapter 2 (about 603 B.C.), chapters 3 and 4 (later in Nebuchadnezzar's reign, which ended in 562 B.C.), chapter 7 (about 553 B.C.), chapter 8 (about 551 B.C.), chapter 5 (October 539 B.C.), chapters 9 and 6 (539-538 B.C., under Darius the Mede), and chapters 10-12 (about 536 B.C.).

Themes

The message of Daniel comes down to one truth: God is in control. "The Most High rules over the kingdom of mankind, and to whomever He wills He gives it" (4:17). Kings rise and fall, and empires look unbeatable for a while and then are gone. The book shows this truth in two ways. In the stories, God protects and honors people who stay faithful to Him under pressure: a teenager who will not defile himself (1:8), three men who will not bow (3:18), and an old man who keeps praying with his windows open (6:10). In the visions, God lays out the sweep of world history from Babylon to the return of Christ.

Four kingdoms run through the book: Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece and Rome, seen as a great statue in chapter 2 and as four beasts in chapter 7. Every vision ends the same way. God sets up a kingdom that will never be destroyed (2:44; 7:14, 27), the dead are raised (12:2), and God's people inherit everything.

This study holds the dispensational premillennial view and the pre-tribulation rapture. Christ comes for His church before the Tribulation (1 Thess 4:16-17). The Tribulation is the seven years of Daniel's seventieth week (9:27), and its last three and a half years are the great tribulation under the Antichrist (7:25; 12:7). Then Christ returns visibly, destroys the beast, and reigns on earth (Rev 19:11-20:6). God still has a future for Israel, Daniel's people. Many faithful Christians see these things differently, and the notes name the main views where they matter. Daniel's numbers are given to help God's people know the season and endure it, not to set dates (Matt 25:13).

Christ in Daniel

Jesus called Himself the Son of Man more than by any other title, taking the name from 7:13, and at His trial He claimed that verse for Himself: they would see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven (Matt 26:64). He is the stone cut out without hands that crushes the kingdoms of the world and fills the earth (2:34-35, 44). The seventy weeks point to the time of Messiah's coming, "an anointed one, a prince" (9:25), and to His being "cut off" (9:26) in the early first century A.D., exactly when Jesus came. The fourth man in the furnace (3:25) and the man clothed in linen (10:5-6) are seen by many, and I lean this way, as the Son of God appearing before His birth in Bethlehem. Antiochus IV in chapters 8 and 11 is a preview of the Antichrist, whom Christ will destroy at His coming (2 Thess 2:8).

Hard Passages

When was Daniel written? The notes at 1:1 and 2:45 explain why this study takes the book as written by Daniel in the sixth century B.C.

Who was Darius the Mede (5:31)? He has not yet been found in records outside the Bible. Some identify him with Gubaru, a governor under Cyrus, and others take the name as another title for Cyrus (6:28). The notes give both views. Critics once said the same of Belshazzar, until records naming him were found.

Who was the fourth man in the fire (3:25), and the man in linen (10:5-6)? Some see an angel, others the Son of God before His birth. The notes give both and lean toward the second.

Why were the accusers' families thrown to the lions (6:24)? That was the king's harsh Persian practice, not God's command (Deut 24:16). The Bible records it without approving it.

How should the seventy weeks be read (9:24-27)? The notes give the two main starting dates (457 and 445/444 B.C.), the futurist reading with a gap before the seventieth week, which this study holds, and the view that the seventieth week was fulfilled in Christ's first coming.

Where does chapter 11 move from Antiochus to the Antichrist? The notes place the shift at 11:36 and explain why, and they give the main views on "the desire of women" (11:37), the last kings of the north and south (11:40), and the 1,290 and 1,335 days (12:11-12).

DANIEL 1

Taken to Babylon

1 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim (Yehoyaqim) king of Judah (Yehuda), Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) king of Babylon (Bavel) came to Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), and he laid siege against it. 2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, and some of the vessels of the house of God; and he brought them to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god. 3 And the king said to Ashpenaz, the chief of his officials, to bring some of the sons of Israel (Yisra'el), and of the offspring of the kingship, and of the nobles, 4 youths in whom was not any blemish, and good of appearance, and having insight in all wisdom, and knowing knowledge, and understanding learning, and in whom was ability to stand in the palace of the king, and to teach them the writing and the tongue of the Chaldeans (Kasdim). 5 And the king assigned to them a day's portion in its day from the delicacies of the king and from the wine of his drinking, and he said to bring them up three years, and at the end of them they should stand before the king. 6 And there were among them, from the sons of Judah, Daniel (Daniyel), Hananiah (Chananya), Mishael, and Azariah (Azarya). 7 And the chief of the officials set names for them; and he set for Daniel the name Belteshazzar (Belteshatsar), and for Hananiah Shadrach (Shadrakh), and for Mishael Meshach (Meshakh), and for Azariah Abednego (Aved-Nego).

Daniel's Resolve

8 And Daniel set on his heart that he would not defile himself with the delicacies of the king and with the wine of his drinking; and he sought from the chief of the officials that he might not defile himself. 9 And God gave Daniel favor and compassion before the chief of the officials. 10 And the chief of the officials said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who has assigned your food and your drink; for why should he see your faces more dejected than the youths who are of your age? And you would endanger my head to the king." 11 And Daniel said to the guardian whom the chief of the officials had assigned over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 "Please test your servants for ten days, and let them give us some of the vegetables, and let us eat, and water, and let us drink. 13 And let our appearance and the appearance of the youths who eat the delicacies of the king be seen before you; and as you see, deal with your servants." 14 And he listened to them in this matter, and he tested them for ten

1:1 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah Daniel opens with a date because he is writing history, not myth. This is 605 B.C., the year Nebuchadnezzar beat Egypt at Carchemish and came south to take Jerusalem. Jeremiah calls it the fourth year (Jer 25:1). Babylon did not count a king's first partial year, and Judah did, so Daniel in Babylon and Jeremiah in Judah simply counted differently.
1:1 Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem This was the first of three deportations. The second came in 597 B.C., when King Jehoiachin and Ezekiel were taken, and the third in 586 B.C., when Jerusalem and the temple were destroyed (2 Kgs 24-25).
1:2 the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand Nebuchadnezzar did not win because his gods were stronger. God had warned for generations that idolatry would end in exile (Jer 25:8-11). Babylon was the tool of His discipline, not the master of His people. God disciplines those He loves (Heb 12:6), and the exile cured Israel of idol worship and kept a faithful remnant.
1:2 the land of Shinar The old name for the region of Babylon, where men built the tower of Babel (Gen 11:2). Putting the temple vessels in a pagan temple was a way of saying, my god beat yours. The rest of the book answers that claim, and in chapter 5 those same vessels come back into the story.
1:3 Ashpenaz, the chief of his officials Taking young men of the royal family fulfilled what Isaiah told Hezekiah a century earlier (Isa 39:7). The Hebrew word for "officials" can also mean eunuchs. Some believe Daniel and his friends were made eunuchs, while others note the word often meant court officers in general. Scripture does not settle it, and I would not be dogmatic. Daniel never mentions a wife or children.
1:4 the writing and the tongue of the Chaldeans The Chaldeans were the ruling people of Babylon, and the word also came to mean a class of learned men who studied astrology, omens and old texts. The goal was plain: take the best young minds of a conquered nation, probably teenagers, reshape them, and use them for the empire.
1:6 Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah Each Hebrew name honored the God of Israel. Daniel means God is my judge, Hananiah the LORD has been gracious, Mishael likely who is what God is, and Azariah the LORD has helped. Their names reminded them every day whose they were.
1:7 the chief of the officials set names for them The new names appear to honor Babylonian gods (compare 4:8). Abednego is commonly taken as servant of Nego, likely a form of Nabu. Babylon changed their language, schooling, diet and names until nothing of Judah would be left. The world still works this way, slowly. Notice that Daniel accepted what he could without sin and saved his stand for where obedience to God was at stake.
1:8 Daniel set on his heart that he would not defile himself Daniel made up his mind before the pressure came. The text does not say why the food defiled. It may have been unclean under the Law (Lev 11), not drained of blood (Lev 17:10-12), or first offered to idols. I believe the main issue was God's Law and the link to idol worship. Far from home, with no one watching, a teenager chose to obey. Great acts of faith grow out of small private choices like this.
1:8 he sought from the chief of the officials Daniel did not stage a protest. He asked respectfully. Standing firm and being gracious are not opposites, and Daniel shows us how to do both.
1:9 God gave Daniel favor and compassion Daniel made the decision, but God opened the door. When we honor God, we can trust Him with the results (Prov 16:7).
1:12 Please test your servants for ten days Daniel offered a short trial that protected the overseer instead of asking him to break the king's order outright. The word for vegetables likely means food grown from seed, including grains and beans. Faith does not mean being careless about other people's risk.

days. 15 And at the end of ten days their appearance was seen to be good, and they were fat of flesh more than all the youths who were eating the delicacies of the king. 16 And the guardian was taking away their delicacies and the wine of their drinking, and giving them vegetables.

God Gives Wisdom

17 And these youths, the four of them, God gave them learning and insight in all writing and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in every vision and dreams. 18 And at the end of the days that the king had said to bring them in, the chief of the officials brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. 19 And the king spoke with them, and not one was found among all of them like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; and they stood before the king. 20 And in every matter of wisdom of understanding that the king sought from them, he found them ten times above all the magicians, the conjurers who were in all his kingdom. 21 And Daniel was there until the first year of Cyrus (Koresh) the king.

The Impossible Demand

1 And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar), Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams; and his spirit was troubled, and his sleep was finished on him. 2 And the king said to call the magicians and the conjurers and the sorcerers and the Chaldeans (Kasdim) to tell the king his dreams; and they came and stood before the king. 3 And the king said to them, "I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit is troubled to know the dream." 4 And the Chaldeans spoke to the king in Aramaic, "O king, live forever! Tell the dream to your servants, and we will declare the interpretation." 5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, "The word from me is firm: if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, you will be made into pieces, and your houses will be made a refuse heap. 6 And if you declare the dream and its interpretation, you will receive from before me gifts and a reward and great honor. Therefore declare to me the dream and its interpretation." 7 They answered a second time and said, "Let the king tell the dream to his servants, and we will declare the interpretation." 8 The king answered and said, "I know for certain that you are buying time, because you have seen that the word from me is firm, 9 that if you do not make known to me the dream, one is the decree for you; and you have agreed together to speak a lying and corrupt word before me until the time is changed. Therefore tell me the dream, and I will know that you can declare to me its interpretation." 10 The Chaldeans answered before the king and said, "There is not a man on the earth who is able to declare the matter of the king, because no king, great and powerful, has asked a matter like this of any magician and conjurer and Chaldean. 11 And the matter that the king is asking is difficult, and there is not another who can declare it before the king except gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh." 12 Because of this the king was angry and very furious, and he said to destroy all the wise men of Babylon (Bavel). 13 And the decree went out, and the wise men were being killed; and they sought Daniel (Daniyel) and his companions to be killed.

14 Then Daniel returned counsel and discretion to Arioch (Aryokh), the chief of the executioners of the king, who had

1:15 they were fat of flesh In a time when food was not always plentiful, this was a sign of good health. Some use this verse to teach that a vegetarian diet is the biblical ideal. I don't believe that is the point. Jesus declared all foods clean (Mark 7:19). God honored their faithfulness, and a ten-day difference this clear was His doing.
1:17 God gave them learning and insight in all writing and wisdom They studied hard, but the text says plainly that God was the giver. Babylon was full of men who claimed to read dreams. God prepared Daniel to be the one man who could interpret what God Himself revealed. Learning what the world believes is not the same as believing it.
1:19 not one was found among all of them like Daniel Three years of training seems to clash with "the second year" in 2:1. Using the Babylonian way of counting from 1:1, the training ran through the accession year and two more, so the dates fit. I believe that is the best answer, though some suggest chapter 2 happened before the training was finished.
1:20 ten times above all the magicians A way of saying far better. You do not have to become like the world to be useful in it. God can make His people excellent right where He has placed them (Col 3:23).
1:21 Daniel was there until the first year of Cyrus the king This jumps ahead about seventy years to 539/538 B.C., after Babylon fell, when Cyrus let the Jews go home (Ezra 1:1-4). It does not mean Daniel died then, since 10:1 dates a vision to Cyrus' third year. Empires rose and fell, but God kept His servant through the whole exile.
2:1 in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar About 603 B.C. (see 1:19). In the ancient world people believed dreams could carry messages from the gods, especially dreams given to kings. The most powerful man on earth could not sleep. No power can shield a man from the hand of God.
2:2 the magicians and the conjurers and the sorcerers and the Chaldeans Each practiced a different occult art, and the Chaldeans here are learned men who read the stars and omens. Babylon kept large written collections of dream meanings. All these men needed was the dream.
2:4 in Aramaic Here the original text switches from Hebrew to Aramaic, the common language of the Babylonian and Persian empires, and stays there through 7:28. I believe this is because that section deals mainly with the Gentile empires, so God recorded it in their language. When the book turns back to Israel's future in chapter 8, it returns to Hebrew.
2:5 if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation Many believe the king had not forgotten the dream. He was testing them. If they truly heard from the gods, they could tell him what he dreamed, and if not, he could not trust their interpretation either (2:9).
2:9 a lying and corrupt word The king saw through their stalling. His reasoning was sharp: if they could do the first, he would believe the second.
2:11 except gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh Without meaning to, they confessed the emptiness of their own religion. Their gods were distant and silent. The God of Israel speaks and reveals, and one day He would come to dwell with mortal flesh in Jesus Christ (John 1:14).
2:14 counsel and discretion Arioch was captain of the king's bodyguard. Daniel did not panic or lash out. When danger comes suddenly, a calm and respectful answer can open doors that anger would slam shut (Prov 15:1).

gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon. 15 He answered and said to Arioch, the captain of the king, "Why is the decree from before the king so harsh?" Then Arioch made the matter known to Daniel. 16 And Daniel went in and asked from the king that he would give him time, and to declare the interpretation to the king. 17 Then Daniel went to his house, and he made the matter known to Hananiah (Chananya), Mishael, and Azariah (Azarya), his companions, 18 and to ask compassion from before the God of the heavens concerning this mystery, that they would not destroy Daniel and his companions with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. 19 Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in the vision of the night. Then Daniel blessed the God of the heavens. 20 Daniel answered and said, "Let the name of God be blessed from everlasting and to everlasting, for the wisdom and the might, they are His. 21 And He changes the times and the seasons; He removes kings and sets up kings; He gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who know understanding. 22 He reveals the deep things and the hidden things; He knows what is in the darkness, and the light dwells with Him. 23 To You, O God of my fathers, I give thanks and praise, for You have given me the wisdom and the might; and now You have made known to me what we asked from You, for You have made known to us the matter of the king."

Daniel Tells the Dream

24 Because of this Daniel went in to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon; he went and said thus to him, "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon. Bring me in before the king, and I will declare the interpretation to the king." 25 Then Arioch in haste brought Daniel in before the king, and said thus to him, "I have found a man from the sons of the exile of Judah (Yehud) who will make known the interpretation to the king." 26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar (Belteshatsar), "Are you able to make known to me the dream that I saw, and its interpretation?" 27 Daniel answered before the king and said, "The mystery that the king is asking, wise men, conjurers, magicians, and diviners are not able to declare to the king. 28 But there is a God in the heavens who reveals mysteries, and He has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar what will be in the latter part of the days. Your dream and the visions of your head on your bed, this is it: 29 You, O king, your thoughts came up on your bed about what will be after this; and He who reveals mysteries has made known to you what will be. 30 And as for me, not by wisdom that is in me more than all the living has this mystery been revealed to me, but for the purpose that they may make known the interpretation to the king, and that you may know the thoughts of your heart. 31 You, O king, were seeing, and look, one great image! This image was large, and its splendor was extraordinary; it was standing before you, and its appearance was terrifying. 32 That image, its head was of fine gold, its breast and its arms of silver, its belly and its thighs of bronze, 33 its legs of iron, its feet, some of them of iron and some of them of clay. 34 You were seeing until a stone was cut out, which was not by hands, and it struck the image on its feet of iron and clay, and shattered them. 35 Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold were shattered as one, and they became like chaff from the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, and no place was found for them. And the stone that struck the image became a great mountain and filled all the earth.

2:16 asked from the king that he would give him time The king had just accused the others of stalling, yet he gave Daniel time. Daniel trusted God to answer before he had any answer to give.
2:18 the God of the heavens A title common in Daniel, Ezra and Nehemiah. In a land that worshiped the sun, moon and stars, it says Israel's God is above them all. Notice Daniel went to prayer before he went to work, and he gathered his friends to pray with him (Matt 18:19-20).
2:20 the wisdom and the might, they are His Daniel's prayer in verses 20-23 is one of the great prayers of the Bible. Babylon thought wisdom belonged to its experts and power to its king. Daniel knew better.
2:21 He removes kings and sets up kings The theme of the whole book in one line. Every ruler holds power only as long as God allows (Rom 13:1). History is not random. When the news feels out of control, this is a great comfort.
2:23 O God of my fathers The God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, faithful for centuries. Daniel said God answered "what we asked from You," sharing the credit with his friends. He never took the glory for himself.
2:24 Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon Daniel's faith saved even the men who practiced the occult arts God condemns. God's people are often a blessing to those around them who do not deserve it.
2:28 there is a God in the heavens who reveals mysteries Daniel agreed that no wise man could do this, then gave the answer they could not. "The latter part of the days" points to the far future, and in the Old Testament it often reaches to the Messiah's kingdom. This dream stretches from Nebuchadnezzar to the end of human history.
2:31 one great image A single huge, bright statue: the glory of human power as the world sees it. In chapter 7 Daniel sees the same kingdoms as God sees them, as beasts.
2:33 some of them of iron and some of them of clay Going down the statue, the metals lose value but gain hardness, from gold to iron. Then the feet are iron mixed with clay, which does not hold. The kingdoms grow stronger in military might but weaker in unity and glory.
2:34 a stone was cut out, which was not by hands No human made it. I believe the stone is Jesus Christ and the kingdom He sets up when He returns. Scripture calls the Messiah a stone: the stone the builders rejected (Ps 118:22; Matt 21:42), the precious cornerstone (Isa 28:16; 1 Pet 2:6), and the stone that crushes (Luke 20:18). His kingdom is God's work, not man's.
2:35 the stone that struck the image became a great mountain and filled all the earth The stone strikes the final stage, the feet, and destroys every part at once, like chaff in the wind. It does not grow slowly inside the kingdoms. It comes from outside and replaces them. I believe this is the second coming of Christ, when He ends the kingdoms of the world and sets up His own on earth (Rev 11:15; 19:11-16).

The Interpretation

36 This is the dream; and its interpretation we will tell before the king. 37 You, O king, are the king of kings, to whom the God of the heavens has given the kingdom, the power, and the strength, and the honor; 38 and wherever the sons of mankind dwell, the beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens He has given into your hand, and He has made you ruler over all of them. You are the head of gold. 39 And after you will arise another kingdom lower than you, and another third kingdom, of bronze, which will rule over all the earth. 40 And a fourth kingdom will be strong as iron, because iron shatters and crushes everything; and like iron that breaks, all these it will shatter and break. 41 And that you saw the feet and the toes, some of them of potter's clay and some of them of iron: it will be a divided kingdom, and some of the firmness of the iron will be in it, because you saw the iron mixed with the clay of the mud. 42 And the toes of the feet, some of them of iron and some of them of clay: part of the kingdom will be strong, and part of it will be brittle. 43 And that you saw the iron mixed with the clay of the mud: they will be mixing with the seed of mankind, and they will not be clinging this with this, just as iron does not mix with clay. 44 And in the days of those kings the God of the heavens will set up a kingdom which will never be destroyed, and the kingdom will not be left to another people; it will shatter and put an end to all these kingdoms, and it will stand forever, 45 because you saw that from the mountain a stone was cut out which was not by hands, and it shattered the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. A great God has made known to the king what will be after this; and the dream is certain, and its interpretation is trustworthy."

Daniel Is Promoted

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell on his face and paid homage to Daniel, and he said to offer to him an offering and soothing aromas. 47 The king answered Daniel and said, "Truly your God, He is the God of gods and the Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery." 48 Then the king made Daniel great and gave him many great gifts, and he made him ruler over all the province of Babylon and chief of prefects over all the wise men of Babylon. 49 And Daniel asked from the king, and he appointed Shadrach (Shadrakh), Meshach (Meshakh), and Abednego (Aved-Nego) over the administration of the province of Babylon; and Daniel was in the gate of the king.

DANIEL 3

The Golden Image

1 Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) the king made an image of gold; its height was approximately 90 feet (sixty cubits), and its width approximately 9 feet (six cubits). He set it up on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon (Bavel).

2:37 the king of kings The greatest king of his day. But the God of heaven had given him the kingdom. He had not earned it, and it could be taken away, as chapter 4 shows.
2:38 You are the head of gold No guessing needed. Daniel says the head is Nebuchadnezzar, standing for the Babylonian Empire. Babylon was famous for its wealth, and gold fits it well.
2:39 another kingdom lower than you, and another third kingdom, of bronze The book later names them: Babylon goes to the Medes and Persians (5:28), and then comes Greece (8:20-21). I believe the silver is Medo-Persia, which took Babylon in 539 B.C., and the bronze is Alexander's Greece, which beat Persia in 331 B.C. Two arms fit two peoples in one empire. Persia was larger, but its king was bound by laws he could not change (6:8, 15).
2:40 a fourth kingdom will be strong as iron I believe this is Rome, which took the lands of the Greek kingdoms and conquered Jerusalem in 63 B.C. Rome was known for military might and iron discipline. The two legs may picture the later split into an eastern and a western empire, but the text does not explain them, so I offer that as a possibility only.
2:42 the toes of the feet A statue has ten toes, and the fourth beast has ten horns that are ten kings (7:7, 24). I believe these are the same: ten kings ruling together in the final form of the fourth kingdom. That stage has never yet existed. I believe it points to a future, revived form of the Roman Empire whose ten rulers give their power to the Antichrist (Rev 17:12-13).
2:43 they will be mixing with the seed of mankind The meaning is debated. Some see marriages between ruling families, as in 11:6. Others see many peoples trying to form one union. I lean toward a forced union of strong and weak nations that will never truly be one. Either way, it will look powerful and be brittle.
2:44 in the days of those kings the God of the heavens will set up a kingdom which will never be destroyed The high point of the chapter. Some believe the stone is the church, with Christ's kingdom slowly filling the earth since His first coming. I respect that view, but it does not fit the text. The stone destroys the kingdoms suddenly and strikes the ten kings, who have not yet appeared. I hold that this is Christ's second coming and His literal reign on earth (Rev 19:15; 20:4-6). Every human kingdom is temporary. If you belong to Christ, you belong to the one that lasts.
2:45 the dream is certain, and its interpretation is trustworthy Babylon fell to Persia, Persia to Greece, and Greece to Rome, just as Daniel said. That record gives us every reason to trust the rest. Some critics date Daniel to about 165 B.C. because they do not accept detailed prophecy. Jesus called him "Daniel the prophet" (Matt 24:15), and I take Jesus at His word. And even a late date could not explain Rome, which did not take Jerusalem until 63 B.C.
2:46 paid homage to Daniel The text does not say Daniel accepted worship. Verse 47 shows the king knew the honor belonged to Daniel's God. He honored God's messenger in the only way his culture knew.
2:47 the God of gods and the Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries A big step, but not yet true faith. He saw Daniel's God as the greatest of the gods, not the only God. He would soon build a golden image (ch 3), and it would take a hard humbling before he truly praised the Most High (ch 4).
2:48 he made him ruler over all the province of Babylon The young exile of chapter 1 was now one of the most powerful men in the empire. God honors those who honor Him (1 Sam 2:30).
2:49 he appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego Daniel did not forget his friends. This sets up chapter 3, where the three face their own test without Daniel at their side.
3:1 Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold No date is given, but it was likely some years after chapter 2. Sixty by six cubits is tall and thin, so it may have stood on a base or been a pillar with a figure on top, probably overlaid with gold. God had told the king he was only the head of gold. This statue looks like his answer: gold all the way down. Pride does not like to hear it is temporary. Bowing to it was a test of loyalty, and for the Jews it was idolatry (Exod 20:3-5).

2 And Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the authorities of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up. 3 Then the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the authorities of the provinces were gathered for the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up; and they were standing before the image which Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 4 And the herald was proclaiming with strength, "To you they say, O peoples, nations, and languages, 5 at the time that you hear the sound of the horn, the flute, the lyre, the trigon, the harp, the bagpipe, and all kinds of music, you shall fall down and pay homage to the image of gold which Nebuchadnezzar the king has set up. 6 And whoever does not fall down and pay homage, in that very moment he will be thrown into the midst of the furnace of the burning fire." 7 Because of this, at that time, as all the peoples were hearing the sound of the horn, the flute, the lyre, the trigon, the harp, and all kinds of music, all the peoples, nations, and languages were falling down, paying homage to the image of gold which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

The Three Refuse

8 Because of this, at that time Chaldean men approached and denounced the Jews. 9 They answered and said to Nebuchadnezzar the king, "O king, live forever! 10 You, O king, have made a decree that every man who hears the sound of the horn, the flute, the lyre, the trigon, the harp, and the bagpipe, and all kinds of music, shall fall down and pay homage to the image of gold; 11 and whoever does not fall down and pay homage will be thrown into the midst of the furnace of the burning fire. 12 There are Jewish men whom you have appointed over the administration of the province of Babylon: Shadrach (Shadrakh), Meshach (Meshakh), and Abednego (Aved-Nego). These men have not set regard on you, O king; they are not serving your god, and they are not paying homage to the image of gold which you have set up." 13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in rage and fury said to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. Then these men were brought before the king. 14 Nebuchadnezzar answered and said to them, "Is it on purpose, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you are not serving my gods, and you are not paying homage to the image of gold which I have set up? 15 Now if you are ready, at the time that you hear the sound of the horn, the flute, the lyre, the trigon, the harp, and the bagpipe, and all kinds of music, to fall down and pay homage to the image which I have made—and if you do not pay homage, in that very moment you will be thrown into the midst of the furnace of the burning fire; and who is the god who will deliver you from my hands?" 16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "We have no need to answer you concerning this matter. 17 If our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the furnace of the burning fire, and from your hand, O king, He will deliver us. 18 And if not, let it be known to you, O king, that we are not serving your god, and we will not pay homage to the image of gold which you have set up."

The Fiery Furnace

19 Then Nebuchadnezzar was filled with fury, and the image of his face was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He answered and said to heat the furnace seven times more than it was proper to heat it. 20 And to certain mighty men of strength who were in his army he said to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, to throw them into the furnace of the burning fire. 21 Then these men were bound in their mantles, their trousers, and their caps, and their garments, and they were thrown into the midst of the furnace of

3:3 the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up The chapter repeats this phrase again and again. This god was made and set up by a man. It could not move, speak or save. The God of Israel is set up by no one.
3:5 all kinds of music Some of the instrument names are Greek words, and critics once claimed this proves a late date. But Greek trade and soldiers were already in the Near East in the 6th century B.C., so a few borrowed words are no surprise. The music moved the crowd so that everyone bowed at one signal.
3:6 the furnace of the burning fire Babylon was built of fired brick, so large kilns were common, and Jeremiah mentions men the king of Babylon "roasted in the fire" (Jer 29:22). False worship is often enforced by fear. The same pattern returns in the last days with the image of the beast (Rev 13:15).
3:7 all the peoples, nations, and languages were falling down It is easy to stand when no one is watching, and much harder when the whole crowd goes down at once and you are the only one left standing.
3:8 denounced the Jews The Aramaic says something like they ate their pieces, a way of saying slandered. Jealousy was likely part of it (2:49). Where was Daniel? The text does not say. He may have been away or excused by his post at court. From the rest of the book we can be sure he would not have bowed.
3:15 who is the god who will deliver you from my hands The heart of the chapter. He had called Daniel's God "the God of gods" (2:47), but now in his pride he put himself above every god. He was about to get his answer.
3:16 We have no need to answer you concerning this matter Not rudeness. They addressed the king with respect. They simply had nothing to debate. The question of whom they would worship had been settled long before, as Daniel settled his in 1:8.
3:17 He will deliver us They answered the king's challenge directly. There is a God who can deliver, and He is the God they serve.
3:18 And if not Some of the great words of faith in the Bible. They believed God could save them but did not presume He would. Their faith rested on God Himself, not on an outcome. Many believers have gone into the fire and not been rescued from it, and their faith was no weaker (Heb 11:32-38). I believe the church will be taken to Christ before the Tribulation, but many will come to Him during those years and face the beast's power (7:21; Rev 13:7). God will keep them, by delivering them from death or through death into His presence.
3:19 seven times more than it was proper to heat it Likely a way of saying as hot as possible. It made no sense, since a hotter fire would only kill them faster. Anger rarely thinks clearly.
3:21 bound in their mantles, their trousers, and their caps Clothing burns quickly. When they come out with their clothes untouched, no one can doubt the miracle.

the burning fire. 22 Because of this, since the word of the king was harsh and the furnace was heated exceedingly, those men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the flame of the fire killed them. 23 And these men, the three of them, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, fell bound into the midst of the furnace of the burning fire. 24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was alarmed, and he rose up in haste. He answered and said to his counselors, "Did we not throw three men bound into the midst of the fire?" They answered and said to the king, "Certainly, O king." 25 He answered and said, "Look, I see four men loosed, walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no harm on them; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods." 26 Then Nebuchadnezzar approached the door of the furnace of the burning fire. He answered and said, "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out and come here!" Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out from the midst of the fire. 27 And the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, and the counselors of the king were gathered, seeing these men, that the fire had not had power over their bodies, and the hair of their head was not singed, and their mantles were not changed, and the smell of fire had not passed onto them.

The King Blesses God

28 Nebuchadnezzar answered and said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who has sent His angel and has delivered His servants, who trusted in Him; and they changed the word of the king, and gave their bodies, so that they would not serve and would not pay homage to any god except their own God. 29 And from me a decree is made that any people, nation, and language that says anything negligent against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be made into pieces, and his house shall be made a refuse heap, because there is not another god who is able to rescue like this." 30 Then the king caused Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to prosper in the province of Babylon.

DANIEL 4

The King's Testimony

1 Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) the king, to all the peoples, nations, and languages who dwell in all the earth: May your peace increase! 2 The signs and the wonders which the Most High God has done with me, it has seemed good before me to declare. 3 His signs, how great! And His wonders, how strong! His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and His dominion is with generation and generation.

The Dream of the Great Tree

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and flourishing in my palace. 5 I saw a dream, and it made me afraid; and the imaginings on my bed and the visions of my head alarmed me. 6 And a decree was made from me to bring in before me all the wise men of Babylon (Bavel), that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. 7 Then the magicians, the conjurers, the Chaldeans (Kasdim), and the diviners came in; and I told the dream before them, and they did not make known to me its interpretation. 8 And at last Daniel (Daniyel) came in before me, whose name is Belteshazzar (Belteshatsar), according to the name of my god, and in whom is a spirit of holy gods; and I told the dream before him: 9 "O Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, because I know that a spirit of holy gods is in you, and no mystery troubles you, tell the visions of my dream which I saw, and

3:22 the flame of the fire killed them The fire was real and deadly. No one could later say the furnace had cooled. Sometimes God lets His people go all the way into the fire before He shows His hand.
3:25 the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods The fire burned only their ropes. Who was the fourth? Some believe an angel, as the king himself says in verse 28 (compare 6:22). Others believe it was the Son of God appearing before His birth, as the Angel of the LORD sometimes speaks as God (Gen 16:7-13; Exod 3:2-6). I lean toward the second view, but I would not divide over it. The Aramaic, spoken by a pagan king, is better rendered "a son of the gods." Either way, God did not keep them out of the fire. He met them in it (Isa 43:2; Matt 28:20).
3:27 the smell of fire had not passed onto them The officials who had bowed to the image became witnesses to the true God. God's rescue was complete. Not a hair was singed and their clothes did not even smell of smoke.
3:28 Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego The king who demanded worship now praised the men who refused him. People who will not listen to our words may still see our faith under pressure.
3:29 there is not another god who is able to rescue like this He still spoke of other gods and still used threats to enforce religion. He was moving the right way but had not yet bowed his own heart. That comes in chapter 4.
3:30 the king caused Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to prosper Their enemies' plan backfired. This is the last we hear of the three, but Hebrews likely remembers them among those who "quenched the power of fire" (Heb 11:34).
4:1 Nebuchadnezzar the king, to all the peoples, nations, and languages The chapter is a royal letter sent across the empire, written mostly by a pagan king. These events likely came late in his reign (605 to 562 B.C.), when his building in Babylon was largely done (4:30). The surprise is the subject. The king tells the world a story that does not flatter him at all.
4:3 His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom The head of gold who built a golden image now confesses that only God's kingdom lasts, the lesson of the stone in 2:44. He starts with the ending so we read the story through what he finally learned. A good testimony points to God first.
4:4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house His wars were over and his city was splendid. Comfort is often when pride does its quiet work. Moses warned of this very danger (Deut 8:11-14). God has a way of breaking into our ease when we are drifting from Him.
4:8 according to the name of my god, and in whom is a spirit of holy gods Belteshazzar was tied to Bel, the title of Marduk, Babylon's chief god. The king still thought as a polytheist, one who believes in many gods. So his praise in verses 2-3 came after these events. "Chief of the magicians" was Daniel's office (2:48), not his practice. Daniel prayed, and God answered.

its interpretation. 10 And the visions of my head on my bed: I was seeing, and look, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was great. 11 The tree grew great and grew strong, and its height reached to the heavens, and its sight was to the end of all the earth. 12 Its foliage was beautiful, and its fruit plentiful, and food for all was in it. Under it the beasts of the field had shade, and in its branches the birds of the heavens dwelt, and all flesh was fed from it. 13 I was seeing in the visions of my head on my bed, and look, a watcher and a holy one was coming down from the heavens. 14 He was proclaiming with strength, and thus he was saying: 'Cut down the tree and cut off its branches; strip off its foliage and scatter its fruit. Let the beasts flee from under it, and the birds from its branches. 15 Yet leave the stump of its roots in the ground, and with a band of iron and bronze, in the grass of the field; and let it be drenched with the dew of the heavens, and its portion be with the beasts in the grass of the ground. 16 Let them change its heart from that of mankind, and let the heart of a beast be given to it; and let seven times pass over it. 17 The edict is by the decree of the watchers, and the matter is by the word of the holy ones, to the end that the living may know that the Most High rules over the kingdom of mankind, and to whomever He wills He gives it, and He sets up over it the lowly of men.' 18 This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. And you, O Belteshazzar, tell its interpretation, because all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation; but you are able, for a spirit of holy gods is in you."

Daniel Interprets the Dream

19 Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was appalled for about one moment, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king answered and said, "Belteshazzar, do not let the dream and its interpretation alarm you." Belteshazzar answered and said, "My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you, and its interpretation for your adversaries! 20 The tree that you saw, which grew great and grew strong, and whose height reached to the heavens, and its sight to all the earth, 21 and whose foliage was beautiful and its fruit plentiful, and food for all was in it; under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and in whose branches the birds of the heavens settled, 22 it is you, O king, who have grown great and grown strong; and your greatness has grown great and has reached to the heavens, and your dominion to the end of the earth. 23 And that the king saw a watcher and a holy one coming down from the heavens and saying, 'Cut down the tree and destroy it; yet leave the stump of its roots in the ground, and with a band of iron and bronze, in the grass of the field; and let it be drenched with the dew of the heavens, and its portion be with the beasts of the field, until seven times pass over it,' 24 this is the interpretation, O king, and it is the decree of the Most High which has reached my lord the king: 25 and they will drive you away from mankind, and your dwelling will be with the beasts of the field; and they will feed you grass like oxen, and they will drench you with the dew of the heavens; and seven times will pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules over the kingdom of mankind, and to whomever He wills He gives it. 26 And that they said to leave the stump of the roots of the tree: your kingdom will be enduring for you from the time that you know that the heavens rule. 27 Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to you, and break off your sin by righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the afflicted; perhaps there will be a lengthening of your prosperity."

4:10 a tree in the midst of the earth A great tree was a common picture of a great king or kingdom. Ezekiel pictures Assyria as a towering cedar cut down for its pride (Ezek 31). Jesus used birds nesting in branches for the growth of God's kingdom (Matt 13:31-32).
4:13 a watcher and a holy one "Watcher" means one who stays awake and keeps watch, and "holy one" makes clear this is an angel. This is the only chapter in the Bible that calls angels watchers. One word from heaven brings down the greatest tree on earth.
4:15 leave the stump of its roots in the ground Partway through, the language shifts from it to him: the tree is a person. The band of iron and bronze may picture protection or restraint, and both fit, since God both restrained and preserved the king.
4:16 let seven times pass over it Most interpreters take this as seven years, and I agree. The same word means a year in 7:25. Some suggest seasons or months, but years is the plain reading. Seven is also the number of completeness. The humbling would last exactly as long as God decided.
4:17 the Most High rules over the kingdom of mankind The key verse of the chapter. Kings think they rise by their own strength, but God gives authority and takes it away (Rom 13:1). Even the Antichrist will be given authority for a set time and not a day more (Rev 13:5). We can pray for our leaders and respect the office without living in fear.
4:19 may the dream be for those who hate you Daniel was shaken and did not rush in with bad news. This was the king who destroyed Jerusalem, yet Daniel truly cared about him. He lived what Jeremiah told the exiles: seek the good of the city where God sent you (Jer 29:7). It is a picture of loving our enemies.
4:22 it is you, O king Daniel neither flattered nor insulted him. The king really was great, and his empire fed many people. The problem was not his greatness but his belief that it was his own doing.
4:24 it is the decree of the Most High Verse 17 called it the decree of the watchers. There is no contradiction. The angels announced and carried it out, but the decision was God's. Angels are His servants, not independent rulers.
4:25 until you know that the Most High rules The goal was recognition, not destruction. The word "until" shows the judgment had an end point. His condition has been compared to a rare illness in which a man believes he is an animal, but the text's point is that this was a judgment from God.
4:26 from the time that you know that the heavens rule "The heavens" is a respectful way to say God, an early example of a use that became common among the Jews and lies behind the phrase kingdom of the heavens in Matthew. Kingdoms did not usually wait seven years for a mad king. That his throne was waiting is itself the hand of God.
4:27 break off your sin by righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the afflicted Like a true prophet, Daniel called the king to repent. Great building projects were often built on the backs of the poor and captives. Note the word "perhaps." God's warnings are often an invitation, as Nineveh found (Jonah 3:10). He is patient, not wanting any to perish (2 Pet 3:9).

The King Humbled and Restored

28 All this reached Nebuchadnezzar the king. 29 At the end of twelve months he was walking about on the palace of the kingdom of Babylon. 30 The king answered and said, "Is not this the great Babylon, which I have built for a house of the kingdom by the strength of my power and for the honor of my majesty?" 31 While the word was still in the mouth of the king, a voice fell from the heavens: "To you they say, O King Nebuchadnezzar: the kingdom has passed from you. 32 And they will drive you away from mankind, and your dwelling will be with the beasts of the field; they will feed you grass like oxen, and seven times will pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules over the kingdom of mankind, and to whomever He wills He gives it." 33 In that very moment the word was fulfilled on Nebuchadnezzar; and he was driven away from mankind, and he ate grass like oxen, and his body was drenched with the dew of the heavens, until his hair grew long like eagles' feathers and his nails like birds' claws. 34 And at the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to the heavens, and my knowledge returned to me; and I blessed the Most High, and I praised and glorified Him who lives forever, for His dominion is an everlasting dominion, and His kingdom is with generation and generation. 35 And all the inhabitants of the earth are counted as nothing, and He does according to His will with the army of the heavens and the inhabitants of the earth; and there is no one who can strike on His hand and say to Him, "What have You done?" 36 At that time my knowledge returned to me, and for the honor of my kingdom my majesty and my splendor returned to me; and my counselors and my nobles sought me, and I was established over my kingdom, and surpassing greatness was added to me. 37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and exalt and glorify the King of the heavens, for all His works are truth and His ways are justice; and those who walk in pride He is able to bring low.

Belshazzar's Feast

1 Belshazzar (Belshatsar) the king made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles, and he was drinking the wine before the thousand. 2 Belshazzar said, at the tasting of the wine, to bring the vessels of gold and of silver which Nebuchadnezzar (Nevukhadnetsar) his father had brought out from the temple which was in Jerusalem (Yerushalayim), that the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines might drink from them. 3 Then they brought the vessels of gold which they had brought out from the temple which was the house of God which was in Jerusalem; and the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines drank from them. 4 They drank the wine, and they praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

The Hand and the Writing

5 In that very moment fingers of a man's hand came out, and they were writing opposite the lampstand on the plaster of the wall of the palace of the king; and the king was seeing the palm of the hand that was writing. 6 Then the king's brightness changed on him, and his thoughts alarmed him; and the joints of his loins were loosened, and his knees were knock-

4:29 At the end of twelve months God gave him a full year of grace, and it seems he did not use it. When God gives us time after a warning, that time is a gift, not proof the warning was empty.
4:30 Is not this the great Babylon, which I have built Count the I and my in one sentence. Babylon truly was great, with huge walls, palaces and the Ishtar Gate, and many bricks found there bear his name. The final Babylon will show the same pride and hear the same verdict (Rev 14:8; 18:2, 7).
4:31 While the word was still in the mouth of the king He had a year to repent, but when judgment came it came in an instant. Pride goes before destruction (Prov 16:18).
4:33 his hair grew long like eagles' feathers The man who saw himself as a tree reaching the sky now lived lower than his subjects. When we try to take God's place, we do not rise to be like God. We fall below what we were made to be. Kings rarely recorded their humiliations, so the lack of a Babylonian record is no surprise. I take Daniel's account as true history (Matt 24:15).
4:34 I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to the heavens, and my knowledge returned to me Notice the order. Animals look down at the ground. The first sign of his recovery was looking up to God, and then his mind returned.
4:35 all the inhabitants of the earth are counted as nothing Not bitterness but the honest worship of a man who finally saw the difference between Creator and creature (Isa 40:15-17). When we see God this way, our worries and our pride shrink to their proper size.
4:36 surpassing greatness was added to me Just as Daniel promised (4:26). God's discipline is meant to restore, and afterward it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness (Heb 12:11).
4:37 those who walk in pride He is able to bring low Was he truly converted? Christians disagree. Some see real saving faith in his praise and public letter. Others think he only ranked Israel's God above his others. I lean toward believing his change was real, but I hold that humbly. Either way, God opposes the proud and gives grace to the humble (James 4:6). We can learn humility the easy way or the hard way.
5:1 Belshazzar the king made a great feast Many years have passed. Nebuchadnezzar died in 562 B.C. The last king, Nabonidus (556 to 539 B.C.), spent about ten years at the desert oasis of Tayma, and his son Belshazzar ruled Babylon as co-regent. Critics once said Belshazzar never existed, until records found in the 1800s named him as Nabonidus' eldest son with royal power. The spade has a way of catching up with Scripture. He feasted while the Persian army was already in the land.
5:2 Nebuchadnezzar his father In the Bible's languages "father" can mean grandfather, ancestor or predecessor, just as Jesus is called the son of David. Some suggest his mother was Nebuchadnezzar's daughter, but we do not know. Bringing out the temple vessels (1:2) for a drunken party was deliberate defiance, as if Israel's God were just another defeated god.
5:4 they praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone The list echoes the statue of chapter 2. Sin often takes what belongs to God and uses it for selfish pleasure, then praises something else for it. Our bodies, gifts, time and money belong to God.
5:5 on the plaster of the wall of the palace of the king A large throne room with white plastered walls has been found in Nebuchadnezzar's palace, and many believe it was the kind of room for this feast. God did not send an army. He sent a hand, and that was enough to stop the party cold.
5:6 his knees were knocking this against this His body told the truth his boasting hid. The wicked flee when no one pursues (Prov 28:1). Belshazzar had no peace because he had no peace with God.

ing this against this. 7 The king called with strength to bring in the conjurers, the Chaldeans (Kasdim), and the diviners. The king answered and said to the wise men of Babylon (Bavel), "Any man who reads this writing and declares to me its interpretation will be clothed with purple, and the necklace of gold will be on his neck, and he will rule as third in the kingdom." 8 Then all the wise men of the king were coming in, and they were not able to read the writing and to make known its interpretation to the king. 9 Then King Belshazzar was greatly alarmed, and his brightness was changing on him, and his nobles were perplexed. 10 The queen, because of the words of the king and his nobles, came into the house of the feast. The queen answered and said, "O king, live forever! Let not your thoughts alarm you, and let not your brightness be changed. 11 There is a man in your kingdom in whom is a spirit of holy gods; and in the days of your father illumination and insight and wisdom like the wisdom of gods were found in him; and King Nebuchadnezzar your father appointed him chief of the magicians, conjurers, Chaldeans, and diviners, your father the king, 12 because an extraordinary spirit, and knowledge and insight, interpreting dreams and declaring riddles and loosening knots, were found in him, in Daniel (Daniyel), whose name the king made Belteshazzar (Belteshatsar). Now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation."

Daniel Reads the Writing

13 Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king answered and said to Daniel, "You are that Daniel who is of the sons of the exile of Judah (Yehud), whom the king my father brought from Judah. 14 And I have heard concerning you that a spirit of gods is in you, and illumination and insight and extraordinary wisdom have been found in you. 15 And now the wise men, the conjurers, have been brought in before me, that they might read this writing and make known to me its interpretation; and they were not able to declare the interpretation of the matter. 16 And I have heard concerning you that you are able to interpret interpretations and to loosen knots. Now if you are able to read the writing and to make known to me its interpretation, you will be clothed with purple, and the necklace of gold will be on your neck, and you will rule as the third in the kingdom." 17 Then Daniel answered and said before the king, "Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another; nevertheless I will read the writing to the king, and I will make known to him the interpretation. 18 You, O king: the Most High God gave the kingdom and the greatness and the honor and the majesty to Nebuchadnezzar your father. 19 And because of the greatness that He gave him, all the peoples, nations, and languages were trembling and fearing before him. Whom he wished, he was killing; and whom he wished, he was keeping alive; and whom he wished, he was lifting up; and whom he wished, he was bringing low. 20 And when his heart was lifted up and his spirit grew strong to act proudly, he was brought down from the throne of his kingdom, and they removed the honor from him. 21 And he was driven away from the sons of mankind, and they made his heart like that of the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys; they fed him grass like oxen, and his body was drenched with the dew of the heavens, until he knew that the Most High God rules over the kingdom of mankind, and whomever He wills He sets up over it. 22 And you, his son, O Belshazzar, have not brought low your heart, inasmuch as you knew all this. 23 And you have lifted yourself up against the Lord of the heavens; and the vessels of His house they have brought before you, and you and your nobles, your wives and your concubines, are drinking wine from them; and you have praised the gods of silver and gold, bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see and do not hear and do not know; and the God in whose hand is your breath, and whose are all your ways, you have not glorified. 24 Then from before Him the palm of the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. 25 And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN. 26 This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered your kingdom

5:7 he will rule as third in the kingdom A quiet proof of Daniel's accuracy. Nabonidus was first and Belshazzar second, so third was the highest honor he could give. A writer centuries later would not likely have known this. Purple was the color of royalty.

5:10 The queen The king's wives were already at the feast (5:2-3), so this was most likely the queen mother, a respected older woman of the royal house. She remembered what everyone else had forgotten.

5:11 There is a man in your kingdom Belshazzar did not seem to know Daniel. The man so important under Nebuchadnezzar had been set aside, and he was now about eighty. Faithfulness in the quiet years is never wasted. God knows where His servants are, and when He needed Daniel, he was ready.

5:13 You are that Daniel who is of the sons of the exile of Judah This may have been meant to put Daniel in his place. Belshazzar says only "a spirit of gods" (5:14), leaving out the word "holy," a small detail that fits a king who respected nothing holy.

5:17 Let your gifts be for yourself Not rudeness. God's word could not be bought, and the gifts would not shape the message (2 Cor 2:17). Daniel later received them (5:29) because the king insisted, but he had already spoken without any promise of reward, and the honor lasted only hours.

5:22 inasmuch as you knew all this The heart of his guilt. He knew what happened to Nebuchadnezzar and did it anyway. The servant who knew his master's will and did not do it receives the greater punishment (Luke 12:47-48). Many today are like Belshazzar. They have heard the truth, maybe grown up around it, and chosen to ignore it.

5:23 the God in whose hand is your breath The sharpest line of all. It is foolish to praise gods that "do not see and do not hear," and ignore the God who keeps you breathing.

5:25 MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN Aramaic terms for weights or money: a mina, a shekel, and halves or parts. Read as a list, they sounded like a line from a merchant's scale, which may be why the wise men could not make sense of them. God gave Daniel the meaning.

5:26 God has numbered your kingdom and has finished it The word is written twice, stressing that the matter was settled. Every life has days numbered by God (Ps 90:12). Belshazzar never learned to number his days, so God numbered them for him.

and has finished it. 27 TEKEL, you have been weighed in the scales and have been found lacking. 28 PERES, your kingdom has been divided and has been given to Media (Maday) and Persia (Paras)." 29 Then Belshazzar spoke, and they clothed Daniel with purple, and the necklace of gold was on his neck; and they proclaimed concerning him that he would be ruling as the third in the kingdom.

The Fall of Babylon

30 In that night Belshazzar, the Chaldean king, was killed. 31 And Darius (Daryavesh) the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

DANIEL 6

The Plot Against Daniel

1 It seemed good before Darius (Daryavesh), and he appointed over the kingdom one hundred and twenty satraps, who would be over all the kingdom; 2 and above them three overseers, of whom Daniel (Daniyel) was one, that these satraps might be giving them account, and the king would not be suffering loss. 3 Then this Daniel was distinguishing himself above the overseers and the satraps, because an extraordinary spirit was in him; and the king was planning to appoint him over all the kingdom. 4 Then the overseers and the satraps were seeking to find an occasion against Daniel from the side of the kingdom; and they were not able to find any occasion or corruption, because he was trustworthy, and no negligence or corruption was found in him. 5 Then these men were saying, "We will not find any occasion against this Daniel unless we have found it against him in the law of his God." 6 Then these overseers and satraps came thronging to the king, and thus they were saying to him, "Darius the king, live forever! 7 All the overseers of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the counselors and the governors, have taken counsel together to establish a statute of the king and to make strong a prohibition, that whoever asks a petition from any god or man for thirty days, except from you, O king, shall be thrown into the den of the lions. 8 Now, O king, establish the prohibition and sign the writing, which is not to be changed, according to the law of Media (Maday) and Persia (Paras), which does not pass away." 9 Because of this King Darius signed the writing and the prohibition.

Daniel Keeps Praying

10 And when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and windows were opened for him in his upper room toward Jerusalem (Yerushalayim); and three times in the day he was kneeling on his knees and praying and giving thanks before his God, just as he had been doing from before this. 11 Then these men came thronging and found Daniel asking and imploring favor before his God. 12 Then they approached and were saying before the king

5:27 you have been weighed in the scales and have been found lacking God does not grade on a curve. He weighs us against His own holiness, and every one of us comes up short (Rom 3:23). Jesus was weighed and found perfect, and those who trust Him are counted righteous in Him (2 Cor 5:21). Belshazzar stood on the scale alone. We do not have to.
5:28 your kingdom has been divided and has been given to Media and Persia The same Aramaic letters also point to Persia, so the word itself named the conquerors. Isaiah had foretold the Medes against Babylon and even named Cyrus (Isa 13:17-19; 45:1), and Jeremiah set Babylon's seventy years (Jer 25:11-12). God's timetable was on schedule.
5:29 they clothed Daniel with purple The king did not repent or even argue. He handed out the reward like the end of a party game. Perhaps he did not believe judgment could come so fast. It came within hours.
5:30 In that night Belshazzar, the Chaldean king, was killed The fall of the greatest city on earth in one sentence. This was October 539 B.C., when Babylon fell to Cyrus the Great. The head of gold gave way to the silver (2:39). The final Babylon will also be feasting when her judgment comes "in one hour" (Rev 18:10).
5:31 Darius the Mede received the kingdom In the Aramaic text this is 6:1. Darius has not yet been found in records outside the Bible. Some believe he was Gubaru, a governor Cyrus placed over Babylon. Others think it is another name for Cyrus, reading 6:28 as Darius, even Cyrus. Both views take the text seriously, and I do not take a firm side. The Bible proved right about Belshazzar before.
6:1 one hundred and twenty satraps Satraps were regional governors. Persia was known for this kind of ordered government by provinces (compare Esth 1:1). Daniel, named third ruler on the night Babylon fell (5:29), was at once given a high post in the new government. The new rulers saw his integrity.
6:3 an extraordinary spirit was in him Daniel was likely in his early eighties, taken to Babylon as a teenager in 605 B.C. and still excellent and trusted after 539 B.C. God does not retire His servants because they grow old. There is no age limit on faithfulness.
6:4 no negligence or corruption was found in him His enemies searched for bribes, mistakes, laziness or favoritism and came up empty after more than sixty years of service. Our faith should make us better workers (Col 3:23). When people look closely at our work, they should find honesty and diligence.
6:5 unless we have found it against him in the law of his God Quite a testimony. His enemies were sure of two things: he was blameless at work, and he would never compromise his faith. Would the people who know you say the same?
6:7 All the overseers of the kingdom A lie, since Daniel, one of the three, had not agreed. The law flattered a new ruler by making him the only one anyone could pray to. It previews the last days, when the Antichrist will demand worship and those who refuse will face death (Rev 13:15; 2 Thess 2:4). Darius was not evil as the Antichrist will be, but the pattern is the same: a government demanding what belongs to God alone.
6:8 the law of Media and Persia, which does not pass away A signed Persian decree could not be revoked, the same rule seen in Esther 8:8. Darius did not stop to think whom the law would touch. Pride and flattery together can trap even a well-meaning leader.
6:10 three times in the day he was kneeling on his knees One of my favorite verses in Daniel. He did not panic or make a show. He kept doing "just as he had been doing from before this." His prayer life was the habit of a lifetime, so it held when pressure came. He faced Jerusalem because of Solomon's prayer for captives who pray toward the land (1 Kgs 8:46-50), and he gave thanks under a death sentence. To hide his prayers would have said faith can be hidden when it is dangerous (Acts 5:29).
6:11 found Daniel asking and imploring favor before his God They did not have to search. Everyone knew Daniel's habits. Is your faith that steady, so people know where to find you when it is time to pray?

concerning the prohibition of the king, "Did you not sign a prohibition that any man who asks from any god or man for thirty days, except from you, O king, shall be thrown into the den of the lions?" The king answered and said, "The word is certain, according to the law of Media and Persia, which does not pass away." 13 Then they answered and were saying before the king, "Daniel, who is of the sons of the exile of Judah (Yehud), has not set regard on you, O king, or on the prohibition which you signed; and three times in the day he is asking his petition." 14 Then the king, when he heard the word, was greatly displeased, and he set his mind on Daniel to deliver him; and until the going down of the sun he was striving to rescue him. 15 Then these men came thronging to the king and were saying to the king, "Know, O king, that it is a law of Media and Persia that any prohibition and statute which the king establishes is not to be changed." 16 Then the king spoke, and they brought Daniel and threw him into the den of the lions. The king answered and said to Daniel, "Your God whom you serve continually, may He deliver you." 17 And one stone was brought and set on the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his signet ring and with the signet rings of his nobles, that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel.

Delivered from the Lions

18 Then the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting, and diversions were not brought in before him, and his sleep fled from him. 19 Then the king arose at dawn, at daylight, and went in haste to the den of the lions. 20 And as he approached the den, he cried out to Daniel with a pained voice. The king answered and said to Daniel, "O Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God, whom you serve continually, been able to deliver you from the lions?" 21 Then Daniel spoke with the king, "O king, live forever! 22 My God sent His angel and shut the mouth of the lions, and they have not harmed me, because before Him innocence was found in me; and also before you, O king, I have done no crime." 23 Then the king was very glad, and he said to take Daniel up from the den. And Daniel was taken up from the den, and no harm was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. 24 And the king spoke, and they brought those men who had denounced Daniel, and they threw them, their sons and their wives, into the den of the lions; and they had not reached the bottom of the den before the lions overpowered them and shattered all their bones.

Darius Honors the Living God

25 Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations, and languages who dwell in all the earth: "May your peace increase! 26 From before me a decree is made, that in all the dominion of my kingdom they shall be trembling and fearing before the God of Daniel; for He is the living God and enduring forever, and His kingdom is one which will not be destroyed, and His dominion will be to the end. 27 He delivers and rescues, and He does signs and wonders in the heavens and on the earth, who has delivered Daniel from the hand of the lions." 28 And this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius and in the reign of Cyrus (Koresh) the Persian.

6:13 has not set regard on you, O king Twisted words. Daniel had served the king faithfully. He simply would not let the king take God's place. Believers through history have had their devotion to God painted as rebellion.
6:16 Your God whom you serve continually, may He deliver you Perhaps more hope than faith, but a pagan king had watched Daniel closely enough to know he served God continually. Daniel's life had preached to the king long before this night. The den was likely a pit with an opening at the top (6:23-24).
6:17 the king sealed it with his signet ring So nothing could be changed. Many Christians see a picture here of the stone sealed over Jesus' tomb (Matt 27:66). Men sealed both stones, and God brought His servant out alive. Daniel was not raised from the dead, but his rescue is a small picture of Christ's victory over death.
6:20 servant of the living God The gods of Babylon and Persia were idols. Darius had begun to see that Daniel's God is alive and acts.
6:22 My God sent His angel and shut the mouth of the lions Daniel did not boast of his courage. He gave God the credit and affirmed his loyalty to the king. Breaking an unjust law to obey a higher authority is not rebellion. Hebrews almost certainly remembers him among those who "shut the mouths of lions" (Heb 11:33). God did not keep him from the trial. He kept him in it.
6:23 because he had trusted in his God Faith is not a magic shield. It is reliance on the One who can protect. Not every faithful believer is spared death in this life (Heb 11:35-37; Dan 3:18). God delivers some from death and others through death into His presence. I hold that Christ will take His church before the Tribulation, and I respect those who differ. For believers in every age and for those saved in the Tribulation, God's people may be thrown into the den, but never out of His hand (7:21-22; Rev 13:7-10).
6:24 their sons and their wives A hard verse, and it should be. Throwing in the families was the king's harsh Persian practice, not God's command. God's Law said children must not die for their fathers' sins (Deut 24:16). The Bible records it without approving it. The lions were not tame, so Daniel's survival was God's doing. Those who dig a pit fall into it (Prov 26:27).
6:26 for He is the living God and enduring forever The plotters wanted no prayer to any god but the king. They got a decree for the whole empire to honor Daniel's God (Gen 50:20). The everlasting kingdom ties the first half of the book together (4:3, 34), and in the next chapter it is given to One like a Son of Man (7:13-14).
6:28 in the reign of Darius and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian Some read Darius, even Cyrus, as one man. Others see two rulers (see 5:31). Either way, Daniel lived to see Cyrus' decree letting the Jews go home (Ezra 1:1-4). Taken captive at the start of the exile, he lived to see God open the door.
7:1 In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon Most likely about 553 B.C., when Nabonidus left Belshazzar in charge, so this vision came before the fall of Babylon in chapter 5. Chapters 1-6 are arranged as stories and 7-12 as dated visions. Daniel, now in his late sixties, wrote the dream down. God meant it to be read by His people for generations, including us.

matters. 2 Daniel answered and said, "I was seeing in my vision by night, and look, the four winds of the heavens were stirring up the great sea. 3 And four great beasts were coming up from the sea, different this from this. 4 The first was like a lion, and it had wings of an eagle. The court sat, and books were opened. 11 I was seeing then, because of the sound of the great words which the horn was speaking; I was seeing until the beast was killed, and its body was destroyed and given to the burning of fire. 12 And as for the rest of the beasts, they removed their dominion, and a prolonging of life was given to them until a season and a time. 13 I was seeing in the visions of the night, and look, with the clouds of the heavens one like a son of man was coming; and He reached the Ancient of Days, and they brought Him near before Him. 14 And to Him was given dominion and honor and a kingdom, and all the peoples, nations, and languages will serve Him. 7:2 the four winds of the heavens were stirring up the great sea The four winds are the four directions, God's power moving over the whole earth. The great sea was the Mediterranean, around which these empires ruled, and in prophecy the sea also pictures the restless nations (Rev 17:15). These kingdoms rise out of the turmoil of the nations because God's winds stir the sea.

7:3 four great beasts were coming up from the sea Each beast is a kingdom (7:17, 23). In chapter 2 the king saw these empires as a splendid statue, the way proud men see their own power. Here God shows what they really are: violent and hungry. Without God, human government tends toward the animal, as Nebuchadnezzar learned in chapter 4.

7:4 The first was like a lion, and it had wings of an eagle Babylon, the head of gold (2:38). Winged lions decorated Babylon's gates, and Jeremiah pictured Nebuchadnezzar as a lion and his armies as eagles (Jer 4:7, 13). The plucked wings and the "heart of a man" point back to chapter 4: Babylon's swift rise stopped, and its greatest king learned to think like a man who answers to God.

7:5 another beast, a second, like a bear Medo-Persia, the silver (2:32). Raised up on one side fits an empire of two peoples, with Persia stronger (8:3). The three ribs are most often taken as three great conquests: Lydia (546 B.C.), Babylon (539 B.C.) and Egypt (525 B.C.). Persia reached from India to Egypt. Notice the bear eats because it is told to.

7:6 another, like a leopard, and it had four wings of a bird on its back Greece, the bronze. A four-winged leopard fits Alexander the Great, who broke Persia in about three years (334-331 B.C.) and died in 323 B.C. at about thirty-two. The four heads are the four generals who divided his empire (8:8, 22), including the Seleucids and Ptolemies of chapter 11. "Dominion was given to it." Even Alexander held only what God gave.

7:7 a fourth beast, fearful and terrible and exceedingly strong Rome, the iron of chapter 2. Rome crushed and absorbed nations, ruled longer than the others, and ruled Judea when Jesus was born and crucified and when the temple fell in A.D. 70. Daniel never sees a fifth kingdom replace this one.

7:7 it had ten horns A horn is a symbol of power, here of kings (7:24), matching the ten toes (2:41-44). Historic Rome never ruled through ten kings at once, so I believe with many students of prophecy that the horns point to a final, future form of the Roman Empire, ten rulers who hand their power to the Antichrist (Rev 17:12-13).

7:8 another horn, a small one, came up between them I believe this little horn is the future Antichrist, the beast of Revelation 13. Both have a mouth speaking great things (Rev 13:5), both war on the saints (7:21; Rev 13:7), and both rule three and a half years (7:25; Rev 13:5). One man, seen by two prophets six hundred years apart. Do not confuse him with the horn of 8:9, which comes from Greece and was fulfilled in Antiochus IV.

7:9 the Ancient of Days sat God the Father, who existed before all days. The beasts come and go, and He is eternal. White clothing and hair speak of purity and wisdom, and the fiery throne of holiness and judgment (Ezek 1:15-28). John saw the glorified Jesus with hair white as wool and snow (Rev 1:14). I believe that is deliberate: the Son shares the Father's glory. The plural thrones are for the saints (7:22; Rev 20:4).

7:10 The court sat, and books were opened A myriad of myriads is a number too large to count (Rev 5:11). This is a courtroom. The beasts have had their time, and God judges by His record (Rev 20:12). Nothing done on earth goes unseen or unrecorded.

7:11 the beast was killed, and its body was destroyed and given to the burning of fire The little horn is still boasting when God ends him. This matches the beast thrown into the lake of fire when Christ returns (Rev 19:20). That is how every proud power has fallen, and how the last one will fall.

7:12 a prolonging of life was given to them Each earlier empire was absorbed into the next. Babylonian culture lived on under Persia, Persian under Greece, and Greek inside Rome. The fourth beast is not absorbed. It is destroyed, because God's kingdom replaces it.

7:13 with the clouds of the heavens one like a son of man was coming One of the most important verses in the Old Testament. He looks human, unlike the beasts, yet He rides the clouds, which in Scripture is something God does (Ps 104:3; Isa 19:1). I believe without doubt this is Jesus Christ. Son of Man was His favorite name for Himself, and at His trial He claimed this verse, and the high priest called it blasphemy (Matt 26:64). He is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see Him (Rev 1:7).

7:14 to him was given dominion and honor and a kingdom The beasts had dominion for a time. His is everlasting, the stone that fills the earth (2:44-45). Some see this as the ascension, with the kingdom fully present now in a spiritual sense. I believe Christ reigns now at the Father's right hand, but this verse looks to His second coming, since the kingdom is given when the beast is judged (7:11, 26-27), which has not yet happened. As a premillennialist, I believe it is fulfilled when He returns to reign on earth (Rev 11:15; 20:4-6).

The Vision Explained

15 As for me, Daniel, my spirit was distressed in the midst of its sheath, and the visions of my head alarmed me. 16 I approached one of those standing there, and I was asking from him the truth concerning all this. And he said to me, and he made known to me the interpretation of the matters: 17 'These great beasts, which are four, are four kings who will arise from the earth. 18 And the holy ones of the Most High will receive the kingdom, and they will possess the kingdom until the age, and until the age of the ages.' 19 Then I desired to make certain concerning the fourth beast, which was different from all of them, exceedingly terrible, its teeth of iron and its claws of bronze, devouring, shattering, and trampling the rest with its feet, 20 and concerning the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn which came up, and before which three fell, even that horn which had eyes and a mouth speaking great things, and whose appearance was greater than its companions. 21 I was seeing, and that horn was making war with the holy ones and prevailing against them, 22 until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the holy ones of the Most High, and the season arrived, and the holy ones possessed the kingdom. 23 Thus he said: 'The fourth beast will be a fourth kingdom on the earth, which will be different from all the kingdoms; and it will devour all the earth, and tread it down, and shatter it. 24 And the ten horns: from it, the kingdom, ten kings will arise; and another will arise after them, and he will be different from the former ones, and he will bring low three kings. 25 And he will speak words against the Most High, and he will wear out the holy ones of the Most High, and he will intend to change seasons and law; and they will be given into his hand until a time and times and half a time. 26 And the court will sit, and they will remove his dominion, to annihilate and to destroy it until the end. 27 And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under all the heavens will be given to the people of the holy ones of the Most High; his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all the dominions will serve and obey him.' 28 Until here is the end of the matter. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts greatly alarmed me, and my brightness was changed on me; and I kept the matter in my heart."

7:15 my spirit was distressed Prophecy rightly understood does not entertain. It humbles. Daniel saw how much suffering lay ahead for God's people before the kingdom comes.
7:16 I was asking from him the truth concerning all this When we do not understand God's Word, we should ask. Because the angel explains the vision, we are not left to guess, and I take his interpretation as final.
7:18 the holy ones of the Most High will receive the kingdom The main point of the vision. "Holy ones" means saints, people set apart to God. In Daniel's day that meant faithful Israel, and I believe in the whole of Scripture it includes all God's redeemed, Jew and Gentile, who belong to Christ (Rev 5:9-10). God's people, however weak they seem, will inherit everything.
7:20 whose appearance was greater than its companions The horn began small and outgrew the others. That is how the Antichrist will rise: not as an obvious tyrant at first, but as a smaller figure who outgrows and replaces the powers around him.
7:21 that horn was making war with the holy ones and prevailing against them Revelation says nearly the same of the beast (Rev 13:7). God does not promise His people they will never suffer. He promises the suffering has an end and the victory is His.
7:22 until the Ancient of Days came I hold the pre-tribulation view: Christ gathers His church before the Tribulation (1 Thess 4:16-17; Rev 3:10). I understand these holy ones as those who come to faith during the Tribulation, Israel among them, after the church is taken up. God will sustain them until Christ returns and gathers His elect (Matt 24:29-31). Others see the church here and hold a post-tribulation, mid-tribulation or pre-wrath view. These are sincere believers, and this need not divide us.
7:24 ten kings will arise; and another will arise after them The angel interprets: the horns are kings, ruling at the same time as the beast for "one hour" (Rev 17:12), not centuries of popes or a list of medieval nations. Some fit them to the tribes that broke up the Western Empire, but those kingdoms were not ended by the coming of the Son of Man. The ten kings are on the scene when Christ returns, so I believe they are still future.
7:25 until a time and times and half a time He will blaspheme, "wear out the holy ones" like cloth worn thin, and try to change "seasons and law," perhaps the calendar, feasts or God's moral law. A time, times and half a time is three and a half years, the same as forty-two months and 1,260 days in Revelation (Rev 11:2-3; 12:6, 14; 13:5). I believe this is the second half of the seven-year Tribulation, after the Antichrist breaks his covenant (9:27), which Jesus called the great tribulation (Matt 24:15-21). God set the clock, and it is short.
7:26 they will remove his dominion The court of verse 10 now deals with the little horn. Paul describes the same moment: the Lord will slay the lawless one by the breath of His mouth at His coming (2 Thess 2:8).
7:27 his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom The verse moves from the saints to the King. They reign because they belong to Him, and they reign with Christ (Rev 20:4-6; 22:5). However hard the world gets, God's people are not on the losing side. The meek will inherit the earth (Matt 5:5).
7:28 I kept the matter in my heart Daniel did not understand everything and did not pretend to. We will not grasp every detail of prophecy, and anyone who claims to have it all figured out should be heard with caution. But we can hold to what is plain: the beasts fall, the Son of Man comes, and the saints receive the kingdom.
8:1 In the third year of the reign of Belshazzar the king About 551 B.C., two years after chapter 7. Here the book returns to Hebrew. Chapter 7 gave the big picture, and chapter 8 zooms in on two of those kingdoms and what they would mean for the Jewish people.
8:2 I was in Susa the citadel Some think Daniel was carried there in the vision, as Ezekiel was (Ezek 8:3), and the wording sounds that way to me, but the meaning is the same. In 551 B.C. Susa was not yet a Persian capital. Later it was, where Nehemiah served and Esther's story took place. God set Daniel in the future capital of the very empire the vision is about.

vision, and I was at the canal of Ulai (Ulay). 3 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and look, one ram standing before the canal, and it had two horns; and the two horns were high, and the one was higher than the second, and the higher one was coming up last. 4 I saw the ram thrusting westward and northward and southward, and no beasts could stand before it, and there was none delivering from its hand; and it did according to its will, and it magnified itself. 5 And I was observing, and look, the male goat of the goats was coming from the west over the face of all the earth, and not touching the ground; and the goat had a conspicuous horn between its eyes. 6 And it came to the ram, the owner of the two horns, which I had seen standing before the canal, and it ran at it in the rage of its strength. 7 And I saw it approaching beside the ram, and it was enraged against it, and it struck the ram and broke its two horns; and there was no strength in the ram to stand before it; and it threw it to the ground and trampled it, and there was none delivering the ram from its hand. 8 And the male goat of the goats magnified itself exceedingly; and when it was mighty, the great horn was broken; and four conspicuous horns came up in its place, toward the four winds of the heavens. 9 And from one of them came out one horn from littleness, and it became exceedingly great toward the south and toward the east and toward the beauty. 10 And it became great up to the host of the heavens, and it caused some of the host and some of the stars to fall to the ground, and it trampled them. 11 And up to the Commander of the host it magnified itself; and from Him the continual offering was removed, and the place of His sanctuary was thrown down. 12 And a host will be given over against the continual offering through transgression; and it will throw truth to the ground, and it will act and prosper. 13 And I heard one holy one speaking, and one holy one said to the certain one who was speaking, "Until when will be the vision of the continual offering, and the transgression that makes desolate, to give both holy place and host to trampling?" 14 And he said to me, "Until evening and morning, two thousand and three hundred; and the holy place will be vindicated."

8:3 the higher one was coming up last Gabriel says the ram is Media and Persia (8:20). Media was the older power, but Persia came up later and became stronger when Cyrus took over Media about 550 B.C., the same idea as the bear raised on one side (7:5).
8:4 it did according to its will, and it magnified itself Persia pushed west to Lydia, north toward Armenia, and south into Egypt, but not east, where its homeland was. In Daniel a power that magnifies itself is a power God is about to bring down.
8:5 the male goat of the goats was coming from the west Greece, and the great horn is its first king (8:21), Alexander the Great. He crossed into Asia in 334 B.C. and broke Persia in about three years, so fast he seemed never to touch the ground. Daniel wrote this nearly two hundred years before Alexander was born.
8:7 it struck the ram and broke its two horns Alexander won at the Granicus (334 B.C.), Issus (333 B.C.) and Gaugamela (331 B.C.), and Darius III was killed by his own men. An empire that seemed unbeatable for two centuries was gone.
8:8 when it was mighty, the great horn was broken Alexander died in Babylon in 323 B.C., about thirty-two, at the height of his power. After years of fighting, four kingdoms emerged under Cassander, Lysimachus, Seleucus and Ptolemy, the leopard's four heads (7:6). Pride and power protect no one from God's timing (James 4:13-15).
8:9 from one of them came out one horn from littleness With nearly all Bible students, I believe this was Antiochus IV Epiphanes, a Seleucid king (175 to 164 B.C.). He was not the rightful heir and took power while the heir was away, then pushed south to Egypt, east, and into "the Beauty," the land of Israel (11:16). He is not the little horn of 7:8, who comes from Rome at the end. The two are alike by design, but not the same man.
8:10 it caused some of the host and some of the stars to fall to the ground Gabriel explains that he destroys "the people of the holy ones" (8:24). I believe the host and stars are God's faithful people, sometimes pictured as stars (Gen 15:5; Dan 12:3). Antiochus killed many Jews who would not give up God's Law. Some also see a spiritual battle behind it, as in chapter 10.
8:11 from him the continual offering was removed The commander of the host is God Himself, though some see the Son before His birth (8:25). The continual offering was the daily morning and evening sacrifice. Epiphanes means God manifest, and his coins called him a god. In 167 B.C. he outlawed the Jewish faith, stopped the sacrifices and set up an altar to Zeus in the temple. 1 Maccabees, a Jewish history not part of Scripture, says he also banned circumcision and burned copies of the Law.
8:12 through transgression Some see the horn's own sin, others the sin of unfaithful Jews. I lean toward the second. Many in Jerusalem, priests among them, were eagerly taking up Greek ways, and the high priesthood was bought and sold. God allowed the persecution as discipline. For a time the lie seems to win, but only for a time.
8:13 Until when The question every suffering believer has asked. It comforts me that even the angels care about the suffering of God's people and the dishonor done to His house.
8:14 Until evening and morning, two thousand and three hundred Some count 2,300 days, about six years and four months, from about 171 B.C., when the godly high priest Onias III was murdered, to 164 B.C. Others count 2,300 evening and morning offerings, 1,150 days, close to the time from the desecration in 167 B.C. to the rededication in 164 B.C. I lean toward the first, but faithful students hold both. In December 164 B.C. Judas Maccabeus cleansed the temple, remembered at Hanukkah, the Feast of Dedication Jesus attended (John 10:22-23).
8:16 Gabriel, make this one understand the vision The first angel named in the Bible. His name means God is my strength or mighty man of God. He returns in 9:21 and later announces the births of John and Jesus (Luke 1:19, 26). The voice with authority over him may be the Lord, but the text does not say.
8:17 the vision is for the time of the end "Son of man" here simply means human being, as with Ezekiel. How can a vision fulfilled in 167 B.C. be for the end? I believe God fulfilled it in Antiochus and used him as a pattern of the final Antichrist. Two centuries after Antiochus died, Jesus pointed to the abomination of desolation as still future (Matt 24:15). Some take "the end" here as only the end of Antiochus' persecution, a fair reading of these words alone, but verses 17-25 reach further, and Jesus' words settle it for me.

Daniel Reads Jeremiah

8:18 he touched me and made me stand One of the most faithful men in the Bible could not stand before an angel, as John fell before the glorified Christ (Rev 1:17). God reveals His plans not to crush us but to lift us up.
8:19 the latter part of the indignation God's anger, especially His discipline on Israel. "Appointed time" means God has fixed the date. The persecution under Antiochus had an appointed end, and so will the great tribulation under the Antichrist.
8:20 the kings of Media and Persia One of the clearest interpretations in all prophecy. It confirms the second kingdom is Medo-Persia, one animal with two horns. Scholars who date Daniel late try to split Media and Persia so the four kingdoms end with Greece, but this verse joins them.
8:21 the shaggy male goat is the king of Greece The Hebrew says Javan, the old name for the Greeks, and the first king is Alexander. Daniel was told the name of an empire two centuries before it ruled the East. If God knows the end from the beginning (Isa 46:9-10), there is nothing strange in Him naming Greece in advance.
8:23 a king will arise, strong of face and understanding riddles Bold-faced and shameless, clever with schemes. Antiochus rose late in the Seleucid line and took the throne by flattery and intrigue (11:21). He came when sin had filled its measure, as the Antichrist will rise when the world is ripe for him (2 Thess 2:3-12).
8:24 not by his own power With Antiochus, God permitted him and Satan drove him. With the Antichrist, the dragon gives the beast his power (Rev 13:2). Antiochus killed thousands in Jerusalem, and the Antichrist will make war on the saints (7:21). Same pattern, larger at the end.
8:25 without hand he will be broken He stands against the Prince of princes, God, and in the final fulfillment the Lord Jesus, King of kings (Rev 19:16). No army beat Antiochus. Ancient historians say he died of illness in Persia in 164 B.C. The Antichrist will be destroyed by Christ at His coming (2 Thess 2:8; Rev 19:20). Every enemy of God ends the same way.
8:26 shut up the vision, for it is for many days Preserve it and keep it safe, since it was not for Daniel's generation (12:4, 9). John was told the opposite, not to seal his book, because the time is near (Rev 22:10).
8:27 I arose and did the work of the king I love this detail. After seeing empires and the end of the age, Daniel went back to work. Prophecy did not make him useless for daily life. It made him faithful in it. He did not understand it all, and that is all right. God gives enough to trust Him.
9:1 In year one of Darius son of Ahasuerus About 539-538 B.C., just after Babylon fell. This is the Darius of 5:31 and chapter 6, and this Ahasuerus is not the king of Esther. Daniel ties his prayer to a real moment: Babylon had fallen and the end of the exile was in sight.
9:2 I, Daniel, understood in the scrolls Daniel was reading Jeremiah, who foretold seventy years of serving Babylon and a return afterward (Jer 25:11-12; 29:10). A man who received visions from angels still humbly studied what other prophets wrote. Counting from 605 B.C. brings us to about 536 B.C. and the first return (Ezra 1:1-4). Counting from the temple's fall in 586 B.C. to its rebuilding in 516 B.C. is also about seventy. Either way God kept His word.
9:2 seventy years The exile also gave the land the sabbath years Israel had ignored (Lev 25:1-7; 2 Chr 36:21). God counts in sevens, and He is about to give Daniel a much bigger set of sevens.
9:3 with fasting and sackcloth and ashes Daniel's response to prophecy was prayer. Why pray about what God already promised? God's promises are not a reason to stop praying. They are the reason to start. God said that after seventy years His people would seek Him with all their heart (Jer 29:12-13), and He promised to remember His covenant when scattered Israel confessed (Lev 26:40-42). Daniel prayed God's Word back to Him.
9:4 keeping the covenant and the steadfast love Daniel begins with who God is, not with his problem. Steadfast love is hesed, God's loyal, faithful love. That is a good order for our prayers too.
9:5 we have sinned No sin of Daniel is recorded in Scripture, yet he says "we," not they. He stands with his people and piles up words for sin because he will not make it sound smaller than it is.
9:6 we have not listened to Your servants the prophets God was not silent. Israel did not listen. Most of us do not need a new word from heaven nearly as much as we need to obey the one we already have.

all the people of the land. 7 To You, O Lord, belongs the righteousness, and to us the shame of face, as it is this day—to the men of Judah (Yehuda), and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel (Yisra'el), those near and those far, in all the lands where You have banished them, in their unfaithfulness with which they have been unfaithful against You. 8 O LORD, to us belongs the shame of face, to our kings, to our leaders, and to our fathers, in that we have sinned against You. 9 To the Lord our God belong the compassion and the forgivenesses, for we have rebelled against Him, 10 and we have not listened to the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in His laws which He set before us by the hand of His servants the prophets. 11 And all Israel have transgressed Your law, and turned aside to not listen to Your voice; and the curse and the oath which is written in the law of Moses (Moshe) the servant of God have poured out on us, for we have sinned against Him. 12 And He has carried out His word which He spoke against us and against our judges who judged us, by bringing on us a great calamity, which has not been done under all the heavens as it has been done in Jerusalem. 13 Just as it is written in the law of Moses, all this calamity has come on us; and we have not entreated the face of the LORD our God by turning back from our iniquity and by gaining insight into Your truth. 14 And the LORD kept watch over the calamity and brought it on us; for the LORD our God is righteous in all His deeds which He has done, and we have not listened to His voice. 15 And now, O Lord our God, who brought Your people out from the land of Egypt (Mitsrayim) with a strong hand, and made for Yourself a name, as it is this day—we have sinned, we have acted wickedly. 16 O Lord, according to all Your righteousnesses, let Your anger and Your rage turn back, please, from Your city Jerusalem, Your holy mountain; for because of our sins and because of the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and Your people have become a reproach to all around us. 17 And now, hear, O our God, the prayer of Your servant and his supplications, and make Your face shine on Your sanctuary, which is desolate, for the sake of the Lord. 18 Incline, O my God, Your ear and hear; open Your eyes and see our desolations and the city on which Your name is called; for it is not on the basis of our righteousnesses that we are causing our supplications to fall before You, but on the basis of Your great compassion. 19 O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! O Lord, give heed and act! Do not delay, for Your own sake, O my God, for Your name is called on Your city and on Your people."

Gabriel Arrives

20 And I was still speaking and praying and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and causing my supplication to fall before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God, 21 and I was still speaking in prayer, and the man Gabriel (Gavri'el), whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, wearied with weariness, was approaching me about the time of the evening grain offering. 22 And he gave understanding, and he spoke with me, and he said, "O Daniel, now I have come forth to give you insight in understanding. 23 At the beginning of your supplications a word went forth, and I have come to declare it, for you are precious; and understand the word, and discern the appearance.

9:7 To You, O Lord, belongs the righteousness, and to us the shame of face Daniel does not argue that the exile was unfair. True confession starts by admitting that God is right.
9:8 to our kings, to our leaders, and to our fathers Leaders were not excused, and much of Israel's trouble came through its kings. Daniel came from the royal family or nobles (1:3), so this was personal.
9:9 To the Lord our God belong the compassion and the forgivenesses The turning point of the prayer and the whole gospel in one contrast. We bring the sin. He brings the mercy, not because we deserve it but in spite of the fact that we do not.
9:11 the curse and the oath which is written in the law of Moses Daniel has in mind Leviticus 26 and Deuteronomy 28, where God warned that a broken covenant meant scattering and a desolate land. The exile was exactly what God had said would happen.
9:14 the LORD kept watch over the calamity God did not lose control while Babylon burned Jerusalem. He was watching over it the whole time, and the same God would now watch over the return.
9:15 who brought Your people out from the land of Egypt with a strong hand Daniel turns from confession to request and starts with the exodus. God had done it once to make a name for Himself, and Daniel asks Him to do it again. He keeps confessing even as he asks.
9:16 Your city Jerusalem, Your holy mountain God's city, not Israel's. Jerusalem had become a joke to the nations, and Daniel cared because God's name was attached to it.
9:17 make Your face shine on Your sanctuary, which is desolate An echo of the priestly blessing (Num 6:24-26). The temple lay in ruins, and Daniel asked for God's favor on it "for the sake of the Lord," the key to the whole prayer.
9:18 not on the basis of our righteousnesses The heart of the prayer. Every believer comes to God this way, not with a list of good works but on God's mercy, now fully shown in Jesus Christ (Titus 3:5). If Daniel, of all people, did not lean on his own merits, neither should we.
9:19 O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! A rush of short, urgent requests. This is a man pouring out his heart. God is not offended by urgent prayer when it rests on His glory and His promises.
9:20 confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel Now Daniel says "my sin." The closer a person walks with God, the more clearly he sees his own sin, and the less likely he is to look down on others.
9:21 about the time of the evening grain offering The Hebrew "wearied with weariness" is hard, and many read it as swift flight. Either way, the answer came while Daniel was still praying. There had been no temple for decades, yet Daniel still marked his day by its offerings. His heart was set on God's house, like a believer living faithfully in a world that is not his home.
9:23 for you are precious At the very start of his prayer, the answer went out (Isa 65:24). Precious means greatly loved and treasured by God (10:11, 19). "Understand the word" warns that what follows takes careful thought.

The Seventy Weeks

24 Seventy sevens have been decreed on your people and on your holy city, to put an end to the transgression, and to complete sin, and to atone for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up vision and prophet, and to anoint a holy of holies. 25 And you shall know and gain insight: from the going forth of the word to restore and to build Jerusalem until an anointed one, a prince, shall be seven sevens and sixty-two sevens; it will again be built, plaza and moat, even in the distress of the times. 26 And after the sixty-two sevens an anointed one will be cut off, and there will be nothing for him; and the people of a prince who is coming will destroy the city and the sanctuary; and its end will be with the flood, and until the end there will be war; desolations are determined. 27 And he will make a covenant strong for the many for one seven; and in the middle of the seven he will cause sacrifice and grain offering to cease; and on a wing of abominations will be one who makes desolate, even until a complete destruction, and what has been decided will be poured out on the one who is desolate."

DANIEL 10

Daniel's Fast and the Man in Linen

1 In year three of Cyrus (Koresh) king of Persia (Paras) a word was revealed to Daniel (Daniyel), whose name was called Belteshazzar (Belteshatsar); and the word was truth, and a great war; and he understood the word, and understanding was to him in the appearance. 2 In those days I, Daniel, was mourning three sevens of days. 3 I did not eat food of desirable things, and flesh and wine did not come into my mouth, and I did not anoint myself at all, until three sevens of days were completed. 4 And on day twenty-four of the first month, I was beside the great river, that is Tigris (Chideqel). 5 And I lifted up my eyes and saw, and look, a certain man clothed in linen, and his loins were girded with gold

10:5 Rev 1:13; Rev 15:6; Rev 1:14

9:24 Seventy sevens have been decreed on your people and on your holy city Sevens, often called weeks, are units of seven. Daniel was thinking of seventy years, and Gabriel answers with seventy sevens of years, 490 years, decreed for Daniel's people, the Jews, and his city, Jerusalem. Israel already knew seven-year periods from the sabbath year (Lev 25:1-7).
9:24 to put an end to the transgression Six goals follow: end Israel's rebellion, deal with sin, atone for iniquity, bring in everlasting righteousness, fulfill what the prophets foretold, and anoint a most holy place or one, which many see as the temple of the Messiah's kingdom. Atonement was paid in full at the cross (Heb 9:26). But Israel's transgression is not yet ended, and righteousness does not yet fill the earth. That is a main reason I believe the seventieth week is still future. All six will be complete when Christ returns and Israel turns to Him (Zech 12:10; Rom 11:26-27).
9:25 until an anointed one, a prince The clock starts with a word to rebuild Jerusalem. "Anointed one" is mashiach, Messiah, and I believe this is one of the clearest uses of the word for the coming King. Seven sevens and sixty-two sevens make 483 years. The first 49 years cover the rebuilding "in the distress of the times," as Ezra and Nehemiah show (Neh 4).
9:25 from the going forth of the word to restore and to build Jerusalem Two decrees of Artaxerxes are most often proposed. From Ezra's commission in 457 B.C. (Ezra 7:11-26), 483 years reach about A.D. 27, which many see as Jesus' baptism. From Nehemiah's in 445/444 B.C. (Neh 2:1-8), counted in 360-day prophetic years, they reach about A.D. 32 or 33, the triumphal entry and the cross. Faithful scholars hold both. Either way, Daniel in the sixth century B.C. foretold Messiah's coming in the early first century A.D., exactly when Jesus came.
9:26 an anointed one will be cut off, and there will be nothing for him "Cut off" is used for being put to death (Isa 53:8). I believe this is the Messiah, killed and not receiving the kingdom then. Jesus came to His own, and His own did not receive Him (John 1:11).
9:26 the people of a prince who is coming will destroy the city and the sanctuary Fulfilled in A.D. 70, when Rome under Titus burned Jerusalem and the temple. Not the prince but his people, the Romans, so the coming prince will rise from the Roman world, which fits the little horn from the fourth beast (7:8). War and desolation describe Jerusalem's long history since. Notice the sixty-nine weeks end, the Messiah dies, the city falls forty years later, and the seventieth week has not yet begun. There is a gap.
9:27 he will make a covenant strong for the many for one seven The nearest "he" is the coming prince of verse 26. I believe this is the Antichrist, the little horn and the beast, making a seven-year covenant with "the many," most likely Israel. In the middle he stops the sacrifices, so worship will be restored in Jerusalem (Rev 11:1-2; 2 Thess 2:4), and he breaks his word. The hard phrase about abominations points to the abomination of desolation Jesus placed just before the great tribulation and His coming (Matt 24:15-30). His end is already decreed (Rev 19:20).
9:27 in the middle of the seven Many interpreters believe "he" is the Messiah, whose death after about three and a half years of ministry ended the meaning of the sacrifices, with no gap and the week fulfilled in the first century. I respect that view. I hold the futurist reading because the nearest "he" is the coming prince, a broken covenant does not fit Christ's everlasting one, Jesus placed the abomination in the future, and the goals of 9:24 are not all fulfilled for Israel. A long gap is possible: Jesus stopped reading Isaiah 61 mid-sentence (Luke 4:16-21).
9:27 for one seven I hold the pre-tribulation view. The seventy weeks are decreed for Israel and Jerusalem (9:24), and I believe the church will be taken to Christ before the seventieth week begins (1 Thess 4:16-17; Rev 3:10). This week is the seven-year Tribulation of Revelation 6-19, and its last half matches 7:25 and Revelation 13:5. Others hold post-tribulation, mid-tribulation or pre-wrath views. This is a difference among believers, not a test of faith, and every believer is called to be ready (Eph 6:13).
10:1 In year three of Cyrus king of Persia About 536 B.C. The first exiles had already gone home under Cyrus' decree (Ezra 1:1-4). Daniel, now well into his eighties, stayed in Babylon, whether because of age or because God had more for him there. The message is "truth, and a great war": it will come true, and it is about war. This time, unlike 8:27, he understood. God gives prophecy so we can know and trust Him.
10:2 I, Daniel, was mourning three sevens of days Three full weeks. The text does not say why, but the returned exiles faced fierce opposition, and the temple work stalled (Ezra 4:4-5). Daniel's grief was not despair. It was the grief of a man who loved what God loves.
10:3 I did not eat food of desirable things A partial fast without meat, wine or oil for his skin. This verse and 1:12 are where the idea of a Daniel fast comes from. The dates show his fast ran through Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the days that remember God's rescue from Egypt. He was asking God to rescue His people again.
10:4 I was beside the great river, that is Tigris Not the Euphrates that ran through Babylon, so Daniel was away from the capital. God often meets His people in ordinary places, and faithfulness in the quiet place often comes before a great word from God.
10:5 a certain man clothed in linen Linen was priestly clothing (Lev 16:4), also worn by heavenly messengers (Ezek 9:2; Rev 15:6), and gold speaks of royalty and glory. Some believe he is Christ appearing before His birth. Others believe he is a mighty angel, possibly Gabriel (8:16; 9:21).

of Uphaz (Ufaz). 6 And his body was like topaz, and his face like the appearance of lightning, and his eyes like torches of fire, and his arms and his feet like the look of burnished bronze, and the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude. 7 And I, Daniel, by myself saw the vision, and the men who were with me did not see the vision; but a great trembling fell on them, and they fled to hide themselves. 8 And I was left by myself, and I saw this great vision, and no strength remained in me, and my splendor was changed in me into ruin, and I retained no strength. 9 And I heard the sound of his words; and as I heard the sound of his words, I was in a deep sleep on my face, and my face was toward the ground.

The Messenger Explains His Delay

10 And look, a hand touched me, and it set me trembling on my knees and the palms of my hands. 11 And he said to me, "O Daniel, man of preciousness, understand the words which I am speaking to you, and stand on your standing place, for now I have been sent to you." And when he spoke this word with me, I stood up trembling. 12 And he said to me, "Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you gave your heart to understand and to humble yourself before your God, your words were heard, and I have come because of your words. 13 And the prince of the kingdom of Persia was standing opposite me twenty-one days; and look, Michael (Mikha'el), one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there beside the kings of Persia. 14 And I have come to make you understand what will happen to your people at the end of the days, for there is still a vision for the days."

Daniel Strengthened

15 And when he spoke with me according to these words, I set my face toward the ground, and I was mute. 16 And look, one like the likeness of the sons of man was touching my lips; and I opened my mouth and spoke, and I said to the one standing opposite me, "O my lord, by the vision my pangs have turned on me, and I have retained no strength. 17 And how is the servant of this my lord able to speak with this my lord? And I—from now no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me." 18 And he again touched me, like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me. 19 And he said, "Do not fear, O man of preciousness; peace be to you; be strong, and be strong!" And when he spoke with me, I strengthened myself, and I said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me." 20 And he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? And now I will return to fight with the prince of Persia; and I am going forth, and look, the prince of Greece (Yavan) is coming. 21 But I will tell you what is inscribed in the writing of truth; and there is not one who shows himself strong with me against these, except Michael your prince.

10:6 his eyes like torches of fire The match with the glorified Jesus in Revelation 1:13-17 is very close: eyes of fire, feet like burnished bronze, a mighty voice, and a man falling as if dead. So I lean toward seeing this man as the Son of God before His birth, but I hold it loosely. The one who speaks from verse 10 on was held back and needed Michael's help (10:13), which is hard to picture of the Son. Many teachers, and I agree, see two figures here: the glorious man (Christ) and an angelic messenger (likely Gabriel). Others see one angel throughout.

10:7 the men who were with me did not see the vision Like Paul's companions on the Damascus road (Acts 9:7). God can reveal Himself to one person while those beside him sense only that something holy is happening.

10:8 no strength remained in me Not weak faith but the normal response to heavenly glory (Isa 6:5; Rev 1:17). We sometimes speak of God casually, as if He were a buddy. A right view of God always humbles us.

10:10 a hand touched me God lifts His servant step by step: to hands and knees here, to his feet in verse 11, to full strength in verse 19. He rarely takes us from the floor to full strength in one moment.

10:11 O Daniel, man of preciousness Greatly beloved (9:23). God's messenger calls an old man in exile one whom heaven treasures. Daniel stood up trembling. He obeyed while still shaking, a good picture of real faith.

10:12 from the first day that you gave your heart to understand and to humble yourself One of the most encouraging verses in Daniel. He set his heart to understand and humbled himself, and God heard on day one. A delay in the answer is not a delay in God hearing. If you have prayed for weeks or years, God heard you the first time.

10:13 the prince of the kingdom of Persia was standing opposite me twenty-one days No human king could block a messenger from heaven. I believe with most teachers this is a fallen angel, a demonic power working through the Persian Empire. Our struggle is against spiritual forces of wickedness (Eph 6:12), and Daniel 10 shows what that looks like.

10:13 Michael, one of the chief princes The only angel the Bible calls an archangel (Jude 9), the great prince who guards Israel (12:1) and fights the dragon (Rev 12:7). The Bible does not give a full map of the spirit world, and we should not build one from imagination. We learn enough: the battle is real, prayer matters in it, and God's side wins.

10:14 what will happen to your people at the end of the days A key to chapters 11-12. The vision is about Israel. Much of it was fulfilled in the centuries after Daniel in amazing detail, but it runs on to the Antichrist, the great tribulation and the resurrection, with a clear shift at 11:36.

10:16 one like the likeness of the sons of man was touching my lips Like Isaiah's lips touched by the coal and Jeremiah's mouth touched by the LORD (Isa 6:6-7; Jer 1:9). When God calls someone to receive or speak His word, He prepares their mouth. Daniel did not put on a brave face before heaven, and we do not have to either.

10:19 be strong, and be strong The strength came through the word as much as the touch. When we are weak and afraid, God still strengthens us through His Word, as He told Joshua to be strong and courageous (Josh 1:9).

10:20 the prince of Greece is coming Persia, then Greece, just as in 2:39 and 8:20-21. Behind each empire is a spiritual battle. When Persia fell to Alexander two centuries later, heaven was involved, as 2:21 says.

10:21 what is inscribed in the writing of truth God's plan for history, settled before it happens. Nothing in chapter 11 surprises God. Israel has a guardian in heaven, Michael, which sets up the promise of 12:1.

From Persia to Alexander the Great

1 And I, in year one of Darius (Daryavesh) the Mede, my standing was as a strengthener and as a stronghold for him. 2 And now I will tell you truth: look, three more kings will arise for Persia (Paras), and the fourth will gain great wealth, more than all; and according to his strength, by his wealth, he will rouse all against the kingdom of Greece (Yavan). 3 And a mighty king will arise, and he will rule a great dominion, and he will do according to his pleasure. 4 And as he arises, his kingdom will be broken and divided to the four winds of the heavens, and not to his posterity, and not according to his dominion with which he ruled; for his kingdom will be uprooted, and it will go to others besides these.

The Kings of the North and the South

5 And the king of the south will become strong, and one of his princes; and he will become strong over him and rule; his dominion will be a great dominion. 6 And at the end of years they will join together; and the daughter of the king of the south will come to the king of the north to make an agreement; and she will not retain the strength of the arm, and he will not stand, nor his arm; and she will be given up, she and those who brought her, and the one who fathered her, and the one who strengthened her in the times. 7 And one from a shoot of her roots will arise in his place, and he will come against the army and enter the stronghold of the king of the north, and he will act against them and prevail. 8 And also their gods with their molten images, with their vessels of desire, silver and gold, he will bring into captivity to Egypt (Mitsrayim); and for years he will stand away from the king of the north. 9 And he will come into the kingdom of the king of the south, and he will return to his own ground. 10 And his sons will stir themselves up and gather a multitude of great armies; and he will surely come and overflow and pass through; and he will again stir himself up, up to his stronghold. 11 And the king of the south will be enraged, and he will go out and fight with him, with the king of the north; and he will raise up a great multitude, and the multitude will be given into his hand. 12 And the multitude will be carried away, and his heart will be lifted up; and he will cause tens of thousands to fall, and he will not prevail. 13 And the king of the north will again raise up a multitude greater than the first; and at the end of the times, years, he will surely come with a great army and with much property. 14 And in those times many will arise against the king of the south; and the sons of the violent ones of your people will lift themselves up to fulfill the vision, and they will stumble. 15 And the king of the north will come and pour out a siege mound and capture a city of fortifications; and the arms of the south will not stand, and the people of his choice ones, and there will be no strength to stand. 16 And the one who comes against him will do according to his pleasure, and there will be no one standing before him; and he will stand in the land of the beauty, and complete destruction will be in his hand. 17 And

11:1 in year one of Darius the Mede This finishes the messenger's words from chapter 10. Chapter breaks were added much later. In 539 B.C. he stood to strengthen "him," either Darius, whom God moved to treat the Jews kindly, or Michael (10:21). Either way, heaven was at work behind the change of empires that let the Jews go home.

11:2 three more kings will arise for Persia, and the fourth will gain great wealth Most teachers name Cambyses, the false Smerdis, an impostor who briefly took the throne, and Darius I, and then the rich Xerxes I (486 to 465 B.C.), whom many identify with Ahasuerus of Esther. He invaded Greece in 480 B.C. and lost. Later Persian kings are skipped because that invasion is the thread to what follows. About 150 years later a Greek king came east to settle the score.

11:3 a mighty king will arise Alexander the Great, the four-winged leopard (7:6) and the charging goat (8:5-8, 21), who crushed Persia from 334 B.C. on and did as he pleased.

11:4 his kingdom will be broken and divided to the four winds of the heavens, and not to his posterity Alexander died in 323 B.C., and his half-brother and young son, his heirs, were murdered within fourteen years. Four kingdoms emerged (8:8, 22). From here the prophecy follows only the two that bordered Israel: Ptolemy's Egypt to the south and Seleucus' kingdom to the north.

11:5 the king of the south will become strong, and one of his princes Ptolemy I of Egypt, and Seleucus I, who for a time served as his general, then regained Babylon in 312 B.C. and built a larger realm reaching toward India. North and south are directions from Israel. The whole map is drawn with Jerusalem at the center (10:14).

11:6 the daughter of the king of the south will come to the king of the north About 252 B.C. Ptolemy II gave his daughter Berenice to the Seleucid Antiochus II, who put away his wife Laodice. He later went back to Laodice and died in 246 B.C., poisoned by her, ancient writers say. Berenice, her baby son and her attendants were murdered, and her father died that same year, just as the verse says.

11:7 one from a shoot of her roots will arise in his place Her brother Ptolemy III, king in 246 B.C., marched north to avenge her and won great victories. Ancient sources say he had Laodice put to death.

11:8 their gods with their molten images He carried home great plunder, including sacred images Persia had taken from Egypt long before, and Egypt named him Euergetes, Benefactor.

11:10 his sons will stir themselves up Seleucus III reigned briefly and was murdered. His brother Antiochus III, called the Great, took the throne in 223 B.C. and swept south through Syria and Israel toward Egypt.

11:12 his heart will be lifted up Ptolemy IV beat Antiochus at Raphia near Gaza in 217 B.C., but in pride made peace and went back to a life of ease. Pride often wastes a victory. The moment we think we have won, we stop depending on God.

11:14 the sons of the violent ones of your people will lift themselves up to fulfill the vision Philip V of Macedon joined Antiochus, and Egypt had unrest inside. These Jews likely sided with Antiochus, perhaps thinking they were helping God's plan along. God's plans do not need our violence, and they fell.

11:15 capture a city of fortifications Antiochus beat the Egyptian general Scopas at Panium near the sources of the Jordan about 200 B.C., then besieged him in Sidon until he surrendered.

11:16 he will stand in the land of the beauty About 198 B.C. Israel came under Seleucid rule. When giants fight, the small land in the middle pays the price.

11:17 he will give him the daughter of women Antiochus gave his daughter Cleopatra I, not the later famous Cleopatra, to Ptolemy V about 193 B.C. to control Egypt from inside. She sided with her husband. Clever plans cannot get around what God has written.

he will set his face to come with the power of all his kingdom, and upright terms with him, and he will act; and he will give him the daughter of women, to destroy it; and it will not stand, and it will not be for him. 18 And he will set his face to the coastlands and capture many; and a commander will put an end to his reproach for him; except that he will turn his reproach back on him. 19 And he will turn his face to the strongholds of his own land, and he will stumble and fall, and he will not be found. 20 And one will arise in his place who sends an oppressor through the splendor of a kingdom; and within a few days he will be broken, and not in anger and not in battle.

The Despised One

21 And a despised one will arise in his place, and they had not given to him the splendor of the kingdom; and he will come in quietness and seize the kingdom by intrigues. 22 And the arms of the flood will be swept away from before him and be broken, and also a prince of a covenant. 23 And from their joining together with him he will practice deceit, and he will rise up and become mighty with a small nation. 24 In quietness, and into the rich places of the province, he will come, and he will do what his fathers did not do, nor the fathers of his fathers: plunder and spoil and property he will scatter to them; and against fortifications he will plot his plots, and until a time. 25 And he will rouse his strength and his heart against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south will stir himself up for the battle with a great and exceedingly mighty army; and he will not stand, for they will plot plots against him. 26 And those who eat his delicacies will break him, and his army will overflow, and many slain will fall. 27 And the two of them, the kings—their heart will be for evil, and at one table they will speak falsehood; and it will not succeed, for the end is still for the appointed time. 28 And he will return to his own land with great property, and his heart will be against the holy covenant; and he will act, and return to his own land. 29 At the appointed time he will return and come into the south; and it will not be as the first and as the last. 30 And ships of Cyprus (Kiti) will come against him, and he will lose heart and turn back, and he will be indignant against the holy covenant, and he will act; and he will turn back and pay attention to those who forsake the holy covenant. 31 And arms from him will arise, and they will profane the sanctuary, the stronghold, and they will remove the continual offering, and they will set up the abomination that makes desolate. 32 And those who act wickedly against the covenant he will pollute with flatteries; and the people who know their God will show strength and act. 33 And those of the people who have insight will give understanding to the many; and they will stumble by sword and by flame, by cap-

11:18 a commander will put an end to his reproach for him Antiochus turned to the coastlands of Asia Minor and Greece, but the Roman Lucius Cornelius Scipio beat him at Magnesia in 190 B.C. Rome forced huge payments and took hostages, among them his son, the future Antiochus IV. Rome, the fourth kingdom, is quietly moving onto the stage.

11:19 he will stumble and fall, and he will not be found Short of money for Rome, Antiochus III was killed in 187 B.C. trying to rob a temple in Elymais. "The Great" fell and was found no more.

11:20 one will arise in his place who sends an oppressor Seleucus IV sent his official Heliodorus to take treasure from the Jerusalem temple, as 2 Maccabees 3 tells. He died suddenly in 175 B.C., "not in anger and not in battle," most likely murdered by Heliodorus.

11:21 a despised one will arise in his place Antiochus IV, who called himself Epiphanes, God manifest. Some mocked him as Epimanes, the madman. The rightful heir Demetrius was a hostage in Rome, and Antiochus took the throne by flattery and scheming. I believe he is the little horn of 8:9-12, 23-25, and a preview of the Antichrist, who will rise the same way, by intrigue and a promise of peace.

11:22 also a prince of a covenant Most likely the godly high priest Onias III, whom Antiochus removed in 175 B.C., selling the office to his brother Jason. Onias was murdered about 171 B.C. Some think of Ptolemy VI, who had a treaty with Antiochus, but this chapter uses "covenant" for God's covenant with Israel (11:28, 30, 32).

11:23 he will practice deceit He made and broke alliances at will. Even the high priesthood went to the highest bidder, as Menelaus soon outbid Jason (2 Maccabees 4:23-24).

11:24 and until a time He handed out plunder lavishly to buy loyalty (1 Maccabees 3:30). "Until a time" comes up again and again in this chapter. Evil men make big plans, but God sets the clock.

11:25 he will rouse his strength and his heart against the king of the south About 170-169 B.C. Antiochus invaded Egypt, ruled by his nephew Ptolemy VI, whose large army did not stand because of plots against him.

11:26 those who eat his delicacies will break him His own advisers, who ate at his table, betrayed him. Betrayal by those closest is one of the deepest wounds, and Jesus knew it too (John 13:18).

11:27 at one table they will speak falsehood Uncle and nephew each pretended friendship and lied. Neither plan worked, "for the end is still for the appointed time."

11:28 his heart will be against the holy covenant Coming home from Egypt in 169 B.C., he stripped the temple of the golden altar, the lampstand and other vessels (1 Maccabees 1:20-24).

11:30 ships of Cyprus will come against him The Hebrew is Kittim, first Cyprus, then the western lands across the sea, here Rome. In 168 B.C. the Roman envoy Popillius Laenas met him near Alexandria with the Senate's order to leave Egypt, drew a circle in the sand around him, and demanded an answer before he stepped out. Antiochus gave in. Humiliated, he turned his rage on Jerusalem in 167 B.C. and favored Jews who abandoned God's Law for Greek ways.

11:31 the abomination that makes desolate The darkest moment of the chapter. He outlawed Sabbath and circumcision, stopped the daily offering, ordered unclean sacrifices, and in December 167 B.C. set a pagan altar on God's altar and dedicated the temple to Zeus (1 Maccabees 1:44-54; 2 Maccabees 6:2). Two centuries later Jesus still spoke of the abomination as future (Matt 24:15). Antiochus fulfilled this verse but did not use it up. It previews what the Antichrist will do in the middle of the seventieth week (9:27; 12:11; 2 Thess 2:3-4).

11:32 the people who know their God will show strength and act The old priest Mattathias of Modein refused to sacrifice and fled to the hills, and his son Judas Maccabeus, the Hammer, led a revolt. In December 164 B.C. they cleansed and rededicated the temple, remembered at Hanukkah, the Feast of Dedication (John 10:22). One of my favorite verses in Daniel. Those who really know God, not just know about Him, are the ones who stand, and that strength is built in the ordinary days before.

11:33 they will stumble by sword and by flame Many faithful Jews chose death rather than break God's Law (2 Maccabees 6-7), and Hebrews seems to have such people in mind (Heb 11:35-38). Faithfulness did not spare them suffering. God sometimes rescues His people out of trouble and sometimes keeps them faithful through it. Both are His care.

tivity and by plunder, for days. 34 And when they stumble they will be helped with a little help; and many will join themselves to them with intrigues. 35 And some of those who have insight will stumble, to refine among them, and to purge, and to make white, until the time of the end; for it is still for the appointed time.

The King Who Exalts Himself

36 And the king will do according to his pleasure, and he will exalt himself and magnify himself above every god; and against the God of gods he will speak extraordinary things; and he will succeed until the indignation has been completed; for what has been decreed will be done. 37 And to the gods of his fathers he will not pay attention, and to the desire of women, and to any god he will not pay attention; for above all he will magnify himself. 38 And to a god of strongholds in his place he will give honor; and to a god whom his fathers did not know he will give honor with gold and with silver and with costly stone and with precious things. 39 And he will act against the fortifications of strongholds with a foreign god; whoever acknowledges him, he will increase glory to him, and he will make them rule over the many, and he will divide ground for a price. 40 And at the time of the end the king of the south will push against him, and the king of the north will storm against him with chariotry and with horsemen and with many ships; and he will come into lands and overflow and pass through. 41 And he will come into the land of the beauty, and many will stumble; and these will escape from his hand: Edom and Moab (Mo'av) and the chief of the sons of Ammon (Amon). 42 And he will stretch out his hand against lands, and the land of Egypt will not become an escape. 43 And he will rule over the treasures of the gold and the silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt; and Libyans and Cushites will be at his steps. 44 And reports from the east and from the north will dismay him; and he will go out in great rage to destroy and to devote many to destruction. 45 And he will plant the tents of his palace between the seas and the holy mountain of beauty; and he will come to his end, and there will be no helper for him.

Michael Arises and the Dead Awake

11:34 they will be helped with a little help Most likely the Maccabean revolt, real help but not the final rescue. As it succeeded, many joined for the wrong reasons. Every movement of God attracts some whose hearts are not in it.
11:35 to refine among them, and to purge, and to make white, until the time of the end Suffering in God's hands burns away what is false, like gold in a fire (1 Pet 1:6-7). "Until the time of the end" is the hinge of the chapter. The prophecy is about to leave Antiochus and look ahead.
11:36 he will exalt himself and magnify himself above every god I believe the prophecy now jumps to the future Antichrist. The setting is "the time of the end" (11:40), followed by a distress like none before and the resurrection (12:1-2), none of which happened in 164 B.C. Antiochus still worshiped Zeus, and verses 40-45 do not fit his life or death. And Scripture describes this king elsewhere (7:8, 25; 2 Thess 2:4; Rev 13:5-6). A near fulfillment becomes a picture of a far one, as in Isaiah 61:1-2 (Luke 4:18-21). His time is limited (7:25; 12:7).
11:37 the desire of women Debated. Some see the Messiah, the hope of every Jewish mother since Genesis 3:15, held in contempt by this ruler, which fits verse 36. Others see no regard for love, marriage or normal human ties, not from holiness but from a hunger for power. I lean toward the first, but hold it humbly. His only true love is himself.
11:38 a god of strongholds I take this to mean military power itself. He pours treasure into strength and war, and the world asks, who can make war with him (Rev 13:4)? His real faith is in force.
11:39 he will divide ground for a price Loyalty bought with power and land, much as no one can buy or sell without the beast's mark (Rev 13:16-17).
11:40 at the time of the end the king of the south will push against him Teachers differ on these last-days kings. Some see the Antichrist himself as the final king of the north. Others, and I lean this way, see him as a separate ruler attacked from south and north who defeats both. I would not pin these on particular modern nations. Many confident guesses have come and gone. The last days will be days of war, and the Antichrist will come out on top for a time.
11:41 Edom and Moab and the chief of the sons of Ammon Peoples east of the Jordan and the Dead Sea, in today's Jordan. Why they escape the text does not say. Some suggest a place of refuge, perhaps tied to the woman who flees to the wilderness (Rev 12:6, 14). That is possible, but it is a guess.
11:42 the land of Egypt will not become an escape Egypt was often the great southern power against the north. In the end it falls.
11:43 Libyans and Cushites will be at his steps Cush was the land south of Egypt. To follow at his steps means to submit or join him. His power looks unstoppable.
11:44 reports from the east and from the north will dismay him We are not told what they are. Some connect them with the kings from the east as the nations gather for Armageddon (Rev 16:12-16). That fits the timing, though Daniel does not spell it out.
11:45 between the seas and the holy mountain of beauty In the land of Israel, between the Mediterranean and Mount Zion. The nations gather against Jerusalem in the last day (Zech 14:2).
11:45 he will come to his end, and there will be no helper for him Daniel does not even describe the battle. The Lord Jesus will slay him with the breath of His mouth at His coming (2 Thess 2:8), and the beast will be thrown alive into the lake of fire (Rev 19:19-20). The man who magnified himself above every god meets the God of gods, and it is not a contest.
12:1 at that time Michael will arise, the great prince who stands over the sons of your people "At that time" ties this to the end of chapter 11, the days of the Antichrist in the second half of the seventieth week (9:27). Michael is Israel's prince (10:13, 21). In Revelation he throws the dragon down, and the dragon turns in fury on the woman and her children (Rev 12:7-17). I believe these describe the same moment from two sides.
12:1 a time of distress such as has not been since there was a nation until that time Jesus used nearly the same words for the great tribulation and tied it to the abomination of desolation (Matt 24:15, 21), as Daniel does in verse 11. This is the last half of the seven-year Tribulation.
12:1 everyone who is found written in the scroll The book of life (Phil 4:3; Rev 20:15). I hold the pre-tribulation view: the church is taken to Christ before this time begins. This verse speaks first of Daniel's people, Israel, with all who come to faith in the Tribulation. God keeps them through it and rescues them when Christ returns and gathers His elect (Matt 24:29-31; Dan 7:21-22). Others hold mid-tribulation, pre-wrath or post-tribulation views. Whatever your view, no one written in the scroll will be lost.

12:2 many of those who sleep in the ground of dust will awake One of the clearest statements of resurrection in the Old Testament (Isa 26:19; Job 19:25-27). Death is called sleep because for God it is not the end. Jesus taught the same two outcomes (John 5:28-29). Both are everlasting, and there is no second chance after death (Heb 9:27). "Many" likely means the great multitude of the dead, or focuses on Daniel's people then. Either way, Scripture shows all will be raised.
